THE TECHNICIAN STAFF IS NOW READY FOR NEXT YEAR

W. S. Morris Heads List as Editor-in-Chief; T. O. Evans, Jr., Chosen Business Manager

Last Wednesday evening the new members of The Technician staff were elected by the student body for the coming year. Winfield Scott (Buck) Morris was chosen as editor-in-chief, T. O. Evans, Jr., was unanimously picked for the all-important office of business manager, C. L. Walton was elected managing editor, and L. L. Hedgepeth was chosen circulation manager. The members of the old staff feel that in having these men follow them they will have successors who will make of The Technician a much more creditable publication than it has been this year. Every man elected to the staff has had a year or more of experience already on the staff, and will therefore be fittingly prepared for the work that is expected of him. That has been a great mistake in the past, as many of the new staff members each year heretofore have been men who have not had any connection whatever with the paper. This year, how-

Raper and Fountain Delegates From Technician; L. D. Elkins of Davidson Unanimously Chosen President

The spring meeting of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association was held April 19-21, at Queens College, Charlotte. Immediately after convening, the delegates were welcomed to Queens by Dr. W. H. Frazer, president of the College, in a very pretty speech, in which he expressed the profoundest interest in the Association, and in the work it is doing for the upbuilding of the State. Not only is the Association doing a great work for the present time among the colleges, but it is also training the coming citizens to put their ideas on paper, and thus prepare themselves for the great issues that are coming to the world.

Immediately after the welcome address of the president, Miss Alice Lowe, of Meredith College, presi-

Curtis Pitches a Great Game, But Carolina With the Help of Morris' Circuit Swat Wins by Score 2-1

On last Saturday Carolina came over to our camping grounds and did the unexpected by defeating us to the tune of 2-1. It was a pretty pitching duel, with Curtis on top, State garnering ten hits to Carolina's four. The game was a thriller throughout, and was not really won until the last man was out in the ninth. Better base-running on the part of our boys would no doubt have won the game for us 3-2, but what might have happened doesn't count. "Casey" Morris was, no doubt, the star of the game, because he lifted the old pill far above Riddick Mountain and over the left-field hedge for a homer.

The game was the best exhibition of baseball that has been seen on Riddick field for some time, only one

Archie Groom Chosen Business Manager; New Office of Managing Editor Held by Calvert Hall

Each year as soon as The Agromeck staff is elected these men determine from the bottom of their hearts to put out a book far above any previous volume in every respect, and to satisfy the student body and their class. The men the Class of 1924 elected last week are well qualified to fill this bill.

Frank S. Trantham was elected editor-in-chief; Archie W. Green, Jr., business manager; and Calvert R. Hall, managing editor. This last officer has been added in view of the growth of the book, to assist the editor-in-chief and to be his right-hand man and co-worker.

The privilege of running The Agromeck is no small honor, and it shows that the class trusts and honors the men they place in these positions. What the new staff may lack in actual experience is fully compensated for in their enthusiasm, ability, and industry. They all began work the night they were elected, and look

EDITORIAL

There was some heavy stuff in last week's editorials. Did any of you fellows read it.

The trouble with most of the descendants of the prominent families is that they don't stop descending.

A fellow told us a joke that he said actually happened to his father. He must have had a lot of older brothers.

And still there are some who do not believe there is such a thing as luck, even after seeing the Carolina game.

Some one advances the idea that Co-eds are not as bad as painted. And the paint is all right, so far as we know.

Opportunity knocks once at every man's door, and if it looks good around the front porch, he comes in and sits down.

Recently, at a band concert, it was remarked that Captain Price had a great repertoire. Well, he is getting rather stout.

You remember the dime we gave the preacher who later turned out badly? Does that come under the head of Prophet or Loss?

Spring is getting well under way, but still we feel mean about the last time we went fishing. We drowned several helpless worms.

The last time the minstrel troupe made a trip it appeared before an audience of music-lovers. But it was allowed to perform just the same.

No wonder that fellow here the other day almost developed ptomaine poisoning. He swallowed several statements he had previously made.

One of the professors, the other day, ranted for an hour and then ended by asking if he had made himself perfectly plain. Why, he was born that way.

A SUMMER SCHOOL TECHNICIAN

Arrangements are now being made for the publishing of The Technician throughout the Summer School session. Several of the boys are going to be here for the summer courses, and they, together with the help that may be had from the great number of Summer School students who are expected, can get out a very creditable paper. There will, naturally, be an almost complete change in the line-up of the staff, but those taking over the responsibilities will have had some experience already and will be able to do a pleasing job. There is scarcely anything that can be done that will go so far toward unifying the thought of the Summer School students as the publishing of a really representative paper here on the campus, and its influence does not stop there, but will go out throughout the State. This, as the first year in which State College has ever published a weekly newspaper, has proven very conclusively that not only can a weekly paper be published, but also that in doing it the students are doing the College a distinct service, and the same will be true for the Summer School numbers. We feel that the students should avail themselves of the opportunity of keeping up with the happenings on the campus through the summer, and there is no better way to do so than to place their names on the mailing list for those numbers.

A MOST INTERESTING CONFERENCE

The recent conference of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association, which was held at Queens College, Charlotte, was one of the most interesting the Association has ever had. There seemed to be a spirit of confidence, friendliness and frankness that has never been surpassed in all of its meetings. One could easily see the effects of the great work the Association is doing, not only in the exchange of ideas concerned with the actual publication of the various college literary products, but also in the friendly knowledge of each other that arises among the students of the various institutions. Too long there was a spirit of antagonism among the educational institutions of the State, with never the thought that they were all allied in a most stupendous work, that of educating the rising generation, the future citizens of our own North Carolina. With the gathering of the staffs of the publications from all the colleges of the State, there is a meeting of those who play the most important part in the framing of thought on the several campuses of the State, and the thoughts they gather are unconsciously handed down to their readers. The Association is undoubtedly doing a great work, and with the enthusiasm shown at the last conference, and the extra strong staff of officers that has been chosen for the coming year, it cannot but continue to grow in size and in importance.

NEXT YEAR'S STAFFS

The Agromeck and The Technician, while we may modestly say they have been partially successful this year, are, nevertheless, susceptible to a great deal of improvement next year. That they will be improved is easily surmised when one considers the great ability of the men who have been chosen to have charge of them next year. Every one of them has had some previous experience, and thus has fitted himself for the tasks that confront him. One scarcely realizes the importance of having men of ability in these important places, as it is through the publications that the thought of the College is largely molded, and all of it given out into the world. The good name of the institution depends more upon the publications than upon any other one thing, except, of course, the students themselves. The publications, however, are not merely the product of those immediately in control, but are the product of student thought and action, which are in turn influenced by the publications. Thus it is seen that the publications are of the utmost importance in one's college life, and in the life of the College. Regarded from any angle whatsoever, the publications hold a place that is indispensable to the welfare of the College, and should receive the unfailing support of all the students, either through direct connection with the paper, or through a means of creating a spirit of loyalty to them and to the work they are doing. The members of the outgoing staffs, while they have the utmost confidence in the men who are to succeed them, are still in a position to realize how helpless they are without the hearty support and co-operation of the students. With such support, they cannot fall in their work for N. C. State College.

THE RETIRING TECHNICIAN STAFF

A Better College Paper—Their Aim and Achievement

To the staff of The 1923 Technician the students of State College owe a debt of gratitude; and to the able editor, Alvin M. Fountain ("Zippy Mack") and to the efficient business manager, Luther E. Raper, goes the greater part of the credit for the success of the publication. Last year it was decided to enlarge The Technician and to publish it weekly. Some said that it could not be done, and to justify their statements they offered reasons that confirmed their beliefs—in the minds of some few. But The 1923 Technician staff said that it could be done, and THEY DID IT; this fact needs no proof other than observation.

Laboring under the handicap of custom and tradition, the 1923 staff set out to do the task before them. "Zippy Mack" laid aside his poetical pen and took up the quill of editorial comment. In the latter field he achieved wonderful success, that rivaled his poetical contributions of former days. As the editorials appeared, the students soon began to realize a clear thinker was expressing the general comment of student opinion and in a very pleasing and original manner. The editorial page has proven its right to exist and has forged ahead to the foremost position in the paper. To "Zippy Mack," with his keen intellect and sound judgment, we owe the great success of The 1923 Technician.

The financing of a college publication, such as The Technician, requires the most alert and active mind of a seasoned financier. For this reason, Luther E. Raper was chosen as business manager of The 1923 Technician, and the least that could be said is that he has filled the job and put the proposition across. Raper has been a tireless worker; he has labored much to secure sufficient advertising to support the paper, and in his solicitation for subscriptions he has shown untiring effort. Without the necessary funds, The Technician could not exist, and Raper has caused it to live and to flourish. To this shrewd business man, with level judgment and a cool head, we acknowledge our indebtedness.

Now, as these men leave us, we wish to thank them for the inspiration that they have left behind, for the encouragement, for the challenge to bigger and better things for State College, and for their valuable contribution to the advancement of our beloved Alma Mater. In all your future work we wish you the joy and happiness that comes to those who do their work well.

T. O. Evans, Jr., has served well in the capacity of circulation manager, and his election as business manager is only a small expression of the feeling of gratitude that the students have for his work. "Buck" Morris handled the managing editor's job satisfactorily and was complimented by being elected editor-in-chief. A. W. Green has been a very efficient exchange editor, and we wish him success in his new work on The Agromeck staff. To all the assistants, we wish to thank you for the part that you had in making The 1923 Technician the tremendous success it is.

PRES. BEATTY ATTENDS STUDENTS' CONFERENCE

Goes as N. C. State's Representative to Second Meeting of Southern Federation of Students

Our newly elected Student Council president, P. C. Beatty, is now attending the conference of the Southern Federation of Students, which is being held at the University of Tennessee, at Knoxville. This is the second meeting of the conference. The first was held late last fall at Georgia Tech, at which time and place the Federation took on a definite form, and was opened for membership. The purpose of the Federation of Students is to meet and discuss the various problems that arise in student governing bodies, and to seek a better general understanding among the students of all the Southern colleges. President-Emeritus D. B. Vansant was present at the first meeting, and acted as State's representative.

State Takes Opener from Generals in Ten-Inning Thriller

Babe Ruth led the attack against Washington and Lee in the first of a two-game series by collecting five hits out of six trips to the plate. His last hit came in the tenth, and was a home run that broke up the game. The whole affair was a slugfest for both teams, each getting 17 hits. Gladstone came through with a circuit clout which was a big factor in the decision.

McMillan, Lovelace and McDonald secured circuit clouts for the Generals.

to be more effective; however, three more home runs were added to the series by Correll, Wilson and McDonald. It was a pretty pitchers' battle between McDonald and Hill, McDonald having the edge by only a very slight margin. Correll was the batting ace of the day, with two singles and a homer.

State threatened to rally in the ninth, but sensational fielding by Mattox prevented them. Correll got a clean single, but Redfearn hit into a double play, Mattox to Aylmer. Faulkner singled and then stole. McMillan let one through him, but Mattox cut off Lassiter at second when he received Holland's hard-hit ball.

SPRINGTIME!

What is more beautiful,
 Can anyone say,
 Than the warm, sunny spring.
 When joy, happiness and life
 Shine forth from everything?

When the bright green grass
 Peeps up from the earth,
 When all the flowers bloom;
 When the cold winter days
 Are gone with all their gloom.

When the birds come back
 From a more southern clime,
 And begin to build their nest,
 And once again we hear the call
 Of our friend, Robin Redbreast.

When the buds on the trees
 Begin to swell and grow,
 And then the leaves are seen,
 And soon the whole landscape
 Is wrapped in a robe of green.

These things, with memories
 Most kind and tender,
 To many hearts doth cling;
 No other time is so beautiful
 As thee, oh, gentle spring!

ever, the staff has been enlarged to such an extent that all of the more important officers for the coming year may be chosen from among experienced men. The new editor has been on the staff two years, having served as exchange editor one year and as managing editor one year. He has shown the greatest interest and ability in all of his connections with the paper, and should easily prove himself the most original and most able editor The Technician has ever had. He is one of the most popular members of the Junior Class, having served as a member of the Student Council and held high offices in the Y. M. C. A. here and throughout the State. As managing editor this year he has held one of the most important places on the staff, and if there has been any improvement in the paper, it was largely due to his great ability and interest.

The new business manager is excellently fitted for his work next year. He has been the holder of the place of circulation manager this year, a place which he has held with the utmost of punctuality and painstaking. His duties have been very difficult, owing to the increased frequency of publication and the greatly increased circulation. In addition to holding the place very creditably for himself, he has taken several men as his assistants who are thus placed in training for future positions on the staff. The actual success of the paper next year will depend directly upon the business manager, and we feel that in Evans The Technician has its strongest man for the position.

Both the new managing editor and circulation manager have held positions as assistants this year, and have thus gained experience that will enable them to perform easily the tasks that are ahead. In addition to having had the advantage of former experience, they both have the advantage of having their predecessors still on the staff, though in higher positions, and are thus entitled to all their experience and council. The new staff, as a whole, is considered the strongest The Technician has ever had, and with such a staff our paper cannot but go forward.

dent of the Association, presented Mr. Dan Grant, alumni secretary of the University of North Carolina, and founder of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association, who was the speaker of the evening. In his speech, Mr. Grant reviewed briefly the aims of the Association as seen by those who first conceived the idea of such an organization. He stressed the importance of a knowledge of journalism in the age of great growth that is upon the State. After Mr. Grant's speech, an informal reception was held for the purpose of getting everyone acquainted. The Student Government Association and the literary societies acted as hostesses.

Friday morning the convention was addressed by Mr. Neal, advertising manager of the Charlotte Observer. Mr. Neal told of the great place of advertising in our modern life, and its indispensability to our greatest welfare. He also gave some very helpful suggestions as to methods to be used by the college publication business managers. Other very good talks were made by Messrs. Elkins of Davidson and Cash of Wake Forest. Friday afternoon, automobile rides were given the delegates over the city of Charlotte, after which the entire plant of the Charlotte Observer was inspected. There, at the close, a course in punch and sandwiches paved the way for the banquet that followed at six-thirty. Immediately after the banquet the delegates attended the plays being given by the Carolina Playmakers.

The convention Saturday morning was taken up with the election of officers for the coming year, and the deciding of the place at which the conference will be held next fall. For the latter, strong bids were placed by both Greensboro College and Trinity College, with Trinity finally winning the decision. The conference next fall, therefore, will be held at the home of the Durham institution. In the election of officers, the place of President was very quickly filled. Mr. L. D. Elkins, of Davidson, was unanimously chosen for the leader's place in the Association for the coming year. He will have as his co-workers the following subordinates: First vice president, J. R. Killian, Trinity; second vice president, G. V. Allen, Trinity; secretary, Sarah Thomas, Queens; treasurer, Ruth Hadley, Greensboro College.

TEXTILES TO PULL OFF BIG SHOW ON APRIL 30

Everyone Invited to Come and Behold the Wonders of Textile Manufacturing

Monday afternoon from 3:00 to 6:00 o'clock the doors of the Textile Building will be thrown open to the public, giving to all an opportunity to see the many wonderful things of textile manufacturing. It has been a custom for several years to stage a textile show; however, the show this year is to be the biggest and best ever held. The girls from Peace Institute and Meredith College have been invited to come over, as in previous years.

The textile industry is North Carolina's greatest industry; it is the industry which has done much to help the South rise from a poverty-stricken area to a land of great riches; it is the industry which has caused the eyes of all the world to be turned toward this glorious Southland of ours, yet many people have never had an opportunity to see cotton goods being manufactured.

The show is given in order that students of the colleges and all others who so desire may come and see how raw cotton is transformed into fabrics of the highest quality. The process is intensely interesting throughout, and we guarantee that no one will regret having attended the exhibition. The show is staged under the auspices of the Tompkins Textile Society, which has been very active this year, doing much for the advancement of the Textile Department. Souvenirs will be given to the ladies. Everyone is invited. No admission will be charged.

BARNYARD PHILOSOPHY By Sidney Pureblood

When I do a person wrong I find that the easiest way to get out of it is to admit that I have done the wrong thing, then "square things up" with him.

We are all fools and hypocrites to a certain extent, but we should strive to eliminate these evils as far as is possible.

Those who think only of themselves are miserable.

In a rush we often pass by the best and finest things in life.

MR. BARNETTE VISITS N. C. STATE COLLEGE

Having Spent Twelve Years in China,
He Gave Some Interesting Views of That Vast Empire

Mr. E. E. Barnette, a North Carolina man, who was a student secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Carolina at one time, visited us this week and made two interesting talks. He spoke in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium Tuesday night and in chapel Wednesday morning.

Tuesday night Mr. Barnette gave some interesting facts about China. He gave China's view toward scholarship, and stated that the students were leading China and that China is in the midst of an awakening.

The Y. M. C. A., with its wide and broad approach, can reach the educated classes of people in China better than the churches. Mr. Barnette gave a short sketch of the progress of the "Y" work in Hang Chow, the city in which he was situated.

The Chinese keep up their own Y. M. C. A. organizations. The men in the work are paid by Chinese. The Chinese are leading the work and the Americans only act as brothers to the men and assist the leaders when assistance is needed.

In conclusion, Mr. Barnette stated the purpose of the Y. M. C. A., which was to help build, amidst all the strife in the world, a big brotherhood.

Mr. Barnette also answered some questions that were of interest to his hearers.

The object of the foreign work is to establish in other lands self-supporting, self-governing, and self-propagating Young Men's Christian Associations. The idea is to make the various movements indigenous as rapidly as possible. The secretaries, such as Mr. Barnette, sent out by our associations are the demonstrators. Their work is to find and train young men for leadership of their own people.

The first secretaries were sent out in 1889—David McConoughy to India and John T. Swift to Japan. The number of American and Canadian secretaries now approximates two hundred. They and their wives are worthy representatives of the best Christian ideals, service and culture of the churches and associations of the United States and Canada.

The foreign work is supported by the gifts of Association members who in scores of associations have organized themselves to carry on a vigorous program of education and giving in behalf of the young men and boys of other countries.

Mr. Barnette gave us a deep insight into the work, as he has been there and knows what he is talking about.

TRACK TEAM DEFEATS ELON IN DUAL MEET

Taking first place in every event, hurling the javelin further than it has ever been thrown in the limits of North Carolina, and equaling the State record for the 100-yard dash, N. C. State College registered a decisive victory over the Elon track team and sent them home smarting under a 115-to-11 defeat.

The feature of the meet was Crater's tremendous heave, which sent the javelin flying for 165 feet 3 inches, shattering all records previously established in the limits of North Carolina. It was the third occasion on which Crater has shattered this record this year.

Morris's flying finish in the 100-yard classic, as he left his opponents behind him and clipped the tape in 9 4-5 seconds, equaling the State record, was another hair-raising event. Two watches timed his remarkable run.

Summary

100-yard dash: Morris (State), Byrum (State), Elder (Elon). Time, 9 4-5 seconds. (Equals State record.)

220-yard dash: Byrum (State), Morris (State), Curtis (State). Time, 22 3-5 seconds.

440-yard dash: Brown (State), McIlwean (State), Curtis (State). Time, 54 3-5 seconds.

One-mile run: Scott (State), Marlette (Elon), Lattimore (State). Time, 4 minutes 46 4-5 seconds.

Two-mile run: Crockford (State), Schultz (Elon), Stewart (State). Time, 10 minutes 32 3-5 seconds.

McPherson (Elon). Height, 5 feet 3 inches.
