Judicial Board Meets Policy on Panty Raid

Because of the recent panty raid the Board had to reach a definite decision concerning student actions of this type. The Board unanimously adopted the following policy; "Due to the bad effects upon the reputation of State College, any student riots or panty raids will automatically result in a minimum sentence of suspension if the participants are convicted by the Judicial Board." This decision has already been distributed to the students, and it will be a part of the Campus Code in the future.

Two cases have come before the Board recently concerning lost or stolen textbooks. One man was placed on disciplinary probation until the spring semester of 1956 for trying to sell a book that wasn't his property. Another man was acquitted of the charge of being dishonest with another student's books

AFROTC Inspection Monday and Tuesday

Shoes shined? Uniforms cleaned and pressed? Brushed up on military procedures? These will be typical questions Monday and Tuesday when the AF ROTC Inspection Team will visit the State College campus to stage the Annual Federal Inspection. The team will arrive on campus Saturday and will be housed in the College Union Building.

The Inspection Team is from Headquarters AF ROTC at Montgomery, Alabama, and it is headed

Selective Serv. Tests Extra One Scheduled

We have just received word that there will be an extra Selective Service Qualification Test scheduled at State College on Thursday morning, May 19. Some students missed the test which was given on our campus on April 21. In order to take this test students must obtain application blanks from the Local Selective Service Board located in the Odd Fellows Building on or before May 9. If you have already taken the test, you cannot apply for taking the test the second time. Students who do not plan or who are not qualified to take the Advanced Military courses or students whose academic standings are below the requirements set up by Selective Service (upper half of Freshman, upper two-thirds of Sophomore Class, or upper three-fourths of Junior Class) should plan to take the test. The student has everything to gain and nothing to lose. Col. Thomas H. Upton, North Carolina State Director of Selective Service, urges that eligible students avail themselves of the opportunity to take the test.

Agromeck Finished Don Joyce Reveals

Don Joyce, Business Manager of the AGROMECK, announced Tuesday that the 1955 edition of the yearbook will be given out at the Y.M.C.A. starting Saturday, May 14, through Wednesday, May 18. The book will be given out between the hours of 1:30 p.m. and 6:00 p.m.

To be eligible to pick up his book, a student must present his registration card. The '55 AGROMECK will be withheld from any student failing to present his registration card or any student still owing fees. This will include any student in the ROTC who failed to pay during the collection on the drill field. Students still owing money to the AGROMECK should bring their money owed along with their registration cards to the Y.M.C.A. in order to pick up their book.

Attention

The Student Government Banquet date has been changed from April 29 to Wednesday, May 4, in the College Union Ballroom. Any cards that have not been returned to Jim Nolan should be returned as soon as possible.

Legislature Meeting; Much Discussed

The ROTC units will have to conform to the new cut system if a Student Legislature resolution passes.

Addition to the By-Laws, a Student Directory, and the Student Government banquet was the remainder of the business on the agenda of the April meeting of the Legislature.

At present the Military departments are requiring excuses from juniors and seniors for classes that they have missed although it is contrary to College policy. It was further brought out that at other institutions such regulations are not in force and evidently are not Army regulations. The resolution was referred to the Rules Committee for investigation.

The addition to the Student Government By-Laws that would have put the responsibility of choosing cheerleaders on an eight man committee was changed to provide that the head cheerleader alone would have the authority to choose his subordinates. The addition to the By-Laws passed.

A report was made on the Student Directory for next school year. The College Union will contribute $250, and the Student Supply Stores will be asked for $500. The remainder of the cost will be provided by the various schools it is hoped. Total cost of the Student Directory is expected to be approximately $1,000.

"All is in readiness for the SG banquet May 4," reported SG President-elect Jim Nolan.

The N. C. State Band; Outdoor Concert Sun.

The State College Band will play an outdoor concert Sunday afternoon, May 15th, at four o'clock, on the south terrace of the College Union, instead of at Memorial Tower as announced on the CU Calendar. Due to unforeseen conflicts it is necessary to cancel the May first concert announced in last week's TECHNICIAN.

Golden Chain Society Seeks 12 Members

Golden Chain, Senior Honorary Leadership Society, is again this year seeking nominations for the twelve rising seniors who will be chosen for membership. These men are chosen on the basis of character and demonstrated leadership.

Any student or faculty member who wishes to nominate someone whom he sincerely believes to be worthy of this honor, should submit the man's name and as much information as possible about his campus activities to Banks Talley's office, Holladay Hall. Nominations will close on Friday, May 6. All nominations will be carefully considered by the members of Golden Chain.

Fri. PKP Presents Interfraternity Sing

Pi Kappa Phi, one of the Social Fraternities on the State campus, is presenting their annual Interfraternity Sing in the Auditorium of the College Union, tomorrow night, the 29th of April.

The sing, which will begin at 8:00 o'clock features four fine groups in competition and the Pi Kaps in concert. The competing groups, who will sing two songs each for judging, include Sigma Chi, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Sigma Nu, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon, last year's winner.

Programs have not been announced as yet, but any who are interested in fine amateur singing are urged to attend both the Sing and the Coffee hour following.

EDITORIAL COMMENT:

Pre-Term Experience

With elections over and the new campus leaders in the limelight it is time State College started thinking of the coming year. Most of the men elected yesterday have had experience to a certain degree but none of them have had too much experience. The thing to do to insure a smooth running campus next year is to put as much responsibility on the newly elected men as is possible and is practical. Give them some experience while the old leaders are still around to offer advice and constructive criticism.

Some of the new leaders will assume their duties almost immediately while others will start to work during the summer or in the fall. The men who are not to begin work until later would do well to do some observing and questioning. It is extremely difficult to find out basic operating practices when the key men have graduated. Likewise it can be extremely awkward to take over a new job without adequate experience and perform in a manner pleasing to the campus.

More than once a newly elected man has confidently gone into office, thinking he knew all that he needed to know, only to find out differently. If the present officers will think back over the past year and recall some of their stumbling blocks they can make things much easier on the new set. Recalling some of these blocks isn't too pleasant but there is no need of two people hitting the same spot shin first.

Some organizations keep good minutes and this will be a big help but all too many don't. A good set of minutes reflects a smooth running organization and provides help for years to come. This, incidently, might be a point for some of the new officers to work on. Time is running out, however, and if any experience is to be gained this year things should get to rolling.

There has been some discussion on moving election time up to give the winning candidates a better chance to get some of this first-hand knowledge. As it stands now the Student Government Constitution sets the time for primaries as the third week of April. With final elections a week later, this leaves only a month to do any guiding. Perhaps an earlier date would be a benefit. At any rate, the present leaders should feel it their obligation to show their successors as much as possible and give them some chance for development. Next year has all the potentials of being a terrific year. Here's hoping the top men won't have to learn everything the hard way.

Yearly Pantie Raids

Over the past several years a number of things have happened which haven't exactly built up relations with the City of Raleigh. Seniors remember the riots during December of their freshman year. Since that time a number of disturbances have occurred among which have been the infamous "pantie raids." Let someone mention "let's raid Meredith" and a crew of State College students take off to the school without thinking of the consequences. So led, these students forget that they can be arrested for trespassing, inciting a riot, public disturbance and if this isn't enough they can also be suspended or expelled by the college. Some parents would be rather surprised to learn that their son, acting with complete irresponsibility, had gone off on a tangent and has endangered their investment, namely the money they have spent on sending their son to college.

Conscientious students and faculty members spend the whole year trying to better relations with the city and in one hour a group of students tear it down. Some blame it on "pre-exam tension" because such disturbances usually happen around exam time but last week's raid was over five weeks before exams. "Pre-exam tension" is not an excuse anyway. It would be pretty rough to work through a semester and get booted out of college the week before exams. This is highly likely for the college administration as well as Student Government is pretty well disgusted with such conduct.

It was rather encouraging to note that the raid last week received so little publicity. Publicity seems to only egg raiders on. The odd thing is that State students who so love to belittle Carolina so carelessly follow the poor example of its "pantie raid." It also seems rather odd that students will "hoop and holler" at a raid but won't open their mouths at a football or basketball game.

Look at the raids another way. There isn't a student at State College who can't get a pair of panties without staging a mass raid. Most of those girls who seemingly enjoyed the raid can possibly be coached into a private raid. Anyway, it's not the type of thing to be carried on in public. Just because the girls cheered on the boys doesn't condone the act.

It was all the rage year before last to stage such disturbances. Since that time the novelty has worn off. The public was hostile to the raids when they first started and it is still hostile.

The next time you hear someone suggesting that you go on a pantie raid remember the possible penalty. You may find yourself in court and you may be out of school. Such boisterous excitement isn't worth the cost when you consider that the Raleigh Police Department is prepared for a recurrence of the things that happened in the past and smeared the name of the college.

During the course of this year, the series of articles appearing under musical mobiles has been dedicated to modern music and its makers—great jazz artists. At this time it might be well to stop and look back into the annals of time before jazz and its contemporaries appeared on the scene. All the great music is by far not jazz alone. Jazz is only a very small portion of it. One of the greatest pieces of music ever to be orchestrated is a Spanish number entitled Bolero.

In 1928, Ida Rubinstein, a ballet dancer asked Maurice Ravel to orchestrate a series of works by Albeniz for her dance recital. He requested that he be allowed to compose an original piece for her. The result was Bolero. Actually it is not a bolero as the title indicates but a rather drastic adaptation of that Spanish dance rhythm in slow tempo.

The scene of the opera was the interior of a cafe, apparently deserted. As the number begins, a gypsy girl gets on one of the tables and begins to dance—languidly at first. As the orchestral tone color becomes increasingly elaborate, we notice the crowd beginning to come, first just a few, then in large numbers. Gradually they become hypnotized by the monotony of the music and dance, as there are 18 repetitions of the basic two part music theme. As the music increases in volume, the tension grows and grows inexorably and the gypsy continues her dance. From the beginning to end the number is dominated by the relentless snare drum rhythm and continues in its monotonous way until the very end when there is a different conclusive part.

As Ravel says, Bolero "constitutes an experiment in very special and limited direction . . . consisting wholly of 'orchestral tissue without music' . . . of one long, very gradual crescendo."

For those of you who like or prefer this type of music, there is probably no better number to start off with than this—Ravel's Bolero.

Campus Traffic No. 2: Keys To Success

Brown Lists Needs For Traffic Control On Modern Campus

"Cooperation, coordination and clarification are the keys to successful traffic control on today's college campus," says Chairman T. C. Brown of the State College joint student and faculty traffic committee.

Speaking from more than eight years experience in campus traffic conditions, the committee chairman is a firm believer in the importance of cooperation in controlling automotive activity around the college.

"Cooperation, especially voluntary cooperation, will eliminate just about every problem arising today which is caused by the possession and operation of cars at State College. Drivers, for example, must cooperate to the fullest extent in abiding by traffic regulations which have been established. Unpopular as they may be," the committee chairman insists, "our traffic rules are realistic approaches to the final solution of some equally realistic problems."

Strangely enough, the importance of voluntary cooperation has manifested itself through the medium of enforced cooperation. A year ago the only penalty facing student violators was very light slap on the scholastic wrist in the form of quality point losses. Under this system an A average student could afford to drive daily through Holladay Hall with muddy wheels and still maintain a respectable overall record.

Whereas, under the new regulations recommended by the present traffic group, parking violations have steadily decreased and vehicle registration has soared to an unexpected high since the start of the current semester.

Present penalties include a two-dollar fee for improper or illegal parking and a ten-dollar fee for failing to register a vehicle.

Violations by staff permit holders were disposed of by departmental heads under the old setup. Penalties for this group ranged from letters of censure to total indifference. It was this situation which brought about identical penalties for student and staff violators.

According to Chairman Brown, "there must be complete coordination between traffic control personnel and all branches of State College. We must find a way for the schools and departments to keep abreast of our traffic facilities and to adjust their own needs accordingly. A lot of inconvenience would be avoided if adequate preparation could be made to handle the abnormal traffic flow caused by visitors on the campus for short courses and conferences."

Speaking of clarification, Chairman Brown says "this is primarily a case of defining and ironing out present rules and regulations.

"For instance, only recently has it been brought to the committee's attention that there is no clear-cut description of what constitutes a "visitor" on the campus. In other words, is an engineering professor or student entitled to use the "visitors" parking space when either has occasion to visit the Textile Building? Seemingly minute details such as this need to be more concisely expressed, it appears to me," the chairman says.

(Editor's note: This is the second of a series of articles, concerning traffic conditions and problems at State College, which will appear in The Technician for the next several issues.)

For a while he thought she was Jane Russell—those bags under her eyes fooled him.

CAUGHT IN THE MIDDLE—Non-teaching administrative personnel, such as the Textile School secretary shown above, come in for a lot of unjust criticism because they have same parking privileges as faculty members. Actually, this group has no voice in campus administrative policies. (Staff photo by Wall).

Banks C. Talley, Jr.

Jerry Loucks asks:

What sort of work would I do on my first assignment with Du Pont?

R. GERALD LOUCKS is currently working toward his M.S. in Chemical Engineering at Carnegie Institute of Technology. Jerry has served as president of his student chapter of A. I. Ch. E. and participated in intramural sports—besides finding time to play the trumpet in the R.O.T.C. and Kiltie bands. Right now, Jerry is giving a lot of thought to the selection of an employer.

Charlie Lounsbury answers:

CHARLES W. LOUNSBURY, Jr., worked at Du Pont's Chambers Works for three summers before he received his B.S. in Chemical Engineering from Rensselaer Poly. Inst. in 1940. Since then he has taken an M.S. from Carnegie Tech., and has been continuously employed on interesting assignments at various Du Pont plants. Today Charlie Lounsbury is Technical Superintendent of the Grasselli, N. J., plant of Du Pont's Grasselli Chemicals Department.

There is a great variety of first assignments at Du Pont, Jerry, depending on a man's field of training and the general area of work he has selected. For example, I understand you're interested in plastics, and you might start in development work on plastics, as I did. I worked with a team of more experienced engineers to increase the capacity of equipment used in producing "Lucite" acrylic molding powder. This was a natural prelude to my next major assignment, where I acted as a liaison between Du Pont's Design Division and the plant group—on the design of a new plant for making another form of "Lucite" plastic.

Or take research work. Here a new man is generally assigned to minor research problems until he becomes familiar with the general features and requirements of an industrial research program.

A young man interested in sales may start in a plant or laboratory dealing with the products he will later sell; or he may join a group of trainees to learn selling techniques right from the start.

A man aiming for production supervision may first spend a year or so in laboratory or plant development work. Or he may start as an operator—in a plant producing nylon or "Dacron" polyester fiber, for example. In this way he obtains firsthand knowledge of his process, and establishes a bond of mutual respect with the men he'll be working with on his major assignments later.

In general, Jerry, a man is chosen for a specific job within the scope of his major field of study. His first assignment is intended to help him make the best use of his abilities as promptly as possible.

WANT TO KNOW MORE about working with Du Pont? Send for a free copy of "Chemical Engineers at Du Pont," a booklet that tells you about pioneering work being done in chemical engineering—in research, process development, production and sales. One day during a war, a tall, strong, and handsome soldier in the Roman legions broke into a house where he found two lovely, luscious, sloop-eyed young maidens and their elderly nurse. Chuckling with glee, he roared, "Prepare thyselfes for conquest, my pretties." The lovely girls fell to their knees and pleaded with him. "Do with us as thou wilt, O Roman, but spare our faithful old nurse." "Shut thy mouth," snapped the nurse, "War is war."

Dean Richard J. Preston, of the N. C. State College School of Forestry. Dean Preston came to State in July 1948 to assume the post of Director of the Forestry Division of the School of Agriculture and Forestry from the job as head of the Forestry Department at Colorado A. & M. He has had a wide variety of professional experience ranging from teaching to Ranger work with the Forest Service.

The Dean has also had a varied college career. He obtained his A.B., M.S.F., and Ph.D. in Forestry from the University of Michigan and continued his graduate work and part-time teaching at Stanford, Chicago University, and Grenoble University in France. He studied both Botany and Literature and says he is probably the only Forestry professional to ever teach English Lit.

Originally Dean Preston is from Rockford, Illinois, where he was born September 28, 1905. He is the son of Margaret W. Preston and the late Richard J. Preston. He was brought up in a suburb of Chicago and received his grammar and high school education there. Preston was married to Bernice Boyington Preston in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, on June 1, 1938, and has three children, Richard III, a student at Chapel Hill, Martha, 16, and Mary, 10, both students in Raleigh. Dean Preston is a Rotarian and a member of the Christian Science Church.

The Dean has been, and is, a member of several college and professional organizations. While at Michigan he was initiated into Sigma Xi and has been elected to honorary membership in Xi Sigma Pi at Colorado and Phi Kappa Phi here at State. He is also a member of the Society of American Foresters, the Forest Products Research Society, the N. C. Academy of Science and the American Forestry Association. He has had two books published, both on trees of the western states and he is the author of several technical pamphlets.

Dean Preston has been the head of the School of Forestry since it was separated from the Ag School in 1950. The School has seen a great deal of growth under his leadership in the last five years and its present prominent position among the country's Forestry schools is due in great measure to his fine work. He has been a more than capable Dean and well deserves the praise of all State College students and the people of North Carolina.

since he had honestly bought the books that were missing from a strange student and was only attempting to sell them for a profit. The Board has also handled a case of two students who changed the dates on old excuses in order to be eligible to take a make-up quiz. They were given no further punishment than that which they received from the department in which they took the quiz.

CAMPUS BEAU BRUMMEL enthuses over Jockey brand underwear

Impeccably groomed Chisley J. Chisley ("Chi-chi" to his friends) says, "I like new-fashion fashion and old-fashion comfort. For instance, this week I give the nod to tartan cummerbunds and ascots of shocking pink—but every week I go for the at-ease feeling of Jockey shorts! Take it from a clothes-horse... never say Neigh to Jockey comfort!"

Whether you share Chisley's taste for sartorial splendor or not, you'll enjoy the casual, at-ease appearance that comes from wearing Jockey shorts. Better drop into your dealer's soon... buy a supply of Jockey shorts and T-shirts... and feel as good as you look!

Big Bob Seitz ROTC Problem

—Standing tall and shooting straight is old stuff for Army ROTC Cadet Robert Seitz. His basketball record is proof enough that he shoots straight. If you have ever seen him on the drill field, then you know that he stands tall. He usually is standing head shoulders above the cadets around him. Cadet Seitz usually presents a problem to Cadet Inspecting Officers and supply personnel. It is difficult for some of the shorter

Officers to get a good look at his hat brass. It was even more difficult for supply when they were fitting Seitz for his spring uniform. They still won't say where they got that pair of 15 1/4 triple E shoes. The six-foot eleven inch cadet who weighs 260 pounds wears: a size 17 1/2 shirt with a 38 inch sleeve; trousers with a 38 inch waist and 36 inch length and a size 44 extra long coat. Seitz, a second year student in Textiles, is not outstanding for his size alone. He is an outstanding basketball player and a fine student. When Seitz entered N. C. State in 1953 he was six-feet eight inches tall and weighed 250 pounds. Now, at six-eleven and 260 pounds he stands even taller and shoots even straighter. Seitz is from Oaklyn, N. J. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. William P. Seitz live at 12 Harding Ave., in Oaklyn.

College smokers agree...

WINSTON brings flavor back to filter smoking!

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

TASTES GOOD!

WINSTON tastes good—like a cigarette should!

No wonder Winston's winning so many friends so fast! College smokers found flavor in a filter cigarette when they found Winston. It's got real tobacco flavor! Along with finer flavor, Winston also brings you a finer filter. The exclusive Winston filter works so effectively, yet doesn't "thin" the taste or flatten the flavor.

Smoke WINSTON the easy-drawing filter cigarette!

Applications For Financial Aid

Students who wish to apply for grants-in-aid and loans for the 1955-56 academic year may do so now by filing the necessary form with the Student Aid Office, 9 Holladay Hall. There is no deadline for applying for grants and loans but it is appropriate that students who foresee

SQUARE CIRCLE

By Dixon

Anything for a nickel: Another night like last Friday evening and college union will win the nomination of "Wake County Children's Home."

Stretching a point of honor: An Orange County, North Carolina, College recently ruled that copying a classmate's paper wasn't exactly cheating. Just a case of plagiarism!

Everything willing but the spirit: Textile senior all decked out in walking shorts, walking socks, and walking shoes, standing on the side of Hillsboro street trying to thumb a ride.

Anything for a laugh: Reason for senior Bill Wellons' green hair stunt a couple of weeks ago was to "get his name in the Technician." Jim Wellons, Jim Wellons, JIM WELLONS!

After the ball was over: SAE's Bill Brehm showed up for drill, the Tuesday following the military ball, with hands covered with poison ivy. Swears he never left the dance floor. Must be that green lumber they use in flooring nowadays.

No respecter of office: Student government president-elect Jim Nolan got a traffic ticket early this week. (Maybe Jim Wellons shoulda got elected SG president and then parked in the wrong place.)
