Coliseum To Be Largest In South; Completed by '49

By JOHN FAULK

The idea for the N. C. State College Coliseum was first conceived in 1941 by the faculty of the Department of Architecture. According to the original concept, the building was to have one function—that of Sports Arena—but with the coming of the war, an armory was incorporated into the plans.

The 1942 campaign for funds netted $300,000 and the first steel was erected in 1943 but labor and materials shortages postponed further construction.

The construction fever started again last year when the State Legislature appropriated approximately $500,000.

The officials decided that the formerly planned building would not be large enough to accommodate the new boon of sports enthusiasts so plans were redrawn.

Larger Than Duke

The formerly proposed building was one bay longer than the Duke University Indoors Stadium but in the new plans, four more bays have been added which will make it approximately 150 feet longer than Duke's and about one and one-half times larger.

The Coliseum will be 400 feet long and 190 feet wide. The floor of the sports arena will be 315 feet by 110 feet. The floor is large enough to hold six full-size basketball courts. It was designed large enough to allow the entire R.O.T.C. unit to drill there without any danger of collision. The finished building will also be used for conventions, stock shows and dances. It is to be acoustically treated so that concerts can be held there, and it is to be large enough to accommodate circuses. There will be an ice rink 180 feet by 80 feet long in the arena. This rink is large enough for 700 skaters. One inch of ice can be frozen on this rink in 12 hours and can be removed in less than that. Skating season will last from December to May.

The floor will be covered with a one-foot layer of earth for stock shows. It is structurally designed so that eight tanks, prime movers and amphibians can be maneuvered there. It will withstand a stress of 450 pounds per square foot. This floor is to be 8-inches-thick reinforced concrete.

To Seat 13,000

The seating capacity for basketball games will be approximately 13,000. The State Board of Inspection has approved a capacity of 16,600. The basketball floor will be hooked to the concrete floor and locked into place by large clamps and tension cables.

The basement will contain dressing rooms, showers, medical aid rooms, lockers, coaches rooms, ice plant and storage.

Bob Chester And Orchestra To Play For Concert-Dance

Bob Chester

Tuesday, December 2, from 8:00 p.m. until 11:00 p.m., Bob Chester and his orchestra will present a concert-dance at Frank Thompson Gymnasium. The concert-dance will be sponsored by the Campus Government, with the Public Lectures Committee underwriting the affair.

This will be the second time during the past year that the Public Lectures Committee has undertaken this innovation in State College dances. During the early part of this year, Glen Gray and his orchestra were presented in such a concert-dance and much praise was rendered for that type dance. Tickets will be on sale at the YMCA desk and can be obtained for $.50. Admission will be limited to 1,400.

Did It The Hard Way

Bob Chester is one of those unusual people who preferred to "do it the hard way." Raised in comfortable surroundings, Bob attended the University of Dayton and later Detroit University, where he distinguished himself as a five-letter man in varsity sports—baseball being his best activity. His amazing fast-ball and sharp curve brought him offers from two major league clubs, but music won out as his chosen occupation.

While at Dayton, Bob became friendly with some of the nation's leading jazz artists and soon became a faithful follower of music. Determining to make it his life's work, he refused any financial assistance from his family and went to work with Russ Morgan, then at the Capitol Theatre in Detroit. This led to his blazing career as a tenor sax man, during which he won recognition as one of the best in the land. Later he played with Paul Specht, Ben Pollack, Irving Asrson and the late Ben Bernie.

Then came the baton bug and Bob rounded up a group of inexperienced musicians in Detroit and wove them into shape. Opening at the Detroit Athletic Club for two weeks, the band stayed eight months. Other successes followed in unbroken succession, until today, when Bob Chester is acknowledged to be one of the top popular leaders in America.

Journalism!

In view of the many students who have approached them about the re-establishment of a course in journalism, the English department is making plans to offer English 215, Principles of News and Article Writing, next term.

Dr. Hartley, head of the English Department, stated that before the course can be offered at least 15 men should agree to take the course.

Mrs. A. T. Wallace, who has two degrees in journalism from the University of Georgia School of Journalism, will conduct the course. Mrs. Wallace joined the State College English faculty this fall, coming here from St. Mary's School.

Dr. Hartley urged that all men interested in taking Principle of News and Article Writing next term please drop by the English Department office before the Christmas holidays so a suitable hour can be selected for offering the course.

Beauty Contest Closes Sunday At Midnight

There is still time to enter your girl's picture in the joint TECHNICIAN-Agromeck beauty contest. Sunday night at midnight is the deadline. Any pictures postmarked after Sunday midnight, November 30, can not be accepted.

The beauty contest is being sponsored by the two major publications on the campus in an effort to give the average "Joe College" a chance will not be too "stiff," as the sponsor section has been called by some. Staff members of the TECHNICIAN and the Agromeck are ineligible for the contest. It has been decided by the contest committee that the winners will not be announced until the appearance of the Agromeck in the Spring Term. If possible, all entries will be returned in the winter term, but if the winners' pictures do not return from the engraver by that time, all pictures will be held until they can be returned at the same time.

The committee of judges include: Editor of the TECHNICIAN; Editor of the Agromeck; Managing Editor of the TECHNICIAN and Agromeck; Business Manager of the TECHNICIAN; Business Manager of the Agromeck; Feature Editor of the TECHNICIAN; and Beauty Editor of the Agromeck.

Remember, Sunday midnight, November 30 is the deadline. Be sure to get your entrant in the mail before then.

Elizabeth Ann Lentz

to get his girl's picture in the Agromeck. The ten pictures selected as winners will be printed in the yearbook in a newly-created beauty section. This section will by no means replace the regular sponsor section which has traditionally appeared in the college annual.

This is the first time, to our knowledge, that such a move has been made by publication heads. Contest rules specify informal snapshot poses so that the section may enter the contest, with the exception mentioned above. The TECHNICIAN will continue to print pictures of the entrants for the remainder of this term only.

The committee of judges include: Editor of the TECHNICIAN; Editor of the Agromeck; Managing Editor of the TECHNICIAN and Agromeck; Business Manager of the TECHNICIAN; Business Manager of the Agromeck; Feature Editor of the TECHNICIAN; and Beauty Editor of the Agromeck.

Latest Little Theatre Offering Slightly Below Previous Presentations

All of us have our moments of reminiscence. As age creeps up, there is an ever increasing tendency to think of those bygone days of youth. Ruth Gordon, I suspect, must have many of those moods of fond recollection now that she has achieved her permanent niche in the hall of fame of America's actresses. Somewhere along this memory lane, Miss Gordon was convinced that her sixteenth year would serve as the basis for a play. "Years Ago" is the result of such playwrighting endeavors by one of America's foremost actresses. The play proves how fine an actress Miss Gordon remains.

As presented by the Raleigh Little Theatre, "Years Ago" the Overcoming the handicap offered by a weak script, the Little Theater presentation of "Years Ago" can be commended for its very fine set designed by William I. Long and for the care taken by the director, Ainelie Pryor, to insure fine acting and to minimize the inherent dragging portions of the play. Mr. Pryor, the new director of the Little Theatre, can be applauded for his directorial abilities if not, unfortunately, for his choice of script.

In particular, Fitzhugh Dade as the father and Barbara Scheffler as Ruth Gordon Jones were outstanding. The Beau, played by Leonard Mann, was very convincing. Jackie Moore as a girl friend was quite effective. It seems to this play comes out trailing superior acting. The outstanding feature of the present offering of the Little Theatre group is in the acting. Whatever luster is in the play fades when compared to the caliber of the principal lead's presentations.

"Years Ago" tells the story of Miss Ruth Gordon Jones' sixteenth year. The whole mood is set as in a still life by Watteau. There is a period picture effect achieved through the use of the phrases, manners, and morals of a home situated in a small town near Boston. Since the ending is some 35 years anticlimatic, the principal effect engendered is that of a somewhat fashionable parlor piece told in comforting retrospect by the author.

Restless Spirit

(A poem dedicated to Doris.)
Happiness thou art a fleeting thing
I seek thee in the halls of joy afar Oft wandering o'er the surface of the earth
A hidden lust to satiate
For the ephemeral glimpse have I longed
But though thy shadow gently steals
It eludes the grasp of such as I.
Perhaps, were I to wait
In peace and tranquility by home and hearth
Thou would'st come, and my heart would reign in bliss.

Mock U. N. Assembly Presented By I.R.C.

By JOE HANCOCK

A mock United Nations Assembly was held Wednesday November 12, in Withers Hall by the International Relations Club of State College. The purpose of this assembly was to familiarize the student body and the citizens of Raleigh with the possibilities of the U.N. General Assembly. Thad Eure, Secretary of State of North Carolina, was the presiding officer.

"Russia" fared better here than in the Lake Success Assembly in that its proposal on armament was defeated by only five votes.

Racial Problem

The Turkish Delegate reported that his government's problem with the Armenians was solved when the government announced that they would furnish free transportation to Russia to All Armenians desiring to leave the country.

Delegates from Meredith and Peace Colleges were quiet throughout most of the discussion. However, toward the close of the meeting, Miss Thompson, a delegate from Meredith, claimed that State College had an advantage in that their foreign students were more informed about the affairs in their own countries than were the foreign students at Meredith.

A student from Turkey then asked her if she implied that she was uninformed about her own country (USA). Miss Thompson blushed and exclaimed, "After all we are only girls!"

Officers of the club are President, Ernest Colson; Vice-president, Roberto Guimaraes of Rio de Janeiro; Secretary-Treasurer, Leon Ballance; and Librarian, S. K. Burman from India.

Blue and Gold

The Blue and Gold dance, tentatively scheduled for this term, has been postponed until sometime next term. In making the announcement president of the Blue Key, Dave Sewell, stated that because of the proximity of exams and the conflict with the concert dance, it was decided that the best plan would be to postpone the Blue and Gold dance until next term.

The Blue and Gold dance is sponsored by the Blue Key and the Golden Chain, two leading campus honorary organizations.

Campus Govn. Acts On Important Issues

At the regular Tuesday meeting of the Campus Government much discussion was raised about the Athletic Council. It seems that few if any students know what that council is, what it does, who is on it, or other relative facts concerning it. The committee that investigated the tickets for the Carolina game was confronted with the situation. The committee did not know who made the arrangements or by what authority they were made. The investigating committee will make a survey of the Athletic Council in order to fully understand its operations.

The perpetual question of high prices in the cafeteria brought much long-drawn-out discussion. Several members who attended the "complaint dinner" given by Mr. Stewart last week were satisfied with its operation, but others were skeptical. No one has any doubts that Mr. Stewart has made many improvements, but they believe the operation could be more efficient. It is hard to comprehend the prices being almost the same in our non-profit cafeteria as those in the S&W cafeteria which is on a profit basis. Furthermore the S&W has high rent whereas our cafeteria has no rent. The difference was rationalized by the fact that the help at State College costs much more because they must be paid during Christmas holidays and between terms in order to keep them. No member of the Council had any suggestions about what they could do about the situation.

Virgil Mims reported that four men in Vetville and one man in Trailwood have been deputized by the county sheriff. The men have the power to take anyone they catch speeding or driving recklessly to city court. They will turn parking offences over to the State College Traffic Bureau.

The Campus Government will sponsor a canvass of the dormitories to see how many students listen to the college radio station, WVWP, and to find out at what times they listen and what kinds of programs those students desire. This canvass will serve a two fold purpose of supplying the personnel of the station with the valuable information and of helping the promotion committee plan a series of programs sponsored by the Council.

The chairman of the School Executive Honor Committees have been elected and are as follows: James C. MacLacklin from the School of Engineering, Claude Kidd from the School of Agriculture, Bill Manning from the School of Textiles, and Milton Hobbs from the School of Teacher Education. They have already begun to work on the project of sponsoring a concert-dance on December 2. Bob Chester and his orchestra will play for the occasion. If this quick start is any indication, it appears that the Honor Committees this year are going to be a very active group.

Luncheon Planned By Maryland Alumni

Members of the State College Alumni Association in Maryland are planning an informal luncheon in College Park, Md., Saturday, November 29, at 12 o'clock. The luncheon will be a sort of "homecoming" for State College alumni attending the State-Maryland game that day.

Alumni from the Maryland and Washington, D. C. clubs will attend the luncheon and possibly some from the Philadelphia, New York City, and Richmond clubs. The luncheon, an informal affair, will be under the direction of Frank Carr, '25, president of the Maryland Club, and Louis Wilson, Washington, D. C., club prexy. Location of the luncheon has not been decided as yet.

Notice

Any student who wishes to try out for the State College Golf Team is requested to report to Charlie Tripp in the "Y" at 8:00 p.m. on December 10.

Henry Cooke Achieved Excellent Scholastic Record as State Student

By F. PETTINELLI
If you happen to be interested in the innumerable aspects of calculus, seat yourself in one of Mr. Cooke's classes and prepare yourself for an interesting lecture.

However, if you are not one of these chosen few, rear back and let us acquaint you with Mr. Henry Cooke, the soft-spoken mathematician from Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Ten years ago Mr. Cooke was involved in the same struggle in which we are presently engaged. Fortunately, in Mr. Cooke's case, it was not quite a formidable opponent that he met and, without a great deal of difficulty, he emerged from State College with a degree in mathematics under one arm and a degree in physical education under the other.

During his short stay here (four years) he achieved not only an excellent scholastic record, which promoted his membership in the Pine Bur and Kappa Phi Kappa, but also a position on State's tennis and basketball teams. While at "Cow College," student Cooke formed a solid friendship with Tom Hines, now a faculty member of our Physical Education Department and coach of our track team. Together, as students, they taught physical education classes, roomed in "Ole" No. 7 Dormitory, showed their capabilities in athletics, and in all probability dated the same—I mean different girls at Meredith College. We believe you shall still find these two gentlemen are still ardent followers of State's various athletic organizations.

Students Could Select Teachers
In the late thirties State College allowed students to select teachers at their own discretion. This method of selection introduced student Cooke to Dr. C. Mumford of our Math Department, who acquainted him with the mathematical diseases "cancelitis" and "dunitis" which, according to Mr. Cooke, are still present at this institution.

In the field of politics Mr. Cooke met with both success and failure. He was elected to a seat in the student honor council during his sophomore year, but tasted defeat while a candidate for senior class president of the student body. The only unusual event connected with his record was that he never failed an English course at State.

Three years after his graduation

(class of '37), Instructor Cooke arrived once again on the State College campus. This time he was presented with the task of extending a bit of his knowledge toward the students of the West Raleigh campus. It is in this capacity that most of us recognize him. A few of us might have seen him during registration assigning students to classes and also assigning himself a few courses he needs to complete his graduate work in mathematics.

Standards Offer Advantages

With justified pride Mr. Cooke believes that the standards set up by State's Math Department are ones which offer the student the best advantages to stimulate thought, develop memory power and prepare himself for the various problems he will encounter in the technical field of his choice. The Math Department carefully chooses its staff with the realization that this group must not be too diversified in their capabilities. Mr. Cooke believes that the teaching of certain prerequisite courses taught at State such as plane geometry, solid geometry, and retarded algebra slightly hinder our Math Department. This hindrance, he believes, can be overcome by a diligent student and by the adding of these courses to the curriculums of North Carolina's high schools.

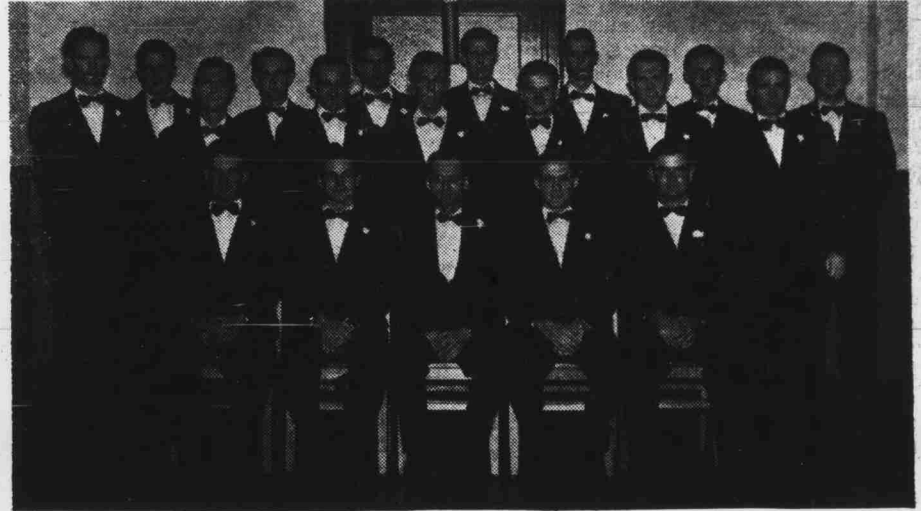

Engineering students are advised by Mr. Cooke to take advantage of the excellent advanced math courses which have recently been offered by our Math Department. In his estimation these new courses will prepare technical men to become consultant mathematicians in industry, or to work in cooperation with the men in scientific research.

By the way, Mr. Cooke has not confirmed the rumor that our Math Department has developed a few unstoppable plays involving hyperbolic functions.

Horticulture Club

The new State College Horticulture Club initiated its recreation program last Thursday night by entertaining the faculty of the Horticulture Department and their wives, and the wives or dates of the members of the club. An informal affair, the party was successful in promoting a better acquaintance and understanding between the students and their instructors.

About 70 people were present, and everyone enjoyed the hour. Mr. Gardner, head of the department, seemed to think that the get-together served a good purpose and appeared to be in favor of more of the same type of entertainment.

Wives of some of the students served Russian tea and cup cakes, and presented each lady guest with a carnation. Both were graciously received.

Rev. Jones to Speak

Rev. Charles M. Jones, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Chapel Hill, will speak to the Methodist students of the Wesley Foundation, Sunday evening, November 30, on the subject, "Spiritual Development." Questions and discussion will follow.

This topic continues the fall program of the Wesley Foundation of trying to examine the place of religion at a technical college and how a technically trained graduate may find his place in the work of the church. On the next Sunday, December 7, a general discussion of the entire fall program will conclude this series.

Wesley Foundation meets every Sunday night at 7 p.m. at the Fairmont Fellowship Center, 2511 Clarke Avenue. Included in the program are worship, a stimulating speaker and discussion, and a recreation period of singing, games, and refreshments.

YMCA Saves The Day

The announcement this week of the plans for the construction of a community center in Verville comes as a great satisfaction to the residents. Since the community's birth over a year ago the residents have been negotiating with the Administration in an effort to acquire some sort of recreational facilities—but their pleas went unheeded.

Once again it has been the State College YMCA that has had to bear the brunt of the responsibility for providing the necessary facilities, that should be handled by the College, for the overcrowded students. The "Y" has given freely, without prejudice, for the construction of a $13,000 building. This action alone testifies to the excellent progress achieved by the "Y"—the leading Christian, social, and recreational organization on the campus.

So often the students are prone to merely take the "Y" for granted, not realizing what "life on the State College campus" would be without its service and efforts to provide Christian education. Students and staff leaders have been working on this project since before school opened—giving freely of their time to hold a planning retreat in early September in order that they could offer the students the best service possible. In all probability the "Y" had to dip into its reserve fund in order to handle this necessary service, since their only funds for operating expenses comes direct from donations by the students plus a small appropriation from the college. Yet only a small minority of the students actually contribute to the "Y" on registration day when approached.

Reports have also come into this office about other campus organizations pulling together and giving of their time and money to help make this project a success. But it has remained the "Y" that has made the initial impetus for such a worthy project. The citizens of Verville should be very grateful to the "Y" for the responsibility taken and should help in every way possible to make it a success—as we know they will.

To the other campus organizations who have pitched in to help, you have our praise. But to the YMCA, we salute you—the Champion of the students of North Carolina State College. Your motto could adequately be; "First in Christian education, First in Social development; and First in the service to the students."

Cooperate

It was with considerable surprise that we learned from AGROMECK staff that almost 2,000 students had failed to have their pictures made for the yearbook. Can this fact be classed as anything but unreasonableness on the part of the students involved?

The AGROMECK is the official record of the school year. It covers in a comprehensive manner every phase of student activity. It should contain the picture of every student in the college. The AGROMECK staff has made every effort to include every student but they really cannot be expected to have their cameraman chase down and photograph all those who seem to be too busy to take fifteen minutes to have their pictures snapped.

In spite of the fact that everyone has had several opportunities to have their class pictures taken, many students will now loudly bemoan the fact that they are to be left out.

Give the yearbook staff every cooperation you can. They have one hell of a job to do and they will need your help.

Concert Dance For You

Next Tuesday night will mark the second effort on the part of the Public Lectures Committee to provide popular entertainment for the student body at a reasonable cost. The concert dance, for which the services of Bob Chester and his band have been secured, is a progressive idea that students should take advantage of. Admission prices have been planned so as to break as nearly even as possible. Fifty cents is certainly a reasonable price to see a band of Chester's quality.

Many students on the campus do not dance, but this time they will have the opportunity to go and listen if they desire. The Public Lectures Committee earnestly wishes to bring to the campus programs that students will enjoy. In the past many programs sponsored by the committee have not had good attendance. It is hoped that the concert dance will not follow this pattern.

According to Hoyle . . .

The expression which is used to head this column of editorial comment was originally developed as a tribute to an ancestor of ours who became famed as the author of some rules for card playing. His opinions on the odds, and his logical conclusions regarding probable success or failure earned him the respect of his contemporaries, but we fear that if he were alive today his reputation would be more than somewhat tarnished. Just think what a cropper he would have come to trying to predict the outcome of the Wolfpack's football games! But he would not have been alone in his error, for when the haughty Cavaliers tumbled to defeat last Saturday, our team was merely re-emphasizing their ancient creed, "Confound the experts, and bankrupt the bookies." Prediction: Maryland, you've HAD it!

According to the weathermen, we are in for a hard winter this year, but we needn't worry about it here at State, for if something isn't done, and soon, we'll all be buried in mud long before the first cold wave strikes. The students themselves could help remedy the situation somewhat by using the existing paths to better advantage. In our carelessness and haste, we frequently take unnecessary short cuts, and so make a bad condition worse. But there are several places where we must walk without any sign of an official pathway. A few tons of gravel in the right places would do a world of good, and that's a masterpiece of understatement.

WITH the GREEKS

By TED WILLIAMSON

The Greeks and their guests really had a fine time last week end. The pledge dances seem to have been a huge success from the comments we have heard and some of the best remarks going around are about the music we had. Beginning with an informal dance on Friday evening followed by a tea dance on Saturday afternoon and a formal ball Saturday evening, the Billy Butterfield band made a hit with the State College fratmen and their dates. We look forward to the next of the annual Interfraternity Council Dances, the Midwinters, and hope they will be as great a success.

Greensboro and the Woman's College is the Mecca of the State College man. If you don't think so, go there any week end and you'll see. They seem to have something there that Saint Mary's and Meredith lack. Maybe it's because they can stay out later and maybe it's because more of them live on the ground floor but, anyway, when your campus looks deserted blame it on WC.

The Fall Term's fraternity sports program will be over soon. As the season draws toward its end there will be some hot rivalry. The play-offs in football will be coming up in a week or so. If you want to see some real football, nine man style, come out when these are played. The volleyball schedule is still on too. Several teams have lost out already and those still in the running are out to win. Games are held in the gym every night, come on down and help your team win.

Termite Sounds Off

No doubt, dear reader, you have received your share of liquid sunshine these past two weeks, but now we beg to add our grief to your burdens. Are you mired up—well who ain't either literally or figuratively around the campus lately. MUD! Ah, mud! What a timely subject. The politico's sling it and here at State we stumble through it. Look out, boys, here it comes.

Some of us I.E.'s were making a safety inspection about the collich t'other afternoon as part of lab. We made some startling discoveries. You know those ferries, the ones that ply about on the larger mud puddles. Well, we found that they don't carry enough lifejackets for all the passengers aboard. Tsk, tsk. . . And 1911 field—why that's probably the largest unfenced hog lot in all Eastern Carolina. Of course, the superbly lighted campus makes it a snap to dodge the poodles at night. . . Yeah?

Exams and Christmas come closer and closer. The Bull City, and North Carolina's only city that is really a city, Charlotte, have both had their Yuletide openings and we hear that the Capitol City will follow suit in about a week. They are talking about having big rubber balloons in the parade. Would not it be swell if the robber barons of Fayetteville Street put some of that rubber into the holiday shopper's money? It certainly would make the good cheer go a lot farther. Some one should write a book on "How to support Santa Clause, too, on ninety bucks." Ah yes, we can hear Saint Nick now, and what is he saying, "darn this mud—MUSH!!!"

OPEN FORUM

Dear Sir:

I sees where they're gonna have a meetin' and tell folks all about our indoor stadium. Well now that plumb surprised me cause I didn't know we had a indoor stadium. The only stadium I ever seed hereabouts is Riddick Stadium and from the looks of it, it ain't very indoorish. Fact is, I got plumb soaked over there a week or so ago.

Come to think of it these folks who are gonna do all the talking jest might be talking about all those pieces o' steel that has been asticking up outa the ground over towards Alexander there fer the last three er four years. Now if that's what they means why I heard some might fine things about that job. I've been tole that they was a fixin to have a indoor polo field, a big old ice skating rink fer the State College Hockey team, and even a hoss stable fer the new R.O.T.C. Cavalry unit; not to speak of a baseball field and a football griddle iron.

But now look a here if they is gonna put all this fine stuff in between those pieces of steel, why then they best git over there an start hammering a bit instead of calling a meeting an doing a lot of talking. Like my old Uncle Plaster used to tell me, "Son, he'd say, talking ain't gonna git the butter churned."

How about it folks? Are we gonna git the butter churned or are we gonna jest set an chew the fat.

Mr. Jonathan Daniels, Editor

Dear Mr. Daniels:

Doubtless, much deserved praise is pouring in upon you for your masterly article on North Carolina in the October issue of HOLIDAY magazine.

There are some of your Tar Heel friends who praise your work only within limits, regretting that your article was not thoroughly caulked. Out of deference for this multitudinous category, please permit me to suggest that you publish the attached along with the reams of laudatory acclamations.

Dear Sir:

The greatest side-stepper in the non-sporting world, this Fall, fumbled the ball in the grand article on North Carolina, in the October issue. Adroitly, he (Jonathan Daniels) strummed lofty reverence of his Alma Mater on Chapel Hill, and doffed his toupe to Duke University while forgetting that the world's greatest Textile School, the nation's best-equipped diesel engineering school, and one of the nation's best engineering colleges—all embodied in the North Carolina State College, is right in his home town, Raleigh—his own "Acre of Diamonds."

HOLIDAY should give Daniels a holiday.

Welfare Plans

The Welfare Committee of the Campus Government is investigating the possibility of having cinders placed on the paths and areas on the campus which are mud holes.

Due to the lack of funds, it is improbable that the walks and areas which need paving the most will be paved soon. A considerable portion of the money allotted for such purposes has been used to pay for the repaving of some of the campus streets.

The Welfare Committee believes that cinders placed on the worst paths and areas will temporarily alleviate the present situation.

The Buildings and Grounds Committee will be approached in the near future regarding the spreading of cinders in the following locations to curb mud. (1) Path between Syme Hall and Stadium, (2) Barracks area in the Court of North Carolina, (3) North end of 1911 Building, (4) Area around Alexander and Turlington dormitories, (5) Path between dining hall and Ceramics building.

Dean Cloyd Attends Virginia Installation

Dr. Lewis was supply minister at the West Raleigh Presbyterian Church in 1945 while he was working on his Doctorate at Duke University. He went to Mary Baldwin from Davis-Elkins College in Elkins, W. Va.

Dairy Officers Elected

Officers of the North Carolina Dairy Foundation have been elected for a one-year term, the Foundation's office at State College announced recently.

Officers of the organization, all of whom were re-elected at the annual meeting last week, are George Coble of Lexington, president; Mose Kiser of Greensboro, vice president; J. G. Vann of Raleigh, treasurer; and R. D. Beam of Raleigh, secretary.

Scholarships Awarded At State

Harrill (right), State 4-H Club Leader, is pictured as he awarded four-year scholarships to Douglas Kinlaw of Lumberton, Route 1, (left) and to Billie Benfield of Mooresville, Route 2, for their outstanding accomplishments as 4-H club members. The scholarships, both to State College, are valued at $100 each for four years and were presented by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Kinlaw, a graduate of Barker-Ten Mile High School in Robeson County, earned a total of $4,775.60 from five 4-H club projects and held several offices of distinction in the organization. Benfield, a graduate of Brawley High School in Iredell County, earned approximately $3,000 from a wide range of club projects and was the 1946 winner of the Soil Conservation Contest. Both men are freshmen at State College.

Vetville News

By BILL AILOR

Construction of a community center for the residents of Vetville was begun last Tuesday. Formal ground-breaking ceremonies were held on Wednesday with college officials, Vetville officers, and members of the sponsoring YMCA present.

The building will be used as a social and religious center for the 310 families in the area. It will be 30 feet wide by 80 feet long and will cost approximately $13,000. In the basement will be located a 20 foot by 30 foot cooperative store to be operated by the residents.

Plans call for the project to be completed by the end of January. Prof. M. E. Gardner, chairman of the YMCA board of directors announced that the structure will have offices for chaplains of all faiths, washrooms, and a large assembly room seating 200. The building will be of wood with a cinder block foundation.

The center will be located on the southeast side of Vetville, at the site of the present open air movie theater. This will place the structure near the center of the area and will be by a paved road.

The building will be maintained and heated by the Vetville government at a cost of about 35 cents per family per year. It will house seven rooms and a utility room in addition to the auditorium. The structure will serve as a meeting place for Sunday school and church services, for public meetings, Town Council meetings, movies, recreation, dancing, and other community affairs.

The State College YMCA building committee, headed by Prof. L. L. Vaughan, recommended the erection of the building, after studying the proposed set-up. Members of the committee include Prof. T. C. Brown, Prof. Fred B. Wheeler, and Patrick McDonald, faculty members, and Bill Thornton of West Point, Va., and Keith Howell of Swannanoa, student members.

Mayor James A. Reece expressed the appreciation of the people of Vetville for the efforts of all those promoting the center. Colonel H. H. Hutchinson, manager of the housing project, was especially appreciative for the inclusion of a co-op store in the plans.

Future plans include use of the center for band and orchestra rehearsals, for the studio of the College radio station WVWP, and for a health clinic.

Wolfpack Upsets Favored Virginia Cavaliers, 7 to 2

SPORTS TALK

By MAC McDUFFIE

Two upsets in a row. Frankly, I don't see how it was done, but Coach Beattie Feathers and the Wolfpack are certainly turning a dismal season into one that rates above the average mark. A win over the favored Old Liners tomorrow would climax one of the greatest comebacks in the conference.

Some fans are of the opinion that Carolina's comeback after defeats at the hands of Texas and Wake Forest rates above the performance of the Wolfpack. I'm of the same opinion as a veteran sports writer who remarked after the Duke-Carolina game that any team with the talent and depth of Carolina did not have any reason to lose to the Longhorns and Deacons.

There isn't much time to think of anything except exams around the State campus; however, a few have stopped to survey the sports situation for next term. The outlook is great—in fact, it should be one of the best seasons State teams have ever enjoyed.

Nobody is predicting Southern Conference championships in all three sports on tap for next term—basketball, swimming, and wrestling—but even the most pessimistic look toward good records for all of the squads.

With the exception of Pete Negley, who elected to transfer to American University, the Red Terrors will have the same squad on the court that won the Southern Conference title last year and took third place in the National Invitational Tournament, plus several very promising newcomers. Coach Everett Case has been holding daily drills for several weeks now and there is no indication that any one player has clinched a starting berth.

The Terrors played an exhibition game against Fort Bragg last Wednesday night and have several more games with industrial teams before getting down to serious busi-

By DAVE FRANKLIN

The Wolfpack from State College stopped an eighty-yard Virginia drive on their own six yard line and played great ball for the rest of the game to defeat the Cavaliers from the University of Virginia, 7-2, Saturday in Scott Stadium, at Charlottesville. Gwyn Fletcher scored from the three-yard line in the fourth quarter after State had knocked at the goal line in two unsuccessful attempts. Virginia scored two points that looked mighty big in the third stanza when "Footsie" Palmer tried to run out from behind his own goal line and was trapped in the end zone.

The Cavaliers received the opening kick-off and proceeded to show the Wolfpack that they had not been a twelve point favorite before the game for nothing. The Virginians, running from a "T" formation, drove from their own fifteen-yard line to the State six yard stripe before the Big Red held them for downs. The Cavaliers made four of their eight first downs and gained eighty of a 176-yard total in that first drive. From the time that State kicked out of the hole, the Cavaliers did not have a chance; although the fans did not know it.

rough. In the conference, and especially in the Big Four, games are always hard-fought and upsets are as frequent as true-to-form victories.

Coach Al Crawford, although not loaded with material, has four re-

State played a safe game in the first half, kicking when they could not make a first down. The Wolfpack line, led by Charlie Musser, Al Phillips, and Harold Saunders, played hard football, and succeeded in stopping the Virginia attack every time it started to roll. Their blocking showed much improvement over their play in earlier games this season. Charlie Richkus bore the brunt of the State attack in the first half; and when the Cavaliers held, "Footsie" Palmer punted, as effective as ever. State had the ball at halftime on the 40 yard line.

Virginia Territory

State received to begin the third quarter; they made two first downs before Palmer kicked. Most of the play in the second half was in Virginia territory. Both teams fumbled several times. Late in the third quarter, a Virginia kick rolled dead on the State six-yard line. The pass from center on an intended kick-play got away from Palmer and he was tackled in the end zone before he could run it out. Those two points looked like the ball game until the Wolfpack offense rolled effectively in the final period.

A fighting State line made the game rough for the Cavalier backs and Jim Rees recovered a Virginia fumble on the Cavalier 37 yard line to set up the Wolfpack score. Oscar Bozeman carried the ball 22 yards on reverses. Fletcher made a first down on the six yard line and went over for the score in two plays. With Ogden Smith holding, Palmer split the goalposts for the

VIRGINIA DEFEATED BY STATE HARRIERS

State College defeated the cross-country team from the University of Virginia Saturday, 25-35. This was the last meet of this season for the cross-country team which has defeated teams from Fort Bragg (82nd Airborne), Duke and Virginia, and lost to Carolina.

The first two places were won by boys from Virginia; State took the next six places. Listed according to the order that they finished, the first ten men who competed in the race are as follows: Troxel, Va.; Evans, Va.; Dubow, State; Crowell, State; Vernon, State; Adams, State; Rasbury, State; Bales, State; Blakey, Va.; McCall, State; Calhoun, Va.; Hazelgrove, Va.; Randall, Va.; Steed, State; Mauck, Va.; and Ely, Va. Troxel's winning time was 21:04.

The members of the cross-country will continue to work out, preparing for the track season next spring. Official indoor practice for the track team will begin next January. Coach Hines requests that any men interested in being on the track team see him at the gym.

extra point. That was the ball game.

The Wolfpack looked good. Their defensive play was brilliant. Their offense was much more polished than it had been several times before. Instead of a fair team with two or three outstanding players, The Big Red was an outstanding team with eleven good players. The win was a team victory. The Wolfpack was on the ball; State College can well be proud of their play in the Virginia game.

State Ends Football Season Against Maryland Tomorrow

Intramurals Feature Boxing And Football

By HERB BRENNER

The Boxing Champs were crowned on Wednesday night, November 19 before an enthusiastic and thrill-packed crowd of 400 in the ring at Frank Thompson Gymnasium. The P.K.A.'s walked away with first place honors in the frat division bolstered by wins in heavyweight class by Miller, in the 155 pound division by Horning, who won by forfeit, and in the unlimited division by Wingfield, who also won by forfeit. The Sigma Chi's placed second together with the men from Kappa Alpha, both teams winning two bouts each.

In the 125 pound division of the frats, Stout, slinging glover from the Sigma Chi portals, took a close match away from Moore, a PIKA lad, and likewise in the 145 pound rostrum Taylor, another Sigma Chi, furthered his teammates tie for second place with a win over Lampke of the PIKA fraternity.

The dorms produced one of the smoothest glovers that met in the ring, in the form of Martin, boxing in the 155 pound class and winning out over Alley. Martin is a 3rd

Alexander lad while Alley hails from 3rd Bagwell. Tied for first place honors in the matches, each winning one bout, were 3rd Becton, 3rd Alexander, 3rd Syme, and 2nd Becton.

The Kappa Alpha's wins came from the talented gloves of Brown in the 135 pound class who closed in to decision Wyatt (SPE), and in the 165 weight class from Dalton who defeated Batson (PKA).

Still keeping in pace with the gridiron rivalry on the campus we saw a heart breaker on the 17th as Sigma Nu and the SPE's tied 6-6, with the victory going to the SPE's as a result of more first downs. Adams, fleet-footed Sigma Nu lad, made his team's tally in the 3rd quarter as a result of an intercepted pass and a runback of 20 yards; while Vaughn, SPE's ace pass snatcher received the pigskin on a pass in the end-zone for the tying points in the last period.

The dirt flew and the line tangled as the backs lugged the ball in one of the hardest fought battles to be played on State campus as the fighting supermen from the PIKA's camp chalked up an old rivalry victory from the Sigma Chi's. The PIKA's, scoring in the first and third quarters on passes and mak-

WOLFPACK ELEVEN HAS IMPROVED GREATLY BUT MARYLAND FAVORED TO POST VICTORY

The State Wolfpack, boasting two consecutive upsets, end their 1947 season by meeting the University of Maryland Old Liners at College Park tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Old Liners, coached by Jim Tatum, are favorites over Coach Beattie Feathers' charges.

Both the Old Liners and State pulled major upsets last Saturday and early indications are that anything can happen in tomorrow's top Southern Conference battle. Most of the members of the Wolfpack have met a Tatum-coached team. He led the Oklahoma Sooners against State in the 'Gator Bowl last year. Maryland, one of the fastest squads in the South, beat Vanderbilt last Saturday, while

State was edging Virginia.

Defensive Power

The Wolfpack, which regained its defensive power, goes into the battle against the Old Liners in top condition. Its chief purpose against Maryland will be to stop Lu Gambino, leading Southern Conference scorer, while trying to push across a score itself.

Footsie Palmer is proving to be the main threat in the Wolfpack camp, but he is getting considerable assistance from Oscar Boseman and Charlie Richkus.

The line is State's chief claim to fame. Harold Saunders, Charlie Musser, Bernie Watts, John Waggoner, Jim Rees, Al Phillips, and Ted Dostanko have played great ing both of the extra points good produced another well deserved win. Holloman was the main stand-out for the victorious PIKA's as he accounted for both the tallies. In the first score he received the pass that made the chalk up and in the second score, he passed the pigskin to Bridges who in turn galloped across the end stripes. It was a tough game to lose for the Sigma Chi's but without a doubt they deserve a round of applause for showing such determination in trying to make a comeback all through the hard battled encounter.

Third Bagwell marched off to another victory as they pushed over a last period score to bounce back the men from 2nd Turlington 7-0. Mussack was the passing ace who tossed the ball to Brown for the chalk up and it was again Mussack who passed to Mitchell for the extra point.

The Vets continued their pace with a win over the Off-Campus lads to the close margin of 9-6. Kenny intercepted a pass and ran the remainder of the way for the Vet's T.D. in the 2nd quarter while Setger scored for the losers on a pass from Allen. The other points for the Vetville nine came as a result of a safety in the last period.

Holloman again lead his PKA brothers to a sweet victory over the Pi Kappa Phi fraternity to the tune of 26-7, in the PIKA's second win of the week. He ran the opening kickoff back for the first of the winner's T.D.s, then passed to Miller for the second rack up, and was accountable for the other two touchdowns that produced a decidedly important win for the PIKA's in their march for gridiron glory. Cramer and Conrad also aided exceptionally well in the win for the PKA fraters while for the losers it was a long 40 yard pass from Lowler to McCuller of the Pi Kappa Phi frat that made the game go without a touchdown for the Pi Kappa Phi men. This six points came in the last quarter.

Meanwhile on the Volleyball courts Vetville nosed out Berry with a two-game win, 15-2 and 15-12, to take the victory. Williams starred for the 2nd Syme men as they trounced 1st Alexander 15-7 and 15-5. The SPE's defeated Pi Kappa Phi by wins of 15-8 and 15-5. Boger, Swartz, Martin, Hobbs, Dixon, and Fetner paved the way for the SPE's and showered the points for the wide margin of score.

The big and most important factor in all sports is the finals and eliminations which are scheduled to get under way next week. As boxing finals have already been reeled off, there remains only football and volleyball contests slated for the final lap. There will be plenty of power and thrills when the championship games are played with some of the most classic tilts ever to be encountered on the State campus. The announcement as to the dates for the play offs will come from Mr. Miller, Intramural Sports Director, as soon as they have been set. Watch for these dates and be there to see plenty of action in a superb manner as only the "Statesmen" are able to produce.

ball since the Carolina game. Virginia, which had averaged 35 points per game prior to meeting State failed to score through the line.

Against Virginia, Palmer continued to turn in his usual great kicking performance. State's pass defense was also clicking against the Cavaliers.

State goes into the game with a record of five wins against three losses.

turning lettermen, which is four more than he had last year when he was serving his first year with the State grapplers and starting wrestling for the first time since the war. His team won third place in the Southern Conference meet and two of the State matmen captured individual titles. Don Troxler, 165-pounder, and Jimmy Edwards, 175-pounder, won the honors. Edwards is assisting Crawford with the coaching duties, but Troxler is back to lead the mat crew. Early indications show that State will have strength in the heavier classes, but the lighter weights are still a question mark.

Little has been said about Coach Willis Casey's swimming team, but practically the same team that worked under Casey this year is drilling daily for the coming season. Outstanding swimmers returning this year are Bill Kelly, Bill Despres, Bill Ward, Harry Cramer, Goman Gold, and Bill Smith. Freshmen will probably play a big role with the swimmers; however, and the individual star to watch is Kelly.

Fourteen offices for the Athletic Department and fifteen for the Military Department will line the sides of the arena beneath the grandstands.

The concourse will contain twelve to fourteen concession stands and six or seven coat check rooms.

The grandstands will be sixteen tiers high and will contain approximately 9,000 individual seats. There will also be four club rooms in the grandstands.

There will be from 20 to 25 rest rooms interspersed throughout the building.

The approximate cubic footage of the colosseum is over 4,000,000 which will make it the largest building of its type in the South. The cost of building is estimated at $1,000,000 plus.

Ross Shumaker head of the Department of Architecture, is architect for the building. Northrup and Obrien of Winston-Salem did the mechanical work for it. Luther Lashmit of Northrup and Obrien designed the exteriors. John S. Holloway and Bob Atkinson did the final working drawings and Mr. Holloway wrote the specifications. It is estimated that over 100 designers and draftsmen have worked on the building since its conception in 1941.

The bids are to be let December 3, 1947, and work is to begin with three days after the letting. With luck the colosseum will be ready for the basketball season in 1949.

"Footsy" Leads

North Carolina State's football team places high in several departments of the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau's official statistics released here Wednesday.

Leading the list of punters in the nation is State's Fullback Leslie Palmer, better known as "Footsy" to his campus friends. Palmer has booted the pigskin 57 times in eight games and has an impressive average of 44.3 yards. He can set a new national record against Maryland, if he maintains his present average for at least 7 more boots.

In the total defense department, including both running and passing against the Wolfpack, Coach Beat-tie Feathers' outfit ranks fourth in the nation, allowing opponents only 159.4 yards per game.

State also leads the nation in team punting with a 42 yard average, leading Duke by a half yard.

In pass defense State ranks second in the nation, having allowed opponents only 40.9 yards per game. The Wolfpack trails Colorado College, which has a 38.5 yard mark.

Note!

Dormitory room rents for the Winter Term will be due in the Business Office between the dates of December 1 and December 10. Any rooms not paid for within this period will be available for reassignment.

The Picture Fee of $2.50 for the Agromeck will be added to the dormitory rental bill and collected at the same time, between December 1 and 10.
