The Collegians To Play For Engineers' Ball

A gala event for State College Engineering students, the 22nd annual Engineers' Ball, has been set for Saturday, October 22, from 8 p.m. until midnight in the William Neal Reynolds Coliseum at the college.

The big dance for engineers and their dates has been planned by the Engineers' Council. The Collegians from East Carolina College will provide music.

Faculty Invited

The council has announced that all engineering students and faculty members plus a number of guests, are expected to attend the Ball. The council itself, together with all others who are making arrangements for the dance, will be entertained at a banquet just prior to the ball.

Officers for this year's council are John R. Combs, Leaksville, president; Lonnie A. Grant, Raleigh, vice-president and chairman of the dance committee; Walter C. Thomas, Charlotte, secretary and chairman of the floor committee; and William D. Wilkinson, Greensboro, treasurer.

Committee Chairmen

Other committee chairmen for the dance are Jim DeFoor, Chattanooga, Tenn., banquet chairman; Hal Brinson, New Bern, in charge of arrangements; David Gurley, Rocky Mount, chairman of decorations; and William Quinlivan, Wilmington, publicity chairman.

Bids for the Engineers Ball will be available on October 13 and 14 in the YMCA building.

Captain Victor L. Nunenkamp is the staff Director of Leadership Training this year. He has assumed his new duties following his arrival at State last year and the reassignment of Captain N. McNair, last year's Director.

Please!

Juniors Are Slow Paying Class Dues

"Are you, the juniors, going to support your Jr-Sr Dance?" asks Junior Class President Hugh Linsley. "The success of one of the most cherished life-long remembrances of your college career is now in your control," warns Linsley.

The junior class officers are attempting to obtain a name band to play for the Jr-Sr, but this is impossible unless the financial support is available through junior class dues says Doug Gunnell, junior class vice-president.

"Payment of junior class dues entitle the students to receive bids to the Jr-Sr both when they are juniors and when they are seniors," reminds Linsley.

"Pay your dues now so the band contract can be awarded and the committee can proceed with our plans," said Gunnell.

EDITORIAL COMMENT:

Leazar

(Number Two)

The editorial last week, "Leazar Hall", mistakenly labeled Guest Editorial as written by the editor of the Technician, and Terry Lathrop, associate editor, was the author of the Guest Editorial, "Fraternity Decision Important".

Someone raised the question, "Why is it any of the Technician's business or any student's business how the cafeteria is run?"

Ridiculous? How ridiculous can one be? Why do the people of the United States, of North Carolina, of Raleigh, and the press have the right and privilege of criticizing and asking for reforms in their government. Our government is a government created "by the people and for the people". That is why they have such a right.

The North Carolina State College Cafeteria was created by the Legislature of North Carolina for the students of State College. Actually, only students, faculty, and staff are entitled to eat in the cafeteria. That is why the cafeteria is the student's business. The Technician is the student newspaper and it represents the students. That is why the cafeteria is the Technician's business.

The theory that the cafeteria should operate on, although it doesn't at present, is that it was created for the students and it exists for the students. Something should be done in the cafeteria so that it might better serve the students by

Unused

Bill Fisher, president of Tompkins Textile Council, suggests that the vacant lot beside the A & P supermarket be made into a parking lot. The College owns the property and at present it is not being used. At one time there was talks about building a girl's dormitory in that location, but that is still a long way off. Bill also can not see why the lot behind the Textile Building, that was used for off-campus students' parking last year, can not be used also. At present it is not being used, while State students park all along Hillsboro.

Thought should be given to the possibilities of using the lot on Hillsboro as a parking lot, and to the reopening of the lot behind the Textile Building. Both proposals hold merit.

offering the best in variety, service, and, most of all, the best in food at reasonable prices. This is what the legislature had in mind when it established the cafeteria.

Leazar enjoys several advantages that competitors off campus do not. Leazar enjoys the obvious privilege of being on campus. It has the benefits of buying on State Contract. Students who have a scholarship that pays room, tuition, fees, and board are given ticket books that are good only in the College Cafeteria. Why aren't these students given the option of money or meal books so that they are not forced to eat in Leazar?

One might suggest that such a student on a scholarship sell his meal books. The truth is that College Cafeteria meal books are not in such great demand.

We, like Bob Horn, Technician Editor in '52, are asking for improvement. Bob didn't get it. Will we? ?

Membership Drive Underway for Music Guild

The fall membership drive for the RALEIGH CHAMBER MUSIC GUILD is now underway. The Chamber Music Guild is a community project sponsoring fine music of national and international distinction for the citizens of Raleigh and the students and faculty of the Colleges in Raleigh.

The first concert will be held on Friday evening, November 4 with the University of Alabama Quartet. The first concert of the series follows the guild's policy of encouraging local and regional music groups of high quality.

The outstanding feature of the 1955-56 series will be given on Friday, December 9, by the Alfred Deller Trio composed of Alfred Deller, famous English counter-tenor, Desmond Dupre who plays both lute and viola da gamba, and Harpsichordist Robert Conant. The counter-tenor was the male alto voice for which Bach wrote the alto solos in his cantatas and for which Purcell, himself a counter-tenor, composed some of his outstanding works. Alfred Deller's innate musicianship and sense of style, coupled with a pure and limpid voice, have established him as the outstanding counter-tenor since Purcell's time.

In their programs of ancient music, featuring works by Bach, Handel, Purcell, Dowland and many others, the members of the Alfred Deller Trio will, in addition to vocal works, also present sonatas for viola da gamba and Harpsichord, as well as lute and harpsichord solos.

The third concert on Friday, February 17, will feature the Mozart Festival Quartet which is composed of the former Albeniz Trio, who are familiar to Raleigh audiences, with the addition of Paul Doktor, violist. This group was organized to play throughout the world during the 100th anniversary of Mozart's birth.

The fourth and final concert will bring another well known group to Raleigh who have been here on several occasions before—the Hungarian quartet with Zoltan Szekeley, first violin, (See DRIVE, page 3)

LUCKY DROODLES! LUCKY DROODLES! YEA!

WHAT'S THIS?

For solution, see paragraph below.

A FLIGHT OF IMAGINATION prompted the Doodle above—it's titled: Flying saucer with Lucky-smoking crew. But it's a down-to-earth fact that Luckies taste better than any other cigarettes—and for down-to-earth reasons. First of all, Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, that light, mild tobacco is toasted to taste even better . . . cleaner, fresher, smoother. So, "Glurg shrdlu!" (In saucer language, that means, "For taste that's out of this world, light up a Lucky!")

Rhodes Scholarship Competition Date Set For November 1, 1955

Rhodes Scholarship competition for 1956 was announced here today by Dean W. C. Davison of the Duke University Medical School.

Dean Davison is secretary of the selection committee in North Carolina for next year's candidate for the coveted two-year scholarships at England's Oxford University. Application deadline for interested competitors is Nov. 1, 1955.

"The selection committee is interested in good all-around young men; that is, those who have shown some definite quality of distinction in scholastic ability and physical vigor," Dean Davison said.

Any unmarried man between 19 and 25 who is at least a Junior in college is eligible to compete for one of the awards which each year sends 32 American men to study at Oxford.

"The Rhodes scholar may choose studies in any of Oxford's 23 colleges, including law, medicine and any of the liberal arts and sciences," Dean Davison, himself a former Rhodes scholar, pointed out. "The award may be extended to three years if the scholar's record is satisfactory," he added.

A Rhodes scholar is worth six hundred British pounds annually, which will cover the student's complete expenses at Oxford, Dean Davison pointed out.

"The Oxford school year comprises three terms of two months each, leaving six weeks vacation at Christmas and Easter, as well as three months during the Summer to tour Europe," he noted.

Some 21 former Rhodes scholars are now living in North Carolina, including the following eight members of the Duke faculty: Dr. William M. Blackburn; Prof. William B. Bolich; Dr. Bayard Carter; Dean Davison; Dr. William H. Irving; L. W. McKenzie, Jr.; Frank K. Mitchell; and E. R. Wicker.

Any interested student may apply either in the state in which he resides or in the state where he is attending college. Application may be obtained by writing or telephoning (Durham 9011; ext. 8277) to Dr. W. C. Davison, Duke University, Durham, N. C.

Owen Dormitory Has Social Kickoff

Another exciting and successful chapter was written Saturday night in the Owen-Greensboro College Social Register. Approximately one hundred Owenites journeyed to Greensboro for the "Big Square Dance" which was being given in their honor by the girls of Greensboro College. This was the second in a series of dances, the first was sponsored by Owen Dorm last Spring when they held their April Fool's Ball at G. C. and the second was the Square Dance Saturday night, which was sponsored by Greensboro College under the able guidance of the Dance Committee headed by Beverly Hardin and Marianna Houser under the direction of Dr. Miller, Dean of Students. The dance was coordinated at Owen under the leadership of Benny Leazer, Social Director and the Dormitory Council.

Dress for the dance was on the Farmer Jim theme with levis and plaid sportshirts. Square dancing was from 8-10 p.m. and then everyone went to the college hut where refreshments were served and round danced until midnight. Special entertainment was provided by Miss Pat Baum, a member of the Lost Colony cast for the past seven years, who presented two modern jazz dances. As to whether or not the boys enjoyed themselves was expressed in these Critical acclaim of the highest order has been lavished on the Hungarian Quartet during its brilliant career of concertizing all over the world. The unanimous reaction, however, was never more beautifully expressed than by the dean of New York music critics, Olin Downes, who wrote about the artists in the New York Times.

All concerts in the 1955-56 series will be held on Friday evenings in the Meredith College Auditorium. Prices for season tickets are $2.00 for students, $4.00 for members, $10.00 for patron tickets which will admit two, and $15.00 for patron firm tickets which will admit four. Single admission tickets will be 75 cents for students and $1.50 for adults. Tickets may be purchased from Dr. Poland's office at State College or from Charles Kahn's office in the Civil Engineering Building. Tickets for both single admission and the season may also be purchased at the Meredith Auditorium door at the time of the first concert.

Football Squad Returns to Grid Wars Sat. Night Against Demon Deacons of W. F. Passing Battle Expected in ACC Contest

Saturday night is the night! This is the game that all Wake County waits for each year. It's the annual battle for the mythical county championship, and college gridiron supremacy for these confines is determined by that game.

State has kept rivalries in all sports with Duke and Carolina to be sure, but they don't match the spirit and enthusiasm of a game with the Demon Deacons of Wake Forest College, State's top rival since 1910.

State has played more games against the Deacons than any other team. There have been 48 contests with Wake Forest compared with 45 against Carolina and 30 against Duke. The two schools first played in 1908, then skipped a year, and have been playing continuously since 1910.

State leads in the colorful series with 25 wins to 18 for the Deacs. Five of the games have ended in ties. But it's been six years since the Wolfpack last won and Saturday night Coach Earle Edwards' spirited eleven is anxious to return the Wake County title to Raleigh.

There have been many thrilling games between the two schools. Perhaps the most heart-pounding of the tilts came after the end of World War II. In 1945 the Deacons took a 19-18 decision which had the followers of the institutions in a dither throughout.

In 1946, a fired-up Wolfpack eleven invaded Baptist Hollow and upset the Deacs 14-6 behind the running and passing of Howard Turner. State treated the Deacons roughly in 1947 by blanking their Wake County neighbors 20-0, much to the amazement of loyal Baptist rooters.

It was Wake Forest's turn the following year, in 1948, to the tune of 34-13. Then the 'Pack rebounded in '49 for a 27-14 victory before a packed house in Riddick Stadium.

The Wolfpack delivered a crushing blow to the Deacons in 1950. That was the year Wake Forest had beaten Duke and Carolina and was heading for a clean sweep of its Big Four rivals. But the 'Pack held the Deacs in check with a stout defensive game, then scored a last-minute touchdown for a 6-6 tie.

"THIS MAY BE QUICK, BUT I THINK IT'D BE CHEAPER IF YA CLEANED UP YOUR OWN BUBBISH, PAL!"

But it has been all Wake Forest since then. In the past four years the scores have been 21-6, 21-6, 20-7 and 26-0.

The elephants and ants were having a football game. One of the ants got the ball and made a dash for the goal. Galloping across to stop him, an elephant put his foot on the ant, and killed him.

The crowd bood, hissed, and threw beer bottles, and the referee came running up to the elephant to reprimand him for his rough play.

"Aw shucks," said the elephant, "I only wanted to trip him."

Wolfpack Draws Large Crowds

Although last Saturday afternoon's rain cost N. C. State an almost sure sellout for the Carolina game, the Wolfpack Athletic coffers may enjoy the greatest home attendance in history.

The Wolfpack drew a sellout 20,000 for Duke and then hit 17,000 for Carolina, making a total of 37,000 for its first two games. . . . The Pack may hit 75,000 for the season. . . .

N. C. State has three more home skirmishes, all night affairs, with Wake Forest on Oct. 15, William & Mary on Nov. 19 and West Virginia's talented Mountaineers on Nov. 25. . . .

Roy Clogston, Wolfpack athletic boss, estimates the rain last Saturday cost the school $10,000 in cold cash at the gate. . . .

champion is made. Becton No. 1, last year's power house, looks like the team to beat with Whitley and Peterson doing most of the scoring, and Warren passing a wicked ball. Tucker No. 1 played a strong game, with Turlington No. 2 and Owen No. 1 playing the real thriller of the week where Turlington No. 2 was the winner in an overtime period. The passing of Cole and the fine line work of Stevens, Farley, and Phillips of the Tucker No. 2 team gave them the necessary advantage to win over Alexander No. 2. Of course, the Stadium 'Studs' did a fine job and it looks like they might be another power house this year. Owen No. 2 beat a good Syme team in a 7 to 6 thriller.

Bowling

With football and volleyball already under way there are many opportunities for all, but if these don't appeal to you why not try duck-pin bowling. The bowling will start on October 18, so be sure to contact your dormitory athletic director if you are interested.

Frat Intramurals

Football got off to a slow start this past week but the program will get into high gear after the college's fraternities complete their "Rush Week" activities. Monday the fraternity bowling and volleyball leagues will begin and the teams will be fighting for the honors and intramural points that leads to the championship at the end of the year.

In football the SAE's, Sigma Nu, Sigma Pi, Pi Kappa Alpha, and Phi Kappa Tau all got off on the right foot with important wins. The SAE's had little trouble winning over the PEP's 19-0 with Bailey scoring two touchdowns. Sigma Pi ground out a 6-0 victory over the KA's for the only other action during the week.

Sigma Nu, PKA's, and the PKT's won forfeits over the AGR's, Lambda Chi's, and PKP's respectfully.

Wolfpack Reserves Defeat Frosh, 21-6

Ken Trowbridge, sophomore halfback from Plymouth, led a team of State varsity reserves to a 21-6 victory over the Wolfpack last night at Riddick Stadium.

Trowbridge passed 17 yards to Halfback Ted Kilyk for a first period touchdown and the Plymouth speedster ran 60 yards for another score in the fourth period. Fullback Wally Prince crashed over from the one-yard line for the reserves' other touchdown in the first period.

The freshmen scored in the fourth period on a 15-yard pass from quarterback Frank Cackovic to end Bob Pepe.

Trowbridge kicked two extra points for the reserves and Dave Meloni one.

State has won 32 straight dual meets since 1949. During that time the Wolfpack has copped five state championships, three conference titles and two AAU crowns.

Making the trip will be Jones, Shea, Steve Gooding, Bobby Jones, Herman Walker, Furman Walker, Maurice Barbour, Jimmie Eckard, Don Gwynn and Gordon Ponder.

The Dorm Corner

by Terry Lee Hershey

Noisy Dorms and Panty Raids At the last Interdormitory Council meeting John Lancaster suggested that the dorm students should try to be more quiet so others can study. The new glass encased bulletin boards will contain the quiet hours signs which were frequently seen last year almost anywhere. The other bulletin boards will have a map of Raleigh and a roster of the students dwelling in that dorm. It was also mentioned at the IDC meeting that the Student Government requested the dorm officers and managers to try and proposed "panty raids." The students are asked to cooperate with the Student Government on this matter.

Christy Great Asset For Pack

Dick Christy didn't just happen to come to North Carolina State. Coach Earle Edwards begged him to.

The Wolfpack's prize sophomore halfback was a much sought-after football player with dozens of college scouts on his trail. But Edwards, a former Penn. State coach, knew a good thing when he saw it and didn't give up easily.

Edwards heard of Christy's high school performance through coaches and friends in the Quaker State. As a school-boy, Christy was being compared with Francis X. Reagan, the Pen nstar of the late 30's who is now head coach at Villanova.

As a senior at St. James High in Chester, Pa., Dick Christy was a one-man team. He scored 19 touchdowns, passed for six and gained 1,548 yards rushing. Six of his TDs were on runs of 75 yards or longer. He was named to the high school All-America team in 1953.

Scouts

College scouts flocked to Christy's hometown in an effort to lure the grid star to their campus. Notre Dame, Penn State, Pennsylvania, Villanova and North Carolina State were the most persistent. Dick looked around, talked the situation over with his family and his wife-to-be and decided on the Wolfpack.

Edwards returned to Raleigh and announced that State had just landed one of the top high school stars in the nation. "Boys," he told his coaching staff, "we've got a future All-American on our hands. Dick Christy is one of the finest prospects I've ever seen."

Christy has made Edwards look good as a prognosticator. As a freshman he was sensational. He and Dick Hunter paced State frosh to a 4-1 season, including a thrilling 14-13 win over Miami's yearlings.

Against the Wake Forest frosh, Christy went 60 yards for a touchdown on the first play from scrimmage. Against Miami, he was called by rival coaches "the best player on the field."

The 20-year-old star came into his own as a varsity performer against North Carolina. In that game he gained 74 yards in 11 tries, caught two passes for 69 yards, returned a punt 18 yards, threw two passes and completed both for 31 yards.

Leading Gainer

He is State's leading ground gainer with 108 yards for 20 trips, an average of 5.4. He has completed three out of four passes this season and has hauled in four aerials for 88 yards.

Coach Edwards describes Christy thusly: "He does everything a good football player is supposed to do. He can run, kick, pass, catch passes, kick extra points, block and tackle. He runs the 100 in 10.1 and sets up his blocks as well as any runner I ever saw."

Edwards called Christy's one fault a lack of defensive experience. "Dick let a Carolina man block a kick in the end zone which cost us a touchdown," he said. "He simply missed the man coming in. But that's expected of sophomores. He'll learn."

Dick was an outstanding athlete in high school, leaning toward the acrobatic sports. He was a diving champion and in track he took part in the 100, 220, broad jump, shot put and pole vault. He pole vaulted 11.6 as a frosh last year against Carolina without benefit of practice.

Christy's hobby is working with kids and the youngsters love him. He supervises a recreation program for faculty children and is the most popular leader in the group. He and his wife, Louise, have one boy six months old, who is the pride of the Christy household.

Dick's ambition is to play professional football after graduation. "I love the game," he says. "I'd like to play it the rest of my life."

the interested freshman and upperclassman in making sure that a good time is had by all. A quick look at the rush calendar shows dances at the Raleigh and Carolina Country Clubs, outings to Crabtree park, dinners at the Charcoal Steak House, and many other restaurants in and around Raleigh, combos and dance bands at many of the houses during the week, plus the usual smokers and ending up the big week with the State-Wake Forest football game. All and all the week looks like one of the best at State in some time.

IFC Report

Plans for fraternity row were told to the council by Dean Tally and several tentative layouts for the fraternity houses were presented to the group for their comment and consideration. Dean Tally also told what progress was made on the project during the summer months and what was under way at present. . . . The IFC's fall dance has been set for the night of November the 12th in the coliseum. . . . Elliot Lawrence is reported to be the band. . . . The following committee appointments for the coming year were made by President Pickett: Fall Dance: PKP, SAE, Sigma Nu, Kappa Sig, Sigma Chi; Spring Dance: KA, PEP, PKA, SAM; Farm House, TKE; Greek Week: Lambda Chi, PEP, PKA, SAM; Investigation Committee: Sigma Nu, PFT, T. Chi; Budget: AGR, Kappa Sig, SPE.

Sigma Chi and the KA's were noted for their outstanding scholastic accomplishments during the past year. The Sigma Chi's were second against all the other Sigma Chi's chapters in the nation which certainly deserves worthy credit, and the KA's were first in their providence scholastically.

They sat on the porch at midnight

And the bull-dog did the rest.

"How would you punctuate this sentence: Mary went swimming and lost her bathing suit?"
"I'd make a dash after Mary."

"There are my grandmother's ashes."
"Oh, so the poor soul has passed on?"
"No, She's just to damn lazy to look for an ash tray."

This Life In Old England

By Erich Fournier

Cambridge—

One Sunday night on the pavement of King's Parade . . . in front, the huge white structure of King's College Chapel . . . two undergraduates pass by. Suddenly a commotion of hurried steps. Majestic and stiff comes the Proctor, wearing cap and gown. He watches to see that nothing happens to offend the mortality and the decorum. His two assistants, the bull dogs, chosen for their ability to race, and dressed in tuxedo and top hat look like they have been resurrected from a novel of Kafka. On their face can be read an indescribable stupidity. One of them rushes into an obscure nook where a delinquent is crouched. He takes him to the Proctor, who, with the most extreme politeness asks him, "Are you from the University, Sir?" The answer spurts out unexpected, "Good God, No, I am from THE university." No doubt, this must be an Oxford student on week-end making the traditional joke.

Oxford and Cambridge are the two great passions of Great Britain. To have been educated at Eton or Winchester marks a man, but to be a "Camtale" or an "Oxonian" classes him definitely in Life. Thence, nothing is spared. Families divide, father against son, mother against daughter. Each "University match" which opposes the men of "Oxbridge" always launches flows of ink and enthusiasm.

The rivalry reaches as far as the nomenclature and the spirit. The college cloister is called a "squad" at Oxford and a "court" at Cambridge. Oxford calls examinations "Schools" and Cambridge names them "trips". While the Camtale are not distinguished by their accent, Oxford has the well-known "Lah-di-dah" accent—bombastic and arrogant, which spread all around the embassies of Her Gracious Majesty.

Cambridge dislikes any kind of fantasy and does not forgive brilliance—On the opposite, Oxford remains the city of all ambitions and of the most foolish causes. In Cambridge, the clubs have all a serious purpose, and the newspapers are a model of tediousness. In Oxford prosper poets and spicy stories, and flourish an incredible number of clubs estimated at 180. Besides the big political and social clubs, there are a few the purpose of which seems to be fantastic—such as the "trousers Club"—Its goal is to study the story of trousers through the ages, led by the motto: "Mens Ludicra in corpore adulto" while the "Bath Club" is opened to those who succeeded in taking once a bath in a girl's college.

This rivalry often stays within the boundaries of the University to take place between the colleges, for, it is essentially at college that the student learns to know his friends and his enemies. Before belonging to the University, the student is from Balliol or Queens college, he is a Magdalen man or a Nuffield man. The college is both a large fraternity and a formidable mafia whose ramifications spread all over the world. This gives rise to traditional bouts like the one which took place between Balliol and Trinity, during the visit of Princess Elizabeth in 1948. The night before, men from Trinity crept into the beautiful gardens of Balliol. In the morning, the awakening of the Balliol men was rather painful when they saw their lawns, mowed for centuries with loving care, burned and devastated with a huge chalky inscription stripping this disaster: "Bloody Balliol." The repartee of Balliol was ingenious but unhappily inefficacious. A young undergraduate who was to release in the dining hall of Trinity two dozen pigeons fed nothing but a laxative for 24 hours, was caught by a too cautious door-keeper.

In Oxford, social life is very active. The student is allowed to give cocktail parties in his room for which the "Scout" (the word janitor is unknown) will serve. There are several smart sets which envy and detest each other. To "Wildeau Habits" is the lot of a small number of people, and one can see passing by at the bar of the elegant Randolph Hotel a tall slender young man wearing ear-rings, followed by two dreadful broad shouldered warriors calling each other with affection "darling" or "dearie". Cambridge is more inhibited and does not fancy this palette of eccentricities which make all the charm of Oxford. But it is no longer the paradise of the golden and profligate youth of the twenties that Evelyn Waugh has painted in "Brideshead Revisited".

At Oxford and Cambridge, young girls are scarce. For 7,000 boy-students there are only one thousand girl-students. It is obviously necessary to be (See OLD ENGLAND, page 8)

"The Perfect English Butler" to Appear in CU Oct. 21, at 8 p.m.

Arthur Treacher, stage, screen, radio, and television personality who achieved fame as "the perfect English butler," appears in the College Union Building Ballroom on Friday, October 21, 1955, at 8:00 p.m. Mr. Treacher, who will give a series of readings from humorous literature, has entitled his program "A Pocketful of Wry." Having appeared in over 60 motion pictures, he became famous through his Hollywood portrayal of P. G. Wodehouse's literary butler, Jeeves.

Claude Rains and Edmund Gwenn are some of the well-known actors who appeared with Treacher in London theatrical productions before he came to America to play in musical reviews with Al Jolson and Jack Benny.

A versatile actor, as he proved by playing opposite Ethel Barrymore and Ethel Merman in Broadway productions, Treacher's international fame still lies in his comic interpretations of household employees— notably butlers.

The entertainment will be sponsored by the College Union Forum Committee, headed by Chairman George Cline, of Chapel Hill; and a coffee hour is planned following the event where the audience will have a chance to meet the actor. There will be no charge for State students, or for the faculty and staff who are College Union members.

R. G. Fortune Class Of '25 Comments On Changing Systems

In a recent visit to the Technician offices, a 1925 graduate of State College, after having commented on the improvements on the campus, brought out the fact that then as now the quarter system was preferred over the semester system.

R. G. (Bob) Fortune stated that the short time during which the semester system was tried it was found to be inferior to the quarter. Both the Student Government and the faculty approved the change back to the quarter according to Bob, who served as Circulation Manager of the Technician in 1925.

1953 found the quarter system going out again. Now entering its second year the semester system is regarded by students who were here before the change as less desirable to the time tested and time proved quarter system.

Bob, who holds a B.S. degree in Electrical Engineering, is Division Superintendent of the Western Division of the Carolina Power and Light Company in Asheville, N. C.

New Art Exhibit In The College Union

LIPCHITZ' "BIRTH OF THE MUSES", an exhibition revealing the sculptor at work on the development of this monumental bronze will be on view from October 4 through October 18 in The College Union Gallery. Consisting of bronze models and large scale photographs taken over a period of nine months, the show has been prepared by the Museum of Modern Art for a tour of museums and college galleries throughout the country.

Jacques Lipchitz was born in Lithuania in 1891. At school, he first studied engineering, but his desire to become a sculptor led him to Paris in 1909, where, after academic beginnings, he came under the influence of the Cubist movement. By the early 1930's he had turned away from these investigations towards a more naturalistic expression of his reactions to an increasingly tortured world. In 1941, he left Paris, where he had acquired an international reputation, and came to live in New York City.

The exhibition traces Lipchitz' interest in this theme back to a sculpture of Pegasus done in 1929. A photopanel of five bronze models show subsequent versions of the Pegasus; the first of Pegasus in full profile, his wings in violent motion and his hoofs striking a rock on Mount Olympus thus, according to legend, giving birth to the Muses. One of the first of the photographic sequence shows the artist working with a photostat of this early model blown up to scale for the space over the fireplace for which the "Muses" was designed.

The text accompanying the exhibition notes: "Lipchitz has a truly great sculptor's sense of the dynamic interplay of forms in relation to light and draws on a rich sculptural experience to achieve this end. In his mature work such as the "Birth of the Muses", there is a baroque vitality and an explosive romantic sentiment. It is a magnificent example of the intensity of feeling and the majestic power which are characteristic of his sculpture at its best."

The photographs were taken by the well known photographer, William Vandivert, who with extraordinary insight has caught and revealed the artist in his most creative moments as well as the interesting techniques involved in the forming and casting of such a large sculpture.

Vet's Corner

By Bob Lane

The membership of the North Carolina State Veteran's Association was the largest ever starting a school year. So far this year there are 401 members.

The first meeting of the Veteran's Association was held Thursday night in the College Union Theater and reception room. The regular date and time of the meeting is the first and third Thursday of each month at 7 P.M. The door prizes, contributed by Mr. Ivey of the Student Supply Store and Dan Bratkowsky, secretary of the club last year, consisted of several albums of records, a North Carolina State plate and a five-dollar gift certificate from Norman's Clothing Store. We wish to express our appreciation to these people in helping to make our first meeting a success. There were several problems brought up and discussed such as what happens when you can not meet the partial payment at the Business Office. If you are one of the many in this fix, be sure to go over and talk to Mr. Murray at the Business Office and see if your first payment can be put off. He is the only one in the Business Office that can help.

The first social of the season was held Saturday night at Gresham's Lake, and was thought to be a big success by quite a few boys.

The officers of the Veteran's Association elected in the Spring term are: Bob Lane, President, Holland Conrad, Vice President, Dan Yager, Secretary, Bill Lippard, Treasurer, and Charlie English, Sgt. at Arms. Since Holland Conrad did not return to school this semester, nominations for a new Vice President were made. Ed Rose nominated Hunter Blackwell and Frank Taylor nominated Marion Hawkins. Nominations will remain open until the election is held at the next meeting on Thursday, October 20. Anyone wishing to run is welcome to put his name in at this time. Ed Lackey was appointed Social Chairman with Jimmy Sykes and Ernest Forbes helping him.

Those boys over in Owen Dormitory are really going to town on operation spirit. They have come up with the idea of a whole dormitory sitting together at the Wake Forest game. I believe Fred Josephs and Benny Leazer are helping a good deal with this. That is the kind of spirit we need. I hope it's a big success.

Don't forget the Veteran's Association Fall Dance on November 5th in the College Union Ballroom. Music by Dave Brown, Sr. and refreshments will be served. This is open to everyone and cost only a dollar per couple.

Ag. Club Meets

Dr. Ray Murley and members of the Dairy Judging team gave an interesting account of their recent contest in the Ag. Club Tuesday night in the College Union Ballroom.

Members of the team were Freeman Dickey, Eugene Carroll, Bland Franklin, and Douglas Clawson.

The team placed first in the Southern Intercollegiate Dairy Judging Contest at Memphis, Tennessee.

In the National Contest at Waterloo, Wisconsin, the team placed third among thirty-four teams.

Other business on the agenda was a report on the Barnwarming by Bert Kalet. President Max Lloyd termed the event "as one of the best in recent years."

Said Adam to Eve: "You've gone and put my dress suit in the salad again."

Hear At State

by Sidney Pureblood, Jr.

Never before! No-never before (and possibly never again) has this column been in The Technician. This week is the first time "Hear at State" has appeared in our school paper.

The primary purpose of this column will be to inform. It is my hope that such information will be presented in an interesting manner. An assumed name has been used for several reasons which will probably be given in a later article.

The style of writing may change from time to time, simply for the sake of variety. Sometimes what will be written will not be presented in the best way—by journalistic or grammatical standards. Subtle, blunt, light, sarcastic, or serious—whichever way a story is told is not as important to me as getting the point across in an enjoyable way.

A cross-section of college life will be the aim of "Hear, at State." But it should be remembered that I can't interest all the people all the time. I hope, however, to interest some of the people most of the time.

Finally, I want to say that I am glad to have this opportunity to talk directly to you. I hope we get to be good friends this year. If you have any criticism of "Hear at State," let me know and I will do my best to correct it.

RUSH WEEK

We certainly do have an awful lot of good boys up here this year being rushed by the social fraternities. More than ever before, I've heard, look the fraternities over, men; it's an important decision. If you get tired of your wife, you can get rid of her (in numerous ways!) but remember, your fraternity will be with you the rest of your life.

We had a complaint to register with the School. Why were Chemistry tests and Hygiene tests scheduled at night during Rush Week? I say we HAD a complaint. The reason for this situation has been explained by Banks Talley. These tests were scheduled last year. At that time, Rush Week was planned for the week of October 9-15. Later, it was decided to move fraternities' rushing functions to the following week right in on top of these tests. So... it isn't the School's fault at all but that of the IFC. Somebody should have been awake.

We'll close after one more comment on fraternities. The IFC set definite rushing hours last year. Signing up hours were to end at 10:00 p.m. on Tuesday. To change such a ruling, even for one hour, it should take a majority vote by the IFC, shouldn't it, Henry Pickett?

The views and opinions of this column do not necessarily represent those of THE TECHNICIAN.

The main trouble with the straight and narrow is that there is no place to park.

Five Minutes Of Thanksgiving

A prayer of Thanksgiving for the new Chapel being built in the wing of the YMCA Building will be given at 12 o'clock noon on Friday of this week.

Brick layers, carpenters, concrete mixers, foremen and architects will join interested students and faculty in five minutes of giving thanks.

"It is appropriate that as we commence this important project, we consecrate the labor of our hands and the usefulness of our gift to the glory of God," said Mr. Woodridge, General Secretary of the YMCA. In the spirit of a ground breaking ceremony, representatives from the administration and faculty, along with members of the student body will pause in brief prayer beside the workmen now building the Chapel to ask God's blessing on their labor and their toil.

If you are passing the YMCA Building at noon on Friday, why not join in this pause of Thanks giving for five minutes?
