ALUMNI ELECT OFFICERS CU PLANS BIG DAY

State's SG President Attends Iowa Meeting

Student leaders from more than 100 colleges and universities throughout the U. S. completed a four-day workshop on campus government problems.

Among those attending the fourth annual Student Body Presidents Conference, sponsored by the U. S. National Student Association, were: Lloyd Cheek, Student Body President, North Carolina State College.

In a keynote address to the Conference, Dean Lucile Allen, president of the National Association of Deans of Women, advised the students to "build a generation of statesmen" and ignore "self-appointed wise men" who seek to evade the law, either on campus or in the nation.

Dean Allen called upon the student leaders to preserve campus freedom by carefully adhering to democratic procedure in running their governing bodies.

William Birenbaum, director of student activities at the University of Chicago, was also a featured speaker at the Conference, held on campus at Iowa State College.

The U. S. National Student Association is the world's largest democratic student federation, representing more than 300 U. C. colleges and universities through their student governments.

Extension Plans For Civil Defense Seminar

A Civil Defense Warden Seminar will be held at N. C. State College Sept. 13 and 14 under the sponsorship of the college's Extension Division and the North Carolina Council of Civil Defense.

Plans for the seminar were announced by Director Edward W. Ruggles of the State College Extension Division, who said the sessions will be held in the newly-completed College Union Building on Hillsboro Street.

Topics relating to civil defense such as the role of the warden, family protection exercises, first aid, and panic prevention and control will be discussed.

R. C. Nicholson of Raleigh, deputy director of the North Carolina Council of Civil Defense, will act as chairman for the group. Edgar P. James, regional training and education officer, Federal Civil Defense Administration, Thomasville, Ga., has been chosen alternate.

In addition to Nicholson and James, speakers will include Gen. Edward F. Griffin, State director of civil defense; Col. Harry Brown, regional FCDA administrator, Thomasville, Ga.; Virgil L. Couch, director of the warden division, FCDA, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Sarah Boyd Weaver, director of Richard A. (Dick) Bradshaw of Salisbury, partner in the firm of L. S. Bradshaw and Sons, general contractors, and a Rowan County civic leader, is the new president of the North Carolina State College Alumni Association.

Bradshaw, a member of N. C. State's Class of 1934, defeated J. Y. (Johnny) Lassiter, '35, Goldsboro, in a mail election. Lassiter, farm supervisor for H. Weil and Brothers, automatically becomes vice president of the association.

A past president of the Rowan County State College Club, Bradshaw succeeds Frank B. Turner, '28, Raleigh, who has headed the association during the past year and now becomes chairman of the association's Board of Directors.

The new president, who assumed his duties July 1, is president of the Salisbury Civitan Club, member of the Salisbury Country Club, a Mason, a Presbyterian, a registered civil engineer, a director of the Ready Mixed Concrete Association, a member of the North Carolina Branch of the Associated General Contractors of America, and a past director of the Alumni Association at N. C. State.

Bradshaw is married and the father of two children.

Lassiter, the association's new vice president, is a past secretary of the Goldsboro Rotary Club, a former subject matter specialist of the State College Agricultural Extension Service, a Presbyterian,

Design School In Nat'l Spotlight Again

The School of Design at North Carolina State College is among seven of the nation's leading institutions of architecture that were invited to enter exhibits in the fifth annual "Good Design" project, sponsored jointly by the Museum of Modern Art of New York City and the Chicago Merchandise Mart.

The exhibit prepared by students and faculty members of the N. C. State School of Design is devoted to the theme, "A Forecast of Design Trends As An Influence on Contemporary Living Over the Decades," and is now on display in Chicago's Merchandise Mart, where thousands of people have seen it. It will be shown in Chicago through September.

In November and December, the N. C. State exhibit will be shown in New York's famed Museum of Modern Art, which is already preparing for the "Good Design" project and where additional thousands are expected to view the work.

Two national publications—Interiors Magazine and The Gift and Art Buyer Magazine—featured the "Good Design" project in their August issue. Each magazine used a large photograph of the N. C. State exhibit and commented favorably on the exhibit.

Fifteen advanced students in the college's School of Design worked on the exhibit along with a faculty committee, headed by Roy Gussow, associate professor of design at the college.

Laney High Scorer

The N. C. State College Air Force ROTC Rifle Team placed 30th among the 139 colleges and universities competing in the 1954 U. S. Air Force ROTC Rifle Match, officials at the college announced.

The N. C. State team made a score of 1,827 points out of a possible score of 2,000. A team from Memphis State College scored 1,904 points to take first place in the match.

Cadet Hal Laney of Pineville was the high scorer for the N. C. State team, with a score of 373 points. Other members of the State team and their scores were Charles B. Treadway of High Point, 364; John M. Lake of Charlotte, 364; Phillip Wellons of Raleigh, 364; and Austin Johnson of Bayboro, 362.

Master Sgt. John Neal of the State College Air Force ROTC detachment coached the rifle team.

The work of the State rifle team is a part of the extra-curricular program promoted by Col. William J. Jowdy, professor of air science and commandant of the college's AF ROTC Unit, to further the overall training of the ROTC cadets at the college.

There are going to be big doings in the new College Union Building Saturday. The building will be open to all freshmen for their own personal inspection at 11:00 o'clock. All of the new students are invited to drop by to see just what the C. U. has to offer in the way of extra-curricular activities.

This is the newest addition to the State College campus and freshmen will have the privilege and the distinction of being the first group of students to use the new facilities. The building contains a billiard room, a well equipped dark room for camera bugs, luxurious lounges, a beautiful music room, and many other features that might interest new students at State.

Saturday night Harrison Lewis' "Tar Heel Allstars" will play for a dance in the magnificent ballroom. This promises to be a very successful dance since there will be GIRLS from the three girls colleges in Raleigh-attending. Also Jean Arthur and Gary Cooper will star in "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town." This is the story of a small town poet who goes to the big city. His problems in adjusting to city life becomes quite hilarious. All of the girls are cordially invited to attend this showing in the new C. U. theater.

"Mill" Running Research Projects

The awarding of two new textile research projects by the U. S. Air Force and an industrial concern to the Department of Textile Research, School of Textiles, North Carolina State College, was announced recently by William A. Newell, research coordinator at the school.

The projects have a total value of $50,000.

The contract awarded by the U. S. Air Force through Wright Air Development Center involves a study of chemical degradation of nylon and dacron parachute fabrics.

According to Henry A. Rutherford, director of chemical research and project leader, fundamental information of chemical degradation of nylon is not available, and this project should yield information useful not only to the military but to industrial producers of nylon fabrics and garments. It is anticipated that the project will require about one year, Newell said.

Two synthetic-fiber producing firms have awarded contracts for a study of the effects of nuclear radiation on textile fibers, polymers, and fiber-forming materials, to be conducted in cooperation with the staff of the nuclear reactor in the School of Engineering at N. C. State. Previous research has shown that textile fibers may be improved or degraded in their properties by exposure to nuclear radiation, and the purpose of the research will be to explore these effects further.

The 15th production of "Ice Capades," regarded as shows, will be presented in the William Neal Nov. 2-6. A rink version of the Broadway hit, "Wish among the 10 production numbers and 20 acts. A Capades are shown above. It features Rosemary Donna Atwood as Terry, with Herb Cowman as Basil all the Ice Capades and Ice Cadets.

EDITORIAL COMMENT:

THE EDITOR SAYS:

Honor System, With Or Without You?

Last year when you were still in high school, you may have seen dishonesty on quizzes. You've probably seen it since you were in the primary grades. How much did you tolerate? Did you ignore it to avoid being tagged a "square" or did you say something about it? You probably learned early in the game that it's easier not to see these things that it is to face the ridicule of being a "stoolie." You've probably decided that a similar policy would be the best for you to adopt at State College. Not so!

This year is significant at State for several reasons, of which one of the most outstanding is the beginning of a serious honor system. For years there has been an honor system at this college but through nonchalance of the student body and faculty, it has been totally inadequate. The present system seems to be sound and the men who are charged with guiding the program are conscientious.

You, Freshman, are the man to whom upperclassmen are going to be looking toward. Many upperclassmen feel that some of their classmates are hardened to dishonesty and little can be done with them but you are the man on which to build an honor system. You are, therefore, being shoved a responsibility which you must shoulder, individually and as a group. You must forever be on the alert.

Class rankings are affected by quiz dishonesty. Every time a cribbed grade brings a man's rank up, some one else must slip below. Perhaps, this man was honest. Yet, he must be penalized. Such outrages aren't true to the American way of life and it falls your lot to build on the solid foundation already provided, a strong honor system.

Dishonesty doesn't stop on quizzes. Anything that lowers the name of the college or the standards of students as gentlemen may be classed as dishonest because it robs you of a right to hold your head high with dignity.

No, you won't have to do it alone. There'll be many upperclassmen anxious to work for the system and those who are dishonest are a very small minority. It's recognized that there are such leeches in our society but if the hole can be plugged in your class, then it must. We have enough now, we want no more and we hope to see the habitual cheater receive what he's due.

Consider it, won't you? The honor system is a failure without all of us giving it a push.

Workers Needed From Class Of '58

How many times have you been welcomed to State since you arrived? Several times it's easy to bet and you'll be welcomed again and again in formal addresses. The point is, feel like you are a part of State College from the very beginning. The welcoming addresses you've heard aren't empty gestures. State College needs men who feel at home and act accordingly.

At home you feel that it's your responsibility to help things run smoothly. You should bring that feeling to State with you. Your Student Government, College Union, YMCA, Publications and other elements of student life need help in carrying on the work started years ago by men who came here no more prepared to accept responsibilities in these facets of extra-curricular activities than you are. These men came to State and started working at the bottom and by sticking with it accomplished something of which they are proud to have been a part.

You will have to carry on this work and see that State College continues to grow and to do this you will have to begin now, your freshman year. Feel that you are a part of the best Engineering and Agricultural College in the South. Feel that you are welcome on its campus and in its activities. It's a great privilege to be a part of North Carolina State College.

Officers Elected

Jackie Daughtry of Mt. Olive, who was graduated from N. C. State College with a B.S. degree in animal industry last June was elected president of the college's Class of 1954 for a five-year term.

Other officers elected to serve with President Daughtry are Floyd Bennett of Valdese, vice president; and Marvin Crow of Lexington, secretary-treasurer.

Alumni—

president of the men of his church, and a former member of the Board of Directors of the college's Alumni Association.

Six other top officers of the State College Alumni Association were also named in the mail election.

F. W. (Skinny) Warrington, '26, Charlotte, owner of F. W. Warrington Company, textile machinery agent, was elected a member of college's Athletic Council for a term ending in 1959. He defeated H. J. (Red) Carr, '28, Clinton.

Five new members of the association's Board of Directors, all chosen in the election, are M. Edmund Aycock, '36, Laurinburg, general farm supervisor for Z. V. Pate, Inc.; Robert W. (Bob) Dalrymple, '43, Sanford, manager of Dalrymple Farms; John B. Gordon, '22, Raleigh, Raleigh advertising manager, of The Progressive Farmer; Alfred A. Johnston, '26, Wilmington, manager of the Wilmington District, Carolina Power and Light Company; and Sam W. Turner, '40, Winston-Salem, owner and operator of Wall-Turner Heating and Air Conditioning Company.

The new directors defeated James D. Chandler, '49, Spray; T. A. (Alex) Grant, '29, Staunton, Va.; Wilburn C. (Bill) Carr, '23, Richmond, Va.; A. C. (Art) Little, '31, Newton; and R. V. (Dick) McPhail, '39, Gastonia.

The ballots cast in the election were tabulated by an alumni committee composed of Clement Chambers, Dr. Frank H. Spain, and N. B. Watts, all of Raleigh.

Civil Defense—

women's affairs for the N. C. Council of Civil Defense; Paul Gerhart, warden specialist of the FCDA warden division in Washington, D. C.; Lt. Col. Norman I. Shapira, chemical officer for the 18th Airborne Corps Headquarters at Fort Bragg; and Dr. Allen Solem, assistant professor and director of the bureau of industrial psychology services, Department of Psychology, North Carolina State College.

Six State Alumni Are Honored By Pi Kappa's

Six alumni of N. C. State College, lost their lives in the service of their country during various wars, were honored during the 86th anniversary convention of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity in Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 2-6.

The fraternity's new $250,000 building was dedicated to the memory of the N. C. State alumni and other fraternity members killed in the service of their country. The memorial will include the names of the following State College graduates:

Fabius Monroe Clements, Jr., Greensboro; Laurence Frierson Holding, Raleigh; Morehead De Berniere Jones, Jr., Charlotte; Richard D. Radford, Greensboro; Henry Roan, Jr., Winston-Salem; and Luther Williams Cartwright, Jr., Baltimore, Md.

The State College Chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha, founded in 1904, was represented at the national convention by Zeb David Hargett of Charlotte, chapter president next year and a senior at the college.

The fraternity has 109 chapters and a total membership of 45,000.

Registration for the two-day seminar will begin Monday morning, Sept. 13, at 8:30 o'clock, and the first session of the meeting will open Sept. 13 at 9:30 a.m.

Lectures, films, and film strips will be employed to give a better understanding of the complete picture of the needs for civil defense. The seminar will conclude with a review of the points covered and a period of questions and answers.

Prior to adjournment at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 14, Nicholson will present certificates to wardens participating in the seminar.

Lockheed Employs 32 State Men in Georgia

Wolfpack alumni who work at the giant Marietta, Ga., aircraft factory of Lockheed Aircraft Corporation have been elected to the four top executive positions of the Georgia Chapter of North Carolina State College Alumni association. The new officers all are associated with Lockheed's Engineering branch.

Charles Tynes, B-47 project engineering, was named president; Fred Willard, engineering test laboratory, 1st vice president; E. M. Strawbridge, B-47 project engineering, 2nd vice president; and L. A. Hamilton, Jr., B-47 project engineering, secretary-treasurer.

These officers succeed other Lockheedians, namely, Frank J. Johnson, buildings engineering manager, past president, and W. R. Parks, personnel department, who was secretary-treasurer.

Out of the 130 N. C. State alumni in the North Georgia area, 32 work with Lockheed.

Two Receive Honors

Frank D. Shepard of Route 1, Julian and Julian P. Goff of Route 2, Rocky Mount, have been presented the Student Honor Awards of the N. C. State College Chapter of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers. They were honored on the bases of their scholastic attainments, records in extra-curricular activities, and character. Goff is the former treasurer of the State College Chapter of Alpha Zeta and also former president of the student branch of the ASEE. Shepard is also a member of Alpha Zeta and past president of the ASEE.

Fame For Course

Popular Science Monthly, a national magazine published in New York, had a four-page feature on North Carolina State College's Truck Driver School in its July issue.

Associate Editor Wesley S. Griswold, who spent several days at N. C. State preparing the article, used one color photograph and 10 other pictures to illustrate his story.

The pictures showed how the Truck Driver School—only one of its kind in the United States—conducts its lectures and demonstrations and how the students respond to the training programs.

Director Edward W. Ruggles of State College's Extension Division was shown as he presented certificates to a graduating class. Russell M. Haynie, director of the Truck Driver School, was featured in several of the photographs.

In his article, Editor Griswold wrote, in part:

"The average student who pays the $125 tuition fee is 26, has a ninth-grade education and has never driven a truck before. He learns how, and in addition is taught everything from freight handling to courtesy. The training is said to be '20 per cent below the shoulders, 80 per cent above.' Veteran drivers without a diploma were at first skeptical of the graduates but now often copy them. . . ."

The Truck Driver School has graduated more than 1,500 students since it was organized in 1949 and is faced with a heavy demand for its graduates.

The school is operated by the college's Extension Division.

Wolfpack Grid Outlook Fair For '54

State Opens 10-Game Grid Slate, Sept. 18th

N. C. State's grid iron forces, complete with new coaches, a new system, and several new players, will open its 10-game 1954 schedule next Saturday night when it travels to Blacksburg, Virginia for an engagement with the always rough Gobblers of Virginia Tech.

The schedule includes four home contests against Florida State, Duke, Furman and Richmond. The first three games will be played at night under the lights of Riddick Stadium with the Richmond game booked as homecoming and will kickoff at 2 p.m.

Four changes have been made from the 1953 season with the addition of Virginia Tech, Furman, Maryland and Richmond. Dropped from the new schedule are Davidson, Army, Pittsburgh and George Washington. Virginia Tech returns after a two year lapse, and Maryland and Richmond are back on the State card for the first time in three years. Furman will be met for the first time since 1941.

The Wolfpack will take the field under a new head coach, Earle L. Edwards, former end coach at Michigan State, who was recently signed to a three-year contract succeeding Horace Hendrickson, who resigned on Dec. 29. State won only one game in 10 starts in 1953.

The opening contest is booked for Sept. 18 at Richmond, Va. where State will tangle with Virginia Tech's Gobblers in the annual Tobacco Bowl game. The second game on Sept. 25 will pit the Wolfpack against the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill with Wake Forest at Wake Forest on Oct. 2 and William and Mary at Williamsburg, Va. on Oct. 9.

The following three weeks State will be on home soil with night games against Florida State, Oct. 16, Duke University, Oct. 23 and Furman, Oct. 30. After moving to College Park, Md. on Nov. 6 to face the University of Maryland, State returns home for its final Raleigh appearance against Richmond's Spiders in a Homecoming Day clash with a 2 p.m. kickoff.

State's 10-game slate concludes with a road contest at Morgantown, W. Va. against the rugged West Virginia Mountaineers.

The schedule:

- Sept. 18—Virginia Tech at Richmond, Va.
- Sept. 25—North Carolina at Chapel Hill, N. C.
- Oct. 2—Wake Forest at Wake Forest, N. C.
- Oct. 9—William and Mary at Williamsburg, Va.
- Oct. 16—Florida State at Raleigh, N. C. (nite)
- Oct. 23—Duke University at Raleigh, N. C. (nite)
- Oct. 30—Furman at Raleigh, N. C. (nite)
- Nov. 6—Maryland at College Park, Md.
- Nov. 13—Richmond at Raleigh, N. C. (Homecoming)
- Nov. 20—West Virginia at Morgantown, W. Va.

--- Edwards Rebuilds

No one is figuring Earle Edwards to perform miracles for N. C. State's sagging football fortunes, but a lot of Wolfpack supporters will bet even money that there'll be a definite upswing in the caliber of play this season.

At the best State can be rated no more than an even chance in three contests on the 1954 slate, while seven other foes will likely be favored over the Wolfpack by anywhere from one to five touchdowns. Those teams with whom State may have an even chance are Furman, Richmond and Florida State, while Virginia Tech, North Carolina, Wake Forest, William and Mary, Duke, Maryland and West Virginia are certain to rate the nod over the Wolfpack eleven.

But despite the rather pessimistic outlook, State faithful are guessing that Edwards may have at least one upset in his bag of tricks. The Wolfpack offense, patterned after the Michigan State multiple system, which utilizes the best features of the single wing, double-wing and T-formation, looked much sharper in off-season drills.

The big question for State appears to be defense. For the past two years the opposition has run up some astronomic scores, allowing an all-time record total of 336 points in 1952 and the second highest in history last year, a 263 point figure. Most State supporters believe that Edwards will be able to cut down considerably on these high totals by the opposition.

The greater part of State's team returned from last season as far as starters are concerned. A tentative starting lineup would have Harry Lodge and Henry Brown at the ends, Mike Nardone and Al D'Angelo at the guards, Ben Kapp and C. M. Price at the tackles and Dick Tonn at center. In the backfield will be Eddie West at Quarterback, Bill Teer and Monte Seehorn at the halves and Captain Don Langston, fullback.

Beyond this tentative first eleven, however, the experience is sadly lacking and Edwards and his staff had as their first order of business to groom some replacement material. Injuries at key positions might find the Wolfpack without a single veteran to step into action, thus considerably weakening the team.

SPORT SIDELINES

SPEC HAWKINS, Sports Editor

In general may I welcome you to State College and I sincerely hope each and every one of you will take part in some type of athletics here at State College whether it be intramural, varsity, or just cheering at a basketball game. We here at the college are proud of our athletic teams. Our basketball, cross country, and swimming teams rate with the best of the sports powers in the nation and we feel that in not a too distant future our football team will be up there. So let's take a little pride in our athletics from the very start, win, lose or draw.

Redskin—Green Bay Packer Pro Game

When the Washington Redskins and Green Bay Packers take to the field this Saturday at Riddick Stadium, the line-ups will be dotted with several All-Americans of a few years back. The list is headed by the University of North Carolina's former All-American back Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice, who will long be remembered by North Carolina football fans for quite some time. The Washington Redskins also boast two former All-Americans in the form of Jack Scarbath and Dick Modzelewski from the University of Maryland. Green Bay recently had Kentucky's all time quarterback, Vito (Babe) Parilli who carried Kentucky's grid iron team to the Cotton Bowl several years ago. However, Parilli was drafted recently and is not with the Green Bay club. The game is scheduled for 8:00 pm Saturday night with the proceeds going to the Student Aid Fund. If you want to see some good professional football come on out, there are plenty of tickets still available.

Intramural Program

In echo to Mr. Miller's urge that the incoming freshmen soon take an active place in State College's intramural program, let me add my two-cents worth. Intramurals is something that gives anyone who has any interest in athletics at all the chance to get on a team and play. I don't think there is any other extra-curricular here on the

Justice, UNC's Great All-American, Returns For Pro Appearance

When Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice, former All-America football star at the University of North Carolina, runs onto the Riddick Stadium turf next Saturday night in the uniform of the Washington Redskins it will be his first professional appearance in his native state, which has already hailed him as its greatest gridiron hero.

Justice, in his fourth year with the 'Skins, practically rewrote University of North Carolina football records from 1946 through 1948. The little 175-pound Asheville, N. C. native holds no less than 11 records of note at the Chapel Hill institution. It would take a book to innumerate all of the Choo Choo's accomplishment, but it is suffice to say they'll probably stand for a long time to come.

Charlie has taken up with the pros right where he left off in college and last year his 5.3 yard rushing average was tops on the Redskin team. Not only was Justice a great runner, but he excelled in pass receiving and as a punter. Triple-threat Charlies is still one of the toughest players in the game.

If you had to single out one of Charlie's greatest days it would have to include the Georgia game of 1948 when Choo Choo passed for a record 198-yards, set another record with 304 yards in total offense and completed 13 passes along with punting a notable 11 times for a brilliant 42.5 yards.

Of all records held by the University of North Carolina football Justice's name appears no less than 80 times under single game, season and career records.

Charlie's fame has spread far and wide and his fans will be innumerable when the Redskins and Packers clash Saturday night in Riddick Stadium. Probably no one player in history has had a greater following in North Carolina than Justice. During the past three years many of the Justice faithful has trekked to Washington to see their hero perform and they'll certainly take advantage of his appearance here next week in his own back yard.

A crowd of nearly 20,000 persons are expected to turn out for the professional battle. Approximately 8,000 tickets are still available and plenty of ducats will be on sale at the Riddick Stadium ticket windows the night of the contest.

Dept. Head Urges Fresh To Take Part In Intramurals

Mr. John E. Miller, Director of Intramural Athletics at State College, yesterday expressed a sincere hope that the college's incoming freshmen take an active part in the intramural program offered to the students here at the college. Mr. Miller went on to outline the objectives of the program and to announce the department's plans for the coming year.

The intramural program provides the college student an opportunity to seek and maintain organic soundness, and for personal and social development through participation in a variety of active sports, games, and other recreative activities. The program is the most valuable extra-curricular activity on the campus. It gives the student an opportunity to know and meet new friends, to have clean fun, and at the same time enjoy good healthful exercise. Most students these days have taken part in some type of organized recreation before coming to college. The program, therefore, gives the student the opportunity to continue these activities as well as helping his fraternity or dorm with what ever athletic skill he might have.

The program is divided into three seasons, fall, winter, and spring. The fall season will include activities in touch football, volleyball, track and bowling. The winter season will find basketball, swimming, handball, and ping pong, while in the spring, softball, tennis, horse-shoes, and badminton are the sports.

The department is divided into two leagues, Fraternity and Dormitory and these groups play among themselves to determine league champions in each sport. Winners in these competitions are awarded cups, shields, and trophies.

An Intramural Advisory Board composed of student representatives assists the director of the intramural program. This board also makes the All-campus selections following the completion of each sport to the most outstanding players on the respective teams. To be selected to an all-campus post is quite an honor since over 1,500 students take part in the intramural program.

Freshmen Invited To Tryout For State Band

The State College Band extends a cordial invitation to all Freshmen and transfer students with band experience to register for band, and report to the basement of Frank Thompson Gymnasium for tryouts after 3:00 pm Saturday or Monday, or at times indicated in the Orientation Program.

All members of the band will be issued a Redcoat uniform, be measured for a new uniform with which the Band will be equipped soon, receive ROTC credit or the equivalent, attend rehearsal or drill two ROTC drill periods weekly and Thursday nights, play at all home football games and some out of town games.

The tryouts will not be difficult and will be conducted by the band director Christian Kutschinski, or his assistant, Herbert Fred, or one of the student officers of the Band organization, to supply the band administrators with an index of the average ability of the new members.

It is reported that advance prospects auger an excellent band this year and it is hoped by all the band boosters that every qualified student musician will strive for a place in the famed State College Band.

STATE COLLEGE KEEP FIGHTING ALONG

Words by H. M. Ray

Music "Caisson Song"

By Col. E. L. Gruber

Play the game, fight like men,
We're behind you lose or win—
State College keep fighting
along!

Scrap 'em men; hold 'em fast;
You'll reach victory at last—
State College keep fighting
along!

Rise, me, to the fray, and let your banners wave,
Shout out our chorus loud and
strong;
And where'er we go we'll let the whole wide world know,
Old State College keeps fighting
along.

N. C. STATE'S ALMA MATER

By A. M. Fountain '23 and

B. F. Norris '23

Where the winds of Dixie softly blow

O're the fields of Caroline;
Where the tall pine tree sentinels stand

As a guardian of thy shrine;
Where the bravest hearts of men are found that are loyal through and through,

There stands ever cherished, N. C.
State
Firmly, Strong and true.

Chorus

Then lift your voices! Loudly sing
Our Alma Mater's praise!
Over all the earth her song shall ring,

Whose notes we proudly raise;
Her glories we shall sound afar
From hill to ocean side;
Our hearts ever hold you, N. C.
State.

In the folds of their love and pride.

Shout afar our tribute loud and
strong,
That the whole wide world may hear,

Tell the story to all the land, ye
Her sons, and have no fear.
As she grows the greater ev'ry hour,

As she scales the topmost height,
Our voices will blend in triumph
songs

For the Red and White.
Though the years come and go their way

Down the path where the ages
trod;

Though the workings of men may lead,

As we leave our native sod;
Yet no time or clime can e'er dispel

Any love that holds thee near,
Nor keep from our hearts thy memory,

Alma Mater, dear.

Chancellor Bostian Visits Summer Camps

Chancellor Carey H. Bostian paid a visit to the cadets in the ROTC summer training program. On the two day visit he saw these students in action, not only did he see these boys in the class room, but he also saw them in action out in the field.

The visit was designed to acquaint the Chancellor with the educational advancement and the welfare of State College students who were attending summer camp at Fort Bragg and Eglin AFB. Accompanying Dr. Bostian to the Air Force Base was Col. William J. Jowdy, PAS&T at State College.

Thirty cadets were attending the camp at Eglin while ninety cadets attended the camp at Fort Bragg. These cadets mixed with students from all over eastern United States and received valuable training in the art of warfare. These students are very glad to know that they have a chancellor who has the interest in them and their welfare.

interest in them and their welfare. campus that can rank with State's intramural program. Intramurals is a basic part of your college life and if you miss out on it you have missed a good portion of endless fun and relaxation. A person who would make wise use of his life must devote a part of it to recreation. Make an effort as soon as possible to contact your dormitory athletic director and let him know just what sports you are interested in. You'll never regret it. Especially here at college, there is a lot to that old saying, "All Work and No Play makes Jack a Dull Boy."
