

Student Legislators Plan First Session

Tentative Date of October 24 Set for Initial Meeting; Harrelson to Make Principal Speech

A tentative date of Thursday, Oct. 24, was set yesterday for the opening session of the State College Student Assembly, as plans were pushed by the Student Council to foster publicity for this novel type of student government. The legislature will be called to order at 7:30 o'clock in the Senate and House chambers of the State Capitol.

Heading the speaking program for the first session of the current school year will be Dean of Administration J. W. Harrelson, who was also instrumental in inaugurating the Assembly last January. Colonel Harrelson will address the body in joint session in the House chamber.

The first business on the Assembly's program will be the election of officers to serve during this school year, which will include a president and secretary of the joint session, and officers of each house. Several new bills will in all probability be presented to either the House or Senate on opening night.

Organization.
Plans for the initial meeting went forward this week under an organization committee appointed at the final meeting of the Assembly last May. Composing the committee are Bill Friday, W. J. Reams, and E. P. Davidson. A call was issued by the committee last week to all fraternities and dormitory floors to elect their representatives to the legislature, which will afford representation to all campus groups.

Make-Up
The Student Assembly will be composed of two bodies, the Senate and the House, each of which will have its separate presiding officers. Membership in the Senate will include the Student Council and the Student Welfare Committee. Composing the House will be one representative from each fraternity and a representative of each dormitory floor in the Dormitory Government system.

Proposals intended for discussion by the Assembly may be presented by any member of either the House or the Senate, but must receive the approval of both bodies before becoming enacted. After a measure has passed both the House and Senate, it is forwarded to the Faculty Council where it is presented by the officers of the Assembly. After passing the Faculty, the measure will become one of the laws or regulations of the College.

Dance Will Climax Annual Celebration Of Homecoming Day

"Melodies by McKinley" Will Be Featured at Blue-Key-Golden Chain Ball

Plans have been completed for the annual Homecoming Dance which will be held Saturday, October 19, according to Bruce Halsted, chairman of the joint Blue-Key-Golden Chain dance committee.

The dance this year will feature the smooth rhythms of Barry McKinley and his well known band. Recognized as one of the most promising of the current crop of young bands, McKinley has recently played at such famous night-spots as Richmond's Tanti Gardens and Westbrook Country Club, Virginia Beach's Cavalier Club, and Murray's Club in Westchester, New York. One of the band's most outstanding features is the singing of Barry McKinley himself.

Sponsoring the dance with their escorts will be: Miss Margaret Martin of Raleigh with Bruce Halsted, president of Blue Key and chairman of the dance committee; Miss Dorothy McCracken of Raleigh with Wayland J. Reams, president of Golden Chain; Miss Virginia Lee Wooten of Raleigh with John Beger, dance committeeman; Miss Janie Parker of Woodlawn with Paul Lehman, dance committeeman; Miss Eugenia Speed of Durham with Nelson Strawbridge, dance committeeman.

Tickets to the dance may be obtained from any member of Blue Key, Golden Chain, or the Monogram Club. The price of the tickets will be eighty-five cents presale, or one dollar and ten cents at the door.

Conscription

Every State College faculty member and student who is between the ages of 21-35, with the exception of juniors and seniors in advanced R.O.T.C. and reserve officers, must register on Wednesday, October 16, in the north end of the State College YMCA. A registration bureau for students, faculty, and visitors will be set up in the State College YMCA here on the campus and will be open from 7 a. m. until 9 p. m. Everyone is urged to register as early as possible during the day.

Nationally Famous Farm Research Team Brought To Campus

Professors R. M. Salter and L. D. Baver To Direct N. C. Agricultural Experiment Station

(From The News and Observer)
Subsidized by Multi-millionaire Dick Reynolds and the Rockefeller endowed General Education Board, State College is launching a bid for national eminence.

Subsidies and national eminence have become so firmly associated with Southern football that it may be difficult to explain, but the gentlemen who arrived from Ohio to take up their studies at State College are neither tailbacks nor tackles, nor are they coaches, as might be concluded from their salaries.

The newcomers are Professors R. M. Salter and L. D. Baver, late of Ohio State University, who this week took the posts respectively of director and associate director of the North Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station.

They are the gentlemen selected by President Frank Graham as the No. 1 farm research team in the nation. They are also the gentlemen about whom Frank Graham pursued Millionaire Reynolds across a continent and half way across the Pacific Ocean (by telephone to get the $50,000 subsidy necessary to talk the kind of salaries that would win academic top-notchers away from Ohio to do an admittedly tough job for North Carolina. (The Rockefeller board matched the Reynolds ante.)

They are the gentlemen recruited personally by Frank Graham—he of the Graham Plan which turned academic thumbs down on the same method of assembling gridiron talent.

At Ohio State, Salter was associate professor of the Ohio Experiment Station. Baver was professor of agronomy under the new Graham plan, their salaries are $8,000 and $5,500 respectively. College presidents and football coaches in the State now making more can be counted on the fingers of a normal hand.

Salter succeeds Dr. R. Y. Winters who resigned as director of the N. C. Experiment Station in 1937. Dr. L. O. Schaub has been acting director, in addition to his duties as dean of agriculture and director of extension, since that time. The N. C. station has not previously had an associate director.

Professor Salter and Dr. Baver have offices in Ricks Hall on the State College Campus.

First Agriculturist Features Ag Fair

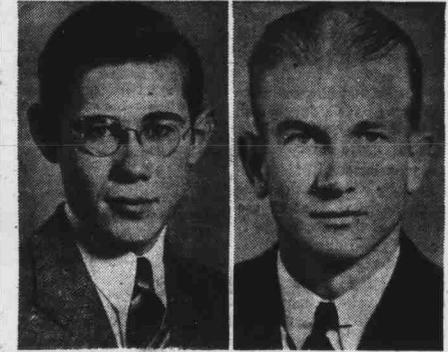

Cover Depicts Typical Scene From Last Year's Fair; Purpose of Fair Explained

Featuring the Student Ag Fair as its theme, the first issue of the Agriculturist came rolling off the press at the College Print Shop last week.

The cover of the publication shows a typical scene of last year's Fair. This picture is accompanied by a story written by Roderick Adams, this year's Fair president. Adams explains the purpose of the Fair and the history behind it in his article.

Other featured articles in the new issue are: "Preparing Tobacco for Sale," by Wayland Reams, and "New Developments in Agriculture," by H. C. Hurst.

PLANS for Homecoming Day, which is to be observed in conjunction with Greater University Day on Saturday, October 19, are under the direction of Bruce Halsted, left, of Arlington, Va., and Wayland Reams of Apex, presidents respectively of Blue Key and Golden Chain, the sponsoring organizations. Hundreds of alumni are expected to return for the celebration which will include the State-Carolina football classic.

Aeronautics Designated As Separate Department

Tau Beta Pi Banquet To Follow Initiation

Honorary Engineering Fraternity To Install Fourteen Juniors and Seniors

The formal Tau Beta Pi Initiation Banquet will be held next Tuesday, October 15.

The banquet will follow the regular initiation ceremony for all candidates who passed the examination given to fourteen selected juniors and seniors last Monday night. This exam included a wide range of subjects designed to test the candidate's general knowledge.

The purpose of Tau Beta Pi is to "Mark those who have conferred honor upon their school by distinguished scholarship and exemplary character as undergraduates in engineering and to foster a spirit of liberal culture in the colleges of America."

Membership is composed of students from all branches of the engineering profession, and although scholarship is the primary qualification for membership, consideration is also made of the candidate's personality and qualities of leadership.

Theta Tau Delegates To Attend Conclave

Professional Engineering Fraternity Sends Nine Members to Washington

Theta Tau, professional engineering fraternity on the State College campus, is sending nine representatives to the regional convention of that organization to be held in Washington, D. C., on October 12th and 13th.

The nine State men selected to attend the convention are R. L. Tatum, J. B. Hathaway, J. W. Andrews, G. S. Achorn, R. E. Anchors, E. R. Proulx, M. S. Hayworth, S. R. Watson, and H. W. Fox.

To Be Under Supervision of L. R. Parkinson; Replaces Division of Pilots and Mechanics Training

A Department of Aeronautical Engineering has been created in the School of Engineering at State College, which is one of the nation's leaders in aviation training, Dean Blake R. Van Leer announced today.

The new department will supplant the Division of Pilots and Mechanics Training set up early in 1939 when the Federal government embarked on its widespread student pilot training program.

Prof. Leslie R. Parkinson, who headed the division which was a part of the Department of Mechanical Engineering, heads the new Department of Aeronautical Engineering. Associated with him are C. N. Sanford, assistant professor of aeronautical engineering; W. R. Mann, instructor in flight training and director of the Chapel Hill airport; and Miss Dolly Douglas, secretary to the department. Another instructor in the aeronautical engineering will be employed for State College. The new department is in charge of aviation training at the Chapel Hill unit of the University of North Carolina, whose trustees authorized its creation.

The new department is charged with the responsibility of giving and administering instruction in all aviation ground school courses, flight training courses and aeronautical engineering courses which are approved by the faculty of the School of Engineering and the Faculty Council.

This year's senior class will graduate under the existing curriculum and receive the degree of Bachelor of Mechanical Engineering in aeronautics. All students taking the aeronautical option in mechanical engineering are assigned to the Department of Aeronautical Engineering for technical and professional advice and guidance.

Hello Week To Begin As ROTC Men Meet In Stadium Monday

Reams Will Present First Button To Colonel Harrelson; Event Sponsored by Golden Chain

Monday at noon "Hello Week" will begin officially with assembly of the entire ROTC regiment in Riddick Stadium.

The first button will be presented to Colonel Harrelson by W. J. Reams, President of Golden Chain. After a short talk by Colonel Harrelson, the regiment will be led in songs and cheers while buttons are being distributed among those present.

It has been requested that all non-military students be present in Riddick Stadium at noon Monday to receive buttons. Every student is asked to participate in the event and cooperate with the committee in charge by placing his name on the button and wearing it throughout the week.

The week will be brought to a close by homecoming and the football game with Carolina next Friday.

The observance of "Hello Week" was begun on our campus a number of years ago by Golden Chain, honorary fraternity, in an effort to stimulate friendship and congeniality among the students. The students are urged to carry the "Hello" spirit with them through the year, and to maintain State's reputation as having one of the friendliest campuses in the South.

Merchants Planning Downtown Parade For University Day

Leading Musical Organizations In Vicinity To Participate; Sponsors To Be Present

Plans for the third Greater University Day and Homecoming were released yesterday by Golden Chain and Blue Key, leading campus honorary fraternities, and a new feature has been added, a Homecoming Day parade.

The Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association of this city met this week to make plans for this new event which they are going to sponsor and the tentative draft has been released.

Five of the leading musical organizations in this vicinity will take part in the parade. The State College Band and the Drum and Bugle Corps will head the line of march. Closely following these two organizations will be the high school band from the Raleigh City Schools, the Drum and Bugle Corps from the local American Legion Post, and the crack 100-piece band from Carolina.

Headlining the list of dignitaries that have been asked to take part are Governor Clyde R. Hoey, Dr. Frank P. Graham, Col. John W. Harrelson, and Raleigh Mayor Andrews.

Units that will march in the parade include the Senior Officers' Platoon of the State College Military Department, the American Legion, the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts, and a mounted unit.

Horticulture Students Win Honors At Fair

Statistics

The minimum physical requirements for all those eligible for conscription are listed below. They are extremely lenient, and there will be very few exempt because of physical disability.

Chest—28 1/2 in.

Eyes—Each eye must be able to see at 20 ft. what the normal eye sees at 100 ft., but only if they are correctable so that each corrected eye can see at 20 ft. what the normal eye sees at 40 ft. Color blindness is no cause for exemption.

Hearing—Each ear must be capable of hearing at 10 ft. what the normal ear hears at 20 ft.

Teeth—No less than six masticating and six incisor teeth.

Feet—Flat feet will be no cause for rejection.

Collegiate Pressmen Plan Fall Convention

To Be Held in Durham November 7, 8, and 9; More Than 125 Expected to Attend

The annual fall convention of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association will be held in Durham on November 7, 8 and 9, according to an announcement made yesterday by Stephen S. Sailer, Executive Secretary.

More than 125 student editors and business managers representing publications of more than twenty leading colleges and universities in the state are expected to attend the meetings, Sailer added. Duke University will serve as host and convention headquarters will be in the Hotel Washington-Duke.

Tentative plans call for the convention to get underway with the registration of delegates Thursday afternoon, to be followed by a theatre party that night. Friday morning and afternoon will be devoted to business meetings and group discussion meetings led by prominent North Carolina newsmen. Delegates will be the guests of Duke at a luncheon that afternoon.

A banquet and dance will be held Friday night in the main ballroom of the hotel. The convention will adjourn Saturday morning following a general business meeting.

Fabe Clements, of State is president of the Association. Other officers are Gene Vereen of Davidson, first vice president; Polly Goforth of Flora Macdonald, second vice president; Norvell Ashburn of Wake Forest, treasurer; and Francis Staton of the Womens College, secretary.

Dean Lefort Speaks To Textile Society

Stresses Need for Coordination in Nation-wide Emergency; Urges Cooperation

Speaking at a meeting of the Tompkins Textile Society Tuesday night, Dean C. R. Lefort described vividly the part young people in this state will play in the national defense program and the many ways in which youth can aid the defense measures.

Dean Lefort stressed the need of cooperation and a friendly spirit among ourselves in order to achieve the coordination that is necessary in a nation-wide emergency. "This spirit should take root right here on this campus," he added. "We should all work toward the common goal of making State College the leading institution in its field."

The Wolfpack

At the last meeting of the senior class, Col. Harrelson suggested that the name of the football team be changed from the Wolfpack to something "more dignified." A committee consisting of Ted Johnson, Bruce Halsted and Bill Sarandria was appointed to investigate. The members of this committee are anxious to sound out your opinion. How do you feel about the change? The best way to make your ideas on the subject known is to either write an open forum letter to The Technician or to communicate with one of the committee members. Let's act now, either for or against the proposal.

Poultry Department Takes Second Place; Ag Engineers Third, At Largest Student Ag Fair Ever Held

"National defense and home food supply go hand in hand" was the theme of the exhibit that won first place for the Horticulture Department at the Students Ag Fair Tuesday night.

Second-place honors went to the Poultry department, while the Agricultural Engineers won third place.

The topic of the Horticulture exhibit was illustrated by a soldier standing in the midst of an abundance of harvested food crops. Preparation of the booth was directed by U. Harvey Underwood and Jimmy E. Brewer.

The Poultry exhibit consisted of an arrangement showing the poultry industry pulling North Carolina farms the year around. The steady distribution of the income from poultry was shown contributing to the farmers income for each month of the year. The directors of the poultry exhibit were J. H. Davenport and F. M. Bennett.

W. C. Warrick and H. N. Saunders directed the third placing booth, which featured an exhibit of erosion control.

Competing closely with the prize-winning exhibits was the booth of the Wildlife Conservation and Management department, directed by J. S. Wicker of Sanford, and W. L. Hammet of Jackson Springs.

The judges of the exhibits were: Dr. Z. P. Metcalf, Mr. C. L. Newman, and Mrs. Esther G. Willis. Mr. Newman originated the Ag Fair as a professor and head of the Field Crops department of State College. Mrs. Willis is Home Demonstration Agent of the Southeastern District of the Agriculture Extension Service.

Professor F. M. Haig, advisor of the Ag. Club, praised the work of the Ag Fair president, Roderick Adams, in putting on the fair, which was "one of the best fairs ever put on, due to the wonderful cooperation of the students in Agriculture and Forestry in organizing and presenting their departmental exhibits to the public."

15 Vacancies Exist For CAA Trainees

College Now Has Quota of Fifty; May Be Lowered To Forty If More Do Not Apply

Vacancies for 15 more flight training students exist at State College, Prof. L. R. Parkinson, head of the division of pilots and mechanics training, announced Wednesday.

The college has a quota of 50, but unless more youths apply, the quota will be cut to 40 to conform with regulations of the Civilian Aeronautics Authority, which is financing the course.

Mr. Parkinson stated that he is anxious to fill the quota and although ground school training has already started, it is still not too late to register for the course. Young men not now in college, who have two years of accredited college-work, are eligible for the course.

Ed Nilson, regional superintendent for CAA announced in Atlanta yesterday that applicants need not take too literally the pledge "to apply for flight training in the military service of the United States." The pledge is contained in the Department of Commerce application blank.

"The paragraph referred to was only intended as a medium through which we might determine the individual student's willingness and ambition to take every possible advantage of this splendid training, whether it be in the direction of military, commercial or private aviation," said Suprt. Nilson.

"The paragraph should not be construed as compulsory military obligation; only to the extent that any qualified citizen of the United States is subject to such governmental emergency military requirements as conditions warrant at any time."

Hello Week

Tuesday at State College will mark the beginning of the college's seventh annual Hello Week, sponsored by Golden Chain to give the students a chance to become better acquainted with one another. State College can well be proud of the spirit of democracy and friendliness that has always existed on our campus. Here we have no social sets and class distinction such as are so much in evidence at many other colleges. Every man is as good as his neighbor until he has proven himself otherwise, and even should he prove that he is not worthy to be a State College student he would not find himself a complete outcast. We are proud to boast that no more democratic institution exists than State College.

During Hello Week you will be given a traditional red and white button with a place for your name, and you are expected to wear this button at all times during the week. Speak to everyone you meet and try to learn and remember as many names as you can. Enter into the spirit as well as the practice of Hello Week by really getting some meaning in that word, "Hello." Don't just nod and speak mechanically get some cheerfulness and warmth into your greeting.

And after the red and white buttons are lost or put away, don't lapse into a silent period for the remainder of the year. Remember that State College students always speak to each other, and make Hello Week last as long as you are in college.

From Our W. C. Sisters

No Greater University Day celebration could possibly be complete without the participation of the young women of the Woman's College unit of the Greater University, for although they have no football team they are as much a part of the University as either the Chapel Hill or Raleigh divisions. We quote from THE CAROLINIAN, their student newspaper:

"Greater University day? When? October 19. Where? At State in Raleigh. Oh, yes, that's right. We went to Carolina last year in the pouring-down-rain. Remember? It's State's turn now. Hope it doesn't rain this year. Oughta be fun. Seems like those State boys would turn out in droves to meet us at the train. Brothers and all that sort of thing, you know. And we're not half-bad as far as looks and liveliness go. Gosh, wouldn't it be fun to step out of that special train and fall into a swirl of tweed-coated, loud-socked, healthy, happy, friendly State boys! Wow! That would be one swell thing. 'Bout ten boys at the train station in Chapel Hill last year. Our brothers at Chapel Hill! Bah! humbug!"

Purely imaginary—the above monologue. But, listen! The Greater University of North Carolina is composed of the North Carolina State College of Agriculture and Engineering at Raleigh, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, and the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. We wonder just how far the Carolina and State fellows have gone in preparing for Greater University day. We wouldn't know.

Woman's college unfortunately, has no football team to enter in the preparations for this yearly Greater-University-get-together-day. We are a good third of the Greater University. And women are excellent planners. Since Woman's college has not been consulted, The Carolinian says that Woman's college should pitch in and consult her "brothers" at State and Carolina immediately. Woman's college should not wait to be invited to attend the annual celebration of the Greater University of which she is a part.

This is one time when we State boys have a real chance to show up "our brothers at Chapel Hill." Let's show the girls from W. C. some real hospitality. If you have a friend at W. C. write to her and ask her down to the game. She won't expect you to buy her ticket, or at least she should not expect you to, because she can get her ticket at a reduced rate and you can not. It won't cost you much because she will arrange her own transportation and buy her own ticket in fact, about all you will have to do will be to sit with a good-looking girl at a football game. That couldn't be so bad, could it? Write to your girl, ask her to the game, meet her at the station, and do your best to show her a good time while she is here for Greater University Day.

By The People

"... and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created free and equal."

This one quotation explains, more than any other words ever written or spoken, the true meaning of Americanism. When we Americans stop to consider the depth and meaning of Lincoln's famous statement, we appreciate more fully the value of our country to us. We relive the glory that befell the minute-men as they bravely stood up for their rights against overwhelming odds, and we are proud that we are their descendants. Yes, these men did their best to make America safe for Americans, and it is now our duty to uphold their traditions.

While there may not be any opportunity just now for us to fight for our country on fields of battle, we have a duty which is just as real, and perhaps even more important, than risking our lives in combat. This is the opportunity to vote.

The privilege of voting is the very background of democracy. It establishes a basis of freedom which makes the opinion of the laborer just as much heard as that of the capitalist. It brings forth the true voice of the people, and it gives each of us a chance to take part in governing ourselves.

Registration to vote in the National Election this year will be held on three successive Saturdays, starting tomorrow, and all of us who are eligible to vote should make it a point to register, for this is our greatest opportunity to serve our country.

Let's Do Our Part

In a few days, several students will call at each dormitory room on the campus asking for donations to Raleigh's Community Chest Fund.

There could be no need for us to remind the students of State College of the importance of the Community Chest, for we are sure everyone realizes that this fund is one of the most worthy causes that they have the opportunity of contributing to.

For many years State has been widely praised for the excellent spirit of the students. State men are noted for their willingness to cooperate with the community leaders in trying to help those who are in need of aid, and of giving to the utmost of their ability in support of this type of cause.

The representatives of the Community Chest realize that very few of us are rich, and consequently they do not ask the students to give much, but only that each of us give his part. It is more important that each of us do our part than for a few students to try to carry the whole burden, for the Community Chest is founded on a spirit of cooperation, and it is up to us to see that the State College donation does credit to both the school and the student body.

OPEN FORUM

TO ALL CAMPUS ORGANIZATIONS:

Saturday, October 19, the day of the Carolina game, is Homecoming here at State College. With the wholehearted support of every organization on the campus, this can be the most successful Homecoming celebration in the history of the college.

On Friday night, October 18, from 7 to 8 o'clock, the annual Blue Key Stunt Night will be held in Pullen Hall. All campus organizations are invited to sponsor a stunt. Prizes will be awarded to the winners, first prize being a handsome victory plaque.

Any organization planning to sponsor a stunt should contact Dud Kaley, chairman of the Stunt Night Committee at 2407 Clarke Avenue, phone 8218, immediately.

Following the Stunt Night program, a giant pep meeting will be held in Riddick Stadium. This pep meeting is to be broadcast over radio station WPTF from 8:30 to 9.

From the pep meeting the student body and their friends will move over to Red Field for the annual Frosh-Soph Bonfire. Each class will have a bonfire, the numerals of the class having the biggest blaze to be displayed in the Stadium during the game.

We are asking that all fraternities and dormitories decorate for the celebration. Decorations can be either the making or breaking of a Homecoming Day. Prizes will be awarded for the best decorated dormitory and fraternity.

Let's give our spirited Wolfpack the support they so richly deserve, and make this the biggest Homecoming ever.
BLUE KEY AND GOLDEN CHAIN.

Benny Goodman returns with his new band Oct. 18 for a one night stand at Washington and Lee. The new band will be on the softer side and will consist of two string quartets, five saxes, two trumpets and two trombones, four rhythms, and Benny on clarinet. Many members of his former band will be in the new outfit. These are Charlie Christian, guitar; Teddy Wilson, piano; Davey Tough, drums; Artie Bernstein, bass; Toots Mondello, sax; Irving Goodman and Jimmy Maxwell, trumpets; and Helen Forrest, on the vocals. Ziggy Elman and Lionel Hampton will not be back with him since Elman has joined T. Dorsey and Hampton has started his own band. The string quartets are an experiment and will not stay if they are not popular. They have been added to give the band a more versatile style since Benny is going to concentrate on radio work and not play so many one night stands and hotel dates.

James Petrillo proved not to be so powerful in his recent battles with Charlie Barnett and the American Guild of Music Artists. The Guild which is made up of such artists as Gladys Swarthout and Lawrence Tibbett is a separate AFL union which is made up of concert artists only Petrillo in an effort to gain control of all musicians is trying to force the Guild to join the AFM by threatening to call a strike anywhere that these artists appear. The Guild obtained a court order restraining the AFM from hindering the Guild members from carrying on their work. Charlie Barnett broke his contract with Consolidated Radio Artists booking agency and started his own booking this month. Petrillo ordered him to return to playing the CRA jobs and stop his Fiesta Danceria job which he booked himself. Barnett refused and issued a suit for $100,000 against CRA. If he loses his suit, he will be forced to resign from the union and discontinue his musical activities. This will include all his records and broadcasts.

Charlie Teagarden, former Paul Whiteman trumpeter, recently joined his brother Jack's band—Sammy Kaye is back on $50 records.—Ray Noble and Alec Templeton have the new Friday night Alka Seltzer show.—For good kicks Count Basie Oct. 14 and The Chamber Music Society of Lower Basin Street radio program.—Deglamorized Ina Ray Hutton's new all male band is supposed to be the coming band of the year according to Tommy Dorsey.—T. Dorsey, Glenn Miller, Bob Crosby and Orrin Tucker have signed picture contracts.

GLEANINGS

It happened again—the editor asked me to write this column. I don't understand it unless he looked in last year's files and saw that I wrote GLEANINGS for Spud Davidson; therefore he felt that I should improve and they would give me one more chance. This time I'll get in the attitude of a newspaper man—so, coking my hat on my head with the brim turned up in front and back—a pipe clenched between my teeth—a glass of water near my typewriter to cool it off when my hunt and peck system gets too hot, I am off.

I have moved my office from the east side of Holladay to the west side. I hope Henry doesn't mind my giving the set-up of our office, for I feel this is an opportunity I should not let go by. The set-up is as follows: The reception room will be the office occupied by Dean Clayd and Miss Owen. If there are any appointments to be made or if you wish to see either Dean or me, be sure to see Miss Owens first. In other words, she will act as receptionist. All cuts will be checked in the reception office in the afternoon only. The reason I moved across the hall is so that Dean and I may each have a private office. As it was before, we sometimes had to search for an office somewhere in the building when one or the other was using the inside office for a private conference. The office to the right of mine is our private work-office where our secret work is done. The Dean of Students' office is an office for the students, and we desire to give each of you the service you request, if it is within our power.

As you know, our office hours are from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.—however do not be surprised to find me in the office by 8:30 a. m. There is one student who did not feel that there was anyone around when he received no response to his knocking the other morning. As was my usual custom, I had to complete some work that I failed to do the day before; therefore, I was in the office around 8:15 a. m. this particular day. Around 8:30 a. m. I heard this timid knock and then someone tried to open the door. It happened to be locked; therefore I ignored the knock. Then the knock came once more, again I ignored it. The next time the halls of Holladay Hall were rocked by the beat of a fist on my door and several exclamations (and strong ones, too) of why the Dean of Students office should be open. Naturally I rushed to the door so that it would not be broken down. When I opened the door I had to catch the young man as he was so surprised to find an audience. Of course, I had to forgive him as it was worth the price of the experience to see his face when I opened the door. . . . Motto: Look through a keyhole before you start criticizing people behind closed doors.

Whew! I have written and I have written, but it looks as though I am not half way through with this article. Have you ever tried to write for a newspaper? You'll have to try it to appreciate the work an editor has to do to edit his paper. Take Henry Rowe, for instance. He is confronted with the problems of being responsible for a 4 or 6 page newspaper. Just writing this one article has taken me about ten days—(Oh, I'll admit I am no writer so don't start making wise-cracks.) Just think when you had to write themes every week, then multiply that by 15 and you have the work that Henry goes through each week. Boy, oh, Boy! Give me my job anytime. Well, enough of this for I must go along as I have another page to write, so here I go into a brainstorm.

Earlier in the school year I predicted this year to be outstanding in student activities. Events which have taken place seem to indicate that my prediction will come true. I have never known a group of students to have the pep and enthusiasm that you students have shown thus far this year. . . . Homecoming is all set to go—just waiting for the day to come now. . . . Senior Class already negotiating for their senior gift (in fact, I am listening to one of their ideas now—the amplifier set in the tower)—and there are many other organizations who have been in to discuss projects with me—it's music to my ears when I hear of all the things you are planning—don't forget our office doors are always open to help you in any way.

Why is it that we do not have some of the outstanding statements of the nation to speak at State College? Oh, I know it takes some money to secure them, but I have talked with those who are responsible for having outstanding speakers on their campuses and they lead me to believe that it is not necessary to have so much money. There is a group of boys on our campus who are interested in forming a non-partisan club to obtain this end. I hope in the near future they will have something interesting to present to the students and citizens of Raleigh. You know it upsets me no end when a student comes in my office after I have sent for him and he says, "What have I done wrong now?" I do send for students when there is something wrong, but with the idea of helping if I possibly can. Also, I send for students to help me, for sometimes I get stuck on a problem and need your help.

FROM THIS ANGLE

by Edwin Perry

DEDICATED TO COACHES HICKMAN AND WOOD

To the melodic strains of the chimes in the Memorial Tower I pound the first lines of angles from the keys of an early model Underwood, completely at a loss as to what I might say that would interest everyone both old and young.

Down but never out and no more red flannel underwear to write about, I moseyed down to the coaches den in the Field House this morning to listen in on their pov wow which is usually the results of the commentaries of the morning papers.

Society Note: Hickman and Wood at Fair

I walked in as Backfield Coach Babe Wood was winding up a movie of himself when a star at Tennessee. Mr. Bob Crosland of Charlotte, a sporting goods representative, was in for a chat with the professors of the gridiron. Brother Crosland donated a Coca-Cola that made the session complete.

After a bit, the witty general assistant coach, Nig Waller, joined the happy group and then the rotund gentleman with the protruding bread basket, Herman Hickman, reared back in his swivel chair against the staunchest wall in the house and began a resume of his trip to the State Fair with Babe Wood.

Enter Mr. Republican

At this point I was interrupted at the typewriter by Pole-Vaulter J. P. LeVasseur sporting a "Willkie For President" button on his manly chest, who had an announcement for the Technician about a "Young Republican Club" meeting next week. . . . I thought those birds knew better than to attempt to set up headquarters in a Democrat stronghold. . . . so says LeVasseur, the long winded G.O.P. candidate, Wendell Willkie, is supposed to visit the campus on his barnstorming tour. Come on, Mr. Willkie, I guess we can stand it; we have everything else around here.

Wood Mashed by Hickman!

But getting back to the State Fair trip of Hickman, Wood and company, it seems that the two energetic mentors turned back the pages of time, and like two little teen age lads, took in the fair in a big way.

Wood related to us the awful experience of riding alongside Coach Hickman in the thrill rides, being mashed and bruised by the shifting weight of Two-Ton Herman. Babe says his ribs are sorer today than he was on a morning after playing a bruising football game in his days at Tennessee.

Rides weren't the only things the coaches visited. There was the leg show. . . . and Babe says he has seen better but they were different from the usual run of the day. I left the field house with my sides near splitting after looking at pictures of Hickman taken on the jaunt. They were really comic.

Someone should write a book on the life of a sports reporter in the press box. Sports Editor Bill Friday and I didn't work inside the press box last week but we did have a perch on top. Friday and I manipulated the public address system for that game, and if it had not been for "cough syrup" we had conveniently carried along then I probably would be still sick with a cold.

The End

We always have to think up some appropriate way of ending these columns which seems to be of no use anyway because by the time you get down this far you have probably lost all interest or are so disgusted that you have burned the paper anyway. But just as a parting shot, please someone come by the infirmary soon to see me. Why will I be there? Well, you know how big Coach Hickman is and how fast Coach Wood can run. They might not like the way I talked about them. Who knows? I like roses and may need a beef steak. . . . until I hear from Hickman and Wood I'll be yours truly.

Hickman Says

All varsity wrestlers are asked to report Monday afternoon to the equipment room to draw uniforms to begin practice. Sessions will be held under the supervision of Assistant Coach Ted Johnson.

Fresh will not draw uniforms until January 1, but are invited to practice at their own risk this fall.

Techlets Test Strength Against Tar Babes

'Ole Prognosticator Gets Percival To Help Pick 'Em

By ROBERT POMERANZ

Just ten minutes before Newton had given me a paper full of trouble on a Physics exam and here he was plaguing me again. There I was flat on my back under that apple tree in front of 1911 Dorm, wondering about old Isaac and at the same time trying to dream up something on the Carolina-T. C. U. tilt.

Suddenly, I saw that an apple was descending rapidly towards me (accelerating 32 feet per second per second) and before I could shift positions the fruit hit me squarely on the noggin and rolled down my nose onto my chest. Lazily, I reached up, rubbed the apple across my sweater, and started looking for the best place to take the first bite. What hits my eye is this worm hole that appears to have been made by a particularly meek and insignificant worm.

Out from this particular pops the most angelic looking worm on this continent. In a squeaky voice he spoke to me, "Hey, you, I'm Percival and I'm here to tell you that you're the luckiest football picker I've ever seen. Don't go around boasting about calling Wake Forest over Carolina—that was a pipe. And, I could have told that Tennessee was way over Duke's head. But, to get to more immediate matters, who do you like over at the Hill, Saturday?"

Well, T.C.U. looks like a herd of charging bull-elephants and can probably hand the Heels their second beating of the season.

"You're wet there, Bud," came back Percival. Ray Wolf's guys really looked good against Davidson, and they're going to continue their winning ways. They garnered eighteen first downs on 272 yards rushing and three completed passes for 120 yards. Though the score doesn't show it, the Tar Heels were tops in the first period—though penalties nullified several gains and a score. Their line held like a pre-dilatrizkrieg Maginot Line and gave up no first downs to the Cats on line backs."

That sounds all right, but how about that vaunted aerial circus of the Texas Horned Frogs—and what about that trimming they handed Arkansas? "Don't bother me with details," quoth Percival the worm, "this is straight. Carolina is ready to go." So, who am I to argue—Carolina

Percival Continues
What about the Clemson-Wake Forest scramble. The Deacs look like the powerhouse of the Conference.

"It's tough to choose either way," opined Percival, "but the Tigers have the makings of a victory over W. F. After pushing across those first two scores on State, Clemson eased up pretty much. The Deacs, on the other hand, were shodder than the 19-0 score over Furman indicates."

You're not going to count out Polanski, Pruitt, Gallovich, and Ringgold with that statement?

"Wake Forest was under wraps — true enough, but the Demons looked rusty. Their rushes averaged nowhere near what they should have and passing was under par. Clemson was superb in beating the Wolfpack. Take my word for it — Clemson is ready to take the over-ripe Deacs."

Along the line of least resistance — Clemson over Wake Forest.

BIG NOISES in the Wolfpack line are Ralph Burt (left) and Bill Windley, guard and tackle for State. Burt has been playing good ball in that forward wall all season. Windley has been out with a bad injury for the first three games but he will be ready to go against the Tar Heels.

Mural Musings

By JIM MACDOUGALL

The Sigma Pi's pulled an upset victory over the Sigma Nu's in winning 13-6. M. N. Ullrich and George Bason proved too much for Deveraux Joslin and his boys.

The Pikas beat a hard-fighting Lambda Chi team 7-0. Bill Morrison and his lads held out beautifully until "Wild Bill" Ivey caught the winning touchdown pass.

The "hard-luck" team of the league, the Pi Kappa Phi's, lost another game to the SPE's, going down 6-0.

In the dormitory league, 2nd C continued their winning streak with a 12-0 win over lower Watanga. Jim Owens led the attack with his excellent passing and was ably supported by Ham Sloop and Mike Cohen. Thus far 2nd C is undefeated, untied and unscored on.

"Doc" Nixon and Arnold Katterman proved too much for Lower South, as 2nd A won again 6-0.

In the freshman league, 3rd 8th, with the aid of "Bones" McKinney and Ray Smith, beat fourth A 19-0.

Sammy Kaufman ran 70 yards to score and led his 1st 7th team to a 7-6 victory over 2nd 7th. Knoth and Yarborough were impressive in a spirited victory as 3rd 7th beat 10th dormitory 27-0.

Third C and 1st C battled to a 0-0 deadlock, however 1st C was credited with the win because of more first downs.

Minor Sports

In horseshoes the ALT's, KA's, and Lambda Chi advanced to the quarter finals. In the dormitory, 3rd 7th, 10th, 3rd A, and 1st C advanced in their respective brackets.

Mr. Miller reports that the new "leisure sports" are proving mighty popular with the boys, and urges the managers to have their boys practice every Tuesday and Thursday.

Wrestling

Dates for the preliminary wrestling for the fraternities were set for October 22, and the dormitory preliminaries will be held on October 24. A fraternity or dormitory may enter a man in one weight or men in all weights. A full team is not necessary to compete in the bouts.

How important is backing up the line?

Any prep school youngster knows it's absolutely vital in football. And it's just as vital in the telephone industry. Backing up the nation's line of communication is Western Electric's responsibility on the Bell System team. This assignment includes manufacturing telephones, switchboards, cable and thousands of other kinds of apparatus—purchasing all manner of supplies for the telephone companies—seeing that all these things are available when and where needed. By handling this assignment, Western Electric helps to maintain telephone facilities at maximum efficiency — helps, when emergencies arise, to restore them in minimum time—and thus contributes to the efficiency and low cost of your Bell Telephone service.

Pi Kappa Deltas Announce Debates

Call Issued for Candidates For Forensic Squad; Students Assured of Debates

The national debate question for the year has just been announced by Pi Kappa Delta, national forensic fraternity. It is, "Resolved that the nations of the Western Hemisphere should form a permanent union."

Professor Edwin H. Paget, Director of Forensics of State College, has issued the first general call for candidates for the forensic squad. Since the unlimited squad system is used at State College, all students who work regularly with the squad throughout the year will be assured of at least three inter-collegiate debates. All candidates are to report immediately to Professor Paget in Room 109 Pullen Hall, between four and six in the afternoon. Freshmen may compete, and some twelve freshmen are already working with the squad. There will be no "try-outs" and no eliminations. Previous experience is unnecessary.

State College is the present national champion in Direct Clash Debating, having won the first National Direct Clash Tournament, men's division, in December, 1939, and the Second National Direct Clash, both divisions, in April, 1940. Members from last year's championship team now working with the squad include Brice Ratchford, who also received national individual ranking, Roland Cary and David Harris.

FRESHMAN BASKETBALL

All candidates for freshman basketball report for practice Wednesday, October 16, at 7:00 p. m. ROLLINS SEVIER, Coach.

New Bowling Center Plans Big Opening

Manmurr Bowling Alley To Hold Formal Opening Beginning at Ten Tomorrow

Tomorrow the formal opening of the beautiful Manmurr Bowling Alley will take place and plans for an exciting and eventful day will be executed.

Mr. B. S. Brooks, who operates a ten alley bowling establishment downtown, is in charge of operations and entertainment which will include many special events to be staged by out-of-town experts. Guests will demonstrate the art of handling the balls with uncanny skill as they bowl the pins over with various trick shots. Eleven out-of-town teams will be present to enter into hot competition with the locals.

The opening will be an all-day affair with an extensive program for entertainment and never a dull moment from morn' 'til on into the night. In addition to exhibition shots, competitive matches will feature five ladies teams as well as other Raleigh and visiting teams. Instructors will be on hand at all times to aid beginners who are interested in the art.

The alleys, which are already reputed to be the best and most beautiful in the South, are equipped with invisible lighting fixtures and accommodations for six persons per alley. The building is air-conditioned and locker rooms have been installed along with the latest equipment on the market. This bowling metropolis is said to be the first in the South to have 20 Centennial Alleys. Manmurr Bowling Alley is certainly expected to be the center of activity in Raleigh tomorrow as the gala opening gets underway.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Radio Club will meet this Friday night at 6:45 in Room 109 in the Electrical Engineering Bldg. All who are interested are invited.
