Delta Sigs Will Hold Housewarming Party

Saturday, commencing at four o'clock p.m., the Rho Chapter of Delta Sigma Phi National Fraternity will hold an informal housewarming party at their new home, a thirteen-room dwelling, formerly located at 2406 Hillsboro Street.

The house was purchased at the closing of the summer term and is now occupied by 23 men. It was moved from its original location to a lot directly behind, and adjacent to, the SPE house. A majority of the labor involved was furnished by the members of the fraternity.

Commencing Tuesday morning, October 7, the kitchen of the home was put into operation under the supervision of Jack Taylor. Meals for members will be served three times daily on a six-day basis.

It is the first time since 1943 that this fraternity has had a home. During the past few years they have occupied an apartment at 2412 Hillsboro Street, capable of housing only ten men.

Plans For Initiation Made As AICHE Meet

At 7:00 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 7, the A.I.Ch.E. held its first meeting of this school year. A short business meeting was attended by approximately 25 members and was presided over by the president, Robert Schmidt. Plans were discussed for accepting new members into A.I.Ch.E. this term, and an Initiation Committee was appointed to draw up plans for the initiation. A new treasurer, Robert Yoder, was elected to serve this year.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

The next meeting of A.I.Ch.E. will be held on October 21, and all students of Chemical Engineering are urged to attend.

Parliament Member to Deliver Address Here Monday Evening

Victor Francis Yates, member of Britain's Parliament and a noted authority on economics and political science, will deliver five addresses in Raleigh next Monday, October 13, Secretary Edward S. King of the college Y.M.C.A. announced recently.

Yates, a graduate of Oxford and Birmingham universities, will speak to the students of Meredith College Monday at 10:45 a.m. and will make a brief speech at a luncheon meeting at the Raleigh Y.W.C.A. at one p.m. He will talk to social science classes at Shaw University at 2:30.

"The Present International Scene" will be the topic of an address to be delivered by Yates at a dinner meeting in the grill room

Colorful Program Highlights State College's Fifty-Eighth Anniversary

By ISH COOK

The walls of Pullen Hall reechoed commendations from Secretary of National Defense James V. Forrestal and U. S. Senator Clyde R. Hoey last Friday in the 58th anniversary program of State College.

Secretary Forrestal commended the institution for its "effective cooperation in training Navy personnel during World War II. His message was read by Capt. Clifford C. Richardson, USN, Chief of Staff and Assistant Commandant of the Sixth Naval District in Charleston, S. C.

Captain Richardson stated that the war records of the 1,300 Navy men who received their training in Diesel engineering here constitute eloquent proof of the excellence of the training given by N. C. State.

Secretary Forrestal's remarks are inscribed on a bronze plaque which was presented to State College on behalf of the U. S. Navy these foundations will be and the great benefit to be derived from their operations. I refer specifically to the Textile Foundation formed in 1942, which now has funds exceeding $800,000 and which has been instrumental in bringing to State College some of the top-ranking scientists and teachers of the whole country. This will result in stimulating experimental study and increasing the number of technically trained men needed to operate state's textile plants now existing and to encourage the establishing of others for diversified manufacturing."

In presenting the Navy's plaque to the college, Captain Richardson said that behind Secretary Forrestal's words "lies a story of tre-

Hoey Praises School
In the principal address of the founder's day exercises, Senator Hoey praised State College's work toward agricultural expansion. He cited North Carolina's need for further farm and industrial development in its quest for a higher per capita earning capacity.

Senior North Carolina Senator Pullen Hall audience by Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the Greater University of North Carolina and President Truman's representative on the United Nations effort to settle the Netherlands-Indonesian dispute. Chancellor J. W. Harrelson presented Dr. Graham and presided over the exercises.

Develop Farms
Stressing the need for additional farm development and the establishment of more small industries in the State, Senator Hoey continued:

"The establishment of the various foundations at State College mark the beginning of vastly increased usefulness for this institution. The public does not realize just how extensive the work of

20,000 Expected To View Contest; Close Game Is Predicted

By MAC McDUFFIE

State's Wolfpack tangles with the Clemson Tigers in the first home game of the season in Riddick Stadium tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. A capacity crowd of 20,000 is expected to be on hand for the Southern Conference battle.

It is not likely that either team will be favored; although the Tigers have an apparent edge on offense according to past performances while the Wolfpack has demonstrated a superior defense. Tailback Bobby Gage is the big news in the Clemson camp, but the players who rate highest on State's team are the guards and tackles.

The Tigers were edged, 16-14, by Wake Forest last Saturday, but are darkhorses in the Southern Conference, a fierce 60-minute struggle, yielding only in the fourth quarter.

State dropped its opener, 7-0, to Duke and broke into the win column with a 14-0 victory over Davidson last Saturday. In two games, however, Coach Beattie Feathers' charges have shown only a very powerful defense, holding the Blue Devils and Wildcats to an average of 23 yards net rushing. Davidson was actually held to a minus one yard.

Great Passer

Clemson's Gage, rated as one of the best backs in the country, has completed over 300 yards of passes in three games. Pass defense was one of State's weaknesses against Davidson. The Wildcats made good on six out of nine attempts for 95 yards. On the other hand, State's passing was weak.

One bright note concerning the Wolfpack's offense is the fact that the starting backfield will be intact for the first time this season. Wingback Oscar Bozeman, who was injured just prior to the Duke game,

Former Head of Print Shop Dies After Illness of Several Months

Alonzo O. Alford, 66, of 1904 1/2 Hillsboro Street, retired lieutenant colonel in the U. S. Army and former head of the State College Print Shop, died at 1:40 Monday afternoon at the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. T. C. Yates, at 208 Groveland Ave.

Alford, who was affectionately called "Major" by his friends throughout the State, had suffered for several months from an incurable disease. He had been in declining health for the past few years.

A native of Raleigh, Colonel Alford was educated in the Raleigh Public Schools and at State College, where he studied mechanical engineering with the Class of 1902. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Alford of Raleigh.

Prior to becoming head of the College Print Shop in 1942, Alford was associated with the State College Agricultural Extension Service which he joined in 1915. He served in both World Wars.

An active mason, he was a past master of the William G. Hill Masonic Lodge in Raleigh, a member of the Scottish Rites Bodies in Raleigh and Wilmington, the York Rite Body in Raleigh, the Raleigh Shrine Club, and the Sudan Temple Band. He was also a member of the American Legion, Scabbard and Blade, honorary military fraternity, and Mu Beta Psi, honorary musical society.

He was a member of the First Baptist Church and the Lions Club.

Surviving are Mrs. Alford, the former Ella Mae Fowler of Raleigh; two sons, Wallace Churchill and Neil Calvin Alford, both of Raleigh; and one sister, Mrs. W. T. Neal of Raleigh.

Talented Cast Makes Play "Dream Girl" a Clean Hit

By BOB FRIEDMAN

With their knowing restraint, the directors of the Raleigh Little Theater choose a tried, tested, and very successful former Broadway production for presentation by their group approximately every two months. In their present production, "Dream Girl," the Little Theater group scores a clean hit solely through the acting abilities of the principal leads. Since "Dream Girl" was written as a showpiece vehicle for a talented actress, and since the Little Theater group is blessed with the very talented Mary Alice Spivey as the central heroine, nobody comes off hurt.

These obvious technical difficulties that would scare off less ambitious civic groups were surmounted in admirable style by the director, Ainslie Pryor. "Dream Girl," which is the portrayal of the trials and tribulations of an ultra-modern young girl of the intellectual set, requires no less than nine different changes of scene. Considering the limitations of a non-revolving stage, the fact that the play was presented with some annoying stops and starts must be overlooked.

"Romp by Principals"

Opening night's performance was definitely a romp for the principals in the cast. Overlooking an inherent weak opening, which was aggravated somewhat by minor technical difficulties, this reviewer definitely goes overboard in praising the individual performances.

The afore mentioned Miss Spivey, as Georgina Allerton the Dream Girl, is excellent. The play, as previously pointed out, demands herculean efforts from the ever dreaming damsel in her efforts to make the right adjustment to reality. It (the play) calls for Miss Spivey to occupy the stage for just about every minute, and she responds gallantly to the occasion, running the gamut of all emotions from alacrity to zest.

Ainslie Pryor plays the male lead. His part is that of a brash newspaperman who knows what he wants. Mr. Pryor matches his directorial abilities with a fine characterization. He and Miss Spivey score especially in those dream scenes with the Freudian background of an insure love with appropriate symbols.

Quite Acceptable

For the other man in this emotional-mental conflict, State College's own Fitzhugh Dade is quite acceptable. He possesses just enough personal quietness of mannerism to be quite effective as the "dream girl's secret love." In the dream scene pictured above, Fitzhugh turns in his best scene as he pleads for Georgina Allerton's life.

Among the other characters in the play, James Thiem, Paul Fitzgerald, and Sheryl Biren were most impressive. Miss Biren, the wife of a State student, is quite good as the sharp-witted partner of Miss Allerton in a combined bookshop venture. Her asides and acid-tongued repartee with the heroine is enjoyable, for she makes great use of the fine dialogue supplied by Elmer Rice for her part.

James Thiem, the able veteran of many productions of the Little Theater, is called upon to portray many parts in this play. In the picture above, Mr. Thiem is a judge. Wander in late and you may find him a marriage consultant, justice of the peace or what have you. In all situations, James responds in an admirable fashion.

Wolf Rates Bravo

Paul Fitzgerald, in the part of the married wolf in Georgina's life, definitely rates a bravo for his performance. Again the actor makes the most of the sharp-witted dialogue that the play abounds with.

It remains for a final return to Miss Mary Alice Spivey; without a doubt she walks off with the show in which honors abound; endowed with an excellent part that calls for all of the histrionic abilities at her command, Miss Spivey replies with something to spare and strikes this reviewer as being quite a "Dream Girl" in herself.

The play closes this Saturday night. If any of you have had your own personal dreams of a real "Dream Girl," I suggest that you catch the show before then in order to view what I consider a true "Dream Girl."

Campus Prexy Teal Calls For Better Cooperation

President Jennings Teal proclaimed Tuesday at the Campus Government meeting that he wanted more student representation on the committees around the campus which are independent of the Student Government. He said that a program is being established by Colonel Harrelson whereby closer cooperation can be had between the Student Government, and the Faculty Council, and other functions of the school. Through this improved arrangement he believes that students can be placed on more of these committees. More student influence on committees that affect the students will bring home to the individual student the power and capabilities of the council.

The members of the council will soon begin another program of weekly radio talks in order that the students will more fully realize the advantages of an active student government. These will be over the college radio station, WVWP. Arrangements are being made to have a speech on parliamentary procedure. This will be announced when the date is set and the leaders of all the campus organizations are invited.

Give $100 To YMCA

The members voted to give $100 to the YMCA to help defray the cost of the handbook. The handbook contained the Student Government Constitution and other pertinent information. The Council also wished to express their gratefulness to the "Y" for their assistance and close cooperation during orientation week. Another $100 is to be given to Blue Key to decorate the dormitories for Homecoming Day.

As you all know, the government has its judicial questions, too. Of interest in this department is the question of whether the bachelor trailer camp is subject to dormitory regulations. The trailers are private property; yet they are on the college campus and the men use the lavatory facilities in the dorms. The investigating committee will check into this in order that the situation may be clarified. Also along the legal line, arose the question of what power the Council has to enforce the attendance of anyone to whom they serve a subpoena. The Council has the authority to serve a subpoena to anyone to appear in court or to appear for an investigation. The issue was raised, primarily, to be sure employees of the college can be obtained if necessary.

The Student Government has made a big start. The members were elected by the largest number of votes ever cast at State College. If the student body supports this council, it can do more for the students and the school than any council in the history of the school.

Glee Club Maps Big Publicity Campaign To Get More Members

At the first regular meeting of the State College Glee Club held Monday in Pullen Hall new officers were elected.

The new officers are President Linwood S. Inscal of Nashville, N. C.; Vice President Robert M. Reams of Apex; Secretary and Treasurer Leon W. Bisette of Greensboro; and Librarian William R. Sullivan, Goldsboro.

The business meeting was presided over by retiring president, L. B. Miller of Merritt, until Robert M. Reams took charge in the absence of the new President Linwood S. Inscal.

A large-scale publicity campaign was planned and is to include the placing of posters at prominent spots on the campus asking for new members for the club. It will also include a broadcast over the College Station of a program of music recorded by last years' Glee Club.

All persons who are interested in joining the Glee Club should be present at Pullen Hall at 7:00 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday of next week or as soon as possible thereafter.

Use, Not Abuse . . .

For the past year and a half many students have been continually griping about the poor telephone service in the dormitories—without just cause in the eyes of the TECHNICIAN. For approximately two years the YMCA, through the efforts of Mr. King, has been striving to get sufficient telephones for the dormitories. Prior to this year they had succeeded in getting 'phones for two floors of each large dormitory. During the past summer the "Y" was able to secure enough telephones for each floor (including the basements) of the larger dorms. Most of them have been installed and the rest are on the way.

However, there still seems to be some students who are not worthy of the services rendered for them. Last year, one telephone was completely torn from its booth and carried away. Whether a student was responsible for this or whether some outsider was responsible, we do not know. There are still many other abuses enacted on these 'phones though.

With the dorms crowded to the limit these telephones must be cared for so that each may benefit. Remember that someone else is waiting to make a call the next time you start a lengthy conversation.

WITH the GREEKS

By TED WILLIAMSON

It must have seemed like the old days to those students who have seen pre-war rushing as the 17 social fraternities turned out for rush week last week. Nearly all of the 'frat houses were full of smiling, handshaking fraternity men seeking to meet all of the guests and to decide which of them would make the best pledges for the coming year. Dozens of freshmen, mostly green from high school, trekked from place to place trying to keep their dates and to decide, in one too-short week, which of the 'frats they liked best. When it was all over and the smoke and hot-air had cleared away the results began to come to light. The 17 fraternities, agreeing that there has been more "good material" to choose from than they could ever hope to look over and that it had been tough to choose from those that were rushed, have sent bids to 127 men, all freshmen. This is about 25 more men than were bid one year ago.

Normal School Year

Except for the over-full campus and general crowded conditions, this promises to be the most nearly normal school year since before the war. The collegiate spirit, so missed in the war years, seems to be returning fast. Before long things may be back to the "Freshman assume the position" plane but, we hope, with some needed changes. The kind of pseudo-Joe College spirit that leads to destruction of property and ill feeling between schools and organizations will be well forgotten. The "Hell Week," so long a part of fraternity life, will probably be made less deserving of its name, the fact is though, that casualty of war, Joe College, will soon be back among us.

Proof that the interest in Greek life is on the up-swing is the fact that several of the fraternities have acquired new and better quarters. Delta Sigma Phi, Sigma Nu and Lambda Chi Alpha are among those who have improved their abode. Others will probably do the same as soon as the shortage of houses is eased.

New Chapter of SAE

The greatest addition to fraternity strength on the State College Campus in several years in the new chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, one of the largest and oldest nationals. This chapter of SAE was granted a charter this past summer and is to be known as North Carolina Alpha of Sigma Alpha Epsilon. This is the first large national to come to State in several years but there is plenty of room for more good active chapters to follow SAE to our campus.

This fall should be an active season for the campus fraternities. Many outstanding social events are planned both by individual fraternities and by the Interfraternity Council. Nearly all 'frats are planning to participate in the Greek sports program and many hot games will be seen with competition running high. In addition to entertainment and social events, the fraternities will be seen taking an active part in matters of student interest and campus-wide activities.

Beauty Contest

Remember last year's Agromeck? You haven't forgotten those pages upon pages of sponsors' pictures, have you? Each female sponsor's picture occupied a complete page. The male that she sponsored was a campus wheel. The B.M.O.C.'s, in other words, were paid off somewhat by having a page reserved for their girls' pictures in the yearbook.

That fierce guardian of the average student's rights, the TECHNICIAN, in cooperation with the Agromeck, has secured reservations for 10 pictures in the yearbook. What does this mean? It means simply that any full-time student in this college can have his girl's picture in the yearbook. Since the number of pictures will exceed the number of spaces available, a system of elimination has been worked out. This process of elimination will be based solely on BEAUTY plus BEAUTY.

At present, a system is being worked out whereby all pictures entered will be judged impartially. Of the pictures judged highest, the TECHNICIAN will print two per week until the required number has been chosen.

It has been decided that all pictures sent in should be of the informal snapshot variety, a full-figure pose being preferable. Those girls whose charm as pictured in the snapshots brings them one of the choice ten yearbook spaces may then have one of the typical studio beauty poses made for publication.

All lovers on the campus who have been raving over the charms of their one and only are, thus given the opportunity to enter her picture in competition against the field. We expect the contest to begin next week, so all students who would like to see their girl's picture gracing this year's Agromeck had better start writing away for her favorite snapshots. Watch next week's issue for final details. In the

Sharps and Flats

By DAN SECHTIN

A week ago today North Carolina State College celebrated its 58th anniversary. In these past years our school has risen by leaps and bounds to one of the most highly rated technical institutions in the country.

Although we are primarily interested in the major technical courses offered here at State, we do have an extensive musical program. Our Red Coat band, State College Orchestra and the State College Glee Club have all brought musical recognition to Cow College. We have Major Kutschinski to thank for all this, for without his directorship none of these organizations would be possible.

During the anniversary ceremonies I, and those present, heard our orchestra in its first presentation of the year. I believe that those present will agree with me in this statement: If North Carolina State College is to have an orchestra worth comparing with other schools, Major Kutschinski is going to need the support of the hidden musical talent here at State College.

If you are interested, and feel that you will be an asset to the college orchestra, how about giving us that break? Major Kutschinski, I am sure, will welcome you into the circle of his little group with open arms. Drop in and see the Major. He can be located in room 10 Holladay Hall.

A Sad Duty

It is our sad duty to report to you this week the death of a man whom we have known and held in high regard for many years. Major Alford had been, until his recent retirement, the manager of the State College print shop. He was graduated from this institution 45 years ago and has been a good friend of it since.

For years the Major's office was open to editors of the TECHNICIAN who often went to him with their troubles and tribulations and he was indeed a friend to them all.

The "Major," as he was affectionately known to thousands of State College students, leaves behind him a long record of faithful service to the college.

The entire staff wishes to express our sympathy and condolences to Mrs. Alford and the rest of the family for their loss.

Our Friend

Students at State College lost an invaluable friend this summer when C. Romeo Lefort resigned his position as Assistant Dean of Students. Dean Lefort never lost sight of his undergraduate days. He never allowed himself to lose touch with the throb and pulse of student life.

Not only in the Dean of Students office was his understanding and helpfulness felt, but in his position as secretary of the Publications Board and the vital force in the fraternity row project he proved himself ever willing to give his time and energy to be of service to the students.

Watch for Students' "AG" Fair During Fair Week

Fall is football season, and the pigskin sport reigns supreme; but from October 14 till October 18 State students and the citizens of North Carolina will pay homage to a new ruler, the annual State Fair, and its increasingly popular child, the Student's "Ag" Fair.

The "Ag" Fair is an activity in which each student can participate and demonstrate his own creative ability. This year ten departments of Agriculture and Forestry are displaying exhibits devoted to the work of their particular department. These exhibits show the value of accepted agricultural practices along with illustrations of the value of the latest developments in modern scientific agriculture.

Ag Club Meets

The Ag Club met in Withers Hall at 7:30 for its second meeting of the year. The Ag Fair was discussed and a tentative budget for that project was passed on by the club.

Due to technical difficulties the motion picture of the State vs. West Virginia basketball game which was to be shown this week, was not shown, but will probably be shown next Tuesday night.

The proposed budget for the entire year was drawn up after the meeting. Every member is urged to be present next Tuesday night.

There will also be cash prizes for first, second and third exhibits this year. These prizes were donated by Rhodes-Collins Furniture Store, Carolina Hardware and The Student Supply Store.

The area (west end of Industrial Building) will be decorated with school colors (red and white).

You can't miss it, and don't miss it, because it's really an education within itself.

Enlarged Book Store Proves Helpful To Waiting Students

By HOWARD JACOBS
Every State College student is inalienably endowed with the right to complain about being overworked, to question the arrival date of his subsistence check, and above all to protest vociferously about the procedure and procrastination at the Watauga Book Shop. The students have become resigned to their fate that books without waiting are as rare as pretty girls at the Ex-Log yet, the book shop with approximately six thousand students to supply with books has made considerable progress in improving and enlarging the old system.

This year an order booklet method was employed and it proved to be as fast working as a G. I. with a three hour pass. One booklet was given to every student which contained exact instructions to guide him from the time he entered the South door until he emerged looking like an intellectual Santa Claus. The new system is simple, concise, and effective. In two days the unbelievable feat of issuing books to six thousand students had been achieved. It has been stated that the new procedure is ninety-five percent efficient in acquiring and distributing books to students.

Developed by Staff

The new system was developed by C. L. Chambers and his entire book staff. The new plan requires that the head of each department must submit a list approximating the number of students that will register for each course. This must be done two months before the end of each semester. The compiled data is then sent to the book store manager, Mr. Chambers, who applies the experience gathered in seventeen years of book work at State to estimate the number of books needed.

However, any procedure that governs a massive total of six thousand students is bound to have some shortcomings. For one, the publishers of textbooks do not fill orders completely or promptly. Secondly, it is generally accepted that State is slightly over crowded, and this condition causes a definite drain on new and reserve book supplies. The student who is unable to obtain a particular book should feel confident that the book staff is doing everything possible to replenish the book stack.

Aids Students

Finally, every student should remember that when a purchase is made at the Watauga Book Shop a definite contribution is being made to the Students' Welfare Fund. The fund receives all the profits that are derived from the sale of books. So the next time you are sweating out the book line remember that one of the most efficient departments on campus is serving a very worthy cause, the Students Welfare Fund.

"The supply member of the team"

SPORTS TALK

NOT ENOUGH SEATS

Boosters of State, both academic and athletic, cheered in the fall of 1946 when it was announced that we had a record enrollment of over 4,900. They burst forth with even louder acclaim this year when the student body exceeds 5,200.

During the summer plans were made to facilitate the handlings of State's large student body. New class rooms were constructed, labs were enlarged and repaired, curricula were changed, and practically every department made additions to its faculty. But one of the problems which really hit the students last year has not been solved. How are 5,200 people going to sit in Frank Thompson Gym for basketball games? Athletic officials figure that with the new bleachers approximately 3,500 can be seated in the gym.

The new gym, which has even less steel frame in place now than it had a year ago, definitely will not be finished. That is not too much of a disappointment even though some of the more optimistic had expected it to be completed in time for the Southern Conference Tourney. The truth of the matter is that the contract still has not been let. For several years, the only plausible excuse offered for not finishing the gym was lack of money. The 1947 General Assembly appropriated $350,000 to finish the gym. Just to clear matters, the letting of the contract is not in the hands of the athletic department.

STATE IS NOT ALONE

The athletic department, however, is in charge of the seating arrangements for the coming season. Students realize that everyone can not see all the games and a plan must be effected. State certainly is not the only school to face such a problem.

A plan must be worked out soon so that a recurrence of the incident between Carolina and State last year will not take place. The Red Terrors' first game is in December, necessitating some action on the part of the athletic department before next term.

Coach Everett Case traveled extensively this past summer and studied the plans of over 20 schools. He has submitted a plan which seems as fair as any we have heard yet. Coach Case proposes that the 12-game home schedule be divided equally, and also that the student body be divided. Each half of the student body would be permitted to see six games. For instance, one group would see the Carolina game and the other group would see the Duke game. It is not Coach Case's plan for the groups of students to see alternate games, but to arrange the schedule so that each group would see teams of equal ability.

Another part of the plan would permit the student, whose ticket is good for a game, either to use it or let someone else have it. The important part of the plan is that only 2,600 student books would be honored.

LET ALUMNI IN??

The last part of Coach Case's plan should stir up a lot of student controversy, but it certainly is well-founded. He believes that after the student group is accommodated, the other 900 seats should be sold to members of the Wolfpack Club and faculty in the form of season tickets, or one-half season tickets.

Before anybody starts howling about letting members of the Wolfpack Club get in to see the games, let's stop and look the situation over for a few minutes. In the first place, State's most active alumni are members of the Wolfpack Club—they help the school in all departments and support our teams, whether winning or losing, by buying season tickets each year. Yet, these fellows did not get to see the Red Terrors—one of the greatest athletic outfits ever to represent State—last year. Secondly, in a few years most of you will become alumni. Does that mean you will lose all interest in athletic circles at State? Wouldn't you too like to see ball games then? We all will be playing for the first time this season. Bozeman called signals last season and was a demon on reverse plays. Bob Bowlby, letterman blocking back, received a shoulder injury against Duke and did not get into the game with Davidson. The absence of Bowlby and Harry McLeod, second string blocking back, was probably one reason for Davidson's success in passing against the Wolfpack. Both are great defensive players.

State-Clemson

Leslie (Footsie) Palmer's kicking is also playing a great role in State's defensive game. The Cedar Grove, W. Va., letterman has averaged over 48 yards in 17 attempts which this season places him among the nation's leaders.

Coach Feathers' team defeated Frank Howard's Tigers, 14-7, last year. The Tigers went ahead, 7-0, but Howard Turner returned the next kickoff 98 yards for a touchdown. That run by Turner was the longest turned in by the Wolfpack last year.

The State coaching staff has worked long and hard during the past week in an effort to correct the offensive weakness, but it also agrees that State will have to be at its best offensively and defensively if the Wolfpack is going to defeat the Tigers.

hope that by the time even this year's seniors are graduated that the new gym will be ready to handle crowds up to 15,000. But until the gym is completed, here's my vote to let 900 members of the Wolfpack Club in to see home games.

Four Sports Being Offered For Student Participation

By HERBERT BRENNER

On Monday, October 13, the doors of Intramural Sports will be officially opened at State College, as ardent football enthusiasts will put on their togs and hit the gridiron. The above date was the big news to come out of last Tuesday night's meeting in the Monogram Room of Frank Thompson Gymnasium where Mr. J. F. Miller, Intramural Sports Director, met with representatives of thirty divisions who will take part in this term's activities.

Mr. Miller carefully outlined the rules that each team would be required to follow, giving special attention in his talk to the eligibility of players. He urged all representatives that the team's manager plays a definite roll in the making of a winning squad. The program will be followed on practically the same system as was used last year with the dormitories playing double eliminations and the fraternities playing Round Robin.

Strong support of Mr. Miller's program was shown by the fraternity men present and from past records, there will be plenty of keen sports rivalry when the Greek letter boys meet.

Variety of Sports

Together with football, the Intramural office announced that volley ball, boxing, and tennis will be played in regular competitive schedules. It is without a doubt though, that tag football will be the predominating event when the competition starts reeling off.

Also holding true to the custom, trophies and awards will be presented at the close of the scholastic year to the team having accumulated the most number of points at the close of all three terms competition, to the best manager, and the best all-around athlete. There will be first, second, and third place awards to teams in both the dormitories and fraternities. Mr. Miller also announced that the starting time for all football games will be 4:15 p.m. at Doak Field. The field has been divided into three playing sections thereby enabling three games to be carried on at the same time.

All men are urged to take part in at least one of the four sports offered this term to secure the benefits that being part of a squad of men offers. So comes the opening whistle, LET'S ALL BE THERE.

Redcoats Commended

The Clemson Band will not be here for the game Saturday; however, the Redcoat Band will be on hand during the half-time period. The band received many compliments for their outstanding performance at the Duke game. A prominent Durham citizen cited them as being the best of the ten bands present.

Fred Wagoner, tackle on the Wolfpack, became the proud papa of a bouncing boy this summer.

State Triumphs Over Davidson Wildcats, 14 to 0

Competition Is Keen For Cage Team Berths

Basketball practice began last Monday night, with sessions scheduled to be held three times each week. Nine lettermen were among the group reporting to Coach Everett Case as he begins his second year at State.

Leo Katkaveck, last year's captain who was elected by the students as the most outstanding athlete at State, headed the group of lettermen. Leo, a native of Manchester, Conn., is a senior and was the defensive leader of last year's Southern Conference champions. He was widely-known as a rebound artist and usually drew the assignment of guarding the opponent's top forward.

Other lettermen are eight sophomores who earned their monograms last season as freshmen and attained national ranking as the Red Terrors climaxed their season with a National Invitational Tourney bid, where they were eliminated in the semifinals, but dumped West Virginia in the consolation game. Kentucky was the only team that defeated State last year, which the Terrors failed to slaughter in a return game. Only one game was played with the Kentucky crew.

CAGE NOTICE

Coach Everett Case has asked that all freshmen or sophomores interesting in playing varsity or junior varsity basketball report to him at the gym on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

All prospects are to wear gym clothes. A complete schedule is being arranged for the junior varsity; thus affording its members plenty of experience this year.

Snow. Each saw plenty of action and is destined to play a leading role again this year.

The competition for starting berth will be keen, with nine lettermen and several promising newcomers. Freshmen that will bear watching are Jim Lyons, New York City; Paul Horvath, Chicago; Vic Bubas, Gary, Ind.; Sam Ramzino, Gary, Ind.; and Chester Gurski, Ford City, Penn.

Members of last year's junior varsity outfit who will be in the running for positions with the varsity this season are Paul Long, Charlotte; Walt Foreman, Charlotte; Joe Davis, Raleigh; Dennis Fleming, Portsmouth; and Joe Harand, Tenafly.

The junior varsity this year will play a schedule ranging from 12 to 16 games. Two games will probably be played with Carolina, Duke, and Wake Forest. It is not known definitely whether Wake Forest will have a jayvee squad.

Coach Feathers' Team Looks Good On Defense-Offense Fails to Click

By DAVE FRANKLIN

In a game closer than the score, the Wolfpack from State College roared effectively only twice in Charlotte last Saturday night to defeat the Davidson Wildcats, 14-0. The 'Pack scored on a covered Wildcat fumble in the first period and clinched the game with a touchdown in the final stanza.

The Wolves played a terrific game on defense to hold the vaunted Davidson attack to a net rushing total of minus one yard. And this same deliberate, defensive game payed off for the first score when Bert Anderton of Davidson fumbled a pass from center behind his own goal and was smothered by a hard-charging Wolfpack line before he could recover the ball. Tom Joyce, big State guard, fell on the ball during the scramble for the Wolves first score. Jim Byler booted the extra-point perfectly.

Huzvar Scores

The Wolfpack's second score came at the end of a 40-yard drive late in the game. John Huzvar, freshman fullback, went the last ten yards to cross the double stripe. Byler's conversion ended the scoring.

State did not show the polish on offense which characterized last year's team.

Particularly noticeable was the lack of an effective passing attack. Howard Turner, State's three time All Southern tailback, has not been replaced. Time alone will tell whether Coach Feathers is "saving" a good passer for more formidable foes or whether such experienced pass receivers as George Blomquist, Oscar Bozeman, and Bill Stanton will have to go the season without catching a good pass.

But the bruising play exhibited by the State forward wall and hard running by backs Charlie Rickus, Gwynn Fletcher, Leslie Palmer, and Huzvar spell trouble for Clemson tomorrow night and other teams that State will play later this fall.

Palmer Stars

One outstanding star for the Wolves against Davidson was Fullback "Footsie" Palmer, who kept the smooth Wildcat passing attack in safe territory most of the game with his booming punts. Palmer averaged fifty-three yards in ten kicks; twice his punts went over sixty yards, once to roll dead on the Davidson three-yard line.

The entire State line played outstanding defensive ball. As the season develops, however, they will have to show more and better blocking on offense if the State running attack is to roll when the cards are down. And the sixty-four dollar question for all State fans is: Does the Wolfpack have a good passer?

WSSF Secretary To Speak Next Thursday

On Thursday, October 16, Mr. Bill Kitchen, National Executive Secretary of the WSSF, and Mrs. Phyllis Farley, Regional Secretary, will be in Raleigh. They will speak to groups at Meredith, St. Mary's, Peace, St. Augustine's, Shaw and State College.

Members from several campus organizations including the B.S.U., Wesley Foundation, Westminister Fellowship, Canterbury Club, Aquinas Club, Lutheran Student's Association, Blue Key, Golden Chain, Interfraternity Council, YMCA and others are joining in the meeting. It will be the first meeting of the year on WSSF and initial plans for the WSSF Drive will be made.

This is Mr. Kitchen's first visit to Raleigh as a speaker. Last year he spoke to delegates from North Carolina colleges at a conference in Greensboro and delivered a most inspirational and interesting address.

Mrs. Farley, the new Regional Secretary, is from Scotland and is a very charming person. She is interested in meeting the student leaders with whom she will be working this year.

Frank Hildebrand, the Chairman of the YMCA Committee on WSSF, is making the arrangements for the meeting which will be held in the YMCA auditorium at 7 p.m.

The general association of the YMCA and the Freshman Fellowship (YMCA) will meet with the other groups. All members of the "Y" are urged to be present. General open-house or "Y-Night" will follow the meeting.

Last Chance

All freshmen who have not had their pictures made must have them made this coming week at the publications bldg. 7 to 11 every night—October 13 to October 17.

Colorful Program

Procession Formed

Prior to the formal program, an academic procession formed on the lawn of Memorial Tower on the campus and moved from that point to Pullen Hall, where the exercises marking the college's 58th birthday were held. Col. Samuel A. Gibson, Commandant of the College's Department of Military Science and Tactics, was the chief marshal.

Following the program, a luncheon for the dignitaries participating in the ceremonies was held in the Leazer Dining Hall on the campus. Dr. Graham delivered a brief address at the luncheon.

Dr. L. E. Hinkle, Chairman of the College's Public Lectures Committee and head of the Department of Modern Languages, was in charge of arrangements. The Rev. Robert Lasater, Baptist chaplain at the college, directed the devotional portion of the program, and the State College orchestra, under the direction of Major Christian D. Kutschinski, provided a special program of music.

LANDLUBBER

General opinion of former Navy men around town is that President Truman is an ole landlubber after refusing to undergo the initiation of "The Line" during his trip to South America. Believers in superstition believe that the reason for Neptune sending so many Hurricanes up toward the U. S. this summer.

Carolina Special

The Campus Government is making efforts to arrange for another "Football Special" train to take State students to the Carolina-State game which is to be played at Kenan Stadium on November 8. So far they have met with little success since the railway officials are reluctant, to use the spur line from Durham to Carrboro. This line is being used only for freight and the officials state that they do not believe it would be wise to send a crowded passenger train over the spur line.

Should List Officers

Dean Wood has requested that all presidents of campus organizations file a list of the officers of their organization in the Assistant Dean of Students office not later than October 17.

New Set of Traffic Rules Are Announced

The college traffic committee, headed by C. G. Mumford, has formulated a complete set of new rules and regulations regarding student vehicles. This change was necessary in the number of vehicles on the campus this year. The student will no longer be suspended from school after four traffic violations, but will be cited to the Raleigh City Court.

It is hoped that this and other improvements will help to relieve the existing problem of congested traffic.

The revised set of rules are as follows:

1. All students must have registered their automobiles by 12 noon October 11, 1947 (Saturday). Any student who did not register his automobile at the college registration may do so between 2:00 p.m. and 5:00 p.m. at the College Warehouse.
2. Any student whose automobile is found on campus after October 11, without an identifying sticker will be placed on Traffic Probation.

3. Any student who becomes the owner of an automobile after October 11, 1947 must register his automobile within a period of one week.

4. Any student with a physical disability may apply to the traffic committee for additional parking privileges. A medical certificate of disability will be required before consideration is given to any case.

5. Any student who is the legal owner of an automobile is considered responsible for his automobile and all traffic violations against that automobile will be charged to the owner.

6. Any student receiving a traffic violation ticket must take the ticket to the College Warehouse within 24 hours. Failure to comply with this regulation will constitute an additional violation.

7. A student with two traffic violations will be required to appear before the traffic violation bureau.

8. A student who has been found guilty of three traffic violations during the school year 1947-1948 will be placed on Traffic Probation. Traffic Probation will last for the remainder of the school year.

9. A student who has been placed on Traffic Probation and is found guilty of any additional traffic violation will be cited to the Raleigh City Court and if found guilty by the presiding judge will be forced to pay a fine and the costs of court.

10. All students are expected to be familiar with the traffic rules of this college. Traffic violations for the school year 1947-1948 will be effective at 8:00 A.M. on October 13, 1947.
