SPE Leads Pledging With Thirteen Men

The excitement of rushing is over and all of the fraternities have settled back to their normal activities with some new blood in them. Dean Cloyd's office reports that 60 students have accepted bids to the different fraternities on campus this term. The S.P.E.'s headed the list with thirteen pledges. Sigma Chi's ran second with ten while PIKA's ran a close third with nine.

Rush week ran from Monday, September 25, until midnight Saturday, September 30. Each fraternity sent their bids in before noon Tuesday, October 3, and all men who received their bids had to return them to the Dean of Students on Friday, September 6, at 7:30 in Pullen Auditorium. The fraternities were notified as to who had accepted their bids on last Monday.

The following is a list of the students who have accepted bids from the different fraternities. This list includes those who have been repledged for this year as well as those freshmen who are pledging for the first time.

Delta Sigma Phi: Curtis Fitzgerald, Gerald Frazelle, Roy E. Fuller, Marshall G. Pinnix, Charles W. Stott.

Lambda Chi Alpha: C. I. Burkhead, Jr., H. M. Carter, W. J. Evans, W. H. Hasty, J. L. MacNeill, T. A. Teabeau.

Pi Kappa Alpha: Walter C. Beaman, Stanley S. Betts, Herbert L. Bridger, John R. Crawford, Jr., Lester E. Gross, John R. McRaney, Stephen I. Morre, Harold F. Sutton, Robert E. Wooten.

Pi Kappa Phi: W. L. Blow, E. P. Cain, Jr.; E. G. Sellers.

Sigma Alpha Mu: Stanley S. Cohen, David Fuchs, Edward Gale, Melvyn Glaser, Arnold Messinger.

Sigma Chi: Gray M. Byrum, Jr.; William G. Hobbs, William S. Howard, William P. Horton, Robert A. McLean, Robert W. Prunty, Dare W. Sewell, I. Ashby Sigmon, Jas. H. Truitt, Dwight L. Waynick, W. Howard Wood.

Sigma Nu: Max C. Francis, Robert C. Jones, Jr., Claude W. Jordan, Jr., William A. Lutz.

Sigma Phi Epsilon: R. L. Benton, Floyd N. Blackwell, Jr., R. E. Bostian, Jr., J. L. Castleberry, Jr., B. R. Crigler, J. L. Hawkins, James Horan, Jr., H. A. Jones, III, G. P. Matthews, J. W. Salyer, M. C. Sasser, J. J. Tickle, R. K. Worsley.

Sigma Pi: George C. Conner, J. Larry Haynes, Jr., Wallace R. Roberson, Felix L. Webster, Jr.

Although the number of men pledged this year was much smaller than in former years, the fraternities expressed satisfaction that so many likely candidates for membership were to be found in so small a freshman class. The fraternities at State College have made an exceptionally fine record during their years at the school. With the addition of these new men, prospects for the coming year were very much brightened.

CHEERLEADERS CHOSEN

Head Cheerleader Frank Geluso announced today that the cheerleaders for the current year have been chosen. They are: June Freeman, Betty Jane Hicks, Cyma Saltzman, Lois Madden, Bob Armfield, John Hawkins, Ed Gale, Guy Boger, Bill Self, Henry Negro, and Jimmy Horan. Geluso announced that there would be a pep rally tonight. The entire student body is expected and urged to be there.

Editor Poses With First Students At State College

W. J. Mathews of Goldsboro; and Editor Daniels. Mathews was the first student to register at State College.

Governor Broughton, speaking at the exercises commemorating the founding of State College, paid tribute to the college's accomplishments in the advancement of technical education and in the promotion of research.

College's ROTC Cadet Leaders Appointed By Colonel McMillin

Major Norris Presents Firearms Exhibition

Major Fred Norris, assistant provost marshal of the Army Air Forces' Overseas Replacement Depot in Greensboro, last Thursday reached into his $800,000 collection of firearms and demonstrated the firing techniques of several of his guns for State College's 509 ROTC cadets in Pullen Hall.

A member of the national championship rifle team for seven years and winner of a number of foreign shooting events, Major Norris proved his ability in sharpshooting by sending hurtling into the air three cigarettes placed in the mouth and ears of Capt. Charles E. Cummings, assistant to the professor of Military Science and Tactics at State College. The ROTC cadets sat in wide-eyed amazement as they learned how to fire the various weapons.

Major Norris showed the German Mauser machine pistol; the Thompson sub machine gun; the M-1 carbine; the sub machine gun M-3 or grease gun; the U. S. rifle, calibre 30, M-1903; and several others.

The program was in charge of Col. Douglas N. McMillin, commandant of the College's Department of Military Science and Tactics, and Captain Cummings, officer in active charge of the ROTC unit.

Robert W. Etheridge of Spring Hill has been appointed cadet lieutenant colonel of the State College ROTC unit, composed of 509 cadets, it was announced recently by Col. Douglas N. McMillin, commanding officer of all Army activities at State College.

The State College ROTC unit, offering training in several phases of modern warfare, has consistently received an annual rating of "excellent" from the War Department in Washington. Graduates, upon their return from foreign battlefronts, have highly praised the training and experience afforded them at State College and have declared, in numerous instances, that the training received at the college has been "invaluable" to them.

Other top-ranking commissioned cadet officers are: C. W. Jordan, Jr., of Wilmington, major; B. R. Younts of Lexington, captain adjutant; and F. L. Swartzberg of High Point, R. M. Armfield of Greensboro, L. S. Hovis of Dallas, and J. M. Monroe of Hamlet, captains.

Cadet second lieutenants of the three platoons follow: A. N. Hewett of Wilmington; W. B. Terrell of Wadesboro; C. I. Burkhead of Candor; M. Swartz of Winston-Salem; M. E. Ausley of Micro; J. L. MacNeill of Maxton; D. A. Biggerstaff of Bessemer City; C. A. Dillon of Raleigh; C. D. Dixon of Belmont; G. P. Matthews of Nashville; J. M. Wiley of Greensboro; and B. W. Allen of Newport News, Va.

Temporary appointments of non-commissioned officers, all with the rank of first sergeant, are: J. E.

Pan American Club To Observe Anniversary

The first anniversary of the Pan American Club is to be celebrated next Friday evening at a dinner to be held at the Woman's Club. Col. J. W. Harrelson, administrative dean of State College, is to be the guest speaker at the dinner meeting. The dinner will be semi-formal and will be followed by a dance. All the students and members of the State College staff are invited to attend.

The Pan-American Club was founded last year by a small group of students at State College. Among the founders were Leonardo Valderrama, Naftali Reiter, Issac Varon, Bernard Fishbien, Edward Mahoney, Marvin Ball, and Newton Mandel. Dr. Sanford Winston of the Sociology Department at State College has been the faculty advisor since its inception. Its members include some of the outstanding citizens of Raleigh and also students of the girls colleges in Raleigh.

The purpose of the club is to foster better relations between the nations of the Western Hemisphere. Among the speakers at the monthly meetings of the club during the past year have been Josephus Daniels, Dean B. F. Brown of State College, Dr. Hill of Cuba, Mr. Carlson of the office of the coordinator of Inter-American Affairs, Miss MacDonald of Meredith College, and other eminent speakers. Besides these speakers,

Dickerson To Lecture On Marital Relations

Roy E. Dickerson, noted lecturer and author on sex, will come to State College to deliver a series of lectures beginning Sunday, October 15. Dickerson, who is Secretary of the Cincinnati Social Hygiene Association, has gained a national reputation in his effort to educate the youth of America on marital relations. He is well known on our campus, having been here several times before. His last visit was in 1942.

The YMCA is sponsoring this program, but other departments have also arranged for his services. On Sunday evening, he will meet with the Methodist Young People's League at 7 p.m. in Pullen Hall. The public is invited. The topic will be "This Business of Falling in Love." Lectures will be given to each of the Physical Education classes on Monday and Tuesday of the regular periods. He will speak to the freshman assembly at noon Wednesday, and the ROTC assemblies at noon on Thursday and Friday.

Each night, Monday through Thursday at 7 a.m., Dickerson will give a lecture for the public in general. Women are especially welcome. Two of these lectures that have already been selected are, "Things that Count in Courtship" and "Signs of Being in Love." Formerly he has appeared at specially arranged dormitory and fraternity gatherings for informal discussions and questions. Those desiring such a meeting or personal interviews should contact Secretary Ed S. King in the "Y."

Two widely-circulated books by Mr. Dickerson are "So Youth May Know" and "Growing into Manhood." His latest pamphlet, written for boys going into the service, is titled "Straight from the Shoulder." A supply of these books and pamphlets will be on sale at the YMCA.

The Music Appreciation Hour that has been held in the "Y" on Sunday afternoons is now held from 6:30 to 8:00 Wednesday evening. Too few students appeared for the Sunday program; it is hoped that more can attend at the new time.

TEXTILE SOCIETY MEETS

The Tompkins Textile Society held its first meeting of the year last Tuesday night. The speaker of the meeting was Mr. Papum, who is the General Manager of the Pilot Mills and a State College graduate. He has spoken to this group in previous years.

Mr. Papum's subject for the evening was "The Problems to be Found in a Mill." He gave some suggestions to the present students at the Textile School. He said that the main thing that a student should get out of college is the building of moral muscle. Mr. Papum also said that the things that count most in industry are initiative and honesty. If a man, or woman, has the qualities and the knowledge that they get in college they are sure to get ahead in industry.

Professor T. R. Hart of the Weaving and Designing Department introduced Mr. Papum. After the address, Mr. Papum answered questions of those who attended the meeting. Refreshments were served after the speech.

Guts! Have You Got 'Em

The enrollment has been greatly reduced; budgets have been cut to the bone; in fact, about everything possible has happened to cause many of the organizations and societies on the campus to suspend operations for the duration, but there are also many which have refused to give up so easily.

To the ones who have stuck it out we take off our hats. In spite of all the difficulties, obstacles and adverse circumstances they have kept up their activities and traditions. That takes a lot of the stuff known as "intestinal fortitude," and "intestinal fortitude" is just what this school needs a great deal of right now, with all the plagues that have settled on our campus since the war began.

At the present, the percentage of organizations left on the campus pretty well coincides with the percentage cut in enrollment. In order that those few which are left may survive, every man must shoulder greater responsibility. The men on the battlefields have taken on unparalleled responsibility. So can we.

To you who are left goes the responsibility of preserving as much as possible of the school's customs and traditions. So think twice before you give up!

GLEANINGS

Where was everyone last weekend? Only a very few were at the game in Charlotte. Seen down there were Kat, Culp, and Co., "Sleepy," and a new addition to the Chamberlain St. gang, Marion Saesser. There were also a couple of new freshmen making very enthusiastic fools of themselves.

It is heard from several reliable sources that the remaining Kappa Sig has turned out to be a pretty successful snake.

Wonder if it's true about the Chi Sigs carrying on extensive activities during Silent Week. Could be!

Have you heard about the sensational capitol punishment case on which one of our erstwhile faculty members served as a juror? The crime was not murder. The judge reprimanded the women for cheering when the verdict delivered was "Not Guilty."

The Pika's seem to have what it takes. Fifteen (15) girls who are hard-working students of Miss Hardbarger have moved into the house across the street from them. The following are names and facts we have gathered so far: Mary, brunette, and very cute; Lee, redheaded and 'nuff said; Tull, still withholding judgment; Millie Lee, ask Castleberry; Irene, ask Crigler; Wayne, ask "Sleepy." For your information, I've already asked them but we think that this newspaper (?) should keep its nose clean.

C. A. thinks that since all the prospective pledges have turned their names in, that the space in this column can be diverted to other subjects. For instance. . . .!

Zeb's date of last weekend still has a red face. It seems that a paratrooper walked in the house with his boots on. These uncivilized people that don't wear anything but boots.

It has been rumored that one of the Ladies' Home Companions of Lower Horne Street was president of the Sheep Herder's Union, (or was it goats?), Local No. 69 down in Texas.

Many people are wondering why our honor system employs proctors, alternate seats for students, and instructors walking up and down the aisles.

Here's a new game to while away the time on class. Try to put the top of a fountain pen on, using only one hand. Another good game is battleship. Culp is the present champion of this very exciting sport.

Cyma Saltzman (we can't pronounce it either) seems to be very anxious to find out where polygamy is a standard practice. We wouldn't mind knowing ourselves.

The Burlington boys, Steve, Sutton, and Gross (now a converted Raleighite and, consequently, a much better boy) visit Saint Mary's in the afternoon and Meredith at night. If they keep it up, this trio will make some hot news.

BOBBY WOOTEN.

SHARPS and FLATS

By HOWIE KADEN

Columbia Records shall release an album of Bing Crosby favorites that looks quite promising. It will be released by the fifteenth of this month, so keep an eye out for it. It consists of ten sides, featuring Bing and the Mills Brothers. There are some old stand-bys such as "Home on the Range," "The Last Round Up," "Please," "Shine," and a few other good ones. Listen to the first half of "Shine" where the Mills Brothers really do some "shinin'." Bing takes over in the second half, making it a swell side.

On the Decca sides, we have a new one by Dick Haymes. One side is "Janie," from the Warner Brothers hit. It is a lighthearted ballad which Dick sings charmingly. On the reverse side is his lyric version of "Our Walt," a beautiful song made even lovelier by his attractive voice. In the classical vein, we have the Philharmonic Orchestra of Los Angeles playing the "Warsaw Concerto" in two parts, conducted by Alfred Wallenstein, and with Harry Kaufman as soloist. The same orchestra is also on "Holiday for Strings" and "Our Waltz." These are some of the best recorded discs that Decca has ever made. Helen Forrest has come out with two new ones, "Every Day of My Life" and "I Learned a Lesson I'll Never Forget." The former is one of the best works that Helen has done to date. On the "B" side, she does wonders with one of the foremost hits of the day.

News Briefs: Jimmie Lunceford and His Orchestra are jamming to capacity crowds at New York's Loew's State. The singing sweethearts on Decca Records are once more teamed together when Helen Forrest stars on the Dick Haymes radio show. . . . The newest secret weapon used by the Allies against Germany is a singular type of psychological warfare. It comes in the person of Bing Crosby who for the first time talked and sang in a recorded broadcast beamed to the "Vaterland." First he told, in German that he had learned phonetically, about the Constitutional rights our boys are fighting for. Then "Der Bingle" sang a few, including that pop one of today, "There'll Be A Hot Time in the Town of Berlin."

The Wind Blows and so does YEHUDI

Ah yes, not only is rush week over, but are some faces red, but, but definitely. The results have finally been announced, and lo and behold, more faces are redder. In case no one knows who the editorial is by, we are sincerely glad that that is the case. Mystery of the week includes the rumor that several groups are planning big, big parties to celebrate the end of the fracas. Let's hope that they are not too large.

Last week it was the seeming duty of this column to protect our little, defenseless, in the minds of some, coach against the clamor for a new, big-time man. Well, we said some things about this guy Beattie that were pretty complimentary. We lost the Clemson game. We were very, very disappointed. But that's that. We still think that Feathers is the man of the year at State College, barring none, and we are most willing to stick up for our convictions. Once and for all, let's all get out and back both the coach and the team to the limit.

Hip, hip, and hooray for the new cheerleaders, all eleven of them. Get out to reorganize the spirit of the old school, and let's hope that they succeed. Let's all us good clod-hoppers stick to tradition and go back to the good things about the place. After all, when the boys come back, and we know for a fact that they are, they'll want some of the old school left, and fellas (and gals) let's give it to them.

We have heard, by the grapevine to be sure, that one Pika, yes, that's the correct spelling, jumped off the end one of these last nights and got hooked. Yep, according to our sources, he fell hook, line, and sinker. What a way to get . . . hitched. Luck to you! From all reports from those who have already done it, you'll need it.

The Pi boys of Clarke Avenue want it known that the next time some "visitor" breaks out their prize window, they will, in a body, tear him limb from limb. Take it from Williams, known in other circles by other tags, these last sentences are the fact, not the exceptions.

If you see any long faces gracing the campus, they belong to our friends the Sigma Nus. They have lost two of their good buddies. "Cootie" is now approaching the University of Tennessee, while "Ike" is "employed" up north. Best of luck to both of 'em. Flash!!!! Latest from Sigma Nu headquarters! "Cootie" is back but "H" Willard is now strictly G.I.

Well, 'bye for now and we'll see you all at the game tomorrow night.

Students Talk and Here's What They Say . . .

That interference should have been called when a Clemson man pulled Gibson from under that touchdown pass . . . Gaeta was sorely missed . . . Worst's 85-yard touchdown jaunt was wonderful . . . the men in the press box agreed that Turner was the best man on the field . . . A.P.'s Littlejohn called Turner a "cute" ball player . . . the score was 7-7 before State had run a play from scrimmage.

That Feathers is the best coach we've had in years, that they are high on Dr. Bullock of math dept., that this year's frosh appear to be the best in years, that the Pika's are moving to 1720 Hillsboro, that the Pi Kappas will occupy the same abode temporarily . . . that the Sigma Pi's didn't appreciate last week's "Gleanings" referring to Lambda Chi as "the better half of Clark Ave."

That intramurals starting last Monday didn't allow much time for organization of teams . . . the fraternities didn't know just who was in their outfit, the Dean wouldn't tell and most of the men who had been bidden were away for the week-end and couldn't be contacted.

Big Lum Edwards of Big Stone Gap, Va., left, scrappy Wolfpack meets the high-stepping Catawba Indians, who have not been spilled all season.

Strong Team From Catawba Battles State

State College's diminutive Wolfpack, handed a 13-7 setback by Clemson's heavy Tigers last Saturday, settled down to hard work yesterday in preparation for the tussle Saturday night with the unbeaten Indians from Catawba.

"Catawba," Coach Feathers said, "has a pretty good ball club, and I'm expecting a close game Saturday. It looks like our boys will be in better condition next Saturday than they were in the Clemson game."

One of the greatest improvements this week was made by Gerald Turbyfill. Gerald has been shifted to fill the big gap left by Tony Gaeta. As you all know, Tony underwent an appendicitis operation over a week ago. Tony had been an outstanding linesman the entire year. It was tough to lose Tony, but wonderful to have Turbyfill to step into his shoes. They are big shoes to fill, Gerald; we'll be watching you do your stuff Saturday night.

Catawba, using a single wing formation, has marched to two victories this year by defeating VMI and Newberry. Little do they realize that the State Wolfpack is going to stage its famous "T" party in the middle of Riddick Stadium Saturday night and drive the Indian warriors to their first defeat this year. Here's wishing you a pushover, boys!

ALTS Take First Game In Fraternity Contest

The 1944 season in intramural touch football got under way Monday afternoon when the ALT's defeated the Delta Sigs in a very close game. The Sigma Nu-Sigma Chi game which was also scheduled for Monday was called off since the Sigma Nu's have decided to drop football this season. During the remainder of the year all teams scheduled to play Sigma Nu will win by default.

In the game that was played on Monday neither team scored but the ALT's made three first downs while the Delta Sigs made only two. Since intramural rules state that tie games go to the team with the greatest number of first downs, the ALT's were announced as the victors.

The game was decided in the closing thirty seconds when Hepler completed a pass to Nackos for a ten yard gain and a first down. For the losers, Gant turned in an extremely good game.

Catawba Tackle

Big Charlie Clements of Bessemer City will probably hold down a tackle berth on Catawba College's starting combination when the Indians tackle the 1944 version of State College's Wolfpack here in Riddick Stadium Saturday night. The Indians are undefeated and will be seeking their third straight victory when they encounter Coach Beattie Feathers' charges.

The nation's largest research program on insulators for radar, radio, medical therapeutic, and X-ray equipment is being conducted, under sponsorship of the War Production Board, at N. C. State College, it was revealed recently by Prof. Robert L. Stone, acting head of the State College Department of Ceramic Engineering.
