Student Government Leaders To Be Chosen At Polls Today

Fraternity Men Will Elect I. F. C. Officers

President To Be Chosen Between Geluso and Tull; All Pledges and Members Eligible To Vote

Nominations for next year's Interfraternity Council officers were announced last Wednesday by E. L. Cloyd, Dean of Students and Treasurer of the Interfraternity Council.

Following the election procedure written into the constitution last year, the names of two fraternities that have not had a president for the past five years were drawn from a hat containing the names of all the active fraternities on the campus; the two fraternities thus selected were Sigma Nu and Sigma Chi. According to the constitution, these two fraternities were each entitled to present a candidate for president, selected by the respective chapters from their senior members. This year, however, it was decided that the candidate could be selected from either the junior or senior members since some of the chapters had no senior members.

A special election was held last fall to elect those officers for this year because the officers selected last year to serve this year failed to return to school. In the special election John Culp, Pi Kappa Alpha, was selected to serve as president for the current school year and Beverly Rose, Lambda Chi Alpha, was elected to the post of vice president.

The office of secretary was held by Reese Bailey, who was elected last spring and who was the only Interfraternity Council officer to return this year. Both Bailey and Rose were graduated at the end of the winter term but it was not necessary to elect other men to finish out the terms of office vacated by the graduating men.

In selecting the chapters that will be entitled to present candidates for the office of vice president, two more names were drawn from those left after the presidential drawing. In the drawing for the vice president any house, except the two having presidential candidates were ineligible, there being no condition concerning the time elapsed since the chapters last had a member to serve in this office.

Candidates selected by these fraternities are as follows: for president, Frank Geluso (Sigma Chi), and I. N. Tull, Jr., (Sigma Nu); for vice president, Fred Page (Lambda Chi Alpha), and Chester Gilbert (Sigma Alpha Mu); for secretary, Bill Boney (Sigma Pi Epsilon), and D. R. Burton (Delta Sigma Phi).

All fraternity men (members and pledges) will be eligible to vote. The election will be held in the Y.M.C.A. today along with the Student Government elections.

Candidates

E. Y. Floyd and R. M. Rothgeb (pictured above), both of Raleigh, are the two candidates for president of the State College General Alumni Association to succeed T. K. Mial of Larchmont, N. Y., who is a candidate for chairman of the executive committee. Floyd, former State AAA Executive Officer, is director of the Plant Food Institute, and Rothgeb is general business manager of the Board of Controls of the North Carolina State Hospitals. There are 19 other candidates for various alumni offices. Ballots have been distributed through the State College News, monthly alumni publication, and Alumni Secretary H. W. (Pop) Taylor urges the alumni to vote by mail immediately. Polls close Monday, May 15, at 4:30 p.m.

"May Frolics" To Get Under Way Tonight

State College's first set of May Frolics dances will get under way tonight at 8:30 at Frank Thompson Gymnasium to the music of Jim Fuller and his band, of Durham.

This will be the first appearance of Fuller on this campus, although he has furnished music for many functions in this section in the past. Fuller will play for tonight's dance only, as Ernie Fields, one of the top colored bands in the business, will be on hand for both the tea dance tomorrow afternoon and the formal tomorrow night.

Ernie Field's rapid rise to prominence in the musical world began only a little over a year ago. However, during the short period of time he has had his own orchestra he has created a furore among dance and popular music lovers throughout the West and North with an entirely new interpretation of swing. Comparatively new to this section of the country, his music has preceded his personal appearances by means of radio and records.

An exceptionally fine musician, Ernie can play every instrument featured in the band and frequently does solo work on all of them. The versatility of individual musicians in the band allows for a wide variety of music and affords the opportunity of creating true symphonic swing.

Prominently featured with the Fields aggregation are instrumental novelties and the voices of Estelle Edson and Mel Moore. Miss Edson is a dynamic songstress of torrid tunes while Moore does those of the sweeter and more romantic type.

ERNIE FIELDS
Who Will Play for May Frolics

Although Fields is comparatively a new outfit, he has been heralded by many as the "Crown Prince of Swing."

Both the night affairs will be formal and will last until midnight. The Saturday afternoon tea dance will begin at four and last until six. A feature of the Saturday night function will be a figure consisting of the Council members and their dates.

Non-fraternity civilian students may secure block bids from any of the active fraternities on the campus and no bids will be available at the door. The cost to non-fraternity men is: Friday night $1.50; Saturday afternoon, $.75; Saturday night $2.00. (All prices plus tax.)

Dr. Hart Speaks At YW-YMCA Meet Here

"Love is not an outburst of fervor and emotion. It is a pattern of living," declared Dr. Hornell Hart of Duke University in an address at State College Saturday morning.

Dr. Hart spoke at the opening session of the second day's activities of the annual State-wide student retreat of YW-YMCA members. Approximately 60 students, representing 10 educational institutions in three states, are attending the retreat, which ends Sunday. "Love is timeless," he says. "Love is immortal, and so is beauty. Beauty is deathless."

Citing the differences between the physical and spiritual values, Dr. Hart stated that "the more love you give, the more love you have. The more beauty you spread, the more beauty you enjoy."

Following his address, Harry Comer, secretary of the YMCA at the University of North Carolina, discussed recreation and social life on college campuses, the planning and promotion of programs, and war-time religious needs.

Other speakers on the Saturday afternoon and evening programs of the retreat were Paul N. Derring, secretary of the YMCA at V.P.I., and the Rev. Lee C. Sheppard, pastor of the Pullen Memorial Baptist Church.

Secretary Ed S. King of the State College YMCA is in charge of arrangements for the retreat.

The following institutions were represented at the conference which was held in the State College YMCA: Duke, East Carolina Teachers College, Guilford, Woman's College in Greensboro, Carolina, Greensboro, Davidson, V.P.I., Winthrop, and State College.

PiKA Takes Annual Bridge Tournament

Clyde A. Dillon, Jr., of Raleigh, and John M. Culp of Charlotte were the first place winners in the sixteenth annual bridge tournament of State College's Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity Wednesday night. The top place winners represented Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Second place honors went to Robert G. Ross and Paul N. Howard, Jr., both of Charlotte, who represented Sigma Chi.

Six of the nine fraternities at State College competed in the tournament. Mrs. William Montgomery Person of Raleigh supervised the affair. The Mitchell system of Match Point Bridge is used each year.

Participants, in the order in which they finished, are: Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Chi, Sigma Alpha Mu, Pi Kappa Phi, Delta Sigma Phi, and Alpha Lambda Tau.

With only a few candidates up for the offices of next year's Student Government Organization, the student body will go to the polls today to decide who shall be next year's leaders.

Nominations were slow coming in as the junior and senior classes have been greatly depleted in number during the past year.

In a special election held last October, Hugh Merrill defeated Edwin Cox for the office of president after a run-off was held. The special election was needed because those Student Government officers elected last spring to hold office this year were called into service with the Army. This left the Student Body without officers when the current school year opened last fall.

O. Max Gardner was to be the president for this year; but he left as the Junior R.O.T.C. men were called out in the latter part of the spring term last year. Although Gardner returned to the campus to resume work toward his degree this year, he could not hold the office because of an Army ruling forbidding its trainees to participate in collegiate activities.

The run-off was held in last October's special election after no candidate for the presidency or vice presidency attained a majority in the primary. In the run-off Merrill defeated Cox by a count of 117 to 62 and J. Reese Bailey, who has since been graduated, polled 114 votes to win over J. M. Simmons by a 49 vote margin.

Edwin Cox served as chairman of the student committee on student government during the past summer term and he called an open meeting in the fall for the purpose of writing a tentative constitution and re-organizing the Student Council which had been inactive up until that time.

Today's elections will cover both the Student Government offices and the Interfraternity Council leaders. It was also planned to have the Y.M.C.A. elections today but Mr. King, "Y" secretary, announced that since the present "Y" officers have not held a complete term of office as yet they will continue to serve until next fall, at which time a special election will be held.

There was some misunderstanding about when nominations were to be turned in. Although it was announced that they were to be in by last Friday, it was not said that no nominations would be accepted after last Friday, as there were not enough nominations in by last Friday to conduct an election.

The nominations are as follows: president, Roger Poole, Cleburn Dawson, and E. R. Cole; vice president, J. C. Wilson, and A. N. "Sleepy" Perry; secretary, R. L. Traylor, and E. E. Wright; treasurer, B. E. Gupton and Gray Byrum.

In addition to the principle offices the Student Body will elect two representatives from both the junior and senior classes to serve

Guts! Have You Got 'Em

The enrollment has been greatly reduced; budgets have been cut to the bone; in fact, about everything possible has happened to cause many of the organizations and societies on the campus to suspend operations for the duration, but there are also many which have refused to give up so easily.

To the ones who have stuck it out we take off our hats. In spite of all the difficulties, obstacles and adverse circumstances they have kept up their activities and traditions. That takes a lot of the stuff known as "intestinal fortitude," and "intestinal fortitude" is just what this school needs a great deal of right now, with all the plagues that have settled on our campus since the war began.

To you who are left goes the responsibility of preserving as much as possible of the school's customs and traditions. So think twice before you give up!

GLEANINGS

The first part of this week's column is contributed by the grapevine's textile representative. We pause now as she weaves the intimacies of life and love at the Lintdodgers' Ball. . . . Mike Kaplan was really jealous of that blonde doll he had. Introductions were few and far between. . . . Well, well, Nicholson and Rose Marie again—Do tell.

Newt Mandel, the immortal sergeant, chose a red head for the dance, but switched to a brunette for the picnic. . . . To quote Kay, "quick jobs they are doing these days on hair," unquote. Saint Mary's evidently had another break or else the dean doesn't catch on to all those excuses. Anyway, the quail from the convent held sway at least until 10 o'clock. . . . We are just wondering if the presence of Saint Mary's dames had anything to do with the abundance of A.L.T.'s—or do they just like to dance?

Holloway was squiring Teenie, of course. Oh, by the way, that suntan that Teenie has does not extend farther than the knees. Oh, no, paint ain't as good as that little ole silkworm! Tex Wallner and F. L. P. No. 3 were also sporting wimmin. Dickie Kennison was a lone wolf—or anyway, a wolf. . . . Saturday the Mill workers entertained at a picnic in T. R. Hart Park, but most of the boys were wary and went stag. All in all, the week-end seemed to star the engineers rather than the textile students.

Lest you forget the Ag Club also had its fling last Friday. The future farmers held a mighty feed Friday afternoon in Pullen Park and then moved over to the Blue Room to top off the day with some hip swinging. . . . Brother students are still anxious about that little boy with the sweet voice. Seem's that the delicate chap didn't have much of an appetite for chickens (the ones with feathers) . . . Cashwell dated a beautiful blonde, but she never did show up. Still she was at least probably the most beautiful chick invited.

Note: All observations and opinions expressed in the above portion of the column are those of the individual writers and not necessarily those of the staff.—Ed.

Oh, oh! those guys at Watauga, the gentlemen of the campus, are at it again! Kilpatrick has been having car trouble lately. . . . Maybe it's the steep hills down in the Park. . . . Tex has taken fancy to one of those A.A.A. girls—the one some fellows call the "gypsy queen," but her real name is Elsie (?) . . . Grisby is having the old familiar women troubles, but we grant him an "A" for effort. . . . Mon. Horne, intramural manager for Watauga, wishes to challenge Welch to a friendly game of tiddle-winks. (We bet that Welch will even win that.) . . . The mighty men of Welch also have a weakness for Triple A women—at least in Pullen Park on Tuesday nite.

SHARPS and FLATS

By HOWARD KADEN

A new album has recently come out consisting of eight sides of Glenn Miller standards. Most of them are very good, and I am sure that you have heard them. One record has on it "American Patrol," and on the other side is "The Song of the Volga Boatman." Both are good, but I would rate "The Volga Boatman" a bit higher. There is one part in the record when the trombones take up a riff chorus, and in the background you can hear the members of the band clapping at a fast beat. That part especially is very catchy, and I'm sure you would enjoy it. The other records are "In the Mood" and "Tuxedo Junction," "Little Brown Jug" and "Moonlight Serenade," "Stardust" and "Pennsylvania 6-5000." Incidentally, the title of the last tune has a little story to it. Miller had a new song, and didn't know what to call it. At that time, he was playing at New York's Hotel Pennsylvania. The idea came to him when he heard the phone number, Pennsylvania 6-5000. "Moonlight Serenade," his beautiful theme song, and "Stardust" are the only slow numbers in the album. The album is well worth listening to, and I am sure that it will be enjoyed by all.

Two twelve inch Commodore sides that are available are "A Good Man Is Hard to Find," parts 1, 2, 3, and 4. These sides are more examples of the great music that Commodore has consistently released. The records feature the great musicianship of men who play for the sake of playing, not for the commercial aspect. Pee Wee Russel, Joe Marsala, Max Kaminsky, Mugsy Spanier, Jess Stacey, Eddie Condon, and most of the top jazzmen are on.

Frankie has done it again, and a new record by him has been released. It is a few years old, and was made when Frankie was singing with Harry James and his outfit. One side is "Every Day of My Life," and the other is "On a Little Street in Singapore." When hearing this disc, you can immediately tell how much he has improved in the past few years. On this record, he is not fully rounded out, and his voice does not have the phrasing that has made him so famous. The songs do not have the same punch that put Frankie over, but they still are pretty good in their own sense. Harry James does a fine job of supplying the background, although the record, when originally made, was featuring James. Speaking of Harry, it seems that he has been rejected, and is reforming his hand out on the coast. The line-up sounds promising, especially when the name of Juan Tizol, the ex-Ellington trombone man is in the trombone section.

Cleveland debutantes have solved the manpower shortage. A group of Notre Dame fathers gallantly escorted their daughters to a recent South Euclid college prom. The girls readily admitted they invited their dads because of the current lack of eligible young men, but added hastily that their fathers were fine dancers and made excellent escorts.

Sports Roundup

To the seniors (what's left of them), the following events stand out in the realm of State College athletics.

Best football play: Art Faircloth's hidden ball play against Carolina in 1942 for a touchdown.

Most outstanding athlete: Mike Andrews in track. He averaged about 25 points per meet.

Favorite story: The last effort to make a Carolina athlete eligible. Ask the dumb cluck one question. When he says that he doesn't know the answer, the pros declare the reply true and he passes.

Funniest story: State students kidnapping the Carolina ram. The front of the goat was dyed Wolf-pack Red and the rear was changed to Tar Heel Blue.

Most ridiculous selection: Bob Gantt of Duke being placed on Bill Stern's All America for playing just 60 minutes of so-so ball in 1943.

Most colorful athlete: Bones McKinney in basketball.

Saddest event: The departure of top-flight athletic material to the armed services.

Wisest decision: The athletic council's determination to continue major sports with 16 and 17-year olds.

Louisiest decision: Unquestionably and positively, it was the army's refusal to permit army students to participate in college sports.

Greatest comeback: The 1943 baseball team which spotted the

The Sigma Pi's upset an undefeated PKA team last Thursday, May 4th, on Red Diamond by a score of 8-7. The Sigma Pi's started the scoring by pushing over one run in the second inning, but PKA's came back in their half with four runs to take the lead. The next few frames saw the PKA make several costly errors which enabled the Sigma Pi's to tie the score and go into the lead. However, the PKA's came back once again to take the lead, this time making it 7-6. The last inning proved to be fatal for the PKA's, as the Sigma Pi's took things in their own hands by scoring two runs—enough to win the ball game.

The SPE's moved into a tie for first place this week when they defeated the Lambda Chi's on Monday by 13-1 count. The SPE's really were out to win this ball game as a win would entitle them to a play-off game against PKA for first place honors in the fraternity bracket of the softball play-off. The SPE's wasted little time in getting this victory by scoring five times in the first inning and continually knocking across runs. The Lambda Chi's were held to a very limited amount of hits which accounts for their low scoring.

On Tuesday, May 9th, the ALT's finished up their season by winning a ball game from the Sigma Chi's 17-8. There was plenty of free-hitting in this game and runs were plentiful. Hitting honors for the day were distributed among Nacos, Jackson, and Moore for the winners; while Morgan and Michie provided the punch for the losers. Pitching for the ALT's in this game was Moore, with Urash serving as his battery mate, and for Sigma Chi, Geluso and Cole did the pitching and receiving, respectively.

In an interdormitory softball game held Friday, May 5th, Gold dormitory continued their winning ways by nosing out a formidable Welch dormitory team 8-7. The league leaders from Gold started the ball game by jumping into an early three to nothing lead. The next frame Welch's murderer's row tallied for six runs to take the lead. For a time they kept this lead, but the ever consistent team from Gold took it right back and finished up with their fifth consecutive win of the year.

On Monday, May 8th, Gold dormitory's winning streak was snapped

In a wild and wooly over-time game on Doak Field, the Red Terrrors were nosed out by the Carolina Ter Heels 6-5. The league leaders scored the winning run in the 11th frame on a wild pitch by Edwards.

Trailing 3-0 in the eighth, pinch-hitter Doug Page belted King's Sunday pitch for a 3-run homer to tie the score. Carolina tallied twice in the ninth to all but sew up the game. However, the Terrrors collected a pair of runs on hits by Wiggs, Humbert, and Edwards to even the score once more.

Edwards, Page, and Dawson paced the State hitters.

Jimmy Wilson was presented the Person Trophy at the ceremonies held during the 7th-inning intermission. Each year a trophy is given to the player showing the most sportsmanship and character during the season.
