Cut Penalties Are Eased By Faculty Council

President Emeritus of State College Dies

Dr. Eugene Clyde Brooks, 75, president emeritus of North Carolina State College and a leader in public education in this State since the turn of the century, died last Saturday morning at his home, 617 N. Blount Street. He had been ill several years.

Dr. Brooks served as president of State College from 1923 until its consolidation with the University of North Carolina in 1934. Prior to that, he had served as State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Funeral services were held Sunday at 2:30 o'clock at Edenton Street Methodist Church, with the pastor, Dr. A. J. Hobbs, in charge, and burial followed in Maplewood Cemetery, Durham. Active pallbearers were Dean E. L. Cloyd of State College, Willis Smith, Ben L. Smith, Eugene Hines, C. D. Douglass, W. D. Carmichael, Jr., and A. S. Brewer. Honorary pallbearers

Representatives of Industry To Interview Students Here

Mr. Clinton Jones, assistant to the Dean of Engineering and in charge of coordinating student activities, announced this week that the first of a number of representatives from various industrial organizations will soon arrive on the campus to interview students for various jobs. While the object of these visits is primarily to interview graduating seniors, all interested students are invited to contact Mr. Jones for information.

The Carnegie-Illinois Steel Company will have a representative here October 31, and The Standard Oil Company will send a man here November 18. Anyone desiring to talk to these representatives is urged to contact Mr. Jones in his office in 104 Civil Engineering Building, and give him the time that you would prefer the interview. A schedule will then be made, and a conference room set up in the 1911 Building.

Announcements concerning other companies represented on the campus will be made from time to time in the Blue Bulletin. It is expected that a great number of these interviews will take place in January and continue through the winter and spring terms. Quite a few letters have been received, covering a large field of industry, asking permission to send men here for student interviews. If graduating seniors are interested in obtaining employment in any particular line drop by and see Mr. Jones, and let him know your preference, or whether you have already obtained a job. Perhaps, through the interview you may get work that you will like better than the job you now have.

Mr. Jones placed special emphasis on the fact that engineering students should feel free to stop in his office, and have a talk with him. By students stating their needs and desires, this office will know just what type of openings in business to look for, and who is available for placement.

Army Inspection Gives ROTC High Rating

By JAMES HOLLINGER
When the R.O.T.C. appear in their dress uniforms, you will notice a blue star on the right sleeve of the blouse. This mark of distinction stands for the rating of "Excellent" which the department earned last year.

The rating was determined by one of two boards of officers inspecting Senior R.O.T.C. units in universities and colleges in North and South Carolina and Georgia. It is understood that State College rated well at the top of the list in the Third Army area.

The War Department Annual Inspection was held last April 24 and 25 by a board of five officers representing the Third Army. The Board was selected impartially from units not connected with the R.O.T.C. and approved by the War Department. President of the board was Colonel James W. Coutts, Chief of Staff of the 82nd Airborne Division.

A certain percentage of the classes were given quizzes and practical tests. The inspecting officers witnessed a parade, review, and company and platoon drill. They inspected equipment, indoor and outdoor facilities, uniforms, teaching programs, etc.

The opinions and tests were graded and compiled by the War Department. The rating was announced July first by telegram, followed by a letter with the details.

All units, Air, Infantry, and Signal, received a grade of "Excellent." Another War Department inspection will be held next spring by a board consisting of different officers.

Five Cuts To Be Allowed Without Penalty

Judges Award Prizes To Ag Fair Exhibitors

The livestock exhibit, denoting the value of farm animals in a diversified agricultural program, captured top honors in the annual Students Agricultural Fair sponsored by students in agriculture at State College as a part of the State Fair.

A silver cup and other awards were presented to the student exhibitors. Art Pitzer of Portsmouth, Ohio, was chairman, and Walter McPherson of State College was vice chairman of the prize-winning exhibit.

Second place went to the agricultural chemistry entry, which showed the work of farm chemists in preparing supplies for the farm, and in devising new products from farm crops for the market. Bill Smart of Shelby and Horace Andrews of Raeford were chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the chemistry exhibit.

Third place honors went to the forestry exhibit, portraying the importance of scientific management in woodland care and the danger of fire and other hazards to forest development. L. J. Smith of Cullowhee and Tom Wynne of Asheville were the chairman and vice chairman of the forestry entry.

Claude Kidd of Dobson is president of the Students Fair, which includes ten exhibits showing certain phases of the work of students in the School of Agriculture and Forestry at State College.

The Faculty Council, which for many years has been bombarded by pleas from students to change the existing class attendance regulations, relented last week to the extent of increasing the number of cuts each student may take without penalty. The move came as a surprise to almost everyone, in spite of the fact that the Campus Government has been working on a program to bring about changes.

None of the existing attendance regulations have been changed in any way. The whole thing boils down to a matter of keeping records rather than any actual change in rules. When the Dean of Students calculates the number of points that a person is to lose because of cuts, he will now subtract one from this number. For example, a student cuts nine classes and is due to lose three credit points. The Dean of Students subtracts one from the three and the student will lose only two points. In effect, the Faculty Council ruling will allow five cuts per term without penalty. The sixth cut will mean a one point deduction, and every three cuts thereafter will mean another deduction of one point.

Investigation of the class attendance records of last year revealed that the average credit point loss per student because of cuts was slightly over one. In many instances this one point loss placed hardship on a student who was hovering on the C-average borderline. The new ruling will allow a student to take an average number of cuts without having his average suffer.

The announcement of this ruling marks the first time in many years that any liberalization of the cut system has been approved by the Faculty Council. Several years ago a system of allowing one cut per credit hour per term resulted in students saving their cuts and taking a weeks' vacation. This system had to be discontinued and a more stringent one installed.

The new ruling is still on a trial basis. Any appreciable increase in the average number of cuts per student per term will probably cause the Faculty Council to tighten the whole thing down once more.

Freshmen!

The freshman class is urged to attend the Publications Board smoker tonight at 7:00 o'clock in the North Parlor of the Y. This get-together is being sponsored by the Publications Board so the freshmen can have an opportunity to meet the staffs of the various campus publications. Refreshments will be served.

NOTICE JUNIORS

The initial meeting of the Junior class will be held Thursday, October 30 in Pullen Hall at 12:00 o'clock. All members of the class are urged to attend since important business matters will be taken up.

Former State Teacher Writes Novel of War

"Time Moving West," a novel written by Lonnie Coleman, former State College professor, went on sale at book stores throughout the nation on Tuesday.

The story, according to Coleman in his foreword, deals with "the basic experience" of servicemen in all ranks and branches of the country's fighting forces during the war. In addition to his own experience as a Navy man, Coleman said he learned "many stories" about war service from members of his State College classes, most of whom were veterans.

Taught English
Coleman, a graduate of the University of Alabama and a native of Bartow, Ga., taught English at N. C. State from March to June, 1946. He is now a member of the editorial staff of The Ladies Home Journal and resides in Philadelphia, Pa.

In 1941, he won a story contest sponsored by The Atlantic Monthly, and in 1942, he captured first place in a short story contest sponsored by "Mademoiselle" for American writers under thirty years of age. He is the author of another novel, "Escape The Thunder," published by E. P. Dutton and Company, Inc. of New York City. The latter firm has published his latest book.

Navy Experiences
Coleman said his experiences in Navy service and his talks with State College veteran students made him "realize that whatever the difference in rate, rank, or branch of service, the basic experience was much the same for all of us. This book grew out of the desire to tell a part of that experience."
While he was a member of the State faculty, Coleman taught freshmen English classes. He studied under Hudson Strode, noted educator at the University of Alabama.

VA Representatives Assisting College Vets

Representatives of the Regional Office of the Veterans Administration on the State College campus are C. B. Vuncannon and E. S. Simpson, Training Officers. Their office is located in Room 107, 1911 Building, and their purpose in being here is to assist State College veterans in obtaining their rights and benefits under the G. I. Bill and other veterans' legislation. M. L. Shipman, Contact Representative, will be in his office in the same building on Wednesday and Friday of each week to give assistance with insurance matters, dental applications, compensation claims, and medical treatment, applications and hospitalization. These three men are veterans of World War II and are sincerely interested in giving assistance to other veterans in all matters pertaining to the Veterans Administration.

New and transfer veterans are reminded that educational benefits must be applied for in advance. These benefits are effective only from the date of application and are not retroactive to any previous date.

Subsistence checks covering the period from September 23 through October 31 can be expected between November 1 and 15th, and you should make arrangements for sufficient funds from personal sources to carry you until this date.

SIE To Hold Meeting

The Society of Industrial Engineers will hold its regular meeting Tuesday, October 28, at 7:30 p.m. in the Y.M.C.A. conference room. Principal feature of the session will be a film on materials handling. All I.E. students are invited to attend.

Students Urged To Join Music Society

The Raleigh Chamber Music Guild is starting a membership drive this week, and State College students are invited to join.

Four concerts of chamber music are presented each year. These consist of both classical and modern selections played by small groups, such as quartets, octets, and chamber orchestras.

Membership will be limited to the seating capacity of St. Mary's College auditorium. This auditorium was chosen because of its ideal size for this type of music. Students wishing to obtain more information are asked to see Dr. Winston in 202 Peele, or C. D. Kutshinski in 10 Holladay Hall. Membership is five dollars, including federal tax.

I.R.C. Holds First Official Meeting

The International Relations Club had its first official meeting of the year Monday night in the Y.M.C.A. Building. Ernest Colton, Leon Ballance, Shelly Burman, were elected Vice-president, Secretary-treasurer, and Librarian respectively. The possibility of having the South Eastern Regional Conference of International Relations in Raleigh was discussed. Monday night, October 27, was set for the next meeting to be held. The program will be a discussion of terms such as the difference between democracy American style and "red" democracy and the interpretation given between "free" elections in Russia and in the United States. The meeting will be at 7 p.m. in the Y.M.C.A. Membership is not restricted.

Students Appointed For Staff of WWVP

Six top-ranking students at State College have been appointed to positions on the staff of WWVP, campus broadcasting system. Manager Peter W. Swanson of Clifton, N. J., has announced.

Frank W. Jarvis of Spindale, senior in electrical engineering, has been named chief engineer, and Edward N. Rodman of Washington, N. C., has been chosen as business manager. Thomas Bryant Williams of Asheboro is assistant station manager.

The program directors are Samuel Bruce Petteway of Kinston, senior in engineering, Frederick O. Smethana of Concord, sophomore in aeronautical engineering, and Beryl L. Heffner of Shelby, sophomore in textiles.

The station, which serves the students on the State College campus, operates on a regular schedule, providing a variety of educational and entertaining programs. It has been approved by the Federal Communications Commission and is a mem-

New Officers Elected By Trailer Community

Harris R. Lambe of Asheboro, junior in architecture, has been elected mayor of Trailwood, campus trailer community at State College, it was announced yesterday.

F. Schnedl of Charlotte, who served during the past year. The new mayor defeated Ralph Harris of Candor and Dave Baxter of Russellton, Pa., the other two candidates for the post.

Other new Trailwood officials are Dallas Burkette of Beaufort, Texas, sheriff; D. P. (Buck) Brake of Rocky Mount, senior alderman; Mrs. J. L. Boyd of Union, S. C., secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Jo Spivey of Asheville, publicity chairman; S. A. Ottoway of Holly Ridge, recreational director; and Prof. J. D. Paulson of Raleigh, faculty adviser.

Approximately 700 persons, including State College students, their wives, and children, reside in Trailwood. Around 250 trailers are parked in the area.

War Must Go . . . Our World Is Not Doomed But Peace Must Be Secured

By BOB MERRITT

The only thing actually worrying the average State College student aside from the prevailing ratio of men to women is the question of what he will be doing at some time in the not too distant future. Assuming that he graduates (psychologists tell us that very few students plan NOT to graduate), will he be just one more college graduate facing a discouraging combination of inflation, unemployment, and a long, cold winter? Or will he find himself immediately transposed from the classroom to an ultra-modern, walnut-paneled office, liberally equipped with IBM's and beautiful secretaries? The fact that State students are thinking along these lines proves that they actually do have some inclination to worry about the future.

Seriously though, how can one sensibly plan for the future when the determining conditions are so completely uncertain? America and Russia are preparing for war with a fervor that will undoubtedly in the thirties. In the history of the world no two nations have ever prepared for war against each other without eventually testing their preparations on the battle-field.

The only reason the human race was not exterminated in the days of our ancestors was because of the impotency of the weapons. Today war is imminent, but we are no longer protected by the impotency of our implements of destruction. Hiroshimo, Nagasaki, and Bikini proved this. According to our latest claims we now have a stock-pile of atomic bombs large enough to obliterate every city of over 100,000 population. This means that all the cities as large as Charlotte (if we include Mecklenburg County) could be remodeled overnight in the style of Sahara. This is not fiction (excluding ghost stories), this is hard, cold fact.

Protecting myself from the alumnus who might approach me in 1957, alive and healthy, with an I-told-you-so smile, I want to go on record as saying that the present civilization is not necessarily doomed. If the United States finds the solution to this dilemma before it is too late, we may all live to die happily of more or less orthodox causes.

The United World Federalists think they have found the solution to the problem of survival. They conclude that since treaties have never prevented war and governments always have, the way to prevent war today is through a world government. There are students on this campus who think this is a very sensible conclusion. To more efficiently change their

State Students Urged To Take Flu Vaccine

All students of State College are urged by the staff of Clark infirmary to take the influenza shots. These shots are offered free of charge to all State students. This applies to non-veterans as well as veterans.

During the past week around 700 students took the immunization shots. Dr. Combs stated that the shots may be taken during sick call from 8:30 until 9:30 every morning. But the vaccine can be administered at any time, thus eliminating the possibility of having to stand in a long line.

Short Courses

Thirty-five persons have registered and started classes in a retail lumber and material dealers' training course at State College, Director Edward W. Ruggles of the College Extension Division has announced.

The class and laboratory work, which will continue through October 31, is sponsored by the Carolina Lumber and Building Supply Association of Charlotte. The instruction is being conducted by the College's School of Engineering, the Basic Division, and the Division of Forestry.

In addition to members of the faculty of State College, a number of other specialists have been secured to deliver lectures to the group during the training period.

Zuckerman Calls for Frosh

By BERT ZUCKERMAN

Following the actions of my hero L'il Abner, I came to school to play football. Because I measure very inferior dimensions I have had to turn to some other field of endeavor to gain the unknown and glory for which my soul yearns. So it was a year ago I came to the TECHNICIAN Staff, unwanted by even the ping-pong team. I found myself among a collection of human debris which grouped itself together under the misleading title of an editorial staff. It is to this debris I wish to dedicate this article.

The TECHNICIAN Staff may well boast of its fine collection of academic boarderlines. Never before within one campus organization has there been so many negative I.Q.'s. To all negative I.Q.'s and morons we broadcast this urgent plea: JOIN US! Our standards must be kept up. We need more men of idiotic tendencies in order to keep up our insane work. This plea is directed especially to Freshmen who feel the warming glow of failure stealing over them. Complete your disaster: come write for the TECHNICIAN.

You will enjoy a freedom of writing which will bring back memories of our English Department. Obscenities are welcomed and shall be deleted only before our paper goes to press. Each candidate for our journalistic staff is treated to a free meal every Monday night, for which he pays only 75c. And, of course, there are other privileges which are presumed inherent to members of the press. I have yet to find them; however, I still presume them inherent—so the spark of hope never dies. It does flicker rather often though.

I hope that this passionate plea will start some of you younger men thinking. And if the blessed thought of joining our ranks sprouts across your mind, come down and see us. We will be glad to have you.

Now convalescing at Dix Hill.

36 Veterans Barred From All Benefits

Henry E. Kendall, chairman of the Employment Security Commission of North Carolina, has announced the barring of 36 World War II veterans from further benefits under the Servicemen's Readjustment Allowance because of fraud in connection with drawing such benefits. Twenty-five of these veterans have been ordered by the U. S. District Attorneys in their respective districts to refund more than $3,000 that they had collectively received through fraudulent action, the most predominant infraction being failure to report wages earned during a period in which compensation was drawn under the G.I. bill.

"We are anxious to pay all veterans who are qualified to receive these benefits, but we are determined to prevent fraud so far as it is possible," declared Chairman Kendall.

Where's The Spirit?

Last Saturday night we lost a football game, and the defeat was a double shocker because it came as a complete surprise and by a narrow margin. There is never any point in crying over spilt milk, but in this case it might be worthwhile to take a look at the contributing causes.

No one can deny that the Wolfpack is capable of playing much better football than they did against Florida. They simply didn't have the spark, either as individuals or as a team. No one can explain why a team is hot one game and way below par in another, and no one in their right mind can expect their team to be at their playing peak all of the time.

But everybody expects the student body of any school to be at the peak in support of their team, win or lose, all of the time, and by that standard the State College student body has yet to show big league quality. There was a well publicized pep rally Friday night before the game. There couldn't have been over 250 students present, even counting those there in the spirit! And at the game itself the cheering was shamefully spasmodic and scattered, and it sometimes sounded as though the students felt that any display of enthusiasm was definitely beneath them. The caustic grumbling of the grandstand quarterbacks was frequently more noticeable than the applause, and the disgusting and un-sportsmanlike booing when the officials were introduced was worthy only of a hicktown high school.

The cheerleaders are no doubt partially responsible for the inadequacy of our cheering section. Cheer leading is an art and a science, involving such factors as mass psychology, exuberant personality and timing. One example of poor timing last week was the way the cheerleaders delayed in making their appearance on the field. They should have had the stands roaring long before the team came on for their warm-up. And they should also develop more and better yells. But even if our cheerleaders don't seem to be entirely competent, it must be remembered that even master craftsmen can't work miracles with poor material.

Here at State we were once famed for our old-fashioned, fire-eating brand of spirit; the kind that never let up regardless of the score. And that type of support often inspired a second rate team to display astounding courage and tenacity, so that sheer guts frequently triumphed over heavy odds, and invariably claimed the respect and admiration of the sporting world. Our lack of that type of spirit now is sometimes blamed on the fact that we have so many veterans in the college, and veterans are believed to be unresponsive to the appeals of the old school tie. Even if this were so, it must be remembered that there are several hundred students here who were not involved in the recent conflict. In any case, veterans and non-veterans alike must realize that to get anything out of college they must put in a little something more than classroom attendance.

WITH the GREEKS

By TED WILLIAMSON

By far the biggest news in the State College fraternity world this week is the installation of N. C. Alpha of Sigma Alpha Epsilon which takes place today and tomorrow. The local group, which began a year ago under the guidance of Dean Lampe and several Brothers in the Fraternity who had come to State from other schools, has been operating as a local fraternity under the name of the Phi Alpha Club. This summer the convention of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon granted a charter to the Phi Alpha Club, which had been working from the first toward that goal.

The National officers of the Fraternity are in town for the installation and also for initiation of fourteen members into the fraternity. Next week and the week following, two other chapters will be installed, one at Texas College of Mines and the other at San Jose State College in California. These three new additions will raise the total of collegiate chapters of SAE to 117, making it the largest National Fraternity.

Schedules limit teams
With fraternity sports going hot on all sides, we find that some of the fraternities are having a hard time putting a team on the field. This is due to the fact that the schedules are made without consideration of the fact that on some afternoons nearly all members of the teams have classes. This works a great hardship on the smaller frats; and gives the larger ones, who have several teams to choose from, every edge. It would seem reasonable that the schedules could be made out in such a way as to give the fraternities some choice as to dates for games. Perhaps each frat could, at the first of each term, turn in to the persons who make out the schedules their choice of three out of five days on which to play afternoon games. This might help, who knows?

It seems the pledges of Delta Sigma Phi, at a party given at the DSP house the other night, turned entertainers for the pleasure of the actives and their dates. They gave a skit and filled in with jokes and such stuff. It was all in fun though, and for the purpose of welcoming the new pledges. The Delta Sigma Phi have their new house in place now and are living there and eating in their own dining room.

DEDICATED TO THE LONG-BROWS ON THE CAMPUS

On the twentieth of October the Civic Music Association of Raleigh presented to the people of this city, Elenor Steber. Miss Steber, a lovely young soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Association has sung with leading symphony orchestras throughout the United States and Canada.

Miss Steber sang works from Mozart, Strauss, Massenet, Debussy and John Jacob Niles all of which were excellently presented. Miss Steber has an excellent voice and radiant personality both of which tend to sway the audience almost immediately to her side.

I give all credit necessary to the Raleigh Civic Music Association in obtaining Miss Steber for the concert last Monday, too, I am looking forward to the next concert on Tuesday, November 25, 1947 presenting the National Male Quartet.

Another touch on the Long-Brow list is the commemoration of the one hundredth anniversary of the death of Felix Mendelssohn. Columbia Records has released, early this month, a magnificent recording of Mendelssohn's greatest oratorio, the "Elijah."

The work is performed by the Liverpool Symphony Orchestra and Huddersfield Choral Society. Sir Malcolm Sargent conducts this

OPEN FORUM

20 October, 1947

To the Editor:
On the front page of this week's TECHNICIAN, there appeared the words of N. C. State's Alma Mater under the heading, "Learn This!" In view of the fact that there are over a thousand freshmen at State who probably do not know the song, we can see the validity of printing it. However, the majority of sophomores, juniors, and even seniors, are equally as ignorant of both words and music.

The State College Song while both beautiful and stirring when sung by a glee club of trained voices, is in our opinion not adapted to the singing voice of the student body. It is at best a difficult song to sing. We suggest that someone compose a new and more singable college song. Surely, in a student body of over five thousand and with a faculty as large as ours, there must be someone with the talent and ability to do this.

Sincerely yours,

work, and three distinguished soloists: Isobel Baillie, Gladys Ripley and James Johnston, take part. Harold Williams who sings "Elijah," has been termed probably the finest interpreter of the role now living.

Termite Sounds Off . . . Says "New Look" Isn't New

Here it is a new year with new faces, bigger campus mudholes, and an old twentieth-term freshman trying to punch out a new pillar. Big news of the season is fashions—women's fashions. The little lady is covering her pins quick as Brer Terrapin covers his head. We hear from the other campuses that it is a three-way battle between the long and short and the war-time blue jeans. Reports from a well known Baptist institution are that the gals there refuse to close the door on a good thing.

Judging from an article in the current issue of a weekly pic mag, the whistle-bait is cutting it off the top and adding it to the bottom.

One picture in the same looked like an aid for the newest model automatic pop-up toaster. We might say that these new styles are going to be hard on the men in more ways than one.

Companion to the long skirt is the fortified waistline. Cold steel, bone and rubber will greet our lustful hugs instead of the expected soft warm flesh—Ugh! What a revolting development this is. The black hose rave must mean the winmin are mourning their best asset—pretty knees.

To the untrained eye the new look appears to let the hips run as wild as our imagination. According

Honor Committees Revamped; Elections Handled by Depts.

No speeches to hear, no posters to read, no pats on the back for the election next week; just vote for the men you want to be your immediate contact between you and the Department Heads, Campus Government, and Administration.

The members will be elected on the basis of the number of students in each department as follows: one senior for each fifteen (15); one junior for each twenty (20); one sophomore for each twenty-five (25); and one freshman for each forty (40). The head of each Degree-granting Department shall preside over the election meeting and the committee until the student chairman is elected. The departmental Honor Committees will elect a chairman who automatically becomes a member of the School (Ag., Engr., Tex., Teacher Ed.) Executive Honor Committee. The chairman of each executive Honor Committee will be given a seat on the Campus Government. This arrangement will give the students in all departments close contact with the various functions of the school.

Since many new students are not familiar with these committees, Vice President Bruce Beaman and the Promotion Committee of the Campus Government have made out a suggested program of action for the committees. His program is as follows:

A SUGGESTED PROGRAM OF ACTION FOR THE DEPARTMENTAL HONOR COMMITTEES

Some of the things that the Departmental Honor Committees (Constitution, Article VI, Section 1) might do to help promote their Department, the Campus Government, and the North Carolina State College.

I. Through cooperation with the Head of the Department and the teachers in the Department, work for the administration of all quizzes and examinations under conditions that will tend to discourage dishonesty and encourage the practice of personal integrity.

A. See By-Laws, Article V, Sections 1-5.

B. It is particularly important that seating arrangement on quizzes and examinations, in so far as possible, be made to encourage rather than discourage honest work.

C. A brief announcement regarding the importance of personal integrity might be made before each quiz or examination by both the teacher and some member of the Departmental Honor Committee.

II. Formulate a practical program of action that would tend to encourage better understanding, greater sympathy, and more of genuine congeniality between the students and faculty members of the department.

A. Organize a small group within the department on a very informal basis to practice friendliness. . . . see that greetings are exchanged. . . . appropriate introductions made. . . . the essential niceties of cultured behavior practiced. The professor might say: "Good Morning Gentlemen" . . . or even "My Friends!" if he chooses. etc. Friendliness is very contagious, you know.

III. The Departmental Honor Committee should receive, evaluate, and pass on to the Head of the Department, all complaints and suggestions from students taking work in the Department, regarding needed improvements in the Department. This should be kept on a constructive plane. . . . constructive criticism usually promotes, while destructive criticism tends to do the opposite by creating a "wall of ill-feeling and ill-will."

IV. Prepare special programs within the Department, through cooperation with the established Department Societies, Clubs, and/or Fraternities, that might function to supplement technological education with a better understanding of personal honor and integrity, the meaning of democratic living, etc. Special films, speakers, and just plain "bull sessions" might well be useful instrumentalities.

V. Function as an established channel of communication between the overall life of the Campus as represented by the Campus Government Council, the College Administration, etc., and the students in the Department.

A. See that all Pertinent Official College Blue Bulletin Notices are read to classes.

B. See that adequate notices and explanations are made in the case of all important college functions, such as Anniversary Day Celebration, which comes on October 3rd of each year.

C. Execute special assignments that may come down from the Campus Government Council or the School Executive Honor System.

VI. Receive, evaluate, and promptly forward to the President of the Campus Government Council all significant complaints and suggestions regarding needed improvements in Campus Government itself and in the total life of the State College Community. These matters should be put in writing and signed by the Chairman of the Departmental Honor Committee.

* NOTE: This is by no means an exhaustive statement of the good work the Departmental Honor Committees might do. Once the Departmental Honor Committees are organized effectively, the creative imagination of the members of the several committees will surely bring forth many and varied projects that will prove to be things of good report.

Vetville Citizens Lay Plans for Center

Plans are underway for the erection of a Community Center at Vetville it was announced by Jim Reece, mayor of the veteran's village. The State College YMCA will sponsor the construction of the center and the Vetville government will provide for maintenance.

Two offices will be provided in the center building for use by chaplains. The remainder of the space will be devoted to washrooms, reading rooms, a kitchen, and a large assembly room for dancing, movies, meetings and indoor recreation.

Provision will be made for a studio and control room for WVWP, the campus radio station. It is expected that the station will shift completely to this location and the reception area will include Vetville, Trailwood, and the remainder of the campus. Community news will be broadcast as well as play-by-play accounts of college and intramural games.

The center will provide facilities for orchestra and band rehearsals and also for meetings of various groups.

Alderman elections had recently and the following men were elected to serve through the winter term: W. G. Bullard, J. J. Wallace, Charles McCann, J. P. Young, E. D. Copeland, Phil Moore, J. V. Brice, and David King.

A Western Union branch office has been established at Apt. 8-C. Charles Hardie is in charge of this office.

Other improvements in the area include the planting of Bermuda grass and Italian rye over the bare plots of lawn.

Director

PROF. LEON E. COOK

Prof. Leon E. Cook, above, a member of the N. C. State College faculty for over 30 years, has been appointed by Chancellor J. W. Harrelson as acting director of the College's Division of Teacher Education. He succeeds Director T. E. Browne, who resigned on September 1 after 34 years of service. Professor Cook was educated at Alfred University, the University of Michigan, and Harvard University. He is a member of the American Association of University Professors, the American Vocational Association, and the National Vocational Guidance Association.

State College Print Shop to get New Press

The State College Print Shop, which has been swamped with work since the end of the war, got a helping boost last Saturday when the Print Shop Committee voted to buy a new bed press if financial arrangements could be ironed out.

Mr. Phillips, manager of the print shop, pointed out to the committee that each month there were more than 150,000 impressions that had to be run through the one bed press the print shop now has. This fact caused late delivery to virtually every campus publication with the exception of the TECHNICIAN. The publications suffering the most are the several magazines that are published on the campus.

Printing prices were also discussed and it was found that for a number of years the print shop has been charging considerably less than State Contract Printing prices — on which the State College Print Shop charges are supposed to be based. It was decided to arrange all charges so that they would be consistent with the State Contract charges.

The new press will probably not be in use until the beginning of the winter term since the company from which the press is to be bought promises delivery in 30 to 60 days.

SAE To Install Local Chapter This Weekend

National President To Be Present

Sigma Alpha Epsilon, the largest social fraternity in the United States, will install a new chapter, North Carolina Alpha at State College this weekend. Mr. G. A. Ginter, national president of the fraternity, will act as the installing officer; and Mr. Lauren Foreman, national secretary-recorder, will also officiate.

The group, which has been oper-for a luncheon sponsored by the Raleigh alumni of SAE after which the Brothers of Sigma Alpha Epsilon will hold an initiation for fourteen members of the local chapter. Those to be initiated are: Walter M. Clark, Ralph P. Coble, Riley Little, Mack A. Arnold, Clair W. Roberts, Robert M. Alexander, Neal M. Jones, and Ted Williamson, Jr., all of Greensboro; William B. Patton and Charles C. Tripp of Raleigh; Ben O. Merritt of Robbins; Deward F. Lester of Albermarle; Linwood White of Wilmington; and Thomas H. Fearington of Valdese.

In the evening the group will hold a formal banquet at the Sir Walter Hotel with the Honorable Albert L. Cox of Washington, D. C. as toastmaster. Speakers at the banquet will be Mr. Montgomery S. Hill of Greensboro, Honorary President of Province Gamma; Dean E. L. Clloyd of the College; the Honorable Graham Andrews of Raleigh, President of the Raleigh SAE Alumni Association; Mr. William Miller of the University of North Carolina Chapter; Mr. Lauren Foreman, National Secretary-Recorder; Mr. Fairbairn Gilkeson, President of Province Beta; Dr. Robert R. A bullet... intended for game... pierces an exposed telephone cable.

Instantly, hundreds of wires are open to the ruinous effects of moisture.

Instantly, too, nitrogen gas... stored in the cable under pressure... begins its slow escape, keeping dangerous moisture out. And, as the gas pressure falls, a small contact closes and an alarm is sounded in a Bell Telephone testroom many miles away:

Glee Club Progresses In Recent Rehearsals

The State College Glee Club has been steadily progressing during recent rehearsals and it is gradually building up a repertoire for the fall concert to be held about the first week in December in conjunction with the Meredith Choir.

A number of new members reported to the Tuesday night rehearsal and still more are expected to turn out later. Major C. D. Kutschinski, Director of the Glee Club, urges that all standing members who have been absent during the last few rehearsals report to rehearsals next week and bring new members with them.

If there is anyone who is undecided about joining the Glee Club, he is urged to audit a rehearsal and see how he likes it.

The Bright Side of The New Look

By CAROLYN F. LATHAM

(Editor's Note: Carolyn Latham comes to us after two years with the Arthur Murray School of Dancing in Atlanta, Ga., where she was employed to instruct the Arthur Murray teachers and dance her own versions of the rumba, waltz, samba and jitterbug in night club exhibitions. Miss Latham was the first teacher in the dancing world to simplify the teaching of jitterbug so that it can be understood by the scientific mind.)

There is a new cry on the campus this season, "Hold that hemline!" Ask any group the simple question, "How do you like the longer skirts?" and a furor arises. The married man moans, "My wife can't afford a new wardrobe," and the single man shouts, "They're hideous!", then adds loftily, "Frankly, I admire beauty, and I like to look at a pretty leg."

Let's look at this "new look" from both sides, the practical and the aesthetic. The frightened husbands can relax because the new wardrobe menace is over. Any woman who wants to wear last year's clothes again can simply let out the hems. The long, straight "hobbled" skirts are admittedly a mistake and the conservative fashion magazines, i.e. Glamour and Mademoiselle, are showing instead the length for street clothes just a little below the knee. If it's beauty you want, please consider how the girl appears in action. A short, slim skirt appears fine in front of the mirror at the dress shop, but how does it look when the girl is walking rapidly, boarding buses or bending over?

The one completely new style that I hope is here to stay is the "10-incher," the Tea Gown designed for semi-formal dancing. A soft, full skirt that moves and sways as the dancer whirls about has always been considered the most beautiful for dancing. This new length, in motion, has the beauty of the long formal and still reveals the footwork of the dancer. It is formal enough to add excitement to the occasion and informal enough that you can take your girl home on a streetcar if you can't afford a taxi! And here's a tip to the husbands. If your wife wants a party dress in the new length, suggest that she cut off an old formal. She can be in style without spending a penny!

Electron Chasers Turn Switch on Current

The American Institute of Electrical Engineers held its first meeting of the school year last Tuesday night in the YMCA auditorium. The meeting was an informal "smoker" presided over by Claude Burkhead, acting president of the AIEE.

President Burkhead announced that Mr. Perry Peterson, president of the Control Corporation of Minneapolis, will speak to the Institute in its next meeting Tuesday, October 14. The subject of the talk will be "Demonstration of Telemetering and Supervisory Control Equipment." This should be of interest to men majoring in either communications or power.

Faculty Take

Members of the Electrical Engineering faculty were introduced to the record crowd of about sixty students. Professor C. G. Brennecke, head of the Electrical Engineering Department, gave the welcoming address and explained the advantages of a professional fellowship such as the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Professor J. H. Lampe, Dean of the School of Engineering, commented on the obligation of the AIEE to create a more fraternal attitude or "esprit de corps" in the Electrical Engineering Department. Dean Lampe has a more personal interest in the Institute since he is himself an Electrical Engineer.

Refreshments were served, and cigarettes were dispersed throughout the meeting in quantities comparable to the number of electrons in a coulomb.

Four Students Receive Scholarships for Year

Four winners of scholarships for the coming year, 1947-48, have been announced by Dean of Students E. L. Cloyd, chairman of the faculty committee on scholarships.

Donald R. Cofar of Charlotte has been awarded the Syd Alexander Scholarship endowed by Mrs. Mary R. Alexander, alumnus and trustee of State College. The returns from the Alexander endowment—$5,000—are awarded to the student native and resident of Mecklenburg, who is pursuing a course in the School of Textiles here.

Henry C. Dellinger of Mt. Holly, Gaston County, has been awarded the Hulda Johnston Coxe Forestry Scholarship given by the Ralph K. Coxe Paper Company in honor of the wife of the company's founder. Dellinger is a sophomore in the School of Agriculture and Forestry. He is the first winner of this scholarship, which amounts to $500 annually.

Wells Denyes and Harvey Scheviak, both of Kenosha, Wis., have been awarded four-year textile scholarships by Coopers, Inc., textile manufacturers with plants in five of the nation's leading cities. Denyes and Scheviak were chosen from a large field of competing Wisconsin high school seniors and have registered here this term. They will receive $500 cash yearly plus an opportunity to work during summer vacations at the Coopers plant in Kenosha.

Rising Costs of Food Brings Back Memories of War-time OPA

By BERT ZUCKERMAN

Dig your teeth into this brother! It isn't as nutritious as a steak but I guarantee it is a heck of a lot cheaper. Ever since the powers on high have switched from making tools of war to juggling the food market many of us have had to tighten our belts another hitch. Playful speculations with the freezing of tons of meat and dairy products have threatened to turn the average college student into a paltry bag of bones and brains.

Play Along

A glance at the recent fluctuations in the price of dairy products is indicative of the manner in which the public may be made to "play along" with situations which are untenable if our democracy is to last. The price of butter rose from 10 cents to 14 cents per pound during a two week period. The public became vaguely aware of these rises only after they had taken place. Subsequent threats of congressional investigation finally caused a drop of 4 cents to 5 cents per pound from that record breaking high. An investigation finally did show the price rise was due purely to speculation on the part of several large firms. They arbitrarily raised the wholesale price of their products, feeling safe in the knowledge that any decreased demand would be more than balanced by larger profits. Large storage freezers cut down the possibility of loss through spoilage.

Ex-G. I.'s and students with wives have felt the full pinch of this financial game of badminton. It is not the rises in the luxury items which hurt. We can do without them! But when the big boys start to hit us in the stomach then it is time for us to complain.

A possible solution to the problem may be the restoration of O.P.A. ceilings. O.P.A. was bitterly fought by all forms of business during and after the war. To business, O.P.A. meant a loss in dollars and cents running into millions. To the laboring man O.P.A. meant a decent standard of living. It seems to me that with all the restrictions and sufferings imposed on them, business men did a fairly good job of subsisting through the war years—and they never did run short of THE HOLY DOLLAR.

Campus Government Irked- Carolina Game Is Object

Council to Petition The Athletic Council In Effort to Kill Tax

By WALTER M. CLARK

The Campus Government members were over-wrought Tuesday at the idea of having to pay $.48 federal tax per ticket at the Carolina game November 8. Sam Pope stressed the fact that the game is supposed to be a home game for us, but was moved to Chapel Hill in order to accommodate the large crowds expected. On these grounds our athletic books should be sufficient for a seat in the student section. Another member answered that the tax must be paid for all seats that are normally sold. The question raised is this—either the State students pay or the Carolina students pay. Pope urged immediate action on the matter. After some discussion, the Council reached the conclusion that Pope's ideas represented the opinion of the Council, and the opinion of the student body. Sam Pope and President Jennings Teal are to meet with the athletic council to urge them to either remedy the situation or pay the tax out of the profits made on the game.

The whole membership of the Council was overjoyed at the passage of the new cut system by the Faculty Council last Thursday. The members have worked diligently on the cut system for over two years. The motion which was made by Colonel Harrelson before the Faculty Council was passed. This proved to be a great boom to the morale of the members of the Council and to the student body. Of course very few students can afford to take many cuts, but the feeling that you can cut class, if necessary, is a spirit-lifter.

It was decided that Jennings Teal should see Colonel Harrelson about changes in the Social Functions Committee. Jim Gardner, chairman of the committee on campus welfare, said that he thought a revised system for obtaining membership on the Social Functions Committee could be arranged so that the organizations which have many social activities may have representation on the committee.

Don Lampke said that his efforts to charter a train for the Chapel Hill game has been unsuccessful. The railroad officials were very willing to cooperate, but were advised by the operational crews that

Beauty Contest Gets Slow Start; Only 3 Entries To Date

The beauty contest being held jointly by the TECHNICIAN and the Agromeck eased into a slow start this week with only three entries as the paper went to press. This contest is being sponsored in order to fill a new section in the Agromeck. Ten winners will be selected and the pictures will be printed in the yearbook free of charge.

Next week the TECHNICIAN will print one or two of the pictures, depending on space. Failure to print one this week was caused by the late arrival of the three entries. It is hoped that the pictures will be close-up shots, as close as possible to allow a full figure pose. The three so far are extremely small, so try to make them larger.

In order to make this new feature a complete success, students are urged to send in their pictures as soon as possible, although the deadline is December 1, 1947.

Send them in, fellows!

the track bed to Carolina was in poor condition and would not be safe for a train load of students. The bus companies gasped at the idea of furnishing fifty buses, but attempts are still being made.

The legal status of the Bachelor Trailer Camp has been settled. All students signed an agreement, when they first came to State, that the College would have permission to inspect their living quarters at any time. It was also found out that the dormitory regulations apply to the trailers in this camp. The Investigating Committee wanted these two items clarified in case any issues came up concerning them.

AGROMACK PROOFS BACK

Agromack proofs, up to no. 1199, have returned. Students are requested to inspect these at the earliest possible time. There are no lines.

Off-Campus Students To Get Rule Booklet

The college has published a booklet entitled "Temporary Codification of Rules and Regulations." It is important that a copy of this booklet be in every room occupied by State College students.

Students living off campus are requested to call for a copy at the Dean of Students office at 108-109 Holladay Hall.

Puzzled Frosh

Dear Editor:

I surely would appreciate it if you could tell me where the student laundry purchased that new machinery they've been using so much lately. I'm referring to the one that jerks the buttons off my shirts and shoots them through my socks.

Any information will be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely yours,
A PUZZLED FROSH.

Student Awarded DFC Heroism as Navigator

Donald E. Curtis, Lieutenant, U. S. Naval Reserve, a student at State College, was awarded a Distinguished Flying Cross and two gold stars in lieu of a second and third Air Medals today at the U. S. Navy Recruiting Station. Commander W. B. Brown, U.S.N. Inspector and Instructor of Naval Reserves of Durham and Raleigh, N. C., presented the medals and stars.

Lieutenant Curtis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Curtis of Skyland, N. C., and is residing at 4 East Lane St., in Raleigh, while attending college.

The Citation for the Distinguished Flying Cross which was signed by James Forrestal, the Secretary of the Navy, reads as follows: "For heroism and extraordinary achievement in aerial flight as Navigator of a United States Naval Patrol Bomber Plane in Anti-Submarine operations in the Bay of

Tickets

Tickets for the Carolina game go on sale tomorrow in the office of the athletic director. Students will have to present their athletic books to obtain tickets for the game. The tickets and the athletic book must be shown at the gates to get in Kenan Stadium at Chapel Hill.

Tickets for dates or wives can be bought in Athletic Director J. L. Von Glahn's office. No more than two tickets can be purchased by any one student. Mr. Von Glahn urges that students come by for their tickets as soon as possible.

Tickets for the Wake Forest game also go on sale tomorrow morning for dates.

Returning Lettermen Boost Hopes for Tank Team

SPORTS TALK

By MAC McDUFFIE

The full realization of the Florida triumph over the Wolfpack has settled, and Coach Beattie Feathers' charges, who are sporting a record of two wins and two defeats, are now faced with the problem of trying to improve that record against five foes with State destined to be the underdog in four of the contests.

After an open date on the schedule tomorrow, the Pack tangles with Chattanooga here next Saturday night. Following that in order are Carolina, Wake Forest, Virginia, and Maryland. The homecoming battle with the Deacons is the only game of the four to be played in Riddick Stadium.

Carolina, although off to a disappointing start, is still a definite favorite over anybody on their schedule, and State is certainly no exception. Wake Forest, undefeated and gaining momentum every week, would probably rather post a victory over the Wolfpack than any outfit on their grid card; although it is no secret that Coach D. C. (Peahead) Walker's crew are out to win all its games and possibly get a bid to the Sugar Bowl. Of course, the Deacs play Duke tomorrow and that is not going to be a breather. With the addition of Ace Parker to the Duke coaching staff, the Blue Devils show something new every Saturday, and the favored Deacons may drop from the ranks of the undefeated tomorrow.

Next on the Wolfpack agenda is the high-scoring, undefeated eleven from the University of Virginia. Virginia was the victim of State's homecoming victory last year and will probably be in top form for Coach Feathers and his squad. State closes its season against the University of Maryland at College Park. Coach Jim Tatum, serving his first year with the Old Liners, suffered his first defeat against Duke in Durham last week, but his squad gave an impressive performance and most observers were of the opinion that the score would have been different except for a couple of fumbles. Fred Folger, who was shifted to tailback just before the game with State, has improved rapidly and was a big factor in Duke's victory over Maryland.

It is remembered that Tatum was coaching the Oklahoma Sooners against State in the 'Gator Bowl last year. His squad showed one of the best running attacks in the conference last Saturday.

The Wolfpack, despite last week's showing against Florida, is still rated the second best defensive club in the nation, and Fotsie Palmer's kicking performance places him as the fifth kicker in the nation, but the team's offensive attack is still very poor. Spirit is still high on the squad and on the campus in general and nobody around State is conceding victories to any of the

Ten Veterans of Last Year Training Under Coach Casey

Ten lettermen from last year's undefeated swimming team have reported to Coach Willis Casey for practice sessions. Along with the veterans are fifty or sixty newcomers. The schedule has not been announced but it is expected that several new teams will be added to the card.

Coach Casey, serving his first year at State last season, turned out the best team ever to represent the school. His tankmen were undefeated in dual meet competition and won the Carolina's AAU title by dethroning Carolina for the first time since the tank carnival was inaugurated.

Four Men Missing

Only Captain Bob Reynolds, Bill Nuffer, Bill Menke, and Tinker Hayward are missing from last year's squad. Leading the returning monogram winners is Billy Kelly of Raleigh. Kelly was the outstanding man on last year's squad and any other squad that he has ever been on. He swam with a V-12 unit at Carolina and a Marine team during the war. Prior to the war, Kelly was a freshman at State and sensational high school swimmer in Raleigh. He won the 100 and 220 championships in the conference meet last year and is the holder of four American records. Kelly's chief claim to fame, however, is in the breaststroke event.

Bill Ward, also of Raleigh, is the team's leading sprinter. He won the conference 50-meter title last year and is a former National AAU 50-meter free style champion.

Probably one of the greatest all-around swimmers in the nation is Bill Despres, a sophomore from Providence, Rhode Island. Despres is expected to share a major portion of the backstroke duties this year. He also swims with both relay teams and was the fastest man on the squad last year in the 440. However, when he swims the 440, he is unable to immediately follow in the 400-yard freestyle relay. Despres is a former National Junior Champion.

Other Lettermen

Other returning lettermen are Coman Gold, sprinter; William Smith, sprinter; Leonard Timken, distance; William Johnson, backstroke; Jim Ritchie, breaststroke; and Harry Cramer, diver.

Cramer, a freshman diver on the squad last year, showed more improvement during the year than any other member of the crew and is slated to be the top man on the board this year.

Henry Huse, a former letterman at Carolina, has joined the State team and should be a valuable man in the distance event.

Freshmen who may play large roles with the tank outfit are Wells Denyes of Kenosha, Wis.; Ray Ramsey of Wilson, Snooky Numis of Charlotte, George Stafford of Greensboro, and Jack Cloud.

Denyes was an outstanding high school backstroke but has been switched to distance free style by Casey. He is rated by Casey as a really outstanding prospect. Ramsey and Numis are divers. Stafford is a sprinter and former prep school star. Cloud swam the breaststroke event for Sewanee Prep last year and was runnerup for Mid-South Championship.

No Train

The Welfare Committee of the campus government announced last week that they were unable to secure large-scale transportation to the Carolina game November 8. The committee investigated the possibilities with both the rail and bus lines, but the services of neither were available. This means that most State students will ride over in private cars. It is hoped that no one will drive over without first filling his car to capacity with Wolfpack supporters.

favorites on the schedule. The backfield has been bothered by injuries throughout the season, but with an open date on the schedule, the team should be intact against Chattanooga next Saturday. It would mark the first time this season that key players would not be on the sidelines with injuries.

The intramural program has started off with a bang. Competition is keen between the teams, but lack of support on the sidelines has been disappointing. Remember that it takes more than a team to win. Among the dormitories, more participation is being shown than in any year recently.

The Southern Conference Cross-Country Meet is scheduled for the State track this year. Coach Tom Hines stated early indications point toward it being the largest in the history of the event. All the schools in the loop fielding cross-country teams this fall are expected to enter.

25-game Schedule Announced For Basketball Team

Red Terrors Will Tangle With Intersectional Foes

A 25-game schedule for the State College Red Terrors was announced yesterday by Athletic Director J. L. VonGlahn. Included on the card are intersectional games with West Virginia, St. Johns, Cincinnati, and Holy Cross.

The Red Terrors play five games prior to the Christmas holidays and have scheduled four games during the holidays. Featuring the holiday games is the contest with Holy Cross as the second game of a doubleheader on the Sugar Bowl program. State defeated Holy Cross last year on a mid-west tour, but Holy Cross went on to win a district berth in the NCAA Tournament.

The schedule:

- Dec. 2—Hanes Hosiery at Winston-Salem.
- Dec. 4—Catawba College, here.
- Dec. 6—High Point College, there.
- Dec. 8—Chatham Mills, here.
- Dec. 10—Hanes Hosiery, here.
- Dec. 18—West Virginia at Morgantown, W. Va.
- Dec. 20—St. Johns University in Madison Square Garden.
- Dec. 27—University of Cincinnati in Music Hall Arena, Cincinnati.
- Dec. 30—Holy Cross at New Orleans.
- Jan. 5—George Washington, here.
- Jan. 9—Davidson at Charlotte.
- Jan. 10—Furman at Greenville.
- Jan. 13—Asheboro Eagles, here.
- Jan. 17—Duke, here.
- Jan. 23—High Point, here.
- Jan. 25—Hampden-Sydney, there.
- Jan. 28—Furman, here.
- Jan. 31—Wake Forest, there.
- Feb. 3—Carolina, here.
- Feb. 7—Georgetown, here.

Dr. Lovorn Speaks On Italian Agriculture

Dr. Lovorn, faculty adviser of the Ag Club, gave an interesting illustrated lecture on Italian agriculture at the regular meeting of the club, Tuesday night.

During the war, Dr. Lovorn was an instructor at the G.I. University in Florence, Italy. While in Italy, he became familiar with many European agricultural methods.

Those boys that did not attend the meeting missed an interesting discussion that followed. All members are urgently reminded to attend the next meeting of the club.

Baby Wolfpack Meets Carolina

Coach Carl (Butter) Anderson's Baby Wolfpack tangles with Carolina's Jayvees in Riddick Stadium this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

State's Jayvees have played only one game this season, losing to Duke, 7-0. Today's game will probably have the Baby Wolfpack in much the same position that faced the varsity last Saturday night. Carolina has been preparing for the Florida 'Gators all the past week and chances are that the Baby Tar Heels will run Florida plays against State.

This is the last year that freshmen are eligible to play in the Southern Conference so many of next year's stars will come from this year's junior varsity. Today's game will give fans a chance to look over the reserve list at Carolina and State.

State students must present that athletic book to be admitted to the stadium.

Meet a Member On P. E. Staff

An outstanding member has been added to the staff of the Physical Education Department. Eric Brooks DeGroat joined the staff at the beginning of the fall term, it was announced by Professor J. F. Miller.

DeGroat was born in Attleboro, Mass., and attended elementary school in Springfield, Mass. At Classical High School, he lettered two years in soccer and one year in football.

He was graduated from Springfield College in 1941 where he was awarded a B.S. degree, majoring in physical education, and minoring in chemistry. Active in sports, DeGroat lettered in track, football, and wrestling. He was president of the Fencing Club, and transportation officer for the Outing Club. After leaving college, he did scholarship work at Westfield Community YMCA, later working as a laboratory assistant in physiology for two years.

DeGroat was graduated from a civilian pilot training program course in June, 1942. He then taught primary and secondary flight courses for the Army. Later in 1942, he became Chief Pilot at the Navy Primary Flight Instructor's School, Athens, Ga. He enlisted in the Navy and was commissioned in 1944.

After receiving his discharge from the Navy, DeGroat attended

Florida Gators Upset State In Riddick Stadium, 7 to 6

State's Wolfpack suffered a surprising 7-6 upset defeat at the hands of the Florida 'Gators last Saturday night in Riddick Stadium. It was the first win for Florida in 14 games and the first loss for State on its home field since the middle of the 1945 season.

Coach Bear Wolf's 'Gators played a spirited brand of ball against the Wolfpack and won despite several tough breaks. State's vaunted defense was baffled by the speed and precision of Florida's smooth backfield, working from a T-formation.

Bobby Forbes, 'Gator halfback, raced 70 yards through the center of the line for the Florida touchdown in the first few minutes of the game. Lazarous Lewis, subback, added the extra point that proved to be the winning margin.

Charlie Richkus scored State's touchdown in the second period from the four. A punt return from State's 45 to Florida's 32 by Gwynn Fletcher started the drive. A 18-yard pass from Richkus to Wingback Bill Thompson on fourth down kept the drive alive.

During the game, Coach Beattie Feathers' charges attempted two field goals. On another occasion, the Wolfpack reached the three for what would have been a first down, but the play was called back by a penalty.

State led in statistics, however. The Wolfpack led in net yards passing, 107 to 12, but lagged slightly in net yards rushing, 193 to 199. Forbes' 70-yard run accounted for a large part of the 'Gators total.

Cross Country Harriers Drill

By DAVE FRANKLIN

The men out for State's 1947 cross-country team will have their first chance to prove the value of their training on November 1 when the State College harriers run against the team from Fort Bragg representing the First Airborne Division. The meet is scheduled for 3:00 p.m. Both the starting and the finishing lines are on the track south of Doak Field. Coach Tom Hines reports that spectators will be able to see much of the race from the stands there.

According to Coach Hines, fifty men are out for the team. After a lapse of several years State will field both a varsity and a freshman team this fall. The first freshman meet will be against Carolina at Chapel Hill on November 8.

The State College course is three and a half miles long. The course record was established in 1946 by George Trachsel of Virginia; the record time was 18:46. Track lettermen returning this year who stand a good chance of breaking the record are David Dubow, Jimmy Boles, and Jimmy Adams.

The boys on the cross-country team will be running for our State College; they need our support to do their best. And the first meet is at the track on November 1 at 3:00 in the afternoon.

Credle Leads Welch to Victory Over 2nd Syme, 22-0

Volleyball Gets Underway; Boxing, Tennis Begin Soon

By HERB BRENNER

Sid Credle made his initial bid as a potential All-Campus choice last Monday when he led his Welch teammates to a most impressive 22-0 victory over the men from 2nd Syme. Credle's sure-shot passes made him look like something out of the books as time after time he flipped the pigskin for long yardage gains.

The Welchmen started their passing attack early in the initial period when Credle shot a spiralling high ball to Charlie Gibson over the goal for the first tally. Prior to this touchdown, Credle had thrown a pass to Gibson that took them down into Syme territory but lost the ball on downs. Only seconds later, flashy Leonard Owen intercepted a pass heaved by Church of Syme and this was the beginning of the T.D. play. With a first and ten, Credle passed for pay dirt, and at the extra point try, Bob Thrower caught a pass neatly placed in his outstretched arms by Credle.

However, not to be slighted in this first quarter play was a gentleman named George Church, tailback for the Symes who was a main cog in the Syme's aerial attack. Church was aided in the backfield by Carroll Williams who assisted in the passing duties and who midway the first quarter tossed a long pass to Charlie Downes, end, who nearly scored, but was stopped by a fast Welch backfield.

The second quarter was kept scoreless, but was filled with plenty of action as Williams, in the Syme backfield, intercepted two of Credle's tosses and ran back for moderate gains. Also in this period, Bob Thrower, left end of the Welchmen received the pigskin from Credle that almost looked like another tally, but he failed to reach the end stripes. Something to marvel about was the line blocking on the part of both teams. All passers had plenty of time in which to eye their receivers and get off good long throws.

Credle Intercepts

As the second half opened, the Symes were driven back to their goal line where Church had to punt. He got off a long high kick that was taken by Charlie Gibson and ran back just past the mid-field strip. Credle then attempted a pass which was intercepted by Bill Austin, and then on the next play Credle intercepted a pass thrown by Church so it was turn-about fair play. Then, trying something old and tricky, the Welchmen put a sleeper, Gibson, on the far side of the field, and with a first down coming up, Sid Credle stepped back and made the touchdown throw. It was Credle to Thrower for the extra point.

The fourth quarter was one filled with determination as the Symes tried to click for a comeback, but it proved useless as Fullback Jack Barnes, of the Welch powerhouse took advantage of a pass by the Symes and racking it in on a spectacular interception, raced for the end zone. The try for the extra point was no good, and Welch led at that point, 20-0. After the kick-off, the Symes found themselves with the shadow of their own goal posts falling on their backs. Attempting to pass out of their dangerous position, Williams received the snap from center and faded back behind the goal, cocked his arm, and threw . . . the pass was blocked as Bob Thrower jumped high into the air and knocked the pigskin to the ground. That safety was the last score of the game and the final results were Welch 22, Syme 0.

It was clearly seen by those who saw the two teams in action that it was a passing duel all the way, and the only difference was that Welch had a boy named Credle who could hit his receivers like mad, and a line that gave him ample time to get rid of the ball.

Playing a postponed game, that was scheduled for last week, 2nd Turlington defeated 1st Bagwell 25-0 last Monday. For Turlington it was Rizzo all the way, an exceptional ball player and as good this year as he was in '46. He was well aided by McGee and Humble.

The Verville squad also turned in an impressive score as they went over the men from Basement Syme, 16-0. Robinson, Dilling, and Montague starred for the victors while Goden, Hall, and Leake, were the main features of the Syme attack.

The scores were racked up in the last two quarters of play.

Volleyball

Volleyball made its initial bow in intramural competition for the current season on October 14 as Welch defeated Basement Syme in the best two out of three by the scores of 15-5 and 15-7. Berry, 3rd Syme, 2nd Syme, and Trailwood also turned in victories in their opening games. On the 16th, the Pi Kappa Phi crew had a tough time defeating the fratmen from Sigma Mu. The Sigma Mu's took the first game 15-13, but the Pi Kapp's came back and ran off with the last two games racing up 15-2 and 15-8 scores.

The fraternity preliminaries in boxing will be held on November 10, and dormitory preliminaries on November 12. All managers are urged, by Mr. Miller, to line up their men for the different weights and start getting them in condition. There proves to be plenty of tough scraps when the boys don the gloves this fall, and boxing should become one of intramurals outstanding sports.

Due to the sunny southern rain we've been having, the tennis matches have been thrown back. Both frats and dorms should contact preme Court, and members of the State College faculty.

Author and editor as well as an educator, Dr. Brooks was an outstanding figure for many years in the field of public and college education in North Carolina. He served both the State and Federal governments on a number of important boards and commissions concerned with matters in his field.

Immediately after finishing college, Dr. Brooks went to Washington in 1894 as correspondent for The New and Observer, and he later did newspaper work in Wilson.

Receives A.B. Degree

He was born in Greene County, December 3, 1871, a son of the late Edward Jones and Martha Eleanor Brooks, and took his A.B. degree at Trinity College, now Duke University, in 1894. He did research work at Columbia University, and in 1913 was awarded the Litt. D. degree at Davidson College. The next year, he was honored with the LL.D. degree by Trinity and the University of North Carolina also awarded him a similar degree.

Dr. Brooks served as head of Kinston city schools in 1900 and later held the same position in Monroe. In 1903-04, he served as secretary of the State Educational Campaign Committee and as State supervisor of rural public school libraries. He was superintendent of Goldsboro schools from 1904 to 1907, then served as State superintendent.

Dr. Brooks founded "North Carolina Education," a State teachers magazine, in 1906, and was its editor until 1923. He took an active part in promoting many laws in the General Assembly for improvement of the school system.

Dr. Brooks was a member of the Committee of Eight of the National Historical Association to rewrite the courses of history for the elementary schools of America. He also was active in a study of the needs of county governments. In 1932, he was appointed a member of a special committee to recommend a revision of textile education.

During his administration at State College, the institution expanded considerably, adding for-
