Famed Commander Shares In Observance Tomorrow

Major General William C. "Bill" Lee, famed commander of the "Eagle Division" of parachute troops at Fort Bragg, will participate in the State-Raleigh Day celebration here Saturday. Executive Secretary Wesley Williams of the Merchants Bureau announced Wednesday.

General Lee, a graduate of State College, will head the unique rubberless, motorless parade starting at Memorial Auditorium at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon and also will participate in brief half-time ceremonies at the State-Wake Forest football game Saturday night.

Nationally known for his pioneering work in organizing fighting units of paratroopers, General Lee is an alumnus of both Wake Forest and State, to which he transferred after beginning his college career at the Baptist school. He received the B.S. degree in education at State College in 1936, taking work by correspondence and in summer school to fill the gap created when he went to the Army in World War I.

Governor Broughton and Col. J. W. Harrelson, State College's dean of administration, also will participate in the half-time program, which will not last over five minutes. The Governor will present to the winning fraternity a handsome gold trophy offered by the Merchants Bureau to the frat having the best-decorated house.

Wake Forest students are joining the West Raleigh boys in arranging a gala program for State-Raleigh Day. A broad variety of entries for the colorful parade are being prepared by fraternities and other student organizations at both schools. Musical organizations in the parade will include the Raleigh High Schools, Wake Forest and State bands, and the State drum and bugle corps. The college bands will combine in a show at the half-time intermission.

Judges will begin their rounds of fraternity houses Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock, and the decorations must be in place by then. Windows of stores in the business district will be decorated for the occasion, and each of the 10 stores with the most appropriately-decorated windows will receive two complimentary tickets to the game.

State-Raleigh Day was inaugurated last year to foster cordial relations between the college, Raleigh merchants and the general public. The trophy and decorative materials for the colleges are being provided by the Merchants Bureau.

Plans to combine a Dad's Day ceremony with the Saturday festivities have been abandoned, Williams said Wednesday, because the shortness of time did not allow complete preparations.

Rumors Hail It That State May See Some Drastic Changes Made

Pomeranz Starts a Few Rumors of His Own As Administration Says "There's Something in the Air"

By BOB POMERANZ

There is every indication that within a few months, State College, along with other schools throughout the country, will be put under the control of the War Department.

Nothing definite has yet been announced, but offhand comment on the campus, plus a statement by Dean J. W. Harrelson that "something was in the making" serve to give the rumor some foundation.

In answer to a direct question on Wednesday, Col. Harrelson stated, "There appears to be something in the making, but no definite information has been released by the War Department, the War Manpower Commission, or the U. S. Office of Education."

Just what the status of different groups of students would be under such an arrangement could not be guessed yet. During the last year the actual scholastic section of the college remained under the regular staff of the college with effect taken over by the Government, and strict military discipline was maintained. No ROTC unit existed at that time, and a Students Army Training Corps was formed. Drill periods for all were held at 7 a. m., guards were posted, and other routine indicated the military control.

The present situation is complicated by a host of factors. An ROTC unit does already exist here; a great many upperclassmen hold commissions in the Naval Reserve; others are in the army, navy, marines reserve; the War Manpower Commission is clamoring for technically trained men—all these things serve to make the problem of turning the campus over to the Army a difficult problem.

Another campus rumor this week ran something like this: Because restrictions on civilian travel would be imposed from Dec. 15 to Jan. 15, all colleges would be asked to give their students a 40-day period off, so that they could travel to their homes before the restrictions started, and could return to Raleigh after they were removed. An alternative rumor stated that Xmas vacation might be done away with entirely for the same reason.

Dean Harrelson stated that he too has heard some rumors about possible travel restrictions, but "so far there has been no announcement by any government agency to change the policies, programs, or plans of State College. The present calendar will probably be maintained."

The real reason for the rumor was discovered by a call to the business manager of St. Mary's College, who stated that the Association of Southern Railroads was attempting to gain support for a move to lengthen the vacation period. St. Mary's was investigating the possibility of doing this and cutting out the spring vacation.

Besides the grid encounter, other highlights of the week-end will be the annual Stunt Night on Friday, and Homecoming Dance Saturday night. The events of the week-end are being sponsored by Blue Key and Golden Chain.

Starting off the round of events will be a football meeting between the fresh teams of State and Wake Forest, Friday afternoon, October 30, in Riddick Stadium. At 7 that night, a big radio pep meeting will be held in Riddick Stadium. Station WRAL will broadcast the pep meeting from 7:30 to 7:45, and station WPTF will air a transcription of it at 10:30 that same night. To complete the Friday shows, Stunt Night will begin at 8, with all fraternities and many dormitory groups presenting skits.

Big event of Saturday, and the whole program, is the game between the Wolfpack and the Tar Heels at 2:30 Saturday, but first alumni and students' dads will be welcomed and registered. The ROTC unit is expected to pass in review just before the football game gets underway. Several groups are planning banquets for that evening.

At 9 that evening, Blue Key and Golden Chain will present the annual Homecoming Dance in Frank Thompson Gymnasium, with Hap Brown and his Victory Band performing.

Three Dance Bids Ok'd By Council

Because no Social Functions Committee has as yet been named, the Faculty Council last week approved three requests for campus dances this term.

The Homecoming Dance, sponsored as a climax to the State-Carolina game by Blue Key and Golden Chain, leads off the term's functions on Oct. 31. Pledge dance set held by the Interfraternity Council is scheduled for November 13 and 14, and the Monogram Club will sponsor a dance on November 28.

As expressed by Dean E. L. Cloyd, the policy of the administration is "definitely for the hiring of lower priced bands. Travel restrictions will make it next to impossible for big bands to come here, and this is no time to be spending a great deal of money for a band."

Only Girl Entry Wins Honor In Stock Show With Prize Hereford

Nancy Elliott, 13-Year-Old 4-H'er Has Grand Champion In Annual Calf Show

Nancy Elliott, 13-year-old, 4-H club girl from Iredell County, had her 925 pound Hereford steer adjudged the grand champion of the Eastern North Carolina Fat and Feeder Calf Show which opened Tuesday at State College. She was the only girl among the 34 farm youths who exhibited calves.

A beef barbecue banquet was held in Leazer Dining Hall Tuesday night to honor the 4-H club exhibitors. Dean I. O. Schaub, director of the State College Extension Service which conducted the show and sale, was toastmaster. Edward A. Wayne, Secretary of the N. C. Banker's Association which donated the premium money, was the principal speaker.

Col. John W. Harrelson welcomed the guests and L. I. Case, who directed the two-day livestock event, presented the ribbons to the owners of the grand and reserve champions. The reserve champion was shown by George B. Price of Union County.

An auction sale was held at 1 o'clock in Polk Hall on Wednesday afternoon to dispose of the 39 calves. Oscar Pitts, director of the North Carolina prisons, was the auctioneer and H. W. Taylor, extension marketing specialist, was the sales manager. There was much competition between local merchants, hotel and restaurant managers with the Carolina Hotel and A. & P. Stores buying the greatest number. The Students Supply Store here on the campus purchased one steer. Top prices for the grand and reserve champions were 30 cents and 25 cents respectively.

After the sale, War Bonds were sold and a steer bought by Smith Douglas Fertilizer Co. was given to the person having the lucky number drawn from the box.

Harrelson Honor Guest, Reviews 'Eagle Battalion' At Fort Bragg

Colonel J. W. Harrelson, dean of administration of State was honor guest at a review of the 101st Airborne Division of Fort Bragg when he visited Major General William C. (Bill) Lee, commanding general of the "Eagle Division," Saturday, October 10.

Colonel Harrelson, a veteran of World War I and an officer in the Field Artillery Reserve Corps from which he derives his title, is one of the South's best known educators with a long and impressive record with North Carolina's institutions of higher learning. He was General Lee's mathematics instructor at U. C. State in 1916 and 1917 after the General transferred to that institution from Wake Forest. The inspection and review of troops of General Lee's command was made by Colonel Harrelson upon special invitation of the Commanding General.

Arriving at the 101st Airborne Division headquarters after an early morning drive from Raleigh, Colonel Harrelson accompanied the General to the parade field where every unit of the "Eagle Division" was assembled for the review. Attended by all the color and ceremony befitting such an occasion,

Lee inspected the troops and then Colonel Harrelson and General Lee inspected the troops and then took their positions with members of the

Big Pep Rally Opens Celebration Tonight At 7 In Riddick Field

Both Raleigh Radio Stations Will Broadcast Huge Meeting; Red Coat Band To Play

With the State College Wolfpack facing one of its season's toughest encounters, the entire student body is called to assemble in Riddick Stadium tonight at 7 o'clock for a gigantic football pep meeting.

Both Raleigh stations will broadcast the pep rally. Station WRAL will take the air at 7:30 for a 15-minute period. Station WPTF will broadcast a transcription of the pep rally at 10:30 p. m. This will give all an opportunity to take part and then listen to it.

Chairs by the student body led by head cheerleader Ed Grosse, will be the feature spot on the show along with State College music by the Redcoat Band, under Major C. D. Kutachinski. Bob Pomeranz will be master of ceremonies. Members of the football team and the coaching staff will be on hand to say a few words.

Student spirit has always played a big part in the success of State's Wolfpack. Last week's game with the pro Navy Pre-flight School was just one indication of the superior fighting qualities of the 1942 team. Full student support is needed for tonight's pep rally. Be there!

Leaders In Industry Sought By Council To Speak At Gatherings

First Meeting of Year Sees Council Planning Many Activities To Replace Annual Fair

Plans to bring a series of well-known figures in the engineering world to address monthly meetings of the combined engineering societies were laid by the Engineers' Council at a meeting Wednesday.

Among those mentioned as possibilities were Alexander P. DeSeveraky, famous airplane designer and Lieutenant General William Knudsen, former president of General Motors.

Because the regular Engineers' Fair is sure to be curtailed somewhat this year, the Council is planning other activities. Tommy Gelsus, R. A. Atkinson, and Nick Gelsus were appointed a program committee for the monthly meetings.

On motion from the floor, the General Engineering Society was admitted to the Council with full membership privileges. Last year the Engineers' Council had a membership in the Council during a trial period. They become the third campus engineering society to get membership.

Council President Addison Hawley appointed Jerry Stockard, an N. C. State resident, representative to a temporary committee to investigate into the

Promoted

BLAKE R. VAN LEER

Promotion of Blake R. Van Leer to the rank of lieutenant colonel in the U. S. Army was reported yesterday by Col. J. W. Harrelson, dean of administration at State College, from which Van Leer is on leave as dean of the School of Engineering.

Lt.-Col. Van Leer was called to active duty last May as a major in the Army Reserve and since then has served as chief of the training section of the Services of Supply in Washington. A veteran of the last war, with an outstanding service record, he served overseas for 13 months, spending most of that time on the front lines. France decorated him with the Croix de Guerre for exceptional performance under the most difficult conditions. He was in five major engagements, including the Meuse-Aargonne and St. Mihiel battles.

State Chosen One of Five Schools Giving Aircraft Inspection

Successful Applicants Will Become Civil Service Employees of Army Air Forces

State College has been selected by the U. S. Army Air Forces as one of five schools in the East to offer a special short course in aircraft inspection, with students to be paid while learning and placed in jobs immediately upon successful completion of the course. Director Edward Ruggles of the College Extension Division announced Thursday.

Upon their acceptance, students will become civil service employees of the Army Air Forces and during the training period will receive a salary based on $1,440 annually. They will be classified as junior inspectors when they graduate and will be placed on jobs in plants providing aircraft materials at a salary of $1,620 annually, with time and one-half overtime pay for all work over 40 hours weekly.

The course will last nine weeks, with 40 hours of instruction weekly. It is open to men and women who are 18 and over and who have graduated from high school. Applicants must pass aptitude and general intelligence tests conducted by the Civil Service Commission.

Men who expect to go into military service soon are not desired, it was stated by Howard Krell of New York, who is in charge of the Board of Civil Service Examiners for the eastern district of the Army Air Forces.

Announcement of State College's selection as one of the few training centers for the important aircraft inspection course was made at a conference of Ruggles, Krell and Major Sanford R. Smith, assistant supervisor of the Eastern Procurement District of the Army Air Forces. Major Smith is the Army's resident representative at the Fairchild aircraft plant in Burlington.

November 16 was set tentatively as the starting date for the State College course, and it was announced that the college had been assigned a quota of 29 to 30 students. The course will be one in a series which the college will offer for the Army Air Forces.

Other schools selected to offer the course are Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y.; Drexel Institute, Philadelphia; Stevens Polytechnic Institute, Hoboken, N. J.; and New York University. Krell said State College was selected because of its "very good rating," its aeronautical engineering.

Novel De-motorized Parade Marks Second Annual Celebration

Downtown Observance To Be Marked by De-motorized March; Game Tomorrow Night Holds Attention

Final plans have been completed for the second annual State-Raleigh Day and the celebration gets underway with a gigantic de-motorized parade tomorrow at 3:00.

A huge pep-rally has been planned for Riddick Stadium tonight and the first cheer of the Wolfpack followers will officially usher in the festivities of the week-end.

Planned by the merchants of Raleigh honoring the State student body, the celebration was made possible that the relations between the City of Raleigh and State College could be furthered.

The day's festivities will be climaxed Saturday night when the State and Wake Forest football teams meet in Riddick Stadium. Wake Forest students are joining the West Raleigh boys in planning a gala program for State-Raleigh Day.

It was announced that a motorless, rubberless parade—packing plenty of color and comedy—would start promptly at 3 p. m. Saturday at Memorial Auditorium. The procession will proceed up Fayetteville Street and around Capitol Square. It will disband at the intersection of Hillsboro and McDowell streets.

A broad variety of entries are being arranged by fraternities and other student organizations at State and Wake Forest. Musical organizations in the parade will include the Raleigh High School, State and Wake Forest bands, and the State drum and bugle corps.

The college bands will combine in a show at the game's half-time intermission, when a handsome gold trophy will be awarded to the State fraternity adjudged to have the best decorations in a contest sponsored by the Merchants Bureau. The Bureau not only is donating the trophy but is providing material for decorating the fraternity houses. Dormitories also will be decorated Saturday.

Judges will begin their rounds of fraternity houses Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock, and the decorations must be in place by then. The trophy will be awarded to the winning fraternity by Governor J. M. Broughton.

Windows of stores in the business district will be decorated for the occasion, and each of the 10 stores with the most appropriately-decorated windows will receive two complimentary tickets to the game. The Bureau has given materials with which Wake Forest students are decorating their entries for the parade.

The student committee working with Williams on plans for the

China Missionaries Speak Here Thursday

Dr. and Mrs. Stamps Appear At 'Y' Meetings; Returned on the Gripsholm from Far East

Dr. and Mrs. D. F. Stamps, who have been in China as missionaries under the Southern Baptist Board, will be the speakers at the regular Y. M. C. A. meeting in the "Y" auditorium Thursday, October 22, at 7 p. m. All State College students and faculty members are invited to attend and to participate in the forum following.

Dr. and Mrs. Stamps returned to this country from China last August on the Swedish ship Gripsholm which brought hundreds of American citizens from the far eastern war zone. They will speak on "China's Struggle for Freedom."

Dr. Stamps, a native of Georgia, was educated at Mercer University and the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville. Soon after graduation, Dr. Stamps married Elizabeth Belk, who attended Peace College here.

During World War I, he was a chaplain with the AEF. Following the war, he was sent by the Southern Baptist Convention foreign mission board to China. He and Mrs. Stamps remained there until they returned to this country recently with other refugees on the liner Gripsholm.

Dr. and Mrs. Stamps are now living here.

Let's Cooperate

Tomorrow marks the second celebration of the annual State-Raleigh Day and although the event this year is being held under war-time conditions and restrictions it has lost none of its meaning. Originally planned to better the relations between the city of Raleigh and the students of State College, the observance will be the second such honoring of State by Raleigh.

Realizing the importance of Raleigh and State College to each other, the merchant's of Raleigh conceived State-Raleigh Day to create a better understanding between the two, and are doing their utmost to repeat the success of the event of last year. The sincerity of their efforts is again shown by their success in planning a parade to open the festivities tomorrow. Although the tire and gas rationing laws vitally affect the staging of any such parade, the merchant's have cooperated wholeheartedly by allowing only those vehicles that don't use rubber or gasoline to appear in the parade.

The merchants have also repeated their offer of decorations to the dormitories and fraternity houses of State for the students to put up, and a trophy has been offered to the best decorated house. Their realization that the war-restrictions of transportation has cut down the attendance at State's football games is shown in their efforts to attract a capacity crowd to Riddick Stadium tomorrow night. If the event has the success that it noted last year, the merchant's will not have failed in their aims; and a good part of the making of the day a success lies with the State students.

This is an opportunity for the followers of the Wolfpack to really show their colors for State and the City of Raleigh. The event has become a permanent institution; it can become a permanent success only through the combined efforts of all State College personnel and the people of Raleigh. The people of the city have done their share in making the observance possible despite many obstacles. It is now our turn to meet their efforts with equally sincere cooperation and work.

United War Fund

Sometime within the next two weeks, every student of State College will be solicited for a donation to the United War Fund drive of Raleigh. Unlike the set-up of former years, this drive will include donations for 21 different services and only one canvass will be made replacing the score or more similar drives made every fall. The goal for the fund has been upper over last year in response to greater demands on the civic organizations and it is with this idea in mind that the campaign on State campus will be made.

The serious demand for greater finances for the War Fund can easily be seen by recalling to mind the millions of people in the world that are suffering as a direct result of the war and the least we can do to help in our own small way is to donate as much as we can afford to the drive.

Considering the conditions under which millions of our Allies are now existing, the terrible cost they are paying in this war, and comparing them with the relative ease of the life we are enjoying, every student in State College should think long and consider all the advantages of giving a large sum to this one fund for 21 agencies.

Remember the United War Fund reaches 21 agencies. It saves you time, money and energy; you are approached by only one request instead of by 21. When the date is set for the drive and you are asked to contribute, give the situation a thought. Show your appreciation for the security you enjoy by donating your share toward the goal set for State.

Think it over!
Through unity of effort the United War Fund of Raleigh will meet a real need. Already 300 other cities and counties in America have united their efforts into War Funds so that they might do a better job for the war needy.

SENIOR Spotlight

By HOYLE ADAMS
The Spotlight focuses this week on Robert Isaac Dalton, Jr., who was born in Charlotte, N. C., on April 2, 1921.

Bob is a Textile senior who has maintained a high scholastic average ever since entering State in September, 1939. He has received many high campus honors, and this year Bob is editor-in-chief of The Agromech. Holding the editorship of The Agromech has always meant plenty of hard work and heavy responsibility, but the task this year will be even greater because it is planned to issue the annual in March instead of in June so that the earlier graduates will receive their copies before leaving school.

Bob is a member of Golden Chain, Blue Key, Pine Burr, Phi Psi, Sigma Tau, Sigma, Upsilon Sigma Alpha, and the Public Lectures Committee. He is also vice-president of Scabbard and Blade.

Last year Dalton was vice-president of the Junior class, a member of the Student Council, and a dance committeeman for the Junior-Senior Prom. During his sophomore year he received the Phi Psi Scholarship Key, which is given annually to the textile student having made the highest average during his first two years here at State. He was also a member of the dance committee for the Soph Hop.

Before coming to State, Bob attended McCallie Preparatory School in Chattanooga, Tenn. While there he won his monogram in track. He served on the editorial staffs of both the school newspaper and the annual.

Being a member of a family of seven, Bob is quite unspoiled. How could he be otherwise! He possesses plenty of school spirit and is always eager to enter into any campus activity.

Bob is a member of Kappa Alpha, national social fraternity. He likes all the women and at the moment he is completely unattached. A younger brother, Rufus, has come to join him at State this year and is playing on the freshman football team.

PARKER: Let's all turn out for the big celebration tomorrow and really show the deacs some spirit!

By LURLINE PARKER

With the highly successful completion of our student scrap metal drive, we now move on to our next event of importance, State-Raleigh Day. We are anxiously awaiting the celebration to see some of that old State spirit that we keep hearing so much about.

If you read our paper, you will no doubt by now know the technical details of the day, but they are to us of somewhat minor importance. What we really want you to do is to feel a real enthusiasm about the thing and express it! And you can't do this by yawning through the parade in the morning and then cheering State on in the afternoon with a feeble, "Ray, rah, rah, team."

Perhaps your Dad will be here. Are you going to drag him on an impromptu tour of the town and campus and act so completely bored that he will wish he had not dropped his business to come? If you are such a one of these addicts of boredom, our advice is to take a day off and stay home in bed. If you are not, why don't you take this opportunity to show your Dad just what his son is really like? Make him proud that he's here with you expressing a mutual feeling.

Any Bonds Today?

SHARDS and FLATS

by R. D. GUYTON

Lend an ear sentimentalist because you will certainly want to hear "There Are Such Things" by Tommy Dorsey. This record is reminiscent of "This Love of Mine," "Stardust," and "I'll Never Smile Again." The arrangement features Tommy's trombone and his newly added violins. It is beautifully sung by Frank Sinatra, who is at his best on this record and the Pied Piper's. Be sure to pay close attention to the violin accompaniment.

It's terrific. On the other side is "Daybreak" which also features Frank Sinatra and the typical Dorsey at his best. Sammy Kaye has scored again with his recording of "Taboo." Tommy Ryan, Don Cornell, and the Glee Club furnish excellent words to the melody with the help of Sammy's rhythm section. There is a decided jungle beat throughout the song, and it will certainly haunt you. The reverse side "If I Cared a Little Bit Less" is just another song arranged in the Sammy Kaye style.

Paul Wetstein, who first did arrangements for Dinah Shore, is now arranging and leading the orchestra for her in Hollywood. He has an unusual combination of instruments. His orchestra has four violins, four violas, three woodwinds, a celeste, one trombone and trumpet. He uses only top flight musicians, and his arrangements are of the finest. No wonder Dinah Shore can make the world fall in love with her by singing "Dearly Beloved" and then ask "Why Don't You Fall in Love with Me." Ask Jimmy Thiem to play this record for you. . . Both sides are fine.

Do I hear Helen Forrest grieving about "That Soldier of Mine?" Boy, that girl is versatile! On the other side, Harry James accompanies her with "Mister Five by Five." Here is a jump tune that resembles Harry James recording of "Strictly Instrumental."

All Charlie Spivak fans should listen to "White Christmas" and "Yesterdays Gardenias." Both sides are ably sung by Garry Stevens. Mr. Spivak will put you to sleep with his pretty trumpet solos on each side.

For quality of performance, no band in the country can surpass Tommy Dorsey's. Few can equal it. The evidence is continually popping up. This time, the finger points to "Manhattan Serenade." After an intro of violins, Tommy's muted trombone, accompanied by a muted trumpet, takes the spotlight.

Don't you cry Jitterbugs, because Gene Krupa has recorded a record that is made to order for you. Anita O'Day will "send you" with her interpretation of "Massachusetts" and "Murder, He Says." Roy Eldridge plays the last chorus on the latter and all in all, you jitterbugs will certainly go for this one.

If you ever care to break the monotony of swing ones in a while and want to listen to some real technical music, listen to Xavier Cugat's recording to "Brasil" and "Chiu Chiu." Both sides are Sam-ba's, and feature vocals by Lina Romay and the Cugat Chorus. Listen especially to the chorus and rhythm section. That music lovers is strictly O.K.

GLEANINGS

During my long and arduous career as a hard-working(?) member of THE TECHNICIAN staff, I have never before dared to try to write Gleanings, the column which is, by the way, the bane of our existence. The reason that I have never before ventured to tackle this job is that I have never felt that I could do it satisfactorily. I see not - hear not - speak not. In other words I know no gossip, that is, none that's fit to print! However, there must be a first time for everything, and so here goes on a few little matters that I have been thinking about. And no stuff, fellows, I really do think - occasionally, in spite of any rumors you may have heard to the contrary!

Most of us agree that the Wolfpack-Pre-Flight game last Saturday was a super-duper; in fact, one of the best we had ever seen. Of course we would like to have won, but we're perfectly satisfied with the way things turned out, and satisfied too that we have a great team, a team of which we may be justly proud. Those yells and cheers were right in the groove too, so let's keep up the good work tomorrow night when we go out to slaughter the Demon Deacs. Which reminds me - there's a pep meeting tonight - be there!

Saturday is also State-Raleigh Day and Dad's Day combined, so ask your dad up for the game and show him around. He'll be interested in finding out where all that money goes that he's been sending you! Remember too, that while we're here at State, Raleigh is our town, and it's a good one, so let's help keep it that way. Also, when you're doing your shopping, patronize your TECHNICIAN advertisers. They're doing us a good turn and turn-about is fair play, you know. Incidentally, that parade tomorrow should be a good one. What a week-end this is going to be!

Speaking of week-ends, have you thought of the one that's coming in just two weeks, on October 31? Besides being Halloween it is also the day of the State-Carolina game, Greater University Day, Homecoming, and the close of the annual North Carolina Student Legislative Assembly. Yike!

That meeting of the Student Legislature is something in which many of you may become very much interested. They get a lot of practical experience in legislative procedure, have a big time, and, most important of all, get a chance to tell the nation and the world just how we, as college students, feel about a lot of important things and what we think ought to be done about it.

It has just occurred to us that our new staff member, Lurline Parker, would be a valuable addition to any newspaper office. Her articles really pack a wallop and contain some very interesting thoughts. However, the effect she has had on the efficiency of the rest of the staff is simply unmentionable!

The near-catastrophe of the burned fraternity bid acceptances and rejections has been neatly avoided. Everything has been fixed up okay and everybody is happy, or at least reasonably so.

And then there was the man who, while walking across the campus aloft said, "See, I've got the habit." Next to the old scrap pile itself, that was the best thing we've seen in days. It brings this suggestion: let's keep up our scrap drive for the duration. Just keep piling it out there in the junk-yard and by the end of the year we may have another tonload of Jap catastrophe.

And while we are about it, we would like to give a handful of thanks to the Redcoat band for the excellent performance during the game last week. The boys have really worked hard and their excellent showing is a result. Under the guidance of Major K. the band is really showing fine spirit and we are looking forward to their next appearance.

It seems that the rains have come, and come to stay. "Rain, rain, go away!" - nope, I don't believe that'll do any good either. Oh well, I've had enough of this and I'm sure you have too, so until clear weather comes again I'll be sayin' to you - Cheerio!

Hines Puts Tank Men Through Their Paces

De-emphasis Attitude Not Taken By State In Connection With Swimming Team Schedule

The State College tankers held their initial meeting Monday afternoon to begin working out plans for the coming season and to get things lined up for a smooth organization this fall. Of the eight lettermen registered this term only five reported on Monday. Those in attendance elected R. H. Reynolds and E. F. Hilker as tank generals for the '42-'43 season, but the position of manager was left vacant and is to be filled at some later date.

Coach T. I. Hines, who replaces Leroy Jay as the swimmer's mentor, was especially pleased with the number of boys that showed enough interest in the sport to begin conditioning themselves at this very early date. "However," the coach stated, "I would like to have more candidates to work with. There are a lot of vacancies on the squad which anyone might fill if he would only make an effort to condition himself properly. Any boy who would give his time at this very early stage, to make himself ready for the season which begins several months from now, will surely be in a position to win his letter."

Coach Hines stated that the schedule for the coming season has not been worked out yet, but that it was being carefully considered. He also said that State is not taking a de-emphasis attitude toward the formulating of a schedule this year, but that the schedule agreed on would be as complete as the other colleges in the conference would allow; that is, no meets that were held last year would be dropped by State, and at least as many meets will be scheduled this season as before. The final judgment will lie, however, with the various schools about us.

Those receiving equipment this year are: R. H. Reynolds, 50 and 100 yd. dashes; E. F. Hilker, backstroke; Mel Brownold, backstroke; Dick Dammann, backstroke, breaststroke, 100 yd. freestyle; Robert Myers, freestyle; Bill Keller, breaststroke, 220 yd.; Arthur McCabe, 50 yd. freestyle, 440 yd. freestyle; Louis Powers, dash and diving; Bill Throckmorton, 100 yd. freestyle; and Cecil Fry, diving. Edward Cole and R. C. Laughlin are also members of the team this year and are graduates of the freshman squad.

The workouts have not taken a stiff turn yet, according to Coach Hines, but are being employed only as conditioning exercises with short

Line Coach Hickman Judged One of Best Mentors In Nation

Big Boy Hermie Was Called To Coach the Eastern All-Army Line for Col. Bob Neyland of Tennessee

"He's the finest lineman I ever coached at the University of Tennessee." That is the tribute paid to State's well-known line coach by the famous Colonel Bob Neyland, more recently head coach of the Eastern All-Army football team.

Hickman won all-America honors as a guard for the Vols, and graduated when he was only 19 years old. The following year he was selected all-professional guard and at the same time was one of the country's leading professional wrestlers.

"Hermie" is a native of Knoxville, Tennessee, and his prep school was Baylor in Chattanooga. At the University of Tennessee he starred in football, wrestling, and track. His wife, the former Miss Helen Smith, is also from Knoxville.

In 1935 he left professional wrestling to become line coach at Wake Forest College. When Newton came to State, he signed Hickman as his varsity line coach. Tipping the scales around the 300 mark, Hickman is the biggest coach in the state. The big boy is famous for his ability to stow away steaks and barbecue and is an excellent cook. He is kept busy in the off season by serving as coach of wrestling and track in addition to his football duties.

Hickman served as assistant to Colonel Neyland as coach of the Eastern All-Army football team this fall. The powerful line that Herman built for Colonel Neyland was about the best that has ever been seen, and it demanded plenty of respect from the opponents.

Coach Doc Newton has 23 North Carolina boys on his small squad of 35 football players here at State College.

Eddie Teague, State's sophomore backfield ace, is a cartoonist. He is also a private, first class, in the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve.

distance swims at approximately quarter speed. Anyone interested in the swimming team is urged to report to Coach T. I. Hines at the gym.

"S" for State

All set for the "Wake County Championship" football game tomorrow night between State and Wake Forest are these five stalwarts of the Wolfpack squad. Upper left, Sophomore Eddie Teague, Washington, D. C. product, who shares running, passing, and kicking duties chiefly with Art Faircloth; upper right, Dick Callaway, who has been sharing wingback duties with Burner, Clark, and Suniewick; middle, pass catcher Hoot Gibson, who has also distinguished himself this season with his defensive work; lower left, Dink Caton, letterman guard for the past two years, has been one of the chief fliers in the ointment of the opponents this year at his old right guard position; lower right, pile-driving Ray Benbeck, the Wolfpack fullback.

Cross Your Fingers On Our Prognostications For the Week's Games

Fifteen Games Picked Including Southern and Southeastern Conference Teams

By JIM MORGAN

Some said "just lucky," others said "darn good," but we said "gee, what a relief" when the final results were in on the ten games this column predicted last week.

Out of the ten games, we chose six correctly (Boston College over Clemson, Georgia Pre-flight over Duke, V. P. I. over Davidson, Wake Forest over Furman, Maryland over Rutgers, and V. M. I. over Virginia), two ended in deadlocks (William and Mary over Harvard, 7-7; Carolina and Fordham, 0-0), and the other two went against us (West Virginia beat South Carolina and Citadel beat George Washington).

Incidentally, Sports Editor Billy Primm of the Wake Forest Old Gold and Black came out with a much better average this past week than he did before. However, he still has a touch of fiction in his system, as evidenced by his choice of William and Mary over Virginia Tech. No doubt Primm called this game in an effort to boost his sad average, because he couldn't miss on it—the game had already been played a week before with William and Mary coming out on top 21-7.

This week things may be disappointingly different. Several Southern Conference teams are idle, and others are playing toss-up games. Add to this the fact that we are calling some Southeastern Conference games too, and cross your fingers along with us. Anything can happen.

Here are this week's predictions: Duquesne over Carolina. Colgate over Duke. Georgia Tech over Davidson. Tennessee over Alabama. Auburn over Georgetown. Furman over George Washington. Villanova over Florida. Georgia over Tulane. Kentucky over V.P.I. L.S.U. over Mississippi. V.M.I. over Maryland. Vanderbilt over Mississippi State. Richmond over Virginia. Citadel over Newberry. Hampden-Sydney over Washington and Lee.

Woody Jones, iron-man tackle on the 1941 Wolfpack, is coaching this year's freshman team at State.

Phil Dickens, State's new backfield mentor, was a unanimous choice for All-Southeastern Conference back in his senior year at the University of Tennessee in 1936.

Wolfpack Plays Best Game of Season; Newton and Staff Well Pleased With Performance of Whole Squad

In spite of a magnificent stand by the State College Wolfpack, the overwhelming power of Coach "Sleepy" Jim Crowley's Pre-flight Cloudbusters rolled to victory last week by the score of 19-7.

Capitalizing on breaks, the State team took All-American Goodreault's fumble on the State five yard line and turned it into a touchdown and an extra point to lead the Cloudbusters 7-6 at half time. When the Cloudbusters took the ball to pay dirt in three straight first downs at the beginning of the game, the 10,000 spectators resigned themselves to the idea that the contest would be a track meet, but the Newton-men hit the comeback trail hot and heavy to give the Navy team the hardest fight it has had this season.

It was an extremely hard fought game, and both sides appeared to be playing for keeps. Outstanding among the plays executed by the Wolves were the numerous quick kicks by Teague and Faircloth that consistently put the Navy team deep in its own territory. It was, in fact, one of those kicks that was responsible for State's scoring break.

A few hurried interviews of Associated Press writers, radio announcers, and others in the press box after the game was over revealed the overall opinion that the Wolfpack would have scored again, had they had a chance to run two more plays.

Too, these same experts were of the opinion that State College's Wolfpack has excellent chances at a Southern Conference Championship, or perhaps a Co-championship, this year.

After the game, Head Coach Doc Newton and his assistants had nothing but praise for the Wolfpack.

"Our boys took a terrific physical beating in trying to stop Eshmont and those other Navy backs," said Doc. "Fortunately, none of our players were seriously injured, although most of them are nursing painful bruises.

"That Cloudbuster backfield got off as fast as any set of runners and blockers I ever saw," Newton added. "Coach Crowley has a great team of stars, but I think that the 10,000 fans who saw the game will agree that the Wolfpack did a good job in leading the Navy 7-6 at the half, and stopping almost everything except their passes in the second half."

The head coach would not point to any particular player for particular praise. "They all did their best," he said. "That's all you can ask of any bunch of boys. We just hope that our best will be good enough to beat Wake Forest this week."

Deacs to Watch

Those of you who want some particular Deacons to watch tomorrow night will do well to keep your eyes on these three linemen. Left to right, they are Buck Jones, wheelhorse guard, who was tried out at blocking back this past week and performed equally well at that spot; Starford, the first string center, who is particularly good at backing up the line; and Owen, a first string tackle, who has been ripping opposition lines to pieces during the early part of this season.

As the current touch football play continues, practically all teams have received their first bit of action, and the league is now beginning to take definite shape.

Action during the latter part of last week saw the upperclass and fraternity divisions get in full swing as Lower South, First Alexander, and North Watauga took respective victories over South Watauga, First Turlington and Upper South.

In the first mentioned game, Rand and Ray led the attack in a 7 to 0 triumph over S. Watauga, despite Creef's excellent play for them. Another close, hard-fought tilt was witnessed when First Alexander took a 6 to 0 win over Turlington, behind the backfield play of F. Jones, while Traylor and Montague played especially good for the losers. The third bit of action went to the boys of N. Watauga as they swamped South 19 to 6.

Fraternity play during that week went to Phi Kappa Tau and Sigma Nu. Lambda Chi fell before the former squad in a scoreless game by the margin of one first down. The second tilt was more decisive as the passing attack of Sigma Nu ran the score to 13 to Delta Sig's 0. Hilker and Whitehurst were the main cogs in the winning wheel. Cornwall led the losers' attack.

Turning to the freshman action, Second Bagwell took a forfeit victory over their opponents from the first floor. (A word of caution to all teams entered in the intramural campaign that it is essential that they make every effort to be on hand for all scheduled events as they not only fall to add points by winning, but also lose 25 points, in football, for all games lost by forfeit.) Continuing with the games this week, First Becton, after winning their first game, lost their second to Third Becton by a 6 to 0 count. Lawson spearheaded the winner's play, while Trent starred on the opposing side.

In the same competition Berry Hall kept its victory column intact last Wednesday afternoon on Freshman Field with the most decisive score of the year, a 38 to 0 count over Third Bagwell. The outcome was never in doubt as the well rounded team exhibited an excellent ground and aerial game from the first kick-off. Despite the muddy field Tommy Ruffin and Nichols in the backfield and the entire forward wall starred thruout the contest.

Back in the upperclass league, the running of Richie and the defense led by Lawson resulted in an 18 to 0 victory for Second Turlington over Second Alexander last Monday.

Next week has a full schedule of events with South Watauga vs. Upper South on Freshman Field and First Turlington vs. Second Alexander on 1911 Field getting the ball rolling on Monday afternoon. The following day AKPI meets Lambda Chi on 1911, and Sigma Nu playing Alpha Lambda Tau on the other scene of action. Three games will be reeled off Wednesday, North Watauga and First Becton meeting Gold and Second Becton on Freshman Field, and Third and Second Bagwell squaring off on 1911.

Fraternity competition continues Thursday with Sigma Pi playing the Kappa Alpha squad on F.P., as Delta Sig and Pi Kappa Phi meet on the other field.

Although it was mentioned last week that wrestling and swimming on the intramural schedule begin very soon, many teams seem to have overlooked the suggestion, so again this column states that entries in all weights and divisions for the two sports should be lined up immediately. This way, the boys planning to compete can begin practice to get in top shape before the season opens. Incidentally, points are given for entries in these although a participant fails to win.

Ray Benbenek, first string fullback for Coach Doc Newton's Wolfpack, is the oldest man on the State football squad at 24 years of age. He hails from Jamestown, N. Y.

Buck Senter of Raleigh and Foy Clark of Mt. Airy are the lightest men on the Wolfpack. Each tips the beam at 156 pounds.

Night Football

Evidently night football games are successful in this region by the fact that there is an increase of two games, making a total of ten, over last year, when the Big Five schools played a total of eight games under the lights.

While the total of night games for the entire Southern Conference has remained the same as last year, Wake Forest, State and Davidson have each added one night game to their schedules. Duke has dropped her lone night game and Carolina will continue the no-night-game policy.

To increase their gate receipts is probably the main reason for the increase of floodlight games. Among the arc light games that the Wake Forest Deacons have played or will play are Furman at Greenville, S. C., State at Raleigh, George Washington University at Washington, D. C., and Clemson on the home grounds. The Davidson Wildcats have played Rollins in Charlotte. State's schedule of night games includes Richmond, Carolina Pre-Flight School, and Wake Forest, all played in Raleigh.

Of the South Carolina schools, The Citadel has dropped both of her night appearances, and the

WHAT A BOOT!

The longest punt in the history of football, according to an old News and Observer, was one of 115 yards, made by Harry Rabenhorst, when he played for Wake Forest in 1919.

The punt came during Wake Forest's annual classic with North Carolina State College on Thanksgiving Day.

State College rushed the ball to Wake Forest's six-inch line, but lost it on downs.

Then Rabenhorst dropped 10 yards back of his own goal line and booted a tremendous spiral that carried eighty-five yards in the air.

Gurley, State safety man, touched the ball as it rolled over the goal line, and Johnson, Wake end, fell on it for a touchdown five yards behind the State goal line.

WCUNC

Girls from the Woman's College will be seated in a section immediately adjacent to the State section at the State-Carolina game which features Greater University Day activity on Oct. 31, according to details worked out yesterday between Chairman H. A. Fisher of the Athletic Council and athletic business manager J. L. VonGlahn.

Tickets will be sold on the W. C. campus for $1, and if a State student expects to date a W. C. girl he will have to arrange with her to buy her ticket there before coming over.

Although the section right next to the State seats will be reserved for the girls, they will be permitted to sit in the State section if they prefer.

Coach Doc Newton was a captain in the Army during the first World War.

Wake County Championship To Be Decided Tomorrow Night In Riddick Stadium

State College and Wake Forest will go into their annual "Battle of Wake County" tomorrow night about as evenly matched as any Wolfpack and Deacon eleven in history. Coach Doc Newton's eleven appears to have an edge in experienced performers, in kicking, in passing, and in backfield weight.

The Deacons of Coach Peahard Walker are heavier up front, they have shown a better running attack, and their line play on the defensive has been as good, if not better, than that of the Wolfpack.

When the kick-off whistle sounds in Riddick Stadium at 8 o'clock, State probably will have six seniors, four juniors and one sophomore on the field. Wake Forest is expected to start two seniors, eight juniors and one soph.

In the punting department, the Wolfpack kickers have averaged 38.4 yards per boot in their four games this year. It is recalled, however, that especially in the Richmond, Davidson, and Clemson games, Art Faircloth and Eddie Teague of the Wolfpack were called upon for several occasions. They consistently kicked out of bounds within the 10-yard zone. The long quick-kicks of the State punters was a highlight of last Saturday night's game against the Navy Pre-flight team from Chapel Hill. In that game, State averaged 43.9 yards per kick.

Wake Forest has a season's average of 37.3 per kick, but the short "coffin-corner" boots were also a feature of the Deacons' play against Carolina.

State has completed 18 out of 51 passes thrown this year, while the Deacons have connected on 7 out of 22 tosses. However, the Baptists have played one less game; they couldn't use their aerial attack in the rain at Chapel Hill against Carolina; they didn't need to pass against Duke because the running attack functioned so well; and they

Every member of the Wolfpack football squad is either in the organized reserve of the Armed Services, is taking advanced military training at the college, or has registered for the draft.

Jim Johnson, big end from Rocky Mount on the State football team, worked for the Coast Line Railroad during the summer and he is a constant critic of railroading methods on the Wolfpack's road trips.

He won the Furman game on two long passes from Red Cochran to Bo Sacrinity. Cochran had the best record of pass completions in the Nation last year.

Only one touchdown has been scored through the Wolfpack line this season, and that came when the Navy Pre-flight Cloudbusters punched across from the two-yard line last Saturday night after a long pass had moved the ball to that point.

MORGAN'S MUSINGS

By JIM MORGAN

Started in 1908, and continued annually up to the present date, the State-Wake Forest football game has grown to be a classic in these parts. Over the 32-year span, the Wolfpack has emerged victorious 22 times, has tied one, and has met defeat in the other nine. However, six of those nine defeats have occurred in the last ten years. Total points scored for the series are: State 486, Wake Forest 203.

In more recent years, the classic has come to be known as the "Wake County Championship," and the day on which it is played as "State-Raleigh Day."

Dad's Day Following a custom started several years ago, tomorrow will also be observed as "Dad's Day" by the football squad. Special invitations have been issued to all the Dads of the Wolfpack members to attend the Wake Forest game, and those who can attend will sit down on the sidelines with the squad.

Freshman Again Southern Conference officials carried on a third poll of membership opinion last week on the freshman eligibility question. The results, showing eight against the move and five for it (two failed to vote), seemed to throw a note of finality on the argument that has caused some rather fiery statements.

Only two weeks ago, the sports page of the University of Virginia (non-conference) student newspaper devoted quite a bit of space to reviewing the problem. The Virginia editor pointed out that the U. of South Carolina was planning to send freshmen along with its football team on last week's West Virginia trip, and that U.N.C. coaches were trying to get permission to carry freshmen to Fordham. (They didn't get that permission.) It all boiled down to the fact that Virginia was worried about Carolina's freshmen in the annual Virginia-Carolina game on Thanksgiving Day.

Drop Football? It is more-or-less generally known that this current football season is to be the last for a majority of the colleges and universities in the country—at least for the duration. Be that as it may, Sports Editor Dick Herbert of the News and Observer presented a plan in Wednesday's paper, by which State, Duke, Carolina, Wake Forest, and the Naval Pre-flight school could continue gridiron competition with a minimum of traveling—and after all, transportation is the problem.

According to Herbert, each of the five teams could play an eight game schedule—two games with each of the other teams. The total mileage traveled would be about $50, the teams playing on a home-and-home basis. Dick also suggests that some provision would have to be made to place the Pre-flights on a more equal basis with the other four schools. Limiting competition to cadets only would solve that problem.

Not one of the five schools has yet said anything about discontinuing football, but with the transportation facilities steadily growing worse, something will have to be done, and Dick Herbert's plan seems to be a mighty good one.

Carolina-Duquesne The University athletic council over at Chapel Hill did some mighty quick work this week—some work that the students of Carolina are very likely to regret, come Saturday night and the end of the Duquesne game.

After Rice called off his trip to North Carolina, the University, desperate to find a Homecoming Day foe, signed up the mighty Dukes of Duquesne—holder of a 16-game winning streak in a mighty fast league. Incidentally, Duquesne topped Holy Cross 35-0 earlier in the season.

Many War Jobs Open for Women Applicants

Harrelson Urges Women with Aptitude To Begin Training for Lucrative Positions

Lucrative careers in the professional fields of technology, chemistry and the applied sciences are going begging for women trained to fill them, Col. J. W. Harrelson, dean of administration at N. C. State College, declared Thursday in a statement urging women with aptitude to begin such training immediately.

Many large manufacturing concerns will employ all available women who have had training in technology and the applied sciences," Col. Harrelson stated. "I have just received a letter, from one of America's largest manufacturing concerns, requesting the names of women who have majored in chemistry and biological sciences. This firm will pay for those qualified $145 to $188 per month to start."

State College, acknowledged in educational circles as a leader in technological training, has a record-breaking freshman class of 1,000 students, but few of them are women. It is not too late now for women enrolled in other fields to switch to technology, Col. Harrelson said.

State College seniors already are being signed up for jobs starting immediately upon their graduation next spring, provided they do not go into the armed forces. The manpower emergency thus has created an unprecedented demand for women with technological training. More and more men of military age who have been employed in the professional fields of technology, chemistry and the biological sciences are being drawn into the armed forces, thereby creating vacancies which necessarily must be filled by women or by making a drain upon teachers in these branches, Col. Harrelson declared.

"The opportunities for women in the professions of technology and the applied sciences will continue to present war, due to the fact that the number of men trained during the war in these fields will be greatly reduced," he continued. The enrollment of men in curricula in technology and chemistry is being reduced due to the call of the armed forces. These vacancies in colleges should be filled by college women who have an aptitude for the applied sciences. There is no better way for a woman to make her contribution to the war effort than by preparing for the professions of technology or other applied sciences."

Women who have graduated in engineering at State College have had no trouble getting and keeping well-paid jobs.

Livestock Team Wins First Place in Show

Judging Team Takes Many Individual Honors in Baltimore Competition

State College's livestock judging team won first place in competition at the 14th annual Baltimore (Md.) Livestock Show and captured a number of individual honors, Prof. R. H. Eufner, head of the Department of Animal Husbandry, was advised in a telegram from the team's coach, Dr. D. E. Brady.

Schools throughout the East and South participated in the judging contest, which was held Monday. Following N. C. State, in order, were Ohio State, Cornell, Pennsylvania State, Connecticut and the University of Maryland.

The Tat Heels won a loving cup, which they will keep for a year, and $100 in cash.

Members of the team are Albert L. Ramsey of Franklin, C. C. Cokerham of Mount Park, J. M. Troutman of Statesville, Bruce Eaker of Crouse, and Graham Penny of Angier.

The team ranked unusually high in individual honors, with Ramsey in second place, Penny in third, Cokerham in fifth, and Eaker in sixth place. As a team, it ranked the best in the show in judging sheep and hogs.

Ramsey was the show's high scorer on swine and Troutman tied for first place on sheep.

Dr. Brady and his team will return to the campus today.

PiKA and SPE Lead Frats In Pledging; SAM Second

A record total of 205 men accepted bids from the 15 State College fraternities last week following the largest rush week in the history of the college.

Whether this year's success was due to the longer rush period or to a more active drive on the part of the fraternities, there resulted an increase of 124 men over last year. Sharing the honors of pledging the most men were Pi Kappa Alpha and Sigma Phi Epsilon who pinned up 24 men each. Next in line were Sigma Alpha Mu and Lambda Chi Alpha with 22 and 16 men, respectively.

Student Legislature Meets October 30-31

Delegates From Fifteen Schools Expected To Participate In Sixth Annual Event

Approximately 150 student delegates from 15 colleges are expected to participate in the sixth annual North Carolina Student Legislative Assembly which will convene in Raleigh on Friday and Saturday, October 30 and 31.

The Assembly is sponsored each year by State College. The first session was held in 1937, and since that time it has attracted nationwide attention. The Student Legislature is organized similarly to the State Legislature, and serves a similar purpose. Resolutions affecting both state and national interests are proposed, debated, and voted upon.

Last year the Assembly voted to deliver an ultimatum to Japan; to declare war on Germany; and to reinstate draftees in the army until after the emergency had passed. At that time, the country had not yet become involved in war, and those issues were of vital importance and those measures have since become national law.

The final arrangements for the meeting have not been completed and no program has as yet been announced. However, Col. J. W. Harrelson, Governor Broughton, and other prominent men will probably address the Assembly. Portions of the debates may be broadcast over the radio.

President of the Assembly this year will be John Beasley, and Charles Swartz will serve as secretary. Both are State College men. Other officers will be elected at the first meeting of the delegates.

A.I.Ch.E.

Tuesday night at the first meeting of the A. I. Ch. E., Tom Hughes, pres., announced that Mr. S. A. Copp, general superintendent of the Carolina Aluminum Co., in Badin will be here next Tuesday night, October 20, to speak to the members of the Society. After a brief address, he will show a 35-minute motion picture in technicolor on Aluminum, starring Allan Ladd. Mr. Copp has long been a friend of the Chemical Engineering Department and has done much for its advancement.

All members of the Society and all other chemical engineers, especially freshmen, are urged to attend this meeting.

After this announcement, a short business meeting was held. Robert Smithwick, a junior from Louisiana, N. C., was elected assistant treasurer of the Society. Robert Schmidt, of Raleigh, was elected Sophomore Representative to the Engineers' Council.

Red Coats Lauded for Unique Performance

Major K's Boys Show That They Can Dish Out Swell Music and Figures

Much wide-spread comment was caused by the unique performance of the new Red Coat Band at last Saturday night's football game. With 48 of its old men back and 75 freshmen to recruit from, the organization should really go places this year.

Of course, that term "go places" can only be applied in its colloquial sense this season because of the shortage of transportation facilities. However, in spite of not getting to make their usual trips to out-of-town games, the fellows are really working hard to put out the best band in the history of State College.

Major C. D. Kutschinski, director of the band, has enthusiastically expressed his pride in the

Fall Schedule Night Classes Announced By Director Ruggles

First Meeting of Classes Next Week; Designed For Training As Well As College Credit

State College's fall schedule of night classes for residents of Raleigh and vicinity has been announced by Director Edward W. Ruggles of the College Extension Division.

The night classes are designed to meet the needs of persons desiring to take the courses for the value of the training offered as well as for those desiring to earn college credit toward a degree or to raise and renew teachers' certificates.

Persons desiring further information or who are interested in courses not listed are invited to write or call the College Extension Division. A bulletin describing the courses is available.

pres., Roy Hayes, vice-pres., Bob Houston, sec.-treas., and Bill Foust, who is succeeding Grover Snow as quartermaster. Snow is leaving after this month to enter service with the navy.

Ever though the organization does not include many freshmen as yet, there are many good musicians in the freshman class. They are causing the upper classmen to work hard to retain their positions. This, and the increased enthusiasm of the band as a whole, are going into the development of a Red Coat Band of which the whole student body may well be proud.

Over $25,000 Earned By Self-Help Students

Umberger Announces Total for 1941-42 School Year; Decrease Over Year Before

State College self-help students, excluding those doing odd jobs and all off-campus work, earned a total of $25,409.96 in the 1941-42 school year, Dwyer Umberger, self-help secretary for the College YMCA, reported today.

NYA funds were cut drastically to $19,918, a decrease of 34.7 per cent from the 1940-41 allotment, and during the school year only 207 students received financial assistance from work performed through the National Youth Administration. The average earnings per NYA student for the nine working months were $132.21, or $14.79 monthly. They worked an aggregate of 66,894 hours at 30 cents per hour.

During the 1941-42 school year, many more odd jobs than usual were given to students. These jobs, for which financial records are not kept by the Self-Help Bureau, included mowing lawns, garden work, cutting hedges, waxing floors, washing windows, doing minor repair jobs, pruning trees and shrubbery, staying with children and other chores.

Thirty-one student solicitors, canvassing dormitories at night for sales and service of various sorts, earned a total of $3,394 during last school year. Other income tabulated by Umberger included game room operators, $642; office workers in the YMCA, $491; student barbers, $931; and luncheon workers, $28.

The demand for student help has increased in the current term, Umberger reported, and a shortage of students available for odd jobs has developed.

Prof. F. B. Wheeler is chairman of the YMCA Self-Help Committee.
