SG Cracks Down On Senator Absenteeism

Army And Air Force To Give Commissions

State College will have its first Joint Army-Air Force Commissioning Exercise when 144 graduates receive their commission in the Army or Air Force Reserve on Saturday, May 28 at 10:00 a.m. in William Neal Reynolds Coliseum it was announced today by Dr. Carey H. Bostian.

Mr. Carter L. Burgess, Assistant Secretary of Defense will come from Washington, D. C. to speak at the exercises and to present the new Second Lieutenants with their commissions.

The Air Force ROTC unit will commission as Second Lieutenants in the United States Air Force Reserve seventy-four graduating students. Thirty-eight of this number have been selected for pilot training, nineteen for flight observer training and the remaining will be assigned to technical and non-technical positions in the Air Force Reserve. These newly commissioned officers will enter active duty during the next twelve months.

Of the seventy graduates to be commissioned as Second Lieutenants in the Army Reserve, the majority will be commissioned in the technical services; however, practically all branches of the Army will receive at least one N. C. State graduate. These new officers will be ordered to active duty with the Army during the next two years and will serve for twenty-four months.

Their newly received commissions as Second Lieutenants will represent to Army and Air Force ROTC graduates alike the culmination of four years of military study and training at State College. This training has been administered as a part of the graduates' selected college curriculum of study by Army and Air Force personnel on duty at the College. Leadership training directed toward each graduate assuming his place of responsibility in the service of his country has been the keynote of this training, with emphasis being placed also on the techniques of military service.

New YMCA Officers James Stewart Pres.

Newly-elected officers of the N. C. State College YMCA, who will serve during the 1955-56 academic year, were formally inducted into their posts during ceremonies at the college.

James M. Stewart of Henderson was installed as president, replacing John Wade Fuquay of Snow Camp, who presided over the installation service.

Other officers include P. Wilson Lee of Raleigh, vice president; Richard F. Jessup of Winston-Salem, secretary; and Charles J. Law, Jr., of Pelham, treasurer.

They were installed by General Secretary Edward S. King of the College "Y", who this year is rounding out 35 years of service in this capacity.

The installation speaker was the Rev. Brooks Patten, pastor of Ramey, Mebane, N. C.

The Student Legislature passed legislation Monday to crack down on absenteeism in the ranks of the Legislature. With hopes that members will begin to have better attendance new members were sworn in, appropriations for the NSA Congress were made, activities fees were discussed, the military cut system was allowed to stand, and a bill to improve the operating procedure of the Legislature was passed.

The "absenteeism" resolution provides that if a member misses more than two consecutive Legislature meetings or if he misses four during his term of office the legislator is dismissed from the legislature. He may submit to the Legislature a written excuse and if it is accepted the absence will not be counted toward expulsion. The Legislature accepted the resolution without a single objection.

Sam Beddingfield is the newly elected president of the College Union. Sam is a rising senior in Aeronautical Engineering and he is in advanced Air Force ROTC. Among other of his extra-curricular activities, he is secretary of the Institution of Aeronautical Science.

Blue Key Initiations; 21 New Members

Tonight, at an initiation banquet at Warren's, 21 students at State College will be initiated as members of the college chapter of Blue Key, national honorary leadership fraternity.

The Blue Key membership is made up of juniors and seniors who have demonstrated outstanding qualities of leadership, character, and scholarship. Membership in the society is regarded as one of the highest honors open to State College students.

Seniors

H. Reece Allen, Oakboro, N. C.; James B. Arthur, Kinston, N. C.; Henry C. Croom, Wilson, N. C. Colbert L. Dilday, Colerain, N. C.; William E. Enloe, Henderson, N. C.; John N. Gregg, Fort Mill, S. C.; William B. Kincaid, Gastonia, N. C.; Harry C. Welch, Jr., Asheville, N. C.

Juniors

Craig W. Barnhardt, Jr., New Bern, N. C.; Sidney E. Briley, Jr., Greenville, N. C.; Robert W. Dillard, Charlotte, N. C.; Phil Dinardo, Philadelphia, Pa.; L. C. Draughon, Jr., Dunn, N. C.; William S. Fisher, Concord, N. C.; James H. Frazier, Goldsboro, N. C.; Lonnie A. Grant, Selma, N. C. Charles E. Lundy, Rocky Mount, N. C.; William F. Quinlivan, Wilmington, N. C.; Joseph K. Reid, Jr., Plymouth, N. C.; Raymond H. Stevens, Raleigh, N. C.; Charles E. Woodall, Smithfield, N. C.; Edwin L. Yancey, Mebane, N. C.

Since advanced ROTC is an elective and under Army regulations the Legislature went along with a committee recommendation that the military departments be allowed to continue their "excuse for cuts" policy. Another point was that advanced Cadets are getting paid and their pay should rightfully be docked when they cut a class or drill.

All new members of the Legislature were sworn in by Vice-President, Bobby Joe Stephenson.

As of next year all organizations that receive appropriations from students' fees will be required to turn in a report on how the money was used. A summary of these reports will be printed in the Technician along with the amount that the organization received.

Since State will have four votes in the United States National Student Association's convention next summer, $450 was appropriated to send delegates to the convention.

Action to require all bills and copies be made available to the members before a meeting of the Legislature was tabled until the next meeting.

Typical Blunders To Be Discussed

Professor Padgett's combined class of Public Address and Parliamentary Practice is sponsoring a parliamentary procedure correction program Friday, May 13, from 12 noon until 1 p.m. in Pullen Hall entitled "Typical Blunders in Conducting a Meeting".

Typical mistakes that are frequently made by the chairman as well as members of an assembly will be demonstrated by the class incorrectly as well as correctly. The class will be open to questions on either points of procedure or parliamentary strategy.

Many prominent people have been invited to attend the discussion and many have accepted the invitation. The class extends a cordial invitation to anyone who is interested to come and ask any questions that they would like to ask.

Billy Dozier Elected Senior Class Pres.

Billy Dozier, a rising senior in the School of Forestry, is the newly-elected president of the college's Senior Class for the 1955-56 academic year. He recently was elected chancellor of Alpha Zeta, national honorary agricultural fraternity; is assistant editor of The Pinetum, yearbook in the School of Forestry; and is a member of Blue Key, honorary leadership society; Sigma Pi, national honorary forestry fraternity; Alpha Phi Omega, service organization of former Boy Scouts; the Order of Thirty and Three, sophomore leadership society; and the Judicial Board of the Student Government.

Fred Rawicz was recently elected vice-president of the College Union. A Korean veteran and a rising senior in Textile Chemistry, Fred has many extra-curricular activities which include being a member of Phi Eta Sigma, the Freshman honor society and vice-president of AATCC.

Competition Opens; Rhodes Scholarship

The College has received information concerning the annual Rhodes Scholarship competition for 1955. The candidate is first endorsed by his college or university, then considered by a state committee and later by a district committee.

The value of a Rhodes Scholarship is 600 pounds per year. Scholars who qualify under the G. I. Bill of Rights or other military educational funds may expect the same benefits at Oxford as at an American university. Appointment to a Rhodes Scholarship is made for two years in the first instance with a possible third year if the Scholar's record at Oxford and plan of study warrant such an award. No restriction is placed upon a Rhodes Scholar's choice of studies.

To be eligible a candidate must:

1. Be a male citizen of the United States, with at least five years' domicile, and unmarried.
2. Be between the ages of nineteen and twenty-five on October 1, 1956. (A candidate who would otherwise be over the age limit but who has had at least 90 days of active service in the Armed Forces of the U. S. A. since June 27, 1950, may deduct the period of his service from his actual age if by doing so he will qualify under the regulations.)
3. By the time of application (Continued on page 8)

Judicial Board Frees 3 Accused Cribbers

The last two cases to come before the Judicial Board have not been at all alike.

In the first one the defendant was charged with maintaining conduct unbecoming a gentleman in connection with the recent panty raid. He pleaded guilty to the charge and received the penalty of probation until the end of next fall semester plus the sentence of automatic suspension if he is ever convicted again of disorderly conduct while at State College. Since this case came up before the Board had made its stand on riots and panty raids, the accused man was given a lighter penalty than the one prescribed for all future cases.

The next trial was concerned with the suspicion of cheating of three men. The Board found all of these men innocent since there was not enough evidence presented to incriminate them.

EDITORIAL COMMENT:

It'll Take Cooperation

This makes the fourth issue in which a feature has aired campus parking problems. In an effort to thoroughly familiarize students with an over-all picture of the problem rather than just a glimpse at one segment, THE TECHNICIAN has devoted as much space as practical.

This feature has caused some discussions. It would be well if these discussions were followed up with concrete suggestions to the Student Government's traffic committee. With a few suggestions to work on, a practical solution may yet evolve.

Of course, the problem isn't limited to parking alone. There is the problem of the flow of traffic as well. Also to be considered with the traffic flow is the problem that pedestrians face. It takes an alert student or faculty member to evade some drivers. Some schools have set up plans to aid the student on foot. One such school, Furman, has stops where cars must yield the right-of-way to pedestrians. On the surface it might seem that this would impede the flow of traffic, but remember that cars aren't supposed to exceed 20 miles per hour on the campus although most of them do. The question is "which is more important, students or their cars?"

The problem isn't a pleasant one and certainly it has received more attention than any other similar problem. Jealousy has arisen between students and staff members. Each feels that he has more right to use the parking space available. The issue is going to have to be faced, and it might be well to set up some basis to allot spaces. A suggested basis has been space numbering with permits numbered to correspond to and assign one specific space. Along with the suggestion was the thought that perhaps the allotments should be by rank. That is, professors followed by assistant professors, instructors, and so on down. The student making this suggestion also stated that he felt that professors are entitled to more consideration. A privilege of service.

Most students are inclined to think, however, that peripheral parking lots will be the answer, with students and faculty members treated alike. Whatever solution anyone thinks of should be considered. It's a problem that faces faculty members and students alike and deserves working cooperation with the traffic committee. This cooperation will not be easily had. True, some members of the faculty go out of their way to help students but there are a few who feel that the cars of students should be prohibited with no further study. These professors are not looking at human nature realistically. The professors who have cooperated with students in ironing out the problem are to be congratulated. When every student and faculty and staff member realizes that State's problem is a joint problem and decides to cooperate, then the problem will be well on the way to being solved.

Physical Ed. Facilities

Frank Thompson gym was built in 1924 when the enrollment was 1200 students. Since then the enrollment has increased over 300 per cent while the very same gym is still in use. A physical education plant that would require an expenditure of between one-half and one million dollars or more would be the very minimum for a school this size, if the size and scope of the physical education program is expected to be comparable to the size of the school.

It is presumed that a new physical education plant would include an outdoor pool; or either an outdoor-indoor combination type pool. In either case seating for spectators is needed very badly. Swim meets at State draw crowds that the limited seating capacity of the present pool cannot accommodate.

But away from the need of a new physical education plant, and out to the tennis courts. At present there are 14 tennis courts on the campus. Five of these are varsity courts and are not usually used by anyone except the tennis team. To be very one sided about the matter it could be said that there are about 450 students per tennis court.

Of course every one does not play tennis; but let's look at some figures. In the fall 138 students were enrolled in tennis while this spring 269 students are taking tennis in 12 classes. This figure does not include the estimated 160 who are playing in intramurals each week or the industrial recreation tennis class. Furthermore, on the weekend the 1200 students who have taken tennis instruction in the last three years and are still in school might like to play if they could find an empty court without waiting for most of the afternoon.

Good tennis courts are in the $2,000 price range. This is for hard surfaced courts since the upkeep on clay courts can become a tremendous expense. The P.E. department feels that it needs six more courts, they hope to be able to have three courts put in this summer.

More intramural fields which would be located across the creek behind the tennis courts could be put to good use as could many other things if they were available.

If the Board of Trustees passes a proposal by the Student Legislature whereby the Student Legislature would get 15 per cent of the Stores profits to be used for "the betterment of student campus facilities," Student Government stands to collect $9,000 or better next year. This money should be made available to SG to be used to help projects like this out financially.

Letters To The Editor:

Dear John:

Praise must be given to the TECHNICIAN and the members of the Judicial Board responsible for the lucid description of the campus problems that have been recently handled by that body.

This has long been a badly neglected phase in the attempts to instill the spirit of the honor system in the will of the student body. It is important that we, on the outside of that body, understand these cases and the decisions involved. Just reprimands and punishments will meet with more favor student-wise if they are made public as soon as they are dealt out.

We elect representatives on the Judicial Board, and if we know what they do, we can't help but feel as a part of the movement toward a student honor system.

It would be nice if this could be a front page feature in the future.

Sincerely yours,
Tom Lynam

frankie carle

At the age of eight most young boys think they have chosen the career they wish to follow and are reluctant if their parents try to change their minds. This was the case with Frankie Carle. At this early age, Frankie had decided to be a boxer but his parents had decided on music as a career. Puzzled, but determined, Carle set out and made a good name for himself as a pianist and fighter throughout high school.

His musical talent is hereditary. His uncle, Nicholas Colangelo, is a European-trained musician who surprised his colleagues (and probably himself) by opening and running successfully a ballroom in Providence, R. I., after coming to this country. Uncle Nicholas began to guide Frankie's rapidly maturing piano technique into salable channels. When he was sure of the solidity of Frankie's classical background, he encouraged Frankie's aptitude for the popular vein in both playing and composing. During the next few years the youthful pianist gathered experience as accompanist for several well-known vaudeville personalities, including May Yohe, owner of the fabulous Hope Diamond.

At the age of thirteen, he wrote his first song and carried it proudly to Harry Von Tilzer in New York, who tactfully diverted him to a job as piano player for a dance team. But Frankie was overwhelmed by stage fright on his first appearance on a stage, and fled back to England orchestra of Ed McEnelly, who, at the time, boasted such Providence.

Two years later, he returned to business, joining the popular New destined for fame sidemen as Gene Krupa, Jack Teagarden, Spud Murphy, Toots Mondello, and Jack Jenny. He learned his jazz with the best men in the business.

Leaving the McEnelly band, Frankie joined the well-known orchestra of Mal Hallet. He made several noteworthy recordings while with Mal, in which Frankie's piano work was prominently featured. Two examples are "Ridin' High" and "Humoresque," both recorded in 1937.

About 1938, Frankie began to realize that his piano playing was the drawing card with whatever band he was with, and decided that he was ready to organize his own band. However, this was to come later. In '39 he was discovered by Horace Heidt. Frankie got Horace to play his "Sunrise Serenade" as a band arrangement. With this, Carle was well on his way.

However, it was not until 1943 that Frankie left Horace and formed his own group. This organization, sparked by the brilliant piano styling and arranging of its leader, clicked all over the country—at supper clubs, theatre personal appearances, and on records.

Some of the Carle numbers are—"Kitten On The Keys," "Holiday," "Dancing Tambourine," "Memories," "Nobody's Sweetheart," "Just A Girl That Men Forgot," "Who's Sorry Now," "Carle Boogie," "Sunrise Boogie," and many more, two numerous to name.

Forestry Club News

At a recent meeting, the members were entertained by a group of Meredith College girls who put on a swell program of music, ballads, and dancing. Every member present expressed the thought that all Forestry students were really missing something when they did not attend Forestry Club meetings.

Eleven Professors from Forestry and related fields have been elected to Associate Membership in the Club. Their names will be released upon the formal initiation into the club of these outstanding teachers and friends.

The meeting of May 3 included a program by a member of the staff of the State Museum and a visit by the Duke Forestry Club. At this time, an annual meeting was planned between the two clubs. A banquet, lying contest, and competition in field events are just part of the planned program.

The annual picnic will be held soon, and all Forestry students are reminded to remember it and plan to attend.

Frosh Baseball Squad Edge Carolina 1-0

Roger Hagwood and John MacGlamory combined their pitching and batting talents as they led State's freshman baseball squad to a thrilling 1-0 win over Carolina.

Hagwood gave up only one-hit to the baby Tar Heels as MacGlamory blasted a towering home run in the seventh inning to give State its seventh win against three losses.

The Baby Wolfpack was scheduled to meet Carolina again yesterday afternoon.

State College's powerful baseball squad rallied for four big runs in the bottom of the ninth to beat Wake Forest's Demon Deacons and move into a tie for the Atlantic Coast Conference crown.

State was scheduled to meet the Tar Heels of Carolina in their final game of the season yesterday while Wake Forest finishes up Saturday against Virginia. If both teams come out on top the ACC standing will still be deadlocked and a play-off will be staged next week.

Barringer's hit

Joe Barringer drove in the winning run on an infield single in the bottom of the ninth to send Bill Peed scampering home for the victory. Wake Forest held a 7-2 lead going into eighth. Peed blasted a two-run triple to tie the ball game and set the stage for Barringer's single. Russ Casteen belted a two-run 365-foot homer in the eighth.

Lou Dickman was credited with the win after relieving starter Tom Hargrove. Barringer's 3-4 was tops at the plate.

Band Concert Sunday At C U Quad—4:00 PM

The State College Band will present a free public concert Sunday afternoon (May 15) at four o'clock. Instead of the Memorial Tower, where most of the outdoor concerts have previously been held, the scene of Sunday's concert will be the south terrace of the College Union, just outside the Snack Bar. The change in location for this concert is somewhat on an experimental basis from the standpoint of acoustics and audience appeal.

The program will include a variety of musical offerings representing the classical, semi-classical and popular fields. Christian Kutschinski, Director of Music, will be the conductor.

This concert is sponsored jointly by Mu Beta Psi, honorary music fraternity, and the College Union Music Committee. Students are invited to bring their "dates", and faculty and staff members their families and friends. Following the concert will be Coffee Hour, by courtesy of the College Union Social Committee.

A divorce case was being heard in court. The aggrieved husband told the judge, "I came home and there was my wife in the arms of a strange man."

"And what did she say when you surprised her?" asked the judge.

"That's what hurt me most, said the indignant husband. "She turns and says, 'Well, look who's here. Old blabber mouth!—now the whole neighborhood will know!'"

From a recent issue of the University of Maryland's Diamondback comes this front page reminder: "Junior class boat ride set for tonight." Betcha' this wasn't anything like the cruise up Crabtree Creek which the senior class at State College was treated to several weeks ago.

A one-column head in the Richmond Professional Institute's Postscript introduced a sports page feature this way the other day: "Meet the devils." Aint whatcha' say, it's the way how ya' say it.

The Wake Forest College student newspaper recently carried a two-column head on its front page declaring that: "Old Gold rates All-American." Camel college may just as well make up its mind here and now that where there's smoke there's R. J. Reynolds.

Cliff Litherland asks:

Would I have varied assignments at Du Pont—or would I specialize technically?

CLIFFORD LITHERLAND received a B.A. degree from Rice Institute last year, and is now working for a B.S. in Chemical Engineering. He is Business Manager of "The Rice Engineer," and Vice-President of the fifth-year class at Rice. By asking questions of prospective employers, Cliff is trying to get information that will help him make the best use of his training in the years ahead.

Arthur Mendolia answers:

Well, Cliff, I'd say the answer to that question depends largely on your own preferences. In a company the size of Du Pont there are opportunities for growth along either line.

In my own case, I've followed the route of diversification—and I think you'll find that's the general procedure when a fellow is interested in administrative work.

For example, after graduation I started work in the research lab at Du Pont's Niagara Falls plant. That was followed by two years of process improvement work, and a stretch as assistant supervisor over one of the plant areas. Next, I spent a few years in liaison on the design and construction of our first full-scale plant for making nylon intermediates from furfural. Then, I had assignments on "plant start up," and production supervision before I was given my present post. I was made Assistant Director of Research for Du Pont's Electrochemicals Department last August.

You see, variety of assignments means contact with new men and with constantly changing problems. That keeps interest alive. It leads to growth, too, because it provides a broad base of experience for future responsibilities.

On the other hand, some fellows prefer to become specialists in a particular field—and Du Pont has many opportunities for that type of professional growth, too. In our research, development and design groups we have experts on distillation, mass transfer, thermodynamics—and most anything else you'd care to mention in the field of engineering. These men are respected throughout the whole company for their technical knowledge.

Whichever route you choose, Cliff—broad or specialized—you'll find that a job well done leads to satisfaction and advancement at Du Pont.

ARTHUR I. MENDOLIA was graduated from Case Institute in June 1941 and started work with the Du Pont Company that same month. In addition to handling challenging assignments at work, he also enjoys some interesting hobbies. Although he makes no claims personally, he's classed as a minor authority on golf and hi-fi music. Mr. Mendolia is Assistant Director of Research for Du Pont's Electrochemicals Dept.

WANT TO KNOW MORE about working with Du Pont? Send for a free copy of "Chemical Engineers at Du Pont," a booklet that tells you about pioneering work being done in chemical engineering—in research, process development, production and sales. # Campus Traffic No. 4: Score To Date

Long Term Policy, Stopgap Measures Keep Committee Busy

Applying stopgap measures and formulating long term policy have kept the State College traffic committee hopping ever since it held its first session late last September.

Although problems demanding the committee's enforcement, and giving thorough study and consideration to the hundreds of complaints and suggestions placed before it, the college's joint student-faculty traffic group has spent many working hours in trying to find a final answer to the traffic problem which has been plaguing the campus for nearly ten years.

While some of the temporary expedients applied by the committee have produced unexpectedly favorable results, other steps apparently had little or no effect.

For example, when the group received administrative approval for its plan to assess a monetary penalty for illegal parking a noticeable reduction in parking tickets hand out was expected.

However, despite the fact that fewer tickets are being appealed by student violators, the college business office reports a steady increase in the student traffic fund. At the present time fees collected from traffic violators amount to more than $3,000.

On the other hand, when the traffic committee recommended a $25 penalty for all persons failing to register vehicles it was hoping to gain respect for that particular regulation and not to fatten the coffers of the student fund.

When the Chancellor approved only a $10 fee for registration violations there was some apprehension that the teeth had been removed from the bill. But when second semester registration was complete the traffic books showed an additional 400 and some vehicles registered, whereas only about 50 had been expected.

Because staff permit holders have less reason to run afoul of campus traffic rules only 16 appeals have been filed with the faculty subcommittee for appeals. In all cases appeals were sustained. Fees collected from staff permit violators also go to the student traffic fund.

Long term traffic policy recommendations have been prepared by the committee and submitted to the college administration for approval. After approval here the recommendations will be forwarded to the board of trustees of the Greater University for final action.

Although details of the traffic committee's recommendations have not been made public, few students and faculty members at State College will be surprised when the report is released.

Within the main campus area surrounded by Hillsboro Street, Seaboard Railroad, Pullen Road, and Dan Allen Drive, automotive activity will be greatly curtailed comes next September.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

by Dick Bibler

LACK OF COORDINATION between college traffic committee and its enforcement arm, M and O, is pointed up by signs such as the one shown here which stands in front of Nelson Textile Building. Spokesman for School of Textiles says sign is carry-over from days when campus traffic code permitted reserved parking. M and O says sign is still standing "because no work order for its removal has been received through proper channels." Current regulations prohibit special parking facilities for individuals or groups. (Staff photo by Wall)
