Camp Administration will deal with the development of organized camping as well as program planning and leadership training.

The Aquatics course will be highlighted at the reservoir with waterfront safety, sailing, motor boating, water skiing, fishing, and canoeing.

Expenses will be the same as other summer session courses as set up by the college. The only additional expense will be the actual cost of food while at the reservoir.

A limited enrollment will be accepted.

Cooley Discusses Congress' Problems

By David Barnhardt

Last Tuesday, May 14, Hon. Harold Cooley spoke at the College Union. The Congressman, who is currently running against W. E. Debnam in the race for Congress from this district, was sponsored by the Political Science Department and the Political Parties and Pressure Groups class.

Problems of Job

Mr. Cooley's topic was: The Problems of a Congressman. Speaking of the Congress as the "Parliament of the World" he pointed to the many jobs and the amount of work required by a Congressman in a dangerous, changing, and growing World. The Committee on Agriculture, of which he is currently chairman, has held over 300 hearings this session; as chairman of this committee Cooley has had hundreds of bills laid on his desk; and the committee has appointed 19 sub-committees. This, he stated, "shows the magnitude of the job of being head of a great committee." "And then," he continued, "a Congressman must attend to his correspondence—which may be a letter from someone asking 'What should I feed my billy-goats?'"

Problem of Plenty

The Congressman said that our greatest problem today is the problem of plenty. "Yet, even with our full warehouses," he said, "600 million people on our side of the Iron Curtain will go to bed hungry tonight." "We must find a pattern . . . to empty the warehouses of plenty."

Farm Subsidies

Speaking of the support of farm prices Mr. Cooley pointed to the subsidies to business and to the nation's defense stockpile worth $125 billion. "Yet," he stated, "when the farmer does what he is asked to do, (raise more crops for Korean War) he is held up to ridicule." Cooley went on to say that this session of Congress has moved the minimum wage for industrial workers up yet wants to lower the parity on farm products.

'Stand On My Record'

Hitting subtly at his opposition—Debnam—Cooley said that "a man running for public office should tell the public what he stands for. I stand on my record in Congress." He said that a man should be loyal to his party and that one who is not devoted to public service and who has not proved that he is, should not run for office.

'Manifesto'

Brushing quickly on the controversial issue of segregation and the much talked about Southern "Manifesto," the Congressman said he heard a man say the other day that he wasn't going to vote for Cooley because 'Cooley didn't sign some kind of paper.'

After the Congressman had finished speaking, he was asked a number of questions by those attending.

Answering a question on the recent farm bill, Mr. Cooley said that he "didn't think the President was very well advised on the bill when he vetoed it." He continued by saying "I object to the President even letting us (The Agriculture Committee) know how he feels before a bill is sent to him. He has the veto power if he doesn't like the bill."

In answer to another question he said that he was in favor of 90% of parity only on crops under marketing quotas and acreage allotment—not on unlimited production.

Asked if he foresaw the trouble over the recent "Manifesto," he quickly replied, "I didn't foresee my opposition!" He said he didn't think anyone "would be bold enough to make an issue of a 'press release.'" Though he doesn't agree with the Supreme Court ruling on segregation, he "will not castigate the integrity of the justices of this Court."

In answer to the question of whether he someday hopes to be Secretary of Agriculture, he answered, "No!" He went on to say that he thought that his present job as chairman of the Committee on Agriculture "is even more important than that of Secretary of Agriculture because we are the ones who pass the laws."

Concerning the controversial Roy Wilkins' letter, Cooley said that he didn't even know, at the time he mentioned it, that the letter even existed—but he thought it did. He said that he just used a little "courthouse technique." Since Debnam had been "wined and dined" by the NAACP leader he figured that he had written such a "bread and butter letter" to him.

Sympathy

The Editor and staff of THE TECHNICIAN, on behalf of the State College student body, wish to extend their deepest sympathy to the families of James Owen McLean and Gordon Julian Edwards.

Bill to Regulate Student Fees Brings Action From S. G.

The Student Legislature assumed a new face last Thursday night as retiring Vice-President Bob Gunn swore in the newly elected representatives. Following the brief ceremony, the new members took their seats beside the old as the meeting was carried on jointly.

The main item of business arose from the Committee report on the bill to provide a method for regulation of the apportionment of student fees by the student legislature. President Jim Nolan asked Sam Harrell, former station manager of WVWP, to make the report and pointed out to the legislature that he had appointed a special committee of members of the staffs of the organizations affected by the fees to make recommendations concerning its form.

Following Harrell's report from the Committee, which presented a bill similar to Nolan's earlier proposal, put before the Student Legislature several weeks ago, a good bit of comment came from the floor, from both members of the legislature and from publications and College Union representatives present. L. C. Draughon, retiring Editor of the Technician, proposed an amendment which put a check on the student legislature's power to control the budgets of the publications. He suggested that any change in appropriation of the fees to the publications be required to be approved by the Publications Board, as is the case at present. The amendment passed. A second amendment presented by a member of the College-Union staff providing that the Union be completely exempt from the control of the legislature failed to pass. It was agreed that the committee would meet again to set up the mechanics of the operations provided by the bill.

EDITORIAL COMMENT:

For Next Year

This has been a good year. The State students will be able to remember much which has been educational, interesting and enjoyable. The Technician and its staff have tried to do the very best job possible of bringing the news of State and its community to the students and staff of the college.

Without further reminiscences, we'd like to look into what the policies of the Technician will be for the coming year.

One of the first aims of the new Editor and his staff will be to bring a better news coverage of the campus and the affairs of the community which are directly interesting to the students. It has never been the intention of the Technician to try to cover national news in its pages, for we believe that the local dailies are the place for the student to turn for this type of news. Nor is our editorial comment directed toward national events. Our editorial page has been, and will continue to be, an airing place for our comments on State College affairs and most particularly a place for the comments of our fellow students if they wish at any time to avail themselves of its space.

We hope that with the cooperation of various departments and organizations on campus the Technician can become a greater extent than before, a bulletin of current events and a source of information to the average student about what is going on around him.

We hope to be able to establish a system of reporters in each of the schools on the campus to report meetings, events, or happenings of note within his department. With a larger staff, we will try to establish a series of "beats" around the campus guaranteeing coverage of meetings such as those of the student government, IDC, IFC or Traffic Committee.

The Technician has a small core of men to carry on next year. We have talked with some few men whom we knew were interested in working on the paper, but we are in dire need of more people. We need people who can cover a meeting, interview a personality or write a story factually with a good degree of accuracy. There is no need for flowery "turners of phrases." We can teach a man to write, but we can only help him to think.

We sincerely hope that we can carry on the fine work that has been done in years past. We will continue to present the news as it happens and comment as we feel it best in the interest of the students of State. We hope that you will read and take part in the paper.—T. L.

Letters To The Editor: No Parking Around the C. U.

To the Editor:

The students of N. C. State College are required to support the College Union. How much real good do they get from their support? The sad facts of the case are that outside groups seem to be using our C. U. more than the students. This would be acceptable to everyone, I am sure, if it were not for the fact that we, the students, are continuously penalized for this use by outside groups. By this I mean specifically the parking situation. A very good percentage of visitors to the C. U. drive there and expect to be able to park when they arrive. But look, our C. U. parking lot is filled with cars without a student sticker. Where then do the students park? We search the area for a place to park. Not one single stall is empty. Then the truth begins to dawn upon us—either the planners of the C. U. did not foresee this situation, or the students are getting pushed around when the C. U. parking lot should be for students and C. U. members only.

So we decide to park within the C. U. parking lot area but not in a regular stall. What happens? You guessed it the first time, when we return to our car, there in all its glaring glory a yellow tag, costing, not one dollar like a normal penalty, but two dollars. You, the students, well know that there are not many who can, or want to, pay two dollars when they feel that their hospitality has been impinged upon in the first place, and in the second they believe they have done no real wrong. As to what can be done about this situation, I do not know. I do know that it will take a concerted effort on the part of the student body to force somebody to make the necessary changes. This situation has either been overlooked or ignored too long. I, personally, would rather see this whole campus covered with new parking lots, especially one in the area back of the C. U., than pay a penalty that I feel is wrong!

Graduation Parade

On the track field of State College Campus today a ceremony for which the Senior Army and Air Force ROTC cadets have waited four years occurred—the Graduation Parade. Here for the last time the graduating seniors will see their comrades honoring them by marching past in review. With them will go many pleasant memories of long hard work, now past, which earned for them the honors they have now achieved. This parade, the last of the school year, will include the combined Army ROTC Regiment and the Air Force Wing. A traditional feature of this parade will be the ceremony in which those graduating turn over command of the cadet units to those juniors who will then lead them in the review. The public is cordially invited to attend the ceremony.

At first, I ate at the college cafeteria. I realized in the nick of time, That the food there wasn't sublime.

But now I enjoy pushing the food down. You see, I'm eating down town!

Here is a beaut! Notice the boldfaced first letters of lines. "Smile, my boy! It isn't so bad."

"How can you say that?" quizzed the lad.

"Oh, it's easy," he replied. "Why," stammered the boy, then he sighed.

"Ah, when you're my age, you'll get used—"

"Look, now," began the frosh, confused.

"Take it this summer," said The Wise, Even now, tears filled the boy's eyes.

Glee Club Completes Successful Year

The State College Men's Glee Club, under the capable direction of Major Christian Kutschinski, is winding up this year's activities with a joint picnic with the Saint Mary's Girl's Glee Club. A committee has been appointed to make the necessary arrangements but as yet no definite plans have been announced.

The State Glee Club has accomplished much this year in its attempt to give State students the opportunity for vocal music participation and self expression. The boys sung at several campus affairs and also at various civic functions. The members of the club have greatly enjoyed this year's work and everybody hopes for many new members next year.

Undoubtedly, the greatest achievement made by the club this year was the presentation of two joint concerts with the Glee Club from Saint Mary's which is under the direction of Miss Kates. The concerts were presented on May 9, at St. Mary's, and on May 11, at Pullen Hall. The programs consisted of several groups of numbers by the combined Glee Clubs and of a single group of numbers by each individual club. Both concerts were very successful as the audiences seemed to enjoy the music tremendously.

Softball

Four regular season softball contests were staged last week with the winners advancing into the all-important play-offs.

- League 1 *SAM—12, SPE—11
- League 2 *Sig Chi—14, PEP—4
- League 3 *PKT—5, SAE—4
- League 4 *PKA—3, Kappa Sig—2

*Denotes league champion
The 1956 softball play-offs began Tuesday afternoon with the four league champions squaring off. Defending champions SAM knocked off undefeated Sigma Chi 7-3 in an upset, while the PKT's did the same trick against PKA 7-6. Thus the SAM's and PKT's meet today in the winner bracket while Sigma Chi and PKA square off in the loser's bracket. Sigma Chi could all but clinch the over-all championship with a win, however a loss would eliminate them and leave the door open for the PKA's to overtake the Chi's and cop the coveted No. 1 trophy.

Tennis

The tennis play-offs got under way with Sigma Chi defeating

North Carolina State hopes its "Virginia Jinx" is still in force when the Wolfpack squares off against the Cavaliers this afternoon at 3:30 on the State College diamond.

Today's game is a do-or-die affair as far as State's bid for the Atlantic Coast Conference championship is concerned. A win over Virginia will give State an 11-3 record in loop play and enable the Wolfpack to tie Duke.

If Virginia wins, State will be eliminated from the ACC race and the championship will go to the Blue Devils.

In two previous meetings this season, Coach Vic Sorrell's crew has held an Indian sign over the Virginians. At Charlottesville, the Cavaliers were leading 2-1 with two outs in the ninth inning. But an error and a series of base hits enabled the Pack to PKA 2-1 and the SAE's downing the SAM's by the same score.

Badminton

PKA eliminated Sigma Nu with a 2-1 win and then went on to hand Sigma Chi its first loss but dropped a hard-fought battle to Sigma Chi in the finals—thus giving the Sigs the championship. PKA took second, with Sigma Nu and PKT following.

Horseshoes

come from behind with a four-run rally and a 5-2 triumph.

When the teams met on the State field, Virginia raked pitcher Lou Dickman for four runs in the first inning before an out was made. But a sudden rainstorm washed out the advantage in the bottom of the initial frame.

Today's game is a replay of the rained out affair.

Coach Sorrell will not be depending upon the Virginia Jinx, however. He has righthanders Lou Dickman and Joe Jones ready for the contest and he hopes the booming bats of Dud Whitley, Sonny Santoli, Bill Peed and Bob Kennel will be ready for action.

The Cavaliers probably will start their ace, Joe Forsys, who has a 4-2 record. Dickman is 5-1 for the season and Jones is 2-1.

State has a team batting average of .304 with all but three of the regulars hitting over the .300 mark. Whitley leads the parade with 400 and 25 RBIs. He is followed by Kennel at .381, Santoli at .380; Peed at .357 and 22 RBIs, and Russ Casteen at .350.

A State win will force a play-off with Duke for the ACC title. The game probably would be played Saturday afternoon at either Chapel Hill or Wake Forest.

Hear At State

By David Barnhardt

With the recent ruling at Carolina prohibiting freshmen to have automobiles and letting a limited number of sophomores have cars if their academic standing is high, we should become more concerned with the traffic situation here. There is no such ruling here at State limiting the number of automobiles (nor should there be) and undoubtedly a large number of the freshmen next fall will bring a car with them. There are four months left before the beginning of the fall semester and this is time enough to do something about the situation.

New Parking Lot
There has been some talk recently of reserving the lot beside the A & T Store on Hillsboro Street to build a girl's dormitory. Certainly, I would like to see more co-eds here as much as anyone, but we should see that there is no great demand for such a dormitory at this time. There is, however, a pressing need for a large parking lot on that end of the campus (as well as on the other end). If a parking lot were constructed in this place, I feel sure that students would gladly pay $50 or $1.00 per semester to park there. Such a plan would pay for the lot within a few years. The school would not have lost a thing, and several thousand students (over the course of the years) would have benefited from the lot.

Textile Parking Lot

Then there is the problem of the rarely used and never filled parking lot behind the Textile School. . . . With the parking problem as bad as it is, it seems that a parking lot lying almost idle would be very hard to explain by those responsible for the situation. The Student Government should demand an explanation from the Traffic Committee.

YMCA Program

Plans are currently being made by the YMCA Cabinet to initiate a two-pronged plan which should be of great benefit to State College. It is hoped that this idea will "catch on" and be enlarged in future years. The two central points of the program include (1) a plan for freshmen orientation and (2) a plan to bring to this campus well known speakers.

Freshmen Orientation

Briefly, the orientation program calls for the devising of approximately 150 freshmen into ten or fifteen groups. Each of these groups would be led (or advised) by an upperclassman. The main part of the program is that the orientation would be extended not for a week but until Christmas, giving each freshman ample time to learn what goes on here and where his place is in such an institution. This approach to the orientation problem has many possibilities. From the upperclassman who advises and answers the questions of the new student may come the little push necessary to get this boy to become an active member of the student body and help him to take part in those extra-curricular activities for which he may have the ability.

Well-Known Speakers

The second part of the program, which is to bring to this campus well-known speakers, also offers a great deal to the college. Such men and women as Bernard Baruch, Eleanor Roosevelt, Estes Kefauver, George Marshall, Governor Hodges, and a number of others will be asked to speak at State. As Oscar Woodruff, Jr., Coordinator of Religious Affairs, says: "We want to bring men and women here who are doing some real thinking in our time." Such speakers should be mentally stimulating, they should awaken us to what is happening throughout the world; and this type of thinking is urgently needed at State. Too often we get "in a rut" and think only of the immediate, personal problems while we are here. An opportunity to hear what others are thinking about should be welcomed and encouraged.

What's doing at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft

Today's leadership . . . a reflection of policies established in aviation's infancy

Back in The Roaring Twenties, the magic dream pictured American families someday using the light personal airplane as freely as the family car. Among the realists, however, was a handful of men who were unshakable in their conviction that the real future of aviation lay with bigger aircraft, higher speeds, greater ranges—all possible only through engines of higher power and more reliability than those of that era.

In the spring of 1925, six of these men of vision founded a company in Hartford to undertake the development of a new aircraft engine—an air-cooled type. The year's end heralded their first success—Pratt & Whitney Aircraft's "Wasp".

This talented group of men continued to improve their powerplant designs, developing engines of steadily mounting power that operated efficiently and dependably. They contributed much to aviation's progress—so much so that currently three-quarters of the world's commercial airliners and many of our nation's first line military aircraft are P & W A-powered.

Today's P & W A powerplant designs are supported by the very finest research facilities and equipment, and a technical staff that is continually being strengthened. That nucleus of six men has grown into one of the world's leading engineering organizations. Yet to this very day, engineering achievement at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft is guided by its founders' simple policy . . . the best airplanes can be designed only around the best engines.

The Original Wasp, the first P & W A engine—designed, fabricated and assembled in less than seven months. Weighing under 650 pounds and officially rated at 410 horsepower, this lightweight, air-cooled radial engine was a milestone in aviation history and set the pattern for almost three decades of record-breaking advances.

The Double Wasp, an 18-cylinder, two-row piston engine rated at 2400 horsepower for basic use. Its rating increased by water injection to 3400 horsepower, the Double Wasp was instrumental in turning many a military crisis into an aerial victory in the decisive battles of World War II.

The Wasp Major, a 28-cylinder engine with pistons arranged in four rows of seven each and a 3800-horsepower rating. Its power and performance having never been equalled, the Wasp Major represents the apex of the art of building reciprocating engines.

The J-57 Turbojet, first jet engine in history to be officially rated in the 10,000-pound-thrust class. In quantity production since early 1953, the J-57 has continuously undergone progressive development. It gives every indication of having almost unlimited growth possibilities.

The Engines of Tomorrow, advanced jet, turboprop, and nuclear. Already in various stages of development, these aircraft engines of the future will further contribute to the long history of leadership that Pratt & Whitney Aircraft has established in the field of aviation.

Risher Completes Inspection Trip

Colonel James F. Risher, Jr., Professor of Air Science and Commandant of the AFROTC Unit has recently returned to his office on the College Campus after completing a 30 day inspection trip* of nine Air Force ROTC units located in the states of Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

Colonel Risher was the Inspector General of a three man team which included, Lt. Col. W. G. Dolan of Headquarters, AFROTC, Montgomery, Alabama and Major H. G. Gendreizig of Grove City College, Pennsylvania.

Units inspected included Texas Tech, Southwest Texas State Teachers College, Texas A & M, Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, Tulane University, Louisiana State University and the Southwestern Louisiana Institute.

The inspection of each unit covered general training activities, administrative functions, teaching facilities and Cadet responsibility within the Corps.

Each of the schools honored the inspection team with a parade and review.

In commenting on his inspection tour Colonel Risher stated,

"I feel that participation in the annual AFROTC Inspection program as an Acting Inspector General was an invaluable experience for me. We can always learn something from observing how others are carrying out responsibilities and programs similar to ours. I saw some very fine AFROTC units on this inspection trip, units that are doing fine work and are strongly supported by their institutions. But I can say in all sincerity that at the conclusion of this duty I am doubly proud of our AFROTC training at N. C. State College, the fine cooperation that exists between our Air Force and Army units, and the wholehearted support we receive from college officials and all departments of the college."

First of Two Summer School Sessions to Begin on June 4

North Carolina State College will conduct two six-week summer sessions this year, officials announced yesterday.

One session will open June 4 with a freshman orientation and testing program and will continue through July 13. The other session will begin July 16 and end August 23.

Registration for the first session will be held in the William Neal Reynolds Coliseum Tuesday, June 5, beginning at 10 a.m. and ending at 3:30 p.m.

A 23-page brochure describing the courses to be offered and providing other details on the two sessions may be obtained free of charge by writing the Registration Office, North Carolina State College, Raleigh.

In its announcement of the summer school program, the college said, "The 1956 Summer Session at North Carolina State College will feature a wide range of courses and is designed to serve both regular students of the College and others, including teachers who may wish to earn credit toward the renewal of teaching certificates or toward an advanced degree."

"Regular students of the College who are behind in their academic schedules or students who may wish to advance more rapidly than is possible during the regular semesters also may find the Summer Session beneficial."

C. U. Policy For Minimum Dress

Seems that hot weather is here to stay. The College Union House Committee would like to remind all students of the dress regulations stated in the House Rules.

"Minimum dress for men shall consist of the tee shirts and bermuda shorts. Minimum dress for women shall consist of blouse and bermuda shorts. This rule shall not apply to the Snack Bar prior to 6:00 p.m."

The committee urges all students to abide by these rules. Short shorts will be allowed in the Snack Bar prior to 6:00 p.m. for the convenience of students who would like to come up from the tennis courts.
