City of Raleigh To Tax Student's Personal Property

Students at State College must list their tangible personal property and poll for taxation with the City of Raleigh says Raleigh Tax Supervisor, E. T. Glover.

The City tax rate is $1.38 per hundred dollar valuation and the County tax rate is the same.

The complete statement issued to The Technician follows:

"The Attorney General of North Carolina has ruled that all persons, including State Employees who resided in the City of Raleigh for more than six months during the calendar year 1955 were required by law to list their tangible personal property and poll for taxation with the City of Raleigh for the Calendar year 1956. The tax listing period is during the month of January, 1956 and the place of listing is at the Wake County Court House. Tangible personal property includes your automobile, if you have one, as well as other personal property.

This notice is given so that those persons who should list their personal property in Raleigh will do so rather than at

(See TAX, Page 8)

Plan Approved For Ticket Book Use

Jim Nolan, president of the Student Government, announced that Chancellor Carey H. Bostian has approved a plan whereby State College Students may use another students athletic book to take a date to the athletic events. To enjoy this privilege you must abide by a few specific rules. 1—You must be able to identify yourself as a State College Student. 2—You must have two books. Both you and your date can't go in on the same book. 3—You may not take another male who is not a State student. In the case of Co-eds you may not take another female.

For the State men, you can take your mother, sister, grandmother, or anybody so long as you take a female. The reverse is true for Co-eds.

We are being granted a privilege that is not to be taken lightly. Violation of the rules are a direct violation of the Student Honor Code.

Big Four Needs System For Tickets To Away Games

by Terry Lathrop.

Some information leaked to light this week about the ticket situation for the two remaining "away" "Big Four" games at Carolina and Duke, one to be played this weekend at Duke and the other at Carolina, January 18.

The box-office at the Coliseum had one-thousand tickets for the Duke game available until yesterday. The Duke box-office at Duke had to recall the remainder of the tickets in order to try to sell them at the game Saturday night. They were selling here at State for regular prices, and will be available Saturday at the gate at the same prices. Little notice was given on the State campus that tickets would be available here for the game, although they were on sale several days.

Graham Campbell, of the Coliseum Box Office, said Tuesday, "I have been in touch with the Carolina Box Office and, as far as I know now, we will have no tickets to sell for the game. I was told that there were approximately six hundred tickets available for the general public (including State students) at the Carolina Box Office." The Technician called Carolina Tuesday and was told that after Carolina students were given their tickets on their books next week, the number of tickets available for public sale would be more exactly known. The Technician was also told that a few tickets were being sold along through this week.

Some of the students at State have commented this week that it seems like some sort of better arrangement could be worked out for the students at the Big Four schools to get tickets to the Big Four ball games. As one said, "It is only natural that there should be particularly high interest in the games with our natural neighborhood rivals. It's a shame we can't make some mutual agreement about cheering sections and block-seating."

IDC Dance Sponsors At N. C. State

The Interdormitory Council at North Carolina State College will present its annual dance in the main ballroom of the College Union Building Saturday, January 7, from 8 p.m. until midnight. The dance is always a highlight of the winter social calendar at the college. Music will be provided by the Collegians of East Carolina College. Pictured here are the dance sponsors, with their escorts listed. Top row, left to right: Kathleen Mathews with Terry Hershey, IDC publicity director; Kay McCosley with Malcolm McCor-

EDITORIAL COMMENT:

Ticket Books

The efforts of campus leaders in the matter of date tickets and the use of ticket books to athletic events have been rewarded—to the advantage of State Students.

We have always felt that a student should be able to use another person's student ticket book to gain admission to athletic events. There are some students who go home every weekend or who do not particularly care for sporting events. He has paid for his book—he certainly should be able to lend it to a fellow student to use for his date.

The change was made by the Chancellor and we congratulate and thank him for it. Responsible also is SG President Jim Nolan, who as the school year becomes older, is proving to be a student leader who certainly keeps his fellow students in mind whether they be married, single, fraternity men, dormitory men, or other.

Although this plan was not worked out earlier in the season and many students bought date ticket books for twelve dollars, it is a precedent that we hope will be followed in the years to come.

The Chancellor did not make this concession for the students so that they could reap monetary rewards by selling their books to people. He did it for the convenience of the students. It is not a set law and the concession can be taken back. If students abuse the use of the books by selling them to outsiders the privilege will be rescinded.

City of Raleigh

The issue has been tossed back and forth for years, but the City of Raleigh has seen fit this year to include several thousand students in their permanent population and collect several thousand dollars in additional taxes. Students will be expected to pay property tax and poll tax to Wake County and the City of Raleigh instead of the county and city or town where the student considers his home to be.

No doubt State Students will have to list their tangible personal property and poll for taxation this year and for the many years to come.

In such case dormitory students and the College should demand that the City of Raleigh undertake the maintenance of the roads on the campus, around the dorms, and in Vetville. In addition, the City of Raleigh should have to collect trash from the dorms and Vetville if not the whole campus. It would save the College money that could be used for other campus maintenance.

The City of Raleigh seems to be aghast over the idea that Meredith may move to Winston-Salem and at the same time Raleigh is working hard to snag the new consolidated Presbyterian College. Groups in Raleigh apparently think that the prestige of being an educational center and the trade that students bring to Raleigh is enough to want to keep schools. Evidently another faction of Raleighites think otherwise—they feel that Raleigh is doing Colleges a favor by tolerating them.

Hear At State

by Sidney Pureblood, Jr.

The views and opinions of this column do not necessarily represent those of THE TECHNICIAN.

Well, we're back from our lengthened Christmas vacation and have examinations staring us in the face. Now that we have found out which of our friends got engaged, pinned, or otherwise this Christmas, we have to get back to the books for about three weeks.

I know everybody was glad to hear that we won the Dixie Classic for the sixth time this year. Let's hope we do the same thing to Carolina the next two times we play them, too.

The "Wataugan"

I received a very interesting letter from Bill Brehm the other day concerning the "Wataugan." Some of the things he told me will, I believe, be of interest to those of you who would like to see the "Wataugan" published again.

Last year Bill had not only a group of staff writers but also two cartoonists lined up and ready to put out another "Wataugan." He was turned down by the Administration because, they said, there was insufficient funds to finance the publication. After making a study and preparing a paper on how the publication could be successfully financed, he and his business manager again asked permission to undertake the venture. Again they were turned down. They were told that there were already enough publications on the campus and that these publications could use their services. At the beginning of this year, permission to publish a "Wataugan" was requested once more. This time the answer was that the "Wataugan" was not wanted and could not be published on this campus.

Well!!! I commend the efforts of Mr. Brehm and those who were going to work with him; my wish is that he would have had his request granted the first time and that the "Wataugan" could have been published last semester.

I cannot agree with the Administration that there is no demand for such a publication on this campus. If there were no demand, why would the drug-stores near the campus carry such magazines as PLAYBOY, ESCAPADE, and several other very similar magazines — and why do they sell out of these every month? They are even selling the TARNATION, Carolina's humor magazine now; since State doesn't have one of its own. And to answer the statement about other publications needing these boys services . . . well this is true enough, but they aren't going to work for some publication if they don't want to no matter how badly they need their services.

We would like to hear some more from both the students and the Administration on the subject of publishing the "Wataugan." I think we should have a humor magazine here at State even if the Administration has to pass on each member of the staff.

We Don't Like It

Appearing elsewhere in this Technician is a notice from the Attorney General of North Carolina stating that faculty members and students of legal age at State will be subject to pay taxes to the City of Raleigh if they have resided here more than six months or more. I bet we will hear some more hot comment on this subject in the near future.

Harlem Magicians To Give Performance In Reynolds Coli.

The Harlem Magicians, featuring Goose Tatum and Marques Haynes, will play the New York Olympians in a big basketball game and show in the William Neal Reynolds Coliseum at North Carolina State College Tuesday, January 10, at 8:30 p.m.

Announcement of plans to stage the game at the Coliseum was made today by Coliseum Director W. Z. Betts, who said a 20-minute variety program will provide entertainment at the intermission.

Tatum, dubbed the "Clown Prince of Basketball," and Haynes, billed as "basketball's greatest dribbler," will head the list of stars in the Magicians' lineup. They are famed both for their comedy acts on the court and for skillful basketball handling. Both men formerly starred with the Harlem Globetrotters.

Goose Tatum, who has been a big hit with fans at the Reynolds Coliseum in past performances here, set a new scoring record in Washington's Uline Arena recently, scoring 30 field goals plus two free throws for 62 points.

A crowd of 11,093 saw the Magicians and Olympians at Des Moines on their present tour. The Uline Arena game was attended by 5,365.

STUDENTS SHOULD

Feel Free To Report Honor Code Violations

by The Judicial Board

"Why should I turn him in for cheating? It's none of my business!" So speaketh another State College student, who then feels quite dynamic over having set forth some of his "principles."

He is wrong. It is his duty as a member of the Student Body to report all infractions of the Honor Code. Otherwise his breach of the Honor Code through indifference is technically as serious as the original violation. We of State College are tightly binding the arms of the Honor System if we do not subscribe ourselves to this part of it.

Perhaps the best concise definition of the Honor System is "individual responsibility." Students are no longer awed by the efficient external pressure of a police force. Instead, in order to develop those desirable qualities in their characters, they are subjected to the internal pressure of the individual.

Let us look around and observe how well students are reporting violations of the Honor Code and are thereby fulfilling their duties. The answer is obvious—this part of the Honor System is being carried out very poorly. Then another question inevitably arises: "Why?" Knowing that the fault must rest with the individual, it would be painful indeed to acknowledge to ourselves that we do not possess those sterling characters that enable honor systems at other schools to function flawlessly. Why then can we not develop this part of our Honor System? Each individual must know his reason, and also the action he must take to make himself a complete supporter of the Honor System.

Examinations for Graduating Seniors—By action of the Faculty Senate and the Administrative Council, the same policy on final examinations applying to students graduating in June will apply to students who graduate at other commencement. This means that a student who will graduate at the end of this semester will be excused from the final examination in all courses in which he has earned a grade of A or B. Graduating students will inquire of all instructors whether or not they are to be excused. The determination of the instructor is final.

Whitley scored the only touchdown of the game in the first quarter. The rest of the time was spent in a see-saw battle with first one team appearing to gain only to be stopped by their opponents. ## Pack Begins Three Game Road Trip Against Duke's Once-Beaten Squad Sat.; Risk Undefeated Record-

North Carolina State's Dixie Classic champions, the nation's second ranking team, puts its undefeated record on the line Saturday night in Durham against Duke's always tough Blue Devils.

Undefeated in 23 games over a two-year span, the Wolfpack won its 11th straight of the current season by routing arch rival North Carolina 82-60 in the finals of the seventh annual Dixie Classic last Saturday night. It was State's sixth championship in seven holiday tournaments.

It has been two years since Duke beat State, but all of the games have been comparatively close. The Blue Devils last turned the trick in 1954 with a 90-89 win. Since that time, the Pack has won four in a row, including an 87-77 triumph in the finals of the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament last year.

State holds an 18-6 lead in the series between the two schools since Everett Case came to Raleigh in 1946.

The game will be played in Duke's Indoor Gymnasium beginning at 8:15. A preliminary contest between the State and Duke freshmen will get underway at 6:15.

The game probably will boil down to a scoring battle between four players—two on each team.

The Blue Devils depend upon the offensive work of forward Ronnie Mayer and guard Joe Belmont while State boasts All-America center Ronnie Shavlik and guard Vic Molodet, a speedy backcourt performer who is making a strong bid for All-America honors.

Three of the stars—Shavlik, Molodet and Belmont—were named to the Dixie Classic All-Tournament team. An injury hampered Mayer's chances during the tournament. He suffered a gash on his chin in the semi-final game which required nine stitches. The high-jumping forward missed Duke's game with Wake Forest.

Duke, currently ranked 11th in one cage poll, will carry an 8-1 record into the game (not including a Wednesday night game with Wake Forest).

The Wolfpack will start Capt. Phil DiNardo and Cliff Hafer at forwards, Shavlik at center, Molodet and John Maglio at guards. The Blue Devils probably will use Mayer and Bob

Wolfpack Wrestling Squad Meets Duke

State varsity wrestling squad will be seeking their first win of the season when they tangle with Duke University's Blue Devils, Thursday afternoon, January 11 in Durham.

State has had just one match to date, a loss to powerful University of Virginia before the holidays.

The Wolfpack, playing their best game of the season took complete charge of the contest from the start and swept to a 15-point 46-31 half-time lead. The Pack hit on 51.1 per cent of their floor shots during the first half while Carolina was hitting on 33.3.

State was never in serious trouble as they coasted to their biggest victory of the young season.

All-American Ronnie Shavlik, voted the most outstanding player of the tournament, tallied 17 for the night while teammate Vic Molodet took high scoring honors with 21. Lennie Rosenbluth was high man for the Tar Heels.

Coach Case's lads have yet to lose a championship game and have played in all but one since the Classic started.

The official attendance was set at 71,800 for the three day affair making it the largest in the nation.

Semi-Finals

State-70 W-F-58
North Carolina State fought its way into the finals of the Dixie Classic as they whipped gallant Wake Forest 70-58 before 12,500 screaming fans. The Wolfpack, overcame their slump of yesterday, and put their offensive machinery into high gear to wrap up their 10th victory of the campaign and 22th over a two-year span.

State completely dominated the first half as they left the court at intermission commanding a 15-point 38-23 lead.

Wake Forest stormed back like a disrupted hornet's nest to pull within one point of its arch-rival with 8 minutes left to play. However, State, behind the eight point scoring spree of forward Cliff Hafer regained control and coasted to the important win. It marks the sixth time in the seven year history of the Classic that Coach Everett Case's lads have reached the finals, and have yet to lose a championship game.

Hafer took scoring honors for the Pack with 20 followed by Vic Molodet's 18. Jackie Murdock with 16 led the Deacons.

First Round

State-59 Oregon State-54
State, defending champions had their national prestige dampened somewhat as they slipped passed unranked Oregon State 59-54 in the second game of the opening round. The Wolfpack, playing far from up to par, did little to excite the capacity crowd as they hit on only 27 per cent of their shots from the floor.

The visiting Beaver's came within one point of the undefeated Wolfpack with a minute and a half remaining, but some accurate foul shooting on the part of All-American Ronnie Shavlik and guard Vic Molodet saved the day for the Pack.

With the halftime score reading 34-21 State scored only eight points in the next 11 minutes of play. Oregon didn't do much better as they tallied 12 in the same period.

Translation Service Handles 302 Projects

The Translation Service of the Department of Modern Languages, at North Carolina State College yesterday announced it has had a total of 302 translation projects underway during the past year and has completed 257 projects.

In reporting this, Dr. George W. Poland, department head, said this year's work brings the Translation Service's total translations up to 1,063.

The 1955 translations, he said, were done at the request of 15 departments at North Carolina State College, the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and the Darf Corporation of Raleigh.

State College's Modern Language Department is on the mailing list of top-ranking experiment stations and research centers in the French, German, Spanish, and Italian speaking countries and received this year over 500 publications from 30 nations.

The translations are done chiefly as a service to research workers at State College and to give reading experience to students in foreign languages. As a result of the translation work done this year, 139 graduate students received certification of reading ability.

Among the projects translated were letters and scientific articles.

The department received publications from Algeria, Argentina, Austria, Belgian Congo, Belgium, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, China, Colombia, Cuba, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, France, Germany, Guatemala, Haiti, Italy, Mexico, Morocco, Peru, Portugal, Puerto Rico, Russia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Tunisia, Venezuela, and Uruguay.

Copies of the translations edited are deposited in the D. H. Hill Library at North Carolina State College and the Library of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in Washington, D. C., and are listed with the Southwest Research Institute in San Antonio, Texas.

State Leads In Foreign Students

A survey by the North Carolina Council of Churches shows that North Carolina State College has the largest enrollment of foreign students of any college or university in the State.

Reporting on a State-wide compilation of foreign students, the council said its survey indicates there are 522 students from 70 foreign nations and territories now registered at 55 junior and senior colleges in the State.

In a report on the study, The North Carolina Churchmen, official organ of the Episcopal Diocese of North Carolina, states:

"This year's listing, according to Rev. Morton R. Kurtz, director of the Council of Churches, shows the highest number of students from the greatest number of countries hitherto reported. (Last year's report showed 463.) North Carolina State College of Raleigh reported the greatest number of foreign students enrolled with 150. Next in order were: Duke, 74; University of North Carolina, 72; Warren Wilson, 42; and Guilford College, 21."

Nags Head Set For Fishing Institute

Nags Head has been chosen as the site for the 1956 Sports Fishing Institute to be conducted by the North Carolina State College Extension Division June 11-15.

This was announced yesterday by Director Edward W. Ruggles of the college's Extension Division, who said the annual fresh water and salt water sports fishing schools will be combined for the first time this year and will be held at the coastal community.

The fishing institute, which was started six years ago, has attracted national attention and "students" from throughout the country.

This year's schedule will include fishing trips to the Gulf Stream and along the Albemarle Sound. Classroom lectures, discussions, demonstrations, and practice sessions will make up the teaching agenda.

The instruction will cover a wide range of topics relating to baits, equipment, casting, and fish habits.

Ruggles said a registration fee of $125 per person will cover room, meals, fishing trips, and other expenses. The Carolinian Hotel will be headquarters for the school.

He explained that fishermen are being encouraged to bring their families with them.

Teachers scheduled to give lectures and demonstrations are:

Hal Lyman, publisher of the "Salt Water Sportsman," Boston, Mass.; Leon Chandler, Cortland Lane Company, Cortland, N. Y.; Dr. Fred S. Barkalow, head of the Zoology Faculty at North Carolina State College; Ted Henson, Ted Henson Associates, Apopka, Fla.; Noon Hudson, The Shakespeare Company, Atlanta, Ga.; Bill Hassler, fisheries research biologist and professor, N. C. State College; Paul Howard, Hall and Howard Company, Birmingham, Ala.; Leon Hawk, Florida Tackle Company, St. Simons Island, Ga.; Rod Amundson, chief of the educational division, N. C. Wildlife Resources Commission; Eugene Starnes, assistant director of the State College Extension Division; and Director Ruggles. Details may be obtained by writing the Extension Division, North Carolina State College, Raleigh.

"One open door after another"

"That's how I feel about the telephone company," says Walter D. Walker, B.E.E., University of Minnesota, '51. "When I joined the company I felt that I could go in any direction. And that's the way it's been.

"For the first six months I was given on-the-job training in the fundamentals of the telephone business—how lines are put up and equipment installed. Learning those fundamentals has really paid off for me.

"Then I had the opportunity to go to the Bell Laboratories in New Jersey. I worked on memory crystals—ferroelectric crystals—for use in digital computers. I learned how important research is to the telephone business.

"After two years I came back to Minnesota, to St. Cloud, to work in the District Plant Engineer's Office. There I made field studies of proposed construction projects and drew up plans to guide the construction crews. This combination of inside and outside work gave me invaluable experience.

"In July, 1955, I came to Minneapolis as an Engineer in the Exchange Plant Extension Engineer's Office. We do forecasting—not of the weather, but of future service needs. Using estimates of growth and economic studies, we make our plans for the years ahead. We figure out where and when new facilities will be needed to meet future growth.

"All this has been preparing me for a real future. You see, the telephone company is expanding by leaps and bounds. That's why it offers a young man so many open doors."

Wally Walker's career is with Northwestern Bell Telephone Company. Similar career opportunities exist in other Bell Telephone Companies, and in Bell Telephone Laboratories, Western Electric and Sandia Corporation. Your placement officer has more information regarding Bell System companies.
