Student Legislature Annual Meeting

The nineteenth annual assembly of the State Student Legislature convened last Thursday for a three day session that adjourned Saturday afternoon.

A welcome by Governor Luther Hodges opened the first joint session of the assembly. In his welcoming address he expressed the desire that "this assembly of select young people from our colleges in North Carolina will act as an idealistic body and not let the prejudices and entanglements of the North Carolina legislature influence you."

With the end of the joint session, the House and Senate convened separately and elected officers. Doc Cheek (N. C. State) and Wade Cooper (ECC) were elected president pro-tem and president respectively of the Senate. Joel Fleishman (UNC) was accepted by the House as speaker by acclamation. Dot Hunt (Meredith) was chosen speaker pro-tem of the House.

Reynolds Coliseum Fifth Anniversary

Today marks the 5th anniversary of the opening of North Carolina State College's William Neal Reynolds Coliseum—largest building of its kind between Atlantic City, N. J., and New Orleans, La.

The Coliseum brings thousands of people to the State College campus annually, and most of them come and go to the main arena without realizing what a mammoth, almost phenomenal, building and operation the South's largest indoor stadium is.

It was named in honor of the late W. N. Reynolds, Winston-Salem, philanthropist, industrialist, life-long friend of State College, whose nephew, R. J. Reynolds, Jr., attended N. C. State.

The Coliseum is owned and operated by the college, with the Coliseum Director, W. Z. Betts, and his staff working under the regular college administration.

It was not designed as a profit-making enterprise, since it is a publicly operated institution. However, it must earn its own way, since no state funds are appropriated for the operation and maintenance of this massive plant.

Pledge Dance Brings Woody Herman

This year Interfraternity Council Dance brings Woody Herman and the Third Herd plus Erroll Garner to the State College campus on December 4.

Woody Herman and his band the Third Herd has won the Metro-nome poll and has been cited by Parade, and Time magazine for bringing back dancing.

Herman, who has recently signed with Capitol records, is one of the most popular band leaders in the music business. A triple threat performer—he sings, plays the clarinet and the alto saxophone.

Herman will present his entire orchestra of fifteen world famous instrumentalists and a lovely girl vocalist. The band comes directly

The Anti-diversion bill introduced by State was carried by acclamation. State's bill, introduced in the Senate by Senator John Gregg and in the House by Ernest Faust, provided that a 1/4c per gallon tax that has been going into the General Fund and that in re-years has exceeded three million dollars each year be rerouted to the highway fund.

Duke-Carolina Rivalry flared throughout the session with State in the middle of the feud. One of the fiercest debates during the session came over a resolution introduced by Duke that would have limited the President's treaty making power. It was defeated.

Impeachment proceedings were brought against the Parliamentarian of the House. The charge was that he was not performing the duties of his office as he should. After a great deal of discussion, the defendant spoke in his behalf. The motion to impeach was defeated.

At the last joint session, Interim Council officers were elected. Ann Willis (N. C. State) was elected secretary; while other officers were Frances Burroughs (WCUNC), president, and Buzzy Young (ECC), vice-president.

Pi Kappa Delta, a forensic fraternity here at State sponsored the first assembly of the North Carolina State Student Legislature in 1936.

High School Day; NCS Plays Host

North Carolina State College will be host to hundreds of high school juniors and seniors when it observes "High School Day" Saturday (Dec. 4).

A student-faculty committee appointed by Chancellor Carey H. Bostian is now drafting final plans for the entertainment of the college's visitors, who will be guests of honor at the N. C. State-Temple University inter-sectional basketball game in the William Neal Reynolds Coliseum Saturday at 8:15 p.m.

The high school students will assemble for a special program that day at 1 p.m. and will later tour the college's big campus. A group of 290 N. C. State students representing the institution's seven major schools will be on hand to serve as guides throughout the (Continued on page 10)

CU Presents Play; All Female Cast

The College Union Theater Committee will present a type of play new to the students of State College in the ballroom of the Union on Friday, December 3, at 8:00 p.m. The play is an old favorite, "The House of Bernarda Alba," but will be presented in the new and quite fashionable "arena" mode.

The Committee is bringing the young ladies of Randolph Macon Woman's College to present the play and one of the additional drawing attractions is the fact that the cast (and characters) are all girls.

Students will be admitted to the production by registration cards; dates free. Admission for faculty and staff will be by College Union membership card. Others $1.00 per person.

Col. Jowdy Receives Highest Aero Rating

State's Professor of Air Science, Col. William J. Jowdy, received his Command Pilot Wings during Tuesday's parade. This is the highest aeronautical rating of the Air Force and is awarded on the completion of the following requirements: 15 years as a rated pilot; 3,000 flying hours; a green instrument card, indicating the highest proficiency of instrument flying; and currently on flying status as a rated pilot.

The presentation was made during the review held in honor of the 1953-54 members of "H" Squadron which was designated at the close of the school year as the squadron which demonstrated the most outstanding qualities of drill proficiency, military bearing and courtesy and cadet leadership throughout the school year. Fraternity Housing Proposed For NCS

A modern new fraternity housing center—designed for group living and equipped for a wide range of social functions—has been proposed at North Carolina State College.

The proposal, college authorities said Tuesday, has received the endorsement of the institution's Development Council, headed by C. A. Dillon of Raleigh.

Moving toward the establishment of the center, the council has authorized the appointment of a committee to obtain the services of an advisory group to aid the college administration and fraternities in implementing the plan and in arranging the necessary financing for the houses.

The proposed center was advocated by the Development Council's Plans and Projects Committee, of which Dean J. Bryant Kirkland is chairman. Dean Kirkland reported his committee's recommendations to the council at its meeting Monday afternoon.

Under the terms of the tentative proposal, the fraternity center would include buildings planned especially for group living with the approval of the individual chapters, college authorities, and the Interfraternity Council.

The college's 17 social fraternities are now located in Raleigh's residential areas and occupied buildings originally designed as family living units. A new zoning ordinance limits the fraternities to the downtown business district or to less desirable residential areas.

Speaking on behalf of the new proposal were Andrew Hinton of Raleigh, president of the Interfraternity Council, and Lloyd M. (Doc) Cheek of Gibsonville, president of the Student Government.

Development Council Report To Chancellor

A report outlining the college's income, other than that of State appropriations and student fees, featured a luncheon meeting of the college's 22-man Development Council.

Submission of the 44-page report to Chancellor Carey H. Bostian and the council climaxed the tenure of E. Y. Floyd of Raleigh as the council chairman. Floyd, yesterday relinquished his council post to C. A. Dillon, of Raleigh.

In recognition of his service to the council, the organization yesterday highly commended Floyd and presented him an engraved citation which said, in part, "As an active alumnus, you answered the call of your Alma Mater with positive, unselfish loyalty, constructing a foundation upon which the college's vital Development Program now moves with success and meaning to all our people."

In expressing appreciation to Floyd and other council members, President Gray said the appraisal (Continued on Page 7)

Six Represent NCS In "Stalag 17"

A man whose voice is known to thousands of radio listeners will play a mute, and fifteen newcomers will carry the major roles when the Raleigh Little Theatre's production of "Stalag 17" opens on Friday evening, December 3. The comedy-melodrama set in a German prisoner-of-war camp will be the 99th production by the RLTT since its founding in 1936.

Phil Ellis, well-known radio announcer (WPTF) has the part of Horney, a shock victim who never speaks. Newcomers James Osborn and Jack Denney have leading dramatic roles. George Dewey and Wallace Mandell, also making their debuts, are prominent in the comedy moments.

Osborn and Dewey, incidentally, are taking a drop in rank to play the captured American sergeant and the ingratiating German corporal; one is a Lieutenant in the (Continued on page 10)

NCS Ag Tech Mission To Peru

The Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees of the Consolidated University, in session here, approved a plan of operation for a North Carolina State College Agricultural Technical Mission to Peru.

Dr. Ralph W. Cummings, director of research in the School of Agriculture, will head the agricultural technical mission which will assist the Peruvian Government in developing an agricultural research program designed to create a higher level of productivity in that country.

Dr. Cummings has accepted the temporary assignment as project director and will be on a leave of absence from his present position for a period of two years beginning January 1, 1955.

Dr. Roy L. Lovvorn, director of agricultural instruction, will assume direction of the Experiment Station during Cummings' two-year absence from the campus. Lovvorn has had 13 years experience in research in North Carolina and served for three years as head of weed control research for the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Other temporary changes in the resident staff, which have been approved by Chancellor Carey H. Bostian, University President Gordon Gray, and the Executive Committee of the University trustees, follow:

H. A. Stewart, head of the Animal Husbandry Section of the Animal Industry Department, will become assistant director of research; and E. R. Barrick, associate professor of animal industry, will head the Animal Husbandry Section.

W. E. Colwell will continue as assistant director of research in charge of tobacco.

H. T. Scofield, head of the Botany Faculty in the Division of Biological Sciences, will assist Lovvorn in the instruction program until the end of the current school year. At that time, Dr. V. A. Rice, former dean of agriculture at the University of Massachusetts who will retire from his Massachusetts post June 1, will become director of instruction.

EDITORIAL COMMENT:

State And Integration

The segregation ruling has stirred little comment on the campus of North Carolina State College. Most State men are indifferent to the ruling. Perhaps this is because of the high number of northern students here. State is a college of 4,200 students of which 138 are New Yorkers, 74 Pennsylvanians. All the other northern states are represented here along with the 43 states other than Carolina and 38 foreign countries sending men to State. This gives the campus a rather cosmopolitan atmosphere.

This atmosphere, no doubt, helps students obtain an understanding of racial affairs. There are two negroes already enrolled here, doing graduate work in electrical engineering. They have been treated fairly enough and have caused no reaction on the part of the student body.

Most students feel that the Supreme Court ruling was inevitable and most students are of the opinion that segregation is contrary to their religious beliefs and the Constitution of the United States. They realize that they are free to associate with whomever they desire and this ruling does not push the Negro on them.

However, most students feel that Negroes should avail themselves of the facilities offered them at North Carolina Agriculture and Technical College, coming to State only for courses not offered there. The educational level of A & T is on an exceptionally high plane.

This integration can only come about on a gradual basis. It might just as well start now if things aren't pushed too fast. This doesn't mean decades but time enough to carefully plan and through careful planning only can integration be successfully effected.

The Technician has taken no stand to this date on segregation as the need has never arisen. However, such a stand might well be conservative because of Southern tradition but with a progressive air suiting the nature of North Carolina and State College.

The Traffic Problem

The traffic situation at State College has gotten to the place of being just a little more than bothersome and it doesn't seem to be the fault of the present system. The parking plan in effect now was worked out over the summer and it is exceptionally good. If students realize that this plan is the only way to save student parking and would follow the recommendations of the traffic committee, the problem would work itself out soon enough.

Certain areas have been designated as red-sticker parking for off-campus students only. There has been a sizable amount of violation on this in that dormitory area registered vehicles have also been using the restricted lots making the parking situation more than rough. With only one campus cop there cannot be rigid enforcement of the program. Perhaps the biggest headache comes from unregistered vehicles. A few students have set about to beat the system by not registering their car. The charge that fraternity men are the biggest violators is not unfounded and the IFC has asked for more cooperation. The amount of cooperation received is entirely dependent of students and can not be effected by any one group.

A proposal of fining of unregistered vehicles the seemingly high penalty of $25 seems likely to pass, not to collect revenue but to increase the motivation for registering for more effective control.

The traffic problem is a rather touchy subject in that some of the responsible men in the college's administration are of the old school when students walked everywhere that they went. It's hard for them to see half the student body riding when they walked. Some of these men are for completely eliminating student-owned cars from the campus while others say forbid them only to freshmen. Student cars, although in some cases actually necessary, are on the most part luxuries.

It may be possible to obtain more parking area for student-owned cars which would certainly help the situation. On the other hand, the percentage of students owning cars is growing as well as college enrollment. One suggestion that has been made is to limit campus parking to the dormitory areas and to the Coliseum parking lots. There are numerous solutions other than completely eliminating cars from the student body or from any one class as this would be next to impossible to enforce. No system suggested is better than the one of the present.

The final action to be taken will be dependent on the action that students take. Although cooperation is better here than at some colleges, State has a long way to go toward getting a good parking system. The success is to depend on student cooperation as much as on the well-organized system put forth by the Student Government.

Letters To The Editor:

To the Editor:

Since coming to State College, it has always been my impression that as a regularly enrolled student I was entitled to a copy of the Student Directory. The YMCA is to be commended for a job well done.

This, my senior year at NSC, finds me without a Student Directory. It is a real disappointment. It would have meant much to me in the future when tracking down old friends and for many other things. It is the publication I have used most at NCS.

Now that the function is in the hands of the College Union, the students have been discounted. Let's return the publication of the directory to the YMCA.

Is there anything we can do this year to get a Student Directory with the information in it that the YMCA made available to us before?

Sincerely,
Joe R. Clary
Sr., School of Education

Dear Sir:

As students of this College we appreciate this editorial. Only last week we were discussing the matter of student directories and wondered why we were not getting the nice individual directories as we had in the past. We think so much of them that we would even consider publishing them for this year. For after all, who can remember the college address of his friend, not to consider their home address. We think the YMCA should have it back.

Dear Sir:

I was somewhat surprised to find out that there was a 1954-55 student directory in existence, I had not seen one, although I have needed the use of such a thing several times this year. I agree with all you said in your article about the important items that should be presented in a student directory. I also feel that there should be a copy in each student's room where he can refer to it handily.

I have no idea what a directory like last year's would cost, but I do feel that if the money could be made available at this time to finance a good student directory it should certainly be done—and as soon as possible. If the College Union cannot or will not finance it, maybe it could be done as it was last year.

Here's hoping you can get something started and get a student directory to each student. I will appreciate all efforts toward that end.

Sincerely yours,
William R. Edwards

Mr. Editor:

I was glad to see your comments in this weeks Technician about the Student Directory published by the College Union. The directory is a disgrace, and practically useless. Many addresses are wrong, and many more are incomplete. We should all appreciate the effort to get the directory out early, but to publish a useless, inaccurate edition in insufficient quantity is a waste of the $500.00.

We need a complete, useful edition, even if it means spending more money and getting it out late. Each student needs one, at least one should be published for each room.

John K. Lancaster

Editor's Note:

The above letters seem to represent the general campus opinion concerning the Student Directories. Three more letters came in too late to meet this week's deadline but will be published next week. The Student Welfare Committee, headed by Hap Welch, has taken an interest in the directory and will be sent a letter summarizing The Technician's view-point and that of the Student Body. The possibility of getting out a new directory seems very good.

State Opens Basketball Season

The Wolfpack of State College basketball squad under the brilliant coaching of the old-master Coach Everett Case, the greying little man from Indiana who brought big time basketball to State College, once again return to the hardwoods to rank among the best in the nation.

For the past eight seasons the Wolfpack has met and beaten the finest array of talent offered in the nation, including taking six Southern Conference championships and last year the first Atlantic Coast Conference crown. This year, like always, the prospects for another successful season look great.

With All-American candidate Ronnie Shavlik returning along with Captain Dave Gotkin, Phil DiNardo, Vic Molodet, and Nick Pond the wolves from the West Raleigh campus will be loaded as they set out to defend their ACC crown as well as gain some national rankings.

The Pack faces a rough 26-game schedule which includes last year's NCAA champs LaSalle, as well as Temple, Penn State, Villanova along with the usual Big Four Duke, Wake Forest, and Carolina, who are all reported to be strong.

Wolfpack Opens Basketball Season; Meet Temple Sat. Nite; Wake Forest Next Week; Season Looks Bright!

Coach Everett Case and his N. C. State Wolfpack opened their 1954-55 basketball season last night against the William & Mary Indians and will face Temple's Owls on Saturday night at the Coliseum. Temple was one of three teams to beat LaSalle's national NCAA champs last year and Coach Harry Litwak has a full veteran lineup returning.

On next Tuesday night, Dec. 7, the Pack will travel to Wake Forest to begin defense of their ACC basketball crown against the Demon Deacons.

Although three regulars from last year's Atlantic Coast Conference champs are missing, North Carolina State's basketball prospects for the approaching season appear to be bright and the Wolfpack is certain to have a big say in any question of who will claim the 1955 title.

The Wolfpack this year will bank strongly on its seven returning lettermen, plus four sophomores. Probable starters will be Center Ronnie Shavlik, a 6-8 All-American candidate, Captain Dave Gotkin and Vic Molodet at the guards and Phil DiNardo and Nick Pond at the forwards.

Coach Everett Case isn't making any optimistic predictions about his team's chances of retaining the Atlantic Coast Conference title, but he admits "we should have a representative team." Case says that his biggest concern is the lack of experience at some key positions where sophomores will be used, but he adds "they all have good potentialities."

The complete schedule is as follows:

STATE'S SCHEDULE—

- DEC. 1—William and Mary
4—Temple
7—at Wake Forest
9—Penn State
11—Eastern Kentucky
14—at Clemson
15—at South Carolina

Football Playoffs

SAM-7, Sig Chi-7—Two powerful frat teams battled to a 7-7 tie, however the strong SAM squad copped the important win in the overtime period. Led by Gair and McClaire the SAM's were able to hand the Chi's their first defeat. Cocks stood out for the Chi's.

SAE-18, Sig Nu-14—Defending champions SAE were able to take advantage of several breaks and edge by the Sigma Nu's 18-14. Sigma Nu's Bob Loy took to the air lanes and hit Honeycutt for both TD's and then added two extra points, but this was not enough to overcome the 18 points of the SAE's. Led by Briley, who threw for two TD's to Chambers and Steward and Steward again on a pass interception for the other score. Corson, Fisher, and Allin, also played good ball for the Sigma Nu's.

The SAE's met the SAM's and Sigma Chi against Sigma Nu yesterday in the sim-finals.

Volleyball

Sigma Chi over SAE—The Sigma Chi's looked like the team to beat in volleyball as they downed the SAE's 13-16, 15-7 and 16-14. The Chi's advanced to the semi-finals against the SAE's by downing the PKA's 0-16, 15-5, and 15-4, the SAE's downed Sigma Nu 15-11, 13-15, and 15-11. Van Horn, Shaw, and Cocks have stood out for the Chi's and Wheat and Farmer for the SAE's.

In the loser's bracket the PKA's behind Woolard and Perry eliminated Sigma Nu 15-11 and 15-70. Mowery and Honeycutt have stood out for Sigma Nu.

Basketball officials are needed in Intramurals. Students who have played considerable basketball or who have done some officiating should apply to Mr. Miller at the Intramural Office. It is good pay and a fine association and experience for those who are selected.

Tucker No. 2 Beats Becton No. 2—Taking to the air the Tucker team scored two TD's. One, a pass from Vargo to Yvars, the other, a pass from Sneed to Dye who ran forty yards for the TD. Taylor returned a Becton kick for the third touchdown. Stencil and Barnhardt were the outstanding players for Becton No. 2. This game was the playoff for section champ.

Tucker No. 2 Beats Bagwell No. 2 by 20-2—Tucker was led by Marinkov with the passing of Vargo and Yvars. The Bagwell team was led by Robinson.

Maurice had a little shirt

A pome by Ogden Gnash

Maurice had a little shirt
A sport-shirt, don't you know?
And everywhere that Maurice went
The shirt was sure to go.
(He was crazy about it.)

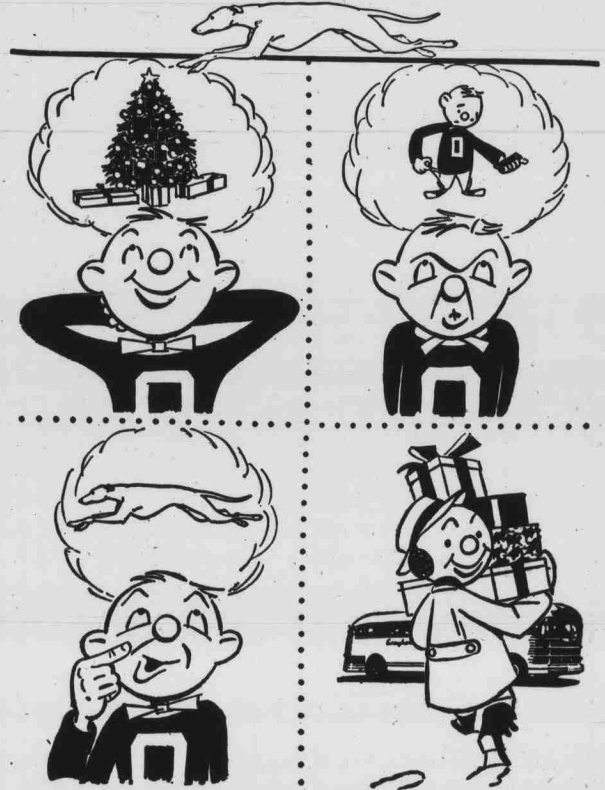

He'd wear it first to English class
From thence to Physics Lab
He found himself, like most young men
Quite fond of his VAN GAB.
(Van Heusen's famous rayon gabardine.
A real darby!)

He'd wear it when he went to bed
Because he liked nice things,
And Van Gab's special "finish"
Makes it soft as angel's wings.
(Mrs. DiMaggio's)

He'd wear it in the shower
And his roommates thought him daft
But he knew that it was washable
And so he merely laft.
(Certified completely washable, even for commercial laundries, by American Institute of Laundering. No bull.)

He loved its Sporttown collar,
Fine with tie and fine without.
He was made for Van Gab's colors,
Each one's virile—have no doubt!
(Maury bought Van Gab in all 15 shades)

Note: It also has new Vanafit sizing, which means sportshirt comfort with dress-shirt fit. A great idea in a $4.95 shirt but not easily rhymable.

ACCORDING TO THE LARGEST and latest coast-to-coast college survey, college smokers prefer Luckies—and by a wide margin. The No. 1 reason: Luckies taste better. Thousands of students appreciate Luckies' better taste almost as much as the pair in the Droodle above, titled: Sweethearts attempting to kiss and enjoy better-tasting Luckies at same time. Luckies taste better for good reasons. First of all, Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, "It's Toasted" to taste better. This famous Lucky Strike process tones up Luckies' light, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better—cleaner, fresher, smoother. So, enjoy the better-tasting cigarette . . . Lucky Strike.

Truck Driving School

Twenty-one students from seven states and Canada have registered for the 67th class of N. C. State College's Truck Driver Training School, Russell M. Haynie, Jr., the school's director announced.

North Carolina, with 10 students, has the largest representative in the enrollment. Other states represented include Georgia, Virginia, South Carolina, Tennessee, Pennsylvania, and Iowa. One student is from Ottawa.

Eight students in the present class were formerly farmers. One was a history and mathematics teacher, and five were in the textile field.

Since its beginning in 1949, the Driver Training School has graduated more than 1,600 students from almost every state in the United States and six foreign countries.

Pulp & Paper Lab Cost $200,000

Preliminary steps have started to organize the Pulp and Paper Foundation to support the regional training program in pulp and paper technology of the School of Forestry at N. C. State College.

Dean Richard J. Preston, Jr., of the State College School of Forestry said the pulp and paper technology program of the college has been designated as a regional project by the Southern Regional Education Board and reported that bids would be open Nov. 23 for the college's $200,000 pulp and paper laboratory as authorized by the General Assembly.

Reporting further on the work of the school, Dean Preston said the research, teaching, and extension work in forestry at the college is being shaped to meet changing needs and is being expanded in line with additional calls from the people of the State.

Dean Preston said there are 203 forestry students from 24 states and two foreign countries now enrolled at N. C. State. Forty-five per cent of the school's 600 graduates are employed in North Carolina, with a total of 80 per cent employed in the Southeast, the dean said.

Dr. E. L. Dammon, president of the Society of American Foresters announced at the luncheon that his station has awarded a $10,000 cooperative forestry research project to the State College School of Forestry.

K. J. Seigworth, forester of the Tennessee Valley Authority at Norris, Tenn., said the TVA, the State College School of Forestry, and the State Division of Forestry of the Department of Conservation and Development have just undertaken a $4,000 research study relating to fire protection of forest lands in 15 western North Carolina counties.

Engr Foundation Meet

The annual meeting of the Board of Directors of the North Carolina Engineering Foundation will be held in the Conference Room of the Riddick Engineering Laboratories Building at North Carolina State College Thursday, Dec. 9, at 3:30 p.m.

In announcing plans for the meeting, C. A. Dillon of Raleigh, president of the Foundation, said reports of the progress made during the past year by the Foundation and by the School of Engineering at State College will be presented during the meeting.

Following the business session, the Foundation directors will attend a dinner in the State College Union Building and will later attend the Penn State-N. C. State basketball game in the William Neal Reynolds Coliseum as guests of Chancellor Garey H. Bostian of State College.

The Foundation currently is supplementing the State salary scale in retaining and attracting top-ranking teachers and scientists for teaching and research functions in the State College School of Engineering.

Officers of the Engineering Foundation, in addition to President Dillon, are John H. Isenhour of Salisbury, vice president; L. L. Ray of State College, secretary; and J. G. Vann, also of State College, treasurer.

Arnold Air Society Initiates 26 Members

The James J. England Squadron of the Arnold Air Society has initiated Col. William J. Jowdy, professor of air science here at the college, as an honorary member and has named 25 new members, all of whom are leading cadets in the Air Force ROTC program.

The list of new members was announced by squadron officers, who said Colonel Jowdy was presented the society's official emblem, gold and blue fourragere, following his initiation. The nationally prescribed initiation ceremony was used.

The Arnold Air Society is a military organization of Air Force ROTC cadets enrolled in the advanced program who have joined together in an effort to more closely unite drill field leaders in a social and educational society.

The society sponsors a number of events including field trips to Air Force bases, formal and informal parties, and dances. It also sponsors appearances by visiting speakers and is a co-sponsor of the annual Military Ball.

The newly-initiated members are: William H. Brehm, W. H. Clark,

Telephone Miracles In Our Future

"Some miracles are ahead in the field of communications," C. E. Schooley, chief engineer of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company in Atlanta, Ga., said in an address at N. C. State College.

Schooley, in previewing the things to come in the telephone industry, also demonstrated a hands-off telephone which may be used by punching a dial to get a number and listening to the response by means of a small speaker which brings the message not only to the person making the call but to others in the room.

Zack C. Clark, James M. Conry, Harry E. Coor, Paul Coppala, Edwin P. Cornelius, C. Graham Farmer, William H. Foushee, Anthony G. Frantz, Jasper H. Hardison, Joe M. Hatcher, Bobby P. Huskey, John A. Johnson, Donald L. Keyt, Roy M. Langston, Francis E. Mason, Henry W. Pickett, Albert L. Pruden, Ned E. Reinhardt, Walter G. Scott, John B. Smith, Lonnie M. Thomas, Jimmy A. Whisnant, and F. P. Wright.

The extent of telephone developments in the next decade, Schooley said, will depend upon what the nation's telephone users want. He said the company keeps in close touch with the telephone habits and likes of the people and fashions devices to meet the demand of the people.

The United States, he said, is far ahead of the rest of the nations of the world in its telephone system. There are over 30 telephones for every 100 people in the United States today, he said.

"We cannot predict the future," he declared, "but we can plan for it within broad limits."

Dean J. Harold Lampe of the School of Engineering at State College welcomed the delegates to the campus in a talk at the opening session.

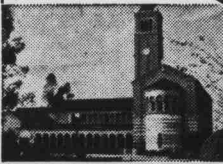

"The Next Decade in Power" was the subject of a talk by A. S. Griswold, assistant to the president of the Detroit Edison Company. Two Duke University engineering seniors, Charles E. Seagar and Edward V. Stephenson, delivered a paper on the subject, "Fluid Mapping of Electrical and Magnetic Fields."

"Cleaners of Distinction"

CAMERON VILLAGE &

This week's column will be devoted to two great jazzmen who will appear on the State College Campus this weekend to play for the IFC Fall-Pledge Dance. They are—

Erroll Garner
Erroll Garner has been acclaimed by many as "the man for whom the piano was invented." After hearing many of his recordings, you might be surprised to learn that he doesn't read music but plays by ear and is self taught. His style, being one of the most intricate and lush in the jazz world, is completely distinctive and immediately recognizable.

Garner has composed many numbers, of which his "Play, Piano, Play" received a prize in France as being the best jazz record. Other recordings which are favorites are "Laura," "Penthouse Serenade," and "I Cover the Waterfront." It was numbers such as these that caused the critics to say "... his music has the feeling of Debussy and the late Fats Waller." The Saturday Review of Literature remarked "Erroll Garner, the Frank Lloyd Wright of modern pianists. . . ." George Shering said "Erroll Garner, the best swinger of all the pianists. . . ."

There are many such remarks as the ones above, but space limits mention of more. It can be said, however, that one cannot put limits upon Garner's possibilities as a performer and composer.

woody herman

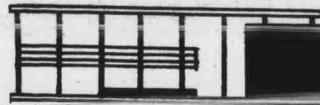

At first it was "the band that plays the blues;" next, "the Herman Herds of the '40's;" and now, "the third herd."

"The third herd," which has been voted as "the band that started them dancing again" features fourteen instrumentalists and a girl vocalist. Some of the most successful of their records (recorded in a church, too) are "Perdido," "Four Others," and "Third Herd." Their latest discs of "Muskrat Ramble," "Woodchopper's M a m b o," and "Mexican Hat Trick" are among the top band records of the year.

Herman features Cy Touff on an unusual instrument, the bass trumpet, a monster horn a good two times the size of a regular trumpet. He plays it in the trombone section because the tone is closer

Foot in mouth department: Freshman president Dan Yager was probably just kidding a couple of coeds last week when he told them that only one girl on the campus "reminds me of a female."

Syme dormitory cellar dwellers threaten to hook up a keg of Caldwell county corn syrup to their idle fountain cooler if M and O doesn't get on the bubble on the double with a water line.

Foreign student went to the city over the holidays to see the sights. He did. The first one was Art Quint standing in line at a Time Square movie.

Pedagogic perfectionist: Instructor who tapes lectures for classes he is unable to meet and then has them played back during regular class periods.

From frying pan to fire: Rumor has it a "secret" group of some 10 or more students will spring court action on college officials contesting the campus traffic code. They will be guinea pigs in a test of the college's right to assess monetary penalties. One pig's poppa, a lawyer, will represent the group. College won't kick if case goes in favor of protesting group. Instead, all vehicles will be banned from campus.

Among the college facilities which the visiting students will see on the tour will be the Coliseum, the Southeast's largest building of its type; the Burlington Laboratory, the world's first college-owned nuclear reactor; and the College Union Building, one of the nation's most modern facilities of its kind.
