Sigma Nu Wins Fraternity Decoration Award; South Takes Dormitory prize

Thousands of visitors thronged the State College campus last Saturday in the largest celebration of Homecoming Day and Greater University Day ever held in North Carolina.

Featuring the annual State-Carolina football game, the gala celebration brought visitors from W. C. and Carolina, as well as thousands of State alumni.

The program for the week-end got under way Friday night with Stunt Night, sponsored by the Blue Key and Golden Chain honorary societies. Stunt Night this year featured skits by eight campus organizations, and the first prize went to the Delta Sigma Phi fraternity. Honorable mention went to the Sigma Nu and the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternities.

After Stunt Night, a mammoth "Beat Carolina" pep-rally was held in Riddick Stadium, and was followed by the annual frosh-soph bonfire on Red Field. The freshmen won the competition by having the biggest blaze.

Decorations that took place on Saturday, prizes were awarded three fraternities and two dormitories for decorations. The Sigma Nu fraternity took first place for having the best-decorated house, while the Sigma Phi Epsilon and the Phi Kappa Tau took second and third places, respectively. Among the dormitories, South walked off with first place while ninth and fifth were the runners-up.

Concluding the festivities was the annual Blue Key-Golden Chain Homecoming Dance, which featured the music of Barry McKinley and his orchestra. This dance was the largest of its kind ever held on the State College campus, and the gym was crowded with dancing couples for the entire duration of the dance.

Program Shaping Up For High School Day

Friday and Reams in Charge of Annual Events; To Be Held at Furman Game

An elaborate program is being prepared for the second annual High School Day, which will be held on the State College campus Saturday, November 2.

W. J. Reams, vice president of the student body, and Bill Friday, president of the senior class, are in charge of the program to be held in conjunction with the N. C. State-Furman football game. Colonel Harrelson will speak to the guests and visitors during the half-time period at the grid contest.

There will be registration of all guests of the College in the YMCA between 1:00 and 6:30 o'clock. Arrangements have been made to conduct interested guests on a tour of any and all departments of the college.

Major Kutchinski is preparing special musical entertainment for the occasion and a number of high school bands have been invited to participate.

Approximately five or six thousand high school seniors are expected to visit the campus.

The purpose of High School Day is to give the high school seniors a chance to get a look at State College and to get an idea of the things the college represents.

Trophy Awarded Horticulturists

Department Receives Cup For Prize Exhibit; Holder for Three Consecutive Years Will Be Given Trophy

For the second time in two consecutive years the trophy for the prize-winning exhibit at the Ag Fair was awarded to the Horticulture department, when Dean H. O. Schaub presented it to V. I. Underwood, director of the winning exhibit, at the weekly meeting of the Ag Club Tuesday night.

The cup becomes the property of the department winning the cup for three consecutive years. If the horticulturists win the trophy next year the cup will be given to that department.

As he presented the trophy Dean Schaub praised the cooperation, initiative, and fine showing of the Ag Fair enterprise.

Student Legislators Hold First Session

College 'Who's Who' Picks Nineteen Men From State College

High-ranking Seniors Are Picked for High Honor of Being Placed in Rank of Leading College Students in the Country

Nineteen prominent State College seniors have received national recognition and will be listed in the 1940-41 edition of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

The men were selected for Who's Who on a basis of scholarship, leadership ability, and character and service to the college.

Those selected are: Tom Jackson, vice president of the senior class; John Boger, business manager of The Watauga; W. E. Carter, former president of 30 and 3; Fabe Clements, business manager of The Agromeck; Bruce Halsted, president of the Phi Kappa Tau; Henry Rowe, editor of The Technician; Tom Rowland, president of the Monogram Club; R. B. Reeves, president of the Engineer's Council; Wayland Reams, president of Golden Chain; Nelson Strawbridge, president of Tau Beta Pi; Howell Stroup, co-captain of the football team; Aldine Thomason, business manager of The Technician; and George Weant, president of the Interfraternity Council.

"Spud" Davidson Elected President of Senate; Friday Chosen Senate President; Ratchford to Be House Speaker

Approximately 100 members of the State College Student Assembly met last night in the State Capitol for the first session of State's governing body during the current school year.

Colonel John W. Harrelson, dean of administration, addressed the assembly stressing the need for study of government by technically trained men.

Following Colonel Harrelson's speech the body elected E. P. "Spud" Davidson by acclamation as president of the joint assembly. Bill Friday was elected vice president and Dud Robbins secretary.

Members of the House and Senate then withdrew to their respective chambers to choose their individual officers. Bill Friday was chosen to fill the post of president of the Senate, Bruce Halsted, vice president, and Wayland Reams, secretary. John McIvor will act as Senate chaplain.

In a heated election in the House, Bruce Ratchford won the Speaker's position, Billy Lambie the Speaker Pro-tem, and Dwight Turner the sergeant-at-arms. Callin McKim was elected chaplain and David Harris clerk.

A resolution to the effect that the students be given a two-day rest period without classes before exams was introduced by Wayland Reams at the joint session meeting, but it was defeated after heated discussion in both houses.

This unique system of government is considered to be one of the newest developments in student governments, as it affords a voice in the affairs of the campus to a greater portion of students. Similar forms of campus organizations are rapidly being adopted by leading schools and universities throughout the country.

Absentee Voting Explained in Release By Democrats Club

YDC Offers Suggestion To Students That They Vote Even Though Away From Home.

Thousands of college students are not voting simply because they are away from home. The absentee ballot has been supplied by most states as a piece of democratic machinery to remedy this defect.

Casting an absentee voter's ballot is not a difficult task. It should be an extremely easy one for a man or woman in college. In general three steps are involved: registration, application for the ballot, voting the ballot.

Registration
Most states require the absentee voter to register in the same manner as regular voters. However, there is frequently a provision for absentee voters to register by mail. If you have never voted before, you should check with your town, city or county clerk as to the requirements of the initial registration. Inquiry in particular should be made as to the satisfaction of the educational requirement.

Application for the Ballot
This second step is usually accomplished by filling out an affidavit form which has been procured from your town, city or county clerk. Incidentally, for the uninitiated, it might be said that there is nothing mysterious about an affidavit. It is merely a written statement which the affiant swears to before a notary public who thereupon stamps the writing with his seal. Applications must usually be returned between the second and fourth weeks preceding the election.

After your application has been accepted you will be sent an official ballot. (Continued on Page 4)

Series of Lectures Sponsored By YMCA

Renown Speaker to Be Guest of College; Private Interviews to Follow Lectures

State College will have the opportunity to be host to one of the country's most distinguished educators on the 6th, 7th and 8th of November when Mrs. Mildred Inskip Morgan, renowned lecturer on relationships of men and women, will visit the campus for a series of discussions sponsored by the YMCA as one of the highlights of its 1940-41 lecture program.

Mrs. Morgan is a lecturer and leader of forums and discussion groups in the fields of Personality Adjustments, Parent-Child Relationships, Problems of Adolescence, Relationships of Men and Women, and Marriage and the Home. In this capacity she has visited over 60 colleges and universities and some hundred high schools; she has been a leader in over 60 community, state, and national conferences.

This will be Mrs. Morgan's second appearance on the State College campus. She gave a series of talks here during the fall term of 1938-39, and proved to be one of the most popular lecturers ever to visit the college. Because of Mrs. Morgan's wide experience in lecturing and her understanding outlook toward the problems that are most interesting to college students, the auditoriums in which she talks are always filled to capacity, and her lectures prove very interesting to all who attend.

Officers of the YMCA in charge of the program plan to have discussions following each lecture, and also to set aside time for personal interviews.

Raleigh Citizens Praise Homecoming

Wade Ison, Sports Publicist, Receives Letters From Leading Merchants.

Letters to Wade Ison, director sports publicity, from: Wesley Williams, secretary, Raleigh Merchants Bureau; "It was a real pleasure for us to work with you in promoting Greater University Day, and we are indeed looking forward to next year when we hope that we will help you promote this day in a bigger and better way."

"Our merchants are very well pleased with our parade Saturday, and several have expressed their desire to have a similar event each year which might be called State-Raleigh Day."

"My purpose is to boost State College in every way possible; I realize that it is one of the greatest assets that the City of Raleigh has if we can all join hands in boosting State College a little and its football games. This will naturally mean more dollars for Raleigh."

"Please do not hesitate to call on us for anything we might aid you with."

Jimmie Briggs Thomas H. Briggs & Sons: "It's always a pleasure to be of assistance to my old 'Alma Mammy' although an opportunity not to serve does not come very often. For a long time relations between State College and the town folks remained at a rather low ebb due solely, I believe, to a few minor misunderstandings, the whole thing being rather silly as each is rather dependent on the other. So for the past couple of years several of us have been doing our best to promote (Continued on Page 4)

Scabbard and Blade To Honor Visitors

Crack Platoon from Mississippi State to Be Guests of Military Society at Banquet Friday

The members of G. Co. 3rd Rgt., Scabbard and Blade, J. E. McIvor, Captain, are celebrating October 27 as Scabbard and Blade Day by giving a banquet on Friday evening, October 26, in honor of the men from B. Co., 7 Rgt., from Mississippi State College who will be present to give a fancy drill performance at the half of the Miss. State-North Carolina State football game on Saturday, October 26.

Some years ago the National Forestry selected the anniversary of the birth of former President Theodore Roosevelt as Scabbard and Blade Day, and on that day the eighty collegiate companies are joining in their respective campuses in fitting observance.

Asington, Cemetery, Washington, D. C., will be the scene of the very impressive annual ceremonial decoration of the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, in recognition of the 3,000 members of Scabbard and Blade who saw service in the World War.

Membership in Scabbard and Blade is limited to outstanding cadet officers in ROTC units, who are selected for their proficiency in Military Science, academic subject, character, and other attributes. Associate membership may be conferred upon officers of the Regular Army, National Guard, Navy, and Reserves; a few outstanding civilians have been elected to honorary membership.

The purpose of Scabbard and Blade is to promote the interests of military training in American universities and colleges, to preserve and develop the essential qualities of good and efficient officers, and to spread intelligent information concerning the military requirements of our country.

Van Leer Will Head Government Bureau

State's Dean of Engineering Takes Part-Time Position To Aid in National Defense

Governor Hoey announced yesterday that Blake Van Leer, dean of engineering at State College, and J. T. Anderson, industrial engineer for the Board of Conservation and Development, will have an office which will be established in Washington to procure defense contracts and industries for North Carolina.

State College, the Governor said, has consented to allow Van Leer to receive any extra compensation, except for expenses.

The office probably will be opened by November 1. Anderson and Van Leer will go to Washington within the next few days to arrange for office space. Governor Hoey said the headquarters probably would be in the Mayfield Hotel.

Principal purpose of the office will be to attract industries and defense capital to North Carolina, Governor Hoey said. The office will not be a lobby headquarters, he added, but will serve as a clearing house for all State matters which have a federal bearing.

For instance, if some sort of a problem should arise in the construction of the Blue Ridge Parkway, the North Carolina office in Washington might be asked to help straighten out the problem, he said. (Continued on Page 4)

CAA Flight Training Launched for Forty

Primary Course Started for Forty State Students; Advanced Course Also Begins

Flight training financed by the Federal government through the Civil Aeronautics Authority has started for 40 students at the Raleigh, N. C., airport. Only one of the Department of Aeronautical Engineering, announced today.

The course launches the fall program of flight training at the college, which was one of the first 13 schools in the country to participate in CAA activity as part of the national defense preparations. Providing ground school and 35 to 50 hours of flying, the course is scheduled to be finished by Jan 15.

Ground school is taught by Prof. Parkinson and his assistants, and flight training is provided at the Raleigh, N. C., airport. Only one of the student is about $25 in fees, including insurance and medical examination.

A class of advanced students who have completed the primary course is scheduled to start soon. State College gives its aviation flight course in the spring of 1939 and since then scores of its students have learned to fly. Many are now in the military aviation services and some are working as engineers in aircraft plants.

Radio To Dramatize Story of Convict

Life of Dwight Beard, who Was Expelled from State, To Go On Air Tonight

The story of Dwight Beard, desperado whose criminal career started in North Carolina and ended in the Texas electric chair, will be dramatized in two installments of the Gang-Busters coast-to-coast radio series tonight and the following Friday night.

The programs will last from 9 to 9:30 o'clock and will be carried by WPTF.

Beard, who hit the crime trail after being expelled from State College in 1930, was doomed to die for a murder he committed in North Carolina. He escaped after his sentence, was committed to life imprisonment, and later was convicted and executed in Texas for another murder.

In NBC's publicity release, Beard is described as "the ape bandit who committed his crimes in a track suit."

Beard was a poor student at State College and "busted" several courses before he was expelled. Afterwards, he spent some time in Y. M. C. A. work before his criminal tendencies got the upper hand.

Agromeck

Due to the unprecedented last-minute rush, the period for taking Agromeck pictures has been extended to include the first three days of next week, as well as tonight. These are the hours: Tonight, 7 till 11; Monday, 2 to 4 and 7 to 11; Tuesday, 2 to 5 and 7 to 11; Wednesday, 2 to 5 and 7 to 11. This will be absolutely the last opportunity. Be sure to get an appointment from the Agromeck office.

Organizations!

Due to a change in the editorial policy of The Technician regarding announcements, it is requested that all organizations turn in any notices that they wish to be published to Dean Romeo Lefort at his office in Holladay Hall. The announcements will be published in the future in the form of a "Campus Calendar," which will give the students an opportunity to get a glimpse of the most important happenings that will take place during the week. The deadline for announcements will be 4:00 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, so the announcements must be sent in before that time in order to be published. THE EDITORIAL STAFF

Ours Not To Reason Why

"Do as I say, not as I do."
"Such is the attitude of a group of educators attempting to instill honor in our every thought, word, and deed. We have been sadly disillusioned again in our faculty council. It isn't the fact that we mind so very greatly spending an extra half-day at State College in December, for we have grown to love this old school. If we could pick a group of boys to stay for the entire vacation period, I'm sure that every one of them would do so willingly. No, it isn't the half-day at all.
The thing that hurts us—yes, hurts, not angers—is the method the council used in gaining their point. For each dean, professor, and instructor on the faculty stresses honor to us, day after day. Then, when an hour for honor arrives, the theory is discarded for a different practice. And it really hurts!
A petition for two hours excused classes is a mild thing, especially when the merchants of Raleigh had prepared a fine reception for The Greater University. And it is only natural that the student petitioners leave the council chamber during the discussion. The measure passed, with the added decree that the school term end a half day later than originally planned. That wasn't TOO bad, even at that.
But when the council blames this petition for moving mid-term up a day, things have gone too far. For on the very morning of the meeting, a campus bulletin had been issued, stating that mid-term would be moved up to Tuesday, rather than Monday, because the forms had not been prepared. The following day the campus bulletin stated that the extension of mid-term was directly the result of the action on the student petition.
Gentlemen, we students are no longer children. We can take a licking with our heads high. We have pride and honor, despite our tender years. Shall the students be called upon to render a lesson in honor to our venerable council?"

Fighting Spirit

State College is proud of Doc Newton's Wolfpack this week, proud to claim them and boast about the excellent game they played against Carolina Saturday. Outweighed in every position they were never outfought; the last few minutes were even more exciting than the first with the Wolfpack fighting for every inch they gained or lost and giving Carolina the scare of the season.
Ten years from now we'll still be talking about that Fehey to Watts to Fehey combination that started on the State goal line and ended on the Carolina 16. For a real football game that had everything, we nominate Saturday's clash between State and Carolina. We will be back for next year's game if we have to leave the battlefields of Timbuctoo and crawl through the mud all the way to Chapel Hill. As someone said between the halves, "There's always another year," and if State does not beat Carolina next year we will personally push a cigarette around Memorial Tower with our noses.
On the whole, the spirit and cheering of the student section was very good, but occasionally a few 'boos' were heard from the students and particularly from the band. As everyone should know, such an attitude is a waste of energy since it accomplishes nothing. It is also a sign of poor sportsmanship; so let's try to refrain from any further exhibitions of our abilities in that direction. A few writers throughout the state are always on the lookout for a chance to accuse the State College Student Body of poor sportsmanship, and things that would not be noticed at other institutions are played up when they take place here.
In commenting on the excellent spirit shown by the State Student Body, one Carolina alumnus said, "The Carolina team didn't fight eleven men; they fought 2,500. I have never seen such spirit behind a football team."

Student Drinking

Editor's Note: We are indebted to Dean Cloyd for supplying us with a copy of this article by Dean Raymond Manchester of Kent State University, Kent, Ohio. We heartily agree with Dean Manchester, particularly in regard to driving while drinking.
Once each year, the theme is student drinking and each year many valuable hours are exhausted in an attempt to formulate an argument that will be effective. Those of us who watch students come and go know that excessive student drinking is bad business for everyone concerned, but it is difficult for those, who know from experience, to convince those who think they have all the right answers.
In the first place, drinking is expensive. Most drinkers drink more than they should drink and also more than they wish to drink. It requires money that is needed for food, books, and ordinary living expenses. Most students can't afford the luxury.
In the second place, drinking causes students to do things they would not otherwise do. Probably ninety per cent of all discipline cases would never have developed except for drinking. This argument alone should appeal to anyone with an average intelligence rating. University men, above all others, should be interested in their own welfare.
In the third place, drinking is always done on false reasoning and all college men should be sensitive to good thinking. Take, for example, the man who drinks to "loosen up." He does loosen up and exposes his weaknesses to the public. After spending years of time in an effort to overcome his weaknesses so that he may make a better impression socially or in business he then throws everything overboard when he gets drunk. Or consider the one who drinks to gain courage or strength. He makes himself a butt for jokes and a victim of ridicule.
If drinking happened to be a new trick, there might be some excuse for experimentation and research; but every generation has tried it and every generation has obtained the same answers.
During the summer, we were touring and stopped one day at a road-side restaurant in a mountainous country. When we were eating lunch, a party of four came in, three of whom were young men of college age. All had been drinking and continued to drink while we finished lunch. At two o'clock, the party left the restaurant and with much hilarity entered a car. At three o'clock the three young men of college age were dead. One, who had considered drinking a smart trick, had driven the car over a steep precipice. This whole experience has haunted me for weeks. It is one that should be a lesson for all but, of course, it won't be. Even some of those who read these lines will do so with a laugh up the sleeve for, what they consider Sunday school preaching, and go on with their particular drinking stunts until they, too, have some terrible experience. Then they will wrine, "Why did you let me do it?" or "I wasn't myself when it happened," or "I didn't mean anything by it."
Any excessive drinking is bad business, but excessive student drinking is especially bad because college men are supposed to have a little more of the gray material at the ends of their spines and also to have stronger spines.
RAYMOND E. MANCHESTER, Dean of Men.

Abolish Bonfires?
A general mix-up and almost a pitched battle between the freshman and sophomore classes resulted last Thursday night while the two classes were gathering material for their traditional battle of bonfires which is held every year the night before Homecoming.
We were unable to find the real reason for the fighting or who started it, but at any rate a fight resulted that very well might have ended in disaster. The sophomores claimed the freshmen had burned up their pile of wood and trash and were determined to return the favor. The freshmen insisted that they had not set the sophomore pile on fire and were equally determined to guard their own. During the resulting conflict fists, stones, and sticks flew through the air with the greatest of ease, and burning, gasoline-soaked rags flew around like skyrocket on the fourth of July. All of which did not add much to the comfort and safety of the participants.
In the future, the only way that we see to stop this annual conflict on the night before the bonfires are supposed to take place is to prevent the two classes from collecting any bonfire material before the day of the bonfire. This year the infantry had to attend to several boys who were injured, and they were lucky that none were seriously hurt. We must either abolish the bonfire or limit activities to one day.

Stealing

While we believe that practically every State College Student is fundamentally honest, in a community of 2,500 there are bound to be a few who will steal anything they can get their hands on.
We have received several reports of such activities here on the campus, and we advise all students to keep their rooms locked and not to leave money and valuables within easy reach of the thief. We hope that outsiders are the guilty ones, but in our large college community it is often difficult to recognize intruders.
There can be no excuse for stealing. In our opinion it is one of the lowest forms of crime. There is only one penalty for stealing at State College—immediate dismissal from school. If you catch a thief, turn him over to the Student Council without a moment's hesitation. He will get exactly what he deserves. There is no place for a common thief on the State College Campus.

OPEN FORUM

Editor's Note: While we generally refuse to print any Open Forum letter without a signature, we believe we are justified in withholding, at his request, the name of the author of the following letter.
Dear Editor:
It was my pleasure to witness the State-Carolina football game of last Saturday. I had expected to see an ordinary game with the usual crowd and cheers; but I must confess that I was genuinely surprised, not only by the great show of power displayed by your team, but also by what I now regard as the greatest fighting spirit and most colorful and enthusiastic cheering I have ever witnessed on any college campus.
All this was particularly commendable because State College demonstrated that in spite of a difference of college appropriations, alumni, and finances (which really determine the status of athletic teams) an unsurpassable college spirit is present on your campus. Your team and your student body are to be congratulated for achieving an intangible goal which every school strives for, but which few ever attain. More power to you!
A CAROLINA ALUMNUS, '40.

BEHIND THE MIKES

By JACK THURNER AND ALBERT JOHNSON
Joe Venuti, America's greatest swing violinist, is being considered to play for the Interfraternity Council dances, Nov. 15-16. Venuti used to play in such hands as Whiteman, Goldkette, and Beiderbecke but has been fronting his own band for the last few years, taking out time to appear in "Garden of the Moon." The band has not made any recordings to date, but has just finished a four-week engagement at Frank Dale's Meadowbrook, where he was given a return ticket for this fall. The band features novelty and swing numbers and has three trumpets, two trombones, four saxes and three rhythm with Lew Campbell and his trombone being outstanding. Kay Starr, his vocalist, has made records for Glenn Miller and Bob Crosby.
Did you know that Will Bradley's real name is Wilbur Schweitchelour? Bradley and Barry McKimley is to make some new recordings for Brunswick next week. Ella Fitzgerald has just completed twenty-six, sides including "So Long." America's earliest jitterbug is the writer of "Stardust" Artie Shaw and his Grammy Five; new records, "Special Delivery Stomp" and "Keeping Myself For You," come out Saturday. Jack Leonard, Dinah Shore and Tommy Dorsey are the favorite record artists at Meredith, Peace and Saint Marys. Lionel Hampton is starting a new swing band... NBC and CBS have started a rule enforcing all bands to play three B.M.I. tunes on every half hour broadcast.
The U. S. Marine Band has played at every presidential inauguration since Thomas Jefferson's. Eddie Duchin is on this week's Fitch's Bandwagon.
The Turntable:
Count Basie's "The World Is Mad" part one and two is the best Basie record in a long time. It's similar to "No Name Jive" with a lot of Buddy Tate and Lester Young tenor. Sonny Burke's "Jimmy Meets the Count" and "Blue Sonnets" are County Basierides sides with Mitchell Trumpet featured on both sides. John Kirby's "Andalou" and "Blue Petite" have a lot of good swing piano parts. Will Bradley's contribution to boggiewogge this week are "Scrub Me Mamma With a Boogie Beat" and "Rock a Bye the Boogie." These are practically all Freddie Slack piano and Ray McKinley's vocals. "Scramble Two" is a real good ride-out tune with all sections featured.
On the sweeter side Tommy Dorsey contributed four pretty sides "When You're Awake," "Shadows On the Sand," "Two Dreams Met," and "You're Breaking My Heart All Over Again." Tommy's pretty trombone and Frank Sinatra's vocal make these sides very good. Connie Haines does the vocal on "Two Dreams Met." Larry Clinton "I Hear Music" and "Dancing On a Dime" are pretty ensemble numbers with a Peggy Mann vocal on "I Hear Music" and Terry Allen on the other. Blue Barron after a long stay from records returns with a good recording of "You Walk By" and "It's 8 O'Clock." Artie Shaw's "Old, Old Castle in Scotland" and "If It's You," have pretty Anita Boyer vocal and Artie's exciting clarinet. Dolores O'Neill with Bob Chester does a fine job on "Ariste My Love" and "You're Breaking My Heart All Over Again." Tony Pastor, who has most of Artie Shaw's old band, features his own tenor sax on "You're Never" and "I Want to Live." Three boys and a girl do "You're Never" and the Pied Piper style while "I Want to Live" is a good rideout tune. This is a very good record.
Bix Beiderbecke's Album is the newest swing classic album. Among the best musicians that jazz has ever known appear on these sides which predominantly features Bixes cornet. "Goose Pimples," "For No Reason at All in C," "Sweet Sue," "The Swell," "Louisiana," "Ol' Man River," "Wa Da Da," and "Royal Garden Blues."

PSEUDO PACIFISTS
From The Maryland Diamondback
"Want of War" is the title of a press release just received in our office stating the American Student Union's plan for a walkout in 110 universities throughout the nation in protest against the nation's peacetime conscription program. This press release, sent to every college editor in the country, informs us that students will resist such militaristic advances as the installation of compulsory ROTC on new camps, the military service pledge required of CAA students, and the curtailment of the college curriculum to make room for military training, with reason and courage.
With courage, perhaps, but not with reason. It is almost impossible to conceive that so many students could possibly be hoodwinked into believing that the very program which may save their lives if war ever comes to this country, is being turned against them to make this nation a totalitarian state.
In examining the points, mentioned above, on which the American Student Union bases its argu-

GLEANINGS

I don't seem to know when to let well enough alone. Yes, this time I asked Henry to let me write Gleanings. Oh, well, I am a glutton for punishment.
The reason I wanted to write this article this week was to thank the entire student body for its splendid cooperation in the Homecoming celebration. To me the week from October 14 through October 19 was the most outstanding week we have had since I have been at State College. Each class had its part to do in the various events and without that part the week would not have been successful. . . . Freshmen, your pep and enthusiasm were a delight to behold and it made it very easy to plan some of the events around you. . . . Sophomores, your willingness and helpfulness made the load lighter for those who were doing the planning. . . . Juniors, your splendid cooperation and willingness to follow will stand you in good stead next year. . . . Seniors, your ability and leadership will be hard to match, and you seem to have all the characteristics of making everything run smoothly. . . . Members of the faculty, your encouragement played a big part in leading to the success of the week. . . . and last, but by no means the least, the City of Raleigh, your reception to all the ideas that the seniors gave was a stepping stone to a greater cooperation between State College and the City. I do not recall of any time during my stay at State College that the City of Raleigh has helped us celebrate as it did during the past week. (Of course, some of you "ole-timers" may give us some history of the "good old days.")
More concerning the help we received from the city—I understand that the City wishes to make Homecoming an annual celebration in what you would call a co-sponsorship of Homecoming. I would suggest to the student leaders to grab at this opportunity if it should come our way. There are so many things that the city and State College should work together in, but we seem never to get around to it because we are both so busy. Just a little effort will "bring home the bacon."
If I were to attempt to say anything about the game Saturday, I am afraid I would spoil all the nice things that the various sports writers have been saying about us. I feel all the adjectives have been used. All I can say is that this is the first football team to bring tears to my eyes. May I say to you that you are a swell bunch of boys and State College (faculty and student body) is proud of you as it has never been proud of a group of boys before. I hope you realize this and will keep your splendid fighting spirit and clean sportsmanship that you have displayed so far this year. Let me also add that this is the first team to get my wife so excited that she grabbed the wrong person when the 85-year run was being made. Ask Ed Glenn about it, or he might have been so excited that he didn't even notice.
I suppose when some of you read this you will think that they have never had a successful celebration at State College. That isn't the question, for there have been successful ones here, and as for you who will have charge of the affairs in the future, you will improve each event as it comes along for you will have the experience of those ahead of you, but the point I want to bring out is that the spirit, the cooperation, and the success of this Homecoming surpasses all others.
There are a couple of units I forgot to mention in my second paragraph about whom I feel the same way I do when I try to write something about the football team. They are the fraternities and the dormitories. You always come out on top in your department. I would have hated to be one of the judges, for when I rode around to look at your decorations it was hard for me to decide which I would have chosen. I congratulate the winners and also the losers for the originality and beauty of your decorations.
Well, that is all I wanted to say, but Henry told me if I took the article I had to turn in two and a half pages of typewritten material, and here I am with only a page and a half. I do want him to put my appreciation of what you have done in the paper; therefore, I shall change the subject and talk about something else.
Let's try an answer and question game. Here is the idea: There have been quite a few of you, mostly freshmen, who have been asking questions concerning the school. Now some of you are bashful and do not like to ask questions, and I know you have wondered the same things that your other classmates have asked. Here goes:
Question: Does assembly count as a cut?
Answer: All regularly scheduled assemblies count as cuts. It doesn't make any difference whether you are a freshman, sophomore, junior, or senior, you each will receive a cut if you miss your respective assembly. If you are an upperclassman and have a class scheduled at assembly time, the assembly takes precedence over the class. You will not receive a cut on the class if you attend assembly. (Goodness, I did not know it took so much space to answer that question.)
Question: How many cuts will put me on probation?
Answer: Ten (10) cuts in any one term, or twenty (20) cuts in any one year, or sixty (60) in your four years. Now this answer calls for an explanation. If you will note, I said 10 in any one term. Ten in any one term doesn't mean that you can cut 9 classes each term of your first year and still be all right, for when you reach the total of 20 for the year you are placed on probation. There are quite a few seniors coming up this year with only 1, 2 or 3 cuts for the entire year, for they have a total of 59, 68, or 67.
Question: Will we be warned when our cuts get too high?
Answer: The responsibility of knowing how many cuts you have is placed on you. As I said before, this office is always trying to help students, but you cannot begin to realize the duties we have in the office. We hate to see a student get into trouble; therefore, we make an effort to contact you when your cuts reach the limit. However, some of you go over the limit before we can reach you, and too often times our work gets so heavy that we do not have the time to contact you. I repeat, the responsibility is yours, and our part in the matter is only a courtesy to you.
Question: When is the last time I can drop a course?
Answer: November 2 is the last time to drop a course without a failure. Please see your adviser before you drop a course. Do not think that you can tell your professor that you are dropping the course and that is the end of it. You have to go through a ritual that begins with your adviser and ends with the registration office.
Well, here are three pages; so I'll go back to my work, no small part of which seems to be convincing the freshmen that I am a Dean and not a student.

FROM THIS ANGLE

The last war whoop had died away and before us lay the ruins of the battle . . . the battlefield was littered with paper . . . Carolina's mighty Tar Heels had eked out a 13-7 victory over Doc Newton's boys and now that everyone had departed the scene of battle only the steady rattle of typewriters and purr of the telegraph keys from the press box broke the deadly silence.

The hallyhoo boys—better known perhaps as sports writers—weren't concerned so much with that 13-7 score. No one but the bookies notice the score in a game such as the one that thrilled the hearts of those 17,000 Carolina and State fans last week. The typewriter keys spelled out a different story. It was all about one play.

What a Play!

That play came nearer to embarrassing Carolina alumni than anything that State College has done in a long time. Doc Newton's Wolfpack was backed up against their own goal line and, unless the unbelievable happened, there they must remain. Then the unbelievable happened . . . Dick Watts in punt formation . . . the ball went to Pat Fehey in the bucking position . . . Watts faked his punt . . . Fehey spun and dropped back into the end zone . . . then like a shot he passed to Watts who had gone into the flats . . . Dick was off for a good gain but hardly past the 20-yard line he met a horde of Tar Heel tacklers. . . . Watts turned as he was about to be tackled and shoveled a lateral to Fehey who had followed the play . . . Dick East took out the last possible tackler, it seemed, with a neat block . . . Pat was away with a clear field ahead . . . then the surprising luck of the Tar Heel team changed . . . Jim Lalanne, like a bolt from the blue, took up the chase. . . . Lalanne had just entered the game and overtook the tired Pat on the 16-yard line. . . . That is the story of how it happened.

Here's My Little Tale.

The little tale I have just related to you has been told over and over by every sports editor, columnist and Monday morning quarterback in these parts.

I'm going to relate another yarn that the majority of them supposedly missed . . . my little tale begins just about two minutes before that spectacular play aforementioned. From the press box where I sat I watched two spectators in the end bleachers to the north engaged in a conversation . . . both seemingly well convinced his argument was the best . . . and from what we could ascertain both were well stewed . . . our characters stood up so they wouldn't hit the other spectators in their hand movements . . . soon they were down on the ground standing face to face . . . then from out that same blue that Lalanne booted, one of the debaters let fly a haymaker and the affirmative replied with a similar attempt . . . unable to combat the intoxicating affects of the intoxicant, they soon were lambasting each other lying on the ground . . . the cops came arunning . . . then Watts dropped back in punt formation . . . the ball went to Fehey in the bucking position, . . . and from here on the story is the same that the hallyhoo artists far and wide have told.

Here, There and Elsewhere

Charlie Wheatley, publicity agent for Scabard and Blade, dropped into the office as I was tearing my hair over this weekly bugaboo with word that the Scabard and Blade unit from Mississippi State was sending its fancy drill platoon down for the game this week. . . . He tells me they have a cadence of two hundred steps per minute and take six-inch steps . . . that should be real good if we can keep that congregation of musicians headed by Major Kutichinski off the field long enough at half time . . . someone please pass the word on to him.

Whisper, Little Bird

A little bird whispered in my ear the other day that a well-known, sports-dressed publicity agent on the campus may undergo the strain of a blessed event sometime in the near future.

Tony DiYesso was in town last week . . . he is assistant coach of football at Fayetteville High School . . . they whipped Edwards Military Institute last Friday, 19-7 . . . Remember Edwards Military Institute? . . . They were the boys who demonstrated their abilities of precision in military here last year . . . they are being invited up for a performance at the Furman game next week . . . that's high school day, by the way.

Everyone Agrees 'Pack Was Tops Last Saturday

Newspaper Comment Wipes Out Unpleasant Memories; Press Unanimous in Praise.

Campus comment is pretty unanimous on last Saturday's bout with Carolina. It was the first game in a long, long time that State really had a team out there fighting with all its heart for victory. There's been other Wolfpacks and other Carolina games—but the 1949 brand will be hard to find again.

Press and radio comment is also unanimous in praise. Let's look at a few "quotes" and let the memory of the many times we've seen other thoughts be wiped from our memory.

Walter Logan, United Press Writer, 10/22:

Give us a big heavy team with the fighting spirit shown Saturday by N. C. State, put Jim Lalanne of Carolina in the backfield, and we'll play Notre Dame the first period, Tennessee the second, Texas Aggies the third, and anyone you'd care to name in the fourth.

Add Penfield, WPTF Director of Sports, 10/21:

There were a lot of "ifs" about that game . . . but "almost" doesn't count in football or in anything else. But even the most enthusiastic Carolina fan will tell you that there were times during that cold rainy afternoon that his collar was damp and his brow moist—and it wasn't the rain. You couldn't keep from admiring that close-knit clan of red shirted kids who battled their hearts out against a foe of admittedly superior strength.

Undeclared Aggies Tangle Country Lads

Large Crowd Expected In Saturday Grid Clash

Gobs of People from UNC-Tulane and Duke-Wake Forest Games Coming Over

Thousands of football fans who will attend the Carolina-Tulane homecoming game at Chapel Hill and the Duke-Wake Forest battle at the latter place, both on Saturday afternoon, are expected to pour into Raleigh Saturday night for the football engagement between undefeated Mississippi State and the crafty country boy Wolfpack of North Carolina State.

Business Manager John Von-Glahn of N. C. State said today that many fans already have included the game here in their plans. As a matter of fact, reservations for the Wolfpack-Maroon game began arriving here the latter part of August and while there has been no big rush for reserved seats, a steady sale of tickets for this game has been going on since late summer.

The double-barrelled double-header attraction will come to a close with two teams using much the same type of play, for Mississippi State, like their country cousins from North Carolina, have an attack based on the Tennessee style of offense. Their coaches, Allyn McKeen, Murray Warmath and Bowden Wyatt all learned their football A, B, C's under Major Bob Neyland at Tennessee.

While the Wolfpack only recently began to master this colorful type of football, the Mississippians began hitting on all six a year ago and during the past two years have lost only two games, each by seven points, to Auburn and Alabama. This year Auburn had to come from behind to gain a 7-7 tie and the Maroons will have to wait until November 30 to even up with Alabama.

Prognostications Tough This Week

Ray Reeves, WRAL Sports-caster, Goes Out on the Limb With These Eighteen Selections

By RAY REEVES

Dear Bill: You asked for this, so here 'tis: Tulane-Carolina: Our choice is Tulane by a whisker. The Green Wave after some early season setbacks is starting to roll.

Duke-Wake Forest: If they are in the humor, the Demon Deacons can take this one. However, strictly on past performances, the Blue Devils get our nod.

Texas A & M-Baylor: Texas A & M in our estimation is the No. 1 team in the country—so a plurality for Texas.

Holy Cross-Brown: Brown will be trying but Holy Cross will do the scoring.

Washington-California: Bear a steak with Bordelaise Sauce will be the entree in Seattle Saturday night.

UCLA-Oregon State: The Uclans should break into the win column on this one.

Columbia-Syracuse: Old Bill Orange seems to be able to win this year on only every other Saturday. The Lion's tail is due for a twist.

Cornell-Ohio State: The Buck-eyes, after two defeats in a row, are going to be mighty tough. However, our vote goes to the Big Red of Cornell.

Harvard-Dartmouth: Why do I have to pick this one? It hurts, but the truth is that Harvard has the better team.

Detroit-Villanova: Looks like a toss-up. We'll take Villanova.

Duquesne-Manhattan. Manhattan should worry the lads from the smoke city for a while but not for long.

Tennessee-Florida: Tennessee all the way, but don't take my word for it. Ask Herman or Babe.

Fordham-St. Mary's: The Ram appears to be good and the Galloping Gaels from the Moraga Valley, according to all reports, are trotting this year.

Georgetown-N. Y. U.: Some years you just can't lay up a cent now. That's the way it is with the Fading Violets this year. Georgetown won't spare the horses.

State-Mississippi State: After gazing long into the crystal ball the vision has become blurred, so you pick this one.

Coach Hickman urged that all track men get their equipment and start working out. The more work done before Christmas the better the results next spring. This applies especially to the distance men. Hickman wants all boys interested in being managers to see him immediately.

Mural Musings

By JIM MacDOUGALL

Football had another big week and much interest was shown in all the games. The Lambda Chi Alpha beat the Phi Kappa Tau, 6 to 0. Bill Morrison passed to Bill Edwards for the score. "Cockey" Cochran and Dick Geil looked for the Phi Kappa Tau.

The S. P. E.'s with John Boger passing and Jim Burnham's running were too much for the Sigma Nu's, and the S. P. E.'s won, 19 to 0. Bill Noyes was a standout in the line for Sigma Nu.

Again the Pi Kappa Phi's had hard luck. H. S. Gibbs ran 75 yards on a punt return for a touchdown without a hand being laid on him. The point is not the fine run, but the fine sportsmanship of Gibbs accepting an error called on his teammate for clipping from behind.

As the game ended the Sigma Pi's won, 6 to 0. Nelson Strawbridge and George Bason were standouts.

"Doc" Rodriguez was the "sparkplug" of the A. L. T.'s as he led his team to a 7 to 0 victory over the A. L. T.'s. Jim Graham was a powerhouse for the A. L. T.'s in the line.

2nd "A" with Fred Suther, "Big Boy" Williams and Arnold Katterman beat out Upper South in a hotly-contested game which was decided by first downs, since the score ended, 0-0.

5th dorm. lost one to 3rd "A" on first downs also. Neither side could penetrate each other's defense. Ben Lubin and Flake Veach were tricky for 3rd "A."

Ray Smith's 3rd 8th boys lost another game to 2nd 8, 12 to 0. "Buck" Benny passed for one touchdown and ran for the other in leading 2nd 8th to victory.

Mahone and Rightmyer proved to be the stars for 9th dorm when they beat 4th 8th, 14 to 0.

6th Dorm, Upper South and 3rd 7th all won, 1 to 0, by forfeits. Leisure sports are going off well.

Wolflets Seek Third Win; "Bo" McMillan Is Out With A Hip Injury and Will Not Play In Game Tonight

Dr. Bob Warren and his freshman blitzkrieg will leave the campus this afternoon for Greenville to do battle with the eleven from Eastern Carolina Teachers College. Heading for their third consecutive win, the Wolflets will be without the services of their crack quarterback, "Bo" McMillan. The versatile tailback is out with a hip injury.

Reports have it that the Greenville crew has one of the best teams they have had in the history of the school. Their record this season shows three wins and one defeat. They opened the season with a victory over the heavily favored Tutuola Teachers to the tune of 14 to 6. Wilson Schuerholtz, sparkplug of the Pirate team, thrilled the customers with a 98-yard run after a pass interception that put the Teachers out in front.

The Techlets are in good shape and rarin' to go with the exception of McMillan. Calloway and Ermalovich are still on the injured list and they won't see action for a while.

The game will be played in the Greenville Baseball Park. Kick-off time is 7:30.

Iowa State College is ready to supervise training of more than 1,000 technicians for national defense purposes this year.

EVERYONE AGREES

(Continued from Page 3) Anthony J. McKeelin, Sports Editor News and Observer, 10/20: We've put the "almos" ahead of the scoring, for these "almos" provided fans with thrills matching any of a thrill-studded game. And these "almos" will be the subject of football chinefsats for years to come—especially will the fans be talking about that fancy play on which the Techs shook Peckley loose and on which Lalanne ran down Pat after even probably Coach Ray Wolf of the Tar Heels was convinced that only a stroke of lightning from heaven or a heart-attack could head off the touchdown-bound State star.

Jake Wade, Sports Editor Charlotte Observer, 10/20: You could sense it in the cold, damp air, that spirit had come to State. Spirit in the student body, and spirit in the ranks of the cleated football warriors. The two usually run hand in hand. North Carolina's doughty Tar Heels had to turn on all their steam, a devastating power attack, to come from behind and vanquish the most talented and spirited North Carolina State Wolfpack team turned out here in years.

"It is not a lobbying scheme and will not be pursued in high pressure method. We will make an effort to acquaint those in charge of war industries and activities of the resources and possibilities of North Carolina and to do our utmost to see that the State gets comparable benefits from expenditures which are made and in which we will be prepared to render one hundred per cent value for every dollar received."

Special effort will be made, he added, to procure industries which will survive "after the feverish activities of war-time preparation are over." "Our view is that North Carolina has no many advantages to offer for the long range industry that we ought to be able by virtue of these connections to attract many of such industries to this State."

AT THE AMBASSADOR

A highly colorful and dramatic event in motion picture history takes place next week at the Ambassador Theatre when Walter Wagner's latest film production, "Foreign Correspondent," opens for four days. Brilliantly directed by Alfred Hitchcock, master of screen mystery and suspense, "Foreign Correspondent" must be put down by this reviewer as the thrill spectacle of the year, a motion picture which unrolls gripping drama, breath-taking excitement, red-blooded romance and high-pitched intrigue.

"Foreign Correspondent" is played brilliantly by a top-notch cast headed by Joel McCrea, Laraine Day, George Sanders, Robert Benchley, Albert Basserman and Herbert Marshall. Its story, which unravels on the screen with amazing speed and tempo, keeping the audience on tenterhooks, concerns a crime reporter on a New York daily who is dispatched to Europe to dig up facts. The reporter, played masterfully by Joel McCrea, digs up more than he bargains for, cracking open an international intrigue that has never before been matched on the screen for thrills and excitement.

The final scene in "Foreign Correspondent," showing a huge Clipper plane shot down from the air and the sea disaster which follows has never before been equalled in pictures for the brilliance of its photography, the smashing impact of its drama, and the daring of its realism.

UNDEFEATED AGGIES

(Continued from Page 3) Coach McKeen will bring one of the most talented groups of athletes in all Dixie to Raleigh. They are headed by Buddy Elrod, a senior end who has allowed not a single first down around his flank in two years; Harvey Johnson, a triple-threat back whose critics say is headed for all-America honors to be heaped on shoulders that already hold up the individual scoring championship of the Southeastern conference, and Bloddy John Black, high school sprint champion and one of the nation's fastest wing-backs, not to mention a big, fast moving, hard-smacking line.

This will be the third meeting of the teams. The Wolfpack won in 1930 by a count of 19-0 and in 1931, 6-0. However, there is apt to be a different tale when the teams leave Riddick Stadium Saturday night, according to all reports from the southeast.

Registration at Kent State University (Ohio) hit 2,536 to break all records.
