Sigma Pi, Syme Dorm Win Display Events

The awards for best Homecoming decorations were won by the following; first place, Syme dormitory and Sigma Pi fraternity, second place Tucker Dormitory and Pi Kappa Tau fraternity, third, Owen dormitory and Sigma Nu fraternity.

The prizes, plaques for the dormitories and loving cups for the fraternity houses were presented by the Raleigh Merchants Bureau.

The theme of Sigma Pi's first place winner was a movie set depicting the Wolfpack in a fort fighting off attacking Indians. Coaches Feathers and Rotella were seated directing the action. The figures in the fort, representing the Wolfpack, were dressed in Confederate type uniforms in red and white and two of them moved up and down firing over the fort. The Indians in the foreground circled a smoking fire and there were suitable sound effects to complete the show.

Syme dormitory was the temporary home of "Embalming Elmer's Funeral Home." There was a canopy covering the walk leading to a black casket in which an Indian in green uniform was laid out. The arrangements were complete with chairs for mourners, wreaths, book for visitors to sign and the "Happy Hunting Ground" cemetery with grave stones for each team member.

Chancellor Chosen For Weekly News Award

Chancellor John W. Harrelson was named "Tar Heel of the Week" by the News and Observer last week. Without a doubt, the honor was bestowed upon the College Head because of his successful efforts in making State College one of the leading colleges in the nation.

It has been during the Colonel's 17 years of administration that the College has seen much of its growth. When Harrelson took his appointment as Dean of Administration in 1934 (changed to the title of chancellor in 1945), the enrollment of the College was 1,802, and the physical value of the College excluding the land was estimated at $5,000,000. Now the enrollment is 3,703, and the physical value of the plant is in excess of $25,000,000. Right after the War, enrollment reached its highest peak—over 5,000.

Despite the College's great growth, both in physical value and national importance, the Colonel does not feel that the College is ready to sit still.

"We want to expand research activities in the fields that are peculiar to the State," he says, "and in general industries that we have. One of the major things (Continued on Page 2)

AFROTC Graduates Face Duty In June

The 14th Air Force Headquarters has notified the Department of Air Science and Tactics at State College that Air Force ROTC students who receive commissions and degrees between January 1 and March 23, 1952, will be ordered to active duty within 90 days following their graduation.

Col. W. J. Jowdy, head of the State College Department of Air Science and Tactics, announces the formal receipt of the new Air Force ruling yesterday.

An estimated 200 young men in the 42 colleges and universities located in the 14th Air Force 12-state area will be affected by the call. The area extends from New Mexico to North Carolina.

Air Force ROTC students who are veterans are excluded from the call. They may be called should future requirements dictate such action, the Air Force said.

No announcement has been made as to the calling of the several thousand Air Force ROTC students who graduate after March 23. The Air Force said that a decision concerning their call will be announced later, after a "detailed determination of Air Force requirements" is made.

The January-March graduates who are called will be encouraged to apply for flying or meteorology training. These students may also submit requests for evaluation for language training. The Air Force is currently offering language training in the Slavic, Arabic, Romance and Far Eastern language groups.

Big Deal At Field House

The Student Union Games Committee is sponsoring a series of free lectures on how to play bridge. The lessons will be conducted by Mr. Caffey and Mr. Gardner of the College faculty. These lessons are to begin Wednesday, October 31, 1951, at 7:30 in the Field House Classroom. Meredith girls have been invited to attend these lectures also.

The course is open to beginners and intermediates and will be taught in an informal manner. All students are welcome to attend.

Mooners Open Stars To Student Sky Gazers

The College Astronomical Society has announced that they would have the college observatory atop Daniels Hall open to any student who wishes to use the equipment there for astronomical purposes. Beginning Thursday, and every clear Thursday thereafter, members of the Society will be in the observatory to aid those who care to learn more about astronomy. All students are invited to make use of the several telescopes and other equipment available.

At the present time, there is available in the observatory one five inch French built refracting telescope. When necessary repairs are completed, four other telescopes, a twelve inch Newtonian reflector, a twelve inch Cassegrainian reflector, and a six inch Newtonian reflector, will be used. All of these instruments will be in perfect operating condition within the next few months.

For those students and faculty interested in obtaining a practical and a theoretical knowledge of astronomy, the Society is offering a series of lectures this term designed to acquaint the beginner with the basic laws, concepts, and facts in the subject. Society meetings are held in room 113, Daniels Hall, every first and third Thursday of each month. Whenever the weather permits, observations of the discussed objects will be made in the observatory.

For those interested in making a personal telescope, the Society has, in the basement of the Textile Building, the facilities necessary to grind and polish personal mirrors. Several members are at the present time making mirrors ranging from three to eight inches. The society as a whole is endeavoring to finish the mirror and correction plate for a sixteen inch Schmidt Telescopic Camera.

All students and staff members are cordially invited to take part in the activities of the Society.

No Quorum Present As Dinan Takes Office

The Campus Government held a short meeting Tuesday to complete their unfinished business of the last regular session.

John Dinan was sworn in as the new vice-president of the Council. He was elected by the Council last week to fill the vacancy left by Hank Smith, who left Monday for active service in the Armed Forces.

The Council voted to make the members of the Greater University Council ex-officio members of the Council. Attendance by these eleven men is not required, and they receive no voting power.

It was decided that the Council would not buy keys for its members as it has done in the past. The money allotted the Council for this purpose will be used for a more important cause, thereby aiding the budget for the year. Those members who desire recognition keys may order them individually at their own expense.

There was some discussion concerning the proposed changes in the Campus Government Constitution and By-laws, which were set up by the summer Council. It was decided to turn the proposal over to the Laws Committee for further study and consideration before the Council takes formal action on the matter. The proposed changes, if passed by the Council, will then have to be approved by the Student Body and the Board of Trustees of the Greater University.

The Campus Government will hold its next regular meeting on Tuesday, October 30.

Student's Cooperation Aids Raleigh Crisis

J. J. Stewart, spokesman for the College on the present water crisis, has reported that the City is very well pleased with the action taken by the College to aid in the crisis. He says that the students, on the whole, have been very cooperative with the College in its efforts by observing showerless and shaveless Water used from 8:00 a.m. Tuesday, October 23rd until 8:00 a.m. Wednesday, October 24th—278,993 gallons.

Water used from 8:00 a.m. Wednesday, October 24th until 8:00 a.m. Thursday, October 25th—270,983 gallons.

Tuesdays and Thursdays and by being more conservative in their general use of water.

The meter reading for the 24 hour period between 8 a.m. Saturday and 8 a.m. Sunday showed a use of 238,237 gallons of water, a saving of nearly 13,000 gallons over the usual daily consumption of 260,000 gallons. The Monday reading showed a saving of 67,362 gallons. Tuesday's reading showed a use of 264,608 gallons—near the usual amount.

The City water supply was diminished by a minimum of 132,000 gallons by the State Fair last week. The Fair, supposedly using their own supply of water, also had access to City water by a bypass valve around the meter at the fairground, through which water flowed into water pipes at the exposition. Injun Flick Sunday

This Sunday, October 28, the College Union Film committee will present "Stagecoach" starring Claire Trevor and John Wayne.

The place is the Textile Auditorium and the time 2:30 p.m. Admission for students is free with identification and 50 cents for dates and faculty.

Next week the College Union will present "Odd Man Out" with James Mason.

If You Want Money.

All organizations desiring allocations from the Student Activities Fee must fill out a printed form for that purpose. These forms may be picked up at the Campus Government Office. They may be turned in at the same place.

Mark First Y Affair

The State College YMCA opened its active membership drive with its first dance of the year at the Frank Thompson Gym. This dance, given for the associate members started at 7:30 and lasted until 10:30.

The Y brought girls from Peace, Meredith, Rex, Dix Hill, and Raleigh homes and had three attractions to keep the crowd busy.

The first was Bobby Parker who really had a rough time keeping the antics of the square dancers down to minor collisions.

Second, about half way through the dance Ann McLean presented three dancers from the United Arts Institute in three numbers. Anna Maria McLean did an authentic Hawaiian dance followed by Joan Howell and Judy Beth Boyd in two tap numbers. As a finale, all three girls did a Gypsy dance.

After the dancing girls, some State College men from South America sang Spanish songs for the crowd. The group consisted of Raul Echavania, Sami Castrodad, Jaime Garza, Louis Hirbe, and Ovidir Restrepe.

Refreshments were furnished at intermission by Dr. Pepper Bottling Co. and the "Y."

Name It, We Speak It

Otto Teszler, president of Sigma Pi Alpha, Honorary Language Fraternity on this campus, announced last week that his organization, in cooperation with the Modern Language Department, is sponsoring coaching classes to aid foreign language students.

This program has been set up in keeping with Sigma Pi Alpha's aim to promote the study of foreign languages in State College and thus is offered to the students free of charge.

Classes are being held on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday nights from 7:30 until 8:30 in Peele Hall, rooms 209 and 212.

Students taking Spanish, Elementary French, Russian and Advanced and scientific German are cordially invited to attend.

The schedule is as follows: Tuesday—French and Spanish Wednesday—Russian Thursday—Advanced and Scientific German.

Notice

Because the Print Shop is moving into its new building this week, this edition of the TECHNICIAN has been restricted to eight pages. As soon as the presses have been moved the twelve page edition will be resumed.

On or about November 1 the business and editorial offices of the TECHNICIAN will be moved from Tompkins Hall to 1911 Building. The circulation office will move to the new Print Shop Building on the Dunn Ave. extension with the next edition.

LANDSCAPE—

(Continued from Page 1) The scheme's designer, M. J. Williams of the college's Landscape architecture department, and the college engineer, J. McCree Smith have received the fullest cooperation from the contractors who did the work and are soliciting that of the students in order that the project will continue to develop as intended. If the students abuse the area, its purpose will have been lost.

Remarks, caustic, casual, some skeptical, a few helpful, were passed at a rate faster than that of the work itself. The retaining walls have been described as resembling ramparts; the reflecting pool as everything from a sheep dip to a watering trough. And yet the work progressed and the over-all plan, especially the court fronting Holladay Hall, became apparent. Here one might insert that — there is a serious question concerning the merits of a contemporary artist "dolling up" the work of his predecessors.

Some things are beyond help. This was not. The area lacked character, or at least an appealing one. The number of ways open to a student attempting to cross the area were infinite. Not so now. All of the former main thoroughfares have been meticulously followed, with a few more added where necessary. The directions are well-defined and the grades are easier to take. The placement of the retaining walls also helped to solve an extremely bad erosion problem. A layer of fertile topsoil has been added which should make a substantial seedbed for the grass plots and plant materials.

Two at a Time

Should fatigue, or a passionate desire to rest the posterior overtake you, seats are available. The steps fronting the dining hall may be pressed into service for the same purpose. The risers were deliberately left shallow in order to accommodate elderly visitors and post-adolescent alumni. Students can manage two at a time very comfortably, you will note.

A slightly bowed wall was erected at the side of the dining hall to screen the service entrance, while on the left front side a visitors' (not yet so designated) parking area has been provided. As a result of terracing the court, the trees have been brought closer to and more in scale with those passing assunder.

While there are still no lights, one can stroll, with some doll, to the recession below Peele Hall and seat her on "Virgin's bench," so dubbed because a good many young ladies will, in all likelihood, learn the facts of State College life on it.

Perhaps the day is not too far off when, as it becomes an integral part of their environment, student and alumni alike will proudly show off the campus to their families and friends. An attachment for it might even be forthcoming. It is also entirely conceivable that after the scabs of newness have worn off, after the shrubbery and grass are all planted, the realization will come that the ugly duckling, if you will, has been transformed into a beautiful swan . . . and the echo of Chancellor Harrelson's remark as he surveyed the project, "Well, it begins to look as though we do have a campus," will resound throughout the college.

For those who have faltered and groped their way through the darkened pathways—a sign of brightness. A thirty-five-thousand dollar glow will soon illuminate the entire campus. While quoting figures we may as well mention the near one-hundred thousand bricks which were neatly laid in the main court to a fifty-thousand dollar tune.

This somewhat surprising expenditure should induce a good many upper classmen, and theoretically all of the alumni to renew their subscriptions to Life at State College.

John Conner, Duke University's great All-America diving ace, spent the Summer in Bermuda, teaching diving at a swanky hotel.

WATER—

(Continued from Page 1) tion. The City Council did not place the blame on Fair officials for the bypass valve's being open, but they will bill the Fair for the water used.

Although city consumption has been cut somewhat, it has not yet reached the 4,000,000 gallon emergency quota.

Stuart says no more strenuous action along curtailment lines will be taken by the College, unless it is requested by the City Council.

CHANCELLOR CHOSEN—

He also noted the College's need for more space for the School of Design, an auditorium, additional classroom space, and a women's dormitory.

The Chancellor is a native North Carolinian. He spent his early life in Cleveland County and received his early education in that county's schools. He is an alumnus of State College, having earned his degree in Mechanical Engineering here in 1909. He also received his Master's in that field at State in 1915. In 1941, he received an Honorary Doctorate from Wake Forest.

Harrelson worked his way up the ladder. He began as a Math instructor, was slowly promoted to assistant professor and then professor, and finally became head of the Math Department. In 1928 he was appointed by Governor Gardner to act as Head of the State Department of Conservation and Development. He acted in this capacity for four years and then returned to State in 1933. It was the following year that he was named Chancellor of State College and Vice-president of the Consolidated University.

The Chancellor's favorite exercise is walking at night. He and his wife take a nightly walk whenever the weather permits—which has been every night of late. He says he wishes he would get drenched on one of these walks in the very near future.

HOMECOMING—

Tucker dormitory, second prize winner, had a Wolf running with an Indian Maid in his arms and an Indian brave under his feet. The legs of the figure moved and its heart lit up at each step.

Pi Kappa Tau had a puppet show, the puppets being Indians operated by a seven foot wolf standing over the stage. Chief Feathers was watching the show and nodding his approval. The Indian puppets were on their knees and bowed up and down as the wolf figure moved its arm up and down.

The "Owen Sidewalk Cafe" had a large black cooking pot in which an Indian figure was cooking. Tables were set up with silver and chairs and the menu included such items as "Lipski Steak." There was also a red and white awning.

The theme of Sigma Nu's decorations was "Heap Big Smoke but no Fire." An Indian was depicted sending up a smoke signal in cotton reading S.-O. S. A large figure of a Wolf was swinging its fist and hitting an Indian figure in the nose. Arthur Godfrey's record of "Heap Big Smoke" furnished the sound effects.

The decorations was judged by G. A. Moore, Jr., and Kenneth W. Winston, representing the Raleigh Merchants Bureau; Forest Palmer, representing Blue Key; Coach Everrett Case, representing the Monogram Club; Jerry Erdahl, representing the Inter-Dormitory Council; and James Parker, representing the Inter-fraternity Council.

Duke University's varsity basketball team, set to begin its second year under the tutelage of Coach Hal Bradley in December, will be minus only one letterman of last year, guard Scotty York. All-America Dick Groat captains the 1951-52 outfit.

The Technician
Campus
Dear Sir:

I am writing this letter in the hope that you will publish it in an early issue of the paper. As I do not read the paper personally, I am not sure that you have a column for letters from readers and letters from faculty members in particular. The fact that I do not read the Technician is the subject of this letter. A few days ago some of the staff members of this department were discussing student activities. I happened to mention that I hadn't seen a copy of the Technician this year. One of the faculty members who has been here since September, 1950, was surprised to know that the college had a weekly paper. I could hardly criticize him for this because I do not remember seeing the paper last year myself.

It is my general understanding that faculty members must subscribe to the paper. In five years on the campus I have never been approached on the subject. A survey of the number of faculty members that do get copies would be most interesting. I have heard that students sometimes write articles that are critical of faculty members and teaching methods. Such efforts to improve student-faculty relations must be regarded as futile at best. Would it be asking too much to be informed, by letter of course, why the Technician is not freely distributed to all of the campus personnel?

Very truly yours,
R. W. Llewellyn, Asst. Prof.
Dept. of Industrial Engineering

Editor's note: This newspaper, of course, is circulated only to those who purchase subscriptions.

Korean Vets Covered By New Insurance Act

Eligible veterans who served in the Armed Forces since the start of the Korean campaign may apply after discharge for the new post-service term insurance provided by the Insurance Act of 1951, Veterans Administration announced today.

No medical examination is required for this insurance. To be eligible, veterans must have been entitled to indemnity protection under the Indemnity Act of 1951 and must have been ordered into active service for a period in excess of 30 days. This would include veterans ordered into such service who were in service on June 27, 1950 and those entering service on and after that date. VA said these veterans need not have served in the Korean campaign itself; the required service anywhere in the world will meet this eligibility requirement of the law.

The other requirement is that they must apply in writing to VA for this insurance within 120 days after their separation from service. The application must be accompanied by the correct premium. The new insurance is in the form of a five-year level premium term contract that is renewable every five years at the premium rate for the then-attained age. This insurance may not be converted to any of the permanent plans of insurance administered by VA. It also is non-participating—that is, no dividends will be paid on it.

The new insurance may be applied for in any amount from $1,000 to $10,000 in multiples of $500. A veteran may not carry at any one time an amount of Government life insurance in excess of $10,000. This includes the new insurance, the National Service Life Insurance (World War II) and the U. S. Government Life Insurance (World War I), or any combination of the three.

Shot in the Dark

Sometime in the space of a week, THE TECHNICIAN is picked up by several thousand persons, but that is where our information ends. Frankly, one of our weaknesses is our general inability to read minds.

In this age of progressive thinking, newspaper writers have been placed to a limited extent in the human category, doubtlessly with some misgivings. Moreover, these aforementioned creatures have likewise from time to time displayed a trait which is unmistakably human—vanity.

This isn't the vanity of a haircut or a new suit, it isn't even the vanity of a gold medal or a blue ribbon. We want to feel that our work is simply something more than blobs of ink on pieces of newsprint. We want to know if there is a human element beyond the walls of our office, and what this element thinks about. Our vanity is little more than recognition.

Our reporters find out the wheres and the whats. We pretty much cover the news to our way of thinking. When we formulated our editorial policy, we weighed our years at school and our experiences and wrote what we thought was best. But it's always "we," never you.

Are we too presumptuous in assuming that you possess the ability to think and reason and express yourself intelligently. Or are we in truth in a sort of semi-pantomime in which students just move their mouths, but no sound comes out.

It's time to exercise your mental abilities before they are atrophied from disuse. If you don't agree with us on a story or an editorial, get up on your hindlegs and come over to the office. If you're unsteady on your feet write us a postcard or call us up. But don't go home and sulk, that's what the man does that lacks self-confidence. And from the looks of things we all need a good dose of the stuff.

Man of the Week

We wish to congratulate the Raleigh News and Observer on its current choice for Tarheel of the Week. In the selection of Chancellor John W. Harrelson, there is at last a visage of well earned, but generally belated recognition.

The job of holding an institution together in a period of greatest stress requires unusual ability in a score of fields. Every tendency today along educational lines is destructive in nature, and to not only counter these tendencies, but make progress is a record which few can report.

We would offer our best wishes and our thanks to Chancellor Harrelson.

DEM

Competition?

Friday night saw the YMCA break a long standing tradition when it sponsored a social dance in the Gymnasium. It is also understood that the "Y" plans to add a new social room.

The question is whether this spurt of activity comes as a result of more energetic student leadership, or whether it marks the beginning of a competition with the College Union.

Both the Union and the YMCA have definite functions to perform on the campus, but their functions, though related, should not overlap. The YMCA is long-established and is widely respected on the campus while the Union is a new project. As a consequence the "Y" may have been forced to assume functions which should now be handled by the Union.

Competition is a marvelous thing and could perform wonders on this campus, but it is questionable whether the student body will gain through a competitive race between the Union and the YMCA at the social, non-intellectual level. There is much that the "Y" can accomplish above and beyond this level.

Surely there is much to do in broadening the average student's tastes to include more than girls and refreshments.

Back to the Legislature

Late next month a State College delegation will participate in the North Carolina Student Legislature for the first time in several years. Although State was instrumental in founding the organization, interest died out and has only recently revived.

The student body will benefit only indirectly from our school's participation in the Legislature. The debating and maneuvering done by the student representatives from our school will have no profound effect upon the future of our state or our school. But, the training that our representatives will get during that one weekend will be brought back into our campus organizations where it is direly needed.

State's return to the Legislature is to be hailed as an indication of the reawakening student interest in leadership. As a part of the new desire on the campus for the things that lead to a real education.

Be Present and Accounted For

Officers and members of the Campus Government Council, when sworn in, repeat an oath of office which reads in part, "I . . . do solemnly promise to fulfill the duties of this office . . . (and) I promise to attend the meetings of the Council."

Unless the members of the Council do attend the business sessions and committee meetings they cannot fulfill their duties. No official business could have been transacted at the last Council meeting because a quorum was not present.

This will be an important year for the Council, but all members must attend all meetings if the decisions of the Council are to represent the thinking of all interests. Every absent member means that one segment of the campus has temporarily lost its voice in governing its affairs. That cannot be. Those members who do not maintain satisfactory attendance records must be invited to resign.

From the Los Angeles, Calif. NEWS: "Fog and smog rolled over Los Angeles today, closing two airports and slowing snails to a traffic pace."

From a radio column in the Corpus Christi, Texas, CALLER: "Helen Traubel will be so-lost with the NBC Symphony this afternoon at 5:30."

Farmers And Spittle Bugs

By PAUL FOGHT

One of our staff members from the Ag School informs us that the sheriff recently put a Wake County cattle farmer out of business. The farming done on this place was too well diversified to suit the law.

Coaching must be a rough racket. Feathers was giving the bench such a hard ride on Saturday that he exhausted his supply of cigarettes. Fortunately Marcel Martin was able to loan our impoverished mentor enough of the nasty things to last through the first half.

Some people will take anything that's free. To test this hypothesis we sampled the wares displayed in the D. H. Hill Library under the placard, "Take One if You Can Use It." There we found dozens of fascinating little publications issued by various governmental bureaus across the nation. We gathered an arm load of these numbers and set out to follow the advice found therein.

Our first item was the CAA's Seaplane Facility Directory. Thought it would be nice to take a little spin down to Elizabeth City, but when we read that we must, "avoid LTA t/c area SE Twrs SE S" we gave it up.

Anyway, we couldn't find any seaplane bases in Kansas where we wanted to check up on the validity of a booklet entitled, Producing and Marketing Eggs in the Wichita Area.

Since we couldn't get out to Wichita we decided to stay home and study some other charming items including: Spittle Bug Control on Alfalfa and Clover, The Imported Cabbageworm (in color) and a piece from the State Department on Whaling: amendments to the schedule to the international whaling convention signed at Washington.

This suggests to us that a busy and secure future might be found in the printing trades.

From Aubrey Shaw of Sam Ragan's journalism class comes word that Harry Simpson has discovered a bob-tailed squirrel on the campus. Mr. Simpson suspects that the animal was maimed while trying to cross Hillsboro Street. Not at all unlikely.

The Associated Collegiate Press reports that the president of the American sunbathing society last week charged Bethel College, Tennessee, with aiding the Communists by firing a professor discovered to be a nudist.

Said the sunshine man, "... An out-and-out case of intolerance. If the school official hadn't made an issue of it, nobody would have known that the professor was a nudist." Sort of an undercover nudist, hey?

Question: Would next year's homecoming day celebration be more complete by having a homecoming day parade?

Answers:

Bob Brooker, Soph., Textiles

I think it would be more complete as it would warm us for it, and therefore improve our cheering section. A parade, with floats and gay colors would express our spirits and show the team we are rooting for them. Of course it is necessary that everyone participate.

Glenn Nixon, Soph., Education

I believe that a parade would be very appropriate. As a member of the football team, I feel that the spirit of the players as well as the students would be increased.

Max Pruzen, Freshman, Textiles:

I think the idea is a good one, and it might boost school spirits which at present is sadly lacking.

Roger Nelson, Soph., Forestry:

No! A parade through Raleigh when school spirit is so low as it is would not be a success. A poor showing would be typical of State College. It wouldn't be a good idea to show everybody in Raleigh this condition by having a parade of about 50 persons.

Joe Stoll, Senior, Ind. Recreation:
If it could be well organized and well planned, I think it would bring more spirit towards college life here at State.

Stuart Mintzer, Junior, Textiles:
School spirit here at State as it concerns the football team is sadly lacking. Attendance at the Homecoming games is generally poor and there is only slight indication on campus that this game is something special. I'm in favor of anything that can boost the college spirit and a homecoming day parade, properly organized would be a start toward raising the spirit of all men on campus.

Homecoming

Homecoming weekend was a definite success in all the fraternity houses on campus. The annual contest for the best decorated house was won by Sigma Pi. Chairman of the decorating committee was George Lambert, but the display was designed and constructed by the entire chapter. A good deal of the credit for second-place-winning decorations goes to Bill Futch of Phi Kappa Tau. Bill was instrumental in winning the award for his house. Sigma Nu, which took third place, gives much of the credit to Bob Kral and Frank Goode for getting the boys together in arranging the decorations.

This Week

It seems there is never a let-down in the weekend social plans of the seventeen houses on campus. With Halloween not very far off, a few of the houses, including Theta Chi and Tau Kappa Epsilon, are planning costume parties this Saturday. A majority of the other houses are having the usual Saturday night house party.

Phi Kappa Tau is planning a formal initiation of seven men this Saturday night. The initiates include Ray Bradley, Tommy Blackwelder, Tommy Cottingham, Bobby Helms, Hill Humphrey, Jake Aycock, and Wayne Beal.

Phi Kappa Phi, with several successful social affairs already on record, is looking forward to one of the best years they ever had. Together with the thirteen pledges, the brothers have painted, remodeled, and redecored the entire house including the recreation room. Starting next week the new slate of officers headed by Ed Chapman, Archon; Woody Mune, Treasurer; and Frank Perkins, Secretary, will take over their respective duties at the PKP house.

PRESSURE FOOTBALL—

THIS gave Kentucky alumni and friends the football urge. Dr. Harman L. Donovan, the new president, came from Eastern State Teachers of Richmond, Ky. He had been a classmate of Guy Huguelet, president of Kentucky's Board of Trustees.

Basketball taught Kentucky that it pays to advertise, something Huguelet knew in the first place.

A basketball coliseum, across the street from Stoll Field, accommodating 12,000 and costing more than $4,000,000, was completed in May, 1950.

Losing football was not regarded by Huguelet as morale building. He had a warm ally in Donovan. Both believed that Kentucky was richly entitled to a football team measuring up to its size and position in the scholastic scheme.

WITH Huguelet kicking in $10,000, a fund-raising campaign in the Winter of 1945 grossed more than $100,000. Paul Bryant, who was the other end with the fabled Don Hutson at Alabama in 1933-35, was brought on from Maryland as head coach.

Kentucky was in high-pressure football with both feet.

Duke Booters Stop Pack 1-0

By CHARLIE MOORE

State's soccer team played a sensational defensive game against the Duke University soccermen, and nearly held the highly rated Blue Devils to a scoreless tie; but in the first part of the fourth quarter, Duke's center halfback James, scored on a beautifully placed corner kick that soared through the uprights. This lone tally enabled the Dukes to take the game 1 to 0.

For State, Castro, center forward, Ramiraz, left halfback, and Kragus, were looking very good. Also Zalfagri, who has played both of the season's openers, is continuing his steady game.

The Blue Devil coach tagged the State defense as tops. The Dukes should run Maryland for the Conference crown this season.

On Thursday, October 25th, De Groats booters will tangle legs with Washington and Lee here at 3:00 p.m. Washington and Lee has a tall team and likes to play the ball up high. This should be a good spectator game, so all students are urged to be on hand for this one.

Pi Kappa Phi picked up two important victories this week, one a forfeit over Delta Sigma Phi, and the other a 13-7 win over Kappa Sigma. Dick Hinson paced the PKP team with a five yard touchdown run around left end, and Paul Johnson made the other TD when he caught a pass and ran forty yards for the score. Bud Casler made the lone score for the Kappa Sigs when he intercepted a pass and ran for a touchdown.

Sigma Nu, led by Cotton, Cook, Kendall, and Foster, squeezed out a 6-0 victory over Sigma Pi, who earlier in the week took the SPE's by a 12-2 score.

In a hard fought game resulting in several injuries to both sides, Kappa Alpha outscored Phi Epsilon Pi by 12-6. Both teams were beaten by Tau Kappa Epsilon, who, together with one other victory, boasts an unbeaten and unscored-upon record. PIKA beat Sigma Alpha Mu in a hard fought game by a 19-0 score.

Volleyball

AGR beat Sigma Pi in two straight games, 15-2, 15-9. TKE took PKP in two of three. Sigma Chi beat Kappa Alpha by identical scores of 15-10 to keep their unbeaten record intact. SAM, Sigma Nu, and PIKA also won their Volleyball games this week.

Dormitory Intramurals

By JIM TWYFORD

Becton No. 1 Stomps Welch
The Becton volleyball team was too much for the boys from Welch as they took two straight games with little resistance. Welch only scored two points in the last game. Capper, Bavis, Dobbins and Dula were the stars for Becton.

Becton No. 2 Edges Syme
Becton had to win the last two games to beat a hard fighting Syme volleyball team. Syme took the first game, but Becton came back strong and captured the second one. The third game was a thriller with Becton pulling out in the last few minutes to win 15-12. Bob Black and Robinson were good on spikes for Syme.

Berry Continues Win Streak
The Berry volleyball continued its win streak with two easy wins over Bagwell No. 1. Ledbetter, Gresham and Rodgers were the "Giants" on the Berry team.

West Haven Beats Tucker No. 2
West Haven continued to beat everyone in its section with two straight wins over a hard fighting but inexperienced Tucker team.

Tucker No. 1 Easily Defeats Turlington No. 2

In two straight games Tucker beat Turlington with little effort. Tucker has improved rapidly and expects to be able to give any volleyball team a fight.

Handball in Semi-Finals
The dormitory handball tournament is now in the semi-final rounds. Oct. 29, Becton No. 1 will meet Berry, and Becton No. 2 will face Turlington No. 2.

Alexander Downs West Haven
Lockwood of Alexander intercepted a West Haven pass and ran it sixty yards for a touchdown. After that play Alexander scored again to beat West Haven 12-0. Gregg, Stinson, Hard and Lockwood were the outstanding players for Alexander.

Becton No. 1 Wins Two
Becton continued its win streak by taking two games last week. The first came at the hands of the hapless Bagwell No. 1 team by 33-0. Six pass interceptions by Becton put the game on ice as Becton built up an early lead and never relinquished it. David led the offense by scoring three times and passing for the others. Jenkins scored twice and Dobbins made the other touchdown. Armstrong, Alley, Bray and Davis led in the defensive play for Becton.

In the second game, Becton No. 1 routed Tucker No. 2 30-0. Becton led at the first half 18-0 and scored the other two in the last half. Weeks again led the offense with two touchdowns. Davis, Strasser and Jenkins accounted for the others. Armstrong, Alley, Bray and Dobbins were the defensive standouts.

Becton No. 2 Beats Berry
Two long passes from Arndt to Everhart accounted for two Becton touchdowns which proved the way for a 12-6 victory over Berry.

Globetrotters To Play In Coliseum

Practically everyone who saw the world-famous Harlem Globetrotters in William Neal Reynolds Coliseum here last year left the huge indoor arena with a yearning to see the great Negro basketball players and entertainers again.

And to gratify that yearning, Director W. Z. Betts announces that the Globetrotters are coming back to Raleigh and will stage another top-flight exhibition of basketball, comedy and tricks in the Coliseum, Friday evening, November 2, at 7:30 p.m.

As it was last year, it will be a doubleheader of thrills and fun—two full length court battles with an entertainment intermission. The first game will be between the Boston Whirlwinds and Philly Sphas; and the second will feature the one and only Globetrotters pitted against the North Carolina College All-Stars. There will be no second-rate basketball in the Globetrotters' big show—it will be strictly first-class from start to finish.

And when the Globetrotters come back to appear before an audience that Director Betts predicts will be packed to the rafters by fans from all parts of Central and Eastern Carolina, they will have their famous stars—Reece "Goose" Tatum, the "Clown Prince" of the basketball world, and Marques Haynes, the dribbling sensation who has thrilled throngs throughout the world. Tatum not only is a good basketball player, but he is the peer of cage comedians. He keeps the audience laughing from start to finish, and is a scintillating show all by himself. It is worth the price of admission just to see the "Goose" in action.

Besides the "Goose" and Haynes, the Globetrotters will have an array of basketball stars of the first rank that will perform in the second half of the doubleheader.

The Globetrotters are coming to Raleigh again at the start of their 25th consecutive season. The Silver Anniversary is a significant thing to them, and they intend to give one of the best performances in their unprecedented career.

With the exception of the Maryland game, the Wolfpack has no chance to gain any prestige in their remaining games. Besides Maryland they have yet to face V.P.I., Louisville, and Davidson. Winning all three of these games by comfortable margins will not bring any recognition from anyone because, according to the experts, these games are supposed to be push-overs for State.

So that leaves Maryland as the last chance for Coach Feathers and his squad to save face. State beat this mighty conference foe last year, but the task will be somewhat harder this time. Maryland is much stronger this year than they were last. Carolina played their greatest game last week and still lost. And what is more important is the loss that State handed the Terrapins last year. They still feel bad about that one in College Park, and the Terps will be out for revenge.

The Maryland game is still a long way off, November 17, so the team has plenty of time to ready themselves for the big test. Let's hope the results are favorable.

Pack Plans Feast On Tech Gobblers

By JOE BENNETT

The two losingest teams in the Southern Conference will meet at Blacksburg, Va. tomorrow afternoon to battle it out for the dubious honor of occupying the bottom spot in the Conference. State, after rolling over tiny Catawba, has lost five in a row, while V.P.I. has lost four straight.

After scoring 34 points against Catawba, the Pack hit the doldrums for the next three games, and the only score they could muster came by way of an 85 yard punt return by Alex Webster. Then in the next two games they broke into a flurry of touchdowns, the like of which has not been seen by Wolfpack followers for quite awhile. They hit for three against Duke and four against William and Mary, but lost in the waning moments of both (Continued on Page 7)

Riddick Stadium last week. The meager homecoming crowd was quite saddening. I suppose college football can be a money making proposition, but not as we have it here.

* * * * *

The basketball scandal has added a few more names to its already overwhelming list. This time it was in the Baron's domain, and two of his best pupils were indicted when the authorities pulled in Alex Groza and Ralph Beard.

Who will be next? The New York District Attorney's office reports that the list is far from complete, and that more and more schools and players will be involved. These lawmen have also given indication that the Southern Conference will not come out unscathed. It is a horrible thing to think about, but the next one could very easily be State College. We should all keep our fingers crossed and hope that there are no skeletons in the Wolfpack closet.

The results of last week's predictions were so bad that we have given up completely. The percentages are all in the low sixties, and our prides just couldn't take it any longer.

PRESSURE FOOTBALL

Kentucky Plays Football Too

(Another in a series telling how "pressure football" builds giant college grid empires by Harry Grayson.)

LEXINGTON, KY.—Kentucky is a land of fast horses and beautiful women.

Add football to the speed department.

Dr. Frank L. McVey, strictly academic, retired in 1941 after having been president of the University of Kentucky for 20-odd years. Curiously old-fashioned, McVey believed that the Autumn assault and battery should be treated like any other extra-curricular activity, say the Glee Club.

The result was that while the University of Kentucky was a member in good standing of the swift Southeastern Conference, it really played in an entirely different and much slower league.

Meanwhile, Baron Adolph Rupp had come from Kansas bringing with him the finest college basketball in the country. The shooting Wildcats won the National Collegiate Athletic Association and National Invitation Tournaments and something like 13 straight conference titles.

games. It seems that by concentrating on the offense, the defense suffered.

Two Year Losing Streak

The Gobblers in losing four games have only scored 39 points, while their opponents have scored 158 against them. Tech is still looking for its first victory under Frank Moseley, new head coach, who must find it frustrating to lose so often after being backfield coach at Kentucky under Paul Bryant. Tech has lost its last fourteen games in a row, including ten last year and four this year. Their last win came on November 12, 1949 with a 23-13 victory over Richmond. The following week they tied V.M.I. 23-23, and have been winless since.

Homecoming

This week-end is Homecoming for the Gobblers, and they will be gunning for an upset. The situation is much the same as it was in 1946 when the Pack, 14 point favorites, journeyed to Blackburg on Homecoming and were upset 14-6. There is only one slight difference. In 1946 State had won four games in a row, rolling over Duke, Wake Forest, Clemson, and Davidson; while in 1951 they have won one in a row and have been rolled by Carolina, Wake Forest, Clemson, Duke, and William and Mary.

Injuries Hurt

State will be weakened by injuries to key players. No less than five men are hampered by injuries and two lettermen, Tackle Fred Beaver and Fullback Harvey Yeates, are lost for the season with broken legs. The other five are Elmer Costa, who required seven stitches to close a hand cut; Tailback Alex Webster, hampered by a bruised back; Fullback Jim O'Rourke with a shoulder separation; Wingback Jimmy Smith, who pulled a leg muscle; and Tackle Jim Hillman with a bruised cheekbone. Although they likely will see some action against V.P.I., they won't be in top shape.

Evening Classes Begin

Four of the courses in the current series of evening classes now in progress at State College have vacancies and will accept new students this week.

Eugene Starnes, assistant director of the college's Extension Division, announced yesterday that students may register by calling the Extension Division office or by attending the class meetings this week.

He emphasized, however, that this week will mark the final registration period for the classes.

Classes with vacancies and their schedules:

Public speaking, Tuesday at 7 p.m., 109 Pullen Hall; home decoration, Tuesday at 7:15 p.m., 111 Tompkins Hall; psychology of personality and development, Wednesday at 7 p.m., 113 Tompkins Hall; introduction to psychology, Thursday at 7:15 p.m., 113 Tompkins Hall.

The courses in psychology both carry college credit which may be used by teachers in renewing their certificates.
