VETERANS OF THE PHILIPPINES

Veterans of the Philippines are Colonel Thomas W. Brown, commandant, and Colonel Albert S. Peake, right, new member of the State College military staff. Both have seen service in the Philippines and have high respect for the Filino's fighting qualities. Colonel Peak went there in 1908 as commandant of the Moro constabulary on the Sulu Archipelago, while Colonel Brown served in the islands a few years earlier. Colonel Peake, who served overseas in France and Germany in the last World War, is now serving as executive officer of the State College ROTC. Last year he commanded the 22nd Infantry of the Fourth Division, motorized, and previously was commanding officer of Fort McClellan, Alabama.

Sibert Announces New Honorary Frat

A chapter of Pi Tau Sigma, national honorary mechanical engineering fraternity, will be installed at State College tonight. J. B. Sibert of Winston-Salem, president of the recently-formed group, announced today.

Dean Blake R. Van Leer, head of the School of Engineering; Prof. L. L. Vaughn, head of the Department of Mechanical Engineering; and Prof. R. B. Rice of the mechanical engineering department, who is faculty adviser to the chapter.

Object of the national fraternity is "to foster the high ideals of the engineering profession, to stimulate interest in coordinate departmental activities, and to promote the mutual professional welfare of its members."

In addition to Sibert, officers of the charter group are Kenneth L. Wommack of Winston-Salem, vice president; E. T. Light of Haddonfield, N. J., treasurer; N. B. Fisher of Vanceburg, Ky., corresponding secretary; H. W. A. Derlin of Moorestown, N. J., recording secretary.

Other student members are A. M. Rhyme, H. V. Latham, L. M. Fendt, N. K. Lee, J. R. Truitt, P. G. Baker, D. J. Hanes, T. B. Ledbetter, and W. M. Jordan.

All of the charter members are seniors. Sibert said an initiation of selected junior members, to carry on the organization next year, would be held about a month following the installation.

North Carolina Industrial Institute To Map Increased Production Plans

Representatives of the War Production Board and other authorities on industrial problems will appear on the program of the North Carolina Industrial Institute at State College April 3-4, Dean Blake R. Van Leer, head of the School of Engineering, announced today.

Purpose of the Industrial Institute, Dean Van Leer said, "is to aid the prosecution of the war and increase the efficiency and productive capacity of North Carolina industries by making available to them the latest information from State and Federal agencies which will enable these industries to adapt themselves more quickly and more efficiently to the war economy now prevailing."

Every industry in the State is invited to send an official to the institute. There will be no cost.

WPB representatives on the program include, Douglas MacKeachie, director of the purchase division; A. D. McIntyre of Atlanta, Ga., assistant to the chief of the field operations bureau; Irving Hall of Raleigh, director of contract distribution for North Carolina; Dr. Joseph W. Roe, special consultant to WPB.

Registration will begin at 9 o'clock Friday morning, April 3, in the College Y. M. C. A. auditorium, and the program will begin at 10 o'clock.

C. S. Tatum, president of the Pilot Mills of Raleigh, will preside over the first session, which will be devoted to relationships between North Carolina industries and the Federal government. The afternoon session April 3 will be presided over by Mayor Richard S. Reynolds of Winston-Salem and the general subject will be "War Tools and Labor."

T. Austin Finch of Thomasville, president of the Thomasville Chair Co., will preside over the final session Saturday morning, April 4. The general theme will deal with training available to employees of North Carolina industries.

Speakers will describe what the Federal government wants and needs from the industries of North Carolina, how to secure materials for a war contract and how to secure a war production contract.

"This institute," Dean Van Leer said, "should be a great timesaver to the industries of North Carolina and the Federal and State agencies which need to inform these industries as quickly as possible concerning the new laws and regulations pertaining to war production, priorities, contracts, defense, safety, labor and training matters which will affect every industry in the State."

Copies of the program may be secured from Director Edward W. Ruggles of the State College Extension Division.

More Calls For Coeds; Needed To Replace Men In Defense Jobs

Percentage Of Girls On Campus Probably To Increase To Fill Demand For Women Engineers

Calls for women engineers to fill important jobs in the nation's war effort continue to put into the office of Dean Blake R. Van Leer, head of the School of Engineering at State College.

Latest plea for help came from Capt. C. E. Harland of the Navy Department's Bureau of Ships, who said jobs paying from $2,400 to $2,600 annually are open in the bureau for this year's engineering graduates with no experience.

"Although we need engineers of all types, we are particularly desirous of getting in touch with women who have degrees in engineering," Capt. Harland wrote to Dean Van Leer. "Most of the positions in this bureau are of such nature that women can be used to excellent advantage, and we should be glad to have the names of those women whom you feel to be available."

Dean Van Leer replied that all of the 170 seniors in the School of Engineering already are committed to the Army, Navy or some defense industry upon graduation, with those going into the Navy to receive commissions as ensigns for shore construction work.

"Concerning the question of trained women engineers," Dean Van Leer said, "I am afraid that the Navy, along with most of the defense industries, have started considerably too late on this."

"Up until a short while ago most of the industries would not employ women and therefore a woman had very little encouragement to study engineering. As a result of this, we graduated our first woman engineer last June. We now have four or five who are studying engineering and one will graduate this coming May in architectural engineering, but it will be a year or two longer before we can turn out any more."

In recent months the State College School of Engineering has received many requests for women engineers to help fill the thousands of technical positions now open. Before the calls started coming in, Dean Van Leer had been emphasizing the inducements and opportunities for women in engineering. The girl who graduated in aeronautical engineering last spring now holds a lucrative job in Washington, selecting it from several attractive offers made to her.

Pat Gaskins Addresses Textile Senior Class

Phipps And Bird Company Sends Representative To Campus For Discussion

An interesting talk was made to juniors and seniors in textile chemistry and dyeing on Wednesday morning by Pat Gaskins of the Phipps and Bird Co., Richmond, Va., on pH and its control.

The speaker was introduced by Prof. A. H. Grimshaw, head of the dyeing department of the textile school. Gaskins has been to this campus several times in the past few years and is noted as one of the foremost authorities in the country on pH and its control. He is a graduate of the department of chemistry at the University of North Carolina.

The speaker opened his talk by giving a brief history of pH, which is the concentration of hydrogen ions in a solution. He mentioned the early methods for determining pH and the method by which the scale of measurement was determined.

Included in his lecture were notes on the different electrodes used in various pH meters, such as the hydrogen electrode, the quinhydrone, the antimony, and the most recent discovery, the glass electrode.

Gaskins also spoke at length on the Coleman pH Electrometer, one of the machines using the glass electrode. He explained the theory of the machine, its wiring circuit, its use, and showed how the machine is taken down.

Gaskins has recently been promoted to general sales manager and will probably be unable to speak at this school in the future.

SECRETARY now in charge of the self-help office of the YMCA is Dwyer "Red" Umberger, below, senior in chemical engineering. He succeeds N. B. Watts, who was called to active duty in the Army as a reserve first lieutenant. Mr. Umberger's home is at Mt. Uila.

Major K's Glee Club In National Contest

Warblers To Compete Against 150 Schools In Chesterfield Contest

The State College Men's Glee Club is now being reorganized for the spring term's work, it was revealed Wednesday by C. D. Kutchinski, director of music on the campus. New members, or old members who wish to be reinstated, may join at once.

The Glee Club is entered in the National Glee Club Contest, sponsored by Fred Waring and Chesterfield cigarettes. Over 150 college university groups have already entered in the contest. Larry Lawrence, representative for Warbler's Pleasure Time, will be here on April 15 to assist and advise in the auditioning and cutting of records for use in the contest. The competition will continue until May, when the regional winners will meet in New York for the finals, Kutchinski announced.

The music director also announced that quite an extensive program has been scheduled for the Glee Club this term. On April 16, the Glee Club will sing at the student Convention for Social Service Workers, and plans are almost complete for the club to sing in Pullen Hall some time in April. The final appearance of the group on the campus will be made at commencement exercises in May.

Kutchinski announced that rehearsals will be held regularly at 6:30 on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights in Pullen Hall. Three unexcused absences will result in loss of membership privileges. Next Tuesday in the stadium for new members to join or old members to be reinstated.

Special Notice

Final installments on tuition and fees will be due on April 1st and should be paid on or before Friday, April 3rd, to avoid late fine.

Sigma Xi Sponsors Talk By Cornell Professor

In his highly technical address, Dr. Bethe described the interior of a star as like a giant atom-smasher. "Chemical reactions as we know them on earth, do not occur there," Dr. Bethe declared. "It is much too hot. The temperature at the middle of the sun is 20 million degrees centigrade, according to the theories of Eddington, Stromgren and others. But when nucleus meets nucleus, something like a chemical reaction occurs."

Prior to the lecture, Dr. Bethe was entertained at a dinner by Dr. B. W. Wells, president of the Sigma Xi Club, Dr. Hinkle and other officers of the club and members of the physics department at State College.

Dr. Bethe attended the University of Frankfurt and the University of Munich, receiving the Doctor of Philosophy degree at Munich in 1928. From then until 1933 he was engaged in instruction and research at Frankfurt, Stuttgart and Munich. In 1933-34 he was in England as lecturer at Manchester and as a fellow at Bristol. Since 1934 he has been at Cornell University.

Vote Light With Only 1380 Ballots Cast; Woody Jones Chosen To Receive Athletic Trophy; Kelly Receives 889 Votes For Editor Of The Wataugan

Late last night, at the end of one of the most colorful elections days ever held on this campus, it was revealed by Dud Robbins, president of the Student Council, that Larry Hardin of Salisbury had defeated Bob Boyce of Woodland by a count of 885 to 480 to become president elect of the Council. Under the constitution of the Council, Boyce will automatically become vice president since he was runner up.

The total votes cast have increased for the past several years except in this election, Robbins continued. The total did not add up to as great a number as in the final elections of last year, 1380 as compared to 1564, Robbins revealed, adding that this was undoubtedly caused by the drop in enrollment of the college.

Woody Jones of Roxboro, well-known three-letter-man of State College, was voted in as recipient of the Alumni Athletic Trophy, awarded each year to the outstanding senior athlete. Jones defeated Cutie Carter of Raleigh by a vote of 959 to 391.

Heads of two publications were also selected by the students in yesterday's election. Jimmie Kelly of Alma defeated Bill Boylan of New Bern for the editorship of the Wataugan, campus humor magazine. The count was 889 for Kelly to 478 for Boylan. Chosen as business manager of the Wataugan was Matty Hannon of Manchester, Mass., who defeated Bill Seawell of Greensboro by a count of 669 against 652 for Seawell.

The heads of THE TECHNICIAN were selected Monday, with Don Barksdale of Bluefield, W. Va., coming out on top with 736 votes. Runner-up in the race for editor of THE TECHNICIAN was Bob Pom-

In the last issue of THE Technician, the name of Claude Dawson, who is a candidate for business manager of the Agreement, was inadvertently omitted. THE Technician regrets this error.

Delegates will come from Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Florida, Dean Cloyd said.

The fraternity representatives will register from 2 to 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon, April 16, and will be welcomed to the college by Col. J. W. Harrelson, dean of administration. Dr. Hubert Potat of Wake Forest College will address an evening session starting at 8 o'clock.

Discussion leaders on the April 17 program will be Owens Rea of Wake Forest College; Roland B. Parker, assistant dean of students at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill; and Robert C. deRosset, Norfolk, Va., banker formerly of Raleigh. The conference banquet will be addressed by Robert B. House, dean of the University unit in Chapel Hill.

At the closing session Saturday morning, April 18, Dean Cloyd will give a summary of the findings and conclusions of the conference, followed by a discussion and luncheon.

Addison Hawley Will Head Ceramic Society

Addison Hawley, Jr., of Goldsboro has been elected unanimously president of the State College branch of the American Ceramic Society for the 1942-43 school year.

Other officers for next year are James E. Partlow of Oak Hill, Ohio, vice president; R. Jack Smith, Jr., of Goldsboro, reelected secretary; Richard Dammann, Amityville, N. C., treasurer; C. M. Steele, Statesville, junior representative to the Engineers Council; and Frank A. Rugh, Jr., of Jeannette, Pa., alternate representative.

Graham Here Monday To Address Students

Monday will be "Frank Graham Day" at State College, and students will once again have the privilege of seeing and hearing the well-known president of the Greater University of North Carolina.

Dr. Graham will arrive here sometime in the morning and will be received by "Y" Secretary Ed King and members of the committee on arrangements, composed of Hubert Willis, Walton Thompson, Jake Tings, and O. Max Gardner, Junior.

At 9 o'clock noon, the entire R.O.T.C. will march in a parade in his honor in the stadium, where the Greater University President will deliver a short address to the regiment and other members of the student body.

Colonel J. W. Harrelson has called a meeting of the faculty of the Y.M.C.A. auditorium for 4:30, where they will hear an address by Dr. Graham. At 7 o'clock he will be featured in a "fire-side chat" in the north end of the Y.M.C.A. His subject will be "Defense on the Home Front." Every student is invited to hear this presentation.

Previous to Graham's discussion that evening, members of the "Y" cabinet, the student council, and others will have supper with the president in the back cafeteria.

CAPITAL to CAMPUS

ACP's Jay Richter Reports from Washington

INCIDENTALLY . . .

It was late afternoon of a late February day. Talking together in the Washington office of OGD were James Ward, Pauline Redmond and Jane Seaver. Formerly students at Northwestern, the University of Chicago and Mount Holyoke—in that order. And now members of OGD's Youth Division.

I was listening.
(OGD) Director Landis was busy at the Capitol the same afternoon with an inquisitive committee of Congressmen.

"Mr. Daniels wants to see you," said an oftstage voice at OGD.
Ward, Redmond and Seaver jumped up, three as one, to dash out of the room.

Ward returned a few minutes later.
"We've been abolished," he reported excitedly. "Congress did it. Forget all that stuff we were talking about."

"I have never seen the justification for the Youth Section," Director Landis had testified a few minutes earlier at the Capitol. He had also hinted that youth leaders in OGD might soon find themselves out.

When the smoke had cleared a few days later, it appeared the Youth Division, as such, certainly was on its way out. A frill, in the eyes of Congress.

"But," said Ward, who is co-ordinator of college activities in the Youth Division, "we haven't been fired—yet."

He explained that a youth program of some sort will be continued. Just what will be its shape, and whether they will be there to shape it is what bothers the three young employes of OGD. Or are they?

WAR . . .

The Government is bringing the problem of shortages to the college students' door by way of consumer conferences, co-sponsored by colleges and the Office of Price Administration. They are being taught to be cagey "consumers" as well as smart consumers. The Chicago area conference, March 2 through 7, in which 20 colleges participated, is a case in point.

Similar sessions are in the planning stage. Specifically those at Western Reserve, Yassar, Goucher, Denison and Central YMCA. There is a possibility two more area conferences may take place, one on the west coast and one in the mid-west.

Some of the schools most successful in setting up thriving OGD College Defense Committees are the University of North Carolina, Northwestern, Occidental, Wayne University, Skidmore, Smith, University of Pittsburgh and University of St. Louis. Apparently the most difficult task at many schools is to keep the committees representative of the whole college family. The tendency often is for one faction or another to take over, according to the OGD office in Washington.

ON THE BIAS . . .

If there are any comforts to be had from war, one of them is the fact that it raises old Ned with bureaucrats who have taken root. New and younger government men have a way of upsetting old habit patterns.

MOLAR MALADY
There I sat in silent boredom,
Read the Dental Periodical.
(Why do dentists have to hoard em—
All these sheets so identical?)

I read;
It said:

"The survey of the Conley group
Was found to vary with the rest;
Their tests revealed that even groups
Is known in those whose teeth are best."

"And furthermore their work divided
That motor nerves within the jaw
Are least affected when they're bulged
Or weakened by a dental flaw."

This stuff
Was guff.

So then I read a Crime Detective:
". . . a darkened room. A shot!"
. . . a serial.
Wondered if a leak defective
Made the office stink etherial.

Then began some mental labor
As I pondered on the thought
"Do I need this dental labor?
Will he do just what he ought?"

"Is he qualified to serve me?
Will he hurt my tender gums?
Will the painning shock unnerve me?
Does he charge excessive sums?"

Sweat had soaked my shirt and collar,
Fear assailed my worried head.
"There's better ways to spend a dollar.
Than in this devil's den," I said.

And then a scheming thought began
Within my fevered, fearful brain.
And as I laid my little plan,
My sadness turned to joy again.

A recent graduate of Ohio State was making up a file to expedite his agency's work. Coming to "Miscellaneous," he discovered he was unable to spell the word. He promptly labeled that drawer of the file "Things" and went calmly on about his business.

Maybe you've noticed. A Selective Service ruling has it that men married since December 8, 1941, cannot be deferred on the basis of dependency unless they "prove the status was acquired under circumstances beyond the registrant's control."

"The circumstances escape me," remarked a recently-wed, ex-Marquette student.

I struggled to my shaking feet,
A smile lit up my scheming face;
This cunning dentist I would cheat,
I'd sneak from out his wicked place.
I reached the door without a sound,
And silently I looked around.
I heaved a sigh,
No one was nigh.
A minute and I'd reach the ground.
I touched the door-knob with my hand;
I turned it, opened in a strand.
But hark! The hall!
A soft foot-fall!
Would this prevent the fight I'd planned?
I hurried as my muscles flexed;
I heard no sound; I was perplexed.
The door swung wide;
I looked outside. . . .
"Oh, Mr. Witherby. . . . You're nest!"

More aluminum up there,
less in new telephones
— for VICTORY!

Many materials used in telephone making are listed as "critical" for war purposes. Bell Telephone Laboratories and Western Electric have redesigned apparatus and changed manufacturing methods to employ available materials.

Take aluminum. The reduction in its use in a year's telephone output is enough to build 294 combat planes. This program has been replacing critical materials at an annual rate of 7,747,000 pounds. Though it grows steadily more difficult to maintain as shortages increase, the program helps to meet the greatest demand in history for military and civilian communication equipment.

GLEANINGS

I suppose 'tis a bit late but since this is the first issue of The Technician since the tournament, congratulations are still in order to the N. C. State basketball team for the fine showing they made in spite of being pretty badly crippled up. Our hats are off to "Bones" McKinney for making the All-Tournament team and to Mock and Tabcott for making the second team.

It seems the Ag Barnwarming went off in the usual manner with everybody having a good time. Saw quite a few boys there that were not Ag students, too, among them were Jimmy "Vote for Me" Kelly and Don "Vote for Real Qualifications" Barksdale, who seemed to enjoy dancing with all the country boys' gals. We missed Larry "Keep 'em Voting" Hardin but we understand that he was the engineers' choice anyway. What gets us is how Jim Graham and his friends could afford to stay in the governor's suite down at the Sir Walter that week-end.

We heard the Beta Club Convention went over big, too. From the way Albert "Gabby" Banadyga talked about it those 'teen age girls were plenty cute. How old did you say your date was, Al, fourTEEN? Some boy told me what made Albert's date so cute was the way her eyes looked so lovingly into each other. Dean Cloyd had some of the student council members check by the Sir Walter every now and then to look after the State boys.

Quite a few students have asked why the boys who, it was rumored, were kicked out last term (for putting one of their fellow classmates under the shower) were not allowed a trial before the student council. We hear that the boys in question were already on scholarship probation which would automatically put them out of school without a trial if they were reported for any offense. Nevertheless, if your roommate gets to "smelling" whether you're on probation or not don't do any more than strongly hint that he has "B. O." and needs a bath or you are liable to find yourself thrown out of school for having since the administration has tightened down on us so much of late.

We can understand why Matty "Hand in Hand" Hannon wanted the business management of the Wataugan now. Rumor has it that Matty is going to become a (proud) papa. Maybe the mother will be able to get baby's milk down at the S. & W. Cafeteria too, Matty.

Orchids should go to Bill Leclouds for the fine floor show he arranged for the publications' party last term. Jack Tabcott's singing was probably the biggest surprise of the evening; he's as good at crooning as he is at basketball—you all know what he is like at basketball.

Six student council members left last night for Charlotte and the State Student Council Convention at Queen's College. Reece Seaberry is supposed to lead a group discussion on "Student Faculty Relations" and "Orientation." I can imagine Reece with a group of beautiful girls, but I don't imagine he'll be discussing either of the above subjects with them—not if I know Seaberry.

It seems that those boys who depend on a few alcoholic beverages for their relaxation had better beware. One of the social fraternities on the campus requested permission to hold its founders' day banquet at the Hotel Sir Walter tonight. In an answering letter, Dean Cloyd stated that permission would be granted providing the members of the fraternity and their dates would not frequent the Tavern at any time of the evening. Perhaps you've heard that several State College boys have gotten into trouble because they've become slightly inebriated and pulled a few dastardly crimes. Therein lies the reason for the close check on students after class.

Seems that our boys do get around the country in their spare moments. We've heard of several mild (?) house parties at Wrightsville and Carolina—rain or shine seems to make little difference. And we hear John Brinkley thumbed his way through Tennessee on a thousand-mile jaunt in the few days that we had for our vacation. What a crew!

I think I'd better end this column before I find myself in deep water . . . besides the business manager says he needs the space for ads (at last). The last man to write Gleanings had to write a few signed statements saying he did and didn't write it . . . so I think I'll sign it with a fictitious name and any similarity to persons living or dead is purely coincidental.

Terrors Meet Cornell On Diamond Monday

All-Tourney Posts Earned By Techs

Basketeers Brought Glory And Prestige to Themselves And to State College

A hard-fighting, spirited bunch of basketball Red Terrors, coached by Bob Warren, brought glory and prestige to themselves and to State College as they ended up in second place in the annual Southern Conference basketball tournament which was played in Raleigh, March 5-7.

After placing in a seeded fourth position in the season's regular play, and thus winning State's first conference tournament entry in three years, the Terrors drove hard through the first two games of the tourney, and only fell, in the finals, before a brilliant Duke quintet.

Bones McKinney, lanky sophomore center sensation who had previously won league high-scoring honors, distinguished himself throughout the series and easily won the center post on the official All-Conference team. Big Bernie Mock, soph forward who was ninth in conference scoring, and co-captain Jack Tabscott, junior guard, won positions on the second All-Conference five.

State 56; South Carolina 43 In the first game of tournament play, it was State all the way over the speedy South Carolina Gamecocks. The final tally was: 56-43.

Starting off as a see-saw battle for the first ten minutes, McKinney, Mock, and co-captain George Strayhorn started hitting the basket and brought forth a 24-16 lead for State at the half.

There never was any doubt in the second period. In a space of one minute and 50 seconds, Bernie Mock sank four consecutive field goals. Buck Carvalho, Russ Stevens and Jack Tabscott were also hot. Coach Warren used many substitutions and Bill Bell, Keith Almond, Jack Gell and Bud Balamoutis all saw action.

State 53; Wm. & Mary 52 Little Buck Carvalho produced an unbelievable layup shot worth four seconds of play remaining to give the Terrors a 53-52 edge over a gallant William and Mary team, in the series second game.

It was nip and tuck throughout most of the encounter, but with eight minutes left in the final period, the Techs were eight points ahead. Then led by brilliant Glen Knox, the Indians hammered away at the lead and went one point ahead with one minute left. Close guarding frustrated a State score until Carvalho pulled his favorite mile-a-minute throw in the closing seconds, to bring home the victory.

The Indians had knocked off George Washington in a real thriller the day before, but the press later named the State-W. and M. meeting as the tournament high-spot. Stevens and Tabscott were outstanding performers in addition to McKinney.

State 36; Duke 45

Weakened by the grueling competition in the first two days of play, Bob Warren's Terrors had only one good half left in them when the final battle rolled around. Duke had previously demonstrated unrivaled power as they trampled all opposition in the upper bracket.

A 19-20 score at half-time in favor of the Blue Devils brought glimmers of the championship to the State supporters, but the mighty Dukes, using two full teams, turned on steam in the closing period and took the title, 36-45. Against the ever-fresh Devils, with their senior regulars and their sophomore sensations, the Techs wilted considerably, but Mock, McKinney, and Tabscott maintained their steady, heady play to win the coveted All-Conference posts.

LEAVING APRIL 2 is "Bones" McKinney, "the finest basketball player to enter State in the past decade." He is bound for a session with Uncle Sam, in spite of the efforts of the athletic department to get him a deferment. "Bones" leaves a very enviable record behind him by leading the Southern Conference scoring with a total of 200 points in 13 conference tilts. He tallied 42 points in three tournament games and won the center's berth on the all-tournament team. Good luck, "Bones"!

Frank Owens Captains Tech Tennis Squad

Four Lettermen Returning To Lead Coach Green's Team In Nine-Game Schedule

State College's Red Terror tennis team faces a nine-game schedule this spring. Six of the nine matches will be played on the home courts here in Raleigh.

Coach R. W. Green has several promising candidates up from the frosh team of last season, who, coupled with the four veterans returning should give State a fairly good year on the courts.

Captain Frank Owens, of Charlotte, heads the list of those returning. Owens is a senior and has been an outstanding member of the net team for the past two years. He also was an end on the football team for three years.

A. A. Pruitt, Emmet Shoffner, and Eliot Winston are the three other returning lettermen. Jack Pinner, Jack Wall, J. H. Joyce, and M. D. Keeler, all sophomores, have shown up very well in drills lately and will likely see lots of action.

Coach Green's team opens their season in a dual meet with Cornell University in Raleigh on April 1.

MORGAN'S MUSINGS

By JIM MORGAN
Although the winter sports are practically forgotten by now, we still keep hearing comments from scattered sources on the Red Terror's court accomplishments. Not the least of these came to us last week by way of Jim Reid, WPTF Sports Director. A letter that came in his mail soon after the Southern Conference Basketball Tournament ended read like this:

24th Air Base Group
Borinquen Field
Puerto Rico
March 7, 1942

Dear Announcers:
Let me register another vote of appreciation for your work in the Southern Conference Tournament. The reception was fine here and although I'm a great distance from Raleigh, I was certainly pulling for that young, courageous team of Bob Warren's, the team that had enough of what it takes to calmly work for another basket after William and Mary had come from behind again for the second straight game.

The game tonight was hard fought and although State held Duke so well during the first half, Duke had too much for them in the second half.

It seems only a short time since I played for State in the South Carolina Tournament, but I have to admit that it was 1937.

Let me know if you had any listeners from a more distant camp.

The climate is swell here, sunshine every day, with a good breeze.

Signing off, stating again, that I got a big kick out of your broadcasts—

(Signed) NEILL M. DALRYMPLE.

The name, Neill Dalrymple, seemed to strike home, so to check up, I dug out the 1937 Agromec. Then I saw what it was that made the name sound familiar. Neill was, among other things, vice president of his senior class, vice president of Golden Chain, and four year baseball and basketball man. As a senior, he captained the court squad, and was named All-Southern Conference and All-Southern by the leading sports writers.

He may have been far away in the flesh when that tournament was being played—but you can bet he was right out on the court in spirit.

On The Diamond
Doc Newton has been officially quoted as saying that the baseball team really is hitting the ball in practice. And coming from Doc, that sounds pretty good, because he is usually rather tight-lipped on the subject of how his teams look before the season starts.

In an intrasquad game last week, the two teams were composed of Ray Hardee and Art Faircloth on the mound, Nevin Dayvault and William Flemming behind the plate, Hoot Gibson and Jimmy Holt on first, Gracie Wheeler and Robert Wood at second, Jack Singer and Josh Newborn at shortstop, Flucie Stewart and Russ Stevens on third, and Frank Craig, Ben Constant, Warren Bailey, Jim Carney, Charlie Fetner, and Ralph Heath in the outfield.

Some of the other strong contenders for varsity berths are Tom Turner, Buck Senter, Walter McPherson, Peanut Doak, C. F. Martin, Willie Horowitz, Carl Ballard, Alvin Knott, John Curtis, Glen Johnson, Carroll Hanson, Jack Council, Web Grouten, Stone Hough, W. P. Moore, H. C. Dixon, T. E. Burkett, and A. S. Goodman.

If you've gotten this far—thanks! For a sports column, this certainly isn't the best. However, it's a first experience, and time and practice will improve almost anything.

Track And Field Men Enter Carolina Relays

Jimmy McDougal And Bill Lambe To Be Co-Captains Of Hickman's Cindermen; Only Two Frosh Meets So Far

Opening their season by participating in the Carolina Relays at Chapel Hill on April 4 and closing out by taking part in the Southern Conference meet in Durham on May 15-16, between which are six dual meets plus the A.A.U. meet at Chapel Hill, Herman Hickman's

N. C. State Track squad looks forward to a busy season this spring. MacDougal takes part in both the high jump and hurdles events while Lambe is a quarter miler.

In all, the Terrors have a nine game slate. Assisting Hickman with the coaching will be Nig Waller and Ike Hanft, a member of last year's track team.

Hickman will take his boys on two out-of-state trips. One of these will be to Newport News, Va., for a meet with the Apprentice School and the other will be in Columbia,

State Team Out To Repeat Victory Of Last Year; Newton Happy About Team's Hitting

By HERMAN BLACKMAN
Cornell will provide the opposition for the State baseball team which opens a 19-game schedule Monday afternoon at Freshman Field.

Williams (Doc) Newton, head coach of football, again is coach of the Red Terrors. Newton was a pitcher in professional baseball until he became affiliated with the college coaching profession.

Coach Newton has been holding practice sessions since March 1. Although there is not an abundance of lettermen available, Newton has been pleased with the way the squad has performed in the practice sessions. He is especially happy about the manner in which the boys have been hitting. "Of course," he advises, "it might be that they haven't been batting against very good pitching."

Transportation difficulties cut the schedule to thirteen games. Some of the Northern teams advised J. L. VonGlahn, business manager of the athletic department, that they would be unable to come South this year as they have in the past.

Monday's contest with Cornell and a game with Hanes Knitters are the only non-conference engagements for the Terrors this spring.

One of the features of the schedule is the game on April 21 with Davidson which will be played in Lumberton. The contest will be part of the festivities arranged by Lumberton for the dedication of the city's new armory.

Six games will be played in Raleigh. The only out-of-state trip for the Terrors will be to Blacksburg, Va., where they meet Virginia Tech on May 13. The schedule comes to a close on May 15 when the Techmen journey to Davidson for a second game with the Wildcats.

The freshman squad as yet has only two meets slated. One other, probably with some military outfit, will likely be added later in the season. The freshmen will participate against Richmond University on April 11 in Raleigh and on the 25th they will take part in the A.A.U. meet at Chapel Hill.

FINAL ELECTION

In the election for Interfraternity Council officers, Montgomery Steele of Sigma Phi Epsilon defeated Norman Pease of Pi Kappa Alpha by the count of 165 to 77, to become president. For the office of vice president, Bruce Lutz of Delta Sigma Phi came out ahead of Jim Morgan of Pi Kappa Phi, with the count being 158 to 77.

Robbins stated that although the number of votes cast was not the heaviest in campus history, the election was certainly one of the most colorful. More banners and streamers were hung by the candidates than ever before.
