OUR QUINT GOES ON RAMPAGE, TAKING TWO MORE SCALPS

Florida is Overwhelmed by the One-Sided Score of 30-16, With Gullford Next to Fall, 28-25

State College basketball stock has taken one of the most phenomenal rises witnessed by local fans in many years. With the old "State College fight" that has been in evidence all the season, it is quite natural to expect results sooner or later. After a team has had the luck of losing four straight, it continues the fight under great difficulty. Only the best of teams doing the hardest sort of work can come back and take three straights, two of them being with teams at whose hands they have tasted the sting of defeat earlier in the season.

University of Florida a Victim

On Saturday evening, February 10, the University of Florida was the victim to the tune of 30-16. The game was rather slow and more or less featureless—neither team playing an extraordinary game. State supporters, however, were more than pleased to see the consistence with which the Red and White performed. Scoring was rather slow for the first ten minutes of play, the score being 2-1 about the middle of the first period. At the end of the first period State had increased its lead 13-7.

Early in the second period Florida started a rush that cut the lead down to four points, but that was the best they could do. State then drew away and the game ended 30-16.

POULTRY JUDGING TEAM ATTAINS HIGH HONORS AT NEW YORK SHOW

Stand Highest in Rhode Island Red Judging, and is Awarded Breed Cup and Handsome Ribbon; Team Also Visits Poultry and Egg Marketing and Packing Plants in New York

Each year there meets in annual contest poultry-judging teams from the Agricultural colleges over the country. This national poultry-judging contest is staged in connection with the Madison Square Garden Poultry Show, New York City, and this year was held on January 26th.

This year the North Carolina State College poultry-judging team consisted of J. M. Harris, R. F. Ruth, J. D. Sykes, and D. L. Jones as alternate. The contest was keen and the classes close. There was judged in all eight classes as follows: Standard Single-Comb Rhode Island Red Cockerels, Single-Comb White Leghorn Cocks, Barred Plymouth Rock Pullets, and White Wyandotte Hens. In Utility classes for egg production there was judged hens of the following breeds: Rhode Island Reds, Barred Plymouth Rocks, White Wyandottes, Single-Comb White Leghorns.

The North Carolina team stood highest in score on Rhode Island Reds, and won the breed cup, also a handsome placement ribbon.

This year there was in this national contest a Boys' and Girls' Section. This made two classes in judging, viz., a College Class of contestants and a Junior Class of contestants. The Club team from Louisiana won a medal as individual honors.

A Study of Markets and Marketing

On this judging the poultry-judging team had an opportunity to study the New York City markets. Saturday was set apart for this work. There was first visited the receiving station of Schoubrun Brothers, commission merchants, where a constant stream of eggs were being received from all parts of the country. Among the stacks of cases were recognized some from North Carolina. Mr. Charles Schoubrun, pointing to a nicely packed case with a clean label of a picture of a pair of Leghorns, said: "This case came from Mr. J. M. Allen, of Louisville, N. C. He sends a good grade of eggs and we often get requests for more eggs with the picture of the chickens on the case." So it is, if a thing is worth doing at all it is worth doing well, and a reward will be the result. From here we went to an egg-breaking establishment, where dirty eggs, checks, dents, and leakers are

CONFERENCE DETAILS GIVEN BY HEAD OF THE STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Vansant Delegate to First Conference Southern Federation of Students; Movement Has Great Future

Several weeks ago I received a letter from Mr. Albert Staton, President of the Student Government at Georgia Tech, and another from Mr. Joe Pearce, Jr., President of the Students' Association at Mississippi A. & M. Both proposed a meeting of representatives of every college student body in the Southern Intercollegiate Conference, to be held in Atlanta, Ga., on February 9-10, with the idea of getting together a body of men who would be representative of the Southern college student, and at that meeting formulate plans whereby all the colleges in the S.I.C. could be of mutual help to each other in solving the many problems which confront our student governments.

Every student government has practically the same problems to a greater or lesser degree; some, through wide experience or exceptional management, have solved many of their problems. Few have solve all or nearly all of their problems—there are new problems arising every day. We have them, every other college has them, and how much better and easier must it be to meet a situation when you have heard of just such a situation at some other college and you know how it was met, than to have to grope, and work, and worry, and lose time, in working it out for yourself? Why not profit by the experience of others—for what is a college education, or any other kind of education, except using to your own advantage the experience of others?

I went to Atlanta, and found there representatives from the fifteen major colleges of the South. We were not sent there on a pleasure trip, we went there to work, and we did work, but due to the forethought and hospitality of the men of Georgia Tech, we had an exceptionally good time. Every possible form of entertainment was provided for us when we were free from the conferences. We were made to feel perfectly at home at all times.

At Atlanta we formulated a tentative Constitution and By-laws for "The Southern Federation of Students." We discussed every part of the Constitution and By-laws. They are not the product of the imagina-

VOLUNTEERS ARE COMING

N. C. State College is proud to have as its guests on March 8, 9, 10 and 11, the delegates to the Annual Conference of the Student Volunteers of North Carolina. There will be upwards of two hundred delegates, among whom will be representatives of every institution of higher learning in North Carolina. There can be no finer spirit shown by anyone than that of these students, most of whom have pledged themselves to work in foreign fields, where they go to spread some of the western civilization.

Meredith College is very kindly helping us out in aiding with the programs, and caring for most of the delegates. We would strongly urge that all who may, will acquaint themselves more with the purposes and plans of the Volunteer movement. It will doubtless give all of us a broader insight into the proper callings of life.

SHALL WE ABUSE OUR PRIVILEGES?

For several years it has been the policy of the Y. M. C. A. to furnish soap and towel rental to the athletes who use the dressing rooms in the basement of the "Y" building. These things are furnished merely as an accommodation, and were not meant to become any part of a commercial scheme. Nevertheless, it has been found that there are those who are so unappreciative that they forget the formality of returning the towels when they have finished with them. A very large number of towels have been caused to disappear in this way, and have of course been replaced at the expense of the "Y." The removal of the towels has, no doubt, been merely a thoughtless act, and would not have occurred had the attention of the boys been called to their thoughtlessness. Those who are now receiving the benefits of this service will please work with the "Y," and prevent a discontinuance of towel rental.

GEORGIA TECH'S HOSPITALITY

The first convention of the representatives of the Student Governments of the Colleges of the South was held last week at the Georgia School of Technology. Mr. Vansant, President of our Student Council, who was our delegate to the convention, is very enthusiastic about the excellent manner in which the delegates were treated by their Georgia hosts, as the entertainment accorded them was typical of the highest type of Southern hospitality. Every delegate was placed in the house of his own fraternity, if it had a chapter there, and if there were no chapter of his fraternity, or if he was not a member of any fraternity, he was nevertheless given a place in one of the fraternity houses, where the very best of treatment was accorded him. The mere giving of meals and places to sleep was, of course, insignificant beside the ever-present spirit of welcome that pervaded the whole campus, and made one feel that he was really an appreciated guest. Tickets were given to all the games that occurred while the conference was in session, dances and banquets were given, and every conceivable comfort was offered. This excellent spirit of the Georgia folks cannot but make itself felt throughout the entire Southland, and will go far toward making a more friendly feeling not only for the Georgia institution, but among all the others that had the privilege of having delegates gather in a place where they were treated so royally. We thank you, Georgia Tech!

IT HAS GREAT POSSIBILITIES

We are glad to see such an excellent movement started as that of a union of the student governments of the principal Southern colleges. The idea for such a union originated in the mind of the President of the Student Council of Georgia Tech, and largely through his efforts the first convention was held last week, at his college. The Collegiate League of Nations, as we are bound to call it sooner or later, proposes to be the means of an exchange of ideas, of experiences, among the institutions of higher learning in the South, and to be the means of settling any difficulties that may arise for any reason between the student bodies of those institutions. In the past, as every clear-thinking college man has seen, there have been countless thoughtless and worthless misunderstandings between the student bodies of the several institutions, largely because there were no channels through which the representatives of those student bodies could meet on common ground and come to a mutual understanding. This new organization has been formed to fill this very need. At the invitation of the Student Government Association of Georgia Tech, delegates from more than a score of Southern colleges were sent. The very eagerness with which so many student bodies responded shows how much the need of such a convention has been felt.

The principal meetings of the collegiate student bodies has been, and will continue to be, through the medium of intercollegiate athletics. There will, of course, be various other smaller contests, such as debates, or essay contests of one kind or another. But still athletics forms the greatest common ground, and also furnishes by far the largest cause of misunderstanding among students of different institutions. The new Association of Student Governments can decide upon the time and place of playing rubber games, upon the eligibility of players, or any other problem that may arise. Greatest of all, however, is the friendly spirit that is going to be aroused among the colleges, and for that reason especially we are glad to encourage such a movement.

sent. These eggs are broken and placed in 30-, 50-, or a 100-pound cans, and frozen. Some cans contain only yolks, others albumen, whites, still others both yolks and whites. These eggs are sold to bakeries, hotels, and confectioners. These cans are stored in a cooler which is kept at about zero temperature.

From here we went to an egg-candling room, where all eggs coming to market are candled and graded. This especially must be done before they can be placed in storage. We were told here that the protective tariff on eggs, placed there by the U. S. Congress, as a result of the appeal from the egg producers of the country, was effective in keeping out the Chinese eggs, and kept the market from breaking and selling below cost of production.

We then visited a storage for eggs and poultry. The egg storage was empty, but gave an idea as to how storage eggs were handled. The rooms are clean and whitewashed. Kept at a temperature of 30-32 F. The cases are packed one upon the other with slats between them so as to allow a free circulation of air. Egg cases are stamped with the date of entry into storage, and must be sold on the market not later than ten months from that date.

The last place that we visited was a freezer, in which dressed poultry of all grades and kinds were kept. Some were in boxes, others packed in barrels, but all frozen—as the temperature was kept constantly at 8 degrees below zero.

A salesman with a thirst took advantage of a stop at a tank-town to ask a colored fisherman for the means of breaking the law. The colored man requested a dollar and went off, presumably to get a quart. The salesman waited, patiently holding the colored fellow's fish line. Several minutes passed, the train was ready to leave and yet no quart. At last, in despair, the salesman decided not to wait. He determined to keep a memento of the vanished dollar in the shape of the fish line. He pulled in the line and at the end was a quart of corn.—Ex.

of Guilford 28-25. The game started off with a rush, with Guilford drawing first blood on a shot from the foul line, only to be followed immediately with a field goal by Leeper. Then it was J. G. Frazier's time for he shot a field goal, making the score 3-2. Thus the score gradually rose until the half ended 13-all.

In the second half Johnson took up the fight in earnest, scoring 11 points. He was clearly State's star, corraling 12 points in all. Guilford never took the lead in the final period, although she was never behind more than five points. When the final whistle sounded, State still held a three-point lead. Jeannette and Curtis also did excellent work.

tion of one or two men, they are the product of the heads of the student government of the fifteen major colleges and universities of the South.

Read that Constitution and By-laws; think of the possibilities of such an organization, and when in a few days the Southern Federation of Students comes before the Student Body for ratification, don't let State College be a back number. SUNNY DIXIE

There is a dear old land called DIXIE
Where the sun is always bright,
Where the birds are always singing
And the heart is always light.

And oftentimes I wonder
If there's another land so fair
As that dear old land called DIXIE
With its maidens so sweet and fair.

With its fields of corn and cotton
And its watermelons sweet,
Where the flowers are always blooming
By the hundreds at your feet.

Some may choose to wander,
But for me I will never roam
From this dear old land called DIXIE,
Which shall always be my home.

MYSELF

I have to live with myself, and so I want to be fit for myself to know;
I want to be able, as the days go by,
Always to look myself in the eye;
I don't want to stand with the setting sun
And hate myself for the things I've done,

I want to go out with my head erect;
I want to deserve every man's respect.

But here in the struggle for fame and self,

I want to be able to like myself.
I don't want to look at myself and know

That I'm bluster and bluff and empty show.

I never can hide myself from me;
I see what others may never see;
I know what others may never know,
I never can fool myself, and so Whatever happens, I want to be Self-respecting and conscience free.

SERVICES APPRECIATED

Boys Help Make Movies Possible by Their Generous Service

The Y. M. C. A. wishes to thank the fellows who have been assisting with the movies on Thursdays. The admission price of ten cents is just sufficient, in most cases, to take care of the actual operating expenses, and since these fellows offer their services free, the pictures can be run for the small price.

The profits from the movies, when there are any, will go towards purchasing an electric motor for the operating machine. This will greatly improve the operation, and it is hoped that the motor can be secured at an early date.

"THE OLD HOMESTEAD" is scheduled to be shown here today and tomorrow (Friday and Saturday). This is a high-class Paramount picture, and no doubt everyone will avail himself of the opportunity of seeing it for the small price.

NOTICE

Those desiring regular board with "Our Lunch Room" will please sign up as early as possible before the first of March.

BARNYARD PHILOSOPHY

By
Sidney Pureblood

Nothing worth while is ever accomplished without trials, disappointments, heartaches, and pain.

It is by the constant elimination of errors that the best men are developed.

There is no joy that can compare with the satisfaction of knowing that you have played the game, whatever it may be, squarely.

Wouldn't you like to see a model man? Why not make one of yourself?

The test of a man is his daily life.
When you do a thing, do it as it should be done.

Brevity is a virtue.
It is almost as easy to acquire the thrift habit as it is to fall into the spendthrift habit, and much more desirable. Do not be "tight," still do not waste your time or money.

There is no satisfaction that can compare with that of knowing you have done something which no one has ever done before.

Some people like to sit and think—others like to sit.

A college education is your "interference." Follow this interference with hard work and you will make a touchdown out in Life.

Play a great big square game and play it to the end!
Great things cost dearly.

Sounds Reasonable

curity will you be able to give me?"

MITT AND MAT CLUB IS GAINING GROUND

Meet With Carolina on February 24; Others Pending; Interest Such Coach Next Year Assured

The Mitt and Mat Club is fast gaining headway on the campus. To be so young, this organization is attracting quite a bit of attention, and is drawing some mighty favorable comments from the student body at large. This branch of athletics is practically new in Southern colleges, but within a few years it promises to be among the major sports. The interest shown by the boys when the club provides a good exhibition of boxing or wrestling between the halves of our basketball games is enough to demonstrate this fact.

Several students have shown so much interest in wrestling that Prof. Nelson has arranged a match with Carolina on February 24. Matches are practically assured with Trinity and Wake Forest, while negotiations are under way for one with Davidson. The writer understands that Prof. Nelson has promised the club a regular coach next year if they continue to manifest so much interest. That sounds mighty good, and if that be the only condition, we are assured of a boxing and wrestling coach for the coming year, because the club is gaining more interest every day. The exhibitions thus far have been good, and it is hoped they will be continued.

The elimination contests for the Carolina meet will be held soon. These contests are open to any member of the student body. Anyone who has had any experience in wrestling, or anybody who cares to try out for the team, should report and begin training at once. The club meets on the fourth floor of Watauga every afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. You, big fellow, let's get to work and show Carolina what we can do even without a coach.

TRACK TEAM STARTS ITS DAILY WORKOUTS

With Nine Letter Men Back, Prospects for a Winning Team Are Very Favorable

When a call for track men was issued about fifty men responded and have been working out each afternoon for the past two weeks.

Homewood, State's star track performer of recent years, will be out with the men every afternoon as soon as the basketball season is over. Dr. Taylor, who has done much for the advancement of track here by putting out two winning teams, because of his many other duties, will not be able to devote as much time to this work as he would like, but has promised to give the track team as much of his time as possible and to help get the men in good shape before each meet. With this coaching combination, and with the available material, State should turn out a championship team this year.

A goodly number of meets have been scheduled, but at this time it is not possible to publish the full schedule.

Freshmen are not eligible for the varsity this year, but there will be a freshman team for which meets with various schools will be arranged.

Many more men are needed on the squad to fill vacancies made by graduation last year. We wish to get as many men out as possible who have never gone out for track. Past years have shown that this is the way several track stars have been found or developed.

Cinders have been ordered for the track and it will be gotten in good condition soon.

On Water Supply Class

Prof. Mann: "Mr. Gay, what composes the bottom layer of a sand filter bed?"

Gay: "Reinforced concrete."

We wonder how long it would take 150,000,000,000 gallons of water to filter through a bed of reinforced concrete.

GILMER'S
FROM HILLS DIPPY TO YOU

Engineering Levels Mountains

The Pack Train has become a relic of the past, along with the Prairie Schooner. Modern methods of transportation have leveled mountains, brought San Francisco nearer to New York, and widened the markets of all our great industries.

And the engineering brains and energy, that have developed transportation to the prominence it holds in the business of the world today, are no longer employed in improving means of overland travel alone. Street Railways, Elevator Systems, Interurban Lines and Improved Shipping Lines—these are some of the accomplishments of engineering in the development of better transportation.

Neither have the builders of such systems been concerned only in the actual hauling of people and materials. A study of the methods of handling passengers and freight at the large terminals has developed the Terminal Engineer, who has greatly improved existing methods, and has developed entirely new ones, as well.

Engineering, as it is applied to transportation, has had to concern itself with many kinds of materials and many ways of handling them under all manner of circumstances. For instance the problems surrounding the handling of iron ore, in bulk, are vastly different from those encountered in moving any one of the finished products manufactured from iron ore, that must also be transported in large quantities. But Engineering constantly meets each situation with improved transportation facilities.

Industry, as a whole, and the nations and the people of the world owe much to the engineers, associated with such large manufacturing industries as Westinghouse. They have not only brought about vast improvements, but they have done so at a constantly decreasing cost to those who derive the greatest benefit from them.

JUNIOR FACULTY HOLDS BANQUET

Dr. E. C. Brooks Delivers Address at Elaborate Dinner

Members of the Junior Faculty Club of State College, their wives and sweethearts, and a number of invited guests gathered at the College Y. M. C. A. Friday evening for the first annual Junior Faculty Rejuvenation, a celebration unique in the annals of college history and one that bids fair to rival in popularity any of the informal social functions of the year.

More than a hundred guests were present when the doors of the banquet hall were opened for the first number on the program, an elaborate course dinner, served by that splendid organization, the State College Woman's Club. Dr. J. B. Derieux led the mass singing of a number of popular songs that preceded the dinner, and at the close the assemblage was addressed by Dr. E. C. Brooks.

Dr. Brooks feelingly touched upon the progress made along all lines by the State during the last five or six years, the magnificent march forward being due, he said, to an awakened consciousness in the minds of North Carolinians that this State is the equal of any in the Union in the material things that make for prosperity. The people are just now beginning to believe in their State, and they are no longer content to be commiserated upon the fact that some other section ranks just a little bit higher in education, in industry, or along any other line. And it is this confidence in the commonwealth, said Dr. Brooks, that has enabled North Carolina to put into motion a program of educational and industrial progress that has been the marvel of the South and the Nation.

The teachers liked Dr. Brooks with his dry humor running as a vein through the more serious thought, and at the close of his address gave him a great ovation.

Dinner over, the Club adjourned to the "Y" auditorium, where a varied program of entertainment was held. To begin with, there were three vocal selections by David Gray, dramatic baritone, "The Amourer" from "Robin Hood" was the more ambitious of the trio, followed by the old favorites, "Just A'wearyin' for You" and "I Love You Truly." Mr. Gray was in fine voice and his splendid baritone has never been heard to better advantage.

Miss Mary Ray, cellist, gave two numbers, "Romance" and "Because" from "Jocelyn," both rendered with fine musicianship, but the audience could not let her go and she was called back for two encores. Two readings by Mrs. William J. Dana followed. "A Sad Mistake," given for the benefit of the unmarried members of the Club, the reader said, and "So Was I." Mrs. Dana, with her charm, fine stage presence and delightful mimicry, was one of the hits of a program that was brimful of enjoyment.

Raleigh has no more popular musician than Miss Sue Kyle Southwick, who played the accompaniments during the evening, and her solo, the brilliant and tuneful "Blue Danube Waltz," was thoroughly enjoyed.

Three charming solos by Miss Ethel Ziglanski, soprano, "The Night Wind," "Evening," and "Robin, Robin, Sing Me a Song," came next. Many heard Miss Ziglanski for the first time, and she sang her way straight into their hearts.

Twenty minutes of blackface comedy, clog-dancing and singing, staged by "The Cyclone Twinklers," an organization of State College students that threaten to carry off some of the laurels of 'Lasses White, was uproariously received and applauded. The program closed with a five-reel Paramount movie.

The entire musical program was broadcasted from station WLAC, the College wireless station.
