CAROLINA WINS FIRST MAT - AND - MIT MATCH

State Boys Show Lack of Coaching,
But They Make Carolina Extend Herself

Carolina came, she saw, and she conquered. But not until she knew that she had been pulled, tugged and mopped from one end of the stage of Pullen Hall to the other. Had the men from Carolina stayed on the mat and wrestled in the fashion that our boys had been taught, there would have been another ending to the story. In all fairness to Carolina, we believe that State would have been the victor had we had the services of a coach. But fate plays many parts, so there is no use in predicting what might have been.

Below is the match as seen from the "ringside":

Bout No. 1. Sherman of State vs. Schwartz of Carolina. Bantamweight.

The bantams started the frolic by dancing around the mat for nearly the whole of the time limit. Sherman had a job trying to keep

WESTINGHOUSE COMPANY WANTS STATE STUDENTS

Definite Offers Made to Two Men, and Three Others in Electrical Department Under Observation

The representative of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, assisted by the local representative, was here Thursday of last week, looking over the prospects for future Westinghouse men. He seemed impressed by the large Senior Class and the excellent record that it had made for itself. His company offered a diversity of types of work that was unequalled by many of the other companies and caters especially to students. A special course is given all students entering their employ, in order better to acquaint them with the operations and methods of the great plant. After the students' course, the student will be free to choose his type of employment in the department best suited for his abilities and desires.

Definite offers were given to D. E. Stewart and J. B. Stepp, the latter of whom will probably go into the sales field. In addition to taking these men, the representative is giving serious consideration to E. R. Commander, A. M. Fountain and L. M. Keever.

Sweet Revenge for Last Year's Defeat is Meted Out to the Brilliant

Pullen Literary Society met and defeated the strong team representing Leazar Literary Society, in the annual Senior Debate, which is the inter-society classic held here each spring. Every year a great deal of interest is manifested in this classic of classics in the debating field of

State College, but this year the interest, because of the generally increased activity in such work, was greater than it has ever been before. The event had been extensively advertised, by posters, through the Col-

METER COURSE GIVEN IN ELECTRICAL DEPARTMENT

Larger Registration Than Expected in First Course Offered in Theoretical and Practical Side of Metering

The State College Electrical Department is, during this week, giving its first course in the theory and practice of meter reading. There is a much larger registration than was expected, but the department has widened itself out to meet the demands, and now as the course nears completion the department has nothing to regret, but feels that it has rendered a real service to the electrical men throughout the State. The course was offered in response to a popular demand for training of this kind, which demand was even larger than was supposed, according to the number of students who have entered. There have been no tuition charges on the course, and, due to the increased dormitory accommodations, rooms were provided most of the stu-

N. C. STUDENT VOLUNTEER UNION MEETS AT STATE

Delegates From All Major Colleges of State in Attendance and Several Noted Speakers Are Here

The North Carolina Student Volunteer Union is holding its annual conference on the State College campus in the Y. M. C. A. building this week-end. Delegates from every major college in North Carolina are in attendance, and several noted speakers are here to deliver addresses.

The movement is a national organization, incorporated some thirty-five years ago. The movement is not a missionary agency. Students who are members of the organization have expressed their purpose of going to the foreign field for Christian work, Providence permitting. No missionaries or Christian workers are sent out by the movement.

It is not known how many volunteers there are at present. The policy of the movement is not to keep an accurate check on the number of volunteers. Since the organization, over 9,000 students have gone to the foreign fields under some organization for full-time Christian work.

Most of the meetings held this week will be for delegates only, but several of the meetings are open to the public.

EDITORIAL

Wonder if they have ever found any of King Tut's flunk slips?

We all admire the cheerful loser—that is, of course, if we get some of the stuff he loses.

Cannon is out of Congress, they say. That's just another case of a big gun being discarded.

Women policemen may be all right, but we doubt if they could arrest anything except our attention.

We have at times what are known as men of the hour. Then there are some who take an hour and a half.

Cheer up, fellows, normalcy has again come upon the scene. We had cheese and toast for supper the other night.

The recent bobbed-hair craze was in no wise different from that of Delilah's time. It certainly caused the poor boys to weaken.

Dr. Derieux's music course is coming along famously. The outsiders no longer throw bricks in at the window during practice.

It's fine for all the orators to come around telling us that we are here to help others, but we are wondering why all the others are here.

Some people are always howling about the double negative. That thing—or should we say, those things?—do not trouble us at all. We don't know none.

Very few of us can be stars, operatic, athletic, or otherwise, but we will at least say that it would help our appearance a great deal if we were a little meteor.

There is such a thing as getting too literary, as would be testified by the good housewife who, finding her baby in the well, rushed indoors to find a magazine article on "Bringing Up Children."

Some of the boys are always boasting of how cool they could keep their heads in time of danger. But we are of the humble opinion that it would be the opposite, or pedal, extremities whose temperature would drop.

A BUSY MAN'S COURSE

The Meterman's Course, as now being given over in the Electrical Department, is evidently filling a need, if we are to believe the signs given by the unusually large registration for a course of such short duration. Meter experts are here from all the more important companies, to explain not only their own particular make of meter, but also to explain the principles involved in any make of meter. In addition to these experts, the entire Electrical faculty have been conscripted into the work, after having supervised the setting up, and in many cases the construction, of the various instruments to be demonstrated. Men are here from all quarters of the State in an effort to learn more about the theories and construction of the instruments they have to use daily. Although this is State College's first attempt at a course of this kind, it will in all probability be continued next year and the years following. We hope that the visit of these students to State College will have been a pleasant one, and that they will go away feeling better acquainted and having a high opinion of State College and the service it is rendering the State.

WE HAVE WITH US TODAY—

—the delegates to the North Carolina Student Volunteer Conference, and, needless to say, we are jolly well pleased to have them here. As a Sunday school teacher would put it, we are glad to see so many new faces out this morning. A great many of us are not as familiar with the plans and methods of the Student Volunteer movement as we should be, and for that reason will welcome the conference here, as well as for the genuine pleasure that we get from having these students here from the various colleges of the State. The townspeople of Raleigh have responded in a wonderful manner in providing rooms for the delegates, and in other ways helping us to make their stay here an enjoyable one. Of course, those services are greatly appreciated, and will be rewarded in any manner that opportunity may give us.

There will be here during the meeting some very noted speakers, and for that reason as well as for the pure information we can get, we should avail ourselves of the opportunity of attending all the open meetings. The Student Volunteer movement is a national affair, having its beginning about thirty-five years ago. Although no accurate check is kept on the actual number of volunteers, it has been found that since its founding several thousands of students have entered foreign work of some kind.

Delegates, we want to extend to you the biggest welcome that you have ever had, to our campus or to any other. North Carolina State College is indeed honored to have as her guests such a group. We are downright glad to have you here!

SPLIT MILK—BUT WHY?

Saturday night our basketball team played the last game of the season, and lost to Trinity on her own court. The game marked the end of another unsuccessful season, another of the same kind as has become such a custom for us to have within the last few years. True, we tied the series with Davidson, Guilford and Elon, all of whom had strong teams, and we have a man on the list of those chosen for the All-State Basketball Team, and several on the second and third teams, but as a real contender for State honors it is evident that we were not in it at all, since we lost to Carolina, Wake Forest and Trinity. North Carolina State College has never had a basketball team that fought harder, or had a better spirit, than that of the season just completed. But it was not a winning team, and no one here can be so blind as not to recognize the fact that the teams sent out as representatives of State College during the last three years have not been of a type that we would like to have to represent her. As is always the case, under conditions of this kind, all kinds of alibis have been offered, from lack of proper coaching, down through improper training, and finally landing on the common ground of the absence of a place to practice. In our opinion, the greater part of the fault lies in the latter condition. No college, however large it may be, however able a coaching staff it may have, however fine a spirit it may have, or however enthusiastic a student body it may have, can expect consistently to have a winning team unless the necessary places for practice are provided. Every college of an appreciable size in North Carolina, except State College, has its own well equipped gymnasium, in which the members of the basketball team are at all times able to practice, not only during the specified times of practice, but also at any spare time any part of the day or night. On the other hand, our team has no place to practice except our own diminutive, low-ceilinged Y. M. C. A. court, and occasionally the City Auditorium, in which we are almost as much a stranger as the teams against whom we contend. Equipped in this manner, we can expect only by the sheerest miracle to have a winning team, and the art of basketball has developed into such a high place that miracles are no longer things of common occurrence. The need of a gymnasium has been emphasized in this and other columns of publications connected with State College, and there seems now to be a definite movement for securing this much-needed building and equipment. Perhaps it should behoove us to let things take their course and wait for developments, but the season just past is such a glaring indictment of the present conditions that we cannot afford to let it pass unchallenged. Nothing can satisfy us except a means for putting basketball on the same high plane with all the other types of athletics here. And that means a gymnasium.

M. E. SOCIETY MEETS

Interesting Talks by Col. Harrelson and Capt. Cox

The Mechanical Society met Tuesday night, March 6th, in Page Hall. The program was very interesting, having as speakers Captain Cox of the Electrical Department and Colonel Harrelson of the Math. Department.

Captain Cox spoke first on Character Judgment. He has been making a thorough study of this subject and submits a method which is a combination of the tests of the Army, General Electric Company, and the Westinghouse Electric Company. It takes up character from five viewpoints. First, it takes up the moral side, which deals in self-respect, etc. Second, it takes up mentality as to common sense and scholarship. Third, comes the physical side. Fourth is social ability, as it is very essential to success. General ability is counted in, also, and has an important place. A full outline of this test will be published later.

Captain Cox brought out the fact that we should take an inventory of ourselves and see how we stand on these things.

Colonel Harrelson spoke on Continuation of Study After College. It was beneficial to all, especially the Senior members who will soon be out of college. It is a very important subject, and Colonel Harrelson presented it in a very convincing way. He told how and what to select for study after college.

It is hoped by all the members that we can secure these men more often to speak to us.

COMMERCE CLUB BOOMING

On Tuesday afternoon of this week at 4:30 the Commerce Club held a called meeting. This meeting proved to be the most interesting one of the year. The excellent debate that was rendered gave us the success.

The query for the debate was: "Resolved, That a reduction in the tax would be a hindrance to the progress of North Carolina." The affirmative was upheld by A. J. Honeycutt and C. Bridges. They put forth some real argument, which proved to the club that tax reduction would completely stop the progress of the State. They proved, also, that reduction would stop our good-roads program. This would increase the cost of marketing the farm products. That our educational improvement and expansion would be cut off.

The negative side of the question, which was argued by H. S. Webster and J. W. Carpenter, received credit for its argument in knocking high taxes on every side. They gave some good points on how the State could operate and also carry on development on a lower tax rate. Although they put forth some flowery argument on their side of the question, the judges rendered their decision in favor of the affirmative.

A committee was appointed to make plans for a dance in the near future. This is going to be an enjoyable event, and all of the club members who want to help share this joy should be present at our next meeting, which will be held on March 15th, at 6:30 p. m.

MR. BROCKMAN VISITS
N. C. STATE COLLEGE

Foreign Work Man of the Y. M. C. A.
Delivers Three Interesting Talks
to N. C. State Students

Mr. Brockman, who has spent a number of years in China in the interest of the Y. M. C. A., was with us last week. He made his first talk to the Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, at which time he had a heart-to-heart talk with the Cabinet members concerning his work. His next talk was addressed to the Friendship Council. He delivered his third and last talk in chapel Thursday morning.

Mr. Brockman is a consecrated Christian worker and is very enthusiastic over his work. He spent seven years in China, at the end of which time he was forced to come home on account of his health. His physician advised him not to return, but he went back and spent two more years before returning this time. And, although his health is still bad, he expects to return to China again in the near future.

He stated that there are great opportunities for service in China in nearly every field of industry, and urged that a number of State College boys keep China in mind as a place to render such a service.

Mr. Brockman commented on the great and noble response he is receiving from the Chinese toward the Y. M. C. A. work. He says they are taking right hold of the plans as outlined by the Y. M. C. A. over there. And, he says, it is their appreciation of what he is doing for them that inspires him to try to do more for them.

THE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE: AN ASSET

Increased co-operation between the farm equipment dealers and the agricultural colleges is noticeable. Points of intimate contact between the dealer and the agricultural college of his state exist in larger number than is commonly supposed, but at this time we wish to mention only one development.

A larger number of dealers are now using their influence in a most worthy effort to persuade the boys of their community, especially if they are at all interested in agriculture, to attend the agricultural college. Several good reasons explain why so many dealers are now emphasizing the desirability of agriculturally trained farmers.

Boys who have had good training in agriculture or agricultural engineering have proven to be leaders back home after graduation, in efforts to improve local conditions. They have a knowledge of farming and of marketing that is of real value. If the boys were raised on the farm or obtained actual farm experience elsewhere, their college training will be even more effective.

Upon the younger generation rests much of the responsibility for inaugurating changes in cultural methods, in rotations, in marketing, and in the use of modern, labor-saving farm machines so necessary to increased efficiency and to larger returns in farming. In communities without number, dealers have noticed that the

STATE TOSSERS LOSE THE FINAL GAME TO TRINITY

Hot Weather Slows Up the Work of Both Teams; Jeannette and Johnson Star

On last Saturday night in Durham State College lost its final game of the season to Trinity. The weather was so warm that neither team played up to its true form. The game was rather slow and featureless, except for short times when first one team would make a spurt, then the other. The Methodists jumped into the lead almost at the sounding of the first whistle and never lost it. Jeannette, however, brought the crowd to its feet about the middle of the first half, when he caged the leather from mid-court. The first half ended with the score standing 15-7 for Trinity.

As the second half got well under way the State boys began to locate the basket with less difficulty. State began to cut down the lead of Trinity, but could not keep up the pace.

Johnson and Jeannette starred for State, while Crute and Simpson did the best work for the Methodists.

The line-up:

Trinity	State
Simpson	Emmert
	Right Forward
Spikes	Wallace
	Left Forward
Bullock	Leeper
	Center
Crute	Johnson
	Right Guard
Neal	Jeannette
	Left Guard

Subs: Trinity—Winters for Simpson, Carter for Spikes, Brooks for Neal; State—Wray for Emmert, Dale for Wray.

Referee: Kroger (O. M. I.).

presence of agricultural college graduates among the farmers means sooner or later an appreciable increase in material prosperity.

It is, consequently, to the best interest of all implement dealers to urge upon as many as possible of the farmers of tomorrow to attend their state agricultural college for the purpose of studying agriculture or agricultural engineering as preparation for the business of farming.—The Case Eagle. Carolina Wins First Mat-and-Mit Match

Schwartz on the mat. Sherman secured several dangerous headlocks but each time Schwartz worked out of them, and when they went to the mat for the short time, Schwartz was the top man. Schwartz would make a very good man for a tug-of-war team, and Sherman could oppose him with ease, for it was a case of pull and he pulled the full nine minutes. Won by Schwartz by decision. Carolina, 3 points.

Bout No. 2. Vick of Carolina vs. Lewis of State. Lightweight.

This match had to be run for six extra minutes, each man taking turn about in getting to the mat. Lewis showed that he carries a headlock which anyone would be foolish not to avoid. Vick seemed to be in trouble most of the time keeping away from this lock. It was not a fast match and did not give either man the credit that was due him had it been a wrestling bout instead of a "tag" game. Won by Vick by decision. Carolina, 3 points.

Bout No. 3. Memory of State vs. Matheson of Carolina. Welterweight.

This match started in a regular whirlwind fashion but tamed down in the latter seconds of play. Memory continually tried for his famous headlock, and in the course of time worked himself into position where Matheson got his body placed squarely against the mat—face up. Won by Matheson. Time, six minutes. Carolina, 5 points.

Bout No. 4. Sherman of State vs. Hagan of Carolina. Featherweight.

As this was Sherman's second bout of the evening he was a bit tired and did not make the showing that he would have made otherwise. Hagan seemed to know his stuff better than State's bantam, and in five minutes and ten seconds Hagan had won with a body scissors. Carolina, 5 points.

Bout No. 5. Turnage of State vs. Walters of Carolina. Middleweight.

As Monsieur Sheriff said before the match, "Either I'm going to win or he's going to win, and it ain't going to take long." So Mr. Walters from Carolina proceeded to do it in the quick time of 4 minutes and 58 seconds. This match was good while it lasted, and the men gave a good exhibition. Walters was the more experienced of the two, and this he demonstrated. Carolina, 5 points.

Bout No. 6. Osborne of State vs. Burke of Carolina. Light-heavyweight.

This was the only bout that State won, and was equal to any of the evening in all respects. Burke being a long, hefty individual was in a bind most of the time trying to keep away from Osborne, but the State man being equal to the occasion proceeded to lay the gentleman from Chapel Hill on the mat for the full count in 6 minutes and 56 seconds.

Bout No. 7. Poindexter of Carolina vs. Beatty of State. Heavyweight.

This bout proved to be the most interesting of the evening because the men were of the size that all love to see in action. It was an affair of "Turk meet Turk," and they roughed it when they were so inclined. There was some dispute as to the decision that Referee Bailey gave, but Mr. Bailey seems to know his business when it comes to wrestling. Won by Poindexter. Time, 6 minutes, 2 seconds.

Score: Carolina, 26; State, 5.

Referee: Bailey, of Trinity.

Every afternoon the wrestling club can be found in the "gym" at the Y. M. C. A., and its membership is not limited in any way. All are welcome, and it would be worth the time of any to go down and work out with the boys. W. L. W.

Country Lady: "I've been expecting a packet of medicine by post for a week, and haven't received it yet."

Postoffice Clerk: "Yes, madam. Kindly fill in this form and state the nature of your complaint."

Lady: "Well, if you must know, it's indigestion."—Tid-Bits.

Meter Course Given In Electrical Department

dents right here on the campus, and board was furnished at cost in the college dining hall. The Electrical faculty discontinued practically all of their classes in order to spend all their time in instruction and lectures, and the students thus relieved of class work were required to attend the lectures and to be responsible for the subjects covered.

In addition to the College faculty, the course has had as instructors méter experts from various companies, who lectured on their respective makes of meters and assisted in the general instruction. All practice and instruction was aided by model instruments constructed by students and members of the faculty. The subject of Watthour Meters was covered Monday afternoon by Mr. W. B. Stover, of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. Tuesday, a lecture was given by Professor Browne on the Principles of Meters. Tuesday afternoon a lecture was given on Duncan Meters by Mr. F. L. Pavey, of the Duncan Electric Manufacturing Company. Wednesday morning, Professor Browne continued with a lecture on the Principles of the Watthour Meter, and was followed by Mr. H. W. Richardson, of the General Electric Company, who gave a lecture on the General Electric Meter. Thursday, a lecture on Meter Testing was given by Mr. B. J. Brown, superintendent of the Meter Department of the Southern Power Company. In the afternoon, Mr. H. G. Duus, of the Sangamo Electric Company, gave a lecture on the products put out by his company. Friday, the subject of Polyphase Metering was covered by Mr. Elwood Doudna, of the Carolina Power and Light Company, and this was followed by a lecture on the Silsbee Transformer Testing Set by Mr. I. Melville Stein, of the Leeds & Northrup Company. Saturday the topic of Meter Records was covered by Messrs. Brown and Doudna. Mr. McAllister, of the Tidewater Power and Light Company, assisted in instructing in the meter practice. All of these were helped by the members of the Electrical faculty.

Although this is the first time such a course has been given here, it struck such a vibrant chord that it is very probable that the course will continue to be given each year.

The students having appeared at time of going to press are as follows: Elwood E. Doudna, Raleigh; Claude H. McAllister, Wilmington; Bedford J. Brown, Charlotte; Render Dowell Adams, LaGrange, Georgia; William D. Alley, Charlotte; Charles H. Barringer, Salisbury; Guy H. Benlege paper, and in the newspapers of the town, and all the advertising was rewarded by an audience that filled the Y. M. C. A. auditorium to overflowing. Not only the students, but members of the faculty, townspeople, and visitors from the sister colleges of the city, were among the hearers. The teams representing the rival societies were composed almost entirely of old veterans who had been going out for the inter-society contests several years, and for that reason the contest was featured by brilliant pieces of oratory.

Before the contest began, the Eliza Riddick Declaimer's Medal and the D. H. Hill Orator's Medal were presented to I. L. Langley and C. H. Warren, respectively, by Dr. Riddick, who made a short talk suitable to the occasion. These medals were given to the best orator and declaimer, as chosen by the outcome of the inter-society orators' and declaimers' contests held last fall.

The real business of the debate then began. Charles H. Warren, president of Pullen Literary Society, presided, and was assisted by Carl Bridges, of Leazar, who acted as secretary. The debate was explained briefly by the chairman. The question of, "Resolved, That the inter-allied war debt, incurred for the purposes of carrying on the war against Germany, should be canceled," was announced as the query for the approaching clash. L. E. Raper, of Pullen, a veteran of many seasons, opened the bombardment for the affirmative in one of the best speeches heard this year, and was quickly challenged by M. E. King, who, although speaking in his first inter-society contest, developed his theme and presented his argument in a manner that threatened to cause his opponents serious trouble. Then the "Big Berthas" began to open up. I. L. Langley, of Pullen, and D. B. Vansant, of Leazar, the two frankly strongest speakers of their respective societies, clenched in the concluding word battle that decided the day. Waxing oratorical, moving his audience almost to tears, the Pullen man reached almost unattainable heights, and though closely followed by his adversary, emerged victorious. The team from Pullen had won, and had thereby tasted sweet revenge for defeat suffered in the Senior contest last year. The judges for the occasion were Dr. Wolf, Dr. Winters and Dean Cloyd. D. B. Vansant and I. L. Langley occupy unique places in the debating field here, since that just passed was their third clash in a class debate in as many years.
