150 Attend YMCA Freshman Retreat

By David Barnhardt

Last Sunday 150 freshmen began their college life here at State by attending the Freshman Retreat sponsored by the State College YMCA.

With a theme for the Retreat of "The Uniqueness of Our College Community," the Retreat opened with a religious over-tone pervading the atmosphere of the meeting. Faculty and student leaders spoke to the freshmen at various times throughout the Retreat and small groups of the freshmen met at other times with individual members of the YMCA Cabinet.

Student Speakers

Student speakers included Charles Law, President of the YMCA, who welcomed the young men to the college and to the "Y"; John Lane, Vice-president of the Student Government; Ed Rose, who discussed "High School Seniors—Now College Freshmen;" John Lomax, who spoke on "Decisions Only We Can Make In College;" and John Arnold, whose topic was "Religious Maturity During Our Academic Development."

Faculty Speakers

From the Faculty Dr. Arthur Kelman, Professor of Plant Pathology, discussed "How Education In College Differs From High School;" Dr. Roy Lovvorn, Agriculture Professor, who spoke about "Personal and Social Responsibilities As College Men;" and Dr. C. C. Scarborough, Professor of Agricultural Education, whose topic was "Growing Religiously In A Technical College."

Oscar Wooldridge, Coordinator of Religious Affairs and the man responsible for much of the planning and success of the Retreat, led the devotions each morning in Danforth Chapel and made short comments to the freshmen throughout the Retreat.

Varied Activities

Dormitory Room Shortage

Expected Fall Enrollment May Set New Record

State College opened its doors to a record class of incoming students again this past Tuesday. With approximately 1,475 Freshmen and some 350 transfer and graduate students entering State for the first time, the new class and the expected enrollment promised to top records set last year in the Fall.

Orientation Program

The students arrived Tuesday and embarked on a three-day orientation program headed by Dan Yager. The program included speeches from student leaders on various activities on the campus, meetings with Dorm groups, X-rays, physical education tests, and information meetings with personnel from various departments. This afternoon, the Freshmen met with their department heads for their first look at the department in which they will study for the next four years.

The program reaches its climax Friday with student registration, but planned activities are scheduled for the weekend as well, with a dance Saturday night at the College Union and the annual Chancellor's reception Sunday afternoon.

Room Shortage

The overflow crowd has created unusual problems in the dormitory office. J. S. Fulghum, head of the Dormitory rental office, said Tuesday that all 1130 rooms on the campus had been filled and that he had a waiting list of approximately 300 students. He expressed hope that the surrounding area would be able to support some of the students and that there would be some cancellations among the Freshmen and upperclassmen which would provide rooms later in the week. He scotched the rumor that some students might be placed in four man rooms as "definitely impossible."

Freshmen Welcome

Welcome to North Carolina State College and to the Technician. We hope that your impression of your college newspaper is a good one. You can do your part in helping to make the Technician truly the student's newspaper by becoming a member of either the business or editorial staff. Although experience is helpful it is not required.

As far as salary is concerned, there is little if any. If you have the will to try, we'll supply the necessary to go with it.

If you feel that you would like to help on your college newspaper, come by the Technician offices in Room 138 in 1911 Building on any Monday or Tuesday nights after 7 p.m.

Admissions Policy

Miss Lavern Sykes of the Registration office stated that due to a change in Admissions policy there was hope that there would be fewer "No-shows" this year. She pointed out that the entrance exam requirement and a five dollar fee required for admission should halt the "college-shopping" that has been prevalent in the past.

Freshmen here for the YMCA retreat early in the week are shown above debarking from their "tour wagon" in front of the Textile School Monday afternoon. The driver and leader of the tour are Frank Townsend and Gene Bostian.

$3 Registration Fee

New Regulations Announced Regarding Student Parking

N. B. Watts, Coordinator of Student Housing, and, in addition, in charge of student traffic and parking regulations, announced this week the new regulations on student parking which go into effect immediately.

$3 Fee

The most apparent change in the policy is the alteration in procedure for registration of all vehicles. In the past registration has been free of charge for the students, but this year a $3.00 fee is being levied for each registration. Watts explained Tuesday that this is being done in order to facilitate paving of parking areas and construction of new lots and to provide for better enforcement of traffic regulations.

Watts also stated that a change has been made in the parking policy itself. He revealed that only one type of sticker will be issued this year for students living on or off campus. This will entitle students to park in any area open to students on the campus.

Penalties

Registration requirements will be the same, as will the penalty for a nonregistered car. All students must register their cars and motor scooters and any vehicle belonging to a student found parked on campus without registration will subject that student to a $10.00 fine.

Mr. Watts also announced that work is going forward on a new student parking lot on Hillsboro Street next to the A. & P. This lot will be restricted to student use and will be closed to the faculty.

In concluding his statement Mr. Watts stressed that he hoped the students would understand the new fee. He said, "Student Government itself voted for the fee last spring to help our problem along and, though it may be irksome, it will pay rich dividends as the money is invested in expanded facilities."

Policy on Student Athletic Books, Away Games, Tickets Announced

Director of Athletics Roy B. Clogston released information Tuesday concerning this year's policy on student books and tickets for out of town ball games and for dates' and wives' tickets. The policy of the Athletic Department is approximately the same as last year.

1. Student Athletic books will be issued during registration.

2. Carolina Game: All students are eligible to pick up a coupon for $1.75 at Ticket Windows in front of the Coliseum, beginning Monday morning, September 17. They must present their Athletic books when they purchase coupon. DATE TICKET COUPONS MAY BE PURCHASED FOR $3.50. Coupon issue will close Thursday afternoon, September 20 at 4:30 p.m.

3. Home Games: All home game tickets will be first come first serve at Student Gate the day of the game. The gate will open two hours prior to the game.

4. Date and Wives tickets-home games: A season book good for four home varsity games and three home freshman games may be purchased for $8.00. This represents approximately $17.00 in admissions.

C U Ballroom

Freshman Dance To Be Held Saturday

The annual Freshman Dance of North Carolina State College will be held in the College Union Ballroom Saturday night from 8 o'clock until midnight, with Jim Crisp and his band providing the music.

All freshmen attending the college during the fall semester will be invited to attend.

In a get-acquainted gesture, hundreds of girls from Averett College, Woman's College, Meredith, St. Mary's and Peace will attend as guests of State College for the occasion.

The event is co-sponsored by the College Union dance and social committees and the Student Government. There will be no admittance charge. Dress will be informal.

The dance comes as a climax to an all-day "open house" to be held at the College Union Saturday. All the facilities of the Union will be made available to students and visitors. A movie, the "Crimson Pirate," will be shown at the Union Theater at 1, 3, 7, and 9 p.m. under the sponsorship of the CU film committee.

Sutherland Assumes Management of Leazer Hall

A. G. Sutherland, Jr., a native of Charlotte and graduate of the University of Tennessee, has assumed his duties as director of food service at North Carolina State College, J. G. Vann, business manager of the college, recently announced.

Prior to accepting the N. C. State assignment, Sutherland was director of food service for the Martha Berry Schools and College at Rome, Ga., and formerly was assistant manager of Fontana Village, Inc., which is operated by Government Service, Inc., Washington, D. C.

EDITORIAL COMMENT:

"Welcome"

It is always a thrill for upperclassmen to welcome a group of freshmen to a college in the fall of the school year. Though you have not met many of the Sophs., Juniors or Seniors yet, believe those of us who are here to greet you when we say that we are genuinely glad to see you.

You will receive a lot of advice in the next few weeks. Some of it will be good and some will be bad . . . the decisions you make will have to be made by you for the first time in your life.

State is a big school. It has a large physical plant and its student body is growing each year as more room is available. You people are by far the largest group on the campus and you could have a lot of influence if you will but use it.

There are activities on this campus that even the oldest head here doesn't know about. We have everything from newspapers to outing clubs and each and every one of them needs your support to continue to operate, for in three short years you will be the Seniors and these people will be long gone.

Look around these first few weeks. Organizations will approach you almost immediately with overtures of one sort or another. Consider them all. If you know where your interests lie, go ahead full steam, because you will have an early start. But above all . . . participate in the college community . . . you will receive far more than you invest.

"Take It Easy"

Mr. N. B. Watts' announcement of the new vehicle registration fee will come as an unusual and unsettling surprise to many of the upperclassmen when they return to school Saturday. There will probably be a fine howl raised in the Coliseum.

But before we yell too loudly, let's take a minute and survey the reasons behind this fee.

State has been fortunate during the last few years in the fact that as fast as this traffic problem appeared, there were people on the campus alert enough to take action immediately. For a period extending back before any of us came to State, there has been regulated parking on the campus. It has become more stringent as the number of cars has grown, but we still have the problem fairly well under control.

Carolina is facing a definite step which we have successfully avoided so far. The Student Government of our sister unit had to ban all freshmen automobiles last spring as a last ditch effort to avoid a more serious crackdown on the parking problem from their administration and other higher authorities. If their plan works, there will be those who will say, "Let's do the same at State." Our best and only answer to a challenge of this nature would be, "We've solved our problem ourselves. That just wouldn't make sense here."

To make a long story short, a little cooperation and understanding will go a long way. Let's try to be tolerant and perhaps as the problem is alleviated, the fee can be reduced and eventually removed again.

Little Men On Campus

by Dick Bibler

"That's Mr. Haywick—he's in charge of freshman orientation."

Hear Ye Freshmen

Future Is Bright

"For the newly-graduated engineer, 1955-56 proved to be a banner year."

Thus, the School of Engineering at North Carolina State College sums up the employment situation of its recent graduates in its annual Placement Report released by Dr. J. Harold Lampe, dean of engineering.

Mrs. Marie P. Wicker, Placement Director, is the author of the three-page report which contains data on company interviews and salary offers for the Engineering School's class of 1956. Her facts and figures reveal nothing but good prospects for young engineers.

Many industrial companies and governmental agencies on the local, State and national level came this year to turn on their charms for engineering seniors. For 232 seniors there were 232 separate organizations, a 19 per cent increase over last year, who sent representatives to the School of Engineering. A total of 2,268 interviews were arranged for engineering seniors—an average of nearly 10 per student.

These companies again jacked up the amount and number of salary offers, following the rising trend of recent years. Among those seniors who chose employment rather than graduate study or military service, the average figure for salaries accepted was $421.84. Last year's average starting salary of $386 seems modest in comparison. The companies made 943 offers of positions, 331 more than last year.

Furthermore, the Placement Report explains, "this was the year of gimmicks!" Companies used many other inducements beside salaries to lure engineers into employment. They offered over-time payments, life insurance and hospitalization benefits and bonuses. In addition, many of them dangled payment of moving expenses, reimbursement for part-time graduate study and cost-of-living allowances (as high as $200 a month) before the eyes of State College's engineers.

Of the 201 seniors who accepted positions, the largest number were employed by electrical manufacturing and research, aircraft and chemical companies. Industry and government in North Carolina hired 67 seniors as compared with 50 in 1955. Including these men, 144 chose to remain in the South. Among the remaining 57 who are working elsewhere, the largest single group, 17, have taken jobs in California.

The Placement Report ends with a look to the coming year. Already the interview calendar of the Placement Office is filled from January through March, the period in which the most intensive recruitment activity takes place. Twenty-two companies which have not previously visited the School of Engineering to inspect its crop of engineers have requested their first interview dates.

In explaining the heavy demand for graduates of the State College School of Design, Dean Henry L. Kamphoefner said: "The United States is now enjoying one of the greatest major booms in the history of the country. This activity is being felt in North Carolina with an impact as great as anywhere else. I have been taking telephone calls from all parts of the U. S. from architects who are not only looking for help, but begging for it."

In North Carolina alone, Dean Kamphoefner said, there are close to 10 positions open for each man graduating. Salaries, he stated, "run from a low of $65 a week to a high of about $100 depending upon age, experience and competency of the man."

Dean Richard J. Preston of the School of Forestry said his graduates had "at least 10 available jobs" with starting salaries ranging from $3,600 to $5,300 and averaging about $4,200.

Dr. Victor A. Rice, director of instruction in the State College School of Agriculture, said reports from department heads in his school also indicate a heavy demand for graduates in all phases of agriculture.

Reporting for the Soils and Field Crops Departments in the School of Agriculture, Dr. Homer C. Folks said, "Starting salaries range from $3,500 with the Federal government to $7,000 with commercial organizations. The major portion of our students go out at salaries ranging between $4,200 and $5,000."

In the School of Education which trains teachers in industrial arts, mathematics and science education, and agricultural education as well as industrial and rural recreational personnel, Dean J. Bryant Kirkland said it would take five times as many graduates as he had this year to meet the demand. He said there is a demand for 10 times as many industrial arts teachers as graduated.

G. N. Dunlap, director of the Placement Bureau in State College's School of Textiles, said that his school is experiencing its greatest demand this year for graduates and that companies from 18 states have sent representatives to the campus to contact prospective employees. Starting salaries are in the same general range as those in engineering.

Emphasizing the demand for graduates and the "excellent employment opportunities facing them," Dunlap said that one company alone wants more men this year than the entire textile graduating class of North Carolina State College.

No letup in the demand, he stated, is foreseen at this time. In fact, he said, indications point to an even greater demand as the textile industry expands, prepares to manufacture a wider range of goods, and adjusts its physical assets to the new age of automation.

Alumni Magazine Receives Award

The North Carolina State College News, monthly magazine published by the college's Alumni Association, has won honorable mention in the institution division of the American Alumni Council's 1956 magazine competition.

The State College journal was cited for its outstanding presentation of the story of the college through feature articles and news stories about educational and financial policy, new programs of instruction, faculty accomplishments and changes, and other campus news developments.

It marks the second consecutive year that the North Carolina State College News has won honors in the national competition. Last year the N. C. State magazine was cited for outstanding journalistic achievement in its field.

H. W. (Pop) Taylor serves as editor while Frances Thompson, administrative assistant in the State College Alumni Office, is associate editor of the magazine, and Sanford Martin, Jr., in charge of development publications at the college, is the managing editor.

"I wonder if I could make you melt in my arms?"

"No, I'm not that soft and you're not that hot."

Three New Officers Report to A-ROTC

Three new officers have reported for duty with the Army ROTC staff of North Carolina State College.

They are Major T. R. Spinella, a native of Rhode Island; Capt. E. B. Turner, Jr., of Columbia, S. C.; and Chief Warrant Officer H. G. Marshall of New Castle, Pa.

Major Spinella enlisted in the Army in 1939, was commissioned in 1942, and saw service in the Pacific during World War II with an Engineer Amphibian Brigade. Upon separation after World War II, he attended New York University; and returned to active duty with the Office of the Inspector General, Department of the Army. He then attended the Engineer Officer's Associate Advance Course at Fort Belvoir and served in Korea in the 13th Engineer Battalion (Combat), 7th Division.

Captain Turner was graduated from The Citadel and was commissioned in 1948. Since that time, he has served in Germany in the Artillery and at the Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., as an Ordnance Officer.

CWO Marshall is a veteran

Honor Society Taps Eleven Students

New Economics Head Announced

Appointment of Dr. Clark Lee Allen of College Station, Texas, as head of the Department of Economics at North Carolina State College has been announced by Dr. Carey H. Boston, chancellor of the college, and Dr. C. Addison Hickman, dean of the college's School of General Studies.

A native of Missouri, Dr. Allen succeeds Dr. Hickman who was promoted last February from Department head to dean of the School of General Studies. Dr. Allen already has assumed his duties.

Dr. Allen resigned a position as head of the Department of Economics at Texas A & M College to accept the N. C. State assignment. He held the Texas A & M post for two years and prior to that was head of the Department of Economics at Florida State University from 1949 to 1954.

He earned his B.A. degree from McKendree College in Illinois in 1932, his M.A. degree from Duke University in 1942.

From 1929 to 1939, he was a high school teacher in Illinois and was head of the Price Administration in Atlanta, Ga., from 1942-43. Later he served for three years as assistant professor of economics at Duke University. He spent the academic year, 1946-47, as an associate professor of economics at Northwestern University and returned to Duke with that rank for two years.

Dr. Allen is the author of several books and technical articles and is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Kappa Phi.

Thirty and Three, State College's Sophomore Leadership Honor Society released the names of eleven new members after school closed for the summer last year.

These men, chosen by the members of Thirty and Three as the eleven outstanding sophomores last year, join past members of the organization who have gone on to prove their ability in top-ranking college posts later in their college careers. The men are elected on the basis of scholastic as well as leadership ability and on their past achievements in both fields.

This year's electees include David Weinstein of Lumberton, James M. Peden, Jr. of Raleigh, Wiley F. Ritter, Jr. of Robbins, Benjamin H. Barnette of LeNoir, Daniel D. Yager, Jr. of Leaksville, William A. Graham, III of Charlotte, James M. Davis, Jr. of Rocky Mount, Robert J. Tanen of Brooklyn, N. Y., Robert P. Kennel of New Bern, W. Robert Lane of Wilmington and Robert C. Lyne, Jr. of Richmond, Va.

Sophs. Could be Key to Pack's Success This Season Says Edwards

Head football coach Earle Edwards has been pleased with the showing of North Carolina State's sophomore crop since grid practice began Sept. 1.

"We will be using our sophomores quite a bit this year," he said, "and I'm delighted over the spirit, hustle and determination which has been shown thus far."

In the line, Edwards singled out the work of end Bob Pepe, tackles Francis Palandrani and Larry Dixon, guards Larry Cox, Joe Rodri, Kelly Minyard, Frank Marocco and Bill Rearick, centers Ron Savage and Paul Balonick.

Backfield rookies making a strong bid for the varsity are quarterbacks Frank Cackovic and Ernie Discoll, halfbacks Jay Margerum, Ken Trowbridge and Ken Nye, and fullbacks Don Hafer and Arnold Nelson.

"These boys have shown me they want to play football," Edwards said, "and it's encouraging to see them work so hard. Because of their efforts, our squad will have more depth than at any time since I've been here."

Thus far, State's tentative first-string lineup might indicate a lack of experience, since only two seniors are included. But five of the juniors were listed in the starting lineup last year.

Thus far, the Wolfpack has been using John Collar and John Lowe at ends. Both were starters a year ago. Collar is a junior, while Lowe is a senior.

At tackle John Szuchan, a senior, teams with Dick DeAngelis, a junior who was a reserve last year. Szuchan was a first-stringer in 1955.

Both guards are juniors and are newcomers to the starting lineup. They are Julius (Bugs) Compton and Francis Tokar. Jim Oddo, another junior, alternated at the pivot post last season with Dick Tonn.

40 Frosh Report for Grid Drills Under Coach Bill Smaltz

Forty promising freshmen football candidates reported for practice at North Carolina State last week. Coach Bill Smaltz and his staff have been conducting two-a-day drills since Thursday in preparation for their seasons opener on September 28th against Duke's frosh.

Twenty-three of the candidates hail from the State of North Carolina.

Wolfpack Opens '56 Grid Card On Sept. 22 Against Carolina

North Carolina State College will play a 10-game football schedule in 1956 which includes the Atlantic Coast Conference contests.

The Wolfpack will meet every team in the ACC with the exception of Virginia. Inter-sectional games will be with Penn State, Virginia Tech, Dayton and Florida State.

Newcomers to the schedule are: Penn State, South Carolina, Dayton, Clemson and Maryland. Missing are West Virginia, William and Mary, Villanova, Boston University and Furman.

Ironically, no team which State defeated last year appears on the new schedule. The Wolfpack compiled a 4-5-1 record with wins over Villanova, Furman, Boston University and William and Mary.

"We are fortunate in lining up such an attractive card," Clogston said. "We have strengthened the schedule considerably by adding such teams as Penn State, Dayton and Maryland along with teams in our own conference, who are always tough."

State will have four home games which will be played in Riddick Stadium. They are with Florida State, South Carolina, Clemson and Maryland. The Clemson and FSU contests are at night while South Carolina has been designated as Homecoming.

Away games are with North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Wake Forest in Winston-Salem, Duke at Durham, Virginia Tech at Norfolk, Va., Dayton at Dayton, Ohio, and Penn State at University Park, Pa.

The complete schedule: (conference games marked with *)

Date	Opponent	Place
Sept. 22	*North Carolina	Chapel Hill
Sept. 29	Virginia Tech	Norfolk
Oct. 6	*Clemson (night)	Raleigh
Oct. 13	Florida St. (night)	Raleigh
Oct. 20	Dayton	Dayton, Ohio
Oct. 27	Duke	Durham
Nov. 3	*Wake Forest	Winston-Salem
Nov. 10	*South Car. (Homecoming)	Raleigh
Nov. 17	Penn State	University Park, Pa.
Nov. 22	*Maryland	Raleigh

It was a close contest. So close, in fact, that it looked like a run off would have to be held. But three of the last five ballots enabled Bob Paroli to win.

The contest? Oh, it was to see which player on the State College football team looked best in Bermuda shorts.

Paroli, a 240-pound tackle from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., credits his shapely legs for the victory. He won over George Marinkov, who was disqualified for being bow legged, and Tony Guerrieri, who lost out because of excessive muscles.

Backfield coach Al Michaels was runner up to Paroli. The entire squad took part in the voting.

Edwards and Staff Pleased With Squad's Progress Since Sept. 1st

Earle Edwards, North Carolina State football coach, has watched his 60-man squad in three scrimmages since practice began Sept. 1 and is smiling over the results.

"We have made good progress thus far," Edwards said, "and I have been pleased with the team's showing. Our boys are trying hard, and the attitude of the team is exceptionally good. Everything is coming along fine."

State's main project at present is installing new plays in its multiple offensive system. "We are trying some new things this year," Edwards explained, "and it's taking a little time to get everything done. Our basic defenses are being changed, too."

Edwards has been sticking close to the lineups which were picked the second day of practice, but he said that no position was certain. "We might make a few changes after we have had a chance to see one or two more scrimmages," he said.

The tentative first team has had John Collar and John Lowe at ends, John Suchan and Dick DeAngelis at tackles, Julius Compton and Francis Tokar at guards and Jim Oddo at center. The backfield has Tom Katich at quarterback, Dick Christy and Dick Hunter at halfbacks and Tony Guerrieri at fullback.

On the second team, Jay Beacon and Don Miketa have been the ends, Francis Palandrani and Hank Spivey at tackles, Joe Rodri and Larry Cox at guards, Ron Savage at center, Bill Franklin at quarterback, George Marinkov and Mike Miller at halfbacks, and Wally Prince at fullback.

"There are several boys anxious for a crack at those two teams," Edwards said. "Bob Pepe at end, Tom Guerrieri and Larry Dixon at tackle, Ed Hordubay and Bill Rearick at guard, Frank Cackovic at quarterback, Jay Margerum and Ken Trowbridge at halfback and Don Hafer at fullback haven't been counted out by a long shot."

Edwards is especially happy over the extra time to get ready for the opener with North Carolina Sept. 22. "Last year we were really rushed and didn't have enough practice. We can certainly use the additional workouts this year."

Only five players on the North Carolina State football squad are married. They are ends John Lowe and Finley Reed, tackle Bob Paroli, guard Kelly Minyard and halfback Dick Christy.

Three North Carolina State football coaches—including head coach Earle Edwards—are graduates of Penn State. Al Michaels and Bill Smaltz also are Nittany Lions alumni.

Herman Bunch, Jr. Named Head Train. for Athletic Dept.

Herman Bunch, Jr., a native of Clinton, has been named head athletic trainer at North Carolina State College. The appointment was announced by Athletic Director Roy B. Clogston.

Bunch comes to State from the University of North Carolina where he served as assistant trainer for the past five years while completing work on his BA and ME degrees in Physical Education.

The 23-year-old trainer succeeds Merle (Red) McIntosh who resigned recently. He began his new duties Aug. 1.

"We are pleased to have a man of Mr. Bunch's calibre join our staff," Clogston said. "He comes to us highly recommended by UNC officials and we feel that he will be an asset to our expanding athletic program."

Clogston said that Bunch would have charge of all sports except basketball. Harold Keating, a member of the State College staff for eight years, will serve as basketball trainer and assist with football and baseball.

Bunch was graduated from Clinton High School in 1951 and lettered in football and baseball. He entered UNC the same year and received his BA degree in 1955 and his ME degree in 1956. A bachelor, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bunch, Sr.

Noted Author to Appear at CU

Katherine Anne Porter, noted author, will present selections from her works as one of the 1956-57 entertainment schedule of the North Carolina State College Union.

Miss Porter will appear on the College Union series on Friday, October 19. The annual listing of major entertainment events at the State College Union, which was released yesterday, also includes a wide range of other lectures, concerts, art displays, and the showing of 31 motion pictures.

The schedule will feature a lecture by Dimitri Rebikoff, president, Submarine Institute, Cannes, France, October 2; a talk by Arthur C. Clarke, space travel expert, November 13; a performance by the Frankel-Ryder Drama Company February 15; a concert by the Roger Wagner Chorale February 22; and the presentation of plays by Players Incorporated of Washington, D. C., March 1 and 2.

Among the amateur entertainment to be offered will be the Student Talent Show October 5; and dramatic performances by the Goldsboro Goldmasquers November 2; and East Carolina College Playhouse November 16; and the North Carolina State College Drama Club May 3. There will also be the annual State College One-Act Play Night on December 7.

In addition, there will be a wide range of demonstrations on oil painting, ceramics, copper enameling, picture-frame making, and other topics; dances and bridge tournaments; travel talks; film talks; and other events.

The film schedule which opens on September 14 will feature the showing of 31 top Hollywood motion pictures.

CU Blueprints '56-'57 Program

The College Union social staff, officers and committee chairmen have just returned from a three-day retreat at the beach during which time a blueprint for the 1956-57 CU program was discussed.

This year the CU once again will offer a program of regularly scheduled weekly activities, open to all students and CU members.

Included are bridge lessons to be given every Tuesday night at 7:30; duplicate bridge, for those who already know how to play bridge, every Wednesday night at 7:30; square dance lessons each Wednesday night at 7:30 in the CU Ballroom; social dance lessons for beginners in the CU Ballroom every Thursday night at 7:30; free movies on Saturdays from 1:00 p.m. til 11:00 p.m. and Sundays at 1:00, 3:00 and 8:15; ceramic classes every Thursday at 7:15; and handicraft classes every Wednesday night at 7:15.

Two of the most popular of the CU activities that will be repeated this year are the Platter Parties and Cabaret Dances. The Platter Parties are informal record dances held every Friday night in the CU Snack Bar. Girls from St. Mary's, Meredith, Peace and the YWCA are invited as guests. The Cabaret Dances are held on Saturday night in the Snack Bar for couples only.

This year the Union is introducing a new event, the Student-Faculty "Apple Polishing Hour." It will be a come-and-sit-and-chat-and-drink-coffee hour every Tuesday at 5 p.m., and will offer both students and faculty a chance to become better acquainted.
