Covering Campus . . .

Fraternity Row

A sketch of the new fraternity row, complete with houses and roads, is now in Dean Talley's office. This layout is approximately seven feet long and four feet deep and is in color. It was drawn by Dean Kamp-hoefner, Coordinator of the Project.

Alpha Phi Omega

Iota Lambda Chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, national scouting service fraternity, held its office installation service on May 16.

New officers are Don Cox, president; Bruce Richmond, vice-president in charge of service projects; Tom Watson, vice-president in charge of pledges; Dick Ott, corresponding secretary; Howard Cell, recording secretary; Don Roy, treasurer; Jack Steele, sergeant-at-arms; and Jim Raper, historian. The new officers will assume duty with the beginning of the fall term.

Information concerning the fraternity and the type of work it does on the campus will be available at the fall registration.

Summer Math

Are you interested in forming a 102 Math class (for engineers) at night during the summer?

If you are interested, please call 4-5656 after 6 p.m.

Vetville Gets

Dempster Service

This past Tuesday the residents of Vetville saw a new sight in Vetville — Dempsey Dumpsters. This service has been extended to Vetville to insure more prompt and efficient garbage disposal.

Fifteen stands, which, until now, had only large garbage cans, have now been provided with the Dempsey receptacles. These will be picked up and emptied as often as necessary by M & O, who provides this service for the rest of the campus.

The Vetville Council has been working on this project, along with the Veterans Office, for the past two years. It was through their efforts that the service has been extended to Vetville.

Train Caravan to Go to W-F Game

The Student Government announced this week that a caravan by train has been definitely planned for the Wake Forest game in Winston-Salem next year.

Plans are for a train to leave Raleigh stopping in Greensboro for additional cars (for W. C. and G. C. students). During the trip the State College band and cheerleaders will provide entertainment.

The cost of the trip (ticket to the game, train fare, and one meal) will depend on the num-

April Fools in May?

Late Thursday night or early Friday morning a sign was erected between columns in front of the C. U. proclaiming that it was national headquarters for "Alpha Sigma Sigma." The banner was taken down at exactly 8:14 Friday morning according to Austin Cooley, staff photographer for THE TECHNICIAN, who is really on the ball. (Photo by Cooley)

Alpha Sigma Sigma Holds CU "Conven."

The N. C. State chapter (the only chapter) of Alpha Sigma Sigma Fraternity held its annual convention last week at the College Union. The convention lasted only as long as the College Union officials knew nothing of the meeting.

The banner, as seen in the picture, was removed by the Union because the fraternity did not go through the prescribed ritual of seeing the House Committee, the Social Functions Committee, the Games Committee, the Directors and several other bodies that one must go through to post a sign in the building.

The meeting of the fraternity was originally scheduled to be held in the "little girl's room" but, due to crowded conditions, it was held, instead, in the cloak room.

The small group of Alpha Sigma Sigmas ate lunch in the Snack Bar and were careful to get only one condiment on their hot dogs, since more than one would have meant an extra charge. While the meeting was "in session" in the Snack Bar, the members decided to hold the luncheon session of next year's meeting at the S & W Cafeteria, since there one can get extra glasses of ice tea at no additional charge.

The meeting was adjourned abruptly when the Social Functions Committee surrounded the body and told them that they had failed to go through the proper channels and, therefore, their meeting had never been officially approved.

ber of students who take advantage of the opportunity. The student government spokesman suggested, "A weekend of football complete with a train caravan, girls and a lunch on the train is certainly a painless and enjoyable way of showing our school spirit."

Work Begins On Intramural Fields

By David Barnhardt

The tractors, bulldozers, and scrapers which have been active on the hill behind the tennis courts for the past two or three weeks are grading and terracing the hillside so that it can be made into intramural playing fields. It is planned to have these fields ready for use by next fall.

16 Acres

Approximately sixteen acres of land are being converted into these playing fields. They will be built two levels, which is made possible by terracing. The new fields will supplement Doak Field, which has proved inadequate in the last few years. These will not be varsity playing fields, but will be solely for use by dormitory men, fraternity men, and veterans.

Begun Six Years Ago

The movement to build the new playing fields was begun about six years ago by a group of students who were members of the Interdormitory Council. They compiled a number of statistics showing the need for such construction and presented them to the Administration. This year, the Student Government brought the matter up again and voted in favor of the project. Their vote was taken to the Administration, which has acted upon the suggestion.

The fields are ideally located on the hillside behind the tennis courts. In this place they are relatively close to the dormitories, Vetville, and the proposed fraternity row.

600 To Receive Degrees Sunday

North Carolina State College's 1956 commencement weekend will be held Saturday and Sunday, May 26-27, when approximately 600 students will receive degrees.

Dr. Liston Pope, dean of Yale University's Divinity School, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon in the William Neal Reynolds Coliseum Sunday, May 27, at 10:30 a.m.

Following Dean Pope's message, Dr. Carey H. Bostian, chancellor of State College, will confer degrees upon the students who represent North Carolina's 100 counties, all sections of the United States, and a number of foreign students.

Major General Paul D. Adams, commandant of Fort Bragg and the 18th Airborne Corps, will speak at the joint Army-Air Force ROTC commissioning exercises in the Coliseum Saturday, May 26, at 2 p.m. when 85 Army cadets and 48 Air Force cadets will be sworn in as second lieutenants in the Army and Air Force Reserve, respectively.

Among the degree candidates are 492 seeking B.S. degrees, seven seeking professional degrees, 101 seeking master's degrees, and 18 seeking the Ph.D. degree.

At 2:30 p.m. Sunday, May 27, diplomas will be presented to the graduates in the various schools comprising the college. These exercises will be held for the School of Agriculture in the College Union Ballroom; for the School of Design, Brooks Hall; for the School of Education, Pullen Hall; for the School of Engineering, the Coliseum; for the School of Forestry, Kilgore Hall; and for the School of Textiles, Nelson Textile Building.

Bachelor's degree candidates are divided among the various schools as follows: School of Agriculture, 97; School of Design, 25; School of Education, 38; School of Engineering, 241; School of Forestry, 23; and School of Textiles, 68.

Preceding the Sunday, May 27, graduation exercises will be the commissioning of Army and Air Force ROTC cadets in the Coliseum Saturday, May 26, at 2 p.m., the Chancellor's reception in honor of the graduates at the Chancellor's Residence Saturday between 4 and 6 p.m., and an informal senior dance in the ballroom of the College Union Saturday from 8 p.m. until 12 midnight.

Since its last formal commencement program last May 29, State College awarded 57 degrees last August 13 and 102 degrees last January 28, making a total (with the May 27 group of graduation) of over 750 graduates during the current school year.

Golden Chain Hears Prof. Holtzman

Last week Professor Abraham Holtzman of the Political Science Department here at State spoke to the Golden Chain, the top honorary society on the campus.

Dr. Holtzman challenged the campus leaders in four areas and presented to them some suggestions. (See GOLDEN CHAIN, Page 10)

Traffic Violations

The Student Government Traffic Committee will hold its last meeting for this semester to hear appeals on traffic tickets. The time has been changed because of examinations. The Committee will be in session in the north end of the YMCA from 11:30 until 12:30 Monday, May 28th. This will be your last opportunity to appear before the traffic committee before the end of the semester.

The Close of Vol. XL

For the last twenty-nine issues of The Technician, we have attempted to put out a student paper that was of interest to students.

The '55-56 Technician has not been without mistakes, but we have tried to cut the number of mistakes to a minimum.

The cafeteria has been given a choice spot on the editorial page in an attempt to get something done about the situation. Some, but not much progress has been made. George Smart, chairman of the cafeteria committee, reported the findings of the committee several weeks ago. Their conclusion was that the source of the trouble was the management. We are still hoping that improvements will be made in the near future.

The NYA housing dispute has blown over—to the apparent relief of everyone. We only hope that such a situation will not develop again.

The Juniors obtained a rebate on their class rings—but, looking back, it doesn't look as if they got what was coming to them. Next year, maybe, the contract will be given to a company that will play things more on the level. The Juniors deserve a rebate.

On the brighter side, the lights around campus that were installed last spring went on the blink a couple of times, but they were quickly put back into shape, and they have proved very satisfactory.

Money collected from parking fees have been used to pave a 24 foot strip both in front and back of Owen-Tucker and Alex-Turl dorms. The merits of this type of paving is dubious to us. But the fund has been used for strip paving and we hope it proves to be satisfactory.

Another year has passed and students still lack any place on campus to wash their cars. A convenience that would have saved us many dollars the past year.

Without reservation the past year has been a great one. Student Government has made tremendous advances in prestige and responsibility. School spirit, although it seems to still be stiff and asleep, has made noises that indicates it may be coming back to life. Maybe next year...

Cooperation from the administration has been excellent. Chancellor Bostian, Dean Stewart, Dean Talley, Mr. Watts, Mr. Pate, Mr. Fulghum, and on down the line have offered advice and aid to students.

Without the aid of the staff twenty-nine issues of The Technician could never have been put out. Jack Greenwood has contributed a great deal, not only to The Technician, but to the college as a whole with his humorous, weekly cartoons on the trials and gripes of State College students.

Next year, Terry Lathrop has the editorial responsibility of the paper. Terry is capable and he will have a shell of a staff back, but he will certainly welcome new blood. John Lane will be handling the business end of the paper. John has had one year of experience and he will be able to do a terrific job next year.

In closing our last editorial for The Technician, we say thanks to everyone who has given help, time, and advice and criticism to us during the year.

IDGAD

By Bob Kirkland

Chemistry Students Get "Compound" Fracture! Those poor students taking CH 103 this semester received the shock of their lives the night of May 16 when their averages, both good and bad, were dealt a mighty blow by a chemistry quiz that might well have dropped a modern Louis Pasteur from school. The now infamous shaft was quite evidently dedicated to the adage: "Little things mean a lot." It was a wonderful opportunity for the guy who spends his time memorizing a lot of relatively unimportant information; it was failure time for the student who studied the principal processes and formulas. As most of us know only too well, the curriculum at State is difficult enough if the examinations are fair, and it is generally admitted around campus that this particular test was not! In fact, it would be putting it very mildly to say that the students are not pleased. Of course, there isn't much that the freshman can do other than complain, beg for mercy, swear, or pray. The bad part of the thing is: no matter how much they say and think, it will make no difference, for when the grades are issued, those who had low averages before the quiz will be very sad about the whole affair.

Another questionable aspect of the "shaft of the year" is the fact that one group of students had at their disposal during the test, two large copies of the periodic table. Now, it may be said right here that the charts were probably of very little help; nevertheless, it seems a bit extraordinary to allow one group to have the use of the tables while the others did not. This becomes doubly amazing when one learns that the students who were given the charts were also promised that ten percent of their actual grade would be added to their score if they handed in a list of questions on the material covered. Needless to say, those students who did not have this advantage are not at all happy. Perhaps there was a reason for this difference; we don't know. It just appears a bit unfair. We certainly have reason enough to sympathize with the outraged freshmen who may be in summer school this summer just because of this one quiz.

Found on the Wrong Bulletin Board in 1911: a well-written limerick from a lady who reads IDGAD.

These men have all kinds of time for fishing
And always find some left for wishing
While sweethearts and wives
Are spending their lives
Trying to get them to help the "Technician."

Though he tells me I am quite insane,
I have tried time and time again
To get my spouse,
The man in our house,
To send you a poem—but in vain.

Each week we read the IDGAD chatter,
And each time we wonder what's the matter.
Why don't these men write some poems
And show their talent—their wits
But the situation's just getting sadder.

Thank you very much, Betty! We are glad that you're on our side. I hope you'll write to IDGAD again next year!

Our Gossip for the Week: What well-known guy - about-campus threw his date in a lake this past week-end? We'll never tell! You find out!

This Week's Picture is Miss Wake County, Sonja Averitt. She is a high school senior at Fuquay Varina, and she is a frequent visitor here in Raleigh. Last Saturday afternoon, she went swimming, and the inimitable Austin Cooley was on hand with camera. Observe the results! And speaking of pictures, the little blond whose picture appeared in last week's column is Susan Collins, a student at Needham Broughton High.

This is the Last! Yep, this is the last edition of the paper for this school year. Yours truly has certainly had a wonderful time writing for you guys, and if nothing happens, I hope to be back with IDGAD next fall.

Until then, to those of you I won't see for a while, have a nice summer. To those who will stay around for the summer months, let's go swimming or fishin' or sompin'! B. K.

It may be a treat to beat your feet on the Mississippi mud, but it's murder when you mambo in a beat-up tux.

I still remember the exact moment when I decided to buy an After Six. It was right after the third grunt in a rather lively mambo. She looked up at me with those baby-blue eyes and softly murmured, "Some date! All day long, I slave over a hot biology text. Finally get to go formal and I wind up with a guy dressed like a 1920 mortician."

That was the night I burned my old tux. Now, I've got a cool, comfortable After Six.

ROTC Set For Saturday

Major General Paul D. Adams, Commanding General of Fort Bragg, and XVIII Airborne Corps will be the guest speaker at the joint Army and Air Force ROTC commissioning exercises in Reynolds Coliseum at State College on Saturday May 26 it was announced recently by Col. Richard R. Middlebrooks, Professor of Military Science & Tactics and Col. James F. Risher, Professor of Air Science. There will be 85 Army ROTC cadets and 48 Air Force ROTC cadets sworn in as Second Lieutenants in the US Army and Air Force Reserve at this ceremony. In World War II, General Adams, then a Colonel, served advertising

The first jet engine ever to power an American plane was built by General Electric in 1942. Since 1948, G.E. has supplied the Air Force with over 30,000 of its famous J47 jet engines. And General Electric's jet experience soon will be paying additional new dividends to national defense. Its J79—called the most advanced engine of its type in the world—will soon enter production.

The man responsible for reporting G.E.'s jet and rocket engine progress to its customers and the public is Roy O. Stratton, Jr., 27-year-old account supervisor in the Company's Apparatus Advertising and Sales Promotion Department.

Stratton's Work Important, Interesting

Stratton supervises the planning and preparation of direct-mail promotion, brochures, films and presentations, as well as public-informational space advertisements for Time, U.S. News & World Report, Business Week, Aviation Week, and other magazines.

Considerable personal contact with the Armed Services makes Stratton's job an interesting one. Last year he traveled over 60,000 miles, visiting many of the country's Air Force bases to gather necessary information and pictures.

25,000 College Graduates at General Electric

When Stratton came to General Electric in 1952, he already knew the kind of work he wanted to do. Like each of our 25,000 college graduates, he is being given the chance to grow and realize his full potential. For General Electric has long believed this: when fresh young minds are given the freedom to develop, everybody benefits—the individual, the Company, and the country.

EE Dept. Holds
Annual Picnic

The annual Electrical Engineering Department Picnic was held Saturday. The event got underway at two o'clock with volleyball, softball, horseshoes, and general fellowship. The more formal program started at five-thirty with the egg-throwing contest. June Singletary and Bob Lee won by throwing their egg back and forth over a longer distance without breaking it. (George Meyer and Jim Zaleski were disqualified when it was discovered that their egg was wood.) June and Bob were awarded lollypops for their efforts. The next contest had two teams competing to be the first to unwrap each participants stick of chewing gum while wearing boxing gloves. The winning team got a pack of gum apiece.

After the contests, the faculty served a supper of hamburger, potato salad, cole slaw, potato chips, pickles, olives, and soft drinks.

The evening program got under way with a tug-of-war between the faculty and the students. The faculty won by default after they protested the students tying their end to a tree with piano wire. After that the annual faculty "awards" were presented. These included shoulder boards, properly labeled MEN and WHOE-MEN for Head of the Department G. B. Hoadly, a ten "carrot" nabla for W. F. Gauster, and a set of scales for weighing lab reports for R. A. Gil. No gift was available for E. G. Manning, so the students gave him a big hand (three feet long). The students took this opportunity to present a skit entitled "Payday at the EE Department." The characters were the paymaster, played by Jack Pritchard, Dr. Hoadly, by Phil Pruna, Mr. Goetze, by Sam McGeiver, Dr. Barclay, by Kim Jackson, Mr. Fouraker, by Cal Belote, and Mr. Randolph by Ham Corey. A quartet consisting of George Meyer, Bill Wilkinson, Ashley Leggett, and Bill Quinliven played their arrangements of "Stardust" and "Moonlight Sonata." (The audience insisted it all sounded like "Twinkle Twinkle Little Star.") The only serious spot in the program was the presentation of the newly created Senior Award. The award will be given each year to that EE faculty member voted by the Senior Class to have contributed most to their professional education. The first recipient was Dr. W. F. Gauster. The presentation of this award ended the program.

State's all-conference short-stop Dud Whitley is expected to sign a pro baseball contract sometime this week. . . . He will ink the dotted line for either the Cleveland Indians or the Milwaukee Braves. . . . Whitley who will need another semester to graduate, was one of the conference's top batters with a .369 average.

Much to the joy of many State cage supporters, assistant basketball coach Vic Bubas finally declined the Clemson offer when the local athletic department gave him the requested 10 per cent salary increase and several alumni made it known they were "interested" in his staying. . . . Bubas's loss would have certainly been a big blow to the West Raleigh cage future which is already somewhat shaken. . . . according to Bubas in a talk at a Wolfpack rally next season's cage quintet may not be as weak as most people think and as long as Coach Case is around don't sell the Pack short until the trophy ends up somewhere besides the coliseum.

State's Don Gwynn racked up the Wolfpack's only first place in the recent AAU track meet and in doing so established a new North Carolina State varsity record. . . . His time for the 440 hurdles was 56.6. . . . Mike Shea, the ACC 2 mile champion, has been invited and will participate in the Houston Invitational Track Meet on Friday June 8th.

Football players Eddie West and Dick Tonn have returned their signed contracts to play ball with the pros next season in the Canadian League. . . .

The wedding bells will toll this summer for State's freshman basketball coach Lee Terrill. . . .

Editor's Comments: Well another year of sports activities has come to a close for North Carolina State's Wolfpack and a look at the record books will show that we took our share of the conference championships. . . . But whether they won a crown or not they gave each battle all they had and for this the college, students, and fans are proud—so to everyone who had a part in this past year's athletic program we say thanks for a job well done. . . . next year lets beat Carolina in football and send the cage team back to New York. . . .

Veteran Coach Vic Sorrell Recalls Over 30 Years of Baseball Memories

It was a hard, steady rain that drenched the diamond, transforming the field into a shallow lake. Only the pitcher's mound was visible as it emerged from the puddles. In the baseball office nearby a man stood gazing out the window.

"Well another baseball season has gone by the books," he said. "And a rather successful one at that, we tied Duke for the conference championship you know."

"How long you been in baseball, Vic?" the man asked.

Vic Sorrell turned from the window. "A long time," he answered, smiling as he brushed back his gray hair.

"I started playing baseball a long-time ago," he said. "My professional career began in 1926 after I finished college at Wake Forest. I was a pitcher. Signed with Toronto and played there for two years before I went to the big leagues, "It was quite a thrill going to Detroit. I played for George Moriarity the first year, then Bucky Harris took over and managed the club for five years. After Bucky came Mickey Cochrane.

"We won two pennants in the nine years I was with the Tigers, both under Cochrane. We lost the series to St. Louis, the Gashouse Gang, in '34 but beat the Cubs in '35. I didn't get to pitch in any of the series games. That was my biggest disappointment.

"What was my biggest thrill? Striking out Ty Cobb, I guess. It was my first year in the majors and Cobb was with Philadelphia. He was reaching the end of the road. He fouled off two pitches and then ducked away from a curve which caught

State, W-F Dominate All-Con. Team

North Carolina State, co-champions in the ACC, and Wake Forest College, defending NCAA kings, dominated the 1954 All-Conference baseball team as they placed four and five men respectively on the squad.

State's representation includes pitcher Lou Dickman, first baseman Bill Peed, shortstop Dudley Whitley, and outfielder Carmen Santoli.

The 12-man team was selected by a vote of writers and radio and TV men with the help of the conference coaches. Thirty-one ballots were cast in the poll.

Athlete of Week

Bob Kennel

One of State College's most-outstanding all-around athletes. . . . led this year's varsity baseball squad in the hitting department with a .415 average. . . . he collected 22 hits in 53 times at bat, seven of which were extra base blows. . . . collected 3-7 against Virginia and 3-4 in the play-off battle with Duke. . . . an honor student, Kennel is active in many campus activities.

the corner. He was furious—must have argued for ten minutes. I had to laugh."

Sorrell was enjoying the baseball talk. He pushed back his chair from the desk and swung toward the window. "I don't think it's ever going to stop raining," he said.

"Who were the best hitters you pitched against, Vic?"

"That's easy. Lou Gehrig, Babe Ruth and Bill Dickey of the Yankees, Al Simmons and Jimmy Foxx of the Athletics," he answered without hesitation. "They caused me a lot of headaches.

"I had more trouble with left-handers, naturally. . . . especially Gehrig. I could get Ruth and Dickey out once in awhile but that Gehrig was impossible. He hit to any field. Foxx and Simmons were tough, too, but they were righthanders and that was in my favor.

"We had some good stickmen also. Hank Greenberg, Goose Goslin, Charlie Gehringer and Cochrane were the best. Schoolboy Rowe and Tommy Bridges were our best pitchers.

"My best season was in 1930

Sigma Chi-Becton I Win Intramural Championships Awards Program Tonight at Track Field at 8

Frat Intramurals

Sigma Chi Fraternity maintained its early season point spread to capture the 1954 Fraternity Intramural Championship. The Sig's have won the coveted crown the majority of the past 10 years.

Pi Kappa Alpha claimed second place honors as it pushed the Sig's to the final wire before finally having to settle for No. 2 honors. SAM, softball champions, overcame several other fraternities to capture the No. 3 position in the final point standings.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Sigma Nu Fraternity finished in the 4th and 5th spots respectively. The competition has been keen all year and only 40 points separated the 3rd and 4th place teams while a 18-point spread determined the 4th and 5th place positions.

Softball

SAM successfully defended its softball championship as they copped the crown for the second year in a row. PKT took second place followed by Sigma Chi and PKA.

Tennis

State Shares A C C Baseball Championship With Duke

Pack Dumps Va. 27-8 for Tie; Drop Playoff to Duke 9-5

North Carolina State's varsity baseball team dumped the University of Virginia 27-8 last week to clinch the co-championship of the Atlantic Coast Conference along with Duke University. Both finished with 11-3 records.

However the local lads were somewhat less successful in their play-off battle with the Blue Devils as the visitors from Durham walked off with a 9-5 victory and the right to represent the conference in the District Three NCAA diamond playoffs. The play-offs are set to begin in Gastonia, N. C., June 1st.

17 Hits

Against Virginia the Wolfpack lumbermen unloaded for a total of 17 hits while crossing the plate some 27 times before the final out was made. Much to the delight of the 1,000 fans in attendance, erred the ball seven times while the Wolfpack was adding 17 runs in the 4th and 5th innings. Winning pitcher Joe Jones collected 3-3 while Peed and Kennel had 4-7 and 3-7, respectfully. Sonny Santoli stole four bases to add to State's total of eight for the afternoon.

Pack Fumbles

In the big payoff contest with Duke the Wolfpack seemed to do everything opposite from right. They fumbled and stumbled eight errors to give the Devils a 9-5 win, and a tournament berth. The Pack at one time held a 4-0 lead. Bob Kennel's big bat blasted out 3 hits in 4 trips to the plate.

Thus the Pack closed out one of its most successful seasons in years as they finished the season in a first place tie. State's over-all record stands at 14-5-1. Veteran Coach Vic Sorrell called his present team one of the finest he's ever coached, and with a few breaks here and there might have gone a lot further.

The Sisterhood of U.N.C

By Bettie Jane Upchurch

THOSE OF THE Brotherhood of the U.N.C. are generally considered to have rather close relationships, favorable attitudes, and valid opinions in regard to the Sisterhood of the U.N.C. Thus I have found consultation with our fraternal collegiates useful in avoiding a too "close" and too biased observation of certain basic characteristics of the Woman's College student body. Before I report, however, the results of my brief study, it should be established that the observations of our brothers may not be entirely valid, although definitely constant and thorough; and, therefore, may be contradictory to "Mr. Public Opinion." Any criticism may stem from jealousy or rivalry between the two branches of the Brotherhood, from wounded pride inflicted (innocently, of course) by the Sisterhood, or as a device for shifting the critical eye of the public from themselves to the women. It must be remembered that many who have never been so fortunate as to be one of the U.N.C. Sister and Brotherhood frequently find fault with some of the practices. For instance, our State brothers are thought to be too Hindu in their worship of the cow. Likewise non-supporters of the institution advocate that the Carolina brothers should abolish the custom of noon call to prayer honoring Saint Charles (Justice—not to be confused with Saint Charles McIver, who belongs to Sisterhood.) Perhaps the argument here is based on the idea that too much emphasis is being placed upon religion considering that the two are state institutions. Seeing that the brothers are in a position to be very sensitive to ridicule, be careful to adopt their views in forming your own, impartial opinions.

It is accepted that the foremost aim of the Woman's College is to develop a lasting, intellectual thirst. An earnest effort is made to inject an intellectual sophistication into every phase of campus activity with the anticipation that scholarly, keen, imaginative students will be produced. It is a progressive education that is being stressed—one not restricted to the classics, but rather one which encourages the modern, the cosmopolitan in fields of entertainment, politics, and fine art. Whether the student is able to understand the "higher levels" or not, she still is given the advantage of these ideals outside the classroom and lecture halls, students are urged to utilize their time spent around the dining table in stimulating intelligent conversations on subjects other than assignments and brotherly love. This suggestion is so appealing to a majority of the students, that it is carried over into various unscheduled periods. Visitors to the campus remark upon the numerous potential "smokers" where the scholars may be seen clustered about, broadening their view-points, stabilizing their theories, and becoming adept critics. It stands to reason that formality and sophistication deter the prevailing atmosphere. There are times, however, when the "Ivy League" cloak is shed—Rat Day, R.A. Fair, and serenades, for example.

The brethren challenge the effectiveness and application of this intellectual movement. They say our vocabularies consist of words, such as legal tender, connoisseur, apparel, rather than hypothesis, dialectic, transmutation, as one might expect. They have found that upon many occasions conversation alone did not prove to afford a very stimulating evening. The majority of the boys also expressed a decided preference for girls of spontaneous actions over those of rationalized, meditated actions. More encouraging was the vote of confidence given to the provocative literary magazine, Corradi, as being the most intellectual of the student projects.

It is the general consensus of opinion among the Brotherhood that the college has not succeeded in producing self-reliant women, and that W.C. graduates become independent and insistent of accepting responsibility only after marriage. Furthermore, they assert that our social code of intellect has resulted in some binding effects, but effects which they do not favor, such as receiving line and curfews. But these are vitally important as a part of our code to help us "assume individual and community responsibility in life."

This suggests the second characteristic which should be noted, that of adherence to certain democratic principles, which lead to an insight into the existing world situation, and which stimulate contributions to society. The W.C. Student Government Association is widely respected and followed off campus, although scarcely recognized as existing on campus. And, next, the effectiveness and efficiency of the Honor System receives the praise of the trustees and alumnae! Students are trusted explicitly in such matters as final exams. Soon, perhaps, they will even be trusted to clean their rooms and attend assembly programs.

State and Carolina both express admiration for the girls' complex judiciary system. The brothers also admire the feeling of explicit trust that exists so that, actually, the network of authorities is unnecessary. Neither of the brethren, however, would make any further comment on the Honor Policy, but simply expressed envy that W. C. never loses a first string

For World War II services General Adams was awarded the Legion of Merit with Oak Leaf Cluster, the Bronze Star for valor, and the Bronze Star with two Oak Leaf Clusters for meritorious service. During the recent conflict in Korea, General Adams was decorated with the Silver Star for gallantry in action against the Communists. For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services while serving as Chief of Staff of the Eighth Army, he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal. His foreign decorations include the French Croix de Guerre with Gold Star (two awards) and the Republic of Korea Taeguk Distinguished Military Service Medal.

festivity when all prejudices and partialities toward the Sisterhood are forgotten. At this time, it cannot be denied that the girls cheer as enthusiastically as the boys of State and Carolina.

"Yea Tarheels!
Yea Wolfpack!
Yea W.C!
Fight, girls, fight!

(Of course, the term fight is used figuratively, as all the sisters are much too lady-like and congenial for any actual blows.)

Another indication of the respect which is felt for the college is in the singing of the school song. Outside Aycock Auditorium one can hear the lusty bursts of "Oh college dear to you!" from the chorus. Only a few students sing the verses, and the majority of the sisters have never even bothered to learn them because they pause between choruses in reverence and devotion for an interval which is equivalent to the length of a stanza.

No real conclusions can be drawn from this informal study of the Sisterhood, except that it is quite a fascinating subject into which the Brotherhood will obviously continue to delve for further information.

The sun trickled lightly through cypress leaves into the crystal pool; Odysseus awoke, wiped the salt from his eyes and peered cautiously around the bush. There in the speckled light stooped Nausica, her lithe body bending to and fro as she dipped her linens into the limpid waters. Her rosy figure was like a nude Aphrodite, carved from pink marble. For some moments The Wanderer sat spellbound, his eyes rivited on the swaying body. Then he spoke.

"Gad," he hissed. "Double-jointed!"

Letters To The Editor

A Comment on the Agromeck . . .

To the Editor:
College annuals, especially to seniors, are very important. The 1955-56 Agromeck falls short of even minimum requirements for a good annual. I, personally, feel that in a diligent search it would be hard to find a high school annual that is as poorly organized as the State College annual.

Feature pictures are mingled with pictures devoted to various schools and not a single "feature" picture appears in the feature section. (Does the editor know what feature means?) Fraternities, military, sports and campus organizations are apparently used to break the monotony of a natural sequence of pages devoted to separate schools. The page between professional students and senior class officers, allocated to the "School of Nursing," was certainly a misplaced attempt at humor. The Golden Chain, an organization of the top men on campus, is in such an insignificant place that it seems little more than a committee. And our annual is in full color this year—with lovely pictures of factories, mountains, and cows. How are these directly related to campus life, or are they paid advertisements? Regardless of the price that the advertiser pays, the ad section is in the back of the book.

Most employers oversee their employees, since a salary is involved. Do we students, who pay the editor, have a committee to see that we are getting our money's worth? I think we need one!

Mary Pledge.

Since this is the last issue of the Technician for the school year the above letter could not be answered in a later issue. The following letter is from Bill Foushee, editor of the Agromeck, explaining the arrangement and some of the problems encountered in putting out this year's Agromeck.—Editor.

A Reply From Foushee . . .

To the Editor:
I guess it was inevitable that we should find our very best critics and journalists exactly nine months too late. If only we had known we had such talent and ability roaming around on campus, we would certainly have made good use of it.
It is also unfortunate that people who know the in's and out's of this journalism game, often fail to see the most obvious page in the book, namely page one, which describes the theme to the last page in fairly minute detail. But, in view of the fact that our renowned critic is an authority on high school annuals and is still thinking along high school lines, a book of the caliber of the 1956 Agromeck would be too much to expect her to comprehend.

I regret that it is necessary to explain the theme to a "college" student, but since it seems unavoidable, I again refer to page one:

"We have tried to locate the schools in the geographical area which they represent in industry and the life of the state. And we have divided the school's activities into three seasons; Fall, and its riot of color in the mountains; Winter, and the hum of industry in the Piedmont; Spring, and the blossoming of agriculture in the Coastal Plain."

In each section we have tried to put the most appropriate functions, as Fraternity is in the fall section, when most of the rushing is done. In the Piedmont section, which is in the winter season, we placed Military and Athletics. It is here that they come into the lime light, as it were. The Coastal Plain section contains the remainder, Campus Organizations, Features, (which is quote, "The Make, structure, form, or outward appearance of anything, esp. of a person, physical beauty.—Webster) and the class sections.

For the benefit of our esteemed critic, the Golden Chain, Blue Key, etc. has appeared in the class section for more than twenty-five years; and as for the humor, we apologize for having omitted your name on the nurses page (since you are a transfer from a Virginia Nursing School).

As for the suggested committee, it requires both student interest and many hours of diligent effort and thought, which you evidently seem to lack in the fact that you did not have enough interest to even have your own picture made.

I, for one, am in favor of more student participation in all phases of student activities. This can only be done by individuals who have the sincere interest of the school and the students at heart by making a determined effort to help with these various activities. After all, what's the use of having a committee if the members of said committee outnumber the members of the staff of the Agromeck, Technician, WWVP, and on down the line.

Bill Foushee
Editor, The Agromeck

gestions "for what they are worth—as seen by a newcomer." (Dr. Holtzman is teaching at State for the first time this year. Before coming here he worked in Congress.)

Intellectual Climate
The first challenge for the leaders, he said, lies in helping to shape the intellectual and social climate of the college: so it is an active, dynamic environment, receptive to new ideas and conducive to their inspiration." He continued by saying that there is an absence of such an environment now that it is, in large measure, the responsibility of the leaders to direct the attention and interest of their fellow students to such matters.

College Spirit
Second, Dr. Holtzman said that the leaders "can play a major role in helping to shape a college spirit . . . that exists while the students attend college and after they leave its campus.

A third area which needs development lies in "helping to improve the relationship between students and faculty." There is a large gap between the two and, he went on to say, some means should be devised to bring the two closer together, formally and informally.

Heritage of Leadership
The fourth responsibility is the heritage of leadership. It is up to the leaders to show others who follow that "you have and they can: look for problems, try to push horizons back, transcend the immediate club, fraternity, etc. to consider the problems of the whole college.

Eight Suggestions

Several immediate suggestions were also presented by Dr. Holtzman. They were: develop intra-fraternity spirit; have a full or part time psychiatrist on campus; more work with and aid to WUNC-TV; establish a Dean's List; more lectures on campus by speakers who transcend the immediate technical to deal with broad and controversial issues of science, politics, literature, etc.; an all-university conference of student leaders; reevaluation of faculty advising system because of student discontent; and full support for such projects as Drama Club, etc.
