CG Refuses Plea For Pep Club Seats

The Campus Government voted Tuesday to stand by the Ticket Committee's decision that the Pep Club not be granted center line seats at athletic events this year.

Harvey Wilkinson, president of the club, approached the council with the request that there be some arrangement made whereby the Pep Club members would be allowed to draw center line seats at all athletic events this year as they did last year. Wilkinson pointed out that in the Pep Club constitution it is stated that the members of the club will enjoy such a privilege.

When the ticket committee formulated their new contract with the Athletic Department last fall, they decided to leave out the Pep Club clause present in the old contract. They did so on the basis that student opinion was not in favor of choice seats for the Pep Club when other student organizations had no such right. Those students' opinions that were available at the time the contract was drawn up indicated that the Pep Club deserved no rights in seating priority that the other organizations on campus were denied.

Several members of the Council, in voicing their opinions, left the impression that, since the Pep Club's membership is so small (at present it has ten active members) and its functions are not too well supported by the student body, the Club is not active. Wilkinson tried hard to convince the Council that this is not the case. He reminded the Council of the activities already staged by the Club this year.

The president of the Council recommended to Wilkinson that the Pep Club revise their constitution to read in accordance with the student government minutes.

At the end of the discussion, Wilkinson told the Council: "There is no animosity from the Club because it did not get the desired seats. We merely wanted to straighten things out." In answer to Pruden's recommendation, he added, "We will change our constitution to that effect if possible."

Campus Flooded With Doubtful Literature

There appeared on the campus and in some of the dorms Monday afternoon a publication unfamiliar in North Carolina Collegiate circles... the "North Carolina Young Republican News."

Its method of delivery became somewhat of a mystery as college officials revealed that no one had been granted a permit to make the distribution, which, oddly enough, was limited to the southeast portion of the campus. Its arrival could be hailed as somewhat of a paradox even here on the fringe of the Solid South. Not since 1950 has there been a political club on the Campus. At that time the never-flourishing Young Democrats Club languished, disappeared and has not since shown any signs of reforming.

The "Republican News" heralded the approaching visit of presidential aspirant Robert A. Taft of Ohio. Candidate Taft, on a whirlwind speaking tour, has scheduled appearances at seven major colleges in North Carolina, five non-college speeches, three press conferences, nine broadcasts and a television interview.

His tour will take him to Duke University, The University of North Carolina, Women's College, Guilford College, Wake Forest College, and N. C. College, from Nov. 27-29. Joe Weaver of the College Union Forum Committee tried unsuccessfully to schedule Mr. Taft for a Raleigh speech.

Following the wake of his recently released book, "A Foreign Policy for Americans," Author Taft is expected to make foreign policy the main substance of his speeches. Mr. Taft comes to N. C. to deliver the Weil Lectures at the University of North Carolina, an endowed series of lectures which are scheduled for 8:00 p.m.

Reductions in the fees charged student groups for use of the Coliseum are expected to result from a meeting this week between J. G. Vann, State College's Comptroller, and W. D. Carmichael, Jr., comptroller of the Greater University.

Their meeting results from complaints about management of the Coliseum that were aired recently when the Junior Class was asked to pay $1,100 rent for the Junior-Senior Dance.

Student leaders including Jack McCormick, member of a special committee that last year investigated the Coliseum; Jay Bryan, president of the Junior Class; and George Pruden, Campus Government president, have made several suggestions about Coliseum fees to Vann.

Basic Rent

These students have suggested that the $300 basic rental for the building should not be charged for student events. Only the cost of preparing and operating the building for an event should be charged against the students, they suggest.

Because these extra charges could run over $800 for an event in some instances, it is suggested that all such charges should be examined to see if they are equitable.

Vann has issued an invitation to the TECHNICIAN to inspect these costs after they have been re-surveyed, if this is done. Vann stated that this would be done to assure the student body that its interests have been protected.

Another protest against the management of the Coliseum was made by "Hank" Smith, former student now in service, during the past week. Smith stated that before being recalled to the Marines he contacted Coliseum manager Wilmer Betts about using the building for an entertainment program on behalf of the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund. Smith said that he asked to use the Coliseum rent-free since all proceeds from the show were to go to the Fund. Mr. Betts refused to do so, and in addition would not rent the building for such purposes (Continued on Page 11)

IDC Holds Fall Soiree

The State College Inter-Dormitory Council will sponsor its annual Fall Festival Party at the college gymnasium on Friday, November 30 from 8:30 til 11:30.

Music for the event will be furnished by Buddy Klein and the Statesmen sponsored by the American Federation of Musicians in conjunction with Local No. 500 of Raleigh.

This year the IDC is working together with students in the Department of Industrial and Rural Recreation at State College and numerous games and contests have been planned for intermissions. Several prizes will be awarded to contest winners. Chairman Bill Herrmann of the LDC has announced that plans for the big occasion are being rapidly completed and the committee expects a crowd of over 500 persons to attend the dance.

A large number of girls have been invited from Peace College, Meredith, Saint Mary's, and the numerous schools in and around Raleigh, and there should be no problem in securing a partner for the party.

Sparks Fly As WVWP On Temporary Setup While Mediators Work

Settlement appears possible in the disputes which put the Student Station, WVWP, off the air on November 19. The station was signed off the air when a majority of the station members resigned, and was in partial operation a week later

BULLETIN WVWP Dispute

The Korean-type negotiations in the radio station dispute appeared to be approaching a successful climax late Thursday.

The Dean of Students Office announced Thursday afternoon that both factions had agreed to the basic details of the compromise. The compromise plan would turn the management of the WVWP staff over to business manager Adrian Troelman. Station manager Joel Heim would continue to carry out his other duties.

The second part of the plan calls for the appointment of a committee of disinterested persons to investigate all charges and counter-charges made in the dispute.

The station did not operate Wednesday night. Heim said that the transmitter was over-heating, but a former station manager, Paul Miller, stated that serious damage might have been done. No date has been set for the resumption of broadcasting.

A majority of the members of the 25-man staff resigned in protest of a Board of Publications action which disapproved portions of the station's constitution on the grounds that it was in opposition to the constitution of the Board. They also protested actions of the station manager, Joel Heim. The resigning staff members stated that they felt that the station could no longer be operated in a democratic fashion.

Station manager Heim and business manager Adrian Troelman took action to fill the staff vacancies created by the resignations and to return the station to full operation.

Heim had told the Board of Publications that he favored the action that it took because the radio station board of directors, operating under the station constitution, had opposed his management of the station.

Opposing factions from the station and representatives of the Board of Publications met together in Dean Talley's office Monday night. Tuesday the Dean stated that a basis for compromise had been found and that the discussions would be continued.

NCS Politicos Attend Student Legislature

A full 15-man delegation was on hand to represent State College yesterday as the annual State Student Legislature opened in the Capitol.

The State delegation has prepared a bill on stream pollution which will be debated in the legislative sessions which will continue through tomorrow noon. The Women's College delegation is sponsoring bills concerning school health, education and teacher training. The State delegation reported Tuesday that it expected the UNC delegation to present motions legalizing gambling and prostitution in the state.

The State delegation consists of four senators and eleven representatives. The senators are Louis Hine, George Thomason, Howard Shell and Joe Mason. Representatives are Edgar Ingram, Bob Bradford, Dick Pitts, Howard Wells, Gerald Mann, G. W. Willis, Ren Drum, Jim Babs, David Phillips, Max Thurman and Kenneth Gibela.

The students of the Greater University will enjoy another Greater University Day at State College in February while the members of the Greater University Student Council ponder a new constitution. These plans were made on November 18 when the Council met in Raleigh on the State campus.

With the State and UNC delegations leading, the Council made plans to revamp the organization that CG president Pruden calls "little better than a social club." A six member committee is planned to work out a new constitution that will afford the Council with legislative powers.

Last Night

The State delegation met last night to prepare its plans for the new constitution and will journey to Chapel Hill Sunday for the first meeting of the committee. The meetings of the committee will be open to visitors and one will be planned for Raleigh next quarter.

The Greater University Day has been set for Saturday, February 23, the date of the State-Carolina basketball game in Raleigh. The affair will be similar to the one held at Chapel Hill in the fall with students from the three schools invited to attend the game and social events.

Eight Win New Blue Keys

Blue Key, national honorary leadership fraternity, tapped eight men for membership on Monday. Following traditional procedure, new pledges were tapped while they were attending class.

The pledges will not be initiated until next term when they will have completed their pledge duties. The projects which the pledges will carry out include: presenting programs which will introduce the members of the senior classes to the Alumni Association, the study of a new system of class elections and the erection of street signs on the campus.

The Pledges are:

Students Drop

There are 2,116,440 students enrolled in United States colleges and universities this fall, as compared with 2,296,592 last fall.

The United States Office of Education, reporting this said the 7.8 per cent decrease reflected by these figures "is less than most forecasters anticipated last spring."

Male students have declined 10.8 per cent in number, the survey of 1,806 institutions of higher education showed, while the number of women students decreased only 1.3 per cent.

Earl James McGrath, Commissioner of Education, called it significant also that while there has been a drop of 12.3 per cent in male freshmen this year, the number of women first-year students fell only three per cent below 1950.

Narrow Bridge Tight Turn

There is a marked tendency for cars to occupy the center of the barely adequate road across the bridge. This tendency is aggravated after heavy rains as the cars swerve to avoid numerous puddles of Great Lakes proportion. Coliseum traffic is confronted with the almost impossible task of trying to get from Dunn Avenue onto the bridge. The bridge railing, far too flimsy to sustain a blow, should be replaced. A great help to alleviate the condition would be to remove the east sidewalk, allowing four feet more for traffic.

.... Scenes From Obstacle Course

Diagrammatically illustrated, the hind end of a car parked at A is directly in the line of traffic when approached at B. The curve, adversely banked as it is, becomes doubly dangerous since motorist approaching the curve from either direction have a tendency to favor the middle of the road. This fact is also illustrated by the picture of cars parked on both sides of the road, providing a minimum of usable road space. Removal of the parking zone shown would alleviate much of the hazard. Ample parking space is provided in the lot across the street. Visual Aids Photo.

Union Flick Gives Last Laugh Before Exams

The college union movie series will be resumed this Sunday with the showing of "A Chaplin Festival."

The program will consist of four of Charlie Chaplin's best comedies. The popularity and universal appeal of these comedies made Chaplin one of the most widely known and best loved personalities of this century. He is generally conceded one of the great artists of our time.

The picture will begin promptly at 2:30, Sunday Dec. 2 in the Textile auditorium. Admission for students is free with identification.

Write Vetville Story

A 266-page volume covering the history of Vetville, prefabricated housing center of married veterans attending State, has been written by a 1950 graduate of the college and presented to the institution's D. H. Hill Library.

Harlan C. Brown, librarian, announced that he had received the exhaustive history of Vetville from Jack Morgan Harrell of Franklin, Va., who compiled the book.

Entitled "The History of Vetville," the volume reports the activities of the community from November 11, 1946, when the first residents moved in to June, 1950. Compilation of the history was authorized by the Vetville Council in January, 1950.

"The purpose of such a history," Author Harrell said in his foreword, "was primarily to preserve a portion of a type of life that existed on campuses throughout America—a type of life that will probably never exist again."

In a letter of appreciation to Harrell, Librarian Brown said: "It is volumes such as this that make invaluable historical records for State College, and I know that it will be used by alumni and research workers in sociology and history as long as State College exists."

TIRE TREADS MARK TRAGEDY

This Could Be You

"This could be you" is a phrase worn thin with use. Yet, in the opinion of The Technician, there is no other way of approaching the fact that for every accident there must be a victim and that every victim was at one time completely indistinguishable from any other person crossing Hillsboro Street.

Although it has been well proved that experience is oft the best teacher, The Technician willingly foregoes such experience in the hope that a life will be spared before the speed laws and infrequency of police patrols in West Raleigh are changed. One without the other will prove to be as much a mockery as past promises in this direction.

If steps are not taken, the outcome will be inevitable-futile mourning and feeble excuses. There can be no excuse for complete inadequacy on the part of municipal officials who by their disinterest have created a monstrous hazard out of a city street.

Unfortunately, it could be you.

DEM

Unrest Amidst Relaxation

After a series of stormy meetings, a majority of the staff of WVWP, student broadcasting station, walked out of their jobs just before the Thanksgiving recess. The station therefore has been incapacitated and operated on a curtailed basis.

The student station occupies a unique position on campus in that it has a potential daily contact with almost every student.

Unfortunately however, as indicated by a recent Technician poll, the station is merely looked upon as a relaxing musical interlude in daily campus life. If this is the aim of the station, then The Technician sees no need for a staff beyond that of a man to turn over records.

However, if the aims of the station lie in the direction of providing programs which can be labelled "entertaining," "informative," and "amusing" instead of only "relaxing," then any reorganization carried on at the present must produce a compatible organization capable of fulfilling the real aim of WVWP.

DEM

Start To Utopia

In its last issue, The Technician carried a story on the Coliseum and its negative attitude toward student activities. This week, J. Graves Vann, comptroller of State College, announced that a study would be made in the immediate future by administrative officials, and that any existing inequities in the Coliseum would be corrected.

At the same time, an invitation was extended to The Technician to examine any and all findings of the investigating body.

Such receptiveness and openness is indeed most welcome, for it is an indication of sincere interest in the welfare of the student body. Mr. Vann by his action has gone a long way on our theory that students can be right.

It is to be regretted that such a policy of openness and fairness is not more universal about the campus. If it were, The Technician would not be accused of scandal mongering, for there would be no scandals.

With The Greeks

Although there will be a dance only on Saturday night for I.F.C. weekend, most of the fraternities on campus are going to have planned affairs both Friday and Saturday nights. Sigma Alpha Mu will have a house party Friday night followed by a get-together at the house Saturday afternoon. After the formal dance the Sammys will have a cabin party with a trio providing a musical background. Phi Epsilon Pi will hold a house party after the dance as will Pi Kappa Phi. Delta Sigma Phi will be the guests at the home of one of their house-mothers, Mrs. Perry, in Raleigh.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon will have a party and breakfast at Club 15 following the dance. Kappa Alpha and Kappa Sigma are holding a shindig out at a cabin Saturday night. Breakfast will be served and a seven piece combo will furnish music. Sigma Nu will have a buffet supper at the house before the dance and a house party afterwards.

Pi Kappa Alpha will start the weekend off early when they hold their annual crew race with Sigma Nu on Thursday night. Sigma Nu won the championship last year and will be trying their hardest to retain the title. The PIKAs will have "The 3 Deuces" playing for a dance to be held at their house on Friday night. Pledges and brothers will get together Saturday afternoon before the dance and there will no doubt be a party at the house following the regular pledge dance.

A three way party is being planned by Sigma Pi, Sigma Phi Epsilon and Sigma Chi for Friday night. The setting will be the Tar Heel Club and the boys will try to make this an annual affair. All three fraternities will have house parties on Saturday night following the pledge dance.

Pledges vs. Brothers

Saturday afternoon, December 1st will be the time when the Sigma Nu pledges will try their luck at beating the brothers. This sort of game is becoming popular at the fraternities here, for there have been several played already this fall. On Sunday, November 18, the brothers of Phi Epsilon Pi behind the fine playing of Hoffman, Saywitz, and Epstein, defeated the new-members by a 20-0 score.

Party for Underprivileged

On Sunday, December 9, Lambda Chi Alpha will have as their guests twenty-five underprivileged children for a Christmas dinner at their fraternity house. Activities such as this, promote better relations between fraternities on the campus and the community of Raleigh. Lambda Chi deserves plaudits for this fine undertaking.

Penned Opinions

A Prof And A Marine

To the Editor:

First I want to congratulate you and your staff on the fine editorials and general tone of the "Technician" this year.

Next I want to agree with Frank Soling's comments about the "Agromeck" as a whole. When it comes to sponsor's pictures, however, I join the dissenters.

It would have been nice, but no special honor to have my wife's picture appearing as sponsor for Golden Chain, but I have always felt that such pictures were a waste of space. I am enclosing a check for two dollars to cover any possible loss the "Agromeck" may suffer as the result of Golden Chain's decision not to have a sponsor.

Lastly, I want to state that I absolutely did not pay the Coliseum $300 for the use of the building by the class of '52 last May.

Taking into consideration the recommendations of the Coliseum Committee, several chats with the Chancellor, and advice from non-student advisors it was decided that the class treasurer should pay the $300 and withhold the balance pending further developments in the fight to lower the excessive Coliseum tariff. Along with Dick White and other class leaders I was active in this struggle.

During the summer the newly elected '52 class president and treasurer agreed to go along with this policy in the hope of saving the class the balance of $410, which was in the treasury.

Early in the fall term a talk with the Chancellor convinced me that in the near future nothing would be done about lowering Coliseum rates. I told the class president that I thought the balance of the bill might as well be paid.

Had this been a personal matter I would either have not rented the Coliseum in the first place or else I would have paid the entire bill promptly; however, when I am representing a group, especially an oppressed group, I feel justified in ignoring my personal ethics.

Sincerely,

H. G. Smith, III.

Editor's Note:

"Hank" Smith, former Campus Government Veep, Chairman of last year's Junior-Senior Dance

Committee, and until recalled to the Marine Corps during fall term, President of Golden Chain.

To The Editor:

I assume that you feel that some teachers are incompetent, and that others through lack of effort or poor attitudes achieve even less than the incompetent ones. Let us assume you are correct. Further, let us assume that despite the non-specificity of your accusations, they are aimed only at a portion of the faculty.

Now what did you intend to accomplish? Did you want to improve the situation? Do you want the incompetents removed and the "disrespectful" brought to task? These are reasonable enough requests, but will this approach have any hope of success?

Who will judge the incompetents and eliminate them? Ultimately it will be the department heads and administrative officers. Certainly any department head is aware of some incompetence among his staff. He constantly seeks to eliminate it but he must replace by better if he does. Consider a department head who worked and worried for months last year trying to hire a competent staff addition or replacement for the salary he is able to offer. What will be his reaction to your article? He will feel that his efforts are unappreciated. He labors against hard odds and perhaps unsuccessfully. And now you write in a vein that implies he is too stupid to be aware of the problem, and too lazy to care anyway.

The Technician and all student publications have an opportunity and a duty to build the morale of the school to the highest possible level. Far more can be achieved by pointing out the many, many fine and unusual advantages at State College than by running any part of it down, however justly. Everyone, students, staff and administration, will make extra effort to make the good better, and the better best. When you start to clean house, you encourage others to help—not by pointing out the dirt that must be removed—but by pointing out what lies beneath the dirt and how fine the parts look that are clean. The attitude reflected in your letter is bad. It is common on this campus (Continued on Page 9)

Dean Hilton Another Photogenic Tarheel of the Week

For the second time this Fall, a State College head has been named "Tar Heel of the Week." Last week the honor went to Dean James H. Hilton of the School of Agriculture.

Hilton, a native of Catawba County, is a graduate of Iowa State College. He has been interested in agriculture since early youth. He started his college career at State where he worked his way through his freshman year. However, he transferred to Iowa State his sophomore year. He received his B.S.A. in Animal Husbandry in 1923.

He started his agricultural career as county agent in Greene County, Iowa. After three years, he accepted a position at Purdue University. He was associated with that school in the Animal Husbandry Department until 1945. In 1937 he received his M.S. from the University of Wisconsin; and two years later, he was made a professor of dairying in full charge of dairy production, research, and teaching at Purdue.

Returns to N. C. State

By this time Hilton had decided he would probably never return to North Carolina to live. But in 1945 he was offered the job as head of the Animal Husbandry Department at State for the second time, and he accepted. He received his doctorate from Purdue shortly after his return to State; and in 1948, he was promoted to dean of the School of Agriculture.

Dr. Hilton directed the Merger of the Extension Service, the Experiment Station, and the School of Agriculture into the School of Agriculture; the coordination of these three divisions was accomplished in 1950.

Hilton was married while he was living in Iowa. He and his wife, the former Lois Baker of Nevada, Iowa have three children.

The Dean is the author of numerous scientific articles and agricultural bulletins. He has been very instrumental in promoting short courses to help farmers and farm boys who can not take regular four year courses.

He belongs to many honorary societies and has received many honors in his field. Of great importance is the honor bestowed on him by the "Progressive Farmer" in 1948—that of "Man of the Year."

Having recently returned from California where he viewed large-scale farming, Hilton says that some day North Carolina will enjoy farming on just as large a scale. He added that he hoped it would

REVIEW

Sunblind

By BOB HORN

As an Oscar contender, "A Place in the Sun" is director, cast and script ahead of anything else Hollywood has produced this year. Ultra-sensitive Director George Stevens has added a slick, marbled finish to a story as common as terra cotta. From actors Montgomery Clift, Shelly Winters and Elizabeth Taylor he has coaxed the best performances of their respective careers. The Winters' performance is particularly commendable in face of the roles she has previously handled with less delicacy.

From the shadows of a sordid love affair with factory girl Winters, Montgomery Clift moves with ease into the play world brightened by the lyric loveliness of Elizabeth Taylor (Angela Vickers). The Taylor-Clift cinematic combo is reminiscent of the screens great lovers (Garbo-Gilbert) of yesterday. Gable and Harlow could hardly have done better.

The plot is carried along on a crest of emotion to end in a tidal wave of dramatic tension. A picture with a heart and pulse of its own. "Sun" is as powerful as its director is articulate, as convincing as its stars performances are engrossing.

The most notable feature of the Stevens impeccable version of Theodore Dreiser's "An American Tragedy" is Shelly Winter's poignant characterization of a poor, love-starved factory girl. Her not be as cold-blooded, however. He said in North Carolina farming is a way of life. He would like to see it remain that way.

Of Hilton, Extension Editor Frank Jeter says, "Everybody likes Jim Hilton, and wants to do what he wants to do."

This is undoubtedly the reason for the success of James H. Hilton. Watkins of Morgantown, N. C.

transition from a person of simple wants and aspirations to a desperate, pathetic woman carrying a fatherless child is most creditable. She is given a fair match by always natural Montgomery Clift as her erstwhile seducer. The telephone scene in which she threatens to crash a party at the Vickers home is especially moving.

Producer-director Stevens and company, have for a certainty, done themselves, Dreiser and Hollywood proud.

Thirteen chemical engineering students were recently initiated into membership in the College chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

The student chapter of the Institute is a professional organization of chemical engineering students. Its purpose is to promote student-faculty relations, and to give the student a broad view of the position of the chemical engineer in society.

N.C. State Meets Furman U. In Opener Tomorrow

Views and Previews

JOE BENNETT, Sports Editor

With Basketball moving into the picture tomorrow night, football, like the old soldier, "just fades away." And the quieter, the better. The defeat by Maryland was the worst ever suffered by a Feathers' team. This also was the first year that Coach Feathers had been beaten by the other three of the Big Four teams. Next season he plans to discard the Tennessee Single Wing for the Split-T. Oh well, better late than never.

To stay on football for just a minute, Ray Barkouskie was elected Captain of next year's team. Ray, who replaces Jim O'Rourke as team Captain, has been a starting blocking back for the past two years.

Coach Everett Case starts his sixth season at the Wolfpack helm tomorrow night, and all eyes will be focused on the Pack. State will probably be favored to take the conference title again this year, so let's make it six in a row Coach. Look magazine has picked State as eighth in the nation in their annual pre-season forecast.

Charlie Hadden, the freshman flash from Kentucky, who left State because he didn't get the idea of attending class too well, has shown up at Bradley University. Don't they have to attend classes at Bradley?

All-America Sam Ranzino, who was slated to start the season with the Rochester Royals, is now starring in another role. As a 2nd Lieutenant with the U. S. Army.

To close out the last column of the year, I would like to go on a little kick that is reminiscent of my good friend and predecessor in office, Bob Curran.

First, I would like to make my annual appeal to the Athletic Department about moving the State-Carolina basketball game from Woolen Gymnasium to the Coliseum. Why not give the student body of this school a break, and bring that game over here? For the past five years the State student body has had to make the trip to Chapel Hill to see the State-UNC football game. The reason given for this is that Kenan Stadium holds about twice as many people as does Riddick Stadium. William Neal Reynolds Coliseum holds about 12,500 people, and it will be a cold day in Hades when they get that many people in Woolen Bandbox.

Second, a word to our "cultured cuzzins" from the Hill. Why all the uproar about the "Gray Fox" and the losing season, when your basketball team has been doing the same thing for years and nobody has howled for Tom Scott's scalp. I suggest that you ask Santa Claus to bring you a better basketball team. Cometh Saturday, January 26, the Pack travels over to the Hill, and if you don't shape up, Uncle Everett's boys are going to lower the boom on you for the thirteenth consecutive time!

Last, but not least, to all of Pat Downey's faithful readers, I will extend his heartiest greetings for the coming holidays, and as for myself goes the same.

Southern Conference

RICHMOND, VA. (AP)—Sugar Bowl-bound Maryland is the first undefeated and untied Southern Conference football team since Clemson's Tigers breezed through a 10-game campaign in 1948.

The Terps, the nation's fourth-ranking club, ended their regular season Saturday by routing West Virginia, 54-7. It was their ninth win.

Despite their all-winning performance, the Terps have to be satisfied with only a share of the conference championship. Virginia Military Institute's Keydets, thrice-beaten in 10 appearances, matched the Terps' 5-0 record for family feudin'.

Strangely, each of the two teams could say thanks to the other for helping it gain a share of the crown. For Maryland thrashed Washington and Lee's Generals, last year's champions, early in the season, 54-14. If Maryland hadn't beaten W&L, the General would still be conference kingpins.

VMI, likewise, got in an early lick which kept William and Mary's Indians from taking over the title. The Keydets knocked off the Tribe, 20-7, in a contest which preceded a six-game W&M winning streak.

William and Mary and Washington and Lee wound up in a deadlock for third place with 5-1 marks. Clemson was fifth, with 3-1, and Duke sixth, with 4-2.

Scored 353 Points

Few would dispute, though, Maryland's claim to being the finest collection of stars in the 17-team league. The Terps tallied more points than any other squad—353. They threw up the best defense, holding their nine foes to 62 points.

Maryland scored three shutouts—whitewashing Louisiana State, Missouri and North Carolina State—and held four other opponents to one touchdown. Nineteen Maryland players chipped in on the scoring.

Virginia's Cavaliers might doubt Maryland's superiority. The Cavaliers, No. 1 independent team in the conference area, chalked up an 8-1 record, made 278 points to 104 earned by nine foes.

The Cavaliers reached their peak Saturday by drubbing William and Mary, conqueror of Duke, Wake Forest, North Carolina State, and Pennsylvania, by 46-0. Afterwards, Virginia Coach Art Guepe described his club as his greatest team. So fierce was the Cavalier line that W&M ended up with a minus 37 rushing figure.

Duke's Blue Devils came from behind in the third period to down their most bitter rival, North Carolina 19-7. The loss was the eighth for the Tar Heels, who have completed their worst season on the gridiron since they started football in 1888.

That Wadiak Guy!

South Carolina brushed off Wake Forest, 21-6, as Halfback Steve Wadiak picked up two touchdowns and ran his college rushing total to 2,878 yards. Seventh-rated Georgia Tech spanked Davidson, 34-7. Clemson, its eye on a 'Gator Bowl invitation, walloped Auburn, 34-0. The Citadel tripped East Carolina, 21-7.

Four loop teams ended their seasons Thanksgiving afternoon. Washington and Lee routed the University of Richmond, 39-7, and Virginia Military finally downed Virginia Tech, 20-7. Furman and State closed out theirs a week ago.

Only unfinished regular season business: Friday night's scrap at Alexandria, Va., between Richmond and George Washington.

Big Red Again Loop Favorites Paladins Loom As Dark Horse

By JOE BENNETT

Coach Everett Case's Wolfpack will open the Southern Conference basketball season tomorrow night at 8:15 in the Coliseum with Furman's Purple Paladins. It was just 367 days ago when this same Furman team journeyed to Raleigh to open the season and were mauled 102-41 by the torrid Pack.

Wolfpack Captain

GUARD LEE TERRELL
N. C. State

Gone are Sam Ranzino and Vic Bubas who scored 35 and 14 points respectively in last year's game and center Paul Horvath, but the Case-men are bolstered by the return of eight lettermen from last year's squad.

State will probably start the same team that defeated Villanova's Wildcats in the quarterfinals of the NCAA tournament last year. Bobby Speight, 6-7 forward, who last year scored 362 points, probably will pair with Bill Kukoy, 6-4 scoring star, who averaged 23 points per game in the NCAA affair. Bob Goss will likely get the center nod, with Captain Lee Terrell and Bernie Yurin at the guards.

Lettermen Bob Cook, Paul Brandenburg, and Eddie Morris will also see action as Coach Case attempts to find the best possible combination for the Dixie Classic, Dec. 27-28-29 at the Coliseum.

In addition to these veterans Case will have four good sophomores and a pair of freshmen who'll likely play leading roles during the campaign. The second year men include Forwards Kim Buchanan of Raleigh, Dick Tyler of Newburgh, N. Y., Jim Stevenson of Winston-Salem, and Center Mel Thompson of Richmond, Ind. Two freshmen who'll likely make the varsity squad are Center Danny Knapp, a 6-7 rebound artist from Staten Island, N. Y., and Guard Dave Gotkin of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Gotkin, a 6-1 set-shot artist, who last year was voted the most outstanding cager in the New York City metropolitan area, will be out of action until January 1 with a broken wrist suffered in an accident last month.

Furman, who ended up on the bottom of the conference last season, will be bolstered by last year's undefeated freshman team and two junior college transfer students, and are being rated by some observers as one of the up and coming basketball powers in the conference.

Coach Case sums up his prospects for the coming season like this: "We'll have a good team this year, but not a world-beater. We don't have much experience at guard and center, but the boys are all working hard. There's plenty of competition on the squad and positions are wide open to the men who turn in the best performances."

Prongay, Millsaps and Jones were outstanding for the SPE's.

Volleyball

The Volleyball season came to a close with the games played this week. Sigma Chi, Sigma Phi Epsilon, and Sigma Nu won Sections 1, 2, and 3 respectively, but Alpha Gamma Rho and Tau Kappa Epsilon tied for the lead in Section 4. AGR beat PKP in two straight sets by scores of 15-3 and 15-6, to climb into a tie with Tau Kappa Epsilon who had beaten Sigma Phi by scores of 15-0 and 15-6. In the playoff game between AGR and TKE, TKE came out victorious when they won in two sets, 15-7 and 15-9. This puts Tau Kappa Epsilon in the championships which are due to start in a few days.

In another game played recently, SPE took the Section 2 flag by beating Phi Kappa Tau 15-7 and 15-9. Hay, Jones, and James have been outstanding all season long for Sigma Phi Epsilon. Lambda Chi won over SAE by forfeit as did Sigma Nu over SAM.

FOOTBALL

With final exams just one week away, the football season will become part of history at the close of this week. After the regular schedule was completed, titles in Sections 2, 3, and 4 had been clinched by Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Phi Epsilon, and Tau Kappa Epsilon respectively. With both Sigma Chi and Pi Kappa Phi tied at the end of the season, a playoff game was necessary to determine the winner in Section 1. In the playoff game, Sigma Chi won the title. Behind the superb playing of Loflin and Ammons, the Chi's won the game 20-0. Loflin intercepted a pass and ran 20 yards for the first score, Ammons hit Qualls with a 30 yard TD pass to account for the second, and Loflin passed to F. Winecoff for the third score.

With the four top teams battling it out for the top football honor on campus, Sigma Chi advanced to the finals by defeating previously unbeaten PIKA by six first downs to two. The Sigma Chi line was invincible, and the victory was a good deal credited to Fowler, Loflin, F. Winecoff, and Capel who were outstanding.

Tau Kappa Epsilon also advanced to the finals when they defeated Sigma Phi Epsilon by the close score of 7-0. Lumley made the only TD when he ran the ball over from the five yard line. Charlie Moore and Pettinelli were also outstanding for the TKE's. The SPE team made a gallant goal line stand when the TKE's had the ball on the one foot line but were unable to score.

Syracuse Wins Distance Title

By CHARLIE MOORE

State College's cross country team ended its season Monday by finishing 15th in the N.C.A.A. meet held at East Lansing, Michigan.

Clyde Garrison of N. C. State finished 30th in team competition. The other four State runners competing in the meet were Joe Shockley 67, Eddie Beall 90, "Buz" Sawyer 92, and John Smith 96.

Herb Semper of Kansas University finished first over a snow-swept, slippery course and won his second consecutive N.C.A.A. cross country championship. Semper's time over the Michigan State College course was 20:09.5.

Syracuse won the team title with 80 points. They had men in 3rd, 6th, 12th, 27th, and 32nd places.

Semper's first place enabled his Kansas team to take second place in the meet with 118 points.

The first ten in team competition were: 1—Syracuse, 80; 2—Kansas, 118; 3—Wisconsin, 120; 4—Penn State, 122; 5—Michigan State, 150; 6—Tennessee, 195; 7—Indiana, 204; 8—Drake, 207; 9—Miami (O.), 219; 10—Pittsburgh, 222.

PRESSURE FOOTBALL

Michigan State Challenged Mighty Wolverines For Stars

(Another of a series that takes you on a campus-by-campus tour for the inside story of pressure football and how it gets that way.)

By HARRY GRAYSON

EAST LANSING, Mich.—Michigan State College built Jenison Gymnasium and Fieldhouse before World War II at a cost of $1,100,000.

The capacity of Macklin Field Stadium was increased to 50,089 for the Notre Dame series at a cost of $1,500,000.

The old fieldhouse was transformed into an ice arena at a cost of $750,000.

In front of each of these structures signs assure the public that they were constructed without expense to them. "Financed on borrowed funds to be repaid in earnings from the building," they read.

MICHIGAN State, the long-time cow college, has added 17 major buildings to the campus in an extensive post-war building program. Athletics are integrated with other institutional activities.

So, you see, the teams, especially the football varsity, just have to be good. They have to get the more important money.

Charley Bachman went along complacently at East Lansing for 13 years. As one athletic department official puts it, Coach Bachman probably recruited six or seven good boys, a nucleus, and did the best he could.

But that isn't enough today, when high-pressure football demands platoons and a depth of at least three teams.

SO CLARENCE L. Munn, Minnesota All-America of 1930-31, was brought on from Syracuse to do a big-league job.

Munn has built so well that Michigan State, which in the past was fortunate to land one outstanding Michigan high school boy out of four, now competes for them on an equal footing with the mighty Wolverines.

THE WESTERN Conference frowned on Michigan State's Jenison Scholarships as unethical subsidization, but Michigan had the Elmer Gedeon Scholarships and other free rides based on marks.

Michigan State had to do something about that in order to remain in business, so the Howard C. Rather Scholarships were established.

They are awarded from a fund of $15,000 a year allocated from athletic receipts.

Nine states are represented on both the Spartan varsity and frosh.

MICHIGAN corralled Duncan McDonald, the extraordinary passer of Flint Northern's championship side of last autumn, and three of his teammates—John Veselenak, a 6-foot-2, 190-pound end, tackle Joe Shomsky and guard Jim Wagner.

Michigan State did not give up without a struggle, however, and from the same outfit grabbed two of the finest halfbacks in the state, the Negro lads, Ellis Duckett and LeRoy Bolden.

MICHIGAN STATE bagged 29 of the superior Michigan boys this fall, Michigan 24, which gives you a good idea of how fierce is the bidding.

Long Football Season Ends

By BOB PHELPS

There is a time-worn saying that goes "it's all over but the shouting." This could very well apply to the late (but not great) football season, except it does not leave State College fans with much to shout about.

A quick run-down of the won-lost columns shows that the Wolfpack ended the season with the not-too-enviuous record of three wins and seven losses. Of this total, only one of the defeats came at the hands of a really power packed team. The other six teams that defeated State were teams that more or less ran hot and cold all season. The three wins were over teams that were having pretty rough seasons.

Started Strong

The Wolfpack started the season off with a bang with their 34-0 victory over Catawba. Blocking, tackling, running, passing, kicking, and all other phases of the game looked good to the State fans and they turned to each other and said that maybe this was the year. Then came the annual clash with Carolina. The Wolfpack was given the best chance to come off with a victory than they had had in years. The first half they played well. The Tar Heels scored early in the second half but the State team came roaring back and carried to the Carolina goal line. Here they faltered and could not push it over.

Carolina went on to score a 21-0 victory.

Cooled Off

In the next three games the offense was not able to produce a score either by passing or running. The only touchdown during this period came as a result of Webster running back a Wake Forest punt 85 yards. It began to look as if State was strictly a defensive team and that all that was needed to win was for the offensive team to produce a score or two.

In the next two games the offensive team did produce. They got three against Duke, but Duke got four. Then they got four against William and Mary, but William and Mary got five. That left the poor football fan with the thought that maybe the offense and defense could get together for one game and get a win.

Winless V.P.I. was the Wolfpack's second victim in the next game, but then came the 26-6 loss at the hands of a virtually unknown Louisville team. No one was particularly surprised when Davidson was defeated 31-0.

Terps Tough

The last game of the season was with mighty Maryland. Remembering what had happened last year, there were State fans that thought the Wolfpack could win and there were those that thought that the game would be a close one even if State lost. It turned out that the Terrapins were as good or better than their press clippings said.

Throughout the season, individual performances by State players were about the only thing that a State fan could get very enthused about. Big Elmer Costa, Alex Webster, Walt Schacht, Jimmy Smith, Jim O'Rourke, Bernie Allman, Steve Kosilla, and others too numerous to mention turned in excellent performances during the year. Injuries cropped up all season long, and several men had to become "60-minute men" on occasions.

One thing to Coach Beattie Feathers' credit is, even though the Wolfpack took it on the chin several Saturdays, he did not offer pointless excuses and bring out the crying towel as some other coaches are prone to do when they take a beating. He did not even ac-

In Englewood, the local telephone exchange looks pretty much like the telephone building in any other town.

And Englewood's telephones seem just the same as the twenty-seven million other dial telephones in the country.

But there's a difference...

This nimble-minded nutcracker almost tumbled for those tricky cigarette mildness tests. But he worked himself out of a tight spot when he suddenly realized that cigarette mildness just can't be judged by a mere puff or one single sniff. It's the sensible test... the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke—on a pack-after-pack, day-after-day basis. No snap judgments. Once you've enjoyed Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why...

Becton No. 1 and Becton No. 2
Win in Finals

Becton No. 1 and 2 won the opening games in the football playoffs in the dormitory finals. Vetville played Becton No. 1 and lost 7-0 on an intercepted pass by Outland who ran for the touchdown. Becton No. 2, who edged Berry last week to go into the playoffs, defeated Turlington No. 2, 6-0. Arndt passed to Everhart for the score, and they held on to that margin for the victory.

These losses were the first for Vetville and Turlington who entered the playoffs with identical records of six wins and no defeats, as did Becton No. 1. Becton No. 1 will now meet Becton No. 2 and Vetville will play Turlington in the second match. Becton No. 1 looks like it has the inside track for the championship.

Vetville Leads in Volleyball Playoffs

The strong volleyball team from Vetville took a commanding lead in the playoffs by taking two sets of games. In the first set, Vetville defeated West Haven and Berry downed the boys from Alexander. In the second match, Vetville easily beat Berry, and West Haven won over Alexander to remain in the playoffs. The next match will be between Berry and West Haven with the winner to meet Vetville. Vetville looks like a sure cinch to win out for the championship.

Boxing Finals

In the bloody battle of the gloves, the following men emerged as victors in a well matched bout for everyone:

125 lb. Emerson of Owen decisioned Zolfarghari of Berry.
135 lb. Jenkins of Syme by forfeit.
145 lb. Tomlin, Owen No. 2 gained a T.K.O. over Morton of Berry.
155 lb. Eason, Berry, outfought Strassler of Becton No. 1.
165 lb. Thomas, Tucker No. 2 over Alley, Becton No. 1.
175 lb. Crawford of Becton No. 1 by forfeit.

FORWARD PAUL BRANDENBERG
N. C. State

Paul Brandenburg, junior forward from Staten Island, N. Y., is one of eight returning lettermen who is fighting for a starting slot this season. Brandenburg will be remembered for scoring three decisive baskets in the Duke game last year. Coming into the game a few minutes before the end, he scored the basket that tied the game and sent it into overtime. Then in the overtime he scored another to once more tie up the game. His third basket put the Pack in the lead.

The Harvard Crimson, student newspaper, has reported that moonshiners are operating in the university dormitories and printed photographs to "prove it."

The paper said, however, that there have been no reported injuries from drinking the illegal liquor.

New York Will Buy If You Will Sell

Albany, November 20—New York State is shopping for several hundred engineers to assist in its huge program of Thruway and highway construction.

Students who are due to receive degrees in Engineering in June, 1952, are urged to take an examination on January 12 that may open the door to an attractive career in highway construction in the Empire State. Applications for entrance to the examination for Professional and Technical Assistant must be received by the New York State Civil Service Commission not later than December 10. The Civil Service Commission is planning to conduct the examinations for this entering grade for Engineers in the colleges from which students will graduate in June. Applicants must be citizens of the United States.

Following the processing of the examination papers, successful candidates may be notified as early as April, 1952. Appointments may be made, following June graduation, in any of the numerous Main Office units of the New York State Department of Public Works in Albany, which specialize in specific phases of highway planning, design, construction, and maintenance, or in any of the ten District Offices of the Department, which are located at Albany, Utica, Syracuse, Rochester, Buffalo, Hornell, Watertown, Poughkeepsie, Binghamton, and Babylon, Long Island.

The 535-mile New York State Thruway is now under construction. It is planned to complete this "greatest highway in the world" within the next three or four years, provided the necessary materials are made available. Several hundred young engineers are presently needed to augment existing staffs which are busily engaged in surveys, planning, and design of the several hundred miles of Thruway and its necessary bridge structures. Many of these men will also be required for field supervision of construction work as it progresses across the State.

Half At Cornell Cheat, Poll Shows

Nearly half of 322 Cornell students who responded to a student council questionnaire admitted cribbing in classes or examinations.

The questionnaire was sent to 500 students at random recently. Of the 322 students who returned the questionnaire, about 10 per cent admitted cheating "frequently or occasionally," the council said. An additional 37 per cent admitted cheating "once or twice."

Major Will Reform Red Coat Band

The Little Symphony Orchestra and Men's Glee Club, under the direction of Christian Kutschinski, opened their seasons presentations, last Tuesday, with great success. Although this was the first performance of the year for either group, each presented their half of the program with a touch of master musicians.

The orchestra opened the evenings entertainment with "Russlan and Lumilla," an overture by Glinka. They followed this with the third movement of "Symphony in G Minor" by Mozart. The Glee Club continued the later half of the program with a variety of selections. These selections began with religious numbers by Bach and Handel, and ended in a flourish of ballads and folk songs. The orchestra and glee club ended the program by joining talents to render the now immortal "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Mr. Kutschinski has announced that at the beginning of the winter term the Red Coat Band will be reorganized to a concert band. He extends a courteous invitation to anyone with musical ability to attend the rehearsals at the beginning of the new year. The rehearsals will be held on Mondays from 4:15 to 5:45, and Thursdays from 7:00 to 8:30, the first rehearsal being held on January 7th. The Glee Club will also begin practice on January 7th, while the Orchestra will hit it off on January 8th. Time for Glee Club and Orchestra rehearsals has been set at 7:00.

Frosh Hear J. M. Smith

Describing improvements in the campus at Tuesday's Freshmen assembly, College Engineer J. McCree Smith stated that much of the planned work would be done by May.

Smith told the assembled freshmen that outstretched on 600 acres of land, at the present time, is $7,000,000 worth of equipment.

He described the lack of appreciation of the college campus by telling of the mess made by chewing gum on the front steps of cafeteria and the lack of grass growth because students refuse to use the walks provided for them.

Mr. Smith said that much of the planned improvements will be done by May. There will be a street running adjacent to Hillsboro so college traffic will not be obstructed with the hazardous conditions of Hillsboro. There will be a sidewalk running from the textile building to the back of Pullen Hall with a passageway through the 1911 Building.

Engineer-Tourists Visit School of Engineering

Two British civil engineers, fresh from three years spent in Nyasaland, Africa, have visited the School of Engineering while touring the entire country. They are here to study American practices in building low cost roads, with a view of adapting such practices to the requirements of African roadbuilding.

The men are Henry Grace and John Henry from Scott and Wilson, a consulting engineer's firm in London. They have been working in Nyasaland, a British protectorate in Africa, assisting the government there in general development work, such as construction of roads, water supplies, and airports.

During the past two months they have travelled 10,000 miles across the United States and back again, all in a car with a right-hand drive. They have visited State Highway Departments, Division of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, and some universities.

At the School of Engineering they were particularly interested in the Civil Engineering facilities, and were well impressed with all the laboratories and equipment. Mr. Grace expressed the opinion that these facilities compared most favorably with the best laboratories they had seen in universities and government stations across the country.

Europeans Tour School

Several of free Europe's foremost textile manufacturers toured the School of Textiles at North Carolina State College Tuesday.

The group is traveling in this country under the auspices of the National Association of Manufacturers and the Economic Cooperation Administration.
