Qualifications Set For Training of Men In Army-Navy Plan

Selectees Chosen for Special Training Must Meet Requirements As Listed By War Department

The War Department set forth the qualifications last week by which it will nominate thousands of selectees for specialized training in basic and advance subjects within college walls under the joint Army-Navy plan.

Applicants for the basic training must measure up to these requirements:

1. Score 110 or better in an Army Classification Test.
2. Be high school graduate between the age of 18 and 21 inclusive (not attained 22nd birthday).
3. Complete the regular basic Army training or be in the process of completion.

To qualify for advanced training under the plan the applicant must meet these qualifications:

1. Pass the Classification Test with the same score.
2. Have one year of college work or its equivalent and be at least 18 but not necessarily under 22.
3. Complete or be completing the Army basic training.

The War Department's statement pointed out that the trainees will be in uniform on active duty, will be paid while they learn and will be subject to military discipline. The colleges to which they are assigned will provide the instruction prescribed by the Army and will furnish housing and feeding facilities. The students will receive military training but it will be secondary to their academic work.

"The principal objective of the Army's Specialized Training Program," the statement declared, "is to meet the need of the army for technically trained soldiers for certain Army tasks for which its own training facilities are insufficient in extent or character."

The committee charged with returning students to their colleges and universities after the war will meet for the first time January 18. The group of army officers and educators was appointed by President Roosevelt on November 19—two days after he signed the teen-age draft bill—to assure students who are called into the armed services a chance to finish their training after the war.

Legislature Honored At Supper Wednesday

Gov. Broughton and General Assembly Attend Dinner in Leazer Hall

The General Assembly of North Carolina was honored at an Agricultural Dinner held in Leazer Hall Wednesday night of this week.

The dinner was in form of a barbecued beef dinner. Present were the members of the General Assembly and other special invited guests including heads of State Departments, other State officials and representatives of the press.

Governor Broughton was the only speaker on the program. In his brief talk the Governor thanked all those who sponsored the dinner, separately praising the work and cooperation of all the sponsoring agencies. He called on the legislators to give "every reasonable encouragement to legislation helping the cause of agriculture."

The Governor called attention to the progressive agricultural program enacted by the 1941 General Assembly and referred to the fact that the present Assembly is planning to enact legislation which will further that record.

All the food, including the barbecued beef, was produced in North Carolina. The menu included muscadine juice cocktail, deviled-egg (Continued on Page 4)

Increase in Charges Suggested for College

Budget Commission Wants Increased Fees To Replace Loss of College Income

The Budget Committee of the State General Assembly of the State Legislature has recommended an increase of $38,582 for State College for this year over last year.

The total appropriation recommended for State for this year is $529,989, and for next year it is $535,635.

Appropriations for the Greater University of North Carolina for the next biennium have been presented to the Legislature by the Commission.

Expecting an increasing drop in enrollment, the Commission recommended a considerable increase in appropriations to offset the loss of income which the institutions will suffer. The Budget Commission also suggested that the three colleges of the University increase their fees for board, room, and other services in order to help replace the decrease in total payment by the students.

Increases for this year over last year are: Chapel Hill, $133,872; Woman's College, $61,580; and State College, $38,582.

Recommended appropriations for this biennium are: Chapel Hill, $968,227 (1943-44), $937,934 (1944-45); State College, $529,989 (1943-44), $535,635 (1944-45); and Woman's College, $463,745 (1943-44), $464,458 (1944-45).

Dream Of $500,000 Fund For N. C. Textile Foundation Nearing Reality; Textile School Would Become Most Outstanding Institution Of Its Kind If Fund Is Raised

The dream of a prominent rayon mill executive to have the Textile School of State obtain funds that would permit it to become the outstanding institution of its kind, is on the verge of coming true.

Mill executives in North Carolina and in other states have already rallied behind the call to raise $500,000 before the end of the year, to be the nucleus of the newly-formed North Carolina Textile Foundation, and the pledging of this sum is now considered assured, although there is no let-up in the drive being carried on.

W. J. Carter, president of Carter Fabrics, Inc., of Greensboro, N. C., one of the important rayon weaving organizations told of his dream for the textile school here at State. Behind the goal of furnishing the school with all the money necessary to make its faculty the best possible, is a realization that the young men with the most thorough kind of textile training will be in demand after the war, and that upon these young men will depend the next strides of our textile industries.

When a college has all the money it needs to engage whatever faculty it feels is necessary to become the outstanding institution there is nothing that can stop it, Mr. Carter explained. He recalled that was the case when a substantial part of the Duke fortune was left for what then became Duke University.

Legislators Get Paper

Starting with this issue, every member of the 1943 State Legislature will find a copy of The Technician on his desk each Friday morning during the present session.

This effort to acquaint North Carolina's law-making body with the doings on the State campus is being sponsored jointly by The Technician and Blue Key Honor Fraternity. Permission to make the delivery has been granted by the Sergeant-at-Arms, and the papers will be distributed before the legislators report to their respective houses for the Friday sessions.

Dr. W. A. Reid Named In A. C. S. Elections

Dr. W. A. Reid of the chemistry department at State College has been elected vice chairman of the North Carolina section of the American Chemical Society, and Dr. Ivan D. Jones and Prof. W. E. Jordan, also of the State College chemistry faculty, have been named to the executive committee.

Dr. S. E. Smith of the University of North Carolina unit at Chapel Hill is chairman of the section. Other officers are Dr. Marcus E. Hobbs of Duke, secretary; Dr. W. J. Wyatt of Wake Forest, executive committee; Dr. P. M. Gross, chairman of the chemistry department at Duke, and Dr. R. W. Bost, chairman of the chemistry department at Chapel Hill, counselors.

Baird Opens Series Of Talks On Campus

Dean William Jesse Baird of the Foundation School of Berea College, Berea, Ky., spoke at State College tonight on "The Need for Moral Leadership in an Age of Confusion and Revolution."

An open forum period followed the address, which started at 7 o'clock in the YMCA auditorium. Prof. W. N. Hicks, head of the college's Department of Religion and Ethics, introduced the speaker.

A supper in honor of the visitor was given by the YMCA cabinet at 6 o'clock with various administrative heads and student leaders as guests.

Dean Baird, who is a well-known educator, speaker and student counselor, is touring colleges and universities of the South under sponsorship of the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Mo. Major object of the Foundation is to encourage the development of leadership, particularly moral leadership, in students of American colleges through grants to promising students, special youth conferences and sympathetic personal counseling of students by faculty members.

Hartley Says Navy V-1 Deadline Is March 15

College Students Will Get Officers Training; Not To Be Called At Once

College students 17 years of age can enlist in the Navy's V-1 classification, in which they are earmarked for officer material, until the classification closes March 15, Lieut. Lodwick C. Hartley, head of the Office of Naval Officer Procurement at State College, announced yesterday.

Students graduating from high school next month may enlist if they secure from the registrar of an accredited college or university a statement that the applicant is duly enrolled as a full-time student in good standing or has been accepted for enrollment.

Lieut. Hartley emphasized that the applicant must actually be enrolled in the college by March 15. He chose not later than March 15. Accepted students may stay in college until they are called. The length of time which will ensue before they are called has not been set. When the call comes, however, they will be sent to a midshipmen's school for officer's training.

Today Last Chance To Get Ration Books; Can Be Secured Here

Special Ration Board Set Up On Campus; Student Must Have Book 1 To Register In February

By BOB POMERANZ
Students who have not yet obtained their War Ration Book No. 1, which entitles the holder to sugar and coffee supplies, will get their last chance to get them this afternoon from 4 to 6 p.m. in the Y.M.C.A. The deadline on issuance of these books is at midnight tonight.

Only holders of the sugar ration book will be entitled to receive War Ration Book No. 2, which will come out early in February and will be used to ration canned and frozen fruits and vegetables. This setting up of a special ration board on the campus this afternoon to accommodate the student body was arranged by THE TECHNICIAN.

A word of caution to students was issued yesterday by Mrs. Lynch, head of the Wake County Rationing Board. "Only those who are certain that their parents have not yet registered for them at home should apply for books," she stated. "Persons registering twice are liable for a fine of $10,000."

Regulations for the use of Ration Book No. 2 are now being formulated, and every student on the campus will be affected by the decisions. One definite announcement has stated that students who eat 14 or more meals a week in any one dining hall or restaurant must surrender their books to that establishment for the period that they continue to eat that number of meals.

ROTC Seniors Here Through Spring Term

Plans Concerning Other Students Still Uncertain; Engineering Students May Be Given Occupational Deferment

Approximately four hundred State College men are included in the Enlisted Reserve Corps of the United States Army to be called to active duty within two weeks of the close of this term of school, according to Colonel J. W. Harrelson, Dean of Administration.

The students will be placed on active duty and after the completion of the thirteen weeks basic training course they will be eligible for selection for training under the Army Specialized Training Program.

The Enlisted Reserve Corps includes members of all four classes at State College.

The present seniors taking advanced ROTC training will be allowed to remain in school until the close of the spring term at which time they will automatically enter Officers Training School of the army with the rank of corporal. At the end of the officers training they will receive their commissions. The enlisted Reserve Corps will receive the rating of privates at the time they are inducted.

Although no definite provision has been made for the juniors and seniors in the Enlisted Reserve who are not taking military it is very probable that they will be called to active duty with the others at the close of this term.

Those students who are not members of any reserve and who have completed one year or more of engineering have an excellent chance of being deferred until they complete the work for their degrees.

Under the new program all students who are navy reservists in V-1, V-5, and V-7 may continue in college following their present studies until a date to be determined when they will be placed on active duty as apprentice seamen with full pay, subsistence and uniforms. They will remain in school until they have completed their degrees.

No definite word has been issued concerning the students who hold probationary commissions in the navy, but it has been indicated that at a date to be announced later, they will be allowed to resign their commissions and accept assignment to the college training program as apprentice seamen on active duty.

On the satisfactory completion of their prescribed professional education they will again be commissioned in the United States Naval Reserve.

The object of this plan is to meet the need of the army for the specialized technical training of soldiers on active duty for certain army tasks for which its own training (Continued on Page 4)

Five Seniors Doing Practice Teaching

Industrial Arts Students Holding Classes At Hugh Morson High School

Five seniors majoring in industrial arts education at State College are doing their student teaching work at Hugh Morson High School during the winter quarter. Dr. John R. Ludington, professor of industrial arts, announced yesterday.

C. Merrill Hamilton is the instructor in charge of the industrial arts program at Hugh Morson and is supervising the student teaching program. The students are Tom Bivins, Cecil Fry, S. C. High, Jr., Hubert M. Johnson, and R. T. Troxler.

The demand for technically-trained teachers of industrial arts has greatly exceeded the supply and many industrial arts shops have been closed because of shortage of teachers," Dr. Ludington said. "The popularity of this phase of public education has been increasing for several years. The current war program and the request of the War Department for industrial arts work as a phase of the pre-induction programs have intensified the need for industrial arts in high schools."

Exact figures on the current enrollment by schools are being compiled by the registration office.

Each student will get two paper and one leather invitation from his payment of class dues. Only invitations in excess of this number should be ordered. The leather invitation costs 40¢ this year, while the paper covered one with identical contents costs 25¢. In addition, a paper folder containing the graduation invitation and a program of the day's events is being sold for 8¢.

Invitation orders should be placed directly with the Purchasing Office in Holladay Hall.

Court Games Underway In New 'Mural Brackets'

Handball Meets To Start Soon; Schedule Posted At Gymnasium

By EARLE HOLLIDAY

Wasting no time in getting the ball moving in intramural activities, Director Johnny Miller opened the competition last night with the first two games on the basketball schedule. In addition to this another winter sport, handball, begins for the students next Monday night. The beginning of boxing, the only other sport for this term, is being held off until the first part of next month.

Several changes in the general execution of the intramural activities have taken place over the holidays. A new grouping of teams into sections in the major difference. In the dormitory division freshmen and upperclass squads will compete against one another to determine the section champions.

Another situation has arisen in the same division which was caused by the vacating of Turlington dormitory and any others that may be taken over for any purpose. As these teams have already earned points in the fall sports, the boys participating on any of the squads will continue to play as a unit. That is, all of the teams that were active during last term are scheduled during this one, and the members, regardless of their present location, are eligible and expected to play with the same aggregation that they were on.

An announcement from Miller's office this week of the all-campus touch-football team saw the fraternity's champions, Pi Kappa Alpha, place three men to lead the list. Altogether seven of the twelve named came from frat rosters. North Watauga led the dormitory list with two men, with third Alexander, Becton, and second Turlington placing one each.

The complete team is as follows: Ends, Brown (ALT) and Bobby Edwards (9-A); tackles, Mears (Becton) and Hoffman (Sigma Pi); guards, Godwin (SPE) and Hook (PIKA); center, Holding (PIKA); backs, Holloman (PIKA), Ritchie (2-C), Sweet (N. Wat.), and Haynes (SPE); and utility, Mahone (N. Wat.).

The all-dormitory team included Barton (N. Wat.) and Edwards at ends, Williams (U. Syme) and Mears at tackles, Coble (Berry) and Jenerette (L. Syme) at guards, Laffer (2-A) at center, Ritchie, Jimmy Edwards (3-A), Sweet, and Mahone as the backfield, and Gold-

Steady Jack

Although a reserve last year, steady Jack Geil has come up fast this winter and is one of the mainstays of the Red Terror squad now. Jack saw a lot of service on the 1942 squad with Bones McKinney, and his knowledge of the habits and antics of the big boy should be a great help in stopping McKinney tonight in the first home game of the season for Coach Leroy Jay's squad. Geil's steady influence should prove to be a great help in the tight spots.

stein (N. Wat.) as the utility man. Listed as the best in the fraternity division were Brown and Hill (Sigma Pi) as ends, Hoffman and Boyd (Kappa Sig) as tackles, Godwin and Hook as guards, Hook at center, Holloman, Jones (PIKA), Haynes (SPE), and Pharr (Kappa Sig) as backs, and Joyce (Sigma Pi) in the utility spot.

The schedule of events for next week start with a double feature for Monday. Three basketball games will be played in addition to a handball match. The cage tilts are between Sigma Nu and Delta Sig, ALT and Phi Kappa Tau, and Pi Kappa Phi and AKPi. The players for the first mentioned games should be ready at 7:45 and for the last two games at 9:00. The following night first, second and third Alexander play the same floors from Becton respectively. The first two games then are at 7:45 and the last at 9:00 along with Fourth's game with Wellens. No other games are slated until Thursday when PIKA contests Alpha Gamma Rho and SPE plays

Plans for Freshman Basketball Schedule Disclosed By Dickens

Fresh Will Not Take Part In Varsity Games Despite Conference Ruling

With a list of over sixty boys originally for his freshman basketball team, Coach Phil Dickens has narrowed the roster to seventeen. These boys are now practicing daily in preparation for the limited schedule that the team will play this year. Although no games have yet been definitely placed on the list, tilts with Carolina, Duke, and several other teams of this vicinity will be held in the near future.

The University of North Carolina is planning to use freshmen for both varsity and frosh teams, but no boy will be permitted to play on both squads.

In an interview early in the week Dickens stated that it was too early in the season to make any statement about the prospects of the squad's success, or even to name any starting team. However, in the scrimmages with the varsity and during other sessions, Braxton Schell, a ball-hawking guard from Raleigh, Hal Owens, lanky Charlotte center, and two forwards, Neal of Roanoke Rapids, and Henson, another local player, have served as the nucleus for the Techlets.

None of the positions for any of the teams are definite, however, and all of the other members of the aggregation still have a chance to win a starting position.

The complete roster for the freshman cause include Schell, Neal, Henson, Owens, Swift, Mackie, Gillis, Wilson, Wynne, Harris, Rickenbacker, Speight, Walker, Ponder, Victor, Harrell, and McManus. Kenneth Coble is serving as the team's manager.

Red Terrors Open Home Stand With Army Squad

Homecoming For Bones

It's homecoming night for Bones McKinney tonight when the Fort Bragg Replacement Center sends its basketball squad against the Red Terrors in Frank Thompson Gymnasium at 8 o'clock. The lanky center was one of the hottest pieces of material in the Big Five and Southern Conference basketball circles last year, climaxing his career in the final game of the season against South Carolina. Bones scored 30 points in that game for his all-time high.

Fort Bragg Comes To Raleigh For Second Meeting With Red Terrors

State College's Red Terror basketball quint, minus three of last year's starting line-up, open their 1943 home schedule tonight, meeting the star-studded Fort Bragg Replacement Center squad in Frank Thompson Gymnasium—their second meeting of the season.

The two teams met at Fort Bragg shortly before the Christmas holidays, and the Red Terrors came out on the winning end of a close score after trailing most of the way.

So far in Southern Conference competition, the big red team coached by Leroy Jay has won one and lost one. The victory came at the expense of Clemson to the tune of 48-40 with Nickel and Reid leading the State College offense. The next night, however, the up-and-coming Wildcats of Davidson took the measure of the Terrors 48-37, and were never headed from the starting whistle.

Forming the nucleus of the team this winter are Bernie Mock and dribbling Buckwheat Carvalho. Jack Geil, a reserve last year who saw plenty of action, is also coming in for plenty of action.

The Fort Bragg squad is crowded with former college stars of the court, among them being lanky Bones McKinney who paced the 1942 Red Terrors, and Ray Smith, one of the outstanding performers on the State team of 1941. It was Smith and McKinney who were the sparkplugs of their teams—last year, as McKinney went, so went State College. The elongated center proved to be a sensation last year as a sophomore, and turned out to be the hottest piece of basketball material to hit the Big Five. He possessed color, and his antics on the court caused fans to flock in droves to see him play.

Only one southern college player was able to outscore Bones last year—he was Hugh Hampton of High Point College. Hampton is also the only player who was a college performer, his ability to hit the basket made up for it.

Tonight's game is scheduled for 8 o'clock, and students will be admitted on presentation of the winter term registration cards.

TECH TALK

All New
A new year, a new column, and a new name at the head of it—all with this issue. Yes, Fall Term Sports Editor Jim Morgan is no longer connected with THE TECHNICIAN. It seems that certain professors thought he would be much more useful somewhere else—namely, in class.

And so a new column is born. The new Sports Editor, Earle Holliday, prefers to continue writing the Intramural column, and that leaves this department to me. Any suggestions for improvement of this column will be gladly received, and at the same time, any complaints will be duly respected. It's for you, so tell us what you want (in the way of sports, of course), and we'll try to give it to you.

Wedding Bells
We can't explain it, we can only pass it on with something of a flabbergasted expression, but during the Christmas holidays, the Wilsons almost got married "en masse." Among those lost to the better half were Bolo Stillwell, Jimmy Allen, and Tom Gould of a couple of year ago. And over on the question mark side of the ledger is Eddie Teague, last Fall's sensation at the halfback post.

In one breath Eddie discloses the fact that he too was married at Christmas, but a minute later, he decides that he's single again. It's hard to tell whether Eddie is hooked or not—maybe he'll decide soon and let us know.

The "almost but not quite" bracket includes Hoot Gibson and Mike Andrews. Both started payments on engagement rings during the vacation.

Frosh Eligibility
The ruling passed down by a meeting of Southern Conference officials shortly before Christmas opens all varsity sports in the loop to freshmen. Some of the cage teams in the conference, notably Carolina with Nagy and Lougee, have already put frosh in their varsity line-ups, but Coach Leroy Jay of the Red Terrors hasn't made a move in that direction yet.

State will have a freshman basketball team, and a schedule will be worked out as far as possible. At least, so are the plans at the present time.

Coach Tom Hines of the swimming team does plan to use freshmen on the tank squad, and several first-year men are showing a lot of promise. Among them are Boyce Brown of Charlotte and Billy Powell of Rocky Mount, winner of several AAU events in the past.

On the Court
At first, it looked like Duke, Davidson, and Carolina would be the teams to beat in the Southern Conference basketball competition this winter, with the emphasis on them in the order named. That picture was changed decidedly this week when George Washington University from the nation's capital, the newest member of the conference, invaded the Old North State and made a clean sweep of three games—Duke, Carolina, and the Navy Pre-Flight squad from Chapel Hill.

It begins to look as if the court crown may leave North Carolina this year. Of course, anything can happen and probably will. The Red Terrors have a lot of talent in the sophomore class, and with a little more experience, these boys may be just what is needed to bring the crown to West Raleigh.

Well Known Scholar Talks On Rubber Tonight at 8

Dr. H. Marks Speaks Under Sponsorship of Sigma Xi; Lecture is Open To All

Dr. H. Marks, professor of organic chemistry at Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute, will deliver a lecture at State College tonight under auspices of the Sigma Xi society. A discussion of recent developments in the synthetic rubber field will feature the lecture, which is entitled "The Fundamental Aspects of the Elasticity of High Polymers." The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock in Withers Hall auditorium, and anyone interested in the subject is invited. Dr. L. D. Bayer, vice-president of Sigma Xi, will preside.

An internationally known scholar, Dr. Marks has written, in several languages, publications dealing with synthetic rubbers, synthetic fibers, rayon, nylon and plastics. In addition to his lecture, he will conduct an open conference on the network formulation in cellulose. Under auspices of the national Society of the Sigma Xi, a scholarly organization emphasizing research, Dr. Marks is making a lecture tour to a number of top-ranking schools, including the University of Illinois, Rice Institute, Iowa State College, Northwestern University, Pennsylvania State College, N. C. State College, and Temple University, and the Mayo Foundation.

Essay Winner

A Brownlow Addington, winner of the annual Swift essay contest at State College, is in Chicago this week on an expense-paid visit permitting several days of studying livestock marketing. He won the trip with his first-place essay on "History of the Meat Industry." Seniors in the School of Agriculture competed. Addington is a senior in animal husbandry.

Musical Organizations Plans for New Year

The State College Musical Organizations are all operating in full swing, recuperating from several weeks of inactivity, reorganizing balance and personnel to patch up vacancies effected by some members not returning to school, and exploring a lot of new music to be used in future concerts. At this time an invitation is extended to prospective members from the ranks of new students, and others who for lack of time or for other reasons were not able to participate in the favorite musical organizations for which they can qualify. All who wish to be identified as members must join up next week. The rehearsal schedule is as follows:

The Men's Glee Club meets in Pullen Hall from 6:30 to 7:30 each Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. An absolutely new program is in preparation, and it is hoped to learn this in four weeks for public presentation.

The Concert Orchestra rehearses every Tuesday night from 8:00 to 9:30, in Pullen Hall, on February 7.

The "Redcoat" Concert Band holds rehearsals in the Band Room in the basement of the Gym on Thursday nights at 6:45 and on Saturdays at 1:00. Some readjustments are necessary at this time, so all who are interested are urged to be on hand Saturday. The first concert is planned for January 24th.

Former State Student Hurt In New Guinea

First Lieutenant Claud E. Clark, 1938 graduate of State College who was injured in New Guinea November 22, mowed down five Japs with his tommy-gun before he was nicked in the arm by an enemy bullet, he has informed his wife, the former Miss Jeannette Bagwell of Raleigh, in a letter written two weeks ago from a hospital in Australia.

Lieut. Clark said he suffered a flesh wound and reported himself as getting along fine.

A former resident of Danville, Va., young Clark made a splendid record at State College, where he graduated in textile management. He was president of Golden Chain, senior honor organization, and was a member of several other professional, military and scholastic groups. He served last year on the editorial staff of The Agro-mech, college annual.

Baby Tender Pete Pop Is Army Private Now

Brooklyn Boy Drew Fame As Freshman Here In 1939-40; "Call Pop" Was Slogan

The Brooklyn boy who built a thriving baby-tending business when he was a freshman at N. C. State College is Private Peter Pop now.

Private Pop, whose name and business together won him international publicity, is in the Quartermaster Corps, stationed at Fort Lanton, Wash., near Seattle. Previously, he was at Camp Lee, near Petersburg, Va.

Pop entered State College in 1939 to handle a baby-tending business that grew by leaps and bounds. "Call Pop" became a common expression in many Raleigh homes. Soon Pop had nearly 20 classmates minding babies while he did nothing but the "administrative" work and collected commissions on his staff's work. The price was 25 cents an hour, and on a three-hour job Pop would wash the supper dishes free.

Pop and his infant business were written up and pictured all over the country and in Canada and Mexico. A handsome lad, Pop soon began getting mash notes from girls in every state of the Union. He got his fraternity, Sigma Pi, to start giving Thanksgiving dinners for 40 or 50 selected Raleigh youngsters as an annual affair. This year it was dubbed the "Peter Pop Dinner." Pop left school last year because of illness.

RATION

No definite policy regarding this matter has yet been formulated by the management of Leazer Dining Hall, but Bill Thompson, manager, is now at work on plans to handle the rationing system. What would happen to students who alternated their meals among several restaurants so that they ate less than 14 in any one place is not yet clear.

The addition of Ration Book No. 2 would give some students three ration books in all. And, the board rationing the third item has announced that another ration period would end today, January 15.

Scholars Honored At State College

Fourteen top-ranking scholars at State College have been initiated by Pine Burr Society, oldest campus-wide honorary fraternity, founded in 1922 to promote scholastic achievement. It invites only juniors or seniors who have never failed a course, whose average grade is not below 85 (under the State College grading system, 95 is perfect) and who have distinguished themselves in some college activity. New members, pictured here, are C. Clark Cockerham, Edwin D. Cox, Richard Dammanin, Max Gardner, Jr., Gene LeGrand, Ben W. Greene, Raymond Smith Kelly, Ray L. Lyerly, James F. McAlister, Robert W. Rainey, Charles E. Schreyer, Jr., Robert W. Smithwick, Jr., Clarence N. Steele, and C. A. Wiggins, Jr.

150 Students To Be Entertained By Local Girls' School; 'Y' Arranged It

About 150 State College boys and an equal number of Peace Junior girls will hold their annual State-Peace party tomorrow night at the girls' school.

Peace students will be hostesses for the event, which is sponsored by the State College YMCA, headed by Walton Thompson of Black Creek, and these Peace societies, listed with their presidents: Rho Delta Chi, Bety Rhodes; Sigma Phi Kappa, Elizabeth Bailey; and Pi Theta Mu, Betty Patrick.

The program will include square, folk and ballroom dancing, and parlor games. The YMCA recreation committee working on plans for the party is composed of Hugh Cazel, chairman; Keith Howell, and Jack Coltrane.

sion, Services of Supply. In his letter establishing the little-publicized committee, the President ordered its members "to make a study for the taking of steps" to enable the young men whose education has been interrupted "to resume their schooling and afford equal opportunity for training and education of their young men of ability after their service in the armed forces has come to an end."

The committee is composed of: Brig. Gen. Frederick H. Osborn, director; Capt. C. C. Baughman, representing the Navy; Dr. Dexter Keezer, President of Reed College, Portland, Ore., now serving in the Office of Price Administration; Dr. E. C. Harris, President of Tulane University, New Orleans; and Dr. John W. Studebaker, Director of the Office of Education.

Although no action has been taken yet, a spokesman for Gen. Osborn reports that the committee will concentrate primarily on returning 18 and 19 year old student draftees to their colleges and universities when the war is over.

Draftees in the present war are educationally head and shoulders above their counterparts in the last war, recently compiled figures show. Twelve per cent of the present draftees have a college education, as against 5% of college trained men in the 1918 army.

Many Chem Test Men Wanted, Dr. Randolph

Ten Week Short Course On Subject To Start Jan. 18; Women In Demand, Too

War industries are making numerous demands for men and women trained in chemical testing and inspection, according to Dr. E. E. Randolph, head of the Department of Chemical Engineering at State College. He called attention to a new short course which his department will begin January 18.

The course, which will last 10 weeks, will be financed by the Federal government, with the student having to pay only for his or her subsistence and one textbook. Completion of high school is required and some college training is desirable.

Members of the regular chemical engineering staff will teach the course in chemical testing and inspection. Instruction will deal with special procedures of industrial and war production work in chemical industries such as explosives, arsenals, ordnance works, petroleum, water purification, fuels, oils and metal industries.

Prospective students should apply at once to the State College Extension Division, Dr. Randolph said.

"The very greatly increased production of essential chemical materials has exhausted the available supply of trained men and women for this work," he declared. "They are, therefore, urgently in need of people with some chemical engineering and chemical testing training. We are continually getting calls for men and women to take important jobs with inviting salaries and working conditions. Civil service jobs will be open to those completing the course successfully."

The chemical industry offers great opportunities to women, Dr. Randolph said, and qualified women are urged to take the course.

How the war is affecting the college girls and how they are preparing themselves to do the war job for which they are best fitted will be the subject of the program in the "Womanpower" series to be broadcast over the Columbia network on January 24 at 12:15 EWT. This series, which has been on the air since last summer, is produced in cooperation with the War Manpower Commission.

America is used to men being deferred from service; now it has happened to a woman. Mary K. The WAACs are in urgent need of engineering draftsmen.

Bowl Bound

Gasoline rationing hit the University of Tulsa campus at the wrong moment, but, undaunted, the Golden Hurricane's cheer leaders pooled their "A" (4 gal.) ration books, produced one big "A" sticker from the combined quotas and set out in the campus wreck to help the Tulsa footballers in their contest with Tennessee's Volunteers in the Sugar Bowl classic at New Orleans on New Year's Day.

Striking that old cheer section attitude, Billie Mae Clark, Josephine Dick, Bob Perryman, Letha Lee Cox, Wanda Reddin and "A" card holder Jim Nuckolls send up a cheer for the undefeated and untied Golden Hurricane.

Fundamentals of Good Basketball

Few high school basketball players graduating into college ranks are skilled in the fundamentals of the game but have merely fallen into it. Faced with this problem most college coaches undertake the laborious task of breaking their players' bad habits and teaching them the fine points of pivoting, shooting and ball handling. Coach Clair Bee, who produces outstanding teams at Long Island University, shows you here some of the things every good player should know.

The set foul shot can mean points. Coach Bee spends lots of time teaching his players how to execute it.

Flexibility of fingers and wrists are important assets. L. I. U. players acquire this by tossing medicine balls. Wide World

One of the most important plays in basketball is the recovery of the ball from the bankboard. Bee teaches his players to get to the inside position and use a spread eagle of their legs to prevent an opponent from getting the ball. Average fan doesn't realize how intricate basketball plays are set up.

Texas' 'Commandettes' In Action

To get ready for their war-time assignment—whether in the factory, on the farm, or in civilian defense activities—University of Texas coeds are going through rigorous physical training in a war-conditioning class which has earned them the campus nick-name of "commandettes."

More than 100 girls are enrolled in the special war-conditioning course, which meets three times a week to hurdle through, around and over a city-block maze of obstacles scientifically designed to put all muscles of the body into play.

Ladders, horizontal poles, ropes, walls—all are scaled at a mad pace, with speed and agility rather than grace as the object. Latest time for the class to scurry through the entire obstacle course is 40 seconds, "but we're going to beat that by a long shot before we're through," Miss Leah Gregg, supervisor of the training, declares.

"Commandettes" must have a good equilibrium, and a dash over horizontal logs raised off the ground is a good developer of balance. Dorris Kennedy leads the way on the first pole, followed by Burnell Surles and Patsy Cain.

The rope and log combination is specially designed to develop "the shoulder girdle," or the muscles which literally girdle the shoulders and ribs. Tarzan has nothing on these girls.

Jane Bates does a parallel handstand, then plummets to the ground from the wooden ladder.

It's every "commandette" for herself, and no holds barred when the class hurdles an 8-foot ladder of 2-by-4's nailed to stout posts.

Putting their training to actual test, the "commandettes" staged an actual "raid" through "enemy" territory of Waller Creek, at the foot of the girls' playfield—with disastrous results for Doris Fritts, but like good soldiers, Marian Pharr, Eleida Prado and Pat Spooner lend a helping hand.

Digging for Victory

Armed with picks, shovels, sledges and railroad jacks, 50 Muhlenberg College men set out one cold Saturday afternoon to lift some 600 feet of old trolley rails. Before nightfall they had dug 36,550 pounds of scrap steel from their "surface mine." Above they are pictured digging for the precious metal and at right are triumphantly carrying a rail to the scrap heap. Money gained from the scrap has been turned into war bonds which are being used to start a scholarship fund for men who have entered the service before finishing their college careers. These men will be able to borrow from the fund after the war to finish college.
