President-elect Bill Oliver has issued a post-election statement directed at both the students who actually supported him at the polls, and the general student body: Says Bill:

"Thanks for electing me as your Campus Government president. The large confidence vote that you have given me is deeply appreciated. With the help and cooperation of the other C. G. officers and members in the new Council, and with a lot of hard work, I hope to continue to give citizens of State College a Campus Government that merits their continued, unrelenting support.

Billy B. Oliver.

Three Frat Plays Hailed as Hits

The three one-act plays which were presented last Friday night in Pullen Hall under the auspices of the College Union theater committee were warmly received.

To Jack Fisher of Pi Kappa Phi, went the "Best Actor" award for his performance as the villain (Continued on Page 7)

Half-Lit Campus To Partially Glow

In an interview with J. McCrea Smith, Director of Buildings and Grounds, it was learned that the Administration is well aware of the appalling condition of the lighting situation on this campus. A survey was made by a disinterested party some time ago and it was recommended to the Advisory Budget Committee that $15,500 be appropriated for the specific purpose of installing a new lighting system.

The committee did give $55,000, which will partially relieve the needs. An effort in this direction is evidenced by the new lighting fixtures on Page Hall and the Maintenance Building.

Union Requests Information to be Used for Annual Master Calendar

The College Union is again planning to publish a Master Calendar for the 1953-54 school year. Letters will soon be sent to every campus organization requesting information which the organization would like to have included on the calendar.

All organizations are urgently requested to submit any items which will be of interest to the college community. Include organizational meeting times, dances, lectures, etc. Be sure to include the date, time and the place where the event will take place.

The College Union will need this information by May 15 so the calendar can be completed before this school year is over. It is the hope of the College Union that every organization will submit a list of activities. If your organization does not receive a letter please come by the College Union Office, 135, 1911 Building and pick up a blank.

The completed calendar will be distributed to every dormitory room, fraternity and to the town students.

RUN-OFF RECORDS RECORD VOTE

Two Ties Snag Final Returns

1400 Turn out to Represent 37% of Eligible Voters Besting 1952 Turnout of 35%

Jordan C.G. Veep

Tommy Ward is Veep no more my ladies. Bob Jordan (S) has been elected vice-president of Campus Government. After campaigning extensively in the dormitories he crossed about 200 more votes than his opponent, Bob Cone, an Agronomy major. Jordan is a forestry major. Here is the official tabulation: Bob Jordan: 765; Bobby Cone, 571. Dave Barrett, an active SAE representative, was beaten by another SAE man who "hit the dorms" with determination and enthusiasm. Barrett and Jordan had been given editorial support by The Technician, Harry Yarborough, Jr. (a transfer student), virtually unknown until election time, was elected the Campus Government Secretary. Here is the last minute count: Dave Barrett, 581; Harry Yarborough, Jr., 726. A third SAE man, Bob Krook, Jr., waltzed away with the Treasurer's post on Campus Government. The count: Newell Saltz, 354; Bob Krook, Jr., 920. Faculty member for a 4-year term is J. E. Legates with 942 votes.

The remainder of the list will be presented as it appeared on the ballot with the winners marked by asterisks. PUBLICATIONS: Technician: George Obenshain, Editor and Jerry Jones, Business Manager, unopposed. RADIO STATION WVWP: Station Manager, Sam Harrell; and James E. Cashwell, Business Manager, unopposed. ATHLETIC COUNCIL: Senior Representative, two of which were to be elected. Richard Brehm, 387; David Nixon, 500; Richard Feroe, 474; Claude Layman, 581*. ## State Scholarships Cause Of Concern

Scholarship Committee Decides Aid Should be Granted on the Basis of Need to Native North Carolinians

The State College Scholarship Committee held a meeting last Thursday in the Conference Room of the College Y.M.C.A.

Those present at the meeting included Dr. York, chairman, Mr. Dunlap, Prof. Caffey, Prof. Watson, Mr. Murray, Mr. Casey, Mr. Hines, Mr. Rabb, Mr. Watts, Mr. Stewart, Mr. Thurlow, and Mr. Harrill.

Dr. York reported on meeting with Mr. Floyd, Mr. Ray and Mr. Taylor. This group advised Dr. York to proceed for this year as planned and assured him that some money would be made available to the committee.

There was considerable discussion of whether scholarships should be awarded except on the basis of need. A motion was then passed deleting all references to "without regard to need."

Mr. Thurlow expressed dissatisfaction with the name "Development Council Scholarships." Several names were suggested but discussion was postponed until the next meeting.

Dr. York reported further on his conference with Messrs. Ray, Taylor, Floyd and Mr. Thurlow moved that their offer to organize local, county and district organizations be accepted.

The committee then discussed the application form to be used. A subcommittee was formed which is to recommend the form to be used.

The matter of whether or not the scholarships should be limited to North Carolina residents was then brought up. The committee felt that they should be limited to this group.

Ag Men Herald Livestock Show

Meat-Cutting and Milking Contest by Ag Girls to be Feature of Saturday Event

The Ag Student's annual Livestock Show and Banquet will take place tomorrow and the Ag Students are planning to make it a big day.

The boys showing the animals have them in top condition and, as always, there will be plenty of competition for first place and prizes.

The show will consist not only of showing animals, but also a meat-cutting contest and a milking contest, the latter put on by girls representing the Ag departments.

Everyone is invited to attend both the show, which will be held at the dairy farm starting at 9 a.m. and the banquet in Leazar Hall at 6 p.m.

Students Jockey Tempus Fugit

Four WVWP Men Substitute For Vacationing Platterman Fred Fletcher on WRAL

Four staff members of WVWP conducted the popular Tempus Fugit morning radio program Saturday, April 25, from 7:00 until 9:30 a.m., substituting for Fred Fletcher, regular MC, who was in California. The program was heard over the facilities of WRAL—AM and FM, 1240 on the radio dial. The student station, in conducting Tempus Fugit, followed the usual pattern of the program, which presents news, records, and announcements to the Raleigh area. Participating in the program were students Jim Cashwell, Henry Hall, Dwight Benson, and Carl Henrechs, all members of the staff of WVWP.

WVWP, The Voice of the Wolfpack, located in the Publications Building on the campus, normally serves the students of State College seven days a week. Its programs are varied and are designed for student interests. Because it transmits on a carrier-current system, it can be heard only on the campus. On Saturday, however, the staff had an opportunity to broadcast over larger facilities and to a larger audience.

Chapel Hill—Want to increase your knowledge of international affairs? You can do this by attending the Model UN General Assembly slated for May 1 and 2 in Memorial Hall on the UNC campus.

Sponsored by the UN committee of the University YMCA, the Model Assembly is being held to give participants and observers a better understanding of the functions and structure of the United Nations. Carolina students representing dormitories, fraternities, sororities, and campus organizations will act as delegates from each of the 60 member nations.

Delegations have been engaged in research regarding the problems of the member nations for the past month and will offer constructive solutions to current problems confronting these nations at the Assembly sessions. Each nation will be represented by four or more delegates.

The opening session of the Model Assembly will begin at 2:30 Friday afternoon, May 1. During the initial plenary session, an Assembly president will be elected, the agenda will be adopted, and several resolutions will be read. A banquet for all participants and observers is scheduled Friday

In observance of Shakespeare's birthday anniversary on April 23, the D. H. Hill Library of North Carolina State College is displaying a new model of the ancient Globe Theater, where the Shakespearean plays were presented 350 years ago.

State College's model of the world-famed theater was designed and built by Mrs. Katherine A. Edsall, circulation librarian at the college, who did the work as a service to the course in Shakespeare offered annually by the college's English Department and as a general stimulus to interest college students in the reading of Shakespeare's dramas.

The original building of the Globe Theater was burned on July 2, 1613, and most of the details of construction and decoration perished in the blaze. The recovery of information about the theater's design has required years of scholarly labor.

Although Mrs. Edsall has relied chiefly on Dr. J. C. Adam's research as the basis of her reconstruction, she has also consulted many other sources. Research and the actual work of construction have been in progress for at least six months. The resulting model is probably the finest south of the Folger Library in Washington and one of the best in the country.

The model is now on display in the foyer of the D. H. Hill Library at North Carolina State College. It will become a part of the library's permanent collection.

Discussion Club Meet

The Discussion Club will meet in Peele Lounge next Tuesday at 8:00 p.m. A talk on astronomy will be given by Richard Davis. Welcome all!

Meetings of the Political and Security; Economic and Financial; Social, Humanitarian, and Cultural; and Trusteeship and Legal Commissions will highlight Saturday afternoon's agenda. Saturday afternoon will be devoted to Commission reports and open debates on these reports. Following the close of the Assembly at 4:30 p.m., a reception for participants, observers, and guests will be held.

State students are cordially invited to attend any or all sessions of the Model Assembly.

Thompson and Wesley Win First Place Honors at AIEE Meet in Louisville

Hannis W. Thompson, Jr., of Salisbury and Stephen H. Wesley of Lake Charles, La., seniors in electrical engineering at the School of Engineering, North Carolina State College, took first place for a co-authored paper at the annual Southern District student convention of the American Institute of Electrical Engineering Thursday April 23 in Louisville, Ky.

The two students won first prize out of a group of 14 entries from 12 engineering colleges in the South. The University of Virginia won second place.

The prize-winning paper described an invention of the two authors for coating crystals with metal. First prize recognition includes an expense paid trip for the two students to Atlantic City, N. J., for the national convention in June when the paper will be entered again for first place in the nation.

Other students attending the meeting which was held in conjunction with the national A.I.E.E. district meeting were: D. V. Mitten of Wilmington; G. M. Ulrich of Concord, N. H., both of whom also presented papers; and Johnny L. Pearson, Jr., of Wilson, incoming chairman of the State College A.I.E.E. chapter.

W. D. Stevenson, Jr., professor of electrical engineering and faculty advisor of the group, also attended and presented a paper entitled, "Electrical Power—A Creative Force" by Dr. C. G. Brennecke, head of the department of electrical engineering.

The Southern District accepted an invitation from the School of Engineering to hold the 1954 annual meeting at State College.

Pershing Rifle Society Chapter Installed

Chapter Will be the First in N. C. Loyd Comer to Lead New Co. I Members Excell in Precision Drill

A chapter of the Pershing Rifle Society, national precision drill organization, has been installed at North Carolina State College, officials announced recently.

The N. C. State group, to be known as Company L of the Pershing Rifle Society, is the first of its kind in North Carolina and is composed of Army ROTC students at State College.

Officers of the company are Loyd Comer of Tryon, cadet captain; Charles L. Overman of Edenton,

Other charter members of the society are Raymond Anderson, Tryon; Glenn Byrd, Yanceyville; Jim Cashwell, Parkersburg; Jack Childress, Mount Airy; John Clements, Raleigh; Bobby Cone, Middlesex; William Howell, Rockingham; Ted James, Statesville; Ben Millsaps, Mooresville; Gus Plakakis, Lumberton; Carl Sewell, Lumberton; Joe Tunstall, Raleigh; and George Brannan, Dunn.

Assisting in the installation ceremonies of the company were Cadet Corporal John C. Talbert of Concord and Cadet Major Forrest E. Cookson, Jr. of Clemson, S. C., both students at Clemson College.

An Army ROTC student must have excelled in precision drill exercises to qualify for membership in the Pershing Rifle Society.

Steel Institute Offers N. C. Seniors $1,000 Scholarships

Seniors in North Carolina high schools, who are interested in careers as civil engineers or architectural engineers, may apply for ten scholarships offered by the American Institute of Steel Construction.

This development was announced recently by W. E. Adams, director of instruction for the School of Engineering at State College, who said the scholarships are valued at $1,000 each and are open to interested students through a nationwide competition.

Adams said North Carolina students may obtain further information and apply for the scholarships by April 30, through North Carolina steel fabricating companies which hold membership in the American Institute of Steel Construction. These North Carolina firms are:

Dave Steel Company, Asheville; Bristol Steel and Iron Works, Charlotte; Carolina Steel and Iron Company, Greensboro; Truscon Steel Company, Greensboro; Salem Steel Company, High Point; Diet-Brothers, Raleigh; Peden Steel Company, Raleigh; and Salem Steel Company, Winston-Salem.

Ford Award to Dr. McCullough

English Prof. Will Study for One Year at Michigan, Related to Duties Here

The Ford Foundation has awarded Dr. John W. McCullough of North Carolina State College a $4,800-grant for a year's post-doctoral study at the University of Michigan.

This was announced recently by Dean John W. Shirley of the School of General Studies at State College and Dr. Lodwick Hartley, head of the English Department, who said Dr. McCullough's grant comes from the Ford Foundation's Fund for the Advancement of Education.

Dr. McCullough, who joined the State College faculty in 1950 as a teacher in the Department of English, will begin his studies at the University of Michigan in September.

At Michigan, he will concentrate his work in the "English Language Institute." He will take advanced linguistic studies as related to freshman English teaching at State College.

He will spend some time analyzing and evaluating the University of Michigan's work in freshman English composition and will compare this work with that now underway at State College.

Dr. McCullough will also take training in the teaching of remedial English on the college level. He is chairman of the remedial English program at State College.

"North Carolina State College," Dean Shirley said in making the announcement, "has already taken a position of leadership in the South in its remedial programs in reading, writing, and speaking. This grant to Dr. McCullough will enable us to do two things: to compare our present program with those considered the best in the nation, and to incorporate into our work the most recent findings and attitudes of functional linguistic studies.

A native of Darlington, S. C., Dr. McCullough holds a B. A. degree from Wofford College, the M. A. degree from the University of Georgia and the Ph.D. degree from the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill.

He is married to the former Dorothy Daniel of Athens, Ga., and they have one daughter, Dorothy, age 5. The McCulloughs reside at 3049 Lewis Farm Road, Raleigh.

Food For Thought

"WHEN I LEAVE THE DINING HALL I'M THROUGH WITH FOOD."

So said Harry E. Stewart, Manager of Leazer Dining Hall, as he was being interviewed by Herbert O'Keef, The News and Observer's 'Tar Heel of the Week' columnist in July, 1952. Quite without realizing it, Manager Stewart may have echoed the sentiments of a great many Leazer patrons leaving the cafeteria when he uttered the above statement. At any rate, so many students have inquired as to when The Technician was going to try to do something about conditions in the cafeteria, that we feel constrained to oblige them, for it is in the best interests of the entire student body to do so.

This then, is a Command Editorial Performance, as nothing less could be considered fitting in a Coronation year.

Having completed a six-months' survey during which spot checks were made to determine the students' and faculty member's reactions to the cafeteria fare, we may even employ a Royal typewriter in order to lend the crowning touch to this literary bit, the one we're always chafing at.

Since the Editor stopped eating in the cafeteria in 1949, after one year's endurance, he has returned to the establishment only occasionally as expediency demanded, sometimes only for the purpose of appraising whatever changes might have occurred.

Let us start off at the beginning of the year with a poll taken by a former TECHNICIAN Roving Reporter. The question asked was: "What do you think of the menu in the Grill Room of the Cafeteria? Here are the answers.

"I think the Grill Room menu should be the same as last year."
Charles Carter (Furniture)

"Last year's system of a wide selection of foods in the Grill Room was a much better system than the present one where only two or three selections are offered."

"The selection is too small. I believe last year's system was much better."
Maurice Goldberg (Textiles)

"I think that the selection of food this year in the Grill Room is lacking as compared to last year."
Norman Falbaum (Heating Air Cond.).

"The menu in the Grill Room is not varied enough. It was a very good one last year."
John Deyton (Recreation).

If one were to take the results of this poll on face value, he might immediately jump to the conclusion that the cafeteria manager had grown a bit lax and therefore had no inhibitions about restricting the variety and scope of the menu used in the Grill Room. What really happened was that the move was made in order to bring the Grill Room onto a self-paying basis so that people who go through the line would not have to absorb the losses which the Grill Room had not been able to sustain by itself. (We are indebted to Mr. Vann for that explanation.) In more recent weeks, the complaints about conditions in the Grill Room have become negligible since the menu became more like its "old self."

What of the cafeteria manager himself? What are his qualifications for the job? For a direct answer to these questions we shall refer to the article written by Herbert O'Keef last summer.

Mr. Stewart, according to Mr. O'Keef, became manager of the cafeteria upon the death of his superior, Louis Harris, on April Fool's Day in 1944, and as Mr. O'Keef put it, "He wasn't exactly qualified or trained for the job."

Later on Mr. Stewart himself was quoted as saying, "All I knew about food then was that some tastes good and some not so good, some is undercooked and some is overcooked."

Continued Mr. O'Keef, "But there he was, stuck with the job of manager of the dining hall at the College, the biggest dining hall in North Carolina's Capital city." O'Keef goes on to stress the point that Stewart, an untrained young assistant to the former manager, had the managerial position "... dumped into his lap."

The training Stewart did receive was from helping Mr. Harris to "take in produce . . . etc." Even though heading the dining hall isn't the rush job it was when he first took over and had to feed 7,000 meals a day, most of them to soldiers stationed at the college, it still is more than enough to keep Stewart busy."

The last statement is nothing short of puzzling, especially if one takes into account the numerous organizations to which Mr. Stewart devotes so much time. As an example, he has temporarily become Secretary of the Wolfpack Club and has been actively engaged in raising funds to support the State College athletic program. This involves his having an office in the Coliseum. It also involves his absentsing himself from the cafeteria for prolonged periods of time, and not always on business connected with the Wolfpack Club

He is also an extremely enthusiastic worker in the local and national Jaycee organization, having become vice-president of the national organization in June 1952.

With the exception of Woman of the Year, this darling of the downtown Jaycee set has been practically heaped with honors.

In 1947 the Raleigh Jaycees picked him as the outstanding young man of the year in Raleigh. The following year he won the outstanding young man award from the Jaycees on a statewide level. That honor led to his election as secretary-treasurer of the State Jaycee organization in 1949-50. From there he went on to become a national director from the Old North State, and in 1951 president of the State Jaycee Club.

With all due deference to this young man's abilities, there's no telling where he might end up, what with the progress medical and surgical science is making.

Back to the O'Keef article now for more facts. Our readers must remember that the figures quoted are as of July, 1952. Since then the total number of meals served per day has been reduced even more.

"The dining hall now averages around 4,000 meals a day. During 1951, the gross income was around half a million dollars. Cost of meals has been figured as closely as possible to actual cost, since the dining hall is designed to operate at neither a loss nor a profit."

"Last school term, the dining hall had 54 students doing part time work, and about a hundred other employees, some of whom have been with the dining hall for 30 years. . . . All the cooks now there were employees when Stewart took over. 'I'm blessed with some mighty good folks' is the way he put it."

Good folks these people may very well be, but does it not seem logical that after 30 years, they would need to be replaced with someone younger with more vigor and more adventuresomeness in the culinary arts? Stagnation usually results from an individual performing the same menial task every day and year of his life. It's the same with the equipment. After 30 years of continued use even the most ill-tempered pot would lose interest in calling the kettle black.

With no turn-over of personnel, the possibilities of having fresh, new ideas, and up-to-the-minute methods of food preparation and presentation infiltrating the dining hall kitchen are seriously hampered, if not totally discouraged. How long has it been since the students have noted a distinct and refreshing innovation in the method of food presentation used in the dining hall?

What is there about the dining hall that provoked a student to remark, "In the interest of economy, it might be wise to consolidate the dining hall and the college laundry. A tremendous saving could be realized by having the starch shipped direct from producer to consumer."

A trip through the cafeteria line in 1953 reveals the same display as was featured in 1948. Canned vegetables, oftentimes mashed to a pulp, or with an excess number of stalks, are offered along with the same line of meats, meats on the porky side. There are also the identical breads and rolls, the same salads, cakes and pies. Sometimes the tossed salads look so limp and tired that you might expect them to yawn when passing through the line. Foods high in calorie and carbohydrate content are plentiful. This explains why a person could be expected to gain weight easily on a steady cafeteria diet.

Before continuing, allow us to clarify a point. There is no quarrel with the quality of the food served in the cafeteria. It's what happens to it from the time of acceptance until it appears on the serving line. Where is imaginative menu make-up, sound nutritional considerations and appealing presentation? Would anyone be willing to venture that menu make-up may not be Mr. Stewart's forte?

Let's face the situation squarely. What chance would the cafeteria stand of being approved by Duncan Hines? And why, if the food is "not so bad" as Mr. Stewart has claimed, why isn't the place jammed every day? Why has business slacked off to the extent that only three-quarters of the usable space in Leazer Hall is being utilized. Why is it that over half the student body can be found eating out in any of the local restaurants and cafeterias?

Obviously these students have encountered conditions which are more to their liking off-campus than on. They "escape" therefore to establishments which offer not only a more palatable selection than can be found within Leazer's revolving portals, but which also offer a better and more congenial dining atmosphere. They don't mind paying more for the "atmosphere" either, although a great many of them pay no more than they would on-campus.

Back in 1941, there was no meal-time exodus problem. The cadets had to eat in the dining hall. They had no choice; they were marched into the place. Conditions have changed appreciably since then. Today many students have cars which enable them to depart from the campus with ease.

Finding a way to hold them when the outside lure calls is quite a problem, and the problem becomes more acute as the number of automobiles increases.

Mr. Stewart is hampered in his operations by such factors as a restricted buying field, a tight budget, a ticklish wage scale for cafeteria employees in addition to the outside forces which are playing havoc with the cafeteria trade. Still, all in all, we wonder if Mr. Stewart is really applying himself to the task of holding his own, much less increasing the patronage. Is he using the same imaginative direction and enterprising ingenuity in the dining hall as is evident in his civic work? How about it? The dining hall surely could use a little zip.

What if the Trustees were to restrict the number of cars which would be allowed on the campus? The cafeteria would have to absorb the influx wouldn't it? And, there is no reason why potential patrons should shy away from eating in the dining hall which the College has provided. True, it is no longer centrally located, but that is no excuse for assuming a defeatist attitude. The point of diminishing returns has not yet been passed.

Mr. Stewart, how about "living it up" a bit in the cafeteria? How about putting on a party dress instead of the everyday house frock to spruce up the place a bit. Do that and you'll deserve a well-earned bow.

Forestry Club Picnic at Crabtree Includes Horseshoes, Softball, 'Dogs'

The Forestry Club held its annual Spring picnic on Sunday, April 26, from 2 to 8 p.m. Although the scene had been shifted from Hill Forest where the picnic had been held in the past to Crabtree Creek State Park, the same spirit prevailed. The highlight of the afternoon was a softball game, and the chief topic of conversation was Larry Yost's spectacular one-handed catch of a line drive to left field and Stanley Janczura's batting average of .025. Professor Bryant's German forester's hat also brought forth lively comments, including that of a 3-year-old who informed him, "Man, you look funny." The professor and his family virtually made up a volley ball team and were taking on all comers.

Glen Hampton distinguished himself with the graceful form of a ballet dancer while pitching horseshoes.

The outing was climaxed by a wiener roast with all the trimmings in the early evening. The picnic was the third and final social event of the year sponsored by the Forestry Club. The other two functions of the club are the "Rolleo" which is held in the fall quarter and the "Logger's Brawl" held in the winter quarter.

Choir Festival Will Include State Singers

The State College Men's Glee Club will form a part of the massed chorus of some seven hundred voices which will participate in the annual Choir Festival at Raleigh Auditorium Sunday afternoon, May 3. The various church choirs and other choral groups from Raleigh and other cities and towns have been rehearsing several weeks on a program of fine music which will be performed Sunday as the official opening of Raleigh's observance of National Music Week.

In addition to the various choral numbers which will be sung a cappella or accompanied at the organ by Mrs. W. D. Miller, The State College Symphony Orchestra will be featured in two special numbers, as well as to provide the accompaniment to one of the choral works.

Dr. Arnold Hoffman, State Music Supervisor, will conduct the chorus, Christian Kutschinski of State College the orchestra. Geraldine Cate is organization chairman.

There is no admission fee, and a cordial invitation is extended to all students, faculty and staff members to attend this gala event, which will last about an hour, beginning at four o'clock. GLEE CLUB AND ORCHESTRA MEMBERS NOTICE: All participants are requested to report at the Raleigh Auditorium by 2:30 for assignment of seats and rehearsal. ### Wake Co. State Club Meet Features Talks on Development Council Goals

Talks on the objectives of the Development Council of North Carolina State College and the election of officers for the next 12 months were the highlights of a dinner meeting of the Wake County State College Club in the college dining hall recently.

The club's membership is composed of more than 1,200 former students of State College now residing in Wake County.

Dallas T. Daily of Raleigh, a member of the Advertising Division, State Department of Conservation and Development, was elected president of the club, succeeding J. W. (Willie) York, also of Raleigh, who served in the post during the past year.

Other officers elected at the club meeting Monday night are Maurice P. Thiem of Raleigh, first vice president; Esley H. Forbes of Wake Forest, second vice president; Lyman B. Dixon of Raleigh, secretary-treasurer; and Rudolph Pate of Raleigh, reporter.

Fred Fletcher of Raleigh, retiring first vice president of the club, presided over the meeting Monday night in the absence of President York.

Principal speakers at the meeting were E. Y. Floyd of Raleigh, director of the Plant Food Institute of North Carolina and Virginia and chairman of the State College Development Council, and Chancellor J. W. Harrelson of State College.

Reviewing the work of the Development Council, Floyd said the chief aim of the council is to work for "a more useful State College designed to train our youth for better service."

Floyd said the council, composed of alumni, foundation presidents, trustees, and business representatives, has committees working on public relations, an expanded undergraduate scholarship program, bequests, and alumni fund raising.

He stressed the need for more scholarships, saying that only 30 per cent of the valedictorians and salutatorians of the State's high schools are ever able to attend college.

State College, he stated, is providing graduates for only 40 per cent of the needs of agriculture and industry.

If North Carolina is successful in pushing its economic advancement, State College, Floyd said, "is going to have to expand its efforts and know-how."

The Development Council, the speaker asserted, is attempting to link the college more closely with the people and to extend the services of the college to a larger segment of the population.

In a brief talk, Chancellor Harrelson said the college, through its development program, is seeking "to spread the base of its interests" and is moving toward a greater era of progress.

The institution's keynote, he said, has been and will be service for "the economic development of North Carolina."

"We can't lose sight of that goal," he stated.

Jefferson Standard To Give Radio, TV Grants

The Jefferson Standard Foundation has established a $5,000 scholarship award to be made available to radio and television students at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and at N. C. State College in Raleigh.

The announcement was made recently by Consolidated University President Gordon Gray and Joseph M. Bryan, first vice-president of Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company and president of the Jefferson Standard Broadcasting Company.

To be known as the WBT-WBTU Scholarships of the Jefferson Standard Foundation, the awards are valued at $1,250 each. They will be awarded annually with a four year period of tenure, subject to normal academic progress by the recipient. Should any scholarship be vacated it will be re-awarded to the best qualified applicant in the same academic class as the replaced scholar.

At least one scholarship will be awarded each year.

Both men and women, between the ages of 16 and 21, graduates of high schools or preparatory schools in North and South Carolina, and residents of either of the two states who may be graduates of high schools or preparatory schools elsewhere are eligible for the awards.

Scholarship holders will be chosen on the basis of their scholastic record, character, and interest in later occupational entry into the fields of radio or television. Relative financial need of candidates will not be considered, except that among those of equal merit in other respects favor will be shown to those having greatest need.

WILL THIS SUIT FIT YOU?

If you can make the grade, you can fly the latest, hottest, fanciest jobs in the air—and do it within one year.

IT TAKES a good, tough, serious guy to wear the gear of an Aviation Cadet. But if you can measure up, here's your chance to get the finest in aviation training—training that equips you to fly the most modern airplanes in the world and prepares you for responsible executive positions, both in military and commercial aviation.

It won't be easy! Training discipline for Aviation Cadets is rigid. You'll work hard, study hard, play hard—especially for the first few weeks. But when it's over, you'll be a pro—with a career ahead of you that will take you as far as you want to go. You graduate as a 2nd Lieutenant in the Air Force, with pay of $5,300.00 a year. And this is only the beginning—your opportunities for advancement are unlimited.

ARE YOU ELIGIBLE? To qualify as an Aviation Cadet, you must have completed at least two years of college. This is a minimum requirement—it's best if you stay in school and graduate! In addition, you must be between 19 and 26½ years, unmarried, and in good physical condition.

YOU CAN CHOOSE BETWEEN PILOT OR AIRCRAFT OBSERVER If you choose to be an Aircraft Observer, your training will be in Navigation, Bombardment, Radar Operation or Aircraft Performance Engineering.

New Aviation Cadet Training Classes Begin Every Few Weeks!

HERE'S WHAT TO DO:

1. Take a transcript of your college credits and a copy of your birth certificate to your nearest Air Force Base or Recruiting Station. Fill out the application they give you.
2. If application is accepted, the Air Force will arrange for you to take a physical examination at government expense.

3. Next, you will be given a written and manual aptitude test.
4. If you pass your physical and other tests, you will be scheduled for an Aviation Cadet training class. The Selective Service Act allows you a four-month deferment while waiting class assignment.

Where to get more details:
Visit your nearest Air Force Base or Air Force Recruiting Officer. Or write to: Aviation Cadet, Headquarters, U. S. Air Force, Washington 25, D. C.

Dear Editor:
Now on the campus we students are compelled to turn to Leazer Hall for our meals, unless we can make out on peanut butter sandwiches and milkshakes. And as we run the gamut between brass rail and steam table we are proffered the stuff which makes our protoplasm curdle and our throats retch. Platters with sausage, burned to a crisp, sit side by side with trays crammed full of scrambled eggs which were laid by the birds Noah must have brought over on the Ark. Some rolls are so heavy that the trays can be pushed along only with difficulty, and the brown appearance of some of the salads reminds us of wilted flowers on a three-months old grave. And the multitude of wholesome desserts is appalling: there aren't any! Just about the only item that is the least adulterated is water, and sometimes we wonder about that.

JERRY ARMSTRONG, Sports Editor

Quite An Array of Sports Coming Up

What a week of sports we have coming up this weekend and the first of next week. Basketball is coming up tonight in the Coliseum and football tomorrow in Riddick Stadium. Both coaches, Case and Hendrickson, have their squads in fine shape for the games and they should prove to be real thrillers. Another good thing about these Red and White games is the fine opportunity the fans have of seeing what the potentialities of the next year's team will look like.

Coach Hendrickson's boys have been going through some rugged workouts for the past few weeks and except for some injuries are in good shape to give the State fans some hard fast football. Ten men will graduate from the team this year, but a talented bunch of freshmen and sophomores are right in there pitching in to fill the vacant spots.

Coach Case's netters have lost the services of some of their finest ball players because of graduation, but some of the hottest prospects in State's freshmen teams history are filling in the vacant posts.

The team was divided into two squads this week and this will probably be the ones used in tonight's game.

On the Red Team are: Ronnie Shavlik, Phil DiNardo, Dick Tyler, Herb Applebaum, Jim Stevenson, Ronald Scheffel, and Vic Molodet. On the White Team are: Mel Thompson, Dave Gotkin, Bobby Adams, Doug Kincaid, Danny Knapp, Whitey Bell, Lou Dickman, and Dave Kelly.

Tomorrow the "swat men" of Coach Sorrell will take on the Tar Heels of Carolina here on the field behind the Coliseum. This will be a very important game for the Pack because if they can beat the Rams they will still be in striking distance of first place.

The "cinder men" of Coach Fitzgibbons will make their next appearance on Tuesday of next week when they journey to Durham to meet a tough Blue Devil team. The "feet men" have done fairly well this season and this win over Duke would put them on the successful list for a season well done in all respects.

Today the "hard luck" tennis team of Coach Kenfield will take on the Spiders from Richmond at Richmond in what should prove to be a State win. The tennis team has lacked experience this year but still has tried all-out to win every match. What the team needs is some backing. The next time the "racketmen" have a game at home why not try and go down to the court and give them some "good ole State spirit."

This weekend is going to be a busy one for the Pack golfers as they are going to the Southeastern Conference tournament in Athens, Georgia. The golfers so far this season have a fine

Here's "Remarkable Mel" Thompson tipping in two points for the Pack during the last year's basketball season. Next year he'll be doing it with a new title, Mr. Captain of the Pack. Thompson, one of the shortest centers in basketball history at State at 6-3, has been a standout and consistent hustler for Case's boys for the past two years. He'll be in action tonight in the annual Red and White in the Coliseum at 8:00.

Diamond Standing

The baseball season is going into the final games before the big Southern Conference tournament here at State on May 14, 15, and 16. Carolina is still pacing the way with an 8-2 record, but close behind is Clemson with an 8-4. Duke's defending champions are tangling with State and the Demon Deacons from Wake Forest for the holding of third place.

The Northern Division is running a neck and neck race also with George Washington's Generals leading a 5-1 record for first place and right on their heels are the Spiders of Richmond. Maryland seems to have complete control of third place with a 5-2 record.

This week should be the big one for the places in the tournament and will be an interesting one to see just how it comes out at the end of the week.

and a single as his team, P.K.P., walloped Kappa Alpha 15 to 5.

S.A.E. downed P.K.T. 11 to 6. Moss and Cunniham combined their pitching talents for S.P.E. to hurl a no hitter against Sigma Pi. They registered 5 strikeouts as their team won 7 to 0.

In a wild contest which featured 35 hits and 29 runs T.K.E. nosed out Sigma Chi 15 to 14. Crabtree wound up with a perfect afternoon for T.K.E. getting 3 home runs and a double and knocking in 7 runs. Raney contributed 3 doubles and a single to the losers' cause.

Boggs pitched a two hitter as Kappa Sigma scored a 12 to 2 victory. Thaxton knocked out 2 singles and home run for Kappa Sigma.

P.K.P. handed Sigma Nu its first loss by defeating them 14 to 4. Hasbrouck connected for a home run and a single for the winners.

A three-run uprising in the eighth inning brought State's Wolfpack a 6-5 win over Davidson's Wildcats in a Southern Conference diamond scrap last week. The Wolfpack pushed across its runs on a pair of singles, a double and a triple to come from behind and post the triumph.

Trailing by 5-3 going into the eighth, Coach Vic Sorrell elected to send up Joe Barringer to pinch-hit for pitcher Tommy Hargrove. Barringer promptly responded with a solid single to leftfield. The State hopes for a rally dimmed when Ed Horbelt flied out and Jack Tureny popped up to third base, but they immediately came to life when shortstop Johnny Yvars singled sharply to centerfield.

With two runners aboard centerfielder John Fuscoe smashed a long triple to the centerfield fence, scoring both Yvars and Barringer. First baseman Eddie Morris then rapped a double to center to bring in Fuscoe with the winning marker.

Wildcats Chase Miles

Davidson had dominated the early stages of the game with all its runs in the first and second innings. The Wildcats pushed across one in the first and four in the second to chase State starter Tom Miles. The big blow was shortstop Jim Teeter's home run with a mate aboard.

Tommy Hargrove relieved Miles and promptly halted the Davidson scoring, but Davidson's Jim Smith was also tough in the clutches and although State scored twice in the second, he gave up only three hits until he was relieved in the seventh after issuing a pair of walks. John Smith who relieved in the seventh was the loser and the victim of State's outburst in the eighth that clinched the victory.

The win was State's fifth Southern Conference verdict of the season and the fourth in succession. Coach Vic Sorrell will send right-hander Ed Horbelt to the mound this afternoon to oppose Duke's Blue Devils at Durham.
