State College and Student Government

Second Year of Student Rule at State College Finds it More Stable Than Ever, and a New Set of Officers of Unusual Ability

OUTGOING PRESIDENT HAS ACHIEVED MUCH

David B. Vansant Has Safely Piloted Student Government Over Most Trying Year of Its Existence

With the installation of the new officers, it is quite natural that one should think much upon the fitness and ability of those men who are to handle this most important part of our college life, the Student Governing body, but at the same time the work of the outgoing men comes before us in its entirety, and we can see at a glance just how great have been the many difficulties that have had to be surmounted. Then, and only then, can we appreciate the strong mind and hand that must have been in use to make Student Government not only a success this year, but also assure its success in the future. At the beginning of this year the enthusiasm that naturally had been in evidence at the founding of the Student Governing system had to a certain extent drifted away with those who had possessed it, and there was the element of new students who had never been in any way acquainted with the workings of a self-governing body, and this, combined with the youth of the system here, made it probably the most trying year that our Student Government will ever have. With such a setting as this, one cannot but see the necessity of a leader of unchallengeable character and ability, and a love of his work, and an appreciation of its value. Such a man have we had this year, in the person of our retiring president, David B. Vansant. It matters not with what high esteem we regard his successor, we can never forget the great work that he has done this year.

A few years ago the dream of a Greater State College came to some of its most loyal students. These students, realizing that some change must be effected in the government of the student body before their dream could become a reality, started a movement in favor of Student Government. Their idea, hazy at first, gradually expanded into a definite form; and Student Government, as we have it now, is the result. Though it may not be perfect, those of us who were here at its inauguration can see already a great change in the situation on the campus. The old military regime, a relic of the Students' Army Training Corps, has gone; student honor has been placed upon a higher level by putting the questions of honor and morality squarely up to the students; hazing, the bug-bear of the freshman, has been reduced to a minimum; and the better spirit of co-operation between the classes has resulted in a stronger college spirit. In bringing all of this about, Student Government has been the main factor.

But what is this thing that we call Student Government? Primarily, it is government, democratic government, government of the students, by the students, and for the students. It is not discipline, although it has the authority to exercise discipline when the occasion demands. It assumes that all college men are gentlemen; and only when one is proven guilty of an ungentlemanly act is its disciplinary authority made use of. At all other times it merely exercises a kind of directorship over things affecting the student body. Some such supervision is absolutely indispensable if we are to have any system of doing things. It is evident that the whole student body cannot come together every time there is something to be discussed. It is evident, also, that the members of the faculty, not having the time or the proper contact with the students, can accomplish very little in such matters. The practical way is to govern ourselves and to delegate certain men to lead in the administration of student affairs. Student Government means exactly that. The men so delegated are those who have proven their trustworthiness. That Student Government is the most effective and progressive method of administering student affairs yet found is best demonstrated by its record.

It is a well known fact that responsibility brings to the front the latent abilities of a man. In this way, Student Government is a training in citizenship—a training, not only for its officers, but for every member of the student body. Every man becomes a member of the Student Government when he registers as a student. He assumes his share of the responsibility, for the Student Council and the House merely represent. It is the student body that really governs itself.

Student Government has not mere-

Again the students of State College have chosen as their Student Government president a big man in every sense of the word. In the general election held on Saturday, April 7, Mr. P. C. Beatty, of Mount Holly, N. C., was elected to head the Student Government for the 1923-'24 college session.

Mr. Beatty is a member of the present Junior Class, and a textile student. For three years he has taken an active interest in athletics and other student activities. He is one of the most dependable guards in Coach Hartsell's "Wolfpack." He plays the game fair and hard, and is a formidable opponent to line up against.

Because he puts into his everyday life on the campus the principles he has learned in athletics, because he plays fair in all his dealings, and has the spirit of "stay in there and fight," he has become a leader on the campus. He is a straightforward fellow who puts every ounce of his energy into the things he believes to be right.

Beatty is the third president of Student Government. Like him, his predecessors are wearers of the football monogram. We are proud of our athletes, and doubly proud of them because they take an active interest in the other phases of student activities as well as athletics. Beatty represents the best type of athlete; he is a real leader, and the students of State College can rest assured that Wonder if those fellows who do the violin by ear ever get the earache.

Why was Davidson's track team like wool? Why, that's easy. It was worsted.

They still keep talking about the Turkish atrocities, but we never could smoke that brand.

Sunday School teacher wanted to know if we ever swear. Certainly not. But we know the words.

We all make great plans for saving for a rainy day, but the trouble is, we never think to do it till we hear it thunder.

Many of the fellows are taking dancing lessons now. They get the holds very well, but the steps are a little more difficult.

These one-man tops for Fords are very nice, but where in the world are we going to hang the right-hand tire when it shoots?

Student Government has always been referred to as a heavy responsibility, and it must be, as we always have to have football men to carry it.

History professor wanted to know the other day if we were interested in contemporary history. It is all right, but we like modern stuff better.

You never see a Jew playing golf. That is probably because he cannot teach himself to say "Fore," but always shortens it down to "Three-ninety-eight."

The high prices paid to college lecturers are probably not paid so much for the good that can come from the lecture as for the personal risk that the lecturer is taking in delivering it.

Some of the fellows have been going down to the prison on Sunday afternoons and singing for the prisoners, but the poor inmates objected on the ground that it was not included in their sentences.

A TRACK TEAM DE LUXE

The walk-offs staged by our track team in the recent meets with Trinity and Davidson only very slightly resemble the dope put out at the beginning of the season. A team composed of men more or less new at the business of track at the beginning of the year was not anything phenomenal to say the least, but the way in which it was developed has upset all the dope that had been spilled around over the State. And the nice part of it all is the fact that the beginning of another season will find practically every man back in the harness again. It is an old custom to boast of the great things we are going to do "next year," and we are not going to deviate from the custom in the least, but we are going one better, and boast of the things we are going to do this year, right now, at the present time. Just watch our dust!

COME ON, TEAM; COME ON

The rapid baseball team from State College is a long way ahead of any of its rivals in the climb for State honors. The beauty of it all is that the boys are getting better all the time. When they trimmed Raleigh's professional boys the other day, they proved that they were ahead of the men who have been in the ranks for many years, and have made baseball a business, instead of a pastime. Coach Hartsell has long been famed as a maker of strong teams from green material, and this year he has the chance of making a wonder team from among men who have had some previous experience. Very few of the men who went to make up the excellent team of last year have been lost, and many of them have had the advantage of summer practice. State has played more State teams than any other team in the State, and beside the name of every one of those opponents there is checked up a victory, except the tie in the case of the Easter Monday game with Wake Forest. All non-collegiate and out-of-the-State teams have been consistently checked off. With such a record behind us, what can we expect in the future?

HAIL, NEW PRESIDENT!

In the inauguration of the new Student Council president, the most important of the student offices receives its incumbent for the coming year. The very importance of such an office makes it only natural that the man chosen for that office should be of the highest ability and integrity. The students of State College rose wonderfully to the occasion and chose as their leader for the coming year a man who is all that could be required of one for that responsible position. In the selection of Beatty for president of the Student Council, they have chosen a man of the highest of ideals, the noblest of aspirations, and the strongest of characters. To such a man, we feel that the outgoing officers can safely trust the great responsibilities that of themselves fall upon the student leaders. And our new president will have as his co-workers, men who have proven themselves well fitted for the tasks that they will be called upon to perform.

It is fitting that this should be so. The men who have had things in hand this year have performed wonderfully the often trying labors that have presented themselves. There could be no greater injustice done them and the memory of their works than that there should be those to follow them who have not that earnestness of purpose and clear foresight fostered by a love of duty that has characterized their work this year. To our new officers we commend such a vision and love of duty.

THE HEART OF AN INSTITUTION

An institution, such as a college, composed as it is of many individuals, is, nevertheless, one vast organism, capable of honor, feeling, thought, character, committing itself to the love that springs up within the hearts of those to whom it carries fond memories and a natural pride of its associations, capable of having a good name, and of being known by that name wherever it cannot be known by personal contact. Of such an organism we are a part. The aggregate of our minds is its mind, and of our hearts, its heart.

Our student governing system is the means by which we are brought to realize more clearly than we would otherwise do just how much we are a part of our institution. We should bring ourselves face to face with the issues that are before the institution, and realize that they are the issues before us. We should realize that the good name of the College descends upon us as we go out from its doors, and that our good name that we make after going out into life comes directly back upon our College.

Just now, when we are installing our new officers for the coming year, it is only natural that we should think on these things. To them we have entrusted the good name of our institution, that we all love so much, and thus have to a large degree placed into their hands our own reputations. Can it be that we can become disinterested, when things of such great worth are at stake? Men of State College, the Student Government Association is only the mouthpiece through which we speak to all the world our ideals and aspirations. What it is, we are, and therefore we should guard it with all the native love of right that guards our own characters.

THE STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council is the executive body of Student Government, and is made up of sixteen men who are representative of the entire student body. There are seven men from the Senior Class, one from each of the departments offering four-year courses. From the Junior Class at large there are five men, from the Sophomore Class three, and the Freshman Class one. From the senior members of the Council are taken the president and vice-president of Student Government. From the junior members come the secretary and treasurer. In order to be eligible for service on the Student Council, a man must be regular with all his classwork. Failure on any subject in his course makes him ineligible for such service.

As the executive body of Student Government, it is the duty of the Student Council to see that the student body abides by the constitution and by-laws of Student Government. The failure of any student to comply with the provisions of the by-laws makes him liable to trial by the Student Council, which acts as a court, considering all the evidence on both sides and meting out punishment to those found guilty of offenses. The Student Council has power to expell from College any student found guilty of a serious offense. The sentences of the Student Council are subject to the approval of the faculty.

Due to the hearty co-operation of the student body, the Student Council is seldom required to function in its judicial capacity. The sentiment of the student body is so strongly in favor of the principles of Student Government that those few who might otherwise be guilty of misconduct know that punishment is certain, and obey the rules as laid down by Student Government. The student body takes pride in the fact that we are a self-governing body; living in such an atmosphere of self-government and co-operation is a real training in citizenship.

DAVIDSON BOWS IN DEFEAT TO STATE'S CRACK CINDER SQUAD

Crater Again Smashes North Carolina Javelin Record; Techs Lead "Wildcats" by a Fifty-Point Margin

N. C. State had an easy triumph over Davidson in the track meet staged on a chilly Riddick Field last Saturday afternoon, as they buried the Davidson field and cinder artists under an 88-to-38 score. A drizzling rain and a chilly, wintry wind cut the spectators to a few enthusiasts and slowed down many of the events.

The biting wind and unseasonable weather did not prevent Jimmy Crater from giving the fans their greatest thrill of the afternoon as he tossed the javelin for 159 feet and 9 inches, shattering the North Carolina record for the second time this year. He had previously broken the record in the Trinity meet with a throw of 154 feet 9 inches.

Davidson was able to capture complete control of first place in only two events, the mile run and the pole vault. McConnell made fast time in the mile run as he drew away from Scott and Stewart of State, and completed the distance in 4 minutes and 53 3/5 seconds.

Bynum, taking first place in the 100-yard dash and the 440-yard dash and tying Morris of State in the 220, was the high-point scorer for his team, with fourteen counters. Crater, hero of the javelin and the broad jump, was tied with Clarke, who finished first for State in both of the hurdle events, and Hamrick, who was first with both discus and shot.

Steivich was the best scorer for Davidson with eight points from a tie for first in the pole vault, a second place in the broad jump, and a third place in the high hurdles.

J. BRUCE CRATER

Vice-President-Elect of Student Government

In selecting Bruce Crater as vice-president of Student Government and thereby Chairman of the House, we feel that we have made a worthy move, and no fear remains for the future. First of all, Crater is a man. During this year he has served admirably as president of the Junior Class, and has maintained a wonderful spirit of co-operation among its members. We have every confidence in his ability to create the same spirit in the House of Student Government and to help the student body put its standards where they should be.

Crater has always been known as a clean sportsman in all that he has undertaken. He has done his share of work in football. In track he has made a record in throwing the javelin and in broad-jumping. In addition to these activities, Crater has kept his scholastic standing high and deserves this honor as well as demands the respect of all his fellow-students.

"Y" OFFICERS INSTALLED

Last Sunday afternoon, in the "Y" auditorium, the new officers of the "Y" were installed. Dr. Riddick delivered the inaugural address. H. N. Kelly, the retiring vice-president, and Buck Morris, the retiring secretary, gave short talks.

Bill Cummings, in a well-worded address, turned the reins of the "Y" over to P. T. Dixon, the new president. He summed up the work of the year and pointed out the opportunities of next year.

The new president made a very inspiring talk on the aims of next year, followed by talks from Vice-President Britt and the new secretary, J. L. Wray. Mr. Brothers, the new treasurer, let out a hint as to the duties of a treasurer.

The past year, under the able leadership of Bill Cummins, has been a very successful one, and we feel sure that another success is just ahead of us. Mr. Dixon is a very competent man, and is a man admired by the entire student body for his upright character. Dick has been interested in the work of the Y. M. C. A. since his freshman year, and we feel sure that he justly deserves the honor awarded him. Let us all get behind him and help him push forward the work of the Y. M. C. A.

OUR VICE-PRESIDENT HAS BEEN VERY ACTIVE

W. M. Cummins Has Been a Great Power in the Student Governing Body at State College This Year

Vice-presidents are sometimes supposed to be mere figure-sub-heads in any organization, and not really to have very much influence or power in that organization. The vice-president of our Student Council this year, however, has crashed through all traditions and customs, and has been one of the greatest factors in the great work that that body has done. W. M. Cummings has shown himself this year even more of the type of man whom we all admire than he had done in the past. Burdened with the duties of many important offices, among which was the presidency of the Y. M. C. A., he has, nevertheless, somehow found time to make himself a most active man in the general activities of the students. As representative for his department on the Student Council, he has ever been on the alert for legislation that would be conducive to the welfare of that department and of the student body. During the four years that the fellows have known him there has grown a great friendship for him that the separation at the end of the year cannot break. On every occasion, and at all places, he has ever been ready to do the right thing, and the great popularity that he has among the students is but the natural consequence of such a sterling character.

under his direction Student Government will not only carry on the good work already begun, but will accomplish even greater things.

As well as being an athlete, Mr. Beatty is an interested Y. M. C. A. worker. He has done much to help the Y. M. C. A. in its work among the students, serving as a member of the Friendship Council and as a Bible Study leader.

In order to prepare himself for the task that lies before him, Mr. Beatty will attend the Student Conference at Blue Ridge, the Southern Y. M. C. A. Conference grounds, in June.

There he will meet student leaders from every college and university in the South, and hear some of the foremost speakers of America. He will come back to State College in September with a broadened vision and prepared to do a greater work for Student Government and State College.

ly proven its right to a place at State College, but it is now recognized as indispensable. It can accomplish almost anything that the students want to accomplish. In the past, its success has been due mainly to the fact that the students have realized their responsibilities and have not shirked them. Likewise, in the future, its success will be limited only by the degree to which the students realize and accept these responsibilities. Their support of it is a measure of their loyalty to State. This loyalty has done much to make State College one of the foremost colleges of the South; Student Government encourages the kind of loyalty and co-operation that will bring our college to a place among the foremost colleges of the nation.

Every member of the Student Council, House, Court of Customs is an officer of Student Government; every student is a member and should help to make it what it can be. For, in so doing, we will help to bring about the realization of the dream of a Greater State College, the dream that found its greatest expression when our Student Government was inaugurated. We are indeed fortunate in our selection of officers for next year. They are all conscientious and capable men, real leaders, and men of whom State College is justly proud. To you men who know these officers and who know Student Government, it is hardly necessary to remind you of your duty. But, to you others throughout the State who will join us next fall, we want to say that you may safely place your confidence in our Student Government, we want you to come with the spirit of co-operation, to come prepared to get the most out of your college life. You may know that what you get out of life anywhere is determined by what you put into it.

THE HOUSE OF STUDENT GOVERNMENT

The House is the legislative department of Student Government. It is composed of the Student Council and other representatives from the various departments of the College. The basis of this representation is the number of men in each department. In addition to the Council members, the representation in the House is as follows for each of the four classes: Agricultural Department, two; Electrical, one; Civil, one; Mechanical, one; Textile, one; Chemical, one, and Business Administration, one. The Council is composed of sixteen members, which makes a total of forty-eight men in the House during the spring term.

During a school year this body meets twice, once each semester, for the discussion of campus problems, and this is the group that determines what the policies of Student Government shall be. Is such a group discussion worth while? Is anything really accomplished? The results of the past two years seem to prove that this body really does function. One of the most remarkable things this body has undertaken is the establishment of a code of customs and a court to enforce this code. By making certain definite demands of the new men and arranging for an orderly enforcement of these requirements, hazing has been practically banished from the College and a better feeling now exists between the classes than previously.

We hope that more and more the work of Student Government will be shifted to the House and that the Council will have less of enforcement to do.

CLYDE HOEY SELECTED TO HANDLE STUDENT GOVERNMENT FUNDS

On Saturday, April 7th, the students of State College rallied 'round the polls to cast their votes for the Student Government officers for the 1923-'24 session. The interest taken in this occasion was indeed surprising to the most optimistic supporters of our Student Government. Almost to a man, the students filed by and expressed their choice. This article is aimed at the selection for treasurer of that organization.

In our midst for the past two years there has been a long, lanky fellow who hails from Shelby, and who always meets you with a good word of some sort. It is very seldom that a sophomore becomes so well known all over the campus as has this "Shelbyite." He is none other than Clyde Hoey, son of Representative C. R. Hoey of the Ninth N. C. District. Clyde stands well above the average in his class-work, and is held in the highest esteem by not only his classmates, but by all who know him.

Clyde once got a write-up in the News and Observer, saying that he was out to see a baseball game in Shelby in a pair of the greasiest overalls that had been seen in that section for some time. Knowing the way in which Shelby supports its team, the incident merely goes to show that where it takes team-work to win, Clyde is not to be lacking. Even though the incident is apparently ridiculous, it is illustrative of the individual co-operation necessary to make any organization operate at its maximum efficiency. Undoubtedly, Hoey will continue this sort of support throughout his Student Government career.

Last fall when the call was sounded for volunteer assistant football managers, Clyde was one of the two sophomores who reported to Manager Teague and offered his services. A great deal of work was coupled with that position, but he came through in great style. It's going to take some mighty hard work on the part of any sophomore to oust him from the position of manager in his senior year.

Hoey succeeds Sam Readfearn, who has an extremely creditable record, as treasurer of the Student Government. With such officers as have been selected to fill the various positions, Beatty being at the pilot-wheel,

NEW S. G. SECRETARY IS WELL FITTED FOR WORK

S. R. Wallis, One of Most Popular Sophomores; Stands Out in Athletics; Good Scholastic Record

S. R. Wallis, of Ayden, N. C., is secretary of Student Government for the coming year. Mr. Wallis is a member of the Sophomore Class and a student of Agriculture. He stands high in his studies and yet has time for athletics and other student activities.

As a clear-thinking, clean-living, hard-training athlete, Mr. Wallis is equal to the best. He won himself the coveted football monogram in his first year on the varsity squad, and is also a basketball and track man. He is the type of athlete any college could be proud of. He was not elected to this office on his athletic record, but on his record as a man.

The office of secretary of Student Government is an important one, as is every other Student Government office. The officers are the leaders, and in selecting Mr. Wallis for one of the leaders of Student Government we feel that a wise choice has been made, for he is a man recognized on the campus as a leader. With the energy and ability that is characteristic of him, we expect to see the new secretary of Student Government a great factor in the up-building and maintaining of Student Government at State College.

the coming year should prove to be the most successful one in the history of our Self-Government.

A young man wrote to a large razor concern for a razor. The letter read: "Dear Sirs:

"I am enclosing 50 cents for one of your razors, as advertised.

"Yours very truly,

"JOHN JONES."

P. S.—I forgot to enclose the 50 cents, but, no doubt, a firm of your high standing will send the razor on, anyhow.

The firm replied as follows:

"Dear Sir:

"We received your valued order for razor and we wish to thank you for same. We trust it will give entire satisfaction.

"Yours very truly,

P. S.—"We forgot to enclose razor, but, no doubt, a man with your cheek will not need one."—Ex.

TARZAN LEEPER TO PUT ON PROGRAM

Sheriff "Red" Lassiter Will Collect "Red" Caps on "Red" Field and Commit Them to "Red" Flames

Tonight as the sun is gradually being hauled down over at Durham or Chapel Hill, or wherever they keep the thing at night, every freshman will be seen making his way to the "red field," staggering under an armload of firewood that it would gladden the heart of his father to see him carry. And each one will wear a grin that just simply oozes happiness all over. Tonight's the night.

They have shown a fine spirit of co-operation throughout the year; they have worn their little red caps, and been right proud of them. The caps have served their purpose, and now they are to be disposed of.

The Court of Customs has decreed that they be cremated, and cremated they shall be, in the most approved style.

At dusk the entire student body will assemble on the "red" field, the freshmen bringing firewood and matches. The roll of the Freshman Class will be called by Sheriff "Red" Lassiter, and the freshmen will file past him, dropping their red caps into the fatal sack. Judge Tarzan Leeper will borrow a match from a freshman and start the bonfire. When the fire has reached its height, and the caps are all tied securely in the sack and guarded by Sheriff "Red" and his deputies, Judge Leeper will give the word, and the sack of caps will be cast into the middle of the fire.

As the caps "sizzle and fry," Willie West, our trusty cheer leader, will appear with his megaphone artists and lead the student body in a few songs and yells, which will probably disturb the rest of a weary baseball team over about Chapel Hill, but—oh, come to see the game, or read about it in Sunday's papers.

HAZING AT STATE COLLEGE A THING OF THE PAST

At one time in colleges and universities it was thought that hazing was a necessary evil, to be kept in check only in so far as was necessary to prevent serious injury to those on whom it was practiced. But with the change of times came an altogether different attitude toward it. And in the higher and more progressive institutions of learning it is at most a thing of the past.

Formerly it was the only way in which the integrity of an institution could be guarded against the boisterous, fresh and unruly freshman. And to a certain extent accomplished that for which it was intended. It was an excellent way for those unthoughtful to be shown that they must govern their actions in such a way that they would not only reflect credit upon themselves, but also upon their institution. But at State College, as well as many of the other higher institutions of learning, there has been devised a better and more successful plan. The Student Government was so thorough in its insight into the future needs of governing this element of the student body that they formulated rules by which the freshman might guard his actions, and in so doing avoid any fear of hazing. Let us give credit where credit is due, and say that Student Government has been the force that has eliminated hazing from the State College campus.

The College has had two of its most successful years in every way since the coming of Student Government, under the leadership of "Big" Floyd and "Red" Vansant, and will next year be guided on in its progress by "Fighting" Cleve Beatty.

Before the coming of Student Government it was with fear and trembling that the freshmen at State would watch the shadows of night come on, for they knew not at what hour they might be disturbed from their liberty and the pursuit of happiness, but now they know that when they say, "Now I lay me down to sleep," that it will not be successfully contradicted. The freshman cap, together with the freshman's activities in athletic and other phases of college life, has taken the place of hazing. To each, State College is his second home. The faculty, student body, and College invite each and every one to come to, and live by our motto, "A Greater State College."

helped us give you quicker, better shaves

Although we have been soap experts for 60 years, we didn't tackle the job of giving you a better shaving cream, until we had talked to 1,000 men.

They told us what a shaving cream should do—the things they wanted.

And then we worked for 18 months—made 130 careful experiments—to perfect it. But—we succeeded in giving you a cream that has five distinct excellencies.

Now all we ask is that you give us a sporting chance to make your shaving easier, quicker, more satisfactory. Just shave 10 times at our expense.

Check us up on each of these five points:

Palmolive Shaving Cream multi-

And—this fine lather softens the toughest, meanest beard in one minute, without a lot of strenuous "rubbing-in."

The lather lasts for 10 minutes on your face, if necessary.

COURT OF CUSTOMS

One of the most important of the organizations of the Student Government Association, especially to the new men, is that branch known as the Court of Customs. This Court handles the cases that arise out of the special rules that apply to the new men, and is therefore the holder of a great responsibility in that it creates the impression that the first-year men get of the governing body. It grew out of the great number of minor cases that arose when Student Government was new, of new men not wearing the prescribed caps, or of breaking one of the other few rules that they have more than the others of the student body have. These minor cases were thought to be of too small importance to cause the calling together of both the Houses of Student Government for a decision, and therefore the Court of Customs was formed, and given full jurisdiction in all such cases. During its life here, the Court of Customs has functioned very successfully, and has been the medium through which many a small offense has been punished and its perpetrator brought to a realization that there is a virile governing body here, and that it can function. The new men, on the whole, are to be very much commended upon the manner in which they have carried out the rules of the Court, and thus proven themselves aligned steadfastly behind the student governing body. During the year a total of six cases have been tried, and of those cases, four men were found guilty and deal with accordingly. There was only one case of an appeal, and in that the decision of the Court was upheld by the Student Council. The real purpose of the Court is not nearly so much to mete out punishment to anyone as it is to provide some means of identification between the first-year men and the upper classmen, and thus to eliminate the only excuse left for a regime of hazing. In this the Court has been singularly successful, and has almost made hazing a thing of the past at State College. The men composing the Court of Customs this year are: J. L. Greenlee, T. A. Leeper, G. C. Lassiter, J. L. McNamara, L. E. Raper, B. Satterfield, H. H. Shelor.

JUNIOR C. E.'s IS ANOTHER PROMISING ORGANIZATION

The occupants of the third floor of South Dormitory have another worry added to their long list, in the form of a bridge club which holds its meetings in the third floor hall of South Dormitory.

As they were unable to master the fundamentals of bridge construction on class, the junior civil engineers are practicing during their spare time. The Cantilever-Keep-It-a-Secret Bridge Club is making much progress in this line. Their ranks have steadily grown since the beginning of the term, and their meeting place in Pete Barber's room soon became too small to accommodate the crowd. They have now taken up quarters in the third floor cross-hallway of South Dormitory. A member of the club, when interviewed by our reporter, declined to give any further information whatever concerning this most promising organization. He would not even divulge the names of the leaders of the society, but we have a sneaking suspicion that the guilty parties are Barber, Trantham, Jones and Brown. At their meeting Wednesday night, which was the first in their new quarters, twelve members were present and a very enjoyable evening was had. The crowd chipped in to buy the refreshments and a fight almost followed when Green refused to pay his share on the pretext that he was not hungry. The rest of the game went along smoothly until the end, when the time came to decide who should receive the glass collar button which was the prize of the evening. Here a riot ensued, and as Trantham came out on top, he declared, "To the victor belongs the spoils." However, Wall, Brown and Jones had the highest scores, according to their calculations. Davis seemed a little peeved at the outcome. The members declared they had a most enjoyable evening and retired to recuperate for the next match.

It is thought that the Cantilever Club will challenge Carolina and contend for the State championship.

WHICH WAY?

There openeth to every man
A Way, and Ways, and a Way—
And the High Souls climb the High Way—
And the Low Souls grope the Low,
While in between, on the misty flats,
The rest drift to and fro.
But to every Soul there openeth
A High Way and a Low,
And every man decideth
Which Way his Soul shall go.

ON TO BLUE RIDGE!

N. C. State to Have Largest Delegation in History of the College

Plans are being made to send the largest delegation yet to Blue Ridge. Already twenty have signified their intention of going, and many others are considering it. Let's get together and make the State College delegation the largest up there this year. Last year we had fourteen up there. Let us make many times that many this year.

For the benefit of those who do not know what Blue Ridge is like, pictures have been placed in the "Y" lobby; but these can, by no means, tell the story of Blue Ridge. It is in the heart of the mountains and beautiful beyond imagination.

All of the colleges in the South are represented there, and these representatives are the leaders of campus. It is an inspiration to associate with these men, and get their ideas on the problems of life.

N. C. State has a cottage there, and the boys are together with all of the pep that State College is famous for. Think about going up there this summer and fill this cottage up to the limit! It will be a summer that will never be forgotten.

The following men have decided to attend this summer: L. R. Wallis, C. D. Killian, C. L. Walton, C. M. Bost, J. R. Peeler, J. V. Leonard, L. M. Green, F. L. Tarleton, R. McRimmon, J. E. Britt, P. H. Jones, J. B. Crater, J. M. Moore, J. B. Cline, J. E. Griffith, P. T. Dixon, W. L. Morris, J. E. Tiddy, R. H. Sott, and P. C. Beatty.

If others are interested, see Buck Morris or Mr. King at the "Y" and talk it over. If financial assistance is needed, talk it over with them and see what can be done.

A teacher in one of the primary grades of the public school had noticed a striking platonic friendship that existed between Tommy and little Joan, two of her pupils.

Tommy was a bright enough youngster, but he wasn't disposed to follow his studies with much energy and his teacher said unless he stirred himself before the end of the year he wouldn't be moved up to a new class.

INAUGURATION STUDENT GOVERNMENT OFFICERS

The inauguration of the new Student Government officers will take place Saturday morning, April 21. The exercises will be held in Pullen Hall and will begin at 9 a.m. The exercises will last about two and one-half hours, with the State College Band taking an important part in them.

As the program will show, the exercises will be interesting and well worth attending. All classwork is suspended for that day, and of course every member of the student body and many faculty members and their families will be present. Doctor Riddick's addresses are always well worth hearing. His subject on this occasion is of interest to us all. The inauguration ceremonies will be interesting and impressive. The addresses of the outgoing and incoming Student Government presidents will be instructive and worth while, for they will give an insight into student life and student thought. The State College Band is recognized as one of the best in the State. The program is so interspersed with band selections that it will be impossible for the audience to tire.

The citizens of Raleigh and of North Carolina are cordially invited to be present at these exercises. To be the guests of Student Government and to see some of the things that your College is doing.

BARNYARD PHILOSOPHY

By

Sidney Pureblood

A thing told one time is no longer a secret.

He who intends to devote his life solely toward making money plays the part of a fool. He who plans to spend his life serving others physically, mentally and spiritually is wise.

Good advice is easy to give, but hard to follow.

How much better it is to wear out rather than to rust to pieces.

There is more good than bad in most people. The good will be brought out if things are managed in the proper way. Cease to cultivate the bad and it will gradually die out. Nourish the good and it will increase.

It is a lot easier and more profitable to use your head than hands.

Do you despise your work? Then find a work that you love.

There is no person at State College who does not have an opportunity to become a bigger, better and broader man.

In some ways the hermit's life is a fine life, after all. He must be resourceful and original.

If you feel deep down in your heart—not in the brain—that you should do a thing, then do it! If everyone followed the promptings of their heart we would have a Brotherhood of Man, indeed.

Great things cost dearly.

When you have a good thing in you, let it come out.

THE BURNING OF THE CAPS

Caps off!

Along the field comes
A bunch of sophomores,
A flash of fire beneath the sky:

Caps off!

They must all go by and by!

Red and white it shines,
Over many irregular lines.

Caps off!

The fires before us fly;
The freshmen are coming by.

Been fighting, grim and great,
Fighting to make and to save State;
Weary marches and many slips;
Cheers of victory on all our lips.

Caps off!

Along the field comes
A bunch of sophomores,
A flash of fire beneath the sky:

Caps off!

They must all go by and by!

M. W. L.—'26.

You know I love you, fond and true,
My only thoughts are just of you;
Before you, darling, I will kneel,
Pray tell me, can you cook a meal?
I'll buy for you the finest frock,
But tell me, can you darn a sock?
You love me, too, my heart's entrance,
But could you, would you
Patch my pants?—Ex.

BASEBALL TEAM'S COLORS STILL FLYING; NO DEFEAT

Elon and Raleigh League Team Are Latest Victims of Tech's Fast Flying Ball Tossers

Several days ago, when the team was on its western tour of the State, it stopped off at Elon to pay its respects. This it did in great style, to the satisfaction of the boys it left behind. Jim Allen was called upon to do the mound duty, which he did very successfully and, according to the score, with the greatest of ease. Of course Allen headed up the defensive work, but the whole team performed very efficiently with the willow, driving eight runs across the rubber, while the best Elon could do was three.

No other college games are on our schedule until Saturday, April 21, when we meet Carolina on Riddick Field. If comparative scores mean anything at all, we certainly have the edge on Carolina, because we beat Wake Forest 5-0, Wake Forest beat Lynchburg College 2-0, and Lynchburg beat Carolina 11-1. That would give a 17-run lead on our rivals, but that cannot even be hoped for. All we want is a one- or two-run lead, and we feel very safe about getting that.

Raleigh Professionals Are Downed

On Monday afternoon Captain Geo. Redfearn led his teammates out to League Park to furnish the local professionals a little practice, but the tables were turned, and our boys got the most practice after all, because we had the pleasure of seeing five of our boys circle the bases, while Raleigh did the same stunt only three times. The head-work of both teams was decidedly off at times, but the team-work of our boys, as a whole, by far surpassed that of the Raleigh club. In the first inning it seems that Bobby Correll tried to lose the ball, but somebody finally found it, and he got only three bases, because the fence was in the way of the ball as it headed southeast.

Bunts Win for State

State's big inning came in the seventh. Minter's error let Lassiter to first, Allen laid down what was intended to be a sacrifice bunt but Demarest presented him with a hit by just holding the ball and looking at it. Ruth bunted and beat it out, filling the bases. Gladstone popped up to Walton, but Demarest hit Johnson with a pitched ball, forcing in a run. Allen scored when Johnson was forced at second on Correll's grounder.

The thrilling fielding feature of the game was Ruth's spectacular running catch of Walton's long foul in the ninth inning.

NORTH CAROLINA'S OPPORTUNITIES

With North Carolina rapidly taking the lead in agriculture and manufacturing, it is time that she turn her attention to the training of her man-power to direct these industries. With an agricultural and mechanical college that is expanding to meet all requirements, it is no longer necessary that North Carolina be dependent upon other states and foreign countries for the skill necessary in the manipulation of her industries. We can train within our own State men who can build our railroads, locomotives, steamships, build tunnels, and bring that alliance of industry, agricultural and mechanical, out of which can come added prosperity. We can develop our trade so that we have at our doors the cash market for the products of our soil. It is this that makes a community wealthy; it is this alliance that has made the per capita wealth of some parts of our country greater than that of other parts, and it is this, too, which will put North Carolina, and the South, into successful competition with other parts of the country, and speedily, too, lead to an acquisition of wealth and all that wealth means. It will raise the consuming power of our great and peculiar body of laborers, and through this consuming power we will demand the things which we do not make, and supply to other parts of the country, and to the world, the things which our trained skill produces. In this lies our very best hope and our greatest encouragement.

At the last session of the State Legislature an appropriation of $1,350,000 was made to North Carolina State College for new buildings, equipment, and campus improvements. Work has already begun, and these additions and improvements are to be completed within the next two years.

Each year it has been necessary for the College to turn from its doors many young men desiring technical training, but our legislative bodies and the leading minds of the State are fast realizing the advantages of technical training, both for the individual and the State.

The above appropriation is being expended as follows:

Library building	218,000
Library equipment	40,000
Chemistry and Physics building	150,000
Chemistry and Physics equipment	44,000
Textile building additions	70,000
Textile equipment	35,000
Agricultural Engineering building	55,000
Agricultural Engineering equipment	6,000
Animal Husbandry and Dairy building	90,000
Animal Husbandry and equipment	15,000
Greenhouses	10,000
Vegetable Oil building	25,000
Vegetable Oil equipment	35,000
Hospital additions	20,000
Gymnasium	175,000
Gymnasium equipment	15,000
Dormitory	175,000
New departmental equipment	142,000
Total	$1,320,000

The remaining $30,000 is to be expended for additional recreational and athletic facilities, of which we are greatly in need.

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CIVIL ENGINEERS

The Student Branch of the American Society of Civil Engineers met in regular session on the night of Tuesday, April 17th.

Mr. Frank Trantham was the first speaker of the evening and he gave a fine talk on "Improved Methods of Flood Control on the Mississippi River." As an introduction to his talk, Mr. Trantham reviewed the periodical flood dangers of that section and outlined briefly the measures that have been employed with indifferent success in the past. He then described present-day methods and told of their success. The system of standard retainers now being used in the Upper Mississippi was the principal one discussed.

Following Mr. Trantham, Mr. Bruce Lancaster made a very interesting talk, describing the new Lakehurst airplane hanger, in New Jersey. He gave dimensions to show the immense size of the structure, and described at length its unique design. He also told of the two large doors, each 150 feet by 103 feet, and of their operating mechanism.

After the program, a short business meeting was held, and it was decided to have a banquet on the night of Tuesday, May 1st, instead of the regular meeting. All members are urged to see the treasurer as soon as possible and arrange to be present.

A committee composed of Trantham, Bell and Dillard was appointed to attend to the details of the banquet.

In closing, the president read a letter from Mr. Leslie Jones, of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey. In it Mr. Jones set forth the advantages of entering the Civil Service and urged the men who are to graduate to inquire into the matter before accepting any position.

The University of Engineering

Of all the things that go to make the successful engineer, none is more important, nor more in step with the spirit of the profession, than a studious attitude. One man says about another—"he is always willing to learn," "he doesn't think he knows it all"—and he intends to pay a high compliment when he says it.

The great engineers are always at school, always learning, always seeking for more knowledge. They begin with this desire for fuller understanding, and they keep it up to the end.

Any engineering operation, over and above the primary purpose for which it is carried out, is an active and post-graduate class in engineering, also. So that Westinghouse, or any other great business, is, of its very nature, a University where theory and practice combine to make bigger, broader and more practical engineers.

The courses in this University are not limited to prescribed subjects nor terms—the subjects are almost infinite, and the semesters are endless. Men with the weight of years on their shoulders work and learn side-by-side with those whose day has just dawned.

This post-graduate school fits men for almost anything. Fits them for it, and makes them continually fitter. Out of this continuing fitness have grown the engineering accomplishments on which this institution has grown. It is, perhaps, one of the great educational institutions of its day.
