ANOTHER STUDENT ACTIVITY ORGANIZED

Much Desired Club Has Been Started

A very enthusiastic meeting of students was held in the Y. M. C. A. Sunday night for the purpose of organizing somebody to provide entertainment and recreation during the idle hours of college life. Prof. Heck presided over the meeting. After a short session of peppy singing led by Mr. John Park, different speakers representing the various possible activities of the proposed club were introduced.

Dr. Taylor spoke of the need of some sort of recreation for the idle time between 4:30 and 6 p. m. every afternoon. He suggested that volley ball courts and indoor baseball diamonds be placed on the campus. He agreed to present the matter before the Athletic Committee, and to attempt to secure financial backing in that way. However, regardless of the Athletic Committee's action he vouched for finances to start the project moving. His suggestion was greeted enthusiastically by the students.

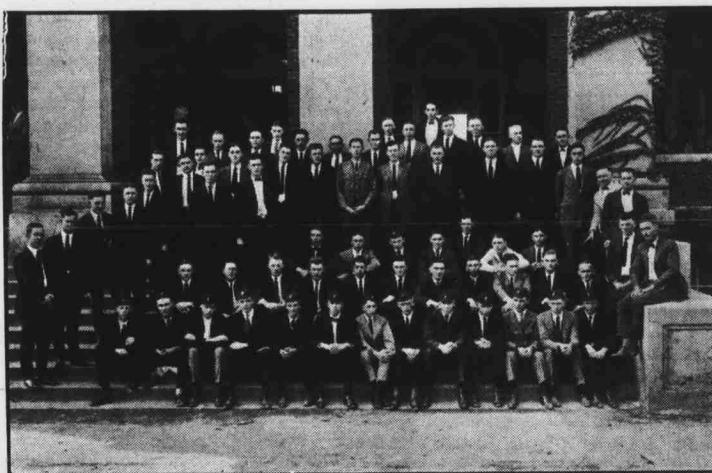

Col. Harrelson prefaced his remarks with an announcement that the next appropriation asked for from the Legislature would provide for a $300,000 gymnasium. The colonel then approved Dr. Taylor's suggestion and added a few ideas of his own.

For Saturday afternoon recreation, Mr. Shumaker and Mr. M. G. Williams suggested hikes, wienie roasts, and tours of investigation to surrounding points. Mr. Harris has agreed to furnish any group of students the necessary food to cook a meal in the open if the students will notify him ahead of time. The Embryo Club welcomed this suggestion.

Prof. Heck then suggested a plan for Sunday afternoon between the hours of five and six thirty. With the aid of various friendly organizations, it was proposed to secure young ladies from town to serve light refreshments in the Y. M. C. A. every Sunday afternoon to all students who come to the building. Mr. Harris agreed to furnish the required materials if the students would consent to a slight decrease in the Sunday supper bag.

At the suggestion of Prof. Heck, the group then proceeded with complete organization. Col. Harrelson, Dr. Taylor and Prof. Heck were selected as the faculty members of an Executive Committee. The following student representatives were elected: Senior Class, M. E. King; Junior Class, P. T. Dixon; Sophomore Class, M. G. Williams. The name of the new organization is The State College Re-

PUBLIC SPEAKING STRESSED AT STATE

Literary Societies Take on New Life

Never before in the history of the college has greater interest been shown in literary society work than at the present time. The various departments are constantly urging the students to avail themselves of every opportunity to learn how to speak in public. Speaking to the Tompkins Textile Society at its first regular meeting, Prof. Thomas Nelson said: "Gentlemen, you can't do a better thing than to learn how to express yourself clearly before an audience, for after you leave college you will have many opportunities." Dr. Taylor, of the Economics Department, strongly endorses the work of the literary societies and urges the students who have classes under him to take up the work, pointing out to them the prestige and advantages enjoyed by one who can do public speaking.

So strongly is the faculty in favor of public speaking that it is a required subject in the Sophomore year, but even the classroom does not offer as good an opportunity to learn how to speak as does the literary societies. The prime essential for a beginner is a sympathetic audience, which is rarely found outside of a literary society. Here the men have voluntarily met for the same purpose and are anxious to see every man do his best.

The time has long passed when men can afford to leave college with only a technical training, and no students have a better opportunity to supplement their knowledge of engineering than those at State College. With the addition of the Department of Economics and Sociology, headed by Dr. C. C. Taylor, engineering students may elect at least two subjects each year, such as Business Finance, Economics, Sociology, Psychology, Commercial Law, Shop Management, and many others, and thereby become better fitted to serve the community in which they live.

This year there will be taught in Pullen Literary Society a course in public speaking by Grenville Kleiser. Owing to the large number of members, the society will be divided into three sections, each rendering the same or a different program each week.

There is no other phase of college life that will mean as much to one after he leaves college as literary society work, and it matters not what other activity one takes part in, he cannot afford to neglect this. There is little reason why a person who knows a thing cannot stand upon his feet and tell it to others, and if we are unable to do so, we will not get credit for knowing.

Pullen Literary Society is open to all students of State College. Come, let's fit ourselves for leadership.

STATE COLLEGE HAS AN EASY WIN IN FIRST GRIDIRON ENCOUNTER

Jeanette Stars With Brilliant End Runs

(News and Observer.)

After a discouraging first quarter, in which it looked at first as though Randolph-Macon had the power to hold them to at least a small score, N. C. State broke away in the last three quarters and scored a touchdown in each to defeat the visitors from Virginia 22 to 2. Randolph-Macon played a defensive game from start to finish, punting consistently when the ball came in their possession, and failed to make a single first down.

Breaking around the ends repeatedly for long runs, Jeanette was the outstanding star of the State aggregation. He needed to be, for some of his fumbles lost chances to score and might have proved costly in the other direction if Randolph-Macon had taken more advantage of their breaks. Long and Randolph also showed their ability to gain the ground when it was needed and Long was especially adept in running back the punts for all they were worth and then some.

The State line proved stronger than the forecasts would have it and time and again broke through the Randolph-Macon interference to throw the visitors for a loss. Four completed passes helped greatly.

State scored their first touchdown in the second quarter after a successful exchange of punts had driven Randolph-Macon back to their own twenty yard line. Randolph-Macon punted feebly and Randolph receiving it carried it back fifteen yards to the twenty yard line. State tried the line one time and found it adamant. Then Randolph shot a lateral pass to Park, who got away around left end for twenty yards and touchdown. A place kick in a try for point failed.

In the third quarter after an exchange of punts had again placed Randolph-Macon at a disadvantage State ran back a punt to Randolph-Macon's thirty-eight yard line. An off-tackle play netted 8 yards and then Jeanette broke loose on a wild run around right end for twenty-five yards. After three bucks an off-tackle play with Long running carried the ball over, Randolph dropped-kicked for the extra point.

State's last touch down was the first play completed after the fourth quarter opened. In the latter part

The Wolfpack has started its maraudings.

The workmen of the face powder factories have gone on strike. Say it with flour.

Turkey has been described as every kind of nation, but just now it seems to be mostly consternation.

The papers say that a holy war is imminent. It really does begin to look as if the world is soon to be wholly war.

We had never appreciated the usefulness of the word "cynic" until we found that its family tree dated back to the Greek word for "dog."

No, those shouts down on Riddick Field Saturday afternoon did not indicate a student body fight. It was merely Browne broadcasting the results of the game.

The smiles on the faces of the students up town the other night were not wholly due to the football victory. Meredith opened its doors to visitors that night.

Everybody is speaking of the signs of the approaching football season. The dope from these signs goes up and down with different people until mathematically speaking, it is a regular-sign-curve.

We may be late in saying it, but anyway, we wish to congratulate Dr. Summey upon the high position that he goes to take in the Texas institution, and also we are handing it to that institution for its judgment in selecting a man for that position.

Dr. Ellis is responsible for the statement that more Bibles were sold during the last year than had ever been sold in any one year before. We knew that Raper and Hodges were some book agents, but we never realized that they had reached such possibilities as this.

Our broadcasting has been heard as far as Arkansas recently. This speaks well for the local sending station which is still in the experimental state. Soon North Carolina will have the largest sending station in the South, and that station will be located at State College. Captain Cox and his ever ready helpers, Jones and Norman, are to be complimented upon the great service they have done the College and State in placing this modern equipment here. It should be a source of pride to every State College man.

The circus in town last Tuesday brought home to us again how nearly the equal of animals some people are.

Professor Heck says that the faculty members are human beings after all. These Physics professors are always advancing some freak idea.

The Wake Forest-Carolina game Saturday reminds us of the time when Germany waded through Belgium and came out proclaiming that she could lick the world.

The newest athletic organization to make its appearance on the campus is what is known as the "Fun Club." This organization, which includes volleyball, non-team track, hiking, camping, Sunday afternoon feeds, and practically every other conceivable kind of recreation, bids fair to become one of the liveliest of our College activities. Its main purpose is to provide a means of recreation for those not already going out for some of the teams, and is based upon the old creditable assumption that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." The Club has officers from each class and from the faculty, who will see that everybody gets a chance to engage in some healthful and invigorating exercise during his spare time. It is good; keep it going.

The next building program that goes into effect here will include plans for a three hundred thousand dollar gymnasium, if plans of the Alumni and students carry out. On every hand one hears the suggestion, "Why don't we have a gymnasium?" in a manner that seems to indicate that something is going to be done if some action is not taken to provide means for this much-needed addition to our College equipment. Only the barest necessities of the home and visiting teams are provided, and, naturally, there is no chance whatever for a really organized gym team. For a school of this size it is practically as necessary as the classrooms, and its coming is only a matter of time. Boost it up, men. Let our needs be known. Help old State become the institution that it ought to be.

There is no cause for worry here in the matter of football prospects since the student body has seen the showing made against Randolph-Macon last Saturday afternoon. What some have been calling green material was not green in the least, but only needed a little real fight to find itself. The fight came, and we must say that the team did not have to search around long to locate its own whereabouts. The exact positions of Randy Randolph and Johnny Jennette, however, seemed to be a source of worry to our Virginia friends. Perhaps that is because these positions could change so rapidly. Tom Park's toe was just as much in evidence as it was last Fair Week, when it had a great deal to do with the winning of the State Championship. All the others were showing excellent form, and are fast making themselves into the wonder team that we had expected from the first.

DR. C. C. TAYLOR SPEAKS TO AG CLUB

Interesting Program Rendered

Shortly after the club was called to order the social committee sprung a surprise by bringing in a supply of cigars and cigarettes for all members and visitors present. It is likely that refreshments will be served often at the meetings.

In the beginning of his address Dr. Taylor told how modern agriculturists were making good all that is expected of them; how students were demonstrating the possibilities of scientific methods relative to better farming in North Carolina, and how the fair would show what was being done all over the state. "Vaster problems confront the farmer today than did fifty years ago." At that time people in the country practiced a somewhat self-sufficing type of agriculture. They produced practically all goods that were consumed on the farm. But today we have more of a marketing type of agriculture. This makes us dependent on the importation of goods that we cannot profitably produce.

Referring to the modern farmer, he said: "The modern farmer has three functions to perform: 1st, to be a technical farmer; 2d, to put more business into farming; 3d, to help develop the best social life possible in the community."

1. A technical farmer knows how to farm. "He can make two blades of grass grow where one grew before." In other words, there is a greater production in all elements of the farm with a greater profit. He must study the utility of his products to make that scheme work.

2. Unless the best of business is practiced on the farm, "the second blade of grass will cut the farmer's throat." He must use business principles to know what type of farming pays best. The profits from a profitable crop or kind of livestock may be lost by some farm practice that does not pay. One of the biggest problems to solve on the business side of farming is that of marketing. From 1909 to 1912 the biggest crop of cotton grown in three years brought the least money. Seven million bales sold for as much as eleven million bales. If this was true in the past, it will be true in the future, unless we use business judgment. We must learn what the demand is and not over-supply that demand.

3. In addition to big production and business on the farm comes the social problems. One of the functions of the modern farmer is to make living conditions and social life better in the rural districts. It is of the greatest importance that an agricultural student study general economics, agricultural economics, and agricultural administration. But his education is not complete without a good knowledge of Rural Sociology. "An educated man does not measure things by what they are, but by what they ought to be." Human beings follow so closely their habits of doing things, they need a habit of

Study III.

New Standards For Old. Read Mark 2:13-6.

Purpose (1) To study the opposition of the Jewish Leaders to Jesus new Standards, and the way in which he met the opposition; (2) to discover how new moral standards which are needed today may be established in spite of opposition.

Questions to open up the problem.

1. Why is it difficult to inaugurate such a new standard, for example, as national prohibition?

2. What phases of modern life can you mention in which new moral standards are greatly needed?

3. How does it happen that a moral standard, once considered good, should ever have to be changed? How can it be determined whether a moral standard is what it should be?

4. How do moral standards, whether good or bad originate? Who is responsible in any social group for the moral standards which prevail?

Questions Applying Scripture Principles

5 When Jesus wanted to set a new standard against social and class prejudice, how did he go about it? (22: 13-17.) How does his method contrast with that of some modern reformers?

6. How did Jesus show that those who work for better moral Standards do not necessarily have to take the joy out of life?

7. How would Jesus justify his disregard for customs sacred to his people? Why did he disregard fasting? Why did he break the "Sabbath?" According to Jesus, what is the "Sabbath" for?

8. To what extent did Jesus compromise on his standards in order to win some who might object? Why did he withdraw when his opponents planned to resort to physical force?

9. Why did he not here scathingly expose the falsity of the Pharisees as he did later in his ministry?

10 How would you summarize Jesus' methods for winning out with new moral standards?

Questions Applying these principles today

11. What religious customs of our day would Jesus criticize? How would Jesus criticize? How would he criticize them? How may we tell when such a custom is good and when it becomes harmful? Give illustrations.

12. Name some matter in which you would like to establish a higher moral standard in your community. What are the first steps to take to that end? What are some mistakes to avoid?

13. When in legislation by governing bodies a help on winning out on new standards?

15. Under what circumstances, if any, is it best to compromise on your standards?

NEW HANOVER COUNTY CLUB

Organization Perfected and Initiation Held

During the past week the fellows from New Hanover County came together and perfected their organization for the year. The following men were elected to lead the club:

President, C. Hall for apples.

Vice-Pres., Henry "Pillsbury" Duls.

Sec.-Treas., Geo. "Country" Jones.

Reporter, "Little" Brothers.

A feed and an initiation was held Thursday night in the Y. M. C. A., at which time five new men were added to the membership, accompanied by a warm reception. The New Hanover County Club is boosting N. C. State in our county. Watch us grow!

GASTON COUNTY CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

The Gaston County Club is back on the hill again this year with several new members. The men this year are T. A. Leeper, B. F. Norris, Z. M. Harry, E. D. Pasour, R. S. Ormond, B. F. Stroupe, P. L. George, P. C. Beatty, J. P. Kiser, R. L. Milton, C. A. Davis, Jr., R. S. Garrison, G. L. Gaston and W. F. Sanders. They held a short meeting September 21, at the Y. M. C. A., and made sure of an active year when B. F. Norris was elected president, P. L. George, vice-president, and P. C. Beatty, secretary-treasurer. Plans for a "feed" and a "get-together" affair in the near future were made. The future work of the club will be discussed at this meeting, and publicity for N. C. State in Gaston County will be one of the chief topics.

"The condemned character is a man who having superior privileges proves himself unfit to have them. How much we need that lesson! In our eyes, success is in itself an estate most to be desired; we forget that success is a fine art of all arts most difficult to handle. We clamor for power—fortune, wealth, prestige. How can I succeed? is our question. We do not ask, am I fit to succeed? Yet the second question is the more important. It is one thing to be in a happy and fortunate estate; it is another to be fit to be there. It is one thing to be well fed; it is another to be worth feeding."—Harry Emerson Fosdick.

MECKLENBURG COUNTY CLUB

The initial meeting of the Mecklenburg County Club was held in the Y. M. C. A. Thursday evening, September 21. The object of the meeting was mainly to acquaint the new men with the old.

Short talks were made by the president, vice-president, and the secretary. The most important matter that came before the Club was the sending of the College paper to the Charlotte University School. This makes the second copy of the paper to go to the schools of the county, the other being sent by the Technician staff to the Charlotte High School.

The officers of the Club are: H. E. Rea, President; R. H. Crockford, Vice-President; T. C. Albright, Secretary and Treasurer. T. C. A.

creation Club and the purpose is the promotion of athletics that all students can participate in.

The suggestions of the various speakers of the evening were accepted as a part of the plans of the Club and next Saturday afternoon was set for the first hike. Membership is open to any student of State College, and there are no entrance fees or application required. Any who were not at the meeting Sunday night, but who desire to go on the hike Saturday afternoon, give their names to any of the student representatives. If you want to go, better see them immediately because time is short.

THE FRESHMAN ARMY THE AWKWARD SQUAD

From the point of view of a freshman, the most important happening of the week was the issuing of uniforms to first year men. This required several days and toward the end the supply ran low, compelling those who came last to take whatever sizes remained. As a result, there are many poorly fitting uniforms, nevertheless the "awkward squads" made a good showing at drill on Monday. As the military caps for the freshmen have not arrived, the freshman caps are being worn as regulation.

Program Committee Appointed

On Thursday night, September 22, eight Junior Mechanical Engineers were initiated into the Student Branch of the A. S. M. E. The new members are: K. L. Barkley, J. E. Britt, M. H. Barmettler, B. H. Champion, C. D. Faucette, D. S. Jones, L. L. Parker and H. W. Rhodes. At present there are thirteen senior members, several of the men having dropped out since last year. All the new men survived the prescribed ordeals, and the society is strengthened to the number of twenty-one members. With the co-operation of the new material and the old members, we should have the most successful year in the history of the organization.

Our first regular meeting was held Tuesday night, September 26. President Clay extended a hearty welcome to the Juniors, after which the business was taken up. C. D. Faucette was elected reporter for the society. A program committee consisting of P. A. Willis, E. F. Graham and B. F. Norris, Jr., chairman, was appointed, and the first meeting of the society adjourned. The next meeting of the society will be held October 10.

Military caps were issued to these freshmen who are taking part in the parade and to freshmen members of the band. These men give promise of making a very good showing; Col. of the third quarter an exchange of punts had given Randolph-Macon the ball on their own twenty-yard line. They tried to run the oval but were thrown for a five yard loss. They punted 35 yards and Randolph received the punt and strolled down the field for 22 yards before he was downed. It was State's ball on Randolph-Macon's twenty-eight yard line. Jeanette broke around left end for fifteen yards and Long followed him up with five yards around the other end. A lateral pass Randolph to Park took the ball ten yards down the field and to the threshold of Randolph-Macon's goal line. A buck failed. The whistle blew for the end of the third quarter and in the first play of the last quarter Long plunged through the line for the touchdown.

Randolph-Macon kicked off and after an exchange of punts State started what looked like a successful march down the field to the goal from their thirty-five yard line. Jeanette did his usual twenty around left end. Two line-bucks and a pass failed and Park punted out of bounds to Randolph-Macon's twenty-yard line. Randolph-Macon fumbled and it looked like another sure touchdown for State as they recovered the ball. But Randolph-Macon intercepted a pass and carried it fifteen yards. They tried the line and then punted beautifully. The ball was rolling and the State players thought that it would go behind their goal so they let it alone. The ball stopped on their two-inch line. State fumbled and was forced to fall on the ball behind their own goal for a safety. Randolph-Macon's lone tally of the game.

TENNIS CLUB AT STATE

Wake Forest Issues a Challenge For a Tournament

Last Monday a group of tennis players and "quasi players" met and organized a Tennis Club, with the view of putting out a tennis team this fall. Duncan Memory was elected president, and George Wray was elected secretary-treasurer. An executive committee was appointed to look after the fixing up of the courts we now have and to purchase new nets and supplies.

All State College students interested in tennis are invited to join. The membership fee is $1 per term, payable at once. See George Wray and get signed up now.

Wake Forest has challenged us to a tournament and we must get busy at once and play out the elimination tournaments from the members of the club. We don't want to let Wake Forest beat us, even in tennis, so everybody who can play tennis be sure to join, and get to practicing. We have several good players here at State we know of—Correll and Memory, for instance—and we are sure there must be others. C. L.

LEAZAR LITERARY SOCIETY HOLDS INITIATION

Friday night, September 22, was set apart by the Leazar Literary Society for the receiving of new members. Several additions were made to the society's membership. After the time of the initiation was over, President Smith called the society and spoke briefly to the new members of their duties as society men, and expressed the belief that they would gain a great deal of benefit from the society. A. M. Fountain then made a short talk, in which he stressed the importance of regular attendance in keeping up the spirit of the organization. D. B. Van Sant then added to what had already been said by emphasizing the importance not only of attendance, but of the spirit of work that is necessary for any successful enterprise. J. B. Crater then made a very interesting talk on the coming inter-society contests, what they were, when they were, and what was the best way of preparing for them.

The program committee, composed of Fountain, Graham, Smith and Stewart, met later and planned programs for the next two meetings. The last of these, it is thought, will be a very interesting debate between the Juniors and Seniors, upon the advisability of the British taking over Constantinople, and thus getting control of the Dardanelles. This is a real live question at this time, and all expect a heated discussion.

They say, "Love makes the world go 'round.'"

And may it never cease.

Quite true, but please remember that Money's the axle grease.

WHAT ABOUT A GYMNASIUM?

Most Urgent Need of the College At Present

On every hand one hears the question of why we cannot have a gymnasium, and invariably the answer is, we must have it. As conditions now are, there is no opportunity given those students who are not members of some team for recreation, and there is of course no possibility of having a regular gym team.

Alumni members are making definite plans for obtaining the necessary funds for this addition to our college equipment. At a recent meeting of the alumni, resolutions were drawn up favoring the construction of both a gymnasium and a library. It was hoped that these resolutions could be given in this issue, but since they were not obtainable at this time, they will appear at an early date. In the meantime, both alumni and students should be talking it over and increasing interest in this very necessary improvement in our college building system.

Sitting alone, meditate on your own faults; in conversation, talk not of other men's.

THE PERSHING PARADE

Tentative Organization for State College Battalion

Tuesday, October the 17th, is Military Day at the Great State Fair. On that day General Pershing will be in Raleigh, and will make a speech at noon at the Fair Grounds. This will be the greatest military event at the capital since the return from overseas of the famous 113th Field Artillery.

Colonel Gregory has received no official notification of the part we are to take in this parade, but he has been told unofficially to make all necessary plans and to get the cadet corps in military shape for whatever duty assigned them on Military Day.

The following order gives the provisional organization for drill until further notice:

THE RIFLE TEAM

R. O. T. C. Small Bore Rifle Practice To Begin This Month.

The Military Department has been receiving challenges from the R. O. T. C. units throughout the Fourth Corps area, to fire the sub-caliber rifle in matches agreed upon.

This form of competition has been encouraged between the different colleges—in that it develops the keen spirit of rivalry, and in a somewhat limited way teaches the fundamentals of correct shooting with the service rifle.

All seniors, juniors, and sophomores are eligible to compete for places on the team. Best shot wins. Everyone who thinks he can learn to hold and squeeze (a rifle now) is urged to report to the gallery range immediately after announcement of date to commence practice.

The N. C. S. rifle team was eighth out of thirty-two teams competing during the past summer camp. Florida came out first. Our team had never fired the service rifle before—Florida had been practicing all winter on a regular course "A" range. If we hope to reconquer laurels once ours we must find a suitable outdoor range that we may first use a real weapon with a kick. This is our real goal. Practice this winter and next spring with the service rifle so when we go to camp next summer our team will have been selected, and ready to take nothing less than first place. Let's go.

BIOLOGY CLUB MEETS REFRESHMENTS SERVED

The biology club had its regular meeting Tuesday night. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mr. J. M. Gougan.

No program having been made a general discussion was taken part in by all members of the club. Some very interesting discussions were lead by different members of the club. Mr. T. O. Evans gave us a very interesting talk on his trip in the mountains during the summer.

After all discussions were over the president gave us an outline of what he wished the club to accomplish this year. After all business was over refreshments were served by the social committee, which was greatly enjoyed.

"Failed in Latin, flunked in math."
They heard him softly hiss;
"I'd like to get the guy who said

POET'S CORNER

A FRESHMAN DREAM

Here I am, in awful dread,
Sitting straight up in my bed;
Almost overcome with fear,
Trembling as the Sophs. appear.

I can hear them as they shout, Hollering and yelling, "All Freshmen out";

Now they're coming down the hall.
Oh, how heavy their footsteps fall.

Now they're in the room next door.
Hark, I hear a bed go tumbling o'er;
I clasp my hands and breathe a prayer
And pray that the Sophs. won't cut my hair.

Now they're here, right in the room;
I know I'll be baldheaded soon.
Now they've got me and I heard one say:

"Get up, boy. Are you going to sleep all day?"

I jumped out of bed, and to my surprise,
Found only my room-mate before my eyes.

After all, it's true, it seems—
The Sophs. didn't come; 'twas only a dream.

—Anonymous, '26.

OPPORTUNITY

This I beheld, or dreamed it in a dream:—

There spread a cloud of dust along a plain;

And underneath the cloud, or in it,
raged

A furious battle, and men yelled, and swords

Shocked upon swords and shields. A prince's banner

Wavered, then staggered backward, hemmed by foes.

A craven hung along the battle's edge,
And thought, 'Had I a sword of keener steel—

That blue blade that the king's son bears,—but this

Blunt thing!' he snapt and flung it
from his hand,

And lowering crept away and left the field.

Then came the king's son, wounded,
sore bestead,

And weaponless, and saw the broken
sword,

Hilt-buried in the dry and trodden
sand,

And ran and snatched it, and with battle-shout

Lifted afresh he hewed his enemy
down,

And saved a great cause that heroic day.

—EDWARD ROWLAND SILL.

THE NEED OF MEN

God give us men! The time demands Strong minds, great hearts, true faith
and willing hands,
Men whom the lust of office does not kill;

Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy;

Men who possess opinions and a will;
Men who have honor; men who will not lie;

Men who can stand before a demagogue

And damn his treacherous flatteries
without winking;

Tall men, sun-crowned, who live above
the fog
In public duty and in private thinking.

For while the rabble with their thumb-
worn creeds,
Their large professions and their little deeds,

Mingle in selfish strife, lo! Freedom weeps!

Wrong rules the land, and waiting justice sleeps!

—J. G. HOLLAND.

UPHILL

Does the road wind uphill all the way?
Yes, to the very end.

Will the day's journey take the whole
long day?

From morn to night, my friend.

But is there for the night a resting-place?

A roof for when the slow, dark hours begin.

May not the darkness hide it from my face?

You cannot miss that inn.

Shall I meet other wayfarers at night?
Those who have gone before.

Then must I knock, or call, when just in sight

They will not keep you waiting at that door.

Shall I find comfort, travel-sore and weak?

Of labor you shall find the sum.

Will there be beds for me and all who seek?

Yea, beds for all who come.

—CHRISTINA G. ROSSETTI.

LEAZAR GETS GOOD START
INITIATION EXECUTED

The initiation of the Leazar Literary Society was held Friday night, Sept.
22d. There was a good delegation of Freshmen taken in, and several old men reinstated. Several of the candidates for membership were unable to take the initiation at that time, but are coming in at the next opportunity given by the society. The men taken in are well experienced in Literary Society work, and we feel assured that their membership will mean much to the society.

The first regular program for the year was held Friday night, Sept.
29th. It was an impromptu affair, and every member of the society was given a chance to make a short talk. Each man gave his name, his home, and a lively joke, which made it an exceedingly enjoyable and interesting program. We are especially proud of the showing made by the new members at this meeting.

We are expecting a lively time in the Society Hall next Friday night.
A senior team composed of A. M.
Fountain, D. E. Stewart and M. E.
King, are to meet the sturdy junior team, composed of Carl Bridges, J. B.
Crater, and C. F. Seymore in a debate. The question is—Resolved:
That the British should take control of Constantinople. M. Mrshevitich, a native of Serbia, who is somewhat familiar with the Turkish situation, will make a talk on the subject at this meeting.

POULTRY CLUB PEP MEETING

Initiation Planned

Getting off with a great start the Poultry Science Club held its first meeting of the year. This was a get-together pep meeting. There were about seventy-five fellows in the "get-together," and pep was not lacking—we had it all the way.

President Jones called the meeting to order and asked for suggestions from the fellows on how to make a larger and better Poultry Club. Several of the fellows made short, snappy talks. They all seemed to think that a good program will always get the fellows out. In return the Poultry Club Program Committee guaranteed a good program, with the best speakers to be had at every meeting. The Club meets at 7:30 and we leave at 8:30, on the dot, whether the meeting is in full swing or not. There is going to be one hour full with a good, snappy, practical talks and at the end of that hour the Poultry Club adjourns. Remember that, fellows, when you are wondering whether you will come over or not.

Dr. Kaupp outlined for us the history of the Poultry Club. He told us what Poultry was doing in North Carolina and other places, and showed us where we could get so much out of a real, live Poultry Club that we couldn't afford not to have one.

Prof. John Ivey was on hand, as usual, with a snappy talk on why and how we should have the best club ever. And, best of all, with a few more or less mild threats, he guaranteed a meeting that is really worth while.

The following men applied for membership to the Ancient Order of the Yellow Cur: Gravley, Ward, Moore, Routh, Winstead, Robinson, Rodgers, Allred, Kennett, Glenn, Stewart, Siler, Smith, Mathewson, Palmer, Carr, Hunter, Stoutt, McLean, Clutch, Long, Gladston, Salter, Parrish.

They will be initiated at the next meeting, October 5.

doing things the way they ought to be done.

"Members of this club can do more to make the college what it ought to be than either the faculty or the alumnae." They have seen the progress in the past and what it now is, but the student has a vision of what it ought to be in the future.

The club is always anxious to have Dr. Taylor on its program. Largely due to his foresight and encouragement, the college fair was started. We have learned that if we really want anything done or put across, he is the best man we can get to do it.

She: No; that is entirely too large an audience.

ELECTRICAL SOCIETY PLANS YEAR'S WORK

Captain Cox Gives Interesting Lecture

The Electrical Engineering Society held its first meeting since the initiation of the Junior members last Thursday night. At this meeting the plans for the year were discussed. It was voted that the weekly meetings be discontinued, and that the time of meeting be changed to the first and third Tuesday nights in each month. By lessening the number of meetings it is thought that more time may be given to the arrangement of programs and that the general interest will be greater.

Captain Cox, one of the faculty members, gave a very interesting lecture on the possibilities of good that may come from the society, in the insight it will give the members of what their work will be and the many fields that are open to them. The society, he said, should not be a place of deep theoretical study, but should deal with general problems, and the progress that is now being made in electrical work. The possibilities of having a booth at the Fair were discussed, and plans for obtaining it were made. At the next meeting of the society a lecture will be given by some member of the faculty.

FORSYTH COUNTY CLUB ORGANIZES

Officers Elected

On Thursday night, September 28, the boys from Forsyth County met for the first time in regular session. They met primarily for the purpose of getting together and becoming better acquainted, but also for the purpose of getting a good feed. The club was called to order by the president, and the purpose of the meeting was explained to the Freshmen members, and old men as well. All the members of the club were present, both new and old. Everyone present pronounced the meeting a success, and expressed themselves as wanting another meeting like the first as soon as possible. Although there are just thirteen members in the club, we have one of the liveliest organizations on the hill.

The officers for this year are: "Hunk" Emmart, president; "Sleepy" Strupe, vice president, and "Blossom" Blum, secretary-treasurer.

ANSON COUNTY CLUB MEETS

The Anson County Club met this week in Room 310, Sixth, and organized for this year. Officers were elected as follows: President, J. E. Moore; vice-president, Frank Clark; secretary-treasurer, Gerone Sedberry; reporter, P. B. Little. There were eight members. The club will meet once every two weeks, on Saturdays, immediately after dinner. We hope to make this one of the best years of the Anson County Club.

Hubby: "Darling, I've made up my mind to stay at home."
