Registration Permits Issued Soon; Announce Schedule for Registering

By JAMES HOLLINGER

Registration permits for the winter term will be issued the middle of next week, it was announced last week by W. L. Mayer, Director of Registration. A Blue Bulletin will give the exact dates when students must secure the permits.

Registration is scheduled for January 3 and 4, Monday and Tuesday. Classes will begin Wednesday January 5. All students will get chest X-rays before registering and the X-rays will be made in Berry Hall an hour before the scheduled time to enter the gymnasium.

Details

Every student must secure roster blanks and schedules from his adviser next week through Wednesday. Schedules of more than 21 hours or less than 12 hours must be approved by the adviser and dean in writing on the roster.

Students should not go to the registration office for permits to register before the proper time next week. Those with last names beginning with H through T will receive orange-colored permits. They must register on January 3 as follows: H, 8 a.m. (X-ray at 7:15); I-La, 9 a.m.; Le-Mc, 10 a.m.; Me-N, 11 a.m.; O-Q, 12 p.m.; R-Sc, 2 p.m.; Se-Sr, 3 p.m.; and St-T, 4 p.m.

Letters U through Z and A through G will receive green registration permits. They will register on January 4 as follows: U-W, 8 a.m.; Wi-Z, 9 a.m.; A-Bo, 10 a.m.; Br-Cok, 11 a.m.; Col-Efi 12 p.m.; F-G, 2 p.m. Newly transferred students and beginning freshmen (not second term freshmen) will be assigned to classes at the gym at 2:30 Tuesday, January 4.

Seniors

A Blue Bulletin dated Thanksgiving stated that seniors may secure assignments to classes next week. They must complete their registration however in January as usual.

Rules and Regulations

The following courses must be scheduled: entrance deficiencies, courses failed the preceding term, military Science and Physical Education unless completed or excused, and English Composition unless completed. Students were asked to schedule a sequence of courses at the same hour the course was taken this term.

Students should not schedule either a course for which he does not have the prerequisites, or two different terms of the same sequence of courses. A course previously passed cannot be re-scheduled except as an audit. If you need additional advice on registration day, they should see your adviser before making out your schedule. If advisers are in the gymnasium, a student must await his assigned time to enter the gymnasium.

Coffee Hours

The YMCA has announced that they will follow their usual custom of serving doughnuts and coffee during exams again this term. This service will be offered every night during the week from 9 until 11 except Saturday. Coffee will be free but there will be a small charge for doughnuts.

Greater UNC Council Committees To Meet

Sunday afternoon, December 5, student leaders from State, Carolina, and the Woman's College will meet in Graham Memorial at Chapel Hill to discuss the organization of a Greater UNC Student Council. The proposed Council is to be established for the purpose of developing a spirit of unity, cooperation, and friendliness among the students of the Greater University. The Council might also be instrumental in increasing the effectiveness of student public opinion on the state legislature.

The Campus Government has authorized the State College committee to enter freely into the discussions for forming the Council, but has reserved to itself the right of final approval of any action to be taken. The delegation will be under the chairmanship of Virgil Mims, and will include Fred Kendall, Dick Fowler, Emmett Bringle, Preston Andrews, Avery Brock, Ted Williamson, Jim Gardner, Bill English, Reid Farrell, Bob Peacock, and Hoyle Adams.

There have been many efforts made in the past to create a more cordial relationship among the students of the three units, but results have never been too successful. An exception to this was the annual observance of Greater University Day, which, before the war, was a very impressive, much publicized occasion.

Faculty Council Postpones First Test Arrangements

Dead-Eye Dick

Dick Dickey is just as sharp with a rifle as he is with a basketball. Dick and Ed Rasberry went hunting Thanksgiving day and Ed reports Dick is quite a marksman. Dick got his limit on quail, two turkeys and a 285 pound bear. It sounds like a hunting story, but ask Ed about it he will give you some bear steak.

By HOYLE ADAMS

Merit rating of instructors here will have to wait until next term! That was the decision reached by the Faculty Council at the regular meeting Tuesday, November 23.

Although the Merit Rating Committee of the Campus Government had completed their preparations for giving the test immediately after the Thanksgiving holidays and had secured the approval of the Chancellor and the Deans of the Schools, the Faculty Council vetoed the project on the grounds that it was too late in the term for the rating to be handled successfully, and the service departments, such as English, mathematics, history, and economics, were not to be included in this first large-scale application of the system.

The Merit Rating Committee had not planned to run the test in the service departments this term because there are no honor committees in those departments to handle the distribution and the evaluation of the reports, but had intended to find a way to include those classes next term. However, the Faculty Council felt that the test should not be given at all unless every department in the college could be included at the same time.

The Council did authorize the Campus Government to proceed with plans for allowing students to grade their instructors next term, but suggested that the test be given only once a year and that the rating sheets be sent in sealed envelopes to the office of the Chancellor for grading. Original plans of operation had called for the honor committees in each school to evaluate the reports and send a summarization on each instructor to the Campus Government and to the Chancellor.

Lambda Chi's To Play Santa Claus At Annual Christmas Party

Lambda Chi Alpha's annual Christmas party for underprivileged children will be held at the chapter house on Hillcrest Road this Sunday afternoon. The fraternity has been given a list of local children who, because of unfortunate family circumstances, may not fully receive the traditional Christmas spirit.

The guests will be called for at their homes and brought to the fraternity house where they will be entertained with games and storytelling, and will be treated to refreshments of fruit, candy, and orange punch. The children's big moment will come when old St. Nick arrives with his bag of gifts.

Tincey King is in charge of making the arrangements for the party, and is being assisted by Andy Hewett, Clayton Holmes, and Carl Cease.

Chemistry Head

Dr. Walter J. Peterson, head of the nutrition section of the Animal Industry Department at State College, has been advanced to the position as head of the College's Chemistry Department, effective January 1. He will succeed Dr. Arthur J. Wilson, who served as the department head for several years until his sudden death on November 11. Dr. Peterson, a member of the State College faculty since May, 1942, was educated at Michigan State College and the University of Iowa and is nationally known as an educator and research scientist.

Aviation Unit

The recently organized unit of the volunteer aviation reserve will hold its next meeting in the Naval Training Center on the campus on Tuesday, December 7, at eight o'clock. This unit is just being formed, and is open to all former members of the Navy and Marine Corps who held aviation classifications. This is a non drill pay unit, however credits will be given toward retirement under the recent retirement bill.

All personnel, particularly former Naval Pilots, Navigators, and enlisted men with aviation classifications are urged to attend this meeting. For further information concerning the unit contact M. L. Shipman, phone 34670 or Lt. Cmdr. Woodson, phone 8968.

Special Christmas Program Is Planned

The Annual YMCA Christmas program will be given in the "Y" Auditorium Wednesday, December 8th, at 7 p.m. A special feature will be Christmas readings by Mrs. Charles G. Doak. Mrs. Doak has been doing this every year for about 22 years, at State College during the Christmas season.

The Peace College Choir will attend and will take part in the group singing of Christmas carols and may give one or two special selections.

Mrs. Josephine Kirk of the Wake County Welfare Society will be present and will tell briefly why the need for clothing is greater this year and will tell of the need for State College people to help provide Christmas cheer for Wake County boys in the Caswell Training School and for children of broken homes.

For many years the YMCA has conducted a campaign for old clothing and shoes to help the needy of Raleigh and Wake County, and in recent years has raised a sum of money to buy Christmas presents for underprivileged children.

Fourteen Initiated By Pi Tau Sigma

Walter E. Selkinghaus, Associate Professor of Mechanical Engineering and fourteen outstanding members of the junior and senior classes in the School of Mechanical Engineering were initiated into the North Carolina State College Pi Alpha Chapter of Pi Tau Sigma. The formal initiation was held Friday, November 12, 1948, at 8:30 p.m. in Page Hall.

Pi Tau Sigma is the national mechanical engineering honorary fraternity. The fraternity was founded in 1915 at the University of Illinois and the University of Wisconsin to foster high ideals in the engineering profession. The North Carolina State Pi Alpha Chapter was installed in 1942.

The initiates were selected on the basis of theoretical and practical knowledge of mechanical engineering, scholastic standing, and sociability. Initiation into the fraternity is the highest honor attainable within the mechanical engineering field.

Walter E. Selkinghaus, Associate Professor of Mechanical Engineering at North Carolina State College, was initiated as an honorary member. He received his B.S. degree from Newark College of Engineering, where he became a member of Alpha Kappa Pi, in 1933 and his M.E.E. degree from N. C. State College in 1940. He has been licensed a Professional Engineer in the state of New Jersey. During World War II he was with the Navy Diesel Training Program at N. C. State College. Professor Selkinghaus and his wife, the former Jeanne Douglass MacGregor of Nyack, N. Y., with their three children, reside at Route 1, Raleigh, N. C.

The following undergraduates were initiated as active members: Oliver Garland Barnes, Jr., member of Phi Eta Sigma, from Rocky Mount, N. C.; Grady Washington Bowers, Jr., member of Phi Kappa Psi and A.S.M.E., from Jackson Heights, N. Y.; Andrew George Demko, member of Theta Tau and

I. Ae. S., from Princeton, N. J.; Lynn Macon Harton, member of Phi Eta Sigma and A.S.M.E., from Fayetteville, N. C.; Robert Michael Kiser, Jr., from Bessemer City, N. C.; Kenneth Coolidge Link, member of Theta Tau, A.S.M.E., and A.S.H.V.E., from Granite Falls, N. C.; Philip Roscoe Matthews, member of I. Ae. S., and Companion to St. Patrick (1947), from Gates, N. C.; James Robert Peele, member of Phi Kappa Tau and I. Ae. S., Wilson, N. C.; William Con Proctor, Jr., member A.S.M.E., Rocky Mount, N. C.; Charles Mauck Rice, president Mu Beta Psi, member of Phi Eta Sigma, Theta Tau, A.S.M.E., and winner of Tau Beta Pi Award (1948), from Candler, N. C.; John Thomas Rogers, winner of the Luther J. Cartwright, Jr., Scholarship (1948-1949), alternate to Engineers Council, member of I. Ae. S., from Charlotte, N. C.; Herman Eugene Seibel, winner of Pi Tau Sigma Handbook Award (1948), member of Phi Eta Sigma, and A.S.M.E., from Norfolk, Va.; Richard George Wallenhorst, from Long Island, N. Y.; Stephen Thomas Wiggins, member of Tau Beta Pi, Theta Tau, A.S.M.E., and A.S.H.V.E., from Henderson, N. C.

"Friends Indeed..." When Trouble Strikes

Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas of Trailwood can vouch for the fact that there's nothing better than friends when trouble strikes.

Several days ago Mr. and Mrs. Thomas were seriously injured in an automobile accident here. Their new car was a total loss and their hospital bill was high.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas collected $250 to help ease expenses, and all the wives in Trailwood who do not work are staying with Mrs. Thomas so that the couple may be spared the expense of a trained nurse.

Chinese Scholar To Speak Sunday

Dr. K. T. Ting, well-known Chinese scholar, will speak twice on State College campus Sunday, December 5, according to Rev. Robert C. Lasater, Baptist chaplain.

Dr. Ting, brought here by the Protestant Religious Council of State College, will speak at the Verville Y church service at 11 a. m., and will deliver an address in the Y auditorium at 8 p.m. He will have Sunday dinner at 12:30 p.m. with the Chinese students enrolled in State College.

Dr. Ting, an ordained clergyman in the Episcopal Church of China, graduated from St. John's University Shanghai, China, and received his M.A. degree from Columbia University, New York. For several years he served as secretary of the student YMCA in China and then as Missionary Secretary of the Student Christian Movement in Canada.

The following schedule for Dr. Ting has been announced:

The aims of Eta Kappa Nu are, "to assist its members in becoming better men in their chosen profession and better citizens," and that, "its membership be a constructive force, helping fellow members and non-members alike in improving the standards of the profession, the courses of instruction, and the institutions where its chapters are established."

The Beta-Eta Chapter of Eta Kappa Nu was established at N. C. State College in 1938.

Evening Vespers

Various religious groups on the campus are sponsoring evenings vespers Monday through Friday from 6:15 to 6:45 p.m., and invite all students to attend.

The vesper programs consists of music, scripture readings, and prayers in a restful atmosphere. The half-hour devotionals are held in the Conference Room of the Y.M.C.A.

Rooms

Room rent for the Winter Term will be due in the Business Office between December 1st and December 10th. Rooms not paid for within this period will be available for reassignment.

It is the policy of the College Administration that wherever possible not more than two men will be assigned to a dormitory room. Due to the increased enrollment and the limited dormitory space prior to this school year, it was necessary to assign more than two men to a room. However, with the additional space provided by Owen and Tucker Halls, it has been possible to assign a lesser number of men to each room. For the Winter Term, rooms which are not fully occupied will be designated as two-man rooms, and room rent will be charged on that basis. At present room rent is based on three men per room, there will be an increase of $5.00 per man in such rooms.

There are at present several dormitory rooms which are vacant. Students who desire to move to these rooms next term are requested to inform the Dormitory Office at once. Otherwise, students from nearby three-man rooms will be shifted to equalize the number of students per room.

Largest Pledge Class

dent) within 10 days from registration day. Picture fee of $2.50 for the AGROMECK will be added to the room rent bill. For students not living in dormitories, the picture fees will be collected during the same period.

Best Wishes . . .

Come Monday, December 6, students entering Dean Cloyd's office will miss the amiable and friendly face of his secretary, Miss Gladys E. Cox, who has accepted the assistantship to Dean D. D. Carroll, head of the School of Commerce at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. To the many minor and major officials of organizations, as well as to many students, Miss Cox has extended a willing and helpful hand in assisting them in the numerous little ways so invaluable and important in campus life. With a hearty and sincere good-bye hug we wish her all the best at her new position and hope that she will be happy. MH

The One Time . . .

Christmas is the one time of the year that most everyone puts aside his differences with others and wishes them good fortune. If the whole world could get a heartfull of the true Christmas spirit things might not look so bleak.

This country is fortunate that it will be able to observe the holidays with cheer and plenty. We should be glad to share our plenty with those less fortunate. And we should try to erase bitter feelings between ourselves.

With these thoughts in mind, the TECHNICIAN wishes everyone a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. DF

In God We Trust . . .

Student doubts and fears about the chances of a merit rating system for instructors ever becoming a reality here have been decidedly increased by the Faculty Council's recent action in postponing the program as scheduled for this term. And they cannot be readily reassured even by one who is familiar with the complexities involved and with the vast amount of work which has been done.

As a matter of fact, we feel that attempting to justify the decision and the suggestions of the Council in this case would be not only useless, but undeserved. For example, they said that since all departments couldn't be graded at this time, none should be. Ha! If that is a valid reason then this is the New York Times you are reading. Would it be ridiculous to tell a man with paralyzed legs that he shouldn't try to strengthen his arms because he can't exercise his whole body? Would it be ridiculous for the President to tell Congress that since all government bureaus could not be improved at once there would be no point in trying to improve any of them? Of course it would.

Their second reason for the postponement, that it is too late in the term for the rating to be handled satisfactorily, is a little more intelligent, since it cannot be denied that student judgement at this point in the game might not be as unbiased as desired. But surely no instructor's position would be jeopardized by just one report, however unfavorable, and if the committee in charge felt that the job could be done, then it would have been better to have given the students the benefit of the doubt than to have so drastically undermined their faith in the good intentions of the Administration.

Chancellor Harrelson has from the beginning been wholeheartedly in favor of the merit rating idea. The Deans of the Schools, who form a part of the Faculty Council, had also expressed their approval individually for running the tests this term. And yet these same Deans, when cloaked in the comparative anonymity of our august policy-making body, reassured themselves that it would not be to the best interests of the college to have the rating at this time. Apparently none of them wanted to appear opposed to the idea alone, but collectively they stopped it cold.

Now let us examine their suggestions as to how the grading of the faculty should be done. First they propose that the rating be made only once a year. At that rate it would take at least six years to get a reasonably accurate picture of a professor's teaching ability. On the other hand if ratings were made every term, then within two years six reports would have been made on each instructor, and a positive enough trend would be established to either show the instructor how he could improve himself or indicate the need for replacing him. There is no getting around it—if the college is to benefit from merit rating it must be done more than once a year.

The Faculty Council's second proposal is that when the completed forms are collected from the students, they should be placed in sealed envelopes and sent to the Chancellor's office for grading. That would of course make the rating much less of a student project and would doubtless have an adverse effect on the accuracy of the reports. In addition, it would place a tremendous amount of work on an already busy staff, and it is unlikely that the entire 30,000 forms could be analyzed with much efficiency. However it would be better done by that method than not at all.

There is one hope that the student body can cling to regarding a favorable future for merit rating, and it is this: it is utterly inconceivable that the deans, department heads, and members of the faculty at large do not want to improve the quality of the instruction here at State and thus raise the standards of the staff. That being the case, we are certain that the system will be given a fair trial. We are also certain that if there are further delays, those to whom the success of the project has been entrusted, both students and faculty, may justly be regarded as guilty of either criminal negligence or deliberate sabotage. HBA

The Campus Dispatch

Be noble minded! Our own heart, and not other men's opinions forms our true honor.
Schiller, Wallenstein Jod

By OSCAR WILLIAMS

The results, the results; who will see the results. This is the one remaining question uppermost in the minds of the Campus Government Representatives.

The Council has invited Col. Harrelson to the next meeting for an open house discussion of the faculty merit rating system. When the purpose and object are agreed upon by the Campus Government and administration, the one problem now remaining will be solved.

No Quick Results

The chief function of the merit rating test is to improve the quality of instruction. Results of a few annual student inspections should spur most departments to weed out hopelessly bad instructors.

Actually the greatest possibility lies elsewhere if the instructor gets the tabulated results of his students' honest opinions. These will point the direction toward voluntary self-improvement. The conscientious instructor wants to know whether or not his efforts and ideas are meeting with success.

The Council emphasizes one point more: Any student who is looking forward toward mass faculty dismissals is building himself up for a let down.

Tri-Campus Conference

Students from the three branches of the Greater University will meet in Chapel Hill December 5, to discuss the formation of a tri-campus government. State will be represented by a committee of students headed by Virgil Mims.

The Campus Government has directed the committee to travel to Carolina to discuss the plan. No final action will be taken until the Council hears the committee report.

Coming Soon

The Traffic Court has reported that the parking situation is steadily becoming worse. The trouble lies with the minority of drivers who cannot appreciate the difficulties arising from 2400 staff and student cars competing for 600 spaces.

There may come a time when student parking on the campus is outlawed.

Vacation Jobs

Pamphlets showing the value of State College to North Carolina will soon reach students. The Alumni Association is sponsoring the project to help students talk effectively to State Legislators while home Christmas.

Convincing the General Assembly, which convenes in January, of the merits of State's requests is a major project. Success requires the active support of all North Carolina students. As a practical example, the men in Owen and Tucker will get out of the mud sooner by telling the story to their county representatives than complaining to the administration which doesn't have the money for needed side walks.

The revised Constitution and By-laws have been printed. They will be ready for distribution as soon as the covers are completed.

Open Forum

December 1, 1948

Dear Mr. Editor:

It behooves me to inform my fellow students that the recent "house cleaning" of the athletic department is proving to be a farce. To illustrate, permit me to recount a recent personal experience with Mr. Clogston's department.

Several members of my family have been interested in seeing the State College basketball team ever since I entered school in 1946. As soon as I learned that our fine basketball team was going to play Pittsburgh University in Duke's Indoor Gymnasium, I made it a point to try and get some good tickets to the game.

About two weeks ago I went to the field house to inquire as to what I should do to get nine good tickets to the State-Pitt game. One of the young ladies told me that the Duke Athletic Department was going to handle the tickets as if the game were theirs. Another young lady, who seemed to be a person of authority verified the first young lady's statement, so I concluded that I should go to Durham to get my tickets.

On Tuesday another State student and I went to Duke University to get our tickets. The person in charge there told us that Mr. Lewis of the Duke Athletic Department had brought 3,000 tickets to State College two weeks previously. Thus, we decided to come back and get our tickets at State College.

At State College, our requests for tickets yielded very poor tickets at the end of the Duke gymnasium. The young lady told us the good seats at mid-court had been sold. After explaining what I had done in an effort to secure good seats, I told the young lady that the athletic department had given me a "raw" deal. Whereupon the young lady said, "The athletic department cannot be responsible for all the people who work here." I disagreed and told the young lady the department not only could but must be responsible for its employees.

About this time the swimming coach, Mr. Willis Casey, inquired, "What's the trouble bud?" I in turn explained my predicament and repeated my charges that I had been given a "bad" deal. Then Mr. Casey said, "We have not sold the tickets at mid-court, but we are reserving them for the people who support the basketball team." Whereupon I inquired if the team were not supported by the government, (It was a nice way of saying that we students support the team as well as these unnamed persons,) also. Mr. Casey informed me in an acridly sarcastic tone of voice that, "If the President (of the U.S.) wants a ticket we will see what can be done." Then I asked Mr. Casey if he were a "smart guy," and he, realizing that Mr. Clogston had heard the whole conversation made a half-hearted effort to apologize.

Upon leaving the field house, my friend and I were approached by one of Mr. Clogston's assistants. He explained that the mid-court seats had been reserved for the "Wolfpack Club." We told the gentleman that we thought these people should have good tickets, but that we should have been told the truth to begin with and furthermore the athletic department should publicize the fact that tickets to the game are available here. I know two people besides myself, who made the useless trip to Durham to get tickets. I believe that every department at State College should keep their transactions "above board" at all times and surely the athletic department is no exception. If they lie, cheat and mislead us as students (right under our noses), what will they do to us as Alumni?

Over The Back Fence

By SALLY MOORE

Christmas goodies are an old hobby with us.

It must have been a luscious crisp cookie or crunchy candy recipe in Mother's old copies of Better Homes and Gardens that first lured our interest away from making mud pies in the back yard into the kitchen and turned it into the yearning to do some "real" stirring up.

When we look at the dates on some of our battered recipes we're sure that they're what enticed us into the kitchen at such a tender age.

Then when the big brother (our life-long sparring partner) went off in quest of "higher education"—even to Carolina!—these very same formulae and the boxes of goodies made by them lifted us right out of the category of being just the "kid sister." At least it's wonderful what a few cookies can do!

Now, we started talking about Christmas goodies. They're just as good any time of the year, but we don't think they hurt the conscience quite as much, if you're a little plump, when eaten during the holiday season. Not the figure, mind you, just the conscience.

And what is more enticing during this cold holiday weather is a small apartment or trailer than the mellow buttery aroma of crunchy, hot pecan cookies?

You can be sure with such a build-up that we are about to spring our favorite recipe for crisp pecan wafers. And we are.

Crisp Pecan Wafers

- 1/4 c. shortening
- 1/4 c. oleo or butter
- 1 c. brown sugar (packed well)
- 1 egg
- 1 1/2 c. flour, sifted
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. soda
- 1/2 c. broken pecan meats

Cream shortening, oleo and sugar. Add egg, beaten. Add sifted dry ingredients, a little at a time, mixing well. Drop from spoon onto well greased cookie sheet. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 15 minutes.

This makes about three dozen. Double it if you have the ingredients and the boss of the family will wait maybe a day or two longer before saying "When do we get some more cookies?"

Dorm Doings

By GILBERT MAXWELL

Kicking off on the last dorm column of the year, we find that the "hottest" news item of the week is Alexander Dorn's dance in Frank Thompson Gym tonight. The Alpha Zeta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority will cooperate with the men in Alexander in throwing the party that is hailed as the beginning of a new era of dormitory life at State College. Beta Sigma Phi is a sorority of business and professional women dedicated to the task of promoting social contacts between its members and the male population.

Chief dorm assistant James H. Prevetie is in charge of arrangements for the dance. He has won the approval and support of Colonel Harrelson, Dean Cloyd, and Mr. J. J. Stewart in his pioneering efforts. This will be the first dorm dance sponsored by all floors of one of the larger dormitories. Opportunities for more of the same next term are practically limitless. Why not sponsor a dance in your dorm?

Dorm Committee

Fred Kendall, campus government prexy, has appointed a committee to represent the student body in discussing Dormitory problems with the controller and manager of service departments. "Col." Willie Griffith of Bagwell Manor is chairman of the group which is composed of Felton Collier of Alexander, John Leonard of Owen, David Black of Syme, E. B. Gilbert of Fourth, N. L. Dixon of Owen, and William Edens of Tucker. Homer Sink will represent the Campus Government on the committee. A. C. Barefort will represent the dormitory organization; and Gilbert Maxwell will represent the TECHNICIAN.

This committee is an outgrowth of the report made by Homer Sink's committee last week to the campus government. The report, which was adopted in its entirety, also calls for the organization of dormitory clubs in near future, with a trial organization in Owen to be formed next term. The clubs will work on much the same order as fraternities, with a policy-making council composed of representatives from each dorm.

Frosh Want Peace

George Rogers of Tucker has announced the formation of a committee to cut down on disturbances in the halls of the freshmen dormitories. He is being assisted in his worthy efforts by Jack Noland, Thomas Hills, Louis Early, Ralph Howey, Sandy Ross, Lloyd Moon, Bobby Brown, Dick Gillon, George Spain, Charles Raper, and Douglas Ix. These fellows will appreciate your cooperation in trying to bring about better studying conditions.

That about winds up "Dorm Doings" for this year. We hope Santa Claus is good to you, and we'll be seeing you next year.

The State College chapter of Delta Kappa Phi, the professional textile society, will honor Prof. Albert H. Grimshaw, a veteran member of the college's faculty, at a dinner meeting at the Club Bon-Air in Raleigh Friday night at 7:30.

A large portrait of Professor Grimshaw will be presented to the School of Textiles at the college during the meeting. The presentation will be made by Tom Scott of New Bedford Mass., society president. Dean Malcolm E. Campbell of the School of Textiles will accept on behalf of the School.

He was educated at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Columbia University, N. C. State College, and the New Bedford, Mass., Textile School.

University Hour To Feature Hartley

Dr. Lodwick Hartley, head of the department of English at State College, will be featured as a North Carolina author of distinction on the University Hour Wednesday, December 1, at 10:30 p.m. The program will be broadcast by WPTF.

Dr. Hartley is widely known in North Carolina for his work in creative writing. He is the author of two biographies, a textbook and many short stories. The biographies, William Cowper, and This is Laurence, a biography of the eighteenth century novelist, Laurence Stern, were widely reviewed and immediately successful in literary circles. One of Dr. Hartley's short stories is included in this year's "O. Henry Memorial Prize Stories."

Mural Spotlight On ... Herb's Hecklings

By HERB BRENNER

Well, fellers, this is it. The end of a full fall term of Intramural activities. I am sorry at this time that we are not able to bring you the final standings in the loops, but due to the bad weather we have been having on campus many of the games that were scheduled have had to be postponed to a later date and therefore the planned schedules were not finished on time; however, we will have all the scoop for you when the winter term rolls around.

Apologies

Although, I have heard none personally, I have been informed by others that several of the teams in the Intramural Leagues have been griping about not getting enough write-ups in this column. There could possibly be two answers to the reasons why. First, this has been an unusually crowded term as far as news going into The TECHNICIAN. I have written up quite a few of the games that were never printed due to the lack of space. Second, sometimes it is inhumanly possible to write up every game that was played since intramurals covers such a wide part of teams and players; however, to each of you who have shown the interest to complain, I want you to know that your concern is greatly appreciated; for it has shown me that your activities do not stop after the game is over, and I promise to each of you, to try to fight for more space in The TECHNICIAN next term.

Next Term's Slate

A whole array of sports will be featured come January '49 and highlighting the agenda will be basketball, always a popular sport among Intramuralists. Also in the spotlight will be table tennis, swimming, and wrestling. Mr. Miller has urged all teams who wish to enter into next term's activities to fill out the form he has mailed them and return it to the Intramural office not later than December 15. This term coming up is always one filled with bitter competition and should as usual prove a potent one to follow.

A Final Word

Going down the line, here's a stockingful of thanks to Mr. Miller and his entire staff of Intramural referees for all their wonderful work in putting across a superbly planned and executed fall intramural program. (This includes Betty, Mr. Miller's secretary who does all the typing of the forms that are sent out). To my boss, Mr. Haas, and may he eat hearty over the holidays... the poor boy looks undernourished so if any of you'll have any extra white meat mail it to Bill Haas, care The TECHNICIAN. To the Wheel of the paper; Avery, for allowing this columnist to write, and to the griddle, may Santa bring you "sticks and stones"... to all of you, the students, may A's be in your stockings... and to all the World may "Peace on Earth" be shared for ever in reward for such a costly war.

pany to capture all the tones that the band produces. Dizzy is not only an excellent musician, but he is a great showman as well. He brought with him the best rehearsed and best disciplined band that we have heard in many a day. Rather than feature soloist after soloist in chain-smoker fashion, he uses his section as though they were individuals. Although this idea is not particularly unique, it does give some wonderful sounds. When the sections play in harmony, there is a great deal of depth; when they play in unison, they are actually in unison! He did give most of his men solo opportunities, and from what we were able to hear (the public system at Memorial Auditorium is far from being adequate) they made pretty much the most of them. The numbers that particularly pleased us were "Manteca," "I Can't Get Started," "Two Bass Hit," and of course "Ool-Ya-Koo."

Off The Record

By BOB FREEMAN

Representatives of two widely divergent spheres of music paid their respects to Raleigh last week.

Under the auspices of the Civic Music Association, Charles L. Wagner's company presented "Romeo and Juliette" by Charles Gounod on November 19. One is apt to regard small, itinerant opera companies with considerable doubt as to talent and skill, on the assumption that the better known companies sign all the best singers, leaving nothing to the so-called minor leagues. But after hearing the performance of Wagner company, a reconsideration of past prejudices is called for. Laura Castellano as Juliette and Jon Crain as Romeo certainly did justice to their roles, both musically and dramatically. Most of the other characters were also very good. Although the entire production was thoroughly professional, special attention should be given to the handsome scenery and costumes. They provided the audience with the necessary visual appeal.

It is regrettable, in the face of all this talent, that a better subject was not chosen for its display. Gounod was capable of greater things musically—his opera, "Faust," proves that. After Juliette's famed "Waltz Song" in the first act, the man next to us remarked that he was ready to leave because the musical high spot had been reached. The score tends to become a bit tedious to the average listener since there is little for him to carry away. After all, the principal reason for going to the opera is to hear the music. If there is a stronger desire for plot and dialogue, Shakespeare's play should be consulted.

The other particularly noteworthy musical event of the week was the visit of Dizzy Gillespie and his Men of BeBop on Monday night. It was a thrilling experience for us—and, judging from the size of the crowd, we would say the same for many others. There is no comparison between hearing Gillespie in person and hearing him on records (even discounting the fact that the records now available were made before the band reached its present state of perfection). Full appreciation requires the personal touch. It is technically impossible—so it seems—for a recording com-

Bill Allen To Play At Woodsman's Dance

Saturday night, December 4, Frank Thompson Gymnasium will be gaily decorated with pines, evergreens, and the traditional crepe paper, for that is the night when the Forestry Club brings its Annual Logger's Ball to the campus. From 9 'til 12, Bill Allen and his Orchestra will produce the music for the completely informal affair. The dance has no sponsors, and the guests are invited to dress as they please (informally that is) and are requested to abstain from wearing corsages.

From experience gathered from previous dances, the Forestry Club decided that this year they would present a low-priced, informal dance to the students on the campus with the primary aim of seeing that everyone attending spend an enjoyable evening. This year's Logger's Ball is the result of that planning and has every indication of bearing out that aim. This dance promises to be different in that it has no special meaning or purpose other than to provide an evening's entertainment at a low price. It is being given entirely for the benefit of those students who desire a low-priced, informal dance where they can take their dates and just let the good times roll.

The dance is open to all students of the college, and the tickets sell for $1.25 per couple or stag. Attendance will be limited to 300 couples.

Dance Committee Chairman Wade Jones reports that ticket sales are progressing favorably and that he expects a complete sell-out. Some tickets are still available and any member of the Forestry Club can obtain tickets for person's wishing to attend the dance.

Jones also said that the dance committee has some additional entertainment on tap for the guests during intermission.

Nash Speaks To Faculty Luncheon

One of the main tasks of college and university faculty members today is to assist the individual student "to integrate his major field of study and relate it to an understanding of human life and destiny," Dr. Arnold Nash, head of the Department of Religion at the University of North Carolina, said in a talk at a faculty luncheon at State College recently.

Dr. Nash, one of the chief speakers in the college's observance of "Religion In Life Week," told the faculty that one of civilization's bottlenecks is a lack of "the sense of the ultimate meaning of life."

The world, he said, has "too much religion," but the difficulty is that this religion is not Christianity. Modern man, he stated, needs "a sense of direction," based on the teachings of Jesus Christ.

Xi Sigma Pi Holds Farewell Party

The Mu Chapter of the Xi Sigma Pi, honorary forestry fraternity, held a farewell picnic and dance at Crabtree Creek Park over the Thanksgiving holidays. The occasion was to bid farewell to the graduating members this Christmas. Among those honored were Jake Broadway, past forester; Ernie Munger, past associate forester; Wade Jones; Gil Durham; and Tom Yancey.

Over 30 members and guests were present, and all enjoyed an evening of eats and dancing. A short program of singing was arranged. New officers to replace those graduating were also announced. Tom Hassell replaced Broadway as Forester and Mike Pekar replaced Munger as associate forester.

Scholarship Created For Foresters

The board of directors of the Ralph K. Cox Paper Company, Inc., of Dover, N. C., and Wellsburg, Va., recently established a scholarship award in the Division of Forestry at State College in honor of Mrs. Hulda Johnston Cox, wife of the company's founder. The board created the award as "a living tribute to her capacity as a guiding counselor and outstanding woman." The scholarship, valued at $500 annually, was presented this year to John C. Barber of Moyock, a junior in forestry at the college.

Hoffman Reviews Little Theatre Hit

By BILL HOFFMAN
If you go over to the Little Theatre tonight or tomorrow night you will see enacted "The Lady Has Ideas," originally produced under the title "Anything Can Happen." However, the author, Jack Kelly (not to be confused with any other Kelly), preferred to call it "Sweet Moan."

Dennis Curtin (Andy Goodwin) and his wife Elaine (Lorena Goodwin) are snuggled warmly in a small New York apartment with Elaine's mother (Frances Greene) who has an energetic desire to make Dennis rich and famous. And Dennis wishes he were rich and famous too, I think (not for his sake—for Elaine's). Well, his big chance comes when he is errand-boy-ing around a radio studio and it is discovered that he can read poetry like nobody's business. He is catapulted to fame between the first and second acts and has bobby soxers everywhere willing to surrender their virginity. Of course everybody knows that it is impossible to be happy with money. Elaine feels that cash is coming between her and Dennis. Dennis is rapidly growing sick of putting up with such people as his sponsor, Mrs. Martin Moseley, whose interest it is to get Wonderwet Hair Oil, containing the magic ingredient GELV, onto more heads. So Dennis blows the whole thing up in the most interesting way—he tells his audience some charmless things during a broadcast, but not before dedicating a few very sweet lines to his almost-lost love who returns and, without too much of a struggle, ends the play.

You will have to use your imagination to get any black magic out of Andy Goodwin's voice and some good hearing to catch all of his lines. Lorena Goodwin does a fairly good job, but why, oh why the script was amended to include her singing a song, I don't know. Her singing and playing are good, but it is not a musical. A few lines would have been all right. Out of the apartment across the hall comes a further distraction in the form of Barbara McIntyre who is obviously possessed of talents which transcend the stage.

Jimmy Theim is supposed to be the gay, sarcastic wit and should not be ashamed of himself when he uses profanity—it's supposed to be

Swain Addresses A.I.Ch.E. Meeting

At the November 30 meeting of the A. I. Ch. E., L. H. Swain of the English Department illustrated three ways in which the experts, political, scientific, and otherwise, crawl out on a limb and saw it off. The embarrassing procedures are to hide behind the "technical question," to reject an idea as "new-fangled," and to create personal prejudices.

Dr. E. M. Schoenborn, Head of the Chemical Engineering Department, explained the Department was accredited by both the Engineering Council for Professional Development and the A. I. Ch. E.

The faculty and students of the Department learned with regret of the sudden illness of Dr. F. P. Pike, one of the faculty, and wish for him a quick recovery.

Chess Club

In an election held Nov. 12, 1948 the State College Chess Club selected the following officers for the remaining school year.

President — Richard Gustafson, Sen., Chem. Engr.

Executive Vice President—Richard Wooten, Soph., Chem. Engr.
Secretary—Edward J. Wagner, Fresh., EE.

Treasurer — Donald E. Strickhouser, Jun., Engr. Gen.

Personnel Secretary — Chester Wrzos, Fresh., Agr. & Bio. Chem.

The club is open to all students and faculty. The final meeting of the term will be held Dec. 3, 1948 in the Y.M.C.A.

clever. Since I read the play before seeing it, I was particularly conscious of many instances where the clever script was let down completely or slightly mauled.

Frances Greene goes after her role in a hungry, enjoyable fashion. Webb Surratt bends over backwards to entertain us, Phil Ellis is gaily natural, and Alan Burke, Gloria Moore, Bob Sullivan, Rod Amundson put together some radio satire which is fairly entertaining.

All in all, I think you will come away, if not thoroughly satisfied, remembering that there were times when you laughed.

Let's hope for magnificent treatment of "Laura," the next production.

Technical Institute Offers Scholarship

A scholarship award, including all tuition and fees for one year of study, will be offered next spring by the Morehead City Technical Institute, a branch of State College, Director Edward W. Ruggles of the College's Extension Division, announced here recently.

North Carolina high school graduates or high school seniors who will graduate in June, 1949, are eligible to compete for the award, which is valued at approximately $300. Applications must be received by March 15, 1949.

"Each applicant," Director Ruggles stated, "will be required to take a series of mechanical aptitude tests. Schedules for these tests will be set up as convenient to all applicants as possible. Applicants will be notified well in advance of the time and place of the tests.

"In addition, each applicant must submit an essay of not less than 2,000 words on some technical subject. Suggested subjects include: the Diesel engine, television, radio, welding, woodworking, machine shop practice, the steam engine, aviation, etc. The essay should include such factors as the origin, development, use, explanations and contribution to mankind. The applicant is free to select any technical subject of interest.

"If the applicant has constructed a radio, a short wave transmitter, a model train, aeroplane, etc., he may make a complete report in lieu of the above essay on the construction of such objects. This report should be accompanied by drawings and photographs. The report should include materials used, methods of construction, use, and operation.

Judges of the contest will be Chancellor J. W. Harrelson; Dean J. H. Lampe of the school of Engineering; Paul B. Mitchell, director of the Morehead City Technical Institute; Director Ruggles of the Extension Division; and L. L. Ivey, manager of the Student Supply Stores.

All applications and entries should be mailed to the Morehead City Technical Institute, Box 388, Morehead City, North Carolina. Application blanks and detailed information about the award will be sent free of charge upon request.

Wildlife Society Elects Officers

Seniors and veterans dominated the elections of new officers for the Leopold Wildlife Society at the October 14th meeting. For the office of President, the members unanimously elected Yates Middleton Barber, Jr. Mr. Barber hails from Moyock, N. C. and has taken a very active part in the activities of the society during his four years at State College. Jack Franklin Dermid of Charlotte was the members' choice for Vice President.

The vacancies of Treasurer and Secretary were filled by two more upperclassmen. Sam Folger Poole from Greensboro was elected to serve as Secretary, and Henry A.

Towle of Newark, N. J. won the Treasurer's duties. For Program Chairman, Royston Rice Rudolph, Jr. of Salisbury was the selection. Mr. Rudolph is responsible for the growing interest and attendance at each succeeding meeting because of the excellent programs and speakers he has been fortunate enough to obtain. The only non-senior winning a berth in the elections was sophomore Edward Braxton Bradley who occupies the post of the newly-created Publicity Chairman. Mr. Bradley's home is in Raleigh.

Sporting Around

By HAAS

The bookies knew what they were talking about when they picked Villanova to win by two touchdowns in the game Saturday. But they didn't mention anything on their little sheets about the kind of game the "Wildcats" would be playing.

If we hadn't had constant reminders that the game was an intercollegiate affair, we'd have sworn that State was playing a professional outfit. The slugging, crawling, and general tactics of the Wildcats were everyday happenings in the play-for-pay league, but are taboo in collegiate games.

Before we go any further, I want to say that Coach Feathers and his staff and especially the team deserves a lot of credit for playing a clean game despite the roughness of the Villanova crew. It's plenty hard to keep the feathers unruffled (that is no pun!) when the going gets as rough as it was on the field last Saturday.

Naturally, the players and coaches aren't going to cry about the dirty play of a team, because everyone immediately starts the old "sour grape" routine. That's where I have the jump. I can say what I think, and what I think about the sportsmanship of the Villanova team is probably being echoed all over the campus by many students who saw the game.

A big team plays rough because it is big. No man who is on the field minds a hard jarring tackle or block. Any man who goes out there expects some rough bumps, but there is a big difference between roughness and pure dirtiness.

It is a shame for a team to lose some of the honor they could gain by having an outstanding team just because some of the men play dirty ball. Except for the fact that Villanova was outstandingly unsportsmanlike, the team is damn good. Bobby Polidor is a great little back and deserves most of the credit for the Wildcats victory.

Getting away from the complaints, State played its second best game of the season against Villanova. Naturally, the Carolina game will stand out in every student's mind as THE game this season, but the Villanova contest is second on my list as State's game of the year.

Chuck Musser climaxed a great season Saturday against the Cats. Musser never plays the flashy defense game. He seldom breaks through to throw the opponent for long losses, but Chuck can be counted on to plug up any hole over his side of the line. He is usually the last man to come out of those big pile-ups on the line of scrimmage.

Chuck really follows Knute Rockne's axiom, "You guards get in there and get on the bottom of the pile and stay there. I'll tell you when the game is over."

Musser's ability is shown by his selection on two All-Southern second team lists. Both A.P. and the Southern Sports Writers picked Chuck for the second team berth. Another season next year like the one just past, and Musser will move up a few strings!

Now that the football has been put away for this year, honors are pouring into State's Camp every day.

The big thrill came when Bernie Watts, Musser's running mate on the other side of the line was named to two first team posts on All-Southern selections. A.P. named Bernie on its first team, and the Southern Conference Sports writers listed him in the same spot. Center Smo Saunders received Honorable Mention at the pivot spot in the A.P. choices, and second team choice on the Sou. Conf. writers team.

Watts and Saunders made first team All-State, with Musser on the second squad. On the All-State Honorable Mention list are Buck Blomquist and Tony Romanowsky at end, Freshman star Elmer Costa at Tackle, and Oscar Bozeman, Gwynn Fletcher, Dick Johnson, Ogdin Smith, and Ed Mooney in the backfield.

The game Saturday marked the last collegiate appearance on the gridiron for Captain Bozeman, Fletcher, Blomquist, Miller, and Barksdale. Haven't had the opportunity to talk with the other players, but "Boze" told us Saturday night that he had just wound up ten years of high school, service, and college ball and that he "has had enough."

It is a shame that a more fitting tribute couldn't have been arranged for these seniors at the game, but, speaking for the student body, it's safe to say that we are all glad that you fellows were playing FOR us rather than AGAINST us!

Bob Bowlby got a well-deserved honor Monday night when the team elected him to act as captain of the football team next season. Bob will be playing his last year of college football.

At the same dinner, Musser and Watts both were nominated as most valuable men on the '48 team.

This is the last issue of the paper to come out during the fall term, so we look back over the sports picture for the term.

Our football team had the most unsuccessful season ever experienced under Coach Feathers. Just a glance at the 3-6-1 record causes some low spirits, but when you go a little deeper into the story, there is some consolation.

Most people just look at the record and think nothing of the competition that caused such a showing. State had a rough schedule all season and lost some very close games to teams that have gone through the season and ended up near the top in national rating.

Five of the six losses were to teams that are making New Year's Day appearances in bowls. Two of the teams that whipped State are in the nation's top ten, and State outplayed both of them! Clemson and Carolina both got the scare of the season when they met State.

So, if you look a little closer at the schedule, that 3-6-1 record is not as hard to swallow.

Hardwood Chatter

By FRANK PETTINELLI

Jubilee Hall in Munich, Germany is quite a few miles from Raleigh, U.S.A. even as the crow flies. Whether or not you went overseas by crow or troop-ship, you might suddenly be carried back by old, warm memories some night as you watch the State College "wonder five" perform.

Think, Chum—did you ever see that name on a mimeographed 3rd Army basketball program? That's right, Vic Bubas, the same mild, shy guy who very quietly and capably is filling the "sneakers" of Leo Katkavek, played guard for the 15th Corps basketball squad in '45 and '46 over in "das Deutschland."

While you are at it, take a good look at Paul Horvath and Jack McComas, and don't be too surprised if you remember seeing these other two Wolfpackers play on that same team with Vic. If you are somewhat astounded, just imagine what Vic thought when he found Jack and Paul sitting next to him in the locker room of Frank Thompson gym when he first arrived from Gary, Indiana.

This was one of the times when the fickle whims of Lady Luck decisively rang the bell for State College.

Mr. Bubas is getting along famously on and off the court. Talk to him for a few minutes and you will understand why he has a healthy "B" average. Vic also is a broad-jumper on the track team, a member of Thirty and Three, and he hopes to make "S.A.G.E." in the near future.

Vic is an extremely modest fellow when it comes to talking about his court play. He will turn the brightest red in the old spectrum when anyone compliments his fine defensive play and very sweet "floater" shot. This particular floater shot he uses is employed super expertly, and the old master, Bob Davies himself, would drool if he were to gaze upon Vic driving in.

If you think he turns red when you talk about his court prowess, just call him the "red-headed" Valentino of Gary, Indiana or ask him about the imported "Louis XIV" bed he owns—the only one of its kind in the Stadium Dorms!

Vic does not intend to play professional ball after graduation, but he would like to coach basketball and settle down to a modest life.

Watch Vic very closely this season. He is definitely a "businessman" on the hardwood, a businessman who plays smart, steady basketball from the first tap 'til the final buzzer.

Clogston Announces Favorable Act Of Council, DeGroat May be Coach

By BILL HAAS

Athletic Director Roy Clogston announced Tuesday that Soccer will be added to State College's athletic program next fall. The addition of Soccer to the regularly supported sports was discussed and passed on by the Athletic Council at a recent meeting.

The move was made to add the sport after a group of International students organized an unofficial Soccer team last season and met several of the teams in this area. Enough interest and ability was displayed by the group to warrant action by the council to add Soccer as a regularly supported sport on the campus.

Student coach Degroat headed the team of 22 men last season and will likely be chosen by the council to coach the Soccer team next fall. This is unofficial, but Mr. Clogston has stated that Degroat's name will be brought up for discussion for the job at a future meeting of the Athletic Council.

The addition of Soccer to State's roster of athletics is a good example of Mr. Clogston's interest and cooperation with the student body in athletic matters. The new Athletic Director has made several beneficial changes in the sports set-up since he came to Raleigh late in July, and extensive plans are under way for more changes for the benefit of State College students and the Athletic Department.

Soccer is not one of the more familiar sports in the South, but one look at the game converts any person interested in rugged athletic competition.

The game is played extensively in the Northern schools, and is a favorite in England, Mexico, and Eastern Europe. It is a rough combination of football, basketball, and the English game of Rugby.

A ball approximately the size of a basketball is used in the game. The field resembles the regular football field, with nets at each end, which are about seven feet wide and four feet high.

The idea of the game is to advance the ball into the net by using either head or feet. No player is allowed to touch the ball with his hands except the goalie, who can toss it back into play after an attempt is made by the opponent to score.

No blocking is allowed except in the manner that is employed on the basketball court. "Passes" can be intercepted to gain possession of the ball or the players can move in and try to steal the ball by kicking it away from the opponent.

Soccer supplies all the thrills and tumbles of football, with the speed and deception necessary in basketball.

No official games will be played this season, although the team may play several practice games for the benefit of the students. Just an introductory offer, so to speak.

"Ruly" Rivadeneyra of Gold Dorm is in charge of publicity for the team and would like to talk to any man interested in playing on the squad next year or who would like to get in on the practice sessions this season.

There is little likelihood that the team will travel out of the State next season, but this is just a personal opinion. Interest and activity in the sport can make it one of the favorites at State.

Competition next season will probably be limited to "Home and Home" games with Carolina, Duke, High Point, etc.

The field behind the Coliseum will be laid out as a practice and playing field for the new Soccer team, Mr. Clogston stated in the interview Tuesday.

Hoopsters Out For Revenge On Hanes

Semi-Pros Win 49-38 In Season Opener

Tonight the State College five will meet the Hanes Hosiery basketball squad at Memorial Auditorium with revenge in its eyes and hopes for a decisive and thorough victory.

As for last Tuesday night's encounter, Hanes hung up its stockings just 25 days ahead of time and received a 49-38 Christmas present from the heralded Wolfpack.

After the first three minutes of play, State found itself ahead by 3-1. Within the next seven minutes the slow-moving score reached a 6-6 tie as Ed Bartels layed up two important points and the first quarter ended.

With Paxton controlling the defensive backboard and Loftis setting from the outer circle, Hanes piled up four points to make the score 14-10.

Hanes took advantage of the poor shooting and passing of the jittery Wolfpackers and Dillon and Loftis ambled the score on to the total of 16-11.

The fast moving Pack seemed to be off the range and without a doubt the boys knew they were in trouble as the half ended at 22-15 for Hanes.

Paul Horvath controlled the tap at the start of the second half, but the ball was knocked out of bounds. Hanes took the ball out and scored a quick three points. Horvath tapped in a two-pointer and Dickey hit on a free shot that brought the score to 29-18.

Coach Case sent in Warren Cartier after a few minutes elapsed, and as Swede sent in two points with a nice push-shot, State's hopes began to rise.

Sam Ranzino sent in two more and as Dickey drove in for two, the score hit 36-33.

The three point gap didn't last for long as Sheek and Dillon of Hanes helped raise the total to 39-33.

In the next five minutes, Hanes added six more points and things began to look very dismal for State College as the score read 45-33.

With two and a half minutes to go, Case sent in Bob Garrison, the freshman newcomer, for Vic Bubas. McComas dropped in two points as Garrison fed the ball to him from the backboard, but the shot proved fruitless with only one minute left in the game.

Horvath scored eight points to lead State's scoring. McComas picked up seven, and Dickey and Bubas each got six.

Dickey, McComas, Bartels Honored

Three centers were selected among the first five because the selectors for Sport "just couldn't leave off" Groza and Kaftan after nominating Macaulay for center. The Kentucky and Holy Cross pivot aces were placed at forward positions.

On its second club, Sport selected Bob Cousy, Holy Cross, Tony Lavelli, Yale, Jim McIntyre, Minnesota, Wallace "Wah Wah" Jones, Kentucky, and Frank Saul, Seton Hall. Third team selections were Dick Dickey, North Carolina State, Vince Boryla, Denver, Vern Gardner, Utah, Jackie Robinson, Baylor, and Dick McGuire, St. John's of New York. The fourth quintet is comprised of Sherman White, Long Island University, Dike Eddleman, Illinois, Ernie Vandeweghe, Colgate, Pete Coorlas, DePaul, and Slater Martin, Texas.

Pack Drops Final Game To Villanova

By JACK BOWERS

Playing before a small crowd of 8,500 fans in rain-soaked Riddick Stadium Saturday afternoon, the North Carolina State College grid-ders ended their 1948 season with a 21-7 defeat, at the hands of a surprisingly strong Villanova, eleven.

The big and tough Wildcats, losers only to strong Army and Boston College this year, proved to be too powerful for the Wolfpack. Rolling up 20 first downs to State's 8 and gaining 260 yards rushing to the Wolfpack's 44 yards, the 'Cats rolled almost at will, especially in the disastrous second half.

Battling on almost even terms in the first half, the Wolfpack managed to hold the score to 7-7.

Fullback Pasquariello plunged over from the six for the first 'Cat tally. This run was set up by a pass interference penalty imposed on the 'Pack on the state six yard line.

State's only score came on a pass from Ogden Smith to Bill Thompson. Jim Byler added the extra point.

Early in the third period, Bobby Polidor, Villanova's classy half-back, scampered off tackle for a 50-yard run to put the Wildcats ahead to stay. Polidor, in 10 tries carried the pigskin for 110 yards for an average of 11 yards per try.

Bill Doherty and Andy Gordon, Villanova's talented T quarterbacks, added to the effectiveness of the 'Cats with their skillful ball handling.

For the Wolfpack, guard Charlie Musser, end Tony Romanowsky, and wingback Bill Thompson played outstanding games. Thompson on six tries, netted 31 yards for a five yard per try average.

Beaux Arts Society Announces Contest

Cubs Score Win Over Davidson In Final Game

Coach Tom Gould's Freshmen Football team closed their season last week by defeating the baby Wildcats of Davidson 12-6. Their season's record now stands at two wins and five defeats, the victories coming over Davidson, and Duke, while dropping contests to Wake Forest, Campbell College and North Carolina.

The Baby Pack opened their season of five games against a strong Wake Forest Freshmen Team who defeated them by the score of 19-7. The only State score coming when Guard Jim Spriggs recovered a blocked punt in the end zone for the touchdown.

On October 28 Coach Tom Gould's Baby Wolfpack took on the tough Campbell College eleven. Before the ballgame the Wolflets were rated as a two touchdown underdog, but the Baby Pack held the offensively minded Camels to two touchdowns, dropping the decision 13-6. The State score came on a pass from "VS" Kaiser to Mac McLellan.

In the following game the Cubs met the powerful Tar Heels of Chapel Hill, future Big Four Freshmen Champs, and were beaten 34-6. Paul Dinan scored the only T.D. for State.

Against the Blue Imps of Duke, the Baby Wolfpack posted their initial win of the season. In the game, which was hard fought all the way, Coach Gould's Cubs won the victory on the strength of two placements by Vince Bagonis and touchdowns by Paul Dinan and Chick Blanton.

The Wolflets finished the football season defeating the kittens of Davidson College 12 to 6. Paul Bruno was the star of the ball game, plunging over for both of the t.d.'s.

Fullback Paul Bruno and Paul Dinan were tied for scoring honors at the end of the season with two touch downs each. Following closely behind were Jim Spriggs, Mac McLellan, and Chick Blanton with one apiece. Vince Bagonis contributed three points to the total with his placements after the t.d.

The frosh outfit will furnish several good prospects for the varsity squad next year. Wingback Paul Dinan has been outstanding during the season with his running from the flanking position. Another wingback, George McArthur, will warm coach Feather's heart with his running and alertness in diagnosing the enemy's plays. In the tailback position V. S. Kiser and Charles Westbrook, will add much depth to the tailback position in the varsity club. At the terminal position, ends Gene Ferrell, Steve Kosilla, and Mac McLellan will be looked to furnish some superb pass snagging. In the center of the forward wall, Jack Jolly, Jim Spriggs, Vince Bagonis, John Nicholson, and Luigi Calvano will give reserve strength to the middle of the varsity line.

Called Meeting

The Engineer's Council held a meeting on Wednesday, November 24 to discuss plans for the annual Engineer's Ball.

The Ball is to be held the week-end of February 18, and the Council is endeavoring to make arrangements so that as many students as possible can go this year.

The band has not definitely been selected, but those under consideration are Johnnie Long, Ray McKinley, Jerry Wald, and Roy Anthony.

SPORTING AROUND

Getting away from football to basketball, we really have a bitter pill to swallow there! In the first game of the season, the boys proved that they aren't invincible. It is hard to believe, but the loss may be a good thing for the whole student body. Naturally, we don't like to think of the team losing one, but it isn't good for any squad to be out there with the pressure of 5000 students almost demanding a victory every time the team goes on the floor.

Several people have asked if Hanes is as good as they appeared to be. The answer, in big red letters, is no! State had a bad night under the baskets. Shots would roll around and refuse to drop. More than enough sure shots to win the game just wouldn't go in.

To give credit where it is due, the Hanes crew played a good game. Old man "Rebound" Paxton lived up to his name and commanded the boards on the rebounds. Dickey was well tied up and could get only six points, four of them on free throws.

Tonight the boys play the same club on the local court. State is at least twenty points better than Hanes, regardless of last Tuesday's score, and will prove it tonight.

In closing, just a word of congratulations to our brother institution for producing the number three football team in the nation. Sports Editor Carmichael of the Carolina rag will probably be writing his next columns from Antoine's in New Awleens! Lucky Boy!

Wolves Lose As William and Mary Opens Fast First Period Attack

By CHARLES LEGRAND

Playing before a large crowd on William and Mary's home field State dropped its first contest to an Indian team in the six meetings of the two squads.

After a woeful first period the State Wolfpack rallied and fought the Indians on even terms for the last three periods, however they were unable to make up the three touchdowns William and Mary had gathered in the first period.

The stout State line succeeded in stopping All-American Jack Cloud but were unable to hold Tommy (The Kidd) Korczowski who ran for one touchdown and passed for two in the back breaking first period.

The Wolfpack made its only sustained drive in the third period when it marched sixty yards for a score. The Pack led by Ed Mooney Dick Johnson, Bill Thompson, Ogden Smith, and Bob Smith moved the distance chiefly through the air and scored on the first play of the fourth period. Mooney raced to his right and sent a jump pass straight to Carlson who gathered the pigskin in for the score.

State again gained chiefly through the air ways completing 14 of 21 pass attempts for 105 yards and their only touchdown. Mooney and Ogden Smith hit Thompson and Simon for most of their completions with Smith taking the lead in the big Four in percentage of completions.
