

Filing Will Continue As Three Seek Top C G Job

The race for the presidency of Campus Government became a three-man battle today, and the Campus Government has announced that the books will be kept open until Wednesday so that additional entrants can file for the general elections April 23 and 30.

Friday morning the presidential contest was the only race with more than two entrants. This light registration, which was the reason stated for extending the registration date, indicates the possibility that the primaries may be cancelled for the second consecutive year.

Battling for the presidency are Vincent C. Outland, Giles "Willie" Willis and Louis W. Hine. Outland was an early filer, but both Hine and Willis entered late. Hine had filed for vice-president, but switched over to the top job Wednesday. Willis did not file until today.

Two men, B. Tommy Ward and John M. Gilkey, have registered for the vice-presidential contest. Only one entrant had filed for each of the other Campus Government jobs on Friday. Bennett B. White signed for Secretary and Bob Carlson entered for Treasurer.

A strong race appeared to be developing for the Senior Class seat on the Athletic Council. Maxwell R. Thurman, Don E. Powell and John C. Hester have all filed for this seat on the Council. The actions of the Council have become rather controversial during the past year.

Only one man entered for the Junior Class seat on the Athletic Council. Alan W. Nishball's candidacy was unopposed on Friday.

No one had filed for the Head Cheerleader's position on Friday. Among the publications Robert L. Horn filed for Editor of The Technician, Frank P. Turvey entered for manager of WVWP and Walter Kasman filed for business manager of WVWP.

Filing will continue through Wednesday in the Assistant Dean of Students' office in Holladay Hall.

During the coming week each of the schools will have to hold elections to send its three representatives to the Council of Campus Government. The representatives will be selected at election meetings of the classes in the individual schools.

Willis Opens Attack

Willis, late entrant for President of Campus Government, got his campaigning off to a start by attacking candidate Vince Outland, present CG Secretary. In a prepared statement Willis charged that Outland was "trying to force himself down the throats of the freshman engineers." This charge was based on remarks allegedly made by Outland at a required assembly for freshmen in the School of Engineering.

Willis, and his campaign manager Howard Wells, charge that Outland made a campaign speech at the meeting. They also attacked his statements which, they said, alleged that their statement said, alleged "that the engineers could control all the elections." Both Outland and Willis are students in the School of Engineering.

All candidates for office in the general elections April 23 and 30 are urged to furnish The Technician with any photographs, statements or platforms they want released before 10 p.m. Tuesday, April 15.

CG Will Appoint Publicity Agent

Campus Government convened on Tuesday and took up the matter of appointing a publicity agent. A motion worded by C. G. Veep John Dinan was passed which created the position of reporter for the student legislative body. The duties of the reporter were outlined to . . . disseminate publicity concerning campus government procedures and actions to be pertinent agencies whose business it is to distribute college news.

After a new representative, James Travis, was sworn in, the Council proceeded with a thorough going-over of the newly revised constitution of the Greater University Student Council. Discussion of a few minor technicalities gave way to the unanimous acceptance of the document's first reading by (Continued on Page 2)

In an unprecedented display of student partisanship at State College, Fleet P. Crowell, well known Ag Club member and Technician reporter, announced the formation of a "State College Eisenhower for President Club."

In releasing the story to The Technician club secretary, D. E. Marrus said that no other officers besides the chairman and secretary has been selected. The aim of the club as outlined to The Technician briefly is to vitalize the Eisenhower campaign on the State College campus in conjunction with the national campaign.

Any interested students are requested to contact either of the officers.

College Union Seeks New Fee

The officers of the College Union expect to appear before Campus Government next week to argue for a fee increase of $3.60 a term beginning next September. This increase, which is incorporated in a budget approved by the Union Board of Directors, will raise the total yearly Union fee to $15.00 per student.

Revenue from student fees is expected to bring the Union organization $48,000 next year. Of this, $37,000 will be spent on the Union program and on salaries for the Union director, social director and other professional assistance. The balance of the money will be added to the fund for furnishing the building.

Next year's total Union budget is $200,000. Furnishing the building will take almost $130,000 of which $120,000 will come from the original State appropriation. The Legislature had originally appropriated $150,000 for furnishing the Union building, but the increased cost of constructing the building will take $30,000 of that sum.

Ring Dance

The Jr.-Sr. Ring Dance will be held May 3 in the Coliseum. Bids for this, the biggest social event of the year, will be distributed on or about April 21, 1952. The dance committee has a word to offer, which to the wise should be sufficient if your dues are not paid. If you expect to attend, see the respective class officers and straighten out your account. Tommy Tucker has been signed to play.

While the Union building will not be opened until September, 1953, Union president Jack McCormick and Union director Jerry Erdahl have announced an expanded schedule for activities for the next school year. This program is allotted $12,000 in the present Union budget.

$14,000 will be spent on salaries for the Union professionals. The director will receive $5,000. He has been employed for over two years. A full-time social director will be hired to assist the director at $2,900 a year, and before the building is opened a secretary, accountant and food director will be hired.

The services of three School of Design faculty members will be employed to design and decorate the interiors of the new building at a total cost of $10,000.

The other major item in the budget is one of $33,000 for furnishing the kitchen in the Union building.

The major sources of revenue indicated in the budget are the student fee and Legislature's appropriation. However, income from faculty and staff memberships is also anticipated along with revenue from townspeople attending Union functions.

Manager Protests Cafeteria Grade

Leazer Dining Hall has been given a "B rating" for receiving the score of 87.5 on a sanitary inspection conducted by the Wake County sanitarian. However, manager Harry Stewart stated Wednesday that he would appeal for reconsideration on the inspection.

alma mater

An analytical examination of a political campaign quickly reveals the several components which go to make it a spirited event. Literally and figuratively speaking there must be plenty of wind to fan the flames of human emotion, there must also be platforms, knotty and otherwise. And there must be posters.

It is with the last that we are primarily concerned at this time. These mute orators are much in evidence about the campus, especially toward the end of the campaign when the candidates are too hoarse and convulsed to expound on their leadership qualifications any further. Much ingenuity is displayed in locating the posters in the most noticeable and usually the most inaccessible places. Thus the day after elections, usually a rainy day, the campus takes on the appearances of an art gallery in limbo.

The administration has commented that the campus takes on the appearance of a circus ring, with the appearance of these election posters, and it would seek to have such posters prohibited on this account. While the idea of maintaining an attractive campus is important, the idea that the college campus is the home of the students must not be forgotten.

Posters are as important in a campus election as they are in a national election, for their purpose is one of enlightenment. How this enlightenment is achieved depends entirely upon the artistic temperament of the candidate and his support. The price of having a "circus ring" for a few days is minute when compared to the benefits gained from a vital student body.

The rating was posted Tuesday and Wednesday the editor of The Technician and another student, Paul Sweat, paid an unannounced call on Mr. Stewart to inspect the dining facilities. At the conclusion of their tour the two stated that they were satisfied sanitary conditions in the cafeteria were satisfactory.

Stewart exhibited the inspector's report to them, they said, and showed them the conditions that brought about the unfavorable report. The report criticized the disrepair of walls and ceilings, the poor condition of a portion of the floor, the condition of certain utensils and equipment, and the storage of some utensils and of milk solids.

Stewart stated that the condition of some parts of the building was not too good, but that the conditions would be corrected as soon as possible as a part of a modernization program now underway. The defects in storage and in equipment have been rectified already.

The report commended the cafeteria's gishwashing equipment. This equipment was installed last year at a cost of over $14,000, Stewart reported.

The "B" sanitary inspection result was posted in the cafeteria Tuesday and was removed Wednesday noon. The cafeteria is not required to post the results. However, by the time the placard was removed comments had already reached The Technician office.

Along with the comments on the sanitary conditions of the cafeteria, The Technician received reports of insects being found in food served in the dining hall. Manager Stewart said that only one such case had been reported to him this year. All raw vegetables are washed four times before being cooked, according to Stewart.

The cafeteria is now serving approximately 2,600 meals daily. The peak business at the place was 7,000 meals a day during the time when the college had an enrollment of 5,200.

Douglas at the Hill

Senator Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) will speak on "Ethics in Government" in Hill Hall on the Chapel Hill campus at 8:30 Sunday night. The address is open to the public free of charge.

A member of the Senate since

1948, Douglas has a long record as an educator, author, economist and industrial relations expert.

His appearance at UNC is being sponsored by the Carolina Political Union, non-partisan student organization.

Union Sponsors Local Thespians For Series

The College Union will sponsor the first annual Student Drama Night on April 18, 8:30 p.m. in Pullen Hall. Three one-act plays will be presented by campus organizations, with awards being presented to the winning group as well as the outstanding individual actor.

All the dormitories and fraternities on the campus were invited to enter this, the first campus-wide drama festival to be presented in recent years. The dormitories were totally unresponsive; however, three fraternities saved the day by entering members in the competition.

Three one-act plays will be undertaken. Sigma Phi Epsilon has chosen Geo. S. Kaufman's "If Men Played Cards Like Women Do"; Sigma Chi will do Lealon Norvel Jones "Swamp Spirit," and Phi Kappa Tau will wind up with Alice Gerstenberg's "The Pot Boiler."

Next season the Union plans to consolidate the efforts of the erstwhile playwrights in the presentation of one three-act play.

The records of three trials were then read and approved by the Council. The trials were concerned with eight defendants, only one of whom was convicted of cheating. He was put on probation with the stipulation that a second offense would result in his being permanently dismissed from the college.

Campus Government President George "Buck" Pruden told the Technician Tuesday that he expects lengthy debate on the proposed Union fee when it reaches CG. He also noted the possibility of a general student referendum to settle the question.

The Sigma Pi's have a new member by virtue of their last week Rush parties. He goes by the name of Mr. Rho, and although he is only six weeks old the fraternity is sure that he will develop into a fine member. The small, Heinz 57 varieties dog, is now in the process of pledge training (being house-broken).

Kappa Sigma held an Easter Egg Hunt for Raleigh under-privileged children this afternoon. The Raleigh Outdoor Theatre, Rose Garden was the scene of the merry event. Six new members were initiated into the fraternity during the past week; Jim Frazier, Bill Current, Warren Mann, Henry Longley, Charles Suttlemeyer, and John Thomas.

Two fraternities announced their new officers for the coming year. Tau Kappa Epsilon installed the following men: Ed Strickland, Pres.; George Brannon, Vice Pres.; Don Mills, Pledgemaster; Sam Hodges, Historian; Ernest Welch, Sergeant-at-Arms; Rudolph Kirby, Secretary; Dave Vance, Treasurer; and Jimmy Scott, Chaplain.

The new officers for Sigma Nu include the following men: Frank Goode, Commander; Preston Cotten, Lt. Commander; Alston Ramsay, Recorder; Ted Jackson, Treasurer; Tom Buckman, Chaplain; Bob Loy, Sentinel; and Oliver Green, Marshal.

The new Phi Kappa Tau officers were installed at a formal meeting held at the S & W last Monday night.

Angel Angles by The Arch Angle

When a State boy approaches that great institution of learning (why—Meredith of course!), his first view does not consist of a beautiful domed administration building half hidden by a thick grove of trees, or of glimpses of five hundred girls (well . . . maybe just a little). His whole attention is directed toward the water tank!

But hold on there, fellow, our water tank is entirely different from all other water tanks. Not only does it hold water; it advertises to the general public which neighboring boy's college is presently interested in the angels of Angel Farm. If you haven't noticed it before (and I certainly can't see how you've missed it), take a look and you'll see that the tank is decorated with the names of nearby colleges which have boys brave enough to climb the perilous height armed with paint, brush, and the will to paint the name of their dear alma mater. Here let me add that fraternities also add to this modern art(?)

However, something occurred recently that really proves that we have the most famous and well known water tank ever. It was given one of the most sought-after honors in the United States today. It was decorated by the United States Marine Corps. What a low blow to the boys at State!!! Obviously you knew something had to be done, and a few days ago one of you did it.

State College can now hold up its head once more for some fearless Theta Chi braved the wrath of the Marines and plastered the water tank in green and yellow with the fraternity's emblem. Now who this courageous soul it, is not known for sure, but we do know that he definitely is in the Theta Chi fraternity at State.

Maybe you will be interested in knowing more about this multi-colored barrel. It seems that there is still uncertainty as to which college started practicing the art of sign painting on our tank. Most of us "angels" agree that it was you at State who are to blame (I'm only kidding—we love it!). Rumor has it that about twenty years ago a State boy climbed to the top of the tank platform and wrote "Angel Farm" in big letters across the body of the tank. Unfortunately for him, he was caught by the Raleigh police (did they have Radar then?), and was fined $25.00. The flattered Meredith girls took up a collection and paid his fine.

Please, boys, at least tell us who "Dick" and "Old Glen" are. Just chalk this curiosity up to sentimentality for they have vanished because of the large handwriting of a certain State boy. Why even that old war hero "Kilroy" is no more!

One thing is certain concerning the mystery of the much decorated water tank—we, the "angels" at the Angel Farm, think it is certainly a flattering and beautifying custom!!

CG Outlines Procedure For Evaluation Sheets

Student Teacher Instrument . . . The faculty evaluation sheets will be distributed among the students in the next few weeks. In order that they may be used to the greatest possible good, the following instructions were prepared by the Student Government.

Student Government joins your instructor in requesting your serious attention to the questions on this form. Please take the forms to your rooms, answer the questions fully and frankly and bring the completed forms to the next meeting of this class. A student will then collect them for delivery to your instructor. Do not sign this form.

The purpose of this form is just what it says at the top, "student-teacher co-operation." Returns will be the property of your instructor and will not go into administrative hands.

Please avoid "yes" and "no" answers. Comment fully and independently. Use a typewriter if you fear your handwriting will be recognized.

Please do not consult with each other in this. Your instructor wants your individual opinions, not a general campus opinion.

YMCA Plans Caucus

The Freshmen YMCA will conduct a political rally on Thursday night, April 17, 1952 at 7:30 p.m. in the Social Room of Tucker Dormitory. Every candidate whose name appears on the ballot of April 23 or April 30 will be given three (3) minutes in which to talk with the group. A smoker is planned, and each nominee can pass out literature or have any other means of publicity which he conceives of as good, clean campaigning. All students are invited to attend.

Take Your Pick

If there were room enough in the cartoon on this page, we would have had our cartoonist draw in the four thousand students and faculty who make up State College. Instead, The Technician must ask its readers to accept the two figures of being symbolic of all the voters who will go to the polls on April 30.

Voting is one of the most important rights that the people of a very few countries retain today. This does not mean that one is obliged to vote, yet not exercising such a prerogative can easily be construed as a partial repudiation of our system of government. In most cases it is more correctly diagnosed as gross laziness.

Elections this year will be double-barreled, for students and faculty will be asked to not only express their preference in college offices, but also in a straw poll of all the leading candidates for the presidential race. No one will be chastised, severely or otherwise, for not voting. Yet they will have the very pleasurable knowledge that they are completely useless to their fellow students, or faculty, and this college. As such, their presence will hardly be missed.

Instead of complaining in October, do something about it now in April by voting for the man who you feel will do his best toward the student body and the school. Your vote in the national campaign won't put a man in the White House, but it will serve to dramatize and present the views of an otherwise ignored group.

No Account?

It Does Count, that's what the significance of the IDC in the Inter Dormitory Council is. The question is how much can it count when its own paid publicity director can not even obtain a list of the new officers, several weeks after elections have been held. The Technician however has been informed that a gentleman name of Sweet is the new President. But there information ceases.

The second week in February, under the title "Transfusion," The Technician advocated a redistribution of power from the Campus Government to the IDC so that "needed vitality" would be given to "a very important group."

There must be something definitely lack-

Well Justified

Seems like somebody is all the time trying to take something away from the poor student.

The professors take up all his time with homework. The Mop-Up takes all his money. The cafeteria takes away his appetite. And the draft board just wants to take him.

But now someone comes along with the claim that they want to give the student something. The College Union is asking for an increase in fees of $3.60 per quarter, but in return they claim to offer the student a saving of $100 each year.

The fee increase appears to be justified. The student body has an obligation to support this institution which has already presented dances, carnivals and programs such as the Don Cossack Chorus. The additional fee will allow the Union to present additional programs and to accumulate a little money to help furnish the building now being constructed on Hillsboro Street.

State students are fortunate that they didn't have to dig up all the money to build the Union building in the first place. The State has furnished the building, but from now on it's the students' baby. Sixteen hours a day, seven days a week, it will be the students' baby.

Every student pays a fair sized fee to support the health service so that the necessary facilities will be available when he needs them. The new fee for the Union will be similar in that the Union stands ready at all times to serve all students. And the present scope of Union programming indicates that the vast majority of the student body will participating and benefiting from the Union.

ing in the present organization of the IDC for such a group to go silently plodding along stopping occasionally for a dance, but otherwise never bothering to raise its head. And yet, what organization on campus can even claim to have as intimate contact with as many students as the IDC has through its representatives in all the dormitories.

If a new slate of officers does exist, and we have just cause to wonder, The Technician would urge them to raise their organization from the lethargy in which it has been immersed for the past year, and begin to push it to the heights which it justly deserves.

Let me make nil the idea that any connection between Dix Hill and State College is purely coincidental. Last month alone the State College Power Plant supplied 18,570 kw. hrs. of power to our sibling institution. That makes us all one big, happy family.

While there are numerous answers to "Why are you in College," perhaps the more fundamental ones are something like "Well, I want to better myself," or "It gives me a better chance in later life and business," thus the latent striving for advancement and enlightenment is commendably displayed. Nothing in life is stationary except time; everything undergoes evolution. Hence to be satisfied with a given status quo or to get into a rut means not to advance but to regress. And therein lies my point: the College Union is something new on the campus, granted, and they want to do it up brown. We shall certainly pay for it and holler, but scrutinize carefully what we get for our money. Do this not so much in terms of what you and I and the next guy will derive from its services NOW or in a few years but how will future generations of students benefit from and grow through the College Union.—I am not fixin' to enter the ministry but I hope you'll do a little thinking about it.

Our good old Ptomaine Hall, Leazer Hall to the newcomer, only received a "B" sanitary rating. Is it because the cleanliness of the joint is being held DOWN to the standard of the food or because our poor lil' slop shack is completely forgotten amid all the technological hubbub on the rest of our scientific campus?

While some people believe the change of "Hell" to "Help Week" on the various campuses to be only a sugar coating for a bitter pill, others are willing to concede its valor and merit. Since State College, too, has its little Greek communities it would be interesting to watch whether some of their often believed wasted energy and money could be channelled into some useful endeavors.

And talk about needs and help, how about a quick thought concerning some would-be campus-wide services such as:

- A. A sock-darning service.
- B. A travel exchange bureau.
- C. A WORKING book exchange.

Soon after joining The Technician staff three years ago as a cub reporter, I came to look with envy upon that peculiar race of people classified as columnists. The editor-in-chief, while he did not bow and scrape at their feet, did nevertheless cultivate an unusual faculty for obtaining and keeping this coveted species on the staff. If their copy came in late, no one dared indulge in any roof-raising; if their point of view, even though contrary to the editor's, created a minor riot among the readers, the Editor smiled instead of frowning.

To become a columnist, I surmised, would be the supreme achievement of a lowly reporter. I regarded them as the royalty of the journalistic world. As such, with the inauguration of "Affairs," I may have arrived. Gilt-edged literary license of the most liberal type has been granted. Thus I am, theoretically, on the ascent to the heights of the literary hierarchy. From this lofty position I will topple only if I am tried and convicted of committing a Foght-pas. This will involve my being unceremoniously tossed clear of the typewriter carriage on one of my knobby little heads.

However, until then, I sincerely invite everyone to join me in the hope that you will derive as much pleasure from reading "Affairs" as I intend to from producing it. If this column succeeds in provoking from but one individual, a guffaw, snicker or chuckle, its existence will have been justified.

Finished with the appetizer? Let's pause a moment before moving on to the main course. There is this one important thing to add. Plainly and simply, the intent to offend anyone in this column will be strenuously avoided. Understand that it's all in fun.

One fine day last fall, I was taken by surprise, not by a pair of roguish eyes, but rather by Mrs. Kamp-hoefner, wife of the Dean of the School of Design. The occasion was a Sunday afternoon visit to the much-publicized Kamphoefner castle for the purpose of seeing what there was to see.

The gracious lady of the house took my friends and me from room to room of this pleasingly modern home, explaining as she went, the functional aspects of every neat nook and cranny. I was impressed.

Finally we came to the guest room. I noticed a rising inflection in the guide's voice. Then it happened. Mrs. K. gently, almost reverently, brushed open the door and, in a burst of subdued oratorical eloquence announced, "Frank Lloyd Wright slept here." Well, had I been vested with the authority, I would have presented her with an academy award on the spot. I stood for a moment on the threshold of this as yet undedicated shrine, bowed and then left wondering if anyone else would ever be allowed to occupy the chamber.

Combing The Campus

By ELLIOT KABBASH

Question: Do you think that with the present parking facilities it would be wise to throw the whole campus open to parking on a first come, first serve basis for both students and faculty?
E. N. (Bill) Rogers, Asst. Sect., Y. M. C. A.
The only solution is a first come, first served basis. I have seen it work effectively at three institutions, the University of South Carolina, Duke, and Emory University.
Guy A. Baldecchi, Soph., Textiles
I think it's a very good idea, that will help solve miserable parking conditions we now have. The way we now have it, owning a car on the campus is practically useless.
Bobby B. Brown, Senior, Constr.
No, the faculty, in most cases drive to class because they live in town, etc. However, I do think entirely too many restrictions are placed on student parking.

Ken Gibala, Soph., Nuclear Eng.
No. At the present time I feel that the only solution to the problem is to make a temporary parking district of the "Red Diamond" baseball parking district. I feel that it is the duty of the school to plan for adequate parking facilities in the west campus district near the Textile School.
Tom McDaniel, Frosh, Pre. Vet.
Yes, I think the parking places should be on a first come first serve basis. That is the only solution to the problem.

Textile Award Made

Selection of Claudio Vieira de Carvalho of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, as the first recipient of the "Euvaldo Lodi Scholarship" in the School of Textiles at North Carolina State College was announced today by Dean Malcolm E. Campbell.

Claudio, who will receive $1,750 annually for two years, was named as the winner of the scholarship award following his selection as the top student in the Technical School of the Chemical and Textile Industries in Rio de Janeiro.

He has already arrived at North Carolina State College and has begun his academic work for a B.S. degree in textiles. Upon the completion of his studies at the college, he will return to Brazil and will teach in the Technical School, of which he is a graduate.

Dean Campbell hailed the new scholarship program at State College as "a valuable gesture in international cooperation." In a letter to Dean Campbell, Dr. J. Faira Goes of Rio de Janeiro, national director of SENAI, expressed the hope that the fellowship would increase "the good relations between the two Textile Schools as well as the friendship between Brazil and American students."

Euvaldo Lodi, for whom the scholarships are named, has a broad range of interest in Brazilian industries and educational institutions. He has visited the North Carolina State College School of Textiles, discovered the training possibilities offered by N. C. State for students from his country, and said he was highly impressed with the work of the college's School of Textiles.

We would like to request that you turn this letter over to any group of college men or women who you believe would be interested in organizing a Youth for Eisenhower club on your campus. Pack Drops Game, 3-2, In Fourteenth To UNC

Lewis, Lore Both Go The Distance

The North Carolina State College baseball team suffered their first Big Four defeat of the young season as they lost to Carolina's Tar Heels in an exciting fourteen inning affair last Tuesday. The score was Carolina 3—State 2.

The Wolfpack drew first blood in the scoring department. In the last half of the first inning second baseman Roland Brinson led off and was safe on second when the Carolina third baseman threw over the first baseman's head on the play. Jack Turney was out on a fly to the centerfielder, but Johnny Yvars' single to leftfield plated Brinson to make the score State 1—Carolina 0.

In the second frame State added another marker. George Thompson led off and struck out, but Ed Horbelt, Dick McGillis, and Pitcher Lunsford Lewis hit successive singles to produce a score.

Carolina's scores came in the following manner. Shortstop Fred Dale led off the Tar Heel's half of the fourth inning with a home run over the left field fence. In the eighth, Carolina Catcher Weiss was safe on an error. Pitcher Lore sacrificed him to second and with two men out Weiss scored on White's single to right field to tie the score at 2-2.

In the eleventh frame Fuscoe reached second base on a walk and a passed ball with two men out, but the next batter was out on a fly to right field. Again in the thirteenth inning a State runner reached second base with two men out but did not score.

Carolina's winning run came in the fourteenth inning as the result of a walk, a sacrifice, and a single to right field by Herring.

Both pitchers went the route for their respective teams, and both were very effective, especially with men on base. Bill Lore gave up a total of 10 hits to State hitters during the game, while State Pitcher Lewis was touched for 7. Carolina did not collect more than one hit in any one inning.

Ed Horbelt and Jack Turney led the Wolfpack at the plate with two hits each. One of Turney's blows was a double.

Blue Devils, Deacons High In Southern Loop

Early indications are that Duke's Blue Devils and Wake Forest's Deacons may wage a bitter battle for the Southern Division flag in the Southern Conference baseball race.

Duke has lost only one game in eight appearances, five of them against other clubs in the division. In their lone loss, the Blue Devils were outscrambled by Clemson, Southern Division winner last year, 10-9.

Until Saturday, the Deacons were undefeated. They had conquered five foes with remarkable pitching and a rash of hitting. But Saturday, the Deacons bumped into State and were outscored, 8-7. The Deacs have a 1-1 division record.

Duke, the league's defending champion, served notice right off that it expected to field another crack team. Coach Jack Coombs found himself with a veteran outfit, including such tested stars as Shortstop Dick Groat, First Baseman Bill Werber, Pitcher Bob Davis and a host of others. One Veteran Pitcher . . . SH

Coach Taylor Sanford wasn't so certain about the Deacons. He faced a pitching problem. Only one let-

ROLAND BRINSON:

Keeper of the Keystone

By PAT DOWNEY

When Coach Vic Sorrell needed a second baseman he called on Roland Brinson. "I had played everything but catcher and second base," says Roland, "but the coach put me on second, and I had to make the most of it." No coach could be more pleased with a man than Coach Sorrell is with his boy Brinson. The popular State second-sacker leaves nothing to be desired in fielding around the keystone position. Nothing gets by him, and he performs the doubleplay with faultless precision.

Roland feels bad about his hitting. "My average was only .230 last year," says he, but Coach Sorrell thinks enough of Brinson's hitting to have him in the leadoff spot this year.

Roland played his high school ball in the town of Black Creek, North Carolina. When he was fourteen he played in a semi-pro league around Wilson during the summer vacation, and the following summer he played with an American Legion team. The next summer Roland played for a semi-pro team in Morehead City, and he entered State in December 1948. In 1951 Brinson played with Clarksville, Virginia in the Southside League, and he expects to go back there again this summer.

The future looks a little vague for Roland. He will not be able to graduate until March 1953, and then the army will take him for a while, but of one thing he is certain, baseball is his career. "I'm going to get my degree in Industrial and Rural Recreation and a teacher's certificate, and when I can't play anymore I'm going to coach," says Roland.

Brinson, a quiet, modest, likable guy, is twenty-one years old, weighs 170 pounds, and measures five feet eleven inches. He is one of the most likable players on the team. As a junior he was voted captain of the 1951 team, and his room on the first floor of Alexander Dorm serves as a club house for the ball team.

Roland spends a good deal of his spare time writing to a very attractive young lady whose picture occupies a very prominent position on his desk. When asked if he intends to get married soon, Roland replied, "I've been trying to work around it, but I'm afraid I am not getting very far."

Wake Forest is still the team for State to beat in the Big Four as far as Roland is concerned. "We

JOE BENNETT, Sports Editor

I have had a report from my spy in the baseball camp that your friend and mine, Ed Storey, has finally had pictures made of the baseball team. And the season is only three weeks old. Oh, well. Better late than never. Now, let's hope we see them in the papers along with some of the now-scarce publicity.

Besides the usual publicity harvested by the other members of the Big Four, they have had several feature articles on players who were potential All-America or who had fathers who were All-America or major league players. There is ample material on the State team for such feature stories, the prime example being Johnny Yvars whose brother Sal is a catcher for the New York Giants.

Come out of hibernation, Ed, it's spring. Give the boys a break.

And to those of you who haven't been out to see the Wolfpack play yet, I'd suggest you get over to the diamond soon. You are missing some good ball games. That fourteen inning affair last Tuesday with Carolina was the best college baseball game I have ever seen.

I know a lot of you will be going out to see the Raleigh Caps play, and while I don't want to be accused of cutting into their gate receipts, you can see just as good if not a better game right here on our own field for the total sum of one thin registration card. And there would be no better time than tomorrow when the Pack meets Duke. So come on out and support the team and see a good ball game.

Mayhem on ice is finally coming to the Coliseum. The Boston Olympics and New Haven Tommyhawks will provide the thrills next Friday and Saturday nights. These were the two top teams in the Eastern Amateur Hockey League this past season and should put on a good show.

This isn't exactly the kind of weather that makes you think of winter sports, but if you have never seen a hockey game, don't miss these. Some claim it is the fastest sport being played, and I don't doubt it. There is never a dull moment, but if things do slow down, the boys are very adept at working up a little excitement amongst themselves. A hockey stick makes a very potent weapon.

I haven't seen any notice of reduced prices for students for the games yet. I hope the Coliseum management doesn't undo the good work they have done by providing student rates by forgetting the student this time.

In the first week of softball playing, Bagwell No. 1 came up with a convincing win over the boys from Tucker by 19-9. It was a close game until the third inning with Bagwell leading 7-6, but then they exploded for 13 runs in that inning to put the game on ice. Bagwell garnered four home runs, two by Walker and one each by Foster and Short. Bagwell is a contender in their league with a gallery of top hitters, and are determined to be up on top with Becton No. 1.

Two forfeits marred the first week of spring intramural sports. Becton No. 1 gained a forfeit over Owen No. 1 and Syme got one over Bagwell No. 2. In the only other game last week, Turlington No. 2 downed West Haven by 7-1.

just can't seem to beat those guys," he says, "but we have a very good club this year, and we are going to do our best to beat everybody."
Second base will be well covered this season as it was last year. Brinson is the kind of a ball player that never gives up, for he keeps hustling right down to the last out. It is a good bet that he will improve his batting average considerably this year. Coach Sorrell rarely makes an error, and if he thinks that Roland hits well enough for that important number one slot, chances are better than even that the coach is right.

When you go out to see the Wolfpack play this year, and go often because they will be playing good ball, and that ball starts between first and second, rest easy, for if it can be had, Brinson will get it.

terman, Don Woodlief, was back, and he had toiled only 22 innings last year.

But Wake Forest's pitching seems to have panned out. Until Saturday, no team had been able to get more than two runs off Deacon pitching. Righthander Rudy Williams, a freshman, blanked Carolina's Tar Heels, 4-0, Friday on four hits.

State's triumph over the Deacons elevated the Wolfpack into first place in the Southern standings. It was State's only league appearance to date.

The Northern Division ran headlong into the weather jinx and had most of its activity of the past week postponed because of rain and wet grounds. Only one loop tilt has been played so far. George Washington's Colonial edged William and Mary, 3-2, to take the top spot in the North standings.

Maryland's Terps and West Virginia's Mountaineers, the two top ranked contenders for Northern honors, both had to postpone their conference inaugurals because of rain.

In Saturday's action, State squeezed by Wake Forest, 8-7. South Carolina surprised Clemson, 6-4; Carolina downed Pennsylvania, 6-2, and Furman swept a double

Softball dominated the fraternity sports for the week. Phi Epsilon Pi collected 14 runs in the first inning against Phi Kappa Tau and went on to win the game by a wide 23 to 5 margin. The high scoring game saw seven men connect for home runs. Slamming out the four baggers for the PEP's were; Greenberg, Cvaniga, Brettler, Nalven, and Rutberg. While Blackwelder and Roddey connected for the PKT's

In another high scoring game, Sigma Phi Epsilon downed Sigma Pi by 20 to 2. The SPE's started off the game with 16 runs in the top of the first, to insure them of an easy win. They collected two more runs in the second inning and the same amount again in the third, while Sigma Pi hit for their two runs in the bottom of the third. Millsaps and Styers collected a home run apiece for the SPE's.

Pi Kappa Phi started off their game with Sigma Alpha Mu with five runs in the top of the first, while Sigma Alpha Mu countered with 14 in the same inning. Both teams hit for one run apiece in the second inning, and in the third, PKP picked up five more to SAM's two runs for that inning. Both teams were scoreless in the fourth. Pi Kappa Phi started a rally in the top of the fifth and collected five more runs before the third out, but the rally fell one short of the needed runs in order to tie the game up. The final score was SAM 17, and PKP 16.

In the first inning of the Tau Kappa Epsilon vs. Sigma Alpha Epsilon battle the SAE's took a one run lead, which they increased in the second inning to a six to three lead. Tau Kappa Epsilon took over the scoring role from there on in collecting seven runs in the third and six more in the fourth, to win the game with a 16 to 6 score.

Strange, Pi Kappa Alpha, and Winston, Lambda Chi Alpha, turned in good mound duty in 8 to 5 PiKA win. Collecting two runs in the first and six in the third the PiKA's were able to hold their lead over the Lambda Chi's, who scored one run in the first, one in the third, and three in the fifth.

In the Theta Chi, Sigma Chi game, the Sigma Chi's were declared winners by virtue of a forfeit.

Col. William J. Jowdy, Professor of Air Science and Tactics at N. C. State College, announced today that the United States Air Force is offering direct commissions in the Air Force Reserve to college graduates in the fields of science and engineering in order to meet personnel shortages in certain technical specialties such as electronics, communications, weather, and research and development. No work experience or prior military service is required of applicants. Students at accredited colleges and universities may apply after completing 3½ years of college work with a major in engineering, mathematics, physics, chemistry, or such other specialties as may be required by the Air Force from time to time. Commissions will be tendered in the rank of Second Lieutenant only after the applicant has graduated with a B.S. or B.A. degree.

After a 2 month USAF officer basic military course at Lackland AFB, Texas, the new officers will receive training at Air Force Technical Schools, or in civilian institutions for certain specialties like weather, or in on-the-job training in air force research and development laboratories.

"THEY HAD ME

He's fast—he's smart—he covers ground—he's a real varsity outfielder! The 'quick-trick' cigarette mildness tests were almost too hot to handle, but he didn't make an error. He realized that cigarette mildness can't be judged in slam-bang fashion. Millions of smokers throughout America know, too, there's a thorough way to judge cigarette mildness!
