Quiet Observance To Mark Pearl Harbor Day Monday

Ceremony At Memorial Tower Will Commemorate December 7; ROTC Will Participate

The State College student body will observe Pearl Harbor Day on Monday, Dec. 7, with a serious ceremony to honor those alumni killed at Pearl Harbor or in other war action, or missing in the Philippines. The ceremony will take place at Memorial Tower between 12 and 1 o'clock.

The ROTC units are expected to form on their regular fields, and march to assigned positions near the Tower. No speeches will be made. After the blowing of taps, one minute of silence will be observed. The Navy has ordered all its installations except ships in action to observe this silence promptly at 2:20 P.M., Raleigh time, when the first bomb fell on Pearl Harbor last year, but because of the conflict on the campus it will be observed during the noon hour.

The military band will play Remember Pearl Harbor, and the Star Spangled Banner, which will be sung by the entire group assembled, and all will take the Oath of Allegiance.

Plans to have a Pearl Harbor Day on the campus were begun several weeks ago, and the original idea included a speech by a well-known personage. Phone calls were made to invite Philippine President Manuel Quezon, Lt. Com. Walter Winchell, and Sgt. Alvin York. President Quezon advised that illness prevented him from coming to Raleigh at this time, but he was anxious to come on some other occasion. He offered to send the Chief of Staff of his Cabinet.

Winchell stated on the phone after his broadcast last Sunday that he would have been most happy to have come, but that a special situation (which he requested to be kept as a secret until an announcement comes from the Navy Department) prevented him from doing so.

Sgt. York, invited both by wire and telephone, was most vehement in his objections to making a speech anywhere, and at any time. Making the arrangements were Bob Emeranz (chairman), Bill Womack, Bob Boyce, Addison Hawley, and Bob Dalton.

Those Failing To Come Back After Xmas Get Annual

Announcement has been made by Austin Lane that students who are sure that they will not return to school after Christmas can receive their Agroomeck by paying the remainder due on them at the Treasurer's office before leaving for the holidays.

The total cost of the annual is six dollars and of this amount two dollars was included in the fall term tuition fees. The picture for the book cost each student who had one made two dollars; if a student failed to have a picture made the amount owed the treasurer is only two dollars.

The name and address of any one desiring to receive his annual under this plan must be filed with the Agroomeck staff before the end of examinations.

According to Bob Dalton, editor of the yearbook, the Agroomecks will be ready for distribution in March for the graduating class. All of the pictures have been made and a great part of the work on the book has been completed.

Annual Barnwarming Last Dance Of Term

Strictly Formal—Overalls And Gingham; Pritchard Will Play

The final dance of the season will be presented tomorrow night with the Ag Club's 27th annual barnwarming in the Frank Thompson gymnasium at 8 o'clock. As in the past, the dance will feature couples dressed in gingham dresses and denim overalls. The music this year will be provided by Carl Pritchard and his orchestra. Although not widely known here, he has made himself a good reputation in the western part of the state.

Students in Agriculture can obtain their bids in Room 8, Syme Hall any time before 12 o'clock Saturday. Additional bids may be purchased here or at the door before the dance.

Sponsors for the Barnwarming are Miss Myrtle Peterson of Clinton with E. C. Berryhill, chairman of the dance committee, Miss Rosa Pecora of Bowden with J. B. Barnhill, Miss Christine Williams of Charlotte with Mack Patton, Miss Grace Sowers of Lexington with Archie Sink, Miss Merle Swain of Greensboro with W. E. Younts, Miss Nell Rachel Lewis of Parkton with Rudolph Pate, Miss Lucille Stephens of Raleigh with Herman Vernon, and Miss Ruth Black of Cherryville with Bruce Eaker.

Abe Upchurch, Skipper Of College News Bureau Lauded By Bulletin

Most students and all members of the college faculty know and appreciate the outstanding publicity which C. A. Upchurch, Jr., editor of the college's News Service, has obtained for State College doings in the last five years.

But a new high in recognition came last week when "the men who know publicity best," McNitts, Inc., the country's leading maker of newspapers, put cuts and mats, those Abe Upchurch's efforts to illustrate the best type of pictorial publicity in the country.

As the second issue of a special series of their College News Bureau Bulletin devoted to the best publicity methods used by colleges throughout America, McNitts asked Mr. Upchurch to tell of the procedure he uses in publicizing N. C. State College. The entire November issue of the Bulletin is given over to the article and illustrations of some of the most popular picture mats released through the News Bureau office lately.

And, in introducing the special article, this is what the McNitts editor has to say:

"We asked Mr. Upchurch, as one of the most successful college publicity men in the country, to give

Faculty Council Kills Interfraternity Group; Bust-Up Being Probed

Top Engineer To Talk To Combined Societies In Y Tuesday Night

Col. James L. Walsh Will Speak To Engineers' Council At 7:45

Colonel James L. Walsh, chairman of the Committee on National Defense of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, will speak to the engineering students in a combined meeting of the professional societies Tuesday night at 7:45 in the Y.M.C.A. auditorium.

The Raleigh Chapter of the ASME has arranged for Colonel Walsh to appear on the campus. The Engineers' Council is the sponsoring organization on the campus and have arranged for a banquet to be held in honor of the speaker Tuesday just before the talk. All plans have not been completed but it is expected that representatives from the ASME, the Mechanical Engineering department, the Military department, and the Engineers Council will be present at the banquet.

James L. Walsh was graduated from West Point and served in all ranks in the U. S. Army from Cadet to Colonel. He was awarded Distinguished Service Medal for exceptionally meritorious services on duty of great responsibility. He was awarded this medal on the recommendation of Major General C. C. Williams, chief of ordnance, and the approval of General John J. Pershing.

After the World War he was instrumental in organizing the Army Ordnance Association, and subsequently, he founded the magazine Army Ordnance in July 1920, and served as its editor for two years. In 1922 he entered business, and then organized the first peacetime Ordnance District which included the metropolitan New York area. He was district chief of this organization from 1923-1932 on a dollar a year basis.

Dances Eliminated And Expenditures Must Cease Until Argument Is Settled

The first official announcement as to the situation now confronting the fraternities resulting from the Interfraternity Council break-up was made by E. L. Cloy, secretary of the Faculty Council, yesterday in a letter to the various fraternities.

Until the Committee of Fraternity Life completes their investigation and makes an official ruling, the Interfraternity Council as such will not function. Except for the payment of bills now due and contracts already approved, no further expenditures of the council can be made. Dances sponsored by the council will also be eliminated until the argument beginning over the rotation of dance committees is settled.

The present muddled condition of the Interfraternity Council was brought about by the secession of five of the member organizations after the presentation of a letter of withdrawal by Claude Dawson, president of Kappa Alpha.

The difficulties arose when the five fraternities balked at the system of rotation of dance committees and were culminated in the walk out of the representatives of the five groups.

The other point decided by the faculty council and presented in the letter concerns the rushing and pledging of new men. All rules governing rushing, pledging and initiation of men into all fraternities now in force shall continue in force until further notice. These rules are to be applied through the office of the Dean of Students.

Y Sponsors Clothes Drive Monday Night

Thirty And Three Helps Conduct Campaign For Old Wearing Apparel

The annual YMCA drive for used clothing for the needy people of this community, sponsored by the YMCA, and this year in conjunction with Thirty and Three, will take place Monday night from 7 until 11 o'clock, it has been announced by Max Gardner, chairman of the committee in charge of the drive.

Each dormitory and fraternity have been assigned captains to facilitate the collection. Students will canvass the campus and fraternities for donations. Off-campus students are requested to bring all clothes to the "Y" Monday or Tuesday.

One of the most ambitious and constructive abilities sponsored by campus organizations during the year, the drive helps meet an important need in the relief work in Raleigh.

"The drives in past years have been very successful and the clothing has added much to the material comfort of the people of this community," it was stated by Max Gardner here, in an interview yesterday.

A Way to Serve

As everyone knows, the railroads are doing a tremendous job of moving masses of men and materials for the war effort. But the strain on the nation's rail facilities is becoming increasingly acute, particularly in the passenger service. The Pullman Company, for instance, will transport some 7,000,000 troops in organized movements this year alone, and on certain days half of the company's entire fleet of sleeping cars is "in the service."

Take this mounting military traffic, add the hundreds of thousands of civilian travellers engaged in essential war work and then throw in haphazardly one hundred thousand or more college students homeward bound for the holidays and it may easily be seen what an epic traffic jam could result. Fortunately, most schools, Dr. Guy E. Snavely of the Association of American Colleges reports, are aware of the danger and are staggering closing dates so that no more than one college in a single area closes or re-opens on the same day. But there must be individual cooperation by the students, too, if troop movements are to be made on schedule, if vital war materials are to reach factories and docks on time.

College students can help most to keep the tracks clear for vital wartime use by not travelling during the peak period from December 15 to January 15. If they must go home there are some simple rules to follow which will help to keep rail travel running smoothly. They are:

1. Make Pullman reservations early. It helps railway men gauge the traffic and provide adequate facilities.
2. Cancel Pullman tickets promptly when plans are changed. Someone else can use your accommodations and, besides, if you cancel after train departure time you can no longer get a refund.
3. Take as little luggage as possible. There isn't room in crowded cars for peacetime paraphernalia.
4. Accept available accommodations. You cannot always get just the accommodations you prefer or find space available on the train you usually take.

Few restrictions have thus far been placed upon civilian travel. Willing public cooperation in the observance of such simple voluntary rules as the foregoing has been a big factor in this excellent railroad performance. College students, as members of the public, can do their part by also observing these rules, particularly during the critical holiday period that lies ahead.

Watch Them Run

OPEN THEIR EYES BY INVESTING
YOUR CHANGE IN WAR STAMPS

SHARPS and FLATS

by R. D. GUYTON

Now that the football season has ended, we can look forward to future band concerts that Major Kutschinski has planned for next year. Sometime in January, the State College Concert Band is planning to give a patriotic program honoring every branch of the service. The program will consist mostly of marches, but will have a few concert numbers and perhaps a set or two by some of the members. From all indications, this year's band is going to be one of the best in the history of the school. Already, the upperclassmen are feeling the pressure of competition. The freshmen have serpsus notices that they are out for blood, and Major is going to have a hard time selecting the boys to play in this year's band.

A new record that sounds like a sure-fire hit is Glenn Miller's "Moonlight Becomes You." A muted trumpet solo whispers through a soft saphone background with beautiful effects. Skip Nelson makes his first appearance with the Miller band on this platter, and The Modernaires assist by blending their voices with him. "Moonlight Mood" is on the other side. This ballad is already on the road to popularity, and The Modernaires, who sing the vocal, should boost it up quite a bit.

Another fine arrangement of "Moonlight Becomes You" has been recorded by Bing Crosby with John Scott Trotter and his orchestra. The reverse side introduces a new ballad called "Constantly." Both feature the voice of Crosby and the flute-violin section of John Scott's orchestra.

Ray McKinley and his band have wrapped up "Without a Song" in a new way. It's fast, with plenty of hot choruses by the orchestra. You could never guess the title of the tune unless you were told. "Manhattan Serenade" introduces the voice of Imogene Lynn, his lovely vocalist. On the last chorus the tempo changes, and the band jumps Jimmy Dorsey style.

"The Road to Morocco" has produced some mighty fine songs. One of them is "You Were Never Lovelier." Several orchestras have recorded this tune, but Vaughn Monroe has come up with the best arrangement yet. Marilyn Duke sings the vocal, Vaughn gives out with the music, and the result is a good danceable record. The four Lee Sisters, who joined Vaughn Monroe's band recently, make their entry into the record world by singing "After It's All Over." These girls sound very different from most girl trios, and they are going to add much to the Monroe band.

PARKER: We are winning, but the toughest is ahead

One year ago Monday we Americans began a new phase of our lives. It would be a gross understatement to say that we were forced into an undesired war. In the relatively short period that has elapsed since the bombing of Pearl Harbor on that memorable Sunday morning, our entire American way of life has been altered. Our vocabularies include such words and phrases that were before Pearl Harbor as remote to us as the war in Europe. Although we were caught off-guard and unprepared by the Japs we are pushing our production to the maximum output and hoping that we will soon be pushing the Axis right off the map. We have not won a victory by any means, and the road ahead is long and hard, because we are faced with a problem that has not vitally concerned us, heretofore.

Every day we read about more and more of our men being killed, and some of them through our own carelessness, too. The Americans have a tough fight on their hands, but if anyone will win, we will. Not that we should adopt an over-confident attitude and sit back, letting the other fellow do our fighting. If we did that, there would be no need of being in a war at all! We might as well give up in the beginning, if we expect victory to fall into our laps. Was anything ever worth having if you just walked into it with no effort at all?

Certainly, you may enjoy the initial pleasantries that it would give, but it would be about as lasting as the Armistice of 1918. Our men are tough and know how to take it on the chin and they are showing us what real Americans can do.

Our daily lives have been changed, it's true, but isn't every sacrifice that we may have to make in the future worth the victory that will be ours in the end? It is not for us to be annoyed with the gas and tires, as well as the sugar, meat and coffee rationing. We are very fortunate to have these things at all, and when we start complaining about the situation, we will do well to think of the millions that are starving in Europe and the rest of the world. The trouble with most Americans is that they never realize anything until it is just a little too late. They muster up their pride then and try to make the best of things, but not, more than ever before, it is of major importance to act in time!

The Pearl Harbor episode served as a reminder to all of us that America is not invincible. We have awakened sufficiently now to the necessity of action, and that, quickly. We are realizing the importance of working together and forgetting ourselves temporarily as individuals to achieve a common goal and keep a common freedom. We have found that there is some-

GLEANINGS

Once again we have come to another one of those sudden stopping places that pop up every now and then—the end of a term. With only nineteen more shopping days until Christmas, this year is just about over and with it have vanished all those beautiful pledges we made in September to study harder, learn more, and be better little boys and girls; we are rampant in our midst for now with the ghastly ordeal of exams beginning Friday we realize that somehow or other we haven't done either . . . such is life. We hate to keep mentioning the same names and faces but we are still trailing "Boilermaker" Preddy to garner a little good reading material but he is still a very elusive person . . . our only comment now is that no longer should he be known as "Boilermaker" . . . BOA is much more expressive . . . Box Office Attraction. W. W. Berryhill, M.E. flash of the third floor Syme missed his calling . . . he should have been a plumber. He took enough pieces off one of the steam engines in M.E. Lab 'tother day to build himself a motorcycle or two . . . now his party members are afraid to turn their backs on him for fear he will bring the machinery tumbling down about their ears.

Cecil (I'm From the Hill Country) Fry is the one guy that the administration and their exam schedule can't lick . . . he finishes on the first day . . . he is a little worried though, for there is an ugly rumor afloat that he may have one on the morning of the second day . . . must be wonderful Stew. The miniature air raid in the stadium Tuesday was quite the thing . . . but it seems that the people present were more interested in getting out of the rain than they were of learning how to handle incendiary bombs . . . but being as we were one of the first to run for cover we can't blame them. Gordon (What Happened to My Face) West really got tramped on when his fraternity brothers from Wake Forest played their annual game with the Lambda Chi chapter . . . What the heck, West, you have a bigger and softer part of your anatomy to land on than your face . . . that is the end. Jimmy Thompson and Doug Craven spent a most unfruitful hour or so a few nights ago in a futile search for . . . well, you name it, all we know is that they beat on many a door in Raleigh looking for something . . . but no luck. Sleeping in class has been going on for years and years, but there comes a time when it isn't quite as restful as it could be . . . Hudson Wright really bumped his head when his chair went east and he went west in E.E. class Saturday . . . the worst part of the tale is that the rumpus awakened Harry Hoffman from a deep slumber and as usual he proved he was wide awake by asking the professor a question . . . Prof. Keverer fixed him with, "Hoffman, did you have to wake up?" . . . and all was quiet again.

If you haven't seen the pickings for the All Conference team, take a quick look and then blow a valve . . . seems that a ball player has to go to William and Mary or Duke to even be considered for that honor . . . and nowhere in the conference can any one find a better pair of ends than Big Hoot Gibson and Bolu Stilwell . . . they don't come any better and yet they barely were mentioned. Well, we'll leave the lid-blowing off to Morgan and his Musings and retire to mutter to ourselves . . . about the non-rating for Conference honors of such boys as Faircloth, Teague, Moser and many others who sparked the Pack to their best season in years . . . some stuff, we'd say.

Grab your overalls, your loud shirt, your best girl, or a reasonable facsimile thereof, and take off for Frank Thompson Gym tomorrow night . . . the annual Barwarmin' will be underway and as usual the Ag school is out to put on a real show . . . it will really be a dizzy with no holds barred.

Well, Turkey Day is over and gone and among the many other things we have to be thankful for we can praise the powers that be that we escaped with a whole hide following Sadie Hawkins Day . . . but for the sake of the record we might say that EVERY day is Sadie Hawkins Day with the Raleigh women . . . they seem to love a good chase. Oh, for the life of a soldier . . . whoops a daisy . . . when it comes to drilling women some of our hardy seniors really shine. Jerry Stockard, Ramsey, Dalrymple, and Co. are really putting the cute tricks from St. Mary's who volunteered for military training through extensive and intensive close-order drill . . . and boy, are they conscientious . . . but can they drill? We would hate to be the one to cast reflections, but some of the tactics and maneuvers that that crew can teach wouldn't do for the sweet young things from the school down the way . . . we'll bet their favorite command is a call to arms.

Graham Says Hitler Seeks To Turn Back Mankind 2,000 Years

President of Greater University Speaks to Students Monday

In seeking to subjugate and destroy the church, the parliament, the corporation and the labor union, Hitler and his Axis are seeking to turn back 2,000 years of human history, Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the Greater University of North Carolina, declared Monday in an address to the State College student body.

He described those four institutions as "the focal motive force of the four main chapters in the rise of human freedom."

"The freedom of human beings to organize in autonomous groups has been won through long struggles in the fields of religion, politics, business and labor," Dr. Graham stated. "Hitler is out to destroy the freedom of America, the freedom of these basic institutions and the freedom of people everywhere."

He defined the current conflict as not only global in extent and total in depth but also "a world-wide fascist counter-revolution against the peoples' revolution" — their stubborn, steady march toward a freer, better world.

"This fascist counter-revolution has, in part, made its appeal to disillusioned peoples and gathered its power out of the failures and frustrations of freedom and democracy," declared Dr. Graham.

"The democracies need to look homeward," he continued. "Political democracy had become too static for modern dynamic economic society. Western men for more than a century had thought that democracy was the measure and the inevitable goal of political progress. In a world in which men everywhere had come to aspire toward freedom and democracy, lately, in terrible disillusionment, insecurity and fear, they turned to dictators and totalitarian ways and means."

"Democracy had provided equality of suffrage but not equality of opportunity; the freedom to worship but not the right to work; the freedom of assembly and the right of collective petition but not the freedom of the self-organization of workers and the equality of collective bargaining; corporate privilege but not agricultural parity; and political liberty but not social security

Blue Key Chooses New Members

12 Outstanding Men Picked From Junior And Senior Classes

Selected on Basis of Leadership, Scholarship and Campus Activities

Twelve juniors and seniors who have demonstrated outstanding leadership ability in campus activities have been initiated into Blue Key, honor fraternity, president Jim Martin has announced.

Four of the group are "Honor Juniors" and were especially selected as the outstanding leaders of the class of 1944. They are: Max Gardner, Jr., Bill Upchurch, Jr., Gene LeGrand, and Paul Bannerman. The eight new senior members are Claude Dawson, Irv Hetherington, Bill Ivey, Burton Sides, Webster Lineback, Roger Taylor, Ed Gibson, and Archie Sink.

Blue Key is the all-campus leadership and service group, and election is recognized as one of the outstanding honors on the campus. So far this year, Blue Key was co-sponsor of Homecoming and Greater University Week-end activities, sponsored all the football pep-rallies, and put across the campaign to adopt the new dormitory names.

Although the prime requirement for membership is leadership, scholarship and personality are considered. The minimum scholastic requirement is an 80 average, which is above the all-campus average.

Max Gardner is an ex-president of Phi Eta Sigma, the Inter-honor Council, and the Class of 1944 during its sophomore year. He is a member of the Social Functions Committee, the Public Lectures Committee, and the YMCA Executive Committee, and served on the Student Council last year. He is registered in Textiles.

Bill Upchurch is president of the Junior Class this year. He was selected a few weeks ago for Upsilon Sigma Alpha, is a member of the Publications Board, and is studying Mechanical Engineering.

Gene LeGrand is the newly elected secretary of the Officers Club, a member of Phi Psi, Upsilon Sigma Alpha, and is on the Junior Ring Committee. He is a Textile student.

Paul Bannerman is an outstanding Junior in Agriculture. He is a scribe of Alpha Zeta and a member of the staff of the Agriculturist.

Webster Lineback is the captain of the hardworking Redcoat Band, and leader of the group at pep-rallies. In addition he is president of Muta Beta Psi, a member of Gamma Sigma Epsilon, and is taking Chemical Engineering.

Roger Taylor is a mechanical engineering student who is president of Pi Tau Sigma, president of the Officers Club, and president of Sigma Pi, social fraternity. He serves on the Inter-fraternity Council, and is a member of Phi Eta Sigma.

Claude Dawson is president of Kappa Alpha social fraternity, and a member of the Student Council. He serves on the Inter-fraternity Council, is a member of Phi Psi, and Sigma Tau Sigma, and is studying Textiles.

Archie Sink is an agricultural student, a member of Alpha Zeta, and the Student Welfare Committee. He was director of the livestock show held here recently, president of Ag Fair and treasurer of Alpha Zeta.

Irv Hetherington is president of ASME, and secretary of the Engineers' Council. He is a member of against the hazards of modern society.

"The old political liberties and social drift of a more static society became tragically insufficient to meet the vast economic changes, the financial crises and the deep human needs of our modern dynamic society. The declaration of the rights of man needed a revised version of a declaration of social duties and obligations. The old bill of rights can be saved only by additional provisions for a new bill of rights as a continuation of the peoples' revolution."

"For some 2,000 years, Dr. Graham said, the direction of civilization has been forward toward the development of the freedom and worth of the human being, the dignity of human personality, the enduring values, humane, ethical, individual and universal and spiritual. Now, he said, the Axis nations would crush and supplant those aspirations with "a religion of power, a cult of force, a mystic blood revival of primitive tribalism and master-racialism."

Granting that democracies exhibit much that is unworthy, he emphasized that the peoples of the democracies—conquered and unconquered—with all their faults and failures, still "aspire toward the humane, the ethical, the individual, the universal and the spiritual."

Winkler Draws Praise About Book On Safety

Compliments Come For Outline Written For Industrial Safety Classes

Prof. E. W. Winkler of N. C. State College today had received a number of compliments on his 150-page, comprehensive course outline for instructors and students in industrial safety engineering classes.

Prof. Winkler, who teaches electrical engineering at the college, is educational director of all industrial safety engineering courses given through the College Extension Division as part of the government training program for men and women in vital industries. He compiled the mimeographed syllabus after finding no textbook suitable for teaching such a course.

The safety engineering course is underway at Canton, Charlotte, Asheville, Roanoke Rapids, Rocky Mount, Raleigh, Elkin, Pembroke, and Salisbury, and one recently was completed.

Prof. Winkler teaches the Raleigh course, given at State College. Requests for use of his course outline have been received from Lewis W. Webb, Jr., director of War Training Courses given at Norfolk, Va., by the Virginia Polytechnic Institute engineering extension division in cooperation with the College of William and Mary, and from L. R. Quarles of the University of Virginia for use in a safety engineering course which the University is conducting in Richmond.

thing just a little bit bigger than we. It is something that we have taken for granted all these years, but we have enjoyed it all the same, consciously or unconsciously. It is a part of all of us, and we intend to keep it that way, as long as we have men to fight for it. If we ever gave it up, we would be giving up the whole meaning of our country. We would be destroying the future of our children and their children as well. There would be no United States—united for a common cause which none can destroy, as long as we uphold it. But there will be a United States, because we have shown that we are Americans and we will fight for that precious freedom that we have enjoyed since the founding of our country.

Our freedom and all that it entails is something that every American must keep intact for the Americans of future generations.

WHICH would you vote "most likely to succeed?"

"The Aircraft Warning System gives a single plane on ground alert the equivalent striking power of 16 planes on air patrol." This startling statement comes from England.

Our country's Aircraft Warning Service—quite similar to England's—keeps a constant check on the flight of all aircraft. Should the need arise, it is prepared to send fighter planes aloft, to mobilize and direct ground defense forces, to warn endangered areas. Every step in its operation requires the fast, accurate communication of the telephone.

This is just one of the many wartime jobs that are keeping telephone lines busier than ever before. To help us keep lines clear for vital military and industrial calls, please avoid using Long Distance to war activity centers unless the call is urgent. And please keep all your telephone calls as brief as you can. Thank you.

Doaks To Entertain Atheletes Sunday

Entertainment Given for College Athletes and Athletic Administration

As a salute to the 1942 Wolfpack for a job well done, and in recognition of the work done by the Red Terror diamond nine of last spring, Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Doak are holding an Open House at their home Sunday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Those invited include all the members of the State College varsity baseball and football teams, the coaches and their wives, the members of the physical education staff, and the editorial staff of THE TECHNICIAN.

The guest of honor for the occasion will be Mrs. William Montgomery Person, the donor of the Person baseball and football trophies. These two trophies are presented in honor of Mrs. Person's husband who, at one time, was an outstanding athlete here at State College. He participated in both football and baseball, and was captain of the diamond squad. The basis for presentation of the trophies is excellence in character and sportsmanship, and they were won by Woody Jones (football) and Grady Wheeler (baseball) last year.

Mr. and Mrs. Doak are the parents of Renfrow "Peanut" Doak, who performed at the blocking back position on this year's Wolfpack until he was sent to a Civilian Public Service camp after the Carolina game. "Peanut" also served as one of the pitchers on last Spring's baseball team.

Mr. Doak, a member of the physical education staff, served as head coach of baseball here at State for a good many years, before giving up the job to Doc Newton three years ago.

Holloman And T. Jones Star For PIKA; Sweet Tops For Watauga

Two games, entirely different in the manner of play, in the touch-football play-offs were held yesterday, and north Watauga and Pi Kappa Alpha were victorious to capture the 1942 championships. The scores were PIKA, four first downs to SPE's one, and Watauga, 35 to third Becton's 0.

In the fraternity game, one of the most exciting and best played all year, the outstanding play of Payton Holloman and Tom Jones, the leader's of this undefeated squad all year, was the major factor in PIKA's victory.

On the opening kick-off these two collaborated on a lateral to place the ball deep in the opposition's territory. This threat was ended, however, when Bill Seawell intercepted one of Holloman's aerials.

SPE started the second half like a house afire, but it was stopped after one of the best runs of the day was called back on a penalty. From then on it was almost all PIKA. Holloman came through with two successive first downs that put the game on ice.

On the other field it was an entirely different story. Undefeated north Watauga was the master of the field all afternoon, and it never allowed the freshman squad to get in the game. The excellent passing ability of Sweet was the highlight of the contest. He connected with five during the game for touchdowns, and his aerials put the team in scoring position several times. Barton, Mahone, and Soady shared honors on the receiving end of the passes.

Except for the two championship play-off football games to be played next Monday and three all-campus wrestling matches that were postponed, the action on the intramural front has ceased for the winter term, and it has been a very successful season except in a few instances. Much of the credit for the term's play goes to Johnny Miller and Charley Doak of the physical education department and the boys they had to help them.

These boys who did much of the officiating for the three sports were L. F. Hartsong, W. H. Bailey, Buckley Carvalho, F. R. Craig, W. T. Stanford, Reid, Johns, Stallings, and Sloop, and these boys did a splendid job of it.

Getting to the action of the day, not all of the fireworks on the campus last Tuesday night came from Riddick Stadium when the Army put on its show, for an hour earlier in the gymnasium the all-campus wrestling matches, pitting the cream of the dormitory crop against the fraternity fighters, were held, and action was thick and fast on the mat. When the smoke of the fights had cleared away, the dorm champs had walked off with every match held, although three were postponed. These were in the following classes: 115 lbs. with Dunleas (SPE) vs. Terry (N. Wat.), 135 lbs. with Jones (PIKA) vs. Willford (Wellens), and the 145 lbs. with King (SPE) vs. Goldstein (N. Wat.).

In the battles that were held Hiker of Sigma Nu and Blalock from Second Turlington started the ball rolling with the latter taking the match on a decision. One of the best of the evening game next was Ritchie, also from second Turlington, and Parks of SPE met. The decision finally went to the dorm contestant. The only fall registered for the evening came when Sweet, continuing his outstanding ability from that afternoon's football game, threw Robinson of Kappa Sig with apparent ease. Two PIKA's, Sutenfield and Culp, participated in the next two fights and both went down in defeat. North Watauga's Barton took the former through the cleaners, while Fred Wagoner, representing first Turlington, came close to pinning Culp several times, but he had to be content with a decision over his larger opponent.

Although the official points for all teams for the fall term have not been announced, an unofficial count is the following, which does not include the football play-off points:

Stilwell Honored

Marion "Bolo" Stilwell, co-captain and end on the State College Wolfpack, was awarded the Ambassador Theater's most valuable player trophy at the Monogram Club's dance last Saturday night.

Stilwell, rated as one of the best ends in the South, is a senior and holds an ensign's commission in the Navy. He started in most of the games during his sophomore year as a first string performer, and has played plenty of football for the Wolfpack since that time. Bolo hails from Thomasville, N. C.

Last year's winner of the trophy was Jack Huckabee, the wingback.

Conference Changes Suggested

Reorganization Plan Worth Consideration

Ray Reeves Offers Plan for Reorganization of Southern Conference

(Reprinted from a sports broadcast by Ray Reeves over Radio Station WRAL last Tuesday night.)

Nearly every sports commentator and writer has had something to say about the Southern Conference, its organization, the methods of deciding the championships, and so forth, and so perhaps it's in line for us to put in our two bits worth. As most of you know, the Southern Conference is a sixteen member affair which includes one team from Maryland, one from the District of Columbia, five from the state of Virginia, five from North Carolina, and four from South Carolina. That covers a lot of territory and includes far too many schools to be anything but a rather unwieldy organization.

Under the present rules as far as football is concerned, the championship is decided on the basis of the team having the best won and lost record in conference competition. It is possible, therefore, for a team to become the champion by playing a matter of one or two games with the weak sisters in the conference (of which there are a number), have a perfect record as far as conference competition is concerned, and thereby become the conference champ. The champion, therefore, does not have to be the best or strongest team in the league—merely the best schedule maker.

That is what has happened this year. William and Mary played four conference games with Virginia teams only, winning these and thereby becoming the champions of the conference. There are three if not four teams in the state of North Carolina who could beat the Indians. This statement is based entirely upon what has happened in the past, and is not mere conjecture.

In the last three years, State has met William and Mary three times and has beaten them convincingly three times. And since, in those three years, State has not had the number one team in the state of North Carolina, it is a fair assumption that Duke, Wake Forest, and Carolina could also perform the same feat.

This year, William and Mary had a chance to get on the Carolina schedule, but the Indians wanted to be the Southern Conference champs and they weren't at all sure the outcome of such a game, so they did not choose to play with the Tar Heels.

Under the rules as they now stand, we do not blame William and Mary or any other team for arranging a schedule that at the very outset practically guarantees a championship. That is merely using your head, for it's always nicer to be able to say that you are the champion, than to have to admit that you are merely an also ran. But what we are getting at is that the Southern Conference needs a reorganization, or a house cleaning if you will. This will come about one of these fine days, that's sure. It's necessary if the conference and its champion is going to command any respect from other sections of the country.

Right now, of course, William and Mary is quite happy with the situation as it stands, but if things continue with the conference as they are and William and Mary goes on to win the championship two or three years in a row, they'll discover at that time that it is a rather empty honor. They'll discover that a Southern Conference championship has no standing worth mentioning in other parts of the country.

William and Mary is the Southern Conference champion, yet have you or anyone else heard of any offers being made to the champion for a post season bowl game? The answer is no, and the only bowl that they would get any consideration from is the Sun Bowl, but none has come from even that direction or is likely to. It's a pretty phoney championship isn't it?

In reorganizing, the conference needs to get rid of the dead wood, and limit the size of the loop to a maximum of ten schools. Right now, the teams or schools to drop would be the following: Citadel, Davidson, Furman, Richmond, Washington and Lee, V.M.I., and V.R.I. That is seven teams, leaving the following nine in the conference Maryland, George Washington, William and Mary, Duke, Carolina, Wake Forest, State College, South Carolina, and Clemson. To this group, Virginia should be added.

Those ten could make for a strong, well-knit conference that in the course of time could and would command the respect of the other sections of the country as being one of the stronger conferences.

After forming this group, the rule should be written into the by-laws of the conference that each member in football must schedule at least five games within the conference. Failure to do so would eliminate the school not complying from any consideration for the championship. Of the ten schools we have mentioned for consideration in the forming of the new Southern Conference, every one has ambitions in an athletic way, and the money and facilities for carrying on a good, sound, comprehensive athletic program.

As for the schools that we have suggested dropping, naturally a certain amount of sympathy will go out to them and the question asked, "What will these smaller schools do?" The answer is very simple—for a conference of their own. They'll be far better off than they are now, because they will be playing in a league of their own teams and schools which they have little or no chance beating.

It'll probably be some time before anything of this sort is done, if ever. Certainly it will have to wait until after the present em- (Continued on page 7)

Leroy Jay Takes Over As Court Squad Coach, Three Regulars Back

McKinney Playing On Opposite Side of Ledger Tonight As Terrors Open Season

State College's Red Terror basketball quint, minus three of last year's starting line-up, open their 1942-43 season tonight, playing at Fort Bragg against the highly touted Army Replacement Training Center team.

Due to the fact that Bob Warren, Red Terror basketball coach for the past two years, is now an officer in the Navy and stationed at the Chapel Hill Navy Pre-flight school, the reins are being taken over by Leroy Jay, a former State College star. Jay was coach of the outstanding fresh squad of a year ago that burned up Southern Conference competition.

Place Second Last Year

The Red Terrors climaxed last season's competition by dropping the final round of the Southern Conference tournament to Duke University, to end up in second place. Gone from that strong quint of last year are Bones McKinney ace six-foot-six center, and co-captains George Strayhorn and Jack Tabscott, along with other stars, not so well known.

Back to form the nucleus for the team this winter are Bernie Mock and dribbling Buckheat Carvalho. Jack Geil, a reserve last year who saw plenty of action, is also being counted on for a starting position.

The complete squad roster has not been released as yet, but several of last year's crack freshman squad are expected to see a lot of service before the season is very old.

McKinney For The Army

The Fort Bragg squad is reported to be crowded with former college stars of the court, among them being lanky Bones McKinney who paced the 1941 Red Terrors. The high spot in McKinney's career, both in high school at Durham and in college here, came in the last regularly scheduled game of last season with South Carolina, when the tall center hooked in baskets and free goals to the tune of 30 points—his high in any one game.

All-Conference
With the finish rapidly being written to another year of football wars, there comes the inevitable variety of all-something-or-other teams. But of all the sad mistakes, we believe the worst one was the selection of this year's All-Southern Conference squad as published by the Associated Press last Monday morning.

They Missed Bolo
Although we believe that Bolo Stilwell is the best end in the conference (and that includes Bob Gantt of Duke), the fact that he was left off of the first team doesn't hurt us nearly so much as the fact that William and Mary, the so-called Conference Champions, placed four men on the first team.

The AP all-conference team is supposedly picked by the voting of sports writers throughout the territory that the conference covers. No doubt the writers that did the voting failed to see Duke play any team other than Wake Forest this year. Because in spite of their loss to the Baptist institution in an

Weather Plays Havoc With Punts, Passes

North Watauga, Third Becton, Pi Kappa Alpha Win Preliminary Games

In the preliminary games played last Tuesday and Wednesday in the intramural touch-football play-offs, north Watauga, PIKA and third Becton took their games with third Alexander, ALT and Berry. The first two were by very decisive scores, while the freshman tilt was nip and tuck all the way.

Watauga Wins

Watauga kept its undefeated record Tuesday afternoon on 1911 field when it swept over the boys from Alexander by a 25 to 7 score. The winners, whose line-up was filled with players from last year's championship squad, first scored after one of Alexander's passes was intercepted. After a penalty assisted the team in its march to the enemy's goal, Sweet rifed a pass to Malone for the touchdown. This was followed later in the first half by another aerial, this time from Sweet to Goldstein, for another score. Paced by J. E. Edwards, Alexander got back in the ball game late in the half as it drove down the field with a pass to Hodgkin, climaxing the drive for a touchdown.

PIKA Over ALT

In the Fraternity tilt, from the opening whistle, PIKA, the defending champions, was the master of the situation. By virtue of its two great passers, T. Jones and Payton Holloman, PIKA had the definite edge in offense all afternoon in the game played on freshman field. On defense the squad's line completely outplayed the other team, and this fact prevented the backs for Alpha Lambda Tau from doing anything spectacular. Stiles did show consistency in his passing for the losers, but it was to no avail. Brown at left end was the stand-out in ALT's line. The final score in the game was 18-2.

The Freshman Game

Turning to the freshman contest, the teams had to play under extreme conditions, but put up one of the liveliest scraps in the first round games. The tilt was played on freshman field Wednesday afternoon against an extremely strong wind. This caused the teams, both of which were definitely air-minded throughout the regular season, to turn to a ground attack, and this turned the game into a battle of lines.

Throughout the first half the teams played to a standstill with neither being able to register even a first down. Both squads tried reverses during this period, but the brilliant play of all ends on the field prevented either from gaining. Although there are no official records on the matter, it was probable that both teams came out of the contest with minus averages in rushing. The turning point of the game came when Becton, with the wind behind them, completed two passes, both to Lawson, and each resulted in a first down. This was the final score in the tilt, two first downs to none.

early season game, the Blue Devils looked like the Rose Bowl Dukes of last year at the end of the schedule. (We know, don't we!)
Wake and Duke
Wake Forest and Duke definitely have the best teams in the conference, but their stars failed to receive the proper recognition. Since we are thoroughly disgusted with the AP team, we are printing what we think to be a truly representative All-Southern Conference team. You will find it on the third sports page.

But just as we find fault with the AP, somebody else will undoubtedly find fault with our choice. At any rate, it isn't picked by a group of Virginia sports writers posing as the representatives of the Southern Conference schools.

Due to some mix-up in the mail service, Billy Primm and I didn't get together on the final outcome of our predictions' contest in time to print it in this issue of THE TECHNICIAN. However, keep it in mind, and I'll print the results in the first paper of next term.

For the second year in a row Doc Newton has been selected to coach the North Carolina College all-stars in their annual game with the South Carolina College all-stars on December 12. Billy Laval of Newberry College is the rival coach.

The football here in the South is good football, and it will be better as time goes on. If and when some move of the sort outlined here is made, then the schools within the conference will find that the quality of material will be improved. A good national ranking attracts good material.

Strengthen the conference by some sort of measure, perhaps by the suggestions we have outlined or something similar, and it won't be long before the Southern Conference has a real standing in the national rankings. Unless something of this sort is done, the Southern Conference will have little or no standing in the national picture.

Football and all other sports will be the benefactor when something is done to create order where chaos now reigns.
