Engineers' Fair Is Big Success

Hundreds of high school students and other citizens from throughout the State attended last week's 24th annual Engineers' Exposition, sponsored by State's School of Engineering. Visitors saw a variety of displays including a jet engine, a scale model nuclear reactor, a cloud chamber, a wind tunnel, surveying and sand-testing equipment, television operations and other apparatus. The event was formally opened Friday afternoon by Mrs. J. Melville Broughton in front of the Coliseum. Exposition chairman for the "giant open house" was John Y. Lomax.

Sponsors of the engineering departments were introduced at the opening ceremonies. They were: Miss Jessie Alexander for Chemical Engineering; Miss Mary Elkins for Civil Engineering; Miss Janet Williams for Ceramic Engineering; Miss Joan Teague for Electrical Engineering; Mrs. Doring C. Dahl, Geological Engineering; Miss Sonia Averette, Industrial Engineering; and Miss Betty Brown, Nuclear Engineering.

Plan To Attend St. Pat's Dance

It's still not too late to attend the annual St. Pat's Dance. Bids may be secured from technical society chairman or from departmental officers. Music will be furnished by the "Southerners" of Wake Forest. During intermission Engineering Dean Harold Lampe will present the outstanding senior award, and other outstanding engineering seniors knighted in to the order of Saint Patrick and also top freshmen will be made companions of Saint Patrick. The dance will be held in the Coliseum Saturday night from 8 until 12 and faculty and engineering students are invited to attend. It will be semiformal.

Saturday

Big Day Coming For Ag Students

The "Second Annual Ag School Day" sponsored by the Ag Club is rapidly approaching. It will be held at the State Fair Arena on the Fair Grounds on Saturday, April 28th. All students are cordially invited to attend. All Ag students who attend may be excused from their classes provided they sign the roster at the Fair Grounds. Officers of "Ag School Day" are Wiley Ritter, "Ag School Day" Chairman; Justus Ammons, Program Chairman; Ed Brown, Booth Chairman; E. B. Deese, Awards Chairman; Bland Franklin, Livestock Chairman; and John Gray, Publicity Chairman.

The program will start at 9 a.m. with a short address by Dr. D. W. Colvard, Dean of the School of Agriculture. Some highlights of the day are the sheep shearing demonstration, swine show, milk maid contest, dairy cattle show and beef cattle show. All Ag students are eligible to enter the hog calling contest, tractor driving contest, and a contest consisting of guessing a beef animal's weight and a dairy cow's production. Music will be supplied during the day by the Ridge Runners.

Shuttle bus service will be available for all those wishing to attend. A bus will leave for the Fair Grounds at 10 minutes past the hour to begin at 8:10 a.m. and leave for the campus at 15 minutes to the hour. This will enable the students to attend "Ag School Day" and their classes also.

The annual Ag Picnic will be held on Saturday evening at 6:30 p.m. It will be held at the College Dairy Farm in the loft of the milking barn. This event is free to all Ag students. If you are planning to attend, however, you must obtain a free ticket from an "Ag School Day" chairman. So attend and bring your date.

Other candidates for both national and state offices are expected to attend the rally. Gov. Hodges, Senator Ervin, and several other gubernatorial candidates have been invited.

The State YDC and Wake County YDC are cooperating with the State College YDC in sponsoring the event.

Candidates will be given the opportunity to make 5 minute speeches in their behalf.

The bar-b-que will begin at 7 p.m. and speaking will get underway at 8 p.m. Plates are $1.00 and advance reservations are unnecessary.

Buddy Week Ends Social Calendar For Owen; 300 Students Participate

The climax of the social year for Owen Dorm was held last week with the inauguration of Buddy Week. Approximately 300 residents participated in the festivities.

The first and second floors started things off by defeating the third floor and the basement Friday afternoon in softball. Friday night the first floor continued its winning ways by defeating the second floor in volleyball. Friday night's activities were closed out by the third floor as they took a close match from the basement, two games to one.

Four Join Keramos

Four engineering students at North Carolina State College have been initiated as new members of Keramos, national ceramic engineering fraternity, chapter officials announced recently.

The four are John Frank Faye of Salisbury, a senior; You Song Kim of Seoul, Korea, a senior; Edward William Friddle of Raleigh, a junior; and Paul N. Davis of Sanford, a sophomore.

Membership in Keramos, an honor fraternity for ceramic engineers, is considered a high honor. Members are chosen on the basis of character, leadership, and scholarship.

Saturday's events got off to a roaring start as the second floor scored 12 runs in the second inning and defeated the first floor 14-3 behind the one hit pitching of Bruce Smothers. In the volleyball finals the first floor defeated the third to take the title.

Horseshoe competition was next with the second and first floors taking wins over the third and the basement to enter the finals where the second floor won the title.

Team standing in all events by points follows:

Second floor	110
First floor	100
Third floor	50
Basement	40

Following are the all-dorm teams picked by the team captains: Softball: Fine, Cavin, Lewis, Rhodes, J. L. Lowe, Beasley, Joseph, Richmond, Paul, and Smothers.

Volleyball: McIntyre, Jenkins, Long, Joseph, Fudgen, Barber.

Horseshoes: Cavin, Maness, Joseph, Moss, Long.

Men placed on the all-dorm teams will receive bronze cups.

Selected as most valuable in each event were Smothers, softball; Jenkins, volleyball; and Maness, horseshoes. Each was presented a carton of cigarettes.

A Fast One

It appears that Herff-Jones has pulled what many people would call a "fast one".

We are referring to the fifty cent charge on this year's class rings for "Indiv. Ship. Chg." — an obviously thumped up charge.

The right of Herff-Jones to make such a charge could not be questioned had it been in the original bill but it wasn't. No mention was made of it until the rings arrived.

Alone, fifty cents is not much—but multiply it by 600 students and the result is a rather tidy sum.

On the suggestion of The Technician the Juniors asked a small commission or rebate on the rings for the book-keeping, etc., that the juniors must do when the rings are ordered. Herff-Jones agreed, with a little pressure, to make the rebate to the Junior Class treasury. Now it seems that they have fainagued 3/4 of the seventy-five cents back.

Certainly a fifty cent charge of this type after the rings have been purchased is ridiculous.

Herff-Jones should have a little slap on the wrist for pulling a stunt that insults the intelligence of State College students and administration.

Unless a very satisfactory explanation can be made by Herff-Jones of this misrepresentation, they shouldn't be allowed to even bid on the ring contract at State College for a couple of years.

WHAT OTHERS ARE SAYING:

Gracious Living—No. 1

Gracious Living on the Carolina campus has been suffering from a mighty thorn in its side for a few years now.

The thorn consists of the matches which are given to students when they buy cigarettes at various places around the campus, such as Lenoir Hall and Y-Court. The matches are of two types—one has a Minute Man and a large V (for victory) on the book. The other has the seal of the United States in blue imprinted on its back.

Trying to light one's cigarette with one of these matches is strictly a game of chance. Often the match gives out before any hint of flame appears. Other times one happens upon a match which not only flares up on the first strike, but also lights up all the other matches and the striker's hand.

Now, some people will say the matches are given as a gift to the smoker, and he shouldn't complain. But matches of good quality are given away in other places.

The origin of the matches couldn't be so recent as the Korean War. They must have been produced at least as far back as World War II, and there are those who doubt their origin is any more recent than the First World War.

How can a Carolina Gentleman possibly impress his date with his sophistication, or a Caroline Coed appear poised and cool when they must use these matches?

"Smiley" Burnette Giving His Order of the Day

Letters To The Editor:

Letters to the Editor must be signed. If it is requested that the name be withheld for a good reason, the letter will be printed and the name withheld. Letters WILL NOT be printed unless they are signed.

To the Editor:

Dear Diogenes Dullard:

Having shed a few tears in deference to your plight we suggest the following to overcome your deficiencies:

(1) Why not — now brace yourself for this is a revolutionary proposal — employ some "Yankee" ingenuity and check out a book or two from the library dealing with contemporary problems? Fortified with strong draughts of knowledge, self-gained, you could then confront those "clever" communists, or even a teacher.

(2) Then, in the midst of a heated dormitory or frat, bull session on ergs, valences or torque (heated or curried), casually drop the suggestion that sex is undemocratic and marxian.

Immediately ask for a definition of terms before you are attacked; and come prepared with a baseball bat. Gently introduce such "subversive" topics as communism, Christianity, democracy, etc., into subsequent discussions. Who knows, soon you may start a new cult—almost as attractive as panty-raiding.

(3) Far be it for us to peddle our own wares, and the slogan is always caveat emptor, but occasionally organized classes here at State do discuss communism, democracy, etc. Ah, Diogenes, thy lantern is dark. Light it and seek for only then wilt thou find thyself.

Some of your non-brilliant but concerned profs. (Names withheld on request—Ed.)

Diogenes Dullard Less Play & More Mate . . .

DO YOU KNOW that I. D. Dullard was up at the C-U. coupla weeks back at that there meetin about sex mags on the newsstands and all that sort of stuff—you remember that one? Well, I didn't say nothin—not a thing, cause I didn't really know what to say and since everybody else was talkin a blue streak anyhow I didn't have to commit myself so nobody knows what I think (not even me).

Snuffy Smith (in the funny papers, you know?) was down at the depot one time lookin at a billboard picture of "Tiger Lil" and made the comment that he wisht his ole heifer had a figger like thet. Now my problem in lookin for a woman is to know whether I orta look fer a gal with a figger like Tiger Lil and just hope she'll do me right an love me or whether I orta look for some gal what really loves ole Diogenes and hope she has a figger like Tiger Lil. You see, ole Snuffy's woman Loweezy got a figger like our mule Maude back home, but I reckon they ain't many women would put up with a bird like Snuffy and be as good to him as that ole heifer. You reckon?

Take my cousin Prudence Dul-

that now that the election is settled, even those who voted against the winner will endeavor to help the re-elected president to do the best job possible for our college. I have that much faith in the Student Body.

Another letter appeared in The Technician last week. It dealt with a subject of much greater scope than the election of the President of the Student Government—Professionalism in Athletics. In this letter there were a number of very good questions asked; each deserves a lot of thought. I add one more question. Why does this college (and other colleges) persist in calling this type of athletics amateur?

In the Atlantic about two years ago there was a solution proposed. Instead of lowering academic standards so that the athletes can pass the school work, why even require them to pass? Since the colleges "hire" these athletes for the purpose of winning games, why make them study, too? Yes, this is one plan.

lard (Prudy we call her), she's got a figger that'd make any man turn his toes up to the diases, but she's the most fickle woman I ever saw. Why she's already latched on to three handsome no count fellers over in Gaston County and married two of em, but the trouble with Prudy is that she ain't got no notion of really lovin' anybody—she's all play and when the fun's over she drops em like a hot potato. I been figgerin around and I reckon that must be the trouble with a lot of these gals like that Monroe babe. You notice they can't keep a man more'n a month or so. Now why do you reckon they get married at all!—I mean all that trouble for so little marriage (they wuz probably actin at bein married before they wuz anyhow, don't you reckon?). I figger their idea is all play and no work.

All-Mozart Concert Presented Sunday

The State College Symphony Orchestra, composed of students, faculty members and outstanding Raleigh musicians under the direction of Christian Kutschinski, presented an all-Mozart concert program in Pullen Hall last Sunday, commemorating the 200th anniversary of the great composer's birth.

The program opened with an excellent performance of the gay overture to the opera "Don Giovanni". Hobart Whitman, a freshman in Electrical Engineering, played the third concerto for French horn with professional technical skill and musicianship while the orchestra furnished a well-coordinated and sympathetic accompaniment. The Symphony in G Minor (number 40) rounded out the hour of enjoyable live music.

The concert was sponsored by Mu Beta Psi, honorary music fraternity.

Daily Technician
Campus Activities Broadcast
By Students Over WRAL
By Terry Lathrop

Since the early part of December of this school year, a small group of students from State has carried out a new project which is extending the doings of State College to the entire Raleigh community and Wake County area.

Born in the mind of WRAL Program Director George Hall, the Daily Technician has become an integral part of the daily radio fare offered in this area.

To back up a little into history of the project, George Hall heard the highly successful Daily Virginian while a student at the University of Virginia several years ago. The idea lay dormant in Hall's mind until this year when he contacted State College students. He turned first to Sam Harrell, Station Manager of WVWP, the college student station. Harrell matched Hall's enthusiasm and began work on the project early in the Fall.

By late November things had begun to jell. With the aid of Rudolph Pate, head of the College News Bureau, and L. C. Draughon, Editor of The Technician, broadcasts were begun.

Originally Draughon carried all the broadcasts, but it soon became apparent that it was far more than a one man job. Harrell came into the picture and the broadcasts were divided up between him, several other students and even Pate. Since that time others have taken part. Student Government officers Jim Nolan, Bob Gunn and Ed Yancey, Jerry Rasor of the WVWP staff and Max Pruzan are doing the broadcasts now and Carl Rawicz also worked for several weeks.

The purpose of the program, which now originates on the State campus, is to inform the community of happenings at State and the doings of the students. It also supplements The Technician and WVWP in providing campus communication.

Listen to WRAL tonight at 6:30 and catch a broadcast. State has added a feature this year which is rather rare among the country's colleges.

What young people are doing at General Electric

Young chemical engineer works on new ways to make silicones

Silicones are a new class of man-made chemicals with very unusual properties. Made from sand, they assume the form of rubber, grease, oil and resin. Under extremes of heat and cold, the rubber stays rubbery, the oil oily. Silicones added to fabrics make them exceptionally water-repellent. Silicone makes waxes spread easier . . . paints almost impervious to weather.

One of the men responsible for finding new ways to produce silicone products is 26-year-old Frank V. Summers.

Summers' Work Interesting, Important

As process engineer of the Silicone Products Department, Frank Summers first compares the results of small-scale, pilot-plant experiments with the production methods in actual use. Then, using his own knowledge of chemical-engineering principles, he designs faster, more efficient and more economical methods of producing silicone products. Frank Summers' excellent training, diversified experience and outstanding personal qualifications make him a valuable contributor to this engineering team.

25,000 College Graduates at General Electric

When Frank Summers came to General Electric in 1949, he already knew the kind of work he wanted to do. Like each of our 25,000 college-graduate employees, he was given his chance to grow and realize his full potential. For General Electric has long believed this: Whenever fresh young minds are given the freedom to make progress, everybody benefits—the individual, the company, and the country.

Educational Relations, General Electric Company, Schenectady 5, New York

FRANK V. SUMMERS joined G.E. in 1949 after receiving a B.S. in Chemical Engineering at Iowa State University the same year. He also graduated from G.E.'s Process Technology program and other specialized courses.

Big Four Day Set, May 2nd At UNC

THE TECHNICIAN
April 26, 1956

The annual Big Four intramural sports day has been set for Wednesday, May 2nd at Chapel Hill. The all-day affair is an annual gathering of intramural teams from the big four schools, State, Duke, Carolina, and Wake Forest.

Last year the Wolfpack teams missed bringing home the first place trophy by one point as Carolina edged them out 26-25. Wake Forest was third with 20 and Duke following with 16.

Art Hoch, intramural director, has announced try-outs for this year's teams for Monday, April 30th.

The Schedule:
Handball—2:00 p.m.—gym
Table Tennis—3:00 p.m.—gym
Tennis—6:00 p.m.—courts
Volleyball—6:00—Doak Field
Baseball—6:00—Doak Field
Badminton—7:00—gym
Golf—Sign up by 4:00 p.m. Friday in intramural office.

Any student is welcome and urged to come out and take part in the try-outs. We think this may be the year for State to cop first place, and it can be done if the material on hand will come out and participate. Students on teams will be excused from class on Wednesday to make the trip to Carolina. Remember the try-out date is Monday April 30th!!! Be There...

DORM CORNER

Alexander No. 1 Defeats Tucker No. 2

Hennings, Morocco, Singer and Cullipher were the heavy hitters for the Alexander No. 1 team. Morocco hit a homer in the third which was followed by a series of hits and walks so the game was called with a 11 to 5 score in favor of Alexander. Hammond and Fitzpatrick had three and two hits apiece but were not as heavily supported as their opponents.

Tucker No. 1 Wins in the Fourth
Boston's Tucker No. 1 team rallied in the fourth inning to win after a 5 to 4 score in Bagwell No. 2's favor at the end of the third. Armit's homer with bases loaded had put Bagwell ahead. Then in the fourth DeAngelis and Weaver had an error and then a hit followed by the same from Emmert and Zubaty, finally to end it all DeAngelis hit a homer. The final score was 9 to 5.

Bagwell No. 1 Defeats Becton No. 2

In the second and third innings the Bagwell No. 1 team walked away with the game. With Capps and White getting homers while the rest were scored off, walks and singles.

Sheedy's honey kept giving him the cold shoulder. "This is more than I can bear! Why not be a-ice?" he moaned. "What fur?" she demanded. "It'll be a frosty Friday before I date you again. And just in glacier wondering why, take a look at your shaggy hair." This made Sheedy paws and think. So he got Wildroot Cream-Oil and now he's the picture of confidence. DRAMA CLUB PRESENTS

"My Three Angels" In Pullen, May 4

The New York, Paris, and Hollywood comedy success, "My Three Angels," will be given at 8:00 p. m. in Pullen Hall on Friday May 4. Karl Rawicz and Bob Thorburn will be seen in the roles of Joseph and Jules which were portrayed on Broadway by Walter Slezak and Jerome Cowan, and in the movie version by Humphrey Bogart and Peter Ustinov. Howard Simon will lend his talents to the part of the third angel of the title, which was played on Broadway by Darren McGavin, and in Hollywood by Aldo Ray.

The play by Sam and Bella Spewack, authors of such previous hits as "Boy Meets Girl," "Kiss Me Kate," and "Two Blind Mice," is built around three happy crooks who steal with innocent relish, embezzle with infinite care, and murder with a sober and methodical gentility. They are all prisoners in a French Guiana penal colony and have been loaned to do repair work for a local family. The whole purpose of the fastidious murders in which the trio engage is to see that the downhearted family has a happy Christmas.

The good people who run a general store are beset by failing receipts, a hard-hearted creditor and an arrogant young opportunist who is about to ditch their badly-smitten daughter. Given a trio of amiable Santa Clauses who have no scruples, great know-how and absolutely nothing to lose, there is no threat to the family happiness which cannot be gently, but firmly removed.

That this cheerful reversal of normal values—happy homicide beneath the Christmas tree—is great theatrical fun is proven by the fact that it was a Paris hit for over two years, and the Broadway version was top box office for a year and then enjoyed a successful tour run. Recently the Hollywood film under the title "We're No Angels," was quite popular with the movie-going public.

The play takes place in 1910. The setting is the living room back of the general store run by inefficient, trusting M. Duocot, played by Sam Hummel. Marty Preston and Dot Morton play his wife and daughter. Carol Cofer is a customer who has taken advantage of M. Duocot's timidity in not paying her bill. Henri Trochard, the Scrooge of the piece, is played by Jerry Lellouche. The role of his caddish nephew is taken by Bob Strother, and Murray Pen-

Landscape Design Lecture Tonight

Garrett Eckbo, nationally-known landscape architect and member of the Los Angeles, Calif., firm of Eckbo, Royston, and Williams, will speak in the auditorium of the Riddick Engineering Laboratories Building at North Carolina State College tonight at 8 p.m.

"Landscape Design Today" will be the topic of Eckbo's lecture.

Others in the cast of this frolic, which was directed by George Thomason, include a snake named Adolphe, and a chicken destined to be served as Christmas dinner.

The cast, members of the State Drama Club, will be presenting the first full-length play on the campus since 1935. The group is sponsored by the College Union Theater Committee.

A coffee hour, sponsored by the Union Social Committee, will follow the play. There will be no admittance charge, and everyone is invited to meet the three criminals who earn halos to wear with their stripes.

Stewart Uncovers Hidden Ability

Harry Stewart, director of the Wolfpack Club at State College, will take a leading role in the Raleigh Little Theatre's new comedy, "The Fifth Season", April 27-May 4.

The play by Sylvia Regan centers around the wholesale dress firm of Goodwin-Pincus and as a comedy, promises plenty of hilarious good fun and comely models.

Stewart will take the role of Pinkie, the production genius of the garment firm. Although he has previously appeared in minstrel and benefit shows here in Raleigh, this will be his first appearance with the Little Theatre.

LUCKIES TASTE BETTER—Cleaner, Fresher, Smoother

What's Happened to Outstanding ROTC Students of Past Years?

Twenty-five years ago the performance of certain students in their Army ROTC duties was such as to merit commendation. In fact, it merited more than that. Their names and what they were commended for were memorialized in bronze. Today that plaque with those names and duties serve as a constant reminder to a new generation of Army ROTC cadets.

Each day numbers of cadets pause while hurrying down the corridors of the Military Department in Reynolds Coliseum to read of the achievements of those who preceded them. A question often in mind is "what happened to them after graduation?"

A search was made of "Pop" Taylor's alumni files. Not all those whose names are emblazoned on that plaque are in the records. But—W. T. Clement who was a cadet lieutenant colonel and the Executive Officer of the Cadet Regiment attained the rank of colonel in the Army Air Force during World War II while serving with the Far East

Command and the 9th Bomber Command in England. R. F. Montany, who as a cadet first lieutenant, commanding the platoon judged the best in the regiment, joined the Natahala Power and Light Company after graduation and was with them until his death in 1941. During that time, he received the highest recommendations from everyone with the Company. L. B. Woodbury whose name is engraved on the bronze plate as "Best Drummer" attained the rank of colonel in the Army and was awarded the Bronze Star and the Asiatic-Pacific Kibbon with four battle stars for service in the China-Burma Campaigns. The "Best Freshman" in 1931 was H. M. Foy, Jr. During World War II he became a lieutenant colonel while serving in Belgium and was awarded the Silver Star, the Bronze Star and the Luxembourg Croix de Guerre for valor. R. H. Gatlin who, as a cadet major, commanded the 3rd Battalion of the ROTC Regiment was selected in 1952 by the Kiwanis Club as Hoke County's "Man of the Year."

Sammy Kaye as a Sportsman

The public usually doesn't associate a band with athletics, but Sammy Kaye of "Swing and Sway" fame is as closely bound to the diamond and divot as he is to providing the music for tripping the light fantastic.

At Ohio State, which he attended on a scholarship, Sammy got his letter in baseball, basketball and football—besides excelling in track—at which he was practically unbeatable.

Today, Sammy's foremost interest is golf. No matter where he is, or whatever the weather, there's always a set of golf clubs included in his luggage. Before and after band rehearsals and engagements, Sammy is teeing away, making music with his No. 2 club. He plays in the low 70's and is noted as being one of the best golfers in the music profession. He hit his first hole-in-one in New Orleans, on a 245 yard, par 3 hole.

Sammy is also enthusiastic about horses and is a stockholder in the Atlantic City Racing Association. In 1947 he tried to buy Mrs. Payne Whitney's horse, "Swing and Sway." She wouldn't sell, so Sammy did the next best thing by buying a yearling by Swing and Sway out of Purple Dawn. The horse, whose name, appropriately enough, is "Lead A Band", is now trying to lead the pack.

Kaye has established trophy cups for sports ranging from hockey to golf. "If I can't play," says Sammy, "I'm happy to watch."

All sports enthusiasts watching Sammy Kaye and his great orchestra playing at Raleigh Memorial Auditorium on Monday, May 7 at 8 p.m. can't help but agree Sammy hits 1,000 whether swinging a bat or a baton.

IDGAD

By Bob Kirkland

Have you heard about the attempted grand larceny of the coliseum? It seems that three State students, representatives of the campus radio station, were accosted by a certain unnamed individual as they were leaving the coliseum on the night of the 17th. As you know, that was the night that WVWP carried a broadcast of the campus election returns direct from the place where the votes were being counted. That place, needless to say, was the William Neal Reynolds Coliseum. The three WVWP men had just come down from the booth high in the building which houses the telephone lines for radio broadcast. As they left the building, they were followed by a man who had appeared from somewhere within. This "gentleman" pursued them to their awaiting car, as they were loading their remote equipment, sternly snapped, "You boys know you didn't have any business up there." One of the three proceeded to inform the snapping gent that they were doing a remote broadcast of the returns for the "Voice of the Wolfpack." This information did not in the least deter their rude acquaintance who insisted that the booth was only for the use of the men running spotlights and that they (the three) had no right to be there. This unnamed and unmannerly individual even went so far as to write down the license number of the car. We don't know what this coliseum Fossilick hoped to "pin on" our friends from WVWP. We don't even know who he was (although we could find out). However, there is one thing that we feel certain responsible parties should hear. That is: WVWP Radio pays for that telephone line in the forbidden booth. They pay for it in order that they might broadcast events of interest occurring in the coliseum to the college students. We are of the opinion that the coliseum personnel should be informed of this by their superiors so that unnecessary and embarrassing incidents such as this will not occur in the future.

The winner's picture: the comely contortionist is Mamie Van Doren. Although one wouldn't guess, she is married and has one kid. (Modern science, no doubt.)

The winner! The following is what we thought was the best poetical contribution of the week.

I'll always complain
Of winter rain,
After having been in the army.

But the spirit mends
With the first warm
winds,
And several nights that are balmy.

The same size sweaters
Make girls look better,
Although they haven't changed a pound.

But blossoming trees
Seem odd in a freeze;
I wonder if the world's really round?

This stroke of literary genius was written by J. D. Hobart, a graduate student in Industrial Psychology. We enjoyed it very much, and we hope to hear from Mr. Hobart again. Don't let the grad students outdo you, boys. Write yourself a tangy little "ek" and send it to IDGAD. We want loads of 'em! 'Til next week, take it easy. B. K.

Horses, Chickens, and Cows Featured In Union Gallery

The Gallery Committee of the College Union is sponsoring an exhibit entitled "Horses, Chickens, and Cows" in the Gallery area of the Union from April 11 until May 1. The exhibition is made up of drawings, prints, and water colors, ranging from professional to student work.

The basic aim of the display is to communicate to the varied groups within the college community. By drawing upon the wide range of professional to student work, and yet by restricting the participants to the theme of "Horses, Chickens, and Cows," the display aims at eliminating the barriers that sometimes arise from too great a scope of subject matter in contemporary art.

Most of the items may be purchased; a price list will be posted in the Gallery area and at the main desk. Dave Phelps, of Newport News, Virginia, chairman of the Gallery Com., invites everyone to see the display during the month of April.

Two veterans of the Korean flail were strolling along a downtown street in Durham when a well-traveled pro leaned out of her office window.

"Hey, yoong meen," she called, "Come on up 'ere and get something you've nevair 'ad before."

One vet looked at the other and said, "What do you suppose she has, leprosy?"

The way taxes are today, you might as well marry for love. A glow-worm with tendencies coarse, Used to tell lewd jokes until hoarse, But he kept up his vice. By the clever device Of learning to blink them in Morse.

Lost and Found Auction and Pie Sale On Friday

Thursday night at 6:30 p.m. all unclaimed lost and found articles will be sold at auction on the College Union Terrace.

The charming auctioneers, none other than Roy Guso and Key Barkley, will sell the items to the highest bidder. An added attraction will be a pie sale. Seems that last year someone paid $5 to throw a pie in someone else's face.

Many valuable items are on the unclaimed list. Here are just a few: Denim, suede, and twill jackets, overcoats, girls' and men's sweaters, raincoats, caps, hats, shoes, gloves, slide rules, cafeteria tickets, textbooks, and miscellaneous items.

In future sales the items have been sold at very low prices. If you are looking for a bargain, this auction is the time to find one. Slide rules have sold for as little as $6.00, jackets and coats at ridiculously low prices. The sale is sponsored by the College Union Activities Committee, headed by Jim May.

"Fifth Season" Presented By R. L. T.

"The Fifth Season" will be given by the Raleigh Little Theatre, Friday, April 27, through Friday, May 4, as its final show of the season, Director Dick Snavelly said recently.

The comedy, written by Sylvia Regan, is a hilarious series of ups and downs in the lives of a Chaplinesque little man and his super-salesman partner in the garment industry.

Harry Stewart, of the Wolfpack Club at State College, and Bill Burton will be seen in the leading roles.

ule will be arranged at one of the prescribed "arranged" periods.

8. Final examinations must be given on all courses. Any exceptions must be approved by the Dean or Director of Instruction.

9. Prepared according to policies approved by Faculty Senate, Officers of Student Gov't, College Schedule Committee and College Admissions and Standards Committee.
