CG Adopts White Paper, Causes Of Pre-Holiday Student Unrest Stated

Failure of Authorities to Keep Students Informed Cited

By T. E. RICKS

A "White Paper" arising out of the student unrest concerning their relationship with campus affairs was adopted by the Campus Government Tuesday.

The tabulated complaint sheet has been delivered to the Chancellor; it is expected to receive special attention in the next Faculty Council meeting.

The "white paper" was drawn up around what seem to be the two principal complaints of the students—namely: (1) failure of the College authorities to keep the students informed on matters affecting them, (2) failure of the college authorities to consider the student when matters of policy are being considered.

Focal Points

Following are the focal points of dissatisfaction among the student body and the recommendations set forth in the "white paper" as to what the students would like to see done about them.

The first point listed is physical improvements on the campus. The paper suggests giving priority to the physical improvement of those facilities most used by students, even if so doing means some delay of improvements in other areas.

Included in this category is the renovation of the older dormitories to make them livable; improvement of walks and streets on the campus and adequate lighting of these; improvement and extension of student parking; provision of student lounges and recreation rooms; improvement of recreational athletic facilities for all students; and backing of the College Union program in every way, getting the building up as soon as possible.

The second focal point is to improve communications and to launch a program of continuing orientation and information. This might include appointment of a person to be in constant liaison between the students and administration; adequate bulletin boards throughout the campus; establishment of competent assistance, advice, and guidance for all publications and the radio station; and the establishment of regular meeting times when students and administration can get together and discuss problems as they arise.

Another item is the suggestion that there be an increase of student responsibility in student affairs.

The fourth item points out a need for improvement in student-faculty relations. This includes encouragement of faculty members to

Union Cinema Sunday

The College Union Film Committee will present their first movie of the winter quarter this Sunday at 2:30 in the Textile Auditorium. The movie to be shown is "A Double Life," starring Ronald Colman and Shelly Winters. Her performance in this picture first brought Shelly to the attention of the public.

Admission for students and their dates is free with presentation of the students registration card. A college union membership card will permit the faculty and staff members like privileges.

Here We Are

This edition of The Technician is the first to be issued from its new offices in 1911 Building. Editorial, news and business offices are now located in the south end of the building in rooms 137-139.

Editor Paul Foght stated today that "these are the finest offices provided for any publication or student activity on the campus."

The paper was previously located in two rooms in the basement of Tompkins Hall. These offices had been in use since 1939. Prior to that the paper was issued from offices in Price Hall, now the Publications Building.

The college print shop, located in a new building on the west campus, prints the paper.

Poor Council Attendance Causes Two Resignations

Attendance at the forthcoming mass meeting of the student body and attendance at the regular meetings of Campus Government drew the attention of the Council at Tuesday's meeting.

CG President Pruden expressed his gratitude to the students who planned the mass meeting. He stated that neither he nor any of the council members could claim much responsibility for organizing the assembly. Pruden told the Council that another meeting is to be held in Pullen Hall January 17 at 8:30 in the evening.

Failure to attend Council meetings brought invitations to resign to two legislators. Council rules state that members must attend at least three-fourths of the meetings in order to be retained as members in good standing.

The council also discussed plans for a Winter Greater University Day to be held at State College, Saturday, February 23. Principal features of the day's observance will be a tea dance and the State-Carolina basketball game to be played in the Coliseum.

Previously the Greater University Student Council approved the appointment of a six-member committee to revise its constitution. The committee is to be composed of two members from each of the three schools comprising the Consolidated University. As yet, the vacancies on the Greater University Student Council have not been filled from State College.

Decade of World Peace Seen By Correspondent

A former chief of several foreign news bureaus and a foreign correspondent for TIME Inc. stated at a lecture last Wednesday night that there is little chance of the United States entering into an armed conflict with the Soviet Union for more than a decade.

Mr. John Scott, speaking on "The Press and the Cold War," before a group assembled in the School of Textiles Auditorium, noted a definite trend in Soviet industry away from the equality of proletarianism and toward a distinguishing of social classes by a differentiation in living standards through wages.

Leaving college in the depression ridden days of 1931, Scott took a job in Siberia in an automobile plant being built for the Soviets by

State Grad Decorated By President of Cuba

Dr. A. E. A. Hudson of Goldsboro, a former graduate student at State College, has been decorated by the President of the Republic of Cuba with the Carlos J. Finlay National Order of Merit in the grade of commander.

Friends of Dr. Hudson learned here yesterday that the Goldsboro man was awarded the honor by Cuban President Carlos Prio Socarras at a meeting of the Cuban Academy of Sciences in Havana on December 3.

Dr. Hudson, who became the second recipient of a Ph.D. degree from State College's Animal Industry Department last June, was honored for his extensive research on the accomplishments of the late Dr. Carlos J. Finlay, the Cuban whose work on yellow fever is said to pre-date that of the Reed Commission.

Dr. Hudson was also cited for the research investigations which he has conducted on blood and its characteristics at various ages. He was awarded his doctorate by State College after he completed academic work and a dissertation on "Selected Blood Studies in Swine."

Dr. Hudson, who holds degrees in medicine from London and Canadian universities, earned his N.S. (Continued on Page 2)

Truce Reached In WVWP Staff Rift

The Student Station, WVWP, put off the air by a pre-holiday staff dispute, began a full broadcast schedule Monday with only one of its two transmitters in operation. The staff and management agreed to return to the station pending the investigations of a committee appointed by the Chancellor.

The terms of the "truce" agreement under which the station is operating provide that the staff shall work through business manager, Adriaan Troelman. Joel Heim, manager of the station, is "not to present himself to the staff."

Troelman remarked that he is "running the station but Heim is still the station manager. I am just in the middle."

Well Pleased

Paul Miller, staff member and former station manager, stated that the temporary arrangement was satisfactory. He said that he was "well pleased with the way it worked out."

The three-man investigation board scheduled its first meeting yesterday and agreed to complete its report by March 26.

The group will center its attention on a statement of charges prepared by both factions. This statement requests an investigation into the respective powers and rights of the Board of Student Publications and the Student Station.

An investigation into the circumstances leading to the staff request for the resignation of station manager Heim is also requested.

The three members of the board are J. J. Stewart, dormitory director; Dick Pitts, Campus Government treasurer; and R. N. Anderson, director of student personnel.

Troelman reported that the station will operate only on its 560 kilocycle frequency until the second unit, which serves the upper campus on the 580 kilocycle frequency, is repaired. The power supply for this transmitter has burned out and the station cannot obtain replacement part.

alma mater

With this column, The Technician begins a new series of front page editorials. As is indicated by the title Alma Mater, it is hoped that the topics discussed herein weekly will be only those of the closest association with college life.

Just as the alma mater of a college is perhaps the purest essence of college spirit, so too The Technician hopes that this column will be a sounding board for any and all issues of greatest and most urgent concern to all students.

This will neither be used as a political whip or a weapon to brandish over the heads of an individual group. It will be a method through which The Technician hopes to gain an intimate contact with its readers without the formality of an editorial page. We urge you to watch it weekly.

The March of Dimes has begun its nationwide drive to raise funds for 1952. Too many of us are aware of polio and the damage which it can wreak on strong and upright bodies.

Since its inception in 1938, the March of Dimes organization has spent more than fourteen million dollars, but there is still no cure. Not only is polio democratic in its selection of victims, it is also most stubborn in permitting anything resembling a cure to be enacted. In one locale, 79 per cent of those treated for polio had had the disease at a previous time.

Many of our families will remain untouched, but we must not forget those which are not. Our dimes and quarters, as minute as they seem as individual contributions, are part of a nationwide drive and as such must total up to funds which before too long will provide a cure for those already afflicted and a preventative for the remaining.

During the next week you will be contacted by a student representative for the March of Dimes Fund. Please give, and when you do, try not to forget that your future as well as the next man's is at stake.

Work Starts on Union

Construction may begin very soon on the new State College Union building. The Virginia Steel Company has promised delivery of structural and reinforcing steel by Monday, January 14. General superintendent Holliday is excavating the site now and construction will go forward as rapidly as possible.

Mr. Raymond Bryan, of the T. A. Loving Construction Company, in charge of the project, thinks the building can be completed without interruption. However, due to the great demand for and shortage of building materials and to the vagaries of the "National Production Authority," the date of completion is not certain.

The building will house the staff of the college union and will be run by and for the student body, if present plans are followed. The college union will stage dances, present speakers, show movies, furnish rooms for study and reading and arrange many other activities for the student body.

Junior Class Meeting

There will be a meeting of the Junior Class (Class of 1953) Thursday, January 17 at 12:00 o'clock in Pullen Hall. The purpose of this meeting is to hear the report of the Ring Committee and authorize a contract for the ring for the class of 1953. The majority vote of those present will determine to what company the contract shall be awarded.

Rumors

The final suggestion is the cleaning up of areas about which ignorance and rumors cause dissatisfaction. Highlights under this heading are Student Supply Stores, Athletics, Coliseum, and Cafeteria.

School Pride

In putting forth these complaints and recommendations, the responsible persons pointed out that while State College is undoubtedly doing an outstanding job in providing technical training and in carrying on important technical research and development, it has somewhat fallen down in the equally important task of taking boys who come here, making them into more responsible members of the College community, and sending them out with pride in and respect for State College.

They closed their "White Paper" with this—"If the College can meet these requests (and it can do so with little expense and no drastic change in college policy in a very short time), it is the feeling of the students that State College would be the institution in the personal sense that it has achieved in the technical sense. The College would gain thousands of boosters and lose thousands of disgruntled detractors."

Two weeks later, Germany attacked the U.S.S.R. From 1940 to the present time, Scott has been affiliated with Time, Inc. in several capacities.

Wednesday's lecture was delivered under the auspices of the College Union Forum committee. The Forum committee is headed by Joe Weaver who extends to all a cordial invitation to attend its meetings.

IDC Sets February For Dorm Elections

The Inter-Dormitory Council met last week and decided that the dormitory elections would be held during February 4 and February 23. The men in each dormitory will elect from their own dormitory a president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer, and as many floor representatives as desired for their dormitory.

These elections are important to every dormitory resident because it is the only time they have to express their opinions as to the dormitory officers. The elected president and vice-president are automatically members of the Inter-Dormitory Council and are eligible for office in that group. The new officers will decide all issues concerning their dormitory, vote on all campus-wide dormitory policies and are leaders for the lower classmen. Another important job they have is to recommend students to be appointed to the paying staff of the dormitory, such as the athletic director, building manager, and freshman counselors.

The present president, vice president, and other officers will act as a nominating committee to nominate two candidates for all offices. In addition to these candidates, any student may turn his name into the nominating committee and his name will be entered on the ballot. All candidates must plan to be living in the dormitory the rest of this school year and the fall and winter terms of next year.

If anyone thinks he knows someone who would be interested, he should turn in his name.

CONFERENCE IN THE CLOUDS

Among the undergraduates on any college campus, you'll find the talk reaching up to the clouds. And once in a while—in a classroom, around a study table, or even in a bull session—a really big idea is born.

Big ideas come, too, from the men and women in laboratories, business offices, shops. But often these professionals are exploring a path first glimpsed in college.

How do we know? Because of the many college people who have come into the Bell System, where big ideas and a lot of dreams have taken their place in progress. The human voice, carried along a wire, first across a town, then a state, a nation, and now the world. Music and pictures and things happening delivered into cities and hamlets all across the land by radio and television networks.

We're always looking for the men and women who get big ideas—whether they're about people, or machines, or ways of doing things. It's the only way the Bell System can keep on giving this country the best telephone service in the world.

General Hershey Rules Out Enlistment Deals For Students

Major General Lewis B. Hershey, Director of Selective Service, has announced that Selective Service will not make any special provisions to give students 30 days after the end of their academic year to enlist in the service of their choice. General Hershey explained that such arrangements are not necessary this year as the 1951 amendments to the Selective Service law provide that students are henceforth to be deferred instead of having their induction postponed. They will, therefore, have ample opportunity after the completion of their academic year to enlist in the service of their choice.

The Selective Service Act of 1948 provided that any student who, while satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course, was ordered for induction would upon presenting the facts to his local board have his induction postponed until the end of his academic year. At the end of the year, the student became liable for immediate induction. The 1951 amendments to the Act changed this, General Hershey pointed out, by providing that any student pursuing a full-time course who was ordered for induction would, if he had never before been deferred as a student, be deferred in Class I-S until the end of his academic year, but he could receive only one such deferment.

A student who is entitled to a statutory I-S deferment must be ordered for induction, General Hershey pointed out, before he can be deferred by his local board. The law says that he shall be deferred "upon presenting the facts" that he is satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course at the time the order for induction is issued.

A student who is ordered for induction should not be thrown into a panic, General Hershey explained, all that is necessary is for him to request the Dean or Registrar to immediately give his local board official notice that he is a full-time student doing satisfactory work and that such work actually commenced prior to the date the order for induction was mailed. Enrollment, acceptance and registration do not count, actual attendance at classes is the prerequisite.

The Selective Service law places upon each registrant the obligation of keeping the local board advised of his current status. It would therefore be a wise move, General Hershey suggested, for each student to have his school send official notice to the local board as soon as the student has been notified that he has passed his preinduction physical examination. If the local board has been put on notice that the student is pursuing a full-time course, General Hershey advised, there will be little danger of a last minute mix-up which might result in the induction of a student legally entitled to a statutory I-S deferment.

The new Selective Service law provided for the Class I-S statutory deferment and gave the President authority to prescribe regulations governing the deferment of students in such numbers as he deemed necessary to the maintenance of the national health, safety or interest. The President subsequently prescribed a Class II-S student deferment program. Students may be placed in this classification, General Hershey explained, at the discretion of their local boards. To assist the boards in determining which students should be given II-S deferments, a method was set up whereby students who are in the prescribed upper portion of the male members of their class or who made a score of 70 or better on the Selective Service College Qualification Test may be considered by their local board for deferment. The law provides, however, that local boards are not required to defer men who meet one or both of the criteria. This is still discretionary on the part of the board. General policy is that students meeting either or both criteria will be deferred.

Students who meet one or both of the criteria for II-S deferment have a right of appeal if their local board does not defer them, General Hershey reminded students. The law provides that a student may appeal to the State Appeal Board within 10 days from the date the local board mails the notice that they have placed him in Class I-A. There is no particular form for taking an appeal, General Hershey explained, a letter to the local board setting forth the student's name and Selective Service number being all that is necessary.

If the State Appeal Board sustains the local board but it is a split decision, General Hershey pointed out, the student then has a right to appeal to the National Selective Service Appeal Board. An appeal to the National Board is taken in the same manner as an appeal to the State Board, General Hershey explained. All that is necessary is another letter to the local board.

Many students have been confused, General Hershey observed, in differentiating between the I-S and II-S deferments. The II-S deferment is considered on the basis of class standing or qualification test and is discretionary on the part of the local board, General Hershey explained. It may be granted by the local board each successive year, thus enabling students who meet the criteria to complete their education. The I-S deferment on the other hand is a "one-shot" proposition designed only to allow those students who do not have eligibility for consideration for II-S deferments, and who have never before received a student deferment or postponement to complete their current academic year.

Mr. President: Gordon Gray

Gordon Gray was named "North Carolinian of the Year" when he returned from Washington to his office as President of the Consolidated University. If the State College student body had such an award it too, could well go to Mr. Gray.

For the first time since Consolidation, State College has found that the head of the unified institution is actively interested in its students, too.

By strengthening the Greater University Student Council Mr. Gray's interest will be felt in our Campus Government as a new, vigorous and friendly influence. The President's interest in all three of the campuses under his administration is also manifested in his desire to establish an office on each campus.

Deliverance

Emancipation is a word with many connotations, but to The Technician it represents a physical elevation from the depths of the basement of Tompkins Hall to our new offices on the ground floor in 1911 Building.

The gratitude of this newspaper can never be adequately expressed to the man who at last has delivered us into the life-giving rays of the sun. Mr. J. J. Stewart's assistance has been without end. The Technician also wishes to thank all persons from the Chancellor and the Building and Grounds office, to the Extension Department for extending their facilities so graciously.

Squinting, but with steady vision, The Technician faces the sunny future.

DEM

Now that Mr. Gray is back fulltime, The Technician wishes to recommend two subjects for his thorough study.

The first of these is the Campus Government "White Paper" setting forth the apparent causes for the pre-holiday campus unrest. The evidence of dissatisfaction attracted attention throughout the state; surely the resolution of the problem is worthy of the attention of the University.

The second subject is State's athletic policy and the Athletic Council. The firing of Beattie Feathers by the Athletic Council violates the spirit of the Southern Conference athletic meetings led by Mr. Gray himself. This contradictory situation must be corrected.

There's lots to be done here, Mr. President. It should be an interesting but profitable new year.

Mass Meeting No. 2

Memories are notoriously lacking in the species of humans known as students. Their retentiveness fails them when it comes to attending discussions and meetings in which their own welfare is the chief concern.

Next Thursday night, the second meeting of the ENTIRE student body will be held. There will not be an offering of door prizes, nor will attendance be checked. But it is hoped there will be some good plain answers to many of the questions on the lips and minds of the student body.

If you want the answer to a question, be there to ask it, or be there to back up the man that asks it. The Technician respectfully reminds the students that this is the meeting that THEY asked for.

All correspondence to The Technician should be limited to three hundred words. The Technician retains the right to edit any correspondence when requirements of space or good taste necessitate. Anonymous letters cannot be accepted, but The Technician will withhold the name of any correspondent upon request.

This week this column is devoted to reprinting excerpts from editorials sent to THE TECHNICIAN following the pre-holiday unrest.

A Crime

This editorial from the High Point Enterprise was contributed by Robert R. Fountain, a State graduate.

We long have thought that the students at State College, in Raleigh, had a kick coming concerning the operation of the William Neal Reynolds Coliseum. Because of the manner in which the great structure was financed, it is operated as a business for profit rather than as a college facility. Yet it is on and is a part of the college campus.

But as for the disgraceful riots which have been going on outside the Coliseum for the last few nights—as for the wanton destruction of the property of citizens who have not a thing to do with the policies—we have only this to say.

If State College does not do its utmost to learn the identity of the mob leaders, and the identity of those who damaged the parked automobiles of the Coliseum audience and then not only expell but also have arrested those guilty—then State College will fail in its duty.

A Joke

A editor of the Daily Tar Heel at Chapel Hill, Roy Parker now writes a column for the Hertford County Herald.

Parents sending boys through State College shouldn't be too worried about the disgrace of their folks because of the hubbub over the use of the Coliseum. A letter written by some of the boys to the

News & Observer put forth what was probably the real facts. They mentioned "letting off a little exam-time steam."

NCS students have it about as rough as any we know of with about the hardest curriculum to study, and with trains roaring through the middle of their campus and a tremendous commercially-used indoor house-of-fun right in the center of the dormitory area. Just another example of how it's beginning to get extremely hard to see the real educating forest of colleges and universities because of the trees of commercialism and other frills and activities on the part of students, but more so on the part of administrations, faculty, and alumni.

A Political Mess

The Asheville Citizen took a rather dim view of the politics in the Coliseum.

The sympathies of a good many North Carolinians, we suspect, are with a group of State College students who demonstrated near Reynolds Coliseum on the Raleigh campus the other night even though the demonstration was ill-mannered.

The Citizen has never really begrudged State College its Coliseum, though this building and others on college campuses took unashamed precedence over the public schools in the apportionment of surplus State money. A building of such size and adaptability surely is an asset to any college.

Yet what we have feared privately has come to pass in a literal blaze of publicity. The Coliseum was built with public funds of the taxpayers of all of North Carolina plus a generous gift of the late William Neal Reynolds, ostensibly as a campus building. To the resentment of a good many students and perhaps to their detriment, it has become a kind of town hall for the non-collegiate population of the Raleigh area.

With The College Press

Crusading Unsafe

The magazine New Republic devoted the greater part of its October 29 issue to the situation on the nation's campuses. We recommend this issue as informative reading for college editors.

Here's what the magazine had to say about the college press:

"Every college editor worth his salt pursues at least one 'crusade' a year. Lack of student interest in the campus chest, the United Nations or the honor system are the more usual topics of editorial broadsides.

"But sometimes an editor feels called upon to aim his shots at more specific offenders—perhaps the college administration or a state political machine that may control it. What happens then?

"A case in point occurred last spring at the University of Washington, where the Daily editor felt strongly about a new set of subversive-control bills then before the state legislature. His editorials left no doubt of his position. They scorned the 'anxious little men' who were 'insisting that we give up our freedom to save our freedom.'

"The Daily also printed several opposition articles, and the faculty adviser made no criticism. But one day the editor found himself, without previous notice, called before a faculty-dominated committee and dismissed.

"To back up the dismissal, a faculty member explains that 'the situation was so bad that the School of Journalism could not take responsibility for the Daily if the editor who harped too long on a single issue' remained.

"A student committee examined the charges. It found that during his campaign the editor devoted less than two per cent of the Daily's space to coverage of the subversive bills.

"The committee concluded that: 'If we are to credit the charges dealt with here, future editors must be warned . . . that they should not devote as much as 1.65 per cent of their space to (discussion of any issue).'"

Tragedy Strikes Two State Grads

Christmas Eve and New Year's Day brought tragic deaths to two graduates of the Class of '49.

Christmas Eve and New Year's Day brought tragic deaths to two graduates of the Class of '49.

In Mt. Airy, William H. Cochran, Jr. was the victim of a time-bomb explosion which was set off by the ignition of his pick-up truck. Local police and FBI experts are still investigating the mysterious death of the former State student who became immensely popular on this campus as well as in Mt. Airy where he and his wife of a few months resided in order for the agriculture graduate to carry on his work as supervisor of the local G. I. training program.

The blast made a twisted mass of his 1950 pick-up truck which was used by Cochran to visit his students at their Blue Ridge mountain farm homes and to visit G. I. on-the-farm trainees. Cochran died from loss of blood and shock 13 hours after the blast tore off one leg and mangled the other so badly it had to be amputated. "It was no prank," said Police Chief Monte Boone who flew to Washington with fragments taken from the shattered truck, "It looks like deliberate murder."

Cochran was graduated from State College with a B.S. degree in agricultural education in 1949. During his senior year he was treasurer of the College YMCA, a member of the Campus Government Council for three years, and business manager of The Handbook for one year. He was also a member of The Technician staff, treasurer of the Agricultural Club during his junior year, and a member of the baseball and track teams during his freshman year.

In addition he was a member of the Board of Student Publications, Order of Thirty and Three and extremely active at the YMCA where he resided during his four years at the college. Said Mr. King at the "Y," "It is hard to praise Bill high enough . . . a genuine, likable fellow."

Halfway around the world in Korea, 2nd Lt. Worth Henley Barber of Winston-Salem died instantly from an artillery burst while on a mission to get Communist prisoners of war.

Word of his death was revealed to the parents in a letter from Worth's twin brother, 2nd Lt. John T. Barber, a flying combat artillery observer who had been assigned to fly cover on the mission. However, he did not get into the air until an hour and a half after his brother, unbeknown to him, was killed. Ground forces, in radio contact with the plane thought it best not to tell the young observer of the fatality. The surviving twin was told of his brother's fate about six hours later after he had landed.

Both brothers were members of the Scabbard and Blade. The deceased was cheerleader for three years, and both boys were members of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity.

The parents had been fearful that one of the twins had been killed since they heard a Christmas Eve news broadcast telling of the incident. No names were released in the broadcast and later-published news story from Korea. The circumstances, however, fixed the identification of the young Barber boys perfectly.

ROTC Troops Will Shine at Military Ball

The annual Military Ball will be held January 25, in Memorial Auditorium from 8 p.m. to 12 p.m. Charlie Spivak has been contracted to furnish the music.

The dance will be preceded by a Sponsor's Day Parade at 12 o'clock noon. All of the ROTC army and air units will participate in the parade in honor of the 20 sponsors (one from each company, squadron or special unit). From these 20 sponsors, one will be selected to reign as Queen of the Army and one as Queen of the Air Force. The names of the queens will not be announced until sometime during the dance.

Mack Lyman, dance committee chairman, said that "a tremendous amount" of work and planning has gone into making this the best Military Ball ever held here, and one of the highlights of the year's social activities.

Hypnotist Entertains In Pullen Hall Tonight

"America's greatest one-man show" was the Saturday Evening Post's recent description of Dr. Franz Polgar, who will present his "Miracles of the Mind" at State College on January 11. Polgar, in addition to his startling abilities at hypnotism, telepathy and feats of memory, has a delightful sense of humor that makes him an all-around showman.

Dr. Polgar's amazing abilities have been discussed in Life, Time, Colliers, The New Yorker and many other magazines. He views his work as entertainment, refusing to dabble in the medical field except as occasional adviser to doctors who regard hypnosis as a help under certain conditions. Dr. Polgar hypnotized his own wife during the birth of their two children. The use of hypnosis as an anesthetic has received considerable attention in British medical circles.

Dr. Polgar's program will begin at 8:30 p.m. in Pullen Auditorium, Friday, January 11. Students must show their registration card for free admittance. The admission of faculty and staff is by College Union card or 50c. There is no charge for dates.

Ag Senior Wins Trip

John R. Williams of Monroe, senior in dairy husbandry at N. C. State College, was awarded an all-expense-paid trip to Chicago as winner of the 1951 Swift's College Essay Contest, according to Fred M. Haig, professor in the animal industry department at State College.

Williams, a navy veteran of World War II and a former 4-H Club member, flew to Chicago December 1 to attend a market study of livestock and meats held December 2 to 5.

The four-day study featured lectures by outstanding livestock men, trips through Swift's meat plant and demonstrations on merchandising beef, lamb, pork and dairy products.

The State College senior competed against other students of the School of Agriculture in preparing an essay on marketing methods used by the meat packing industry. In addition to his class

Views and Previews

JOE BENNETT, Sports Editor

It has been amazing to watch the improvement of the Wolfpack this season. When I first saw the squad in action, my first impression was that we were in for a bad year. As individuals the players were great, but they seemed to be at a loss when it came to functioning as a unit. The team won their opening games easily, but they looked very bad doing it.

The first loss, Texas Tech, seemed to have a great effect, for the team snapped back and clobbered a good Eastern Kentucky team, and then they went on to run George Washington out of Uline Arena in Washington, D. C. Observers say that the Wolfpack team that night was the best State team yet.

Then came the big slump. The scene was Madison Square Garden, and the stumbling block was Manhattan University. The team that had played so brilliantly two nights before fouled the air in the tremendous New York arena. It was truly a sad night for all State College men.

Then came the Dixie Classic, the real test, and the results are a tribute to the coaching staff and every player on the squad. They proved that they can hold up under pressure by beating Cornell in a very nerve racking final game to give Coach Case his third straight Dixie Classic championship.

The Wolfpack has a lot more games to lose before the close of this season, but when tournament time rolls around they will be tough to beat. Definite improvement can be seen with each game, and the boys are working very hard to get back up in the national standings where they belong.

When I was leaving the Coliseum after the State-Carolina game I happened to overhear a fan say, "Well, Scott hasn't beaten them yet." He was referring, of course, to Coach Tom Scott and the string of thirteen straight victories that State College holds over his hapless Tar Heels. Many people in the by-partisan Dixie Classic crowd thought that the amiable Mr. Scott was finally going to do it, but the Wolfpack was just a little too much for his boys. Carolina has the best team they have had in a long while, but they are a little short of reserve strength.

Although it is now ancient history, I feel that it is fitting to call to the attention of the student body an incident that occurred just before the Christmas vacation. The management of Madison Square Garden received letters from five students of this institution requesting free tickets to the State-Manhattan game. All five stated that they were authorized to represent The Technician to cover that game. There is only one man on this campus who has that authority, and that man is Joe Bennett, the sports editor of this paper. Joe did write one of the letters, but because of the thoughtless action of the four that misrepresented themselves, he did not get the tickets he deserves. The Garden had to write to Ed Storey to see who was eligible for the tickets, and by the time he had answered and the Garden in turn sent the tickets, Joe was already home on vacation in complete ignorance of what had happened.

With the exception of a small token salary to the sports editor of this paper, the only reward that the sports' staff gets is the tickets to the games. I suggest to anyone who would like the honor of sitting at the press table for a ball game to come to the Technician office and offer their services. But please don't use the underhanded tactics of the four knuckleheads who wrote those letters.

In the 42 years the University of North Carolina has been competing in basketball, the Tar Heel teams have won 17 national, southern or state championships.

Practice for indoor track began this week under the direction of Coach Tom Fitzgibbon. He will develop a squad to take part in the Maryland Invitational meet and the annual Southern Conference Indoor Games at Chapel Hill.

State-Catawba Have Clash Over Schedule

By Associated Press

A football scheduling problem bobbed up between North Carolina State and Catawba Colleges yesterday.

The question was: Will the two teams meet in Winston-Salem on Sept. 20?

At Salisbury, Catawba Athletic Director Gordon A. Kirkland said the game was "definitely scheduled" and "we have every right to expect N. C. State to live up to the agreement."

However, State College athletic officials said the game was off. The college administration and the athletic council refused to approve the game because it would come before college classes are underway, explained Athletic Director Roy Clogston.

Negotiations with Catawba for the game had been contingent on the approval of the council and the college administration, Clogston added.

Clogston released a tentative Wolfpack grid schedule Wednesday which did not include the Sept. 20 match with Catawba.

Kirkland said there was nothing in correspondence relative to the game "to indicate it was a tentative arrangement." He said it was his understanding that plans already had been made in Winston-Salem to secure the stadium there for the game.

State did play Catawba last season on Sept. 15, before classes began. "That," said Clogston, "is what started the trouble." Students complained they could not get tickets to the game because they were not yet in school, he said.

State, Carolina Lead Conference

The Southern Conference has further assurance that North Carolina State's Wolfpack is still basketball boss of the 17-team league.

For State, winner of five successive circuit championships, made that clear again Saturday night when the Wolfpack used two overtime periods to edge Duke's Blue Devils, one of the big threats to its supremacy, 72-70.

Everett Case, the man who guides the Wolfpack, admitted yesterday he was breathing much easier after the Blue Devils had been beaten.

"It was as good a game as a team of mine has ever played in," the State coach said. "The customers were stunned at the end."

State's victory was its fifth against no defeats in conference play. The licking knocked Duke into seventh place and made the team's record 3-3.

Case predicted that West Virginia's Mountaineers, who came up with an amazing 100-75 conquest over N. Y. U. the past week, would top the regular season's Southern Conference standings.

At least one team might quickly disagree with Case, though. That would be North Carolina's Tar Heels. The Tar Heels kept step with the Wolfpack on Saturday night by tripping Clemson, 65-59, to extend their record in family feuding to 5-0.

The Tar Heels, who have improved immensely since the season started, gained most of their victory margin in the first half and protected it the rest of the way. Jack Wallace and Al Lifson each made 17 points for Carolina but

Hoopsters Win Five Over Holidays Speight & Thompson Lead Scoring

By BOB PHELPS

The North Carolina State College Basketball Wolfpack took little time off for the Christmas holidays. While most of the State students were at home, the Basketball team played eight games and came out on top in five of them.

On the night of the thirteenth they were host to the Red Raiders of Texas Tech and were defeated 63-62 on a field goal in the last few seconds of the game. Bobby Goss took high scoring honors for State with 17 points, while Bobby Speight was close behind with 16.

Two nights later the Wolfpack upset the invading Maroons of Eastern Kentucky to the tune of 70-58. Speight threw in 20 points and Lee Terrill and Bill Kukoy got 16 and 15 respectively.

On the eighteenth, the State team moved North to tangle with George Washington's team, and when the night's work was over, the Wolfpack had an 86-57 victory. Mel Thompson, a newcomer to the State team, contributed 19 points, while Kukoy and Speight both had 16.

Continuing Northward, State ran into Manhattan in the Garden two nights later and suffered their worst defeat of the season, as they were outpointed 69-50. Thompson and Speight tossed in 16 and 13 points respectively in the losing cause.

After Christmas Day, State's Dixie Classic Champions returned to the Coliseum to defend their title. In their first game, State met and soundly defeated Navy 71-51. Bill Kukoy hit from all angles to collect a total of 28 points for the game. Bobby Speight had 14.

The next afternoon the Wolfpack defeated Carolina's Tar Heels 58-51. The game was much closer than the final score indicates, with Carolina fading only in the last minutes. Thompson was the Wolfpack's high scorer with 15, while Kukoy had 14 and Terrill 12.

In the final game State had to fight all the way to take a 51-49 win over a good Cornell team and keep the tournament crown at home. Thompson was again high for State with 16 points. Kukoy and Speight both tossed in 10.

On the second of January, Fordham's Rams handed State its third loss of the season, but it came only after the Wolfpack had forced the game into an overtime period. The final score was 62-59. Speight contributed 17 State points and Terrill got 14.

The following Saturday night, the Wolfpack battled the Duke Blue Devils through two overtime periods before they were able to win. It was Paul Brandenburg's long one-handed push shot that did the trick with four seconds left. Terrill had 17, Speight and Thompson 16, and Bernie Yurin 15 for State. This was the second year in a row that Brandenburg defeated the Blue Devils in an overtime on their home court.

Thinclads Start Practice For Indoor Track Season

By CHARLES JOYCE

Coach Tom Fitzgibbon has issued a call to all men who wish to try out for the Varsity track team. Though State College does not have an indoor track, the State team will train on the outdoor track whenever the weather is permissible. Frank Thompson Gymnasium will be used whenever the weather does not permit the use of the track.

Despite the inadequacy of indoor facilities, coach Fitzgibbon feels that his team will make a good showing in the two big indoor meets of the winter season. These two meets are the Maryland Invitational Meet at College Park, Maryland, on February 23, and the Indoor Southern Conference Meet at Chapel Hill, on March 1.

From State's last year's team, six men will form the nucleus of this year's squad. Captain Charles Moore should be one of the finest high and low hurdlers in the conference this year. Dick Parker, a 9.9 100 yard dasher, is in his third year on the varsity. Dick will be counted upon heavily in the 100, 220, the broad jump, javelin, and a leg in the mile relay. Another senior is Jerry Splawn, a 22'10" Broad jumper, and a 6'1" high jumper. Clyde Garrison, who was undefeated in two mile competition last year, will drop to the half and the mile this year. He should be able to take care of both in Southern Conference competition. He can also swing a leg in the mile relay. Shepard Griswald, 140 feet in the discus and 44 feet in the shot, should improve a great deal this year as a junior. Morrison Clements will be the only other team undefeated in conference play. The Gamecocks have won both of their starts.

West Virginia, boasting the best overall record in the loop, ran its winning streak to six straight Saturday night by edging Niagara, 74-71. The Mountaineers' Mark Workman chipped in with 36 points. The triumph was West Virginia's eighth against one loss.

Red hot Furman scored its seventh win by nipping Tampa, 73-70. Maryland, with Lee Brawley and Gene Shue collecting 16 points each, trimmed Navy, 48-45. William and running strong in the distances.

Several other members of the State College Conference Cross Country team will help State dominate the distances this season. Joe Shockley should take over as the leading conference two-miler. Darrell Winslow, Eddie Beall, Buz Sawyer, John Smith, and Dewey Adams will give State more strength in the half, the mile, and the two mile than any other school in the loop.

In the pole vault State has two fine prospects in Dick Feroe and Blackard. Both of these boys should be among the best in the league, with Feroe also good in the broad jump, low hurdles, and mile relay.

Leading contenders in the weights and measures division will be footballers Jim Hillman and Tom Parilo. These men will be ably assisted by Don Bell and Sam Trippe who are up from last year's freshman squad. Two other football men who will participate in track this year are Steve Kosilla throwing the javelin, and Tom Langston running the high and low hurdles. Since freshmen are eligible for varsity competition this year, John Bonduand, Frank Hargrove, Van Boyles, Gunther, and Seyhorn will bolster State's 440 attack.

Coach Fitzgibbon plans to enter a 4 mile relay team in the Penn Relays this season, and likely contenders are Clyde Garrison, Buz Sawyer, Joe Shockley, Darrel Winslow and John Smith.

Any men interested in track should contact coach Fitzgibbon at the Coliseum.

When Coach Carl Snavelly was elected to the president's chair of the Southern Conference Football Coaches Association last week, he was the third member of the University of North Carolina coaching staff to be named to similar posts. Tom Scott leads the list.

State College basketball fans are still puzzled by the decision of Forward Kim Buchanan to quit the team. Buchanan failed to show up for last Saturday's game with Duke and has not been to practice since. Buchanan was contacted at his home by Ben Templeton, Raleigh Times Sports Editor, and Buchanan told him he was dissatisfied at State College and thought he would try his chances elsewhere. Buchanan would not elaborate on what he was dissatisfied with. "I don't know where I'll go now," Buchanan stated. "I've been thinking about Southern California. That's where I wanted to go in the first place. I have an uncle living out there. I have some friends near Miami and I might go there." The former Raleigh High All-State forward sensation, who's record for most points scored in a single game is still a State Class AAA standard, was in his second year at State. He was the leading scorer on last year's freshman team which lost only one game and led the varsity scoring after the first three games this season. Buchanan scored 355 points as a freshman, averaging 22.2 per game. He was enrolled in Industrial and Rural Recreation. As a high school star, Buchanan was a two-year All-State choice. He was named the outstanding player in the East-West North Carolina All-Star game during his senior year.

Globetrotters Go Hollywood

"The Harlem Globetrotters," razzle-dazzle miracle men of pro basketball team that turned the hoop game into big-time entertainment, strut their inimitable stuff in the Columbia picture which plays late show, Saturday night and all day Tuesday at the State Theatre. The new film features Thomas Gomez, Dorothy Dandridge, Bill Walker and the Original Harlem Globetrotters in a story about the dressing-room drama as well as the arena skill of the team.

The central character of "The Harlem Globetrotters" is Roy Townsend, an All-American college basketball player and honor student. Over the objections of the Trotters' manager, Abe Saperstein, Townsend quits college to join the team. He quickly becomes a star, but he scorns the sentiments of his team-mates that they represent the whole Negro race whenever and wherever they play.

Ordered to stay in his hotel room to rest before a big game with the Celtics, arch-rivals of the Globetrotters, Townsend sneaks out to marry his sweetheart. He hurts his knee and, because of his failure to report the injury, the Trotters lose the game. Townsend cannot understand why his team-mates feel so terrible about the loss. He quarrels with Saperstein, who fires him. The film's climax comes in a sensational return match with the Celtics, during which Townsend has a chance to redeem himself.

Staff Warned On Use Of State-Owned Property

Chapel Hill (Special) Officials of the University at Chapel Hill are investigating the possible misuse of State-owned materials or labor by University employees.

This was revealed in a letter sent to all members of the faculties and staffs of the Consolidated University cautioning them against "violation of the laws of North Carolina" by committing such abuses.

A UNC official, C. G. Huggins, is currently under investigation for similar charges.

The Huggins matter was turned over to the University for further investigation and action after it was brought before the Orange County Grand Jury by District Solicitor William Murdock. It came about as the result of a State Bureau of Investigation probe here of reports that a University supervisory employee had used State materials and labor to build his home. Huggins is superintendent of Woolen gymnasium and has been connected with the University for more than 20 years.

The Grand Jury, formed by University Director of Admissions Roy Armstrong, studied evidence presented by SBI agent Clyde Fentress as well as by Solicitor Murdock and recommended that the University look into "the C. B. Huggins' matter for further investigation and action."

What the SBI investigation uncovered here has never been made public and University officials withheld comment until yesterday, when Carmichael said that he had received the SBI report and is now studying it.

Earlier, UNC Business Manager Claude Teague, upon being informed of the Grand Jury's action, stated: "When the matter comes to us we will certainly investigate it and take whatever action seems appropriate. We wouldn't attempt in any way to circumvent the court."

Carmichael said yesterday that the University is now investigating the Huggins matter and will make a statement of any action to be taken upon the completion of the study.

Forestry Group Elects 25 to Membership

Twenty-four students and one faculty member at State College have been initiated into the membership of the college chapter of Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary scholastic society.

Announcement of the new list of members was made here yesterday by Prof. F. W. Cook, the chapter secretary, who said that all persons elected to membership have made outstanding academic records at the college.

Dean Richard J. Preston, Jr., of the college's School of Forestry was the faculty member chosen for the honor.

AICE Initiates 13

Thirteen chemical engineering students at North Carolina State College have been initiated into the membership of the college chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

The student group is a professional organization whose purpose is to promote student-faculty relations and to give students a broad understanding of the work of chemical engineers.

L. C. Thomas, Jr., of Durham is president of the State College Chapter.

Revival

The United Press reports that duelling on German campuses is again being practiced. The scarred cheek is a mark of honor.

Fraternity men have been ordered by their alumni officers to practice duelling secretly once a week in case of possible challenges. In two cases, where fraternities have disobeyed their elders, they have lost their houses.

The sport was banned by occupational authorities, because it was thought to promote German militarism and nationalism. But the ban is being increasingly evaded.

Engineers' Wages Rise

Engineering graduates are receiving starting salaries approximately 16 per cent higher than a year ago, according to a survey conducted by the New York University College of Engineering. The figures compiled indicate that salaries are continuing to rise after a slight increase in 1950, following almost constant levels in 1948 and 1949.

The average starting salary for the entire class, it was reported, is $301 a month, as compared to $260 in 1950, $253 in 1949, $252 in 1948 and $227 in 1947.

Interviewers Seeking to Hire Engr. Grads

Approximately 200 industrial concerns and governmental agencies are expected to visit the School of Engineering at State College during the next few months, seeking to employ some of the 380 student engineers who will graduate or receive advanced degrees in June.

All types of engineers are in wide demand, and this year's graduates, like last year's, can expect a wide choice of employment opportunities, excellent starting salaries, and good working conditions. The School of Engineering expects to award 318 Bachelor's degrees, 56 Master's, and 6 Doctoral degrees at the June commencement exercises.

The first interviewers began on the college campus Tuesday, and a steady stream of appointments has been scheduled until the middle of March.

Seven industrial concerns and one government department will visit the school this week. The government agency is the North Carolina State Highway Department. Another North Carolina visitor will be the Elliot Company of Charlotte.

Two companies from neighboring states will also send representatives this week. They include the Allied Chemical and Dye Co. of Hopewell, Va., and the Deering Milliken Company, a South Carolina textile mill.

General Electric will be the largest northern visitor this week. It will send three interviewers for a period of three days, and is expected to see more than 100 students. It will start off with a group meeting for interested students and their wives, at which informational movies will be shown. Other northern visitors will be the Socony Vacuum Company and the Westvac Chemical Corporation of New York City, and the National Lead Co. of South Amboy, N. J.

Army's Civilians

Some of the Army's "soldiers" wear blue serge suits. These white collar workers, employed in the Army's administrative activities that are manned by civilians now are being selected for the military service through a new two-way, on-the-job training program.

In the unique plan, selected students of government administration are given positions in their chosen field on an eight-week trial basis during their summer vacation period. The students are given a chance to work at a job while evaluating for themselves the advantages of a career in Army administration.

The program, initiated with a group of 15 college students this year, is similar to a plan used for three years by Army to "recruit" civilian personnel qualified as scientists and engineers. This summer, 366 technical students worked at military installations throughout the country in those capacities.

Although the first experimental group of administration students worked in offices in the Pentagon, it is planned that the expansion of the program will include more students and assign them to field installations, similar to the placement of the technical aspirants.

Selection of the students who desire assignment, after the trial period, is expected to be based on examinations given by the U. S. Civil Service Commission. The administration students, like the ones in science and engineering, will be considered for the jobs they best fit, their training in business and public administration or in social sciences being taken into consideration.
