Engineers Offered Chance To Hit Road

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced an examination for Highway Engineer (Trainee) to fill positions paying $2,875 and $3,100 a year in various Federal agencies in Washington, D. C., and throughout the United States. A few positions located in the Territories and possessions of the United States and in foreign countries may also be filled. Most of the vacancies are in the Bureau of Public Roads of the Department of Commerce.

To qualify, applicants must pass a written test and, in addition, must have had college study in civil engineering. For the $3,100 positions, appropriate civil engineering experience or a combination of such experience and education will be accepted as qualifying. Applications will be accepted from students who expect to complete the required courses not later than June 30, 1951.

The age limits, 18 to 35 years, will be waived for persons entitled to veteran preference.

Information and application forms may be obtained at most first- and second-class post offices, from Civil Service regional offices, or from the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

The latest draft information concerning the status of college was released this week by Chancellor J. W. Harrelson's office.

No student who is satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction can be inducted before the end of the present academic year in June, while students whose academic records place them in the upper half of their class standing will continue to be deferred at the discretion of their local boards.

The former group will receive a classification of 1-A (Postponed) and the latter group will be labeled 2-A.

Students who have signed up for the ROTC Advanced Training Program and veterans with more than one year service will remain on the deferred list.

Deferred by Law

In no case under the present law can a student be inducted before June if he presents a written request to his local draft board and accompanies it with a letter from the College Registrar certifying that he is a student and is satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of study.

This petition should be presented at the time of his pre-induction examination, and must be made immediately upon receipt of his orders to report for induction.

The 2-A classification is granted when (1) a student has completed at least one year of full-time college study, (2) earned grades placing him in the upper half of his class during his last full year of undergraduate work, and (3) satisfied his draft board of his intent to continue his studies.

2-A's Safe

It is presumed that students who are placed in this classification will be allowed to continue their study without fear of induction.

Freshmen in ROTC who have been recommended for deferment by the College Deferment Board will be given the opportunity to sign up for the Advanced ROTC Program in March. Sophomores who have been previously recommended for the Advanced Program but failed to accept will be given another opportunity this year.

The 1-A (Postponed) classification is mandatory under the present law and no student can be inducted if he makes a formal request for deferment until June.

Student's Responsibility

In all cases it is up to the student to notify his board of his educational status. Exception to this rule is the case of the ROTC students who have enlisted in the Advanced courses. Here the Military Department notifies the respective draft boards of the student's deferrable status.

Non-ROTC students who are in any doubt about their status should go to the Dean of Students office in Holladay Hall or the Office of Student Personnel in Peele Hall. ROTC students should go to the Military Department.

Ag Specialists Needed By Uncle Samuel

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced examinations for the following positions: Agricultural Marketing Specialist, Dairy and Poultry Products Inspector and Grader, Fresh Fruits and Vegetables Inspector, Agricultural Commodity Market Reporter, and Fishery Marketing Specialist. The salaries range from $3,825 to $8,800 a year for the various positions. Most of the positions to be filled are located in the Department of Agriculture and the Department of the Interior in Washington, D. C., and throughout the United States. Some positions in other agencies in Washington, D. C., and vicinity may also be filled.

To qualify, applicants must have had from 4 to 6 years of responsible and successful experience in appropriate marketing specialties and activities. Some substitution of education for experience is allowed. No written tests are required.

Full information and application forms may be secured at most first- and second-class post offices, from civil-service regional offices, or direct from the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C. Applications will be accepted in the Commission's office in Washington until further notice.

State College Offers Unique Course

By RUDOLPH PATE

The School of Engineering at North Carolina State College offers the only furniture training program of its type in the United States.

Known academically as the "Curriculum in Furniture Manufacturing and Management," the training work is designed to prepare students for technical and supervisory duties in the furniture industry, with the eventual possibility that they may advance to executive responsibilities.

Students are taught the fundamental principles relating to the design and construction of furniture. The program is administered in the Department of Industrial Engineering, headed by Prof. David E. Henderson. Dean J. H. Lampe of the School of Engineering is in charge of the overall supervision.

Take Forestry and Textiles

In addition to the engineering and manufacturing angles of the instruction offered by the School of Engineering, students attend a number of classes in the School of Forestry and the School of Textiles.

For example, they study the styling of fabrics for upholstered furniture in the School of Textiles and are taught such subjects as wood finishing, gluing, kiln drying, lumber grading, and wood moisture relations in the School of Forestry.

Tripp First

Graduates receive the Bachelor of Science degree in Furniture Manufacturing and Management. The first student to finish the course was Charles C. Tripp of Raleigh who was awarded his degree at last summer's graduation program. Following his graduation, he accepted a job with the Lane Company in Altavista, Va. Tripp was coach of the Wolfpack Golf Squad while he attended State.

Approximately 60 students are registered for the studies during the current term.

The four-year curriculum was established in the School of Engineering at the college in 1949 when the Furniture Foundation created the James T. Ryan Professorship in honor of the executive director of the Southern Furniture Manufacturers Association. Ryan lives in High Point.

Credit for the establishment of the training program at State College is given to the Furniture Foundation, Inc., which was formed primarily for the promotion of the curriculum. Its membership is composed of members of the Southern Furniture Manufacturers Association.

Henry A. Foscoe of High Point, president of the Globe Parlor Furniture Company, is president of the Foundation. He has taken a keen interest in the development of the courses comprising the curriculum and in working for the advancement of the undertaking.

"Best Anywhere"

At a recent Foundation meeting in High Point, Dean Lampe reported:

"The furniture curriculum has been developed to a point where it is now the best furniture manufacturing educational program offered anywhere. The successful application of good engineering principles in furniture manufacture by these graduates will be reflected in still greater growth of the Southern industry."

Representatives of furniture firms throughout the South have pledged a total of $54,000 to the success of the operation.

Further physical facilities for the curriculum have been planned. A completely equipped laboratory for the processing of wood and related materials used in furniture manufacture will be built in the new Forestry-Horticulture Building for which the General Assembly also made an appropriation. This laboratory will contain, among other things, testing equipment and drying and moisture control facilities.

A research program also has been drafted. It will be centered around the general theme, "Maintaining Dimensional Tolerances in Furniture Production."

Now Learn The Word To Give Joe The Bird

Optimists and pessimists alike may profit from the study of the Russian language. Regardless of the outcome of the international situation, anyone who speaks Russian will have an opportunity to utilize his knowledge.

Students interested in the study of Russian are advised to consult with Dr. V. Pikner, 114 Peele Hall for admission to a class which is in the process of organization. He is available from 11 to 1 MWF and 1 to 12 TTS.

It should be understood that this is a private class and carries no college credit. This instruction is offered solely in the interest of those who wish to learn Russian. A report of the work done in the class will be submitted to the Department of Modern Languages.

Drill Night

From a point high on the campus, a radar beam searches the sky. Lights burn in classrooms. Khaki replaces tweed and covert for the night as college men assigned to Reserve units study the machines and methods of defense.

Preparedness is the order of the day.

And the Bell System stands prepared. In five busy years, we have added more than 12,500,000 telephones. Many improvements have been made in the quality and speed of service. Our force of highly skilled, experienced men and women has been greatly enlarged—and now numbers more than 600,000.

A nation in a hurry goes by telephone. This country has the best telephone service in the world.

Study Help Classes Boost Student Grades

Students interested in improvement of study techniques have the opportunity of joining a class in how to study. One section is now in operation, meeting on Mondays and Wednesdays at 5:00 p.m., in 208 Peele.

The purpose of this class is to help students examine their present study procedures, consider various possibilities of improvement, and put into effect such suggestions that seem particularly appropriate to each student individually. The emphasis is upon those methods of study which have proved beneficial to students generally—higher-level work skills which are likely to be useful to anyone.

Proved Helpful

It is interesting to note that of those who completed the course last term, only three made less than a C average for the term and no one averaged less than 70 for the term. When these students were paired with other students according to classification, curriculum and performance on placement tests, the combined term average for the how-to-study class was found to be significantly higher than that of the control group.

Two-thirds of the how-to-study group made better averages than the students with whom they were paired. These results cannot be attributed definitely to benefits derived from the how-to-study instruction since other factors may have been more important in creating the differences.

Individual students in the course have been enthusiastic in their appraisal of the benefits. Students find that they become more effective by giving thought to better ways of handling their work and by putting the new techniques into practice.

If there is sufficient interest, another class will be opened this term. Anyone interested should contact Mr. Lyle Rogers in 105 Peele.

Freshmen Fellowship Holds Skating Party

The Freshmen YMCA Fellowship began its Winter Term program with a skating party held at Brooks Recreation Center on Thursday, Jan. 4th. Before the recreation, a movie showing the history of the YMCA was presented.

The YMCA operated a chartered bus for those students going skating and Brooks gave the State men a free night of skating. About 125 State College freshmen attended the event.

Science and Religion

The relationship between science and religion was the topic of discussion at the Freshmen YMCA Fellowship meeting on Wednesday night, January 10th. Dr. R. H. Snyder, of the State College Physics Department, led the group. The topic for next week's program was announced as "The Moral Significance of The Atom." Everyone is cordially invited to attend the meeting on Wednesday, January 17th, at 7:30 p.m. in the Social Room of Tucker Dormitory.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

Number 10...THE PANDA

The sudden rash of quick-trick cigarette tests may have caused panda-monium on the campus — but our scholarly friend was unperturbed. He pondered the facts of the case and decided that one-puff or one-sniff tests... single inhale and exhale comparisons are hardly conclusive. Proof of cigarette mildness doesn't come that fast!

And that's exactly why we suggest...

The sensible test — the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke — on a pack after pack, day after day basis. No snap judgments needed. After you've enjoyed Camels — and only Camels — for 30 days in your "T-Zone"

(T for Throat, T for Taste), we believe you'll know why...

More People Smoke Camels than any other cigarette!

The Insane "Sanity Code"

We view with great joy Consolidated University President Gordon Gray's stand on the NCAA Sanity Code.

President Gray feels that under the existing conditions of this insane athletic policy a downright lie (labeled hypocrisy) or outright non-compliance will result. In the case of open violation of the NCAA Bible, the schools of the Consolidated University would undoubtedly be forced to withdraw from the group.

And maybe this wouldn't be too bad. After all, there is still the National Invitational Tourney which Ev Case can send his boys to each year.

Through no fault of the boys who play the game, college athletics has become BIG BUSINESS all over the nation. The demand for triple threats for the football teams is as great as the cry for industrial geniuses. Coaches of all sports vie with the presidents of their various schools for top campus salaries.

As long as students are called upon to spend six of the nine school months either practicing or playing their individual sport, we feel that they should receive everything the school has to offer: books, tuition, laundry, room. But we don't feel that the star should get a new car each year and the lesser heroes new suits every time the season changes.

The NCAA doesn't even allow room, board, and books under its strict code.

No law can keep some well-heeled alumnus from handing out the cash to his favorite star, and if he wants to give it away, we feel that it is his to give.

Our stand is this:

Treat athletes like the business men they have been forced to become. Give them the necessary expenses to go to school. Cut out the cars and other valuables, but do give them some chance to benefit from all the money they bring into the school.

The NCAA could be a sane governing body which would help to standardize this aid to athletes, but we expect to see its head fall tomorrow morning in true Al Capp style!

Two Day Stand

The old Army policy of "Hurry up and wait" has been in practice in State College registration as long as the waiting line has been in existence.

We hasten to congratulate the registration office for quick service once your name comes up. There is such an improvement in registration at State that we hesitate to write what follows, but we feel that still more improvement can be made.

True, there is no long, cold wait in line as there once was. Our gripe now is the fact that students must return to school on Monday, for instance, and register. Then for more than a day these early registrants must hang around sipping coffee or . . . waiting for their classmates to round out two full days of registration before classes can start on Wednesday.

Why can't the Coliseum be used and more workers put behind the tables and get all the work done in one day? Preregistration in many courses would also help to eliminate this wasted day.

The Chancellor Speaks

Since the world situation will necessitate a heavy draft of young men, our college students will inevitably be affected. I want to point out that the student's primary purpose should be to continue his college education without interruption insofar as possible. Acquiring technical training at college is a potential service to the war effort. I earnestly recommend that our students face the present emergency in their usual calm and cool manner and remain at their college work until they are officially requested by Selective Service. By following this line of action, every student will be better qualified to serve both his State and his Nation.

J. W. Harrelson.

A Good Name and Justice

On Tuesday night a local paper announced that a 21-year-old "student" originally accused of burglary after being caught in the dormitory room of a State student, was given a 12-month suspended road term after pleading guilty to a charge of breaking and entering in Superior Court.

Ira Brinkley, the accused thief, was not and never had been a student at this college. He had been refused admittance here during the fall term and, according to police, was unemployed at the time of his arrest.

We object to the inference that this individual was associated with State College. In reference to an editorial written at the time of Brinkley's arrest, Dr. F. H. Jeter wrote, "Those of us who know the institution intimately and know its student body also know that many of the unseemly things charged to our student body are actually done by those who have no connection with the college whatsoever."

We also object to the ridiculously light penalty paid by this miscreant who was suspected of committing a series of burglaries and thefts on the campus during the fall term. It would seem that the safety of the property of the State students is a matter of small concern to the courts of Wake County.

The good citizens of Raleigh, with their hands ever outstretched for our money, seem to have turned a blind eye toward one of their fellows who tried a more direct approach to empty our pockets.

SWINDLER ON WAY

With The Greeks

By FRANK PERKINS

After a very nice yuletide vacation and another new year, you "grieks" have probably made numerous New Year's resolutions which I hope will help you through the coming year. No doubt many of you are a bit frightened by the increasing turmoil which is threatening to throw the entire world into another total war, and are doing everything possible to try to finish your college career. This should prey upon everyone's mind so that he will make an honest effort to do the best that he can while he is in college.

In a recent meeting of the I.F.C. several points were discussed concerning rushing and the freshmen who were about to enter a fraternity. It was decided that freshmen should not be allowed to live in fraternities if they were under 21 years of age. Another thing of importance was a letter by Dean Cloyd which stated that several men were touring fraternity houses over the country and posing as some sort of handy man long enough to swindle sizeable sums of money from the different houses visited. It was also stated in the letter that he or they are expected in this territory in the near future.

One of the fraternities on the campus suffered such a mishap during the Christmas holidays as it was broken into and the robber on his departure carried with him a slide rule, a watch and one radio.

Kiddy Parties

Congratulations go to the fraternities who had Christmas parties for the children at the orphanage. A large number of the fraternities had parties at the houses but others feeling that they couldn't spare the time for a house party during exams carried the toys, candy, and fruit out to the orphanage so that it could be given out on Christmas morning. It was really nice to see the expression on the kids' faces as they opened their packages.

As most of you know, midwinters will be the weekend of February 16 and 17. The chairman of the dance committee had his hands full trying to locate the right band for this dance, but finally the committee selected Claude Thornhill. There will be a Friday and Saturday dance and a Saturday afternoon concert as has been the custom in past years. As yet the committee has not decided where the dance will be held.

Question: Do you think the UN should abandon Korea? Why?

Sam Hodges, Junior, Architecture
Yes! It is a waste of human life and money to continue the Korean campaign. It is obvious that we are not able to open a counter-offensive at the present time. We should withdraw our defenses to Japan and Formosa.

It may be a noble move for the United States to act as a big brother to the whole world, but it is now time to be more concerned with our own welfare.
Bill Simpson, Sen. Tex.

No, if the UN abandons Korea it would destroy its purpose, lose prestige, and give Russia a stronger foothold towards attaining world domination. War is bad but to withdraw now would, no doubt, bring about severe consequences.

Donovan Warren, Jun. Architecture
Yes, some people think that if the UN forces pull out of Korea all the UN stands for would be a failure as was the League of Nations.

I would withdraw myself and save the needless slaughter of our soldiers, begin to rearm, and pre-

BOB CURRAN, Sports Editor

Since the last issue of this scandal sheet was put out, quite a bit has happened in Wolfpack sportsdom. The Wolfpack Basketball Team has run up a very impressive record of 14 and 1, against some of the top basketball talent in the country. When I say top basketball talent, that automatically excludes Wake Forest, even though the Pack was exposed to them in the Dixie Classic.

The Carolina "Playboys" haven't made their annual appearance as yet, or I'd be forced to change that top basketball talent to something more fitting of Tom Scott's team.

Last Saturday night Coach Everett Case took the Wolfpack over to Durham. The score of the game was 77 to 71 in favor of State. The score at the end of the regulation game was tied up at 67-67. Two of the Wolfpack's 67 points were scored on technical foul shots.

You probably all know this as well as I do, and are wondering why I'm writing about it. Well, I just wanted to get on the subject of technical fouls, and how important they are in a ball game. Now that I'm on the subject, I'd like to go back to the George Washington-State game that was played in the Coliseum. During that game a technical foul was called against State. This seemed to displease very many people present in the Coliseum that night, including the State student body. To show your displeasure you proceeded to set up a very loud booing, which is an old American custom. When the George Washington player stepped up to the foul line to shoot the technical foul shot, the booing got much louder and continued, despite the frantic efforts of the State ball players to quiet you down. The officials awarded the George Washington player another free throw, which they have the right to do. The officials can call a technical foul against the home team for any unsportsmanlike conduct by the fans.

The final score was such, that one point more or less didn't make any difference, but one of these nights the Pack is liable to lose a ball game on account of a performance such as that. That will really be great, and some day you can tell your grandchildren how you helped beat State, without stepping on the basketball court.

Here at State College we're supposed to have a pretty good reputation for sportsmanship, but if there are any more repeat performances of booing when an opposing ball player shoots a foul shot, our reputation will be about as worthless as Carolina's basketball team.

As long as I'm on the subject of sportsmanship, I'll tell you another little story. Many complaints have been received by the Athletic Department from visiting basketball coaches about the abusive language used by the students sitting around the visiting bench.

What say we show the visiting teams a little more "Southern Hospitality" at the next home basketball game. The Pack doesn't show them too much on the court when they beat them. While we're at it, we might even show the officials some too, because they might improve, if we do. After all, how would you feel, if you didn't have a friend in the world.

To close this column, I'd like to offer my belated congratulations to "Wham Bam Marrying Sam" Ranzino and his wife Ann. Also to my old friend Coach Feathers on his three year contract. I might stay around three more years to see how he makes out with the split T.

Pack Set For Busy Weekend; Ranzino Nearing New Record

By PAUL HODUL

In a busy weekend of basketball, Coach Everett Case's Wolfpack will play host to the William and Mary Indians tonight, then journey to Philadelphia tomorrow night to meet the Villanova Wildcats. Villanova is the only team to beat the Wolfpack this season, and is the only intersectional outfit that the Wolfpack has never beaten in regular season competition.

Tribe Still Tough

Although William and Mary is minus the services of high scoring, All-Southern Center Chet Geirmack this year, the Tribesmen are still one of the top contenders in the Southern Conference.

William and Mary pulled the upset of the Conference last year at Norfolk, by beating the highly favored Wolfpack 54-50. Coach Barney Wilson will rely on Ed McMillian, Betsy Lewis, Dick Forrest and Bob Benjamin to lead the offensive effort against the Pack, hoping to score another upset victory.

Villanova An Old Nemesis

Coach Alex Severance's Wildcats are an old nemesis of the Wolfpack, and the Pack has been unable to beat them since the series was begun in 1948. Last year, the Cats defeated the Wolfpack 65-64 in an overtime thriller, and this year they turned the trick 68-61. Coach Severance is without the services of All-America Paul Arazin this season, but filling his shoes quite ably is a sophomore star named Hennessey, who scored 33 points in the last outing against the Pack.

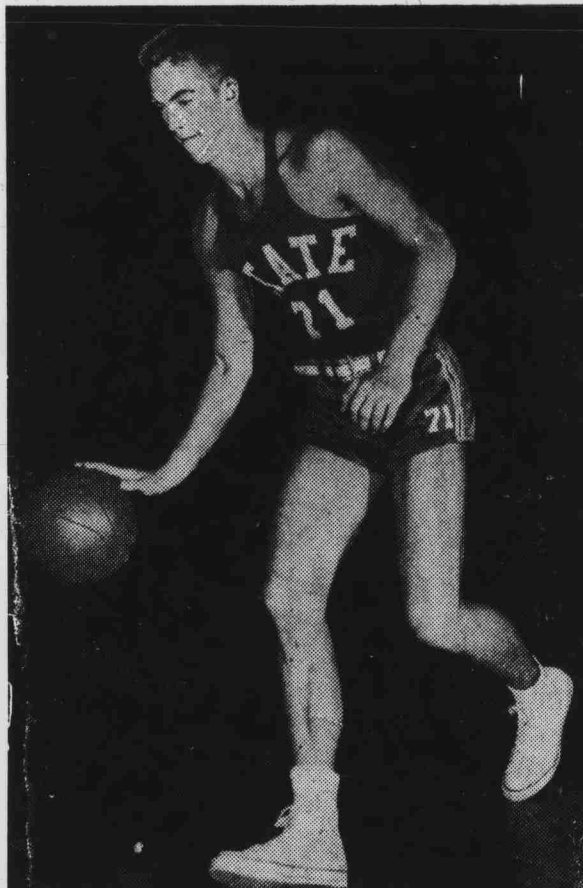

Marrying Sam to Lead Pack

The Wolfpack, currently rated seventh in the nation, will once again be led by All-America Sam Ranzino, the blushing bridegroom. Ranzino is sporting a 23 point per game average for the first 15 games, and is just 38 points shy of breaking the all-time State scoring record for a college career, set last year by another All-America, Dick Dickey. Dickey's record is 1,644 points, and Sam has 1,606 points, with 14 regular season games yet to be played.

Teaming up with Ranzino at forward will be either Bobby Speight or Paul Brandenburg. Paul will probably get the assignment, after his great showing in the Dook game. Holding down the guard spots will be Lee Terrell and Vic Bubas, who will also get the assignment of guarding Hennessey. Rounding out the first five will be Paul Horvath, who is having his best season since coming to West Raleigh four years ago.

Sophomores Bill Kukoy and Eddie Morris, two of Coach Case's most valued substitutes, are also slated for lots of action over the weekend.

In a preliminary game to tonight's varsity contest, Butter Anderson's undefeated Freshman Five will meet the Oak Ridge Military Academy. The first game will get underway at 6:30 p.m.

Paul Brandenburg, sophomore forward from Staten Island, N. Y. proved that he is ready to take All-America Dick Dickey's place, left vacant by the Red Headed One's graduation, by scoring three decisive baskets against Duke last Saturday night. Coming into the game a few minutes before the end, Brandenburg scored the basket that tied the game and sent it into overtime. Then in overtime he scored another basket to once more tie the game up. His third basket put the Pack in the lead.

West Haven Leads Dormitory Intramurals; Basketball To Head Winter Sports Program

By BILL GYLER

After a few weeks of needed rest, we are back to bring you the review of last quarters intramurals. It was a big quarter with most of the points evenly divided among the top teams. The five top teams in points are to date: West Haven 340; Syme No. 1 331½; Berry 303; Becton No. 1 298; Turlington No. 2 265. West Haven rates the tops for their performances in the football and volleyball tournaments.

The champions among the dorms were Syme No. 1 in football, Alexander No. 2 in handball and Berry in volleyball.

Book Business Is Big Boom Bonanza

Some $7,000 has flowed into pockets of student's who sold over 2,800 used text books through the Alpha Zeta Book Exchange since the spring of 1949, reports Ray Karriker, Exchange manager.

The $2,000 volume done so far this quarter by the honorary Agriculture fraternity is the biggest on record, as over 800 books have been bought by students seeking lower prices.

Profits from the student service go to needy students of the School of Agriculture in the form of $100 yearly scholarships. The awards are made on the basis of need, leadership and scholastic ability. Any residue of funds is used to help operate the organization.

To sell a book, students name their own price and leave the books at the Exchange's office in Barracks 15 behind Tompkins Hall. Alpha Zeta clerks sell the books and hold the money until the seller calls for it.

As compensation for its services, the Exchange charges ten cents for each book or article selling for less than four dollars and ten percent of the selling price for each sale above that price.

The exchange, which closes Saturday at noon, will re-open on March 14 and 15 for more business.

U. Md. Students Demand NSA Vote

COLLEGE PARK, MD.—A petition from the student body of the University of Maryland has forced the Student Government Association to place the question of membership in the National Student Association before the students of the college.

The petition was a reaction to the student government's vote in favor of joining the national group of student government organizations. The question of membership in NSA has been the subject of annual debates at Maryland since 1946, but the NSA advocates have never before been able to control a majority in the student government.

The petition bore 743 signatures, 73 more than the number required to fulfill a provision in the constitution of the student government providing for a mandatory referendum.

Fred Stone, president of the student body, stated that he is pleased that the issue will be settled by the student body. He aligned himself as definitely opposed to NSA and

Track Men Wanted

Coach Tom Fitzgibbons started practice for both varsity and freshman track teams this week.

State will enter a team in three winter meets. It will compete against Carolina, in the Maryland Invitational, and the Southern Conference Indoor Games.

Men are urgently needed for both the varsity and freshmen teams, and all those interested are urged to contact Coach Tom Fitzgibbons during the day at his office in the Coliseum.

offered several reasons why; the main one being that, "NSA is nothing more than student government without outside influence and has no way of carrying out its ideals."

The Diamondback, student newspaper, accused the NSA faction of employing "histrionic shenanigans" and "political bamboozery" in winning their victory in the student government.

Associated Students Memorial Building
University of Washington
Seattle, Washington

The Associated Students Memorial Union Building is one of the favorite on-the-campus haunts of students at the University of Washington. That's because the Union Building is a friendly place, always full of the busy atmosphere of college life. There is always plenty of ice-cold Coca-Cola, too. For here, as in university gathering spots everywhere—Coke belongs.

College Union Group Meets On Campus

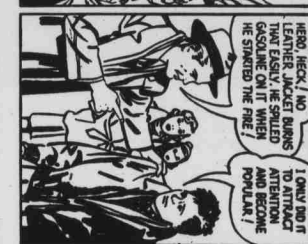

State College's College Union Program was developed further during exam week last quarter when delegates from eight southern schools gathered on the campus to attend a Regional Conference of the Association of College Unions.

Presiding over the program was Jerry Erdahl, the regional advisor of the Association. Erdahl is also the director of State College's future College Union. The twenty-five delegates from North Carolina and Virginia were greeted and given a welcome address by Dean Cloyd, who presided over the morning session of the congress.

Construction problems, business operations, income sources, and building maintenance were the main topics of the discussion. During the afternoon session Dean Katherine Taylor of the Woman's College acted as Chairman for the discussions on constitutions and committee structure.

The day's program was ended with a tour to the campuses of the University and Duke, where the delegates toured the respective college's Student Unions and were given analyses of their facilities.

INQUIRING REPORTER—

 pare for the next blow which will not be too long after the inevitable downfall of Korea.

Jimmy Quinn, Soph, Architecture

No! It looks now like the UN hasn't too much to say about the matter. I am not a diplomat or authority on the international situation, but I think the UN has as equal rights as the Reds to be in Korea. My answer now would be—as long as there is Red aggression by force in Korea the UN should not abandon.

Buddy Boyles, Sr., Civil Engr.

Yes! I think that the UN should abandon Korea. We (the UN) cannot possibly beat Red China without a full scale all-out war. Which would mean total mobilization for the U. S.

Such a war would exhaust the supply of men and materials to the extent that we would be sitting ducks for Russia if Russia should decide to attack.

On the other hand, if we should merely fight a defensive or stalling war in Korea, it would be nothing more than vain draining off men and supplies and with a nation like Red China we can't afford to swap men at even a 50 to 1 ratio.

Bill Despris, Jr. Ind. and Rur. Rec.

No! My honest opinion is that the UN should remain in Korea regardless of cost of men and materials. To withdraw now would simply admit defeat and subject all member nations to ridicule, but most important of all, the faith of free people would be lost.
