Logger's Brawl Sees Unbelievable Feats

The days of Paul Bunyan were revived for a short time on Saturday night, February 21, when the Forestry Club at N. C. State College had its annual Logger's Brawl at Hill Forest, the summer camp of the Forestry School 30 miles northeast of Durham. Mighty yarns of daring deeds and unbelievable feats in logging the North Woods were swapped freely back and forth as foresters and their dates, attired in blue jeans and plaid shirts, descended on Hill Forest for a barbecue supper and an evening of dancing in the "brawl room."

The couples danced to the strains of old and modern folk music, ably supplied by Smokey and the Ridge Runners, the official musicians of the Forestry Club. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wells, 1500 Hillsboro St., were chosen "Bull and Queen of the Woods" and were awarded miniature axes by the most notorious yarn-spinner of them all, Professor George Slocum. The award was made to the couple looking most like a logger and his wife.

Bill Huckster, Chairman of the Logger's Brawl, stated at the last Forestry Club meeting that the "Brawl" was a success. There was plenty to eat, a good time was had by all, and the club made $1.25!

Unique Experiment in Education Has Students Participating in Informal Student-Faculty Relationship Talks

Ways to better, and the condition of, student-faculty relations at State College was the topic of an informal discussion in which approximately two dozen students and several faculty members participated on Thursday, Feb. 26, in Peele Lounge. Assistant Dean of Students, Banks Talley presided over the meeting which lasted for two hours and was concluded only because another group of conferees were scheduled to use the lounge at 5:00 p.m.

The discussion was authorized with a program upon which the President has embarked in an effort to determine, "The State of the University."

Conferences scheduled on March 3 and 4 in Chapel Hill were allegedly of a self-examination nature and were regarded as "an unusual experiment in education." The participants were some 200-odd faculty members from State College, the Woman's College and the University at Chapel Hill. At the opening session, President A. Whitney Griswold of Yale University, and President Gordon Gray were listed as the principal speakers. The topic—"The State of the University."

Although the session were called by President Gray, they were organized by a committee of nine members from each of the three institutions under the chairmanship of Dr. Howard W. Odum. President Gray emphasized that the conferences were concerned with such basic, concrete problems as the improvement of college teaching, the proper balance between research and teaching, student-faculty relationships, and the mission of the total University in the richer integration of the three institutions.

Presiding over the groups discussing Student-Faculty Relationships was Albert Keister of the Woman's College. His vice-chairmen were James Painter and Bernice Draper of the Woman's College; W. N. Hicks and Banks Talley of State College; and S. B. Knight and Frank Klingberg of Chapel Hill.

The discussion groups on "University Mission" had three joint chairmen: D. W. Colvard of State, Harry Wolf of Chapel Hill and Franklin H. McNutt of Woman's College; William Babcock and E. G. Thurlow of State; and Rex Winslow and Henry Brandis of Chapel Hill.

Students from State who were invited to attend the evening session on March 4 included Bill Oliver, acting as Campus Government President Vincent Outland's alternate, and Bob Horn, TECHNICIAN editor.

All the glory of the Old West is recaptured in the lavish production, a new stage version of Owen Wister's "The Virginian," which the world famous Barter Theatre of Virginia is presenting Saturday, March 14 at 8:30 in Pullen Hall. The presentation is being sponsored by the College Union Theatre Committee.

Students will be admitted by registration card. Dates are free. Faculty and staff College Union membership cards will be honored. Straight admissions are $1.80 per person.

Greater Student Consideration Urged

CUSC Suggests President Gray Might Quell Student-Administration Difference With Establishment of Periodic Press Confabs

A lively session marked the annual term meeting of the Consolidated University Student Council which was held on Sunday in the "Y" Conference Room.

State played host to delegations from Carolina and the Woman's College and although a comparatively small number of the delegates were on hand, the session did not lack for interest or extent of participation.

The Carolina Delegation came equipped with tentative resolutions around which discussions centered. The resolutions were not drawn up formally and were, as their chairman put it, "in the nebulous stage." The first resolution was based on the belief that "student opinion is at present heard in too perfunctory a way, a way which leaves GUSC in a untenable position."

The gist of it was that students should be given a greater share in the responsibility of making decisions which affect them, and that student opinion should be given more weight by the Consolidated Administration, especially before the Consolidated Administration reaches a decision concerning a given matter.

Resolution number two was prefaced by a statement which said that much of the student's objection to Consolidated Administration decisions is based on misunderstanding, and even a complete absence of understanding. It went on to say that, "a great expanded effort to disseminate information concerning Consolidated Administration attitudes and opinions would in all probability have a salutary effect upon Consolidated Administration-student relations." Then the resolution itself suggested that "at the very least, a periodic newspaper report to the students on the attitudes and opinions of the President of the Consolidated University would be recommended."

Resolution number three was in the most nebulous stage. Generally, it encouraged GUSC to go on record "affirming the rights of students to live their own lives—to be recognized as a group of self-determining human beings—with their own rights and property outside of the classroom." In pursuit of this principle the resolution went on to state that "a criterion of minimum interference with students outside of class is recommended." The chairman of the Carolina Delegation said that the last resolution was intended to assert a firm stand on an issue which appears to be headed to the fore in the near future. It was designed, "to cope with an attitude which is suspected, through by no means yet fully revealed, on the part of the administration with reference

Faculty Appraisal Program Outlined

Dean Talley Thanks C. G. For Commendation Resolution; Insurance Discussed

The last meeting of the Campus Government this term was held on Tuesday, March 3. The meeting was opened with the reading of a letter from Chancellor Harrelson commending the body for the recognition shown to Dean Banks Talley for his services as assistant dean of students. The letter stated that in the event ex-dean Ned Wood, who is on leave of absence, did not return to fill the position, Mr. Talley would have the "inside track" for retaining his position. Part of a letter from Dean Talley was read thanking the Campus Government for the petition which requested that he be retained on the campus in some responsible position.

Dave Barrett, Chairman of the Faculty Evaluation Committee, then reported on the progress made by his committee and asked for suggestions from the group as to how the proposed system could be improved. Dave stated that he was in favor of cutting the length of the forms and concentrating on gaining more helpful information by changing the nature of the questions.

The aim of the plan is to draw-out helpful suggestions instead of conducting a popularity poll. He plans to divide the form into two parts—one part to be for the evaluation of the instruction and one for the evaluation of the course.

According to the original proposal, the instructors rating portion of the form would go only to this instructor being rated and the portion relating to the course would go to the heads of the departments.

The group discussed the various angles of the plan and there was considerable controversy about some of the issues. Dave promised that he would attempt to have something definite to present at the next meeting so that the plan could be put into effect next quarter.

The rest of the hour was spent discussing the Student Accident Insurance Plan. This discussion was necessarily limited because of lack of time but the Campus Government voted to let the Welfare Committee draw up a petition to be presented to Chancellor Harrelson and in turn to the President of the Greater University requesting that the insurance plan be handled through the Business Office to the extent that they:

- (1) Receive remittance of premiums
- (2) Tabulate and remit receipts to Insurance Company
- (3) Send out brochures to students explaining the nature of the policy offered
- (4) If possible, include the price of the policy on the bills for the tuition and make it plain that the policy is optional.

Chairman Poplin indicated that he had received some prices on policies and that he would like for the group to decide on a policy tentatively, but the meeting had to be adjourned before this could be acted upon.

February 23rd meeting at which the report of the Visiting Committee was read and then later adopted and approved by majority vote.

The conclusions and recommendations of the Visiting Committee, exclusive of their endorsement of Saturday classes at Chapel Hill and adoption of the Semester system which appear in another part of the 26-page report, is reprinted below along with a list of the members of the committee. All are N. C. residents.

Members: Mrs. Ed. M. Anderson, West Jefferson; Mr. C. A. Cannon, Kannapolis; Mr. James H. Clark, Elizabethtown; Mr. Percy Ferebee, Andrews; Mrs. R. S. Ferguson, Taylorsville; Mr. O. Max Gardner, Jr., Shelby; Mr. R. L. Harris, Roxboro; Mrs. Virginia T. Lathrop, Asheville; Mr. William Saunders, Aberdeen; Mr. Benton Stacy, Ruffin; Mr. D. L. Ward, New Bern; Mr. Victor S. Bryant, Chairman, Durham.

Conclusions and Recommendations

We conclude this report with the following specific recommendations:

1. That unsparing efforts be continued to obtain faculties of the highest quality at the three branches.

2. That there be continued insistence upon those conditions, including adequate compensation, scholarly opportunity and academic freedom, which will make our campuses congenial for those interested in sound teaching, scholarship and research.

3. That more emphasis be put on teaching in the undergraduate schools, with proper recognition and promotion for excellence in teaching.

4. That the Administration consider the advisability of more full-time faculty members and a higher selectivity in appointing part-time instructors.

5. That some consideration be given to a liaison with the public school authorities in an effort to bridge the gap between high school preparation and college work.

6. That more faculty-student contacts of the nature outlined above be encouraged.

7. That efforts be made to in-week-ends on the campuses.

8. That more effort be made to explain the purposes and functions of the University to the students.

9. That steps be taken to secure the assistance of parents in discouraging the use of automobiles by students at the University.

10. That Saturday classes be put in effect at Chapel Hill.

There are many fine and wholesome more students to spend their some things about each of the three branches of the University to which we have not referred in this report. We rejoice in the high achievement which North Carolina expects of the University and of which we found heartening evidence. Much needs to be done, however, and we are confident that, if approved by the Trustees, the questions we raise and the measures we propose will be welcomed by the faculty and the Administration as constructive suggestions for further improvement.

Respectfully submitted for the Committee,
VICTOR S. BRYANT, Chairman.

New Psyc. Course Merges Human and Mechanical in Designing Machines

A new course in psychology, not included in the latest catalogue of courses offered at State, will be taught this spring.

The new course is Psychology 441 and is entitled "Human Factors in Equipment Design." Psychology 200 is a prerequisite for the course which is tentatively to be taught at 12:00 Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

The following information about the course comes from Mr. Kelly who instituted and will teach it: During World War II, engineers began to consult psychologists on those equipment design problems in which knowledge of human capacities and skills played an important role. As the number and variety of these problems increased, a new specialty developed within the field of psychology. It has been called bio-mechanics, human engineering, or engineering psychology.

Applications of bio-mechanics include the design of displays and indicators for maximum legibility, the design of controls, and the integration of displays and controls in complex equipment. Less obvious but equally important problems include consideration of the human as an element in a closed-loop system, human information-handling capacity, and analysis of the efficiency of man-machine systems. The course will include consideration of these topics as part of a general approach to man-machine problems.

Dogger New 'Bugger'

Dr. James R. Dogger has been appointed assistant research professor in the Department of Entomology at N. C. State College. The appointment of Dogger, whose work will deal with insects affecting field and forage crops, was made possible through money contributed by farmers to the Nickels for Know-How program. Dogger came to State College from Oklahoma A. and M. where he was in charge of cotton insect work.

State . . . . . Side . . . . . THE EDITOR'S NOTES IN PASSING

Talk about petty practices, get a load of this account concerning one of our lady faculty members. A freshman has a two hour afternoon lab in which an exam had been scheduled for the first part. Just before lab time, a message came that the student's father had broken his leg and that the student was needed at home. Rather than miss the class entirely, the student attended it, took the exam and then asked if he could be excused after explaining his plight. Did the teacher understand and let him go? Oh no. She turned in a cut on the boy for the last half of the lab. How "chicken" can a person get?

While it is true that many of the classes taught on this campus are of such nature as to deem it advisable for students to attend them in blue jeans and sweat shirts, it is most unlikely that the people who attend these classes thus attired own no other dressier wearing apparel. Why is it then, that we see quite a few State College students parading on the streets of downtown Raleigh on Saturday night clad in the same clothes which they ordinarily wear to class? Wouldn't State College be better represented on weekends if these unthinking students were to forsake their working clothes, even though they run the risk of losing their identity, in favor of a more suitable habitat.

It is our observation that too few State students avail themselves of the opportunities they have to participate in the Sunday morning worship services held in the local churches. Those who hang back might very well argue that they do not consider all of the local preachers true men of God; however, these same people must concede that the preachers are all true men of good. Go to church next Sunday.

Last week The Technician made mention of the fact that sixty-thousand dollars over and above operating expenses collected from Verville rents had been applied to the debt incurred by the Coliseum during its first two years of operation. When the Trustees Visiting Committee appeared on the campus in November, its members were informed of this transaction and questions concerning its relative merits were asked; however, their report of February 23 makes no reference to the matter.

The Trustees immediate reaction was to ask if the students thought it wise to deprive the Coliseum of this money since the sum (and the implication was that there was no other source of available funds) meant the difference between the continued operation or closing of the Coliseum. The students at whom this question was directed quickly replied that since the Coliseum exists on this campus virtually a separate, commercialized business venture in its own right it should not be dependent on subsidization from Verville rents. The students further let the Trustees know that they thought it morally wrong for the excess rents to be poured down the Coliseum's open drain when the money could very well be set aside (pardon them for being progressive) to finance a permanent Student Housing Development.

The speeding-on-campus problem has become so acute that we are motivated to recommend that off-campus students be restricted to parking in designated lots and that all other students be prohibited from parking and driving on the campus proper during class hours. Special exceptions would have to be made in cases wherein a student would be able to stop at the laundry, etc., and all traffic would be diverted to either Dunn Avenue or University Drive. In addition to these restrictions, the right-of-way on campus during class hours

IFC Verdict A Sham

The manner in which IFC imposed social restrictions on the Kappa Sigma fraternity is worthy of serious consideration. It seems that IFC was intent upon lending everyone the impression that it metted out justice swiftly and decisively when one of its members was found guilty of participating in illegal practices. After the Kappa Sig's were raided by local police and were found in possession of a slot machine, IFC was on the spot. They had to do something to satisfy adverse public opinion.

Subsequently the Inter-fraternity Council agreed to the imposition of a one-year sentence against the Kappa Sig's which would restrict their social privileges. A natural assumption would be that the verdict connoted restriction, without qualification, of all social privileges—house parties, beach parties, formal get-togethers, banquets, loss of votes in IFC and banishment from all IFC-sponsored social functions, Mid-Winters included.

It goes without saying that if Kappa Sig's are really to be banned from IFC functions, they should not be required to continue payment of the IFC quarterly dues which are used primarily to finance the once-a-term blowout.

Oddly enough (or is it so odd), IFC made no such withholding provisions. The Kappa Sig's are still kicking $5 per person per term in to IFC, and yet they are theoretically not entitled to attend the IFC affairs.

So what happens. After certain, or perhaps all component members of IFC turn chicken-hearted and decide that the restrictions are too much of an imposition on Kappa Sig, they send guest Mid-Winters bids to the convicted fraternity, which of course accepts them gratefully. But, by their actions, these benevolent, conscience-stricken fraternities have reduced the IFC "restriction" to a sham.

Pretty shoddy business we'd say.

If the Kappa Sig's are to be officially banned from IFC functions, the $5 assessments which are levied against them should not be collected, for they are in effect being fined if at the same time they are denied the privilege of attending the affairs for which they have shared the expenses.

IFC would do well to clarify its position in this case.

Athletes Bad Bargain

During the past few months we have observed that certain members of certain athletic teams at this institution are not content merely to represent the College by participating in scheduled athletic contests. These individuals have, sadly enough, assumed an additional responsibility which involves their representing the College in new and diverse ways which attract wide-spread attention.

Two football players were recently expelled for stealing, and last year a wrestler was expelled for his light-fingeriness. This year the antics of two former football players resulted in their being hauled into City Court where they were convicted of disorderly conduct and were ordered to pay $10 fines and Court costs.

The notoriously inaccurate local newspapers, true to form, distorted the account of the incident involving the last-mentioned football players and gave it an unwarranted play by attaching a two-column headline to a story which should have been obscured. Of course, there is nothing that we can do about that.

There is one aspect of the recent incident which bears serious consideration though. Is the College getting its money's worth in the case of these athletes: After all, they were hired to come here and participate in athletic contests designed to promote and publicize the College. The adverse publicity which the College received as a result of the recent incident wasn't in the bargain, was it? How long, we are bold enough to ask, can the College afford to keep self-appointed publicists like these on the payroll?

would be given to Pedestrians, the majority of whom are, of course, students.

Between two and three thousand dollars, an entire summer, and quite a bit of hard work were required to recondition Doak field so that it could best serve its intended purpose, and while this is politically a wet county, Raleigh experienced a rather dry summer which made the task of grass-growing comparable to the tedious process whereby blood is extracted from a stone.

Since Coliseum traffic has been diverted to Doak Field it has been gouged and rutted to the extent that it is no longer in usable condition. The time, money, and labor allotted to the project have all been in vain. There is no sense in trying to fix the field up again if cars are to continue using it for parking space.

Our only hope lies in the completion of the Parableum at the State Fair Grounds. Its opening may mean relief for us, even if that relief is only ten-percent.

The way things are shaping up, it won't be too long before State College is completely enveloped in a gigantic, multi-laned traffic network designed to make the Coliseum more accessible. No peace and quiet can the dorm residents adjacent to the Coliseum expect from this day forward. Did we hear someone say that Dribble Hall could well have been built further from the center of our campus?

Design Students Will Try For Paris Prize

Four students and one graduate of the School of Design at North Carolina State College have qualified for the semi-final competition of the $5,000 Paris Prize of Architecture—the world's top award in academic architecture.

Announcement of the list of students and the graduate who have won the right to compete for the honor was made last week by Dean Henry L. Kamphoefner of the college's School of Design, who said the list of persons competing for the award will be reduced to 10 in a 48-hour competition to be held in March.

Charles Boney of Wilmington, a 1950 graduate of the School of Design, qualified for this year's semi-finals by virtue of reaching the finals for the last year's award.

The State College students who will enter the semi-finals this year are Fred Taylor, Kinston; John Caldwell, Asheville; Samuel Hodges, Durham; and Rueben Miller, New York City.

The students reached the semi-finals as a result of their work on a 48-hour problem involving the design of a ferry terminal.

The Paris Prize of Architecture provides for a year's travel and study in Europe and six months of travel and study in the Western Hemisphere. The award was won last year by Edward T. Shirley of Greenville, S. C., a student in the State College School of Design.

Pack Fishman Take Southern Conference Crown

the Technician SPORTS

Views and Previews

JERRY ARMSTRONG, Sports Editor

Spring Sports Are Almost Here

Spring is just around the corner and the spring sports are rounding into shape fast. Coach Sorrell is practicing his baseball squad on every day possible. He has only several lettermen back from last year's team, but he says that prospects are high for a conference winner. Last year the Pack ended the season in second place and with the strong Duke team minus such players as shortstop Dick Groat, this could easily be State's year for a baseball conference crown. Three outstanding infielders are back: shortstop Johnny Yvars, first baseman Eddie Morris, and second baseman Jack Tunney.

Coach Fitzgibbons Announces

Coach Fitzgibbons announced this week that he would like to have every boy possible out for track on March 9, because this is the date for the official start of the outdoor track season. He would like for any boys who are interested in going out for track to come by his office in the Coliseum.

Around and Back

This week the Associated Press announced their All-American selection and the Southern Conference had a member on the second team, Frank Selvy from Furman, and the Pack's own Bobby Speight was on the third team. Congratulations Frank and Bobby!

At the State-Cincinnati game last Saturday night a new kind of a presentation was given Coach Case and his boys. Mr. Vincent Outland presented the Pack with a "Golden Horseshoe" for luck in the Southern Conference Tournament and in the games of the NCAA tournament games, if the Casemen get to carry the load for the conference.

Mr. Outland gave this token of luck for the members of the State student body.

Something new has been added in the line of baseball equipment this year—rubber spikes. It's no joke. The Thermoid Essex Rubber Company has really developed these new spikes, and they say they are much lighter than steel, will give players greater speed while maintaining equally good

Nauss Tournament Individual Hero

Three days of record breaking swimming came to an end last Saturday, with three new Southern Conference records, and a new champion, the Wolfpack of North Carolina State. State's Frank Nauss was the individual hero of the three day event with his one new Southern Conference record and a new pool record in the 1,500-meter freestyle; also he scored the most points of any swimmer in the meet.

The University of North Carolina won nine first places and North Carolina State five during the three-day event. In all, six records were broken. N. C. State scored the most points with an unofficial total of 106.

The Tar Heels were second with 99 points. Other unofficial scoring totals were: Duke 19, V. M. I. 13, V. P. I. 11 and South Carolina 8. Davidson failed to score.

North Carolina and N. C. State both wound up their regular season undefeated. On a flip of the coin, N. C. State received the dual meet championship trophy. As co-champion, North Carolina also will receive one.

New records were set by North Carolina's Buddy Baercke in the 100-yard backstroke, N. C. State's Frank Nauss in the 440-yard freestyle, and North Carolina's Jack Edwards in the 100 freestyle. Baercke swam the 100 backstroke in :59.8, surpassing the old mark of :60.3 set by Jimmy Thomas of North Carolina in 1951.

In the 100 freestyle, Edwards posted a time of :52.7, bettering his mark of :53.2 set last year. Nauss, who also hung up a new record in the 1,500-meter race, set a mark of 4:41.7 in the 440 freestyle, topping his old mark of 4:45.9 set in 1952.

Nauss, individual scoring leader with 19 points, was presented two trophies by Roy Clogston, N. C. State athletic director. He received the Bill Thompson Memorial trophy for winning the 440 and the Frank Shoaf trophy for capturing the 1,500 meter race.

Two other trophies were awarded. N. C. State's Don Sonia received the Emil Hilker Memorial for winning the 50 freestyle. Alan Stenberg of N. C. State was presented the John A. Feutchenberger trophy for finishing first in the one-meter diving.

The summaries:
100-yard backstroke: 1. Baercke (UNC); 2. Dunlap (N. C. State); 3. Heeman (UNC); 4. Johnston (VMI); 5. Hoyd (VMI). :59.8 (new record). Old mark of :60.3 set in 1951 by Jimmy Thomas of North Carolina.

SECOND TEAM

Gene Shue, Maryland (154)
Neild Gordon, Furman (148)
Jack Williams, Wake Forest (139)
Mel Thompson, State (123)
Bill Chambers, Wm. & Mary (103)

Frank Selvy, the fabulous Furman point-getter, is the top man on the official All-Southern Conference basketball first team that could take the floor on any given night and score no less than 112.1 points according to their per-game average for the 1953 season.

This is the mathematical figure for the all-conference team chosen by the Southern Conference Sports Writers Association, the official or-150-yard individual medley: 1. Evans (UNC); 2. Mattson (N. C. State); 3. Heeman (UNC); 4. Jones (VMI); 5. James (N. C. State). 1:32.8.

150-yard individual medley medalist: 1. Johnson (VMI); 2. Roberts (Duke); 3. Hull (N. C. State); 4. Johnston (VMI); 5. Fuller (Duke). 1:43.5.

300-yard medley relay: Won by North Carolina (Baercke, Wall, Tinkham); 2. N. C. State (Dunlap, Arata, Sonia); 3. VMI (Hoyt, Knapp, Toferner); 4. Duke (Moise, Todd, McMillan); 5. VPI (Little, Miller, Emons). 2:57.9.

organization for the selection of the all-conference team.

And if you want to carry the point figures farther, based on the record totalling 57 votes of the sports writers and sportscasters, the first team all-conference could whip the second team All-Conference by the astronomical total of 112.1 to 100.3 in a regulation collegiate basketball game.

Nation's Top Scorer

On the first team, which will rank with all-conference in the nation, according to basketball experts from coast to coast, are Selvy of Furman, the nation's No. 1 scorer with a 29.3 average; Dickie Hemric of Wake Forest, with a 25.1 average; Bobby Speight, co-captain of the No. 1 seeded State Wolfpack in the forthcoming tournament, with a

One of the hot battles in the Dormitory League is being played above as the Syme No. 1 team in white shirts fight for the rebounds against a strong Tucker team. The game was a hard fought one, but Tucker nosed out Syme for the victory.

17.2 average; Jim Sottle, the West Virginia captain, with a 20.4 average; and Joe Holup, the sensational freshman from George Washington University, with his 20.1 average.

That's a first all-conference team average of 112.1 which is typical of the high scoring Dixie league that ranked five teams in the nation's first nine according to NCAA statistics.

But the first club is only a hair ahead of the second all-conference, if figures are to be quoted. The second team averages 100.0, with Maryland's Gene Shue having an average of 20.7, Furman's Neil Gordon 23.8, Wake Forest's Jack Williams at 20.1, State's Mel Thompson at 16.1, and William and Mary's Bill Chambers at 19.6.

It even goes to the third team, keeping this Southern offensive record intact. Bill Reigel, the Duke lefthander, paces the third boys, with a 16.6 average, followed by Richmond's Edmund Harrison at 16.5, Duke's Bernie Janicki at 16.4, Carolina's Vince Grimaldi at 14.5 and State's Davey Gotkin at 13.9. That's a team average of 78 points—which would win practically any game in any conference for the 1953 season.

All but one player of the all-conference—freshman Joe Holup of George Washington—will compete in the conference tournament that begins at Raleigh on Thursday.

For individual games Selvy has a 63 high for the season, Gordon has 52, Hemric 44, and Shue 41. These boys could just keep scoring.

Tracksters Sixth

State's bid for the top place in the Southern Conference Indoor Track Meet at North Carolina last week didn't go too well, but individual stars, Clyde Garrison, Buz Sawyer, and Glenn Yoder gave a good showing and the Pack did take sixth place.

Duke's star-studded track team dethroned Maryland to win its first Southern Conference indoor championship in 15 years.

Coach Bob Chambers' surprising Blue Devils grabbed the lead at the very start of the day-long program and nursed it through the 12-event schedule to emerge with 34 5-6 points to 27 2-3 for runner-up North Carolina and 18 2-3 for Maryland. Duke's total was the lowest for a winning team in 19 years.

VMI, Virginia Tech and North Carolina State all came up with individual winners to keep the point battle close.

Pacing Duke to its long-awaited triumph were Sophomore Joel Shankle of Level Cross, N. C., John Tate and Durham Lawshe. Shankle, who last Spring in the outdoor conference meet, won two hurdles races, finished second in the broad jump and third in the high jump, scored 15 points for top honors. He won the broad jump and high hurdles, finished second in the high jump and third in the low hurdles. Tate staged brilliant stretch drives to win the 440 and 880 and anchored the mile relay team that was second to Maryland.

Lawshe won the shot put with a 48-11<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub> toss, third best in meet history.

Lone conference division record breaker was Ben Lankford, Virginia Tech's high jumper. His 6-5 leap broke the 1949 record of 6-4<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub>, set by North Carolina's Bill Albans.
