5170 Register On First Two Days

At the latest count, 5170 students registered during Friday and Saturday of last week in the Coliseum at State, an increase of over 300 students since last year at the same time. Late registration this week is expected to boost that number to almost 5300 students.

Much discussion about registration was heard from the students. Many of them commented that the new system of registering by alphabet seemed unfair to those who needed to register in certain classes before they became filled. Many others said this system makes registration more efficient if everyone cooperates by appearing at their scheduled times.

The Math, Chemistry, Electrical Engineering, and Physics departments received some criticism from students due to the extra long lines and slow registering; they were heard to suggest that more registrars be on hand to ease the bottleneck in those departments.

Almost everyone liked having registration on the Coliseum floor instead of the circular marathons of the balcony. There was more room to move around and the student could see almost every department from one spot.

A great deal of effort and thought have been expended by those in charge of registration to make it easier on the student. Many people have noticed a great improvement in the last few years, and the faculty joins with the students in hoping that in the very near future a registration system can be worked out to suit everybody.

Self Service Book Store Speeds Up Buying of Books By Freshmen

By David Barnhardt

Where were the long lines of students waiting to purchase books this year? Many upperclassmen noticed the change this year both in the new "self-service" system of selecting books and in the length of time it took them to get their books.

A New Room

The main reason that there has been less congestion at the Book Store this year is that the Students Supply Stores have opened a new room this year for the Class of 1960. This "freshman book store" contains only textbooks and drawing supplies for first year students.

No Shelves

Also designed along the "self-service" idea, it is probably the only book store around which has no shelves at all. The books are placed, rather, on "pallets." These "pallets," not made of straw and not for sleeping, are tabletops which have been placed on the floor and on which the

Off-Campus

All off-campus engineering students who wish to receive the Southern Engineer are requested to mail their name and address to the Southern Engineer, Box 5845, State College Station or bring to the office at 318 Riddick. In order to get the first issue, this should be done before October 18.

Watts Explains How Paving Is Paid For

Rumors and confusion have followed in the wake of last week's announcements from the Student Affairs office and the Athletic Department concerning the new parking lots and paving and the methods of paying for them.

N. B. Watts, Coordinator of student housing, stated that he hoped there had been no misunderstanding among the upperclassmen concerning the use of student money to pave the Coliseum lots. He restated that the Rosemary Henderson and Bobby Specht, noted skating artists, will play the leading roles in "Ice Capades of 1957" when the big ice spectacle is presented in the William Neal Reynolds Coliseum at North Carolina State College September 24-29.

Sutherland: "To Work With Students"

Stewart Resigns From Cafeteria Post

Harry Stewart, former manager of State's cafeteria, Leazer Hall, has resigned to accept another position following thirteen years of service at State.

Stewart, who was devoting a great deal of time to duties involved with a position with State's Wolfpack Club, left the college last spring following criticism of the cafeteria management, food, and service by the students of State and this paper last year.

He has been replaced by A. G. Sutherland, Jr., a Charlotte native and a graduate of the University of Tennessee. His appointment to the position was announced earlier in the summer by J. G. Vann, business manager of the college.

In making the announcement, Vann said Sutherland will be in charge of the operation of Leazer Dining Hall and of allied food services of the Dining Hall.

Prior to accepting the State position, Sutherland was director of food service for the Martha Berry Schools and College at Rome, Ga., and formerly was assistant manager of Fontana Village Inc., which is operated by Government Service, Inc., of Washington, D. C.

Sutherland is the son of Arthur G. Sutherland, Sr., district supervisor of the S & W Cafeterias, Charlotte.

A Mason and former member of the Lions Club, Sutherland served for two years in the Army Corps of Engineers during World War II. He is married to the former Sarah-McClain of Charlotte, and they have two children, Arthur G.,

III, 15; and Linda Louzette, 13. They are residing at 1310 Glenwood Avenue, Raleigh.

Sutherland, in an interview with the Technician, stated, "I hope to work closely with the students, student government and the Technician in the years to come. I believe that cooperation and constructive criticism can add much to my service to the students, and I will do everything I can to help anyone at any time. If anyone has any problems with food, such as fraternities or other groups, I feel like we can be a lot of help to them. We hope that if there are special occasions where groups may need specially prepared food, that they will let us know so that we may be of service to them insofar as our budget allows."

Special Student Prices

Ice Capades Begin Monday Night

Special, reduced rates will be in effect for all students of State for the opening performance of "Ice Capades of 1957" in the William Neal Reynolds Coliseum at the college Monday night, September 24, at 8:30 o'clock.

Announcement of arrangements for the reduced rates for students was made today by Coliseum Director W. Z. Betts, who urged students to take advantage of the offer and attend Ice Capades which is described as "the greatest show on ice."

All State personnel and students, together with their families and guests, will be given the opportunity of buying regular $3.00 tickets for $2.00; regular $2.50 tickets for $1.75; regular $2.00 tickets for $1.50; regular $1.50 tickets for $1.00.

A troupe composed of many of the world's top skaters will perform in Ice Capades when the big ice spectacle is presented in the State Coliseum. Top production numbers will be rink versions of George Gershwin's immortal classic, "Rhapsody in Blue," and the skating epic, "Hans Brinker and the Silver Skates."

Manhattan critics, who have seen the show during its initial run in Atlantic City, N. J., have acclaimed it as the best production in the 17 years that Producer John Harris has run the show and have predicted that the big ice show will set new attendance records in the nation's big arenas where it will play this year.

Juniors Collect Dues

The Junior Class of 1956-57 was on hand on Registration Day to collect dues from its members. 540 of the class paid their dues at this time. The total amount received from this source was $2700.

The purpose of these dues is to sponsor an annual Junior-Senior Ring Dance near the end of the school year. The officers of the class are hoping this year to contract a big-name band for this occasion. In order to do this and to make the dance a successful affair, the officers have asked the members of the Junior Class who have not paid their dues to do so as promptly as possible. Dues can be paid at the main desk of the College Union or to one of the class officers.

Plans Announced For Consolidated University Day

Bob Lane, Chairman of the State College Committee of the Consolidated University Student Council, announced plans late Tuesday for the first Consolidated University Day of the year, to be held at Carolina Saturday.

The feature of the day is, of course, the renewal, for another season, of the ancient and bitter rivalry between the sister units of the University, State and Carolina, on the football field at 2:00 p.m.

At the half-time ceremonies, the Consolidated University will present the three young ladies from each school who will participate in the beauty contest to elect Miss Consolidated University. The Presidents of the respective student bodies and the President of the C.U.S.C. will also be introduced.

Immediately following the game, there will be a reception on the lawn of the Graham Memorial Building. During the evening, at 8:00 p.m. Carolina has planned a dance for all at Woolen Gymnasium. Her Majesty, Miss Consolidated University, will be presented at the dance.

There is great hope among the followers of the Wolfpack for a long-awaited victory over the Tarheels this year. Lane encouraged that "all the students go and cheer the team onto a victory. I think we can outyell and outplay Carolina. Does anyone disagree?"

Ticket Deadline

Deadline for reduced price purchase of Ice Show tickets by college students, faculty, members of the staff and their guests is 4:30 p.m. Saturday, September 22, at the Coliseum Box Office.

"What Gives?"

As the student housing problem has come to the fore again this year with the aggravated conditions caused by this fall's record enrollment, we wondered again what had happened to the previously "urgent" plans for a fraternity row. We inquired a little here and there and came up with a few interesting facts.

We would like to preface our statements with a few quotations from "A Proposal to The N. C. State College Development Council for A Fraternity Housing Plan". This paper is dated November 1954.

"The City of Raleigh has approved a new zoning ordinance which limits fraternities either to the downtown business district or to an undesirable residential section. . . . None of the houses now in use were built for group living; all are converted family dwellings. . . . Bathroom facilities and sleeping and dining quarters are totally inadequate . . . all constructions are of the flimsy, fire-hazardous type of older residential construction. . . . The Fraternity Housing Plan has been enthusiastically endorsed by the fraternities and college officials. . . ."

Comments were good from all sources and it was a pre-concluded fact that the houses were a necessity, and that they would certainly contribute to the beauty and development of the campus while serving a useful purpose.

Fraternity leaders made an enthusiastic start with the aid of the Administration. But money was not easy to come by. In spite of the fact that the fraternities outlined their program with emphasis on the fact that they would gladly borrow the money with no requests for gifts from anybody, they met with rebuff.

After long conferences with bankers and insurance companies, the situation emerged of the necessity for a basic loan on faith to establish a sort of collateral for other loans. So the fraternities, with the backing of the college, turned to their own organization and petitioned the Board of Trustees of the Greater University for a loan from the Escheats Fund. This would provide the majority of the basic one-third loan necessary to obtain outside loans, with a small portion coming from a few State College foundations.

We understand that this necessary channel to the Board of Trustees' Finance Committee has been religiously followed, yet there has been no action on the request to this date. Since the action was initiated, a loan has been granted to the State College Athletic Department for paving of the Coliseum Parking lots, yet still we twiddle our thumbs waiting for the word on the fraternities' request . . . even for a hearing.

We think that the State fraternity men have gone about the whole affair in an admirable and businesslike manner. We think, too, that it is time for someone to give them a decent break and hear their petition.

Quite a shock!

For Sunny Jim!

A Gold-Plated "Cad"

NOTE: This article is reprinted without permission from the January 6, 1956 issue of the Charlotte NEWS. Its author was Sandy Greedy and to him all credit is given. Please note its date when reading.

The burning question in every barber shop and opium den from Siler City to Waxhaw is, of course, will Sunny Jim come to Chapel Hill?

It is high time that someone resolve this silly situation. What happened behind those closed doors when Sunny Jim huddled with University of North Carolina officials? A dice game? Dirty stories?

If no one dares tell the truth, this writer will. It all came to him in a sort of dream last night, probably invoked by a midnight sandwich of turnip greens, peanut butter and fried leeks.

Here is what occurred behind those closed doors. Anything you hear elsewhere is a nasty rumor!

(There is a regal blast of French horns, followed by the entrance of Sunny Jim. He is wearing his regular ten-gallon Stetson; his double-breasted sags with medals; in his hand is a swagger stick; his bow tie occasionally lights up with the words: "The Greatest." He waves the Carolina officials, somewhat shabbily dressed in comparison, back to their charts when they attempt to rise humbly).

SUNNY JIM: I heard my alma mater call and I have answered. How you folks like my new get-up?

UNC SPOKESMAN: Fine, fine, Sunny Jim. Now we want you as coach, Sunny Jim, but we can't offer much except our deep gratitude and a small but decent salary.

SUNNY JIM: I heard my alma money. My alma mater needs me. By the way, I guess you heard that Maryland is offering a life-time contract?

UNC: Oh, we can top that, Sunny Jim. We're prepared to offer a lifetime contract, plus a clause making your first male descendent for the next 250 years the head coach here. How's that?

JIM: Tolerable, tolerable. But I can't win without a pretty good football staff. . . .

UNC: (proudly) All set, Jim. We can hire these assistants—Red Sanders, Paul Brown, Bud Wilkinson, Adlai Stevenson, Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, and Lester Figg.

SUNNY JIM: Who's this Figg? UNC: Your personal valet, Jim. Signs autographs, polishes your bowl trophies, writes post-game quotes for you.

SUNNY JIM: But you folks got tough entrance requirements.

"An Improvement"

We had an interesting chat with Mr. A. G. Sutherland of the College Cafeteria Monday afternoon. It was quite pleasant . . . quite cooperative . . . and quite enlightening. One had difficulty adjusting to the fact in the light of previous experiences with cafeteria managers.

To be more direct, Mr. Sutherland seemed to be a very nice guy. He offered whole-hearted cooperation to the students of State in a completely disarming manner. He cited some of the problems that the cafeteria faced in such areas as rising food costs, rising labor costs, renovations, etc., and bemoaned the problem of trying to cook like Mom for 5200 students.

But more important, he said he would try. And we think he will. If you will give him half a chance, we believe you will see a better situation in short order. We believe that Mr. Sutherland will quickly become a member of that group of the State faculty and administration who are going all out to help the students get a good deal, with the fact before them that State's existence and their reason for being here are primarily based on the job of giving young men and women an education and making them happy while at it.

We hope that we are right about A. G. Sutherland . . . and we hope that all of you will soon have reason to concur in our views.

Lot of athletes, you know, get nervous when they hear the word "exams." They might go to some other team, like the Chicago Bears.

UNC: That's painful, Jim, but I guess we'll have to cut out exams for all prospective students weighing over 180 and able to run 100 yards in less than 12 seconds. All right?

SUNNY JIM: Yeah, but some of those big ol' boys from Pennsylvania get awful lonesome and homesick down here. . . .

UNC: We'll make a rule: All faculty members must wear miners' caps, complete with head lamp and coal dust, to class.

SUNNY JIM: Well, Maryland was saying something about getting me into politics someday. . . .

UNC: Oh, we can arrange that. How about being governor? I'm sure Luther will understand. We'll make him a sort of assistant.

SUNNY JIM: And I've got to have a house, you know.

UNC: Hmm. How about South Building?

SUNNY JIM: Too old and drafty.

UNC: I've got it, We'll build a replica of the White House right behind Kenan Stadium. Won't that be dandy, with spotlights playing across the dome?

SUNNY JIM: Pretty good. But this $15,000 salary—that's just expenses, isn't it? I mean, Maryland is offering me the carbon paper concession in Washington, a personal yacht—some boat they call the USS Missouri—and the Chesapeake Bay to anchor it in.

UNC: Fiddlesticks, we can top that, Jim. How about 17 cotton mills, half the tobacco industry, the Haw River, Fort Bragg, Mount Mitchell, a gold-plated Cadillac. . . .

Former Y President

First Wedding Held In Danforth Chapel

Just before school got started this year Jim Stewart, President of the YMCA here at State last year, was married in State College's new Danforth Chapel. It was the first wedding to take place since the chapel was opened last year.

The wedding ceremonies were performed at four-thirty o'clock on Friday, September 7. The bride, formerly Miss Catherine Arundel Casteen, is from Goldsboro.

Officiating minister was Rev. Oscar B. Wooldridge, Coordinator of Religious Activities at State.

Martha and Laura Wooldridge, small daughters of the officiating minister, held the doors open for the bride and her father to pass through into the chapel.

Best man was the bridegroom's father, James M. Stewart, Sr. Ushers were Charles Law, who is now President of the State College YMCA, and George Casteen, Jr., of Goldsboro.

A reception was held in the North Parlor of the "Y" immediately following the wedding. After the reception the couple left for a wedding trip to the mountains of western North Carolina and Virginia.

The bride is a graduate of Peace College where she majored in art. The bridegroom received a B.S. Degree in Agronomy last year from State. He was President of the YMCA, a member of Golden Chain, Alpha Zeta, Blue Key, Thirty and Three and Alpha Gamma Rho.

CU Dance Com. To Sponsor Lessons & Shipwreck Dance

The College Union Dance Committee is sponsoring a series of Thursday night dance lessons and also a Shipwreck Dance.

The social dance lessons will be taught in the Union Ballroom every Thursday at 7:30 p.m. A dance instructor and feminine assistants will be available to teach smooth steps, fast steps, Latin steps, and fundamental dance techniques.

The first series of lessons will be eight weeks long. Only those students attending the first two lessons will be permitted to attend the entire series. Two other series will be taught by the same instructor during the year.

On September 29 a Shipwreck Dance will be held in the Union. Described as a let-down-your-hair and have a ball affair, the dance will be as informal as dress can get. Prizes will be given for the best costumes.

Vet's Corner

I wish to welcome all the new veterans to State College and say hello to all of you that are returning. This promises to be the best year yet for the Veteran's Association. However, we are at a loss for a president, as Ted Caldwell did not return. We have three good men who have announced their intentions to run. They are: Tom Long, who is presently the veep of the club; Ralph Williams, who has been active in the Vet's Club since coming to State College two years ago; and John Hopkins, a hard working young man.

Any of these men will do a good job. However, it is for you to choose, so come to the meeting Monday, September 24, at 7:00 PM in the College Union Theater. Refreshments will be served and this will give you a chance to meet your fellow club members. We are going to plan a party for the 5th of October also.

The new parking regulations and the three dollar fee will be discussed at the meeting.

Unique System

Mr. L. L. Ivey, Manager of the Students Supply Stores and the man responsible for the change, has said that the self-service idea and the new room for freshmen were started in an attempt to better serve the growing student body at State.

Mr. Ivey, who has served two terms as President of the National Association of College Stores, said that he knows of no other school which is using the unique system of stacking books on "pallets" and having each student pick out his own books.

Chancellor Bostian—a Zoology major in college—has compared the new system with the old by terming it "a grand metamorphosis."

PAVING

lots were being paved by the Athletic Department with money loaned them from the University's Escheats Fund and that no student money was involved at all. Roy Clogston, head of the Athletic Department, stated to the Technician earlier that a small increase on public admission tickets would absorb the principal and interest of the loan and that the student tickets would in no way be affected.

Watts also hastened to confirm the fact that student money was being used to construct and pave the lot on Hillsboro Street next to the A & P and that the three dollar fee collected this year would be used in a large part to pay for this work and for enforcement on the campus, for both faculty and students.

He made clear the point that the lot would be used by students only, and not by the faculty.

SPORTS

SPEC HAWKINS

Thousands of State grid fans will journey to Chapel Hill Saturday afternoon for the annual classic between the Wolfpack of North Carolina State and the Tar Heels of the University of North Carolina . . . For Coach Earle Edwards and his staff it will mark the opening of their third year at the helm of the West Raleigh football fortune . . . For Coach Jim Tatum it marks his debut as head coach at his 'ol alma mater . . .

Oddly enough this same Jim Tatum coached the 1942 Tar Heels when the Pack racked up their last victory over Carolina . . .

Many sports fans think this may be the year for the younger part of the Greater University . . . It should certainly prove to be one of the most interesting opening battles in the history of both schools.

Fullback Tony Guerrieri, the miniature Charles Atlas with the face of Victor Mature, was comparing summer jobs with Ron Savage, sophomore center who is third in line for the pivot job. Tony ran a jackhammer on a construction crew in Orange, N. J., while Savage worked (?) as a lifeguard at Virginia Beach.

Three varsity gridgers are receiving congratulations after joining the matrimony ranks during the summer. Ends Ronnie Gall and John Lowe, and sophomore guard Kelly Minyard are the ones who acquired mates.

Another former Deacon has joined the North Carolina State Physical Education staff. Junie Floyd, a recent Wake Forest baseball star, began his new position last week. Another ex-Deacon Art Hoch, also is on the staff. Junie was recently discharged from the Army. He played on the Deacon team which represented the United States in the Pan-American games in Buenos Aires.

North Carolina State's three top runners had an aggregate rushing average of 18.4 yards per carry last season. All-America candidate Dick Christy was the leading ground gainer with 7.1 yards per try, while George Marinkov at 6. and Dick Hunter 5.8, trailed.

Riddick Stadium, North Carolina State's home football field, was first used in 1907 with the Wolfpack defeating Randolph Macon 20-0. It was named after Professor W. C. Riddick, who is regarded as the father of athletics at State.

Wolfpack Grid Team Looks For 1st Win Over Carolina Since 1942; Recent Squabble Between Edwards & Tatum Adds Incentive

No polls have been taken among the North Carolina State football team, but it's no secret that the team the Wolfpack would most like to beat is North Carolina.

There are several reasons for State's keen desire to whip the Tar Heels. First, it has been 14 years since the 'Pack last turned the trick. Oddly enough, when State beat UNC 21-14 in 1942, a fellow named Jim Tatum was the Carolina coach.

Now, Tatum has returned to his Alma Mater and the Sept. 22 meeting with State will mark his debut as head football coach, second tenure. Needless to say, the Wolfpack would like to spoil that debut.

Reason number two for wanting to win is the fact that the schools are both part of the Greater University of North Carolina and are therefore "sister" institutions. But the keen sports rivalry doesn't indicate any sisterly love.

Reason number three on the State list is the recent squabble over a high school athlete between Coach Earle Edwards and Tatum. The fuss was a result over Cornell Johnson of High Point enrolling at Carolina after telling the State coaching staff that he was coming here.

If a fourth reason is needed, State will include the fact that it wants to win all football games, regardless of the opponent. The Wolfpack, in its third year of rebuilding under Edwards, has been edging close to straight Atlantic Coast Conference championship despite a broken wrist. He bucketed 25 points in State's four overtime loss to Canisius in the NCAA tournament in Madison Square Garden, home court of the professional Knicks.

Shavlik will return to State during the second semester to complete work on his degree. He needs less than six hours to the victory trail and hopes to be on the right path in 1956.

East year, the sophomore-studded State eleven came close to whipping the Tar Heels but a costly fumble in the fourth quarter ended a drive that was close to the Carolina goal. When the final whistle sounded, North Carolina was out front 25-18.

With the memory of that game still fresh, it's added incentive for wanting to avenge the loss.

State will use an All-Junior team in the opener at Chapel Hill. Only end John Lowe and tackle John Szuchan are seniors, and the other nine starters are third-year men. Edwards will use the following lineup:

Shavlik Joins Pros With Knicks

Ronnie Shavlik, North Carolina State's All-America basketball star, leaves here Sept. 20 to join the New York Knickerbockers of the National Basketball Association.

The 6-8 scoring ace from Denver, Colo., was the Knicks' number one draft choice.

Shavlik, during his three years on the Wolfpack varsity, scored a record-breaking 1,761 points and led State to a record of 80 wins against only 15 defeats.

He climaxed his career by helping State win its third

State Invades Tar Heels Saturday In Opener

North Carolina State's Wolfpack, beginning its third year under the realm of head Coach Earle Edwards, makes its 1956 debut this Saturday afternoon against the Tar Heels of the University of North Carolina. Kick-off is scheduled for 2 o'clock in Chapel Hill.

Some of the South's top runners will be on display Saturday afternoon in Kenan Stadium.

The feature attraction in the 46th meeting of the two schools might well be a duel between the Wolfpack's Dick Christy and Carolina's Ed Sutton, but if that doesn't materialize there are backs on both teams ready to cop the spotlight.

The visiting Wolfpack builds its multiple offense around the fancy stepping of Christy, a 5-foot-10, 176-pounder from Chester, Pa., who last year romped for 7.1 yards each time he tucked the ball under his arm, and Dick Hunter, a 5-foot-7 speedster whose jackrabbit runs accounted for eight touchdowns in 1955.

In addition to Christy and Hunter, the Wolfpack's running game gets a big boost from half-backs George (Wagon Wheels) Marinkov, a seasoned performer, and Mike Miller, a speedy senior. Sophomore Ken Trowbridge and Jay Margerum also are slated for action.

The Tar Heels use Sutton, a senior from Cullowhee, and half-back Larry McMullen from Lumberton, as their one-two punch. But Buddy Sasser, Emil DeCantis and Daly Goff figure prominently in the Tar Heels' offensive plans this year.

The game promises to be a dilly. The keen rivalry between the two schools makes this game a "must" for both teams. As one observer put it, "These teams opening the season against each other is like serving the dessert before the main course."

A large crowd is expected for the 2 o'clock kickoff, marking the season's opener for both teams. In some quarters the game is being called a personal battle between State coach Earle Edwards and the Tar Heels' Jim Tatum, who were involved in a recruiting hassle recently. The game will mark Tatum's debut as head coach at Carolina.

Biggest & Best

Biggest Blow: When Chief of Campus Police presented $45 worth of parking tickets to sophomore guard Bill Rearick. Rearick's car broke down in a no-parking area and accumulated that many tickets before it could be moved.

Biggest Sport: Sophomore end Bob Pepe, who is driven to practice in a new Thunderbird (which belongs to a friend). What has Pepe been nicknamed? "Thunderbird," of course.

Funniest Sight: 235-pound tackle Bob Paroli and bow-legged George Marinkov in Bermuda shorts.

Biggest Boner: When half-back Dick Christy tried to explain to Coach Al Michaels why he was late for practice. "I had to baby sit while my wife went to the grocery store," he explained. "No excuse," returned Michaels. "I've got six kids and I'm never late."

Orientation Program Held For New Students

An orientation program for approximately 90 new staff members of North Carolina State College and their wives or husbands was held in the College Union last Thursday.

Arrangements for the event, the first orientation exercise ever held for new staff members at the college, were made by a committee headed by Prof.

Charles I. Foster of the Social Studies Department. The State College Woman's Club and Newcomers Club were the sponsors.

Separate programs were conducted for the men and the women. Later there was a refreshment hour which was attended jointly by the men and women.

Highlight of the program for the women was a talk by General Manager Lester Rose of the Raleigh Chamber of Commerce, who also entertained the group with piano solos. Others speaking at the women's session included Mrs. Nell Briggs, who told of various campus services; Mrs. R. G. Carson, who outlined the work of the Newcomers Club; and Mrs. C. G. Brennecke, who reported on charity organizations. Mrs. A. C. Menius, Jr., president of the College Woman's Club, presided.

Facts about the operation of State College were covered in the talks made at the session for men. Speakers were Dr. Carey H. Bostian, chancellor of the college; Dr. J. W. Shirley, dean of the faculty; Prof. W. N. Hicks, chairman of the Faculty Senate; L. L. Ray, assistant to the chancellor and director of foundations; and J. G. Vann, business manager.

Later the new staff members will be taken on tours of the various schools comprising the college.

John Vogler Wins $1,000 Scholarship

John Franklin Vogler of Mt. Airy, engineering student at North Carolina State College, has been awarded a $1,000 scholarship by the Burlington Industries Foundation, Dr. J. Harold Lampe, dean of engineering has announced.

A mechanical engineering junior, Vogler will receive $500 a year in his junior and senior years. The Burlington Industries Foundation will provide the college with a matching sum for educational expenses.

Vogler has a "B" average in his scholastic work. He is married and has one child.

Winfield H. Farthing, electrical engineering senior from Boone, won the scholarship last year and will receive the second half of it for his education this year.

Ice Capades

Opening performance at the State Coliseum will be Monday, September 24, at 8:30 p.m. Other evening shows will be staged Tuesday, September 25, through Saturday, September 29, at 8:30 o'clock, with matinee performances set for Friday, September 28, at 3:30 p.m. and Saturday, September 29, at 2:30 p.m.

"Ice Capades of 1957," made up of 10 production and 20 acts, features music drama, brilliant skating routines, and a wide range of comedy numbers. It represents an investment of over $1,000,000 in production and costuming properties.

Over 150 persons are in the cast and crew including a lineup of several of the world's top skating artists. Heading the list of performers this year are Rosemary Henderson, who has replaced the popular star, Donna Atwood, who has retired; and Bobby Specht, noted star who has performed in a number of shows at the Coliseum.

Miss Henderson, blond Canadian champion, and Specht will take the leading roles in "Hans Brinker and the Silver Skates." Miss Henderson also will team up with veteran Bobby Maxson in a colorful number called "Bus Stop."

Specht will join two talented newcomers, Cathie Machado, who was twice chosen America's most artistic skater, and Ronnie Robertson, 1956 world and Olympic free skating champion, in a rink version of Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue." They will be supported in the number by "Ike" Carpenter, a native of Durham, who plays the piano feature on a giant white concert grand which revolves on a glittering stage.

Carpenter, son of Mrs. T. E. Carpenter and the late Mr. Carpenter of Durham, is a noted recording star.

The Old Smoothies, Orrin Markhus and Irma Thomas, always a popular pair in Ice Capades, this year are co-starred again in a liting skating routine. Markhus also plays a top role in "Hans Brinker and the Silver Skates."

In the comedy department,

Eric Waite, known as "the clown prince of the ice," and Freddie Trenkler, appearing in an act dubbed "No time for sergeants," are the headliners. Other comedy stars include Johnny Labrecque and Johnny Gray, in the "Housebuilders"; Herb Cowman, Bob Drummond, and Leo Brink, in a top-hat-and-spats number; and Hugh Forgie and Stig Larson in a badminton demonstration.

Among the other top productions, are "Bagdad" starring Helen Davidson and Jimmy Grogan; Walt Disney's "Disneyland"; "Seventeen," a gay Ice Capades anniversary number saluting the nation's teenagers; "Parisian Precision" featuring the Ice Cadets and Ice Capets; "Rhythmic Waters" imported from Europe; and "Ria Marenga," the finale.

One of State's new Freshmen assumed a posture well-beloved by his older fellow students as he waited with his patient fellows for admission to the Coliseum last Friday.

What's Doing... at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft

Test Lab "Upstairs"

Even in aviation's earliest years, it was axiomatic that "proof must come in the air". Out of this, the flying test bed was born... and slowly grew to its present-day stature as an indispensable engineering tool, implemented by an extensive variety of engineering skills.

The problems of observing and recording an engine's performance in the air are legion. Most recently, a Boeing B-50 and a North American B-45 were readied as test beds for Pratt & Whitney Aircraft's J-57 and J-75 turbojets. The experimental power plant, contained in a retractable pod in the bomb bay, can be flown to locations where atmospheric conditions permit most efficient testing. The prototype is then extended into the air stream for actual flight work with the regular engines idled, and the job of observing and recording in-flight performance begins.

From the first shakedown flight to the test engine's eventual acceptance, invaluable information is gathered. Perhaps the most vital contribution made by P & W A's flying test-bed program is the great reduction in time between initial development and quantity production of engines. Important, too, is the quality and diversity of engineering talent involved in such a program, for it spells out remarkable opportunity for today's engineering student.

After exhaustive testing in the highly advanced facilities of Willgoos Laboratory, the mighty P & W A J-75 is run in ground test prior to test-bed flight. The four-engine B-45 bomber (above) allowed test flight at high speeds and altitudes early in the J-75's development.

Faculty Changes Recently Announced

North Carolina State College has announced the appointment of four new faculty members, the promotion of a staff member, the granting of two leaves of absence, and two staff resignations.

In reporting this, Dr. Carey H. Bostian, chancellor of the college, said the staff changes have been approved by Acting President William C. Friday of the Consolidated University and the executive committee of the Board of Trustees. The committee acted on the changes at its meeting here recently.

James Neal Young, assistant professor of rural sociology, School of Agriculture; Arnold H. E. Grandage, associate professor of experimental statistics, School of Agriculture; Heinz Seltmann, research assistant professor of botany, Division of Biological Sciences, School of Agriculture; and Ralph Carroll Boles, Assistant professor of mathematics, School of Engineering.

Dr. George C. Caldwell has been promoted from the rank of instructor in the Department of Mathematics to assistant professor.

Leaves of absence were granted to Daniel G. Horvitz, associate professor in the Department of Experimental Statistics at State College, for one year to accept a position as statistician with A. J. Wood and Company of Philadelphia; and to R. L. Anderson, professor in the Department of Experimental Statistics, for six months beginning February 1, 1957, to go to Cairo, Egypt, with the Federal Operations Administration to assist the University there in initiating a new and expanded statistics training and research center.

Dr. Bostian also reported the resignations of Eric B. DeGroot, assistant professor of physical education, School of General Studies; and Dr. Frank H. Spain, Jr., assistant director of admissions.

'56 State College Marching Band Adds Thirty-four Freshmen

Thirty-four new freshmen have been chosen as regular members of the 1956 North Carolina State College Marching Band as a result of auditions held last week.

Announcement of the list of new bandsmen was made by Major Christian D. Kutschinski, director of music at the college, and Robert A. Barnes, assistant director, who said the 34 students were selected from a group of approximately 150 who tried out for the band.

Following are those who were chosen as band members and the instruments they play:

Kent Waston of Rodanthe and Roland Evans of Cary, Flutes; Gordon Owen of Aruba, N. W. I., Robert Tolen of Asheboro, Douglas Mooré, of Roseboro, Edgar Underwood of Sanford, William Cröckford of Charlotte, Clarinets; Dan Ellis of Mt. Airy, Bass Clarinet; Thomas Lyon of Durham, Bassoon; Elton Rawls of Williamston, Hubert Shearon of Varina, Alto Saxophone.

Robert Yarbrough of Raleigh, Mike Simpson of Raleigh, and Walter Holmes of Durham, French Horn; William Coutouzis of Fayetteville, James Walker of Burlington, William Moore of Statesville, David Peterson of Leaksville, Jesse Barbour of Morganton, Carroll Overton of Salisbury, Billy Seay of Bryson City, Jerry Harris of Washington, Dean Kenedy of Beaulville, and Quinton Holton of Louisburg, Cornet.

Harvey Nix of Asheville, William Todd of Gastonia, Willard Boyd of Lincolnton, and John Welch of Oxford, Trombone; Roy Martin of Hendersonville, Baritone; Richard Knox of Greensboro; and Charles Cates of Henderson, Tuba; Steven Clements of Raleigh, Timpani; Robert Harrison of Raleigh, and Harvey Lucas of Plymouth, Percussion.

Fifteen Countries Represented in Nuclear Course

Fifteen foreign countries and the United States are represented by the 30 students enrolled in the Nuclear Technology Short Course which began last Thursday at State College.

The students will begin their first day of orientation at the college with the guidance of staff members of the college's School of Engineering and the Extension Division.

The 16-week course is one of a series which the college is offering in cooperation with the "Atoms-for-peace" program of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission. This is the second of the series which was begun in April and which will stretch over a period of 2½ years.

During their stay at State College, the students will study basic nuclear science and engineering. They will then take 16 weeks of advanced instruction about nuclear reactors at the Argonne National Laboratories in Lemont, Ill.

Horticulture Department

Cochran To Replace Gardner As Head

Effective October 1, Prof. M. E. Gardner, veteran member of the North Carolina State College faculty, will relinquish his duties as head of the college's Horticulture Department and will be succeeded by Dr. Fred D. Cochran, member of the college faculty for the past eight years.

In announcing the staff changes, Dr. Carey H. Bostian, chancellor of State College, and

Dr. D. W. Colvard, dean of the School of Agriculture, said Professor Gardner requested that he be relieved of his position as department head in order to devote his full-time services to teaching and research at the college.

The action was formally approved at the meeting of the executive committee of the Consolidated University's Board of Trustees.

One of State College's most widely-known and popular faculty members, Professor Gardner joined the college staff in 1927 as assistant horticulturist, a research position; was promoted to associate professor and acting head of the Department of Horticulture in 1931; and was advanced to the rank of department head in 1932. He has served in the latter capacity since that date and has led the department to a position of regional and national prestige during his administration.

Under Professor Gardner's leadership, the department's staff increased from 11 persons in 1931 to 43 today. It was expanded from one administrative unit in 1931 to five sections today — Fruit Crops, Vegetable Crops, Floriculture and Ornamental Horticulture, Fruit and Vegetable Processing, and extension Sections.

Corresponding increases in the department's physical assets for teaching, research, and extension also were made. In 1931, the department was located in small quarters in Polk Hall, later moved to Patterson Hall, and now occupies modern headquarters in the newly-completed Kilgore Hall.

In recognition of his scientific and professional achievements, Professor Gardner has been listed since 1930 in the influential "American Men of Science."

He is also a member of the American Institute of Biological Sciences, the American Society of Horticultural Science, the Association of Southern Agricultural Workers, the American Pomological Society, Alpha Zeta, the Grange, National Geographic Society, and the American Potato Association.

His most notable scientific contribution was his leadership of a project that led to the development and introduction of the Sequoia, an Irish potato variety that resists disease and insects.

Illustrative of the significance of the department's work is the fact that the General Assembly in 1937 made its first direct appropriation in support of agricultural research through the Horticulture Department. This appropriation of $10,000 was made for apple production research in the State.

A native of Ware Shoals, S. C., Dr. Cochran is nationally known for his professional achievements. His fields of specialization are vegetable crops and plant breeding.

State College students may now receive counseling assistance at the new State College Counseling Center located at 202 Holladay Hall. The Center has replaced the Psychological Clinic which was located in the 1911 Building, as the agency on the campus providing individual counseling service.

Counseling with respect to vocational and curricular choice, problems of adjustment to college life, and various personal problems, is available at the Center. Students may be referred by teachers, advisers and others of the college staff, or they may come on their own initiative. Advisers and teachers are invited to make inquiry of the Center staff with respect to services offered for our students. Psychological tests, information concerning various occupations, and other aids are used in helping students.

The counseling staff includes Professor M. D. Caffey, Mr. M. M. Tanner and Dr. L. B. Rogers, Acting Director of Student Personnel.

GRAPHIC ART

CU Art Gallery
To Open This Week

Beginning last Thursday the Art Gallery of the North Carolina State College Union is featuring an exhibition of Graphic Art from South and Central America. The exhibition, which is entitled "38 Latin American Prints", will be shown until October 15.

This collection of prints represents the work of sixteen countries of Latin America and embraces many styles, including woodblock prints, lithographs, etchings and pencil line drawings. Many of the artists represented were schooled in Europe but imply a native technique in subject matter that is as Latin as the sombrero.

"38 Latin American Prints" is one of a collection of fine travelling exhibits sponsored by International Business Machines Corporation. It is an interesting display of graphic art below the border.

Other shows coming to the College Union Gallery this fall will include a Student Photography contest and exhibition from October 15 to November 4; a show of paintings from the Smithsonian Institution, "Californian Painting", November 4 through November 25; and a College Arts and Crafts sale featuring works from North Carolina colleges which begins November 25 and will run until the Christmas holidays.

The public is cordially invited to the College Union Gallery at any time and all exhibitions are free of charge. The Gallery has been building toward better shows in the past few years and is equipped to show the best in art to an ever growing state-wide public.

this year with a grand total of 1,000 new committeemen. At the same time last year only 125 students were signed up.

New committeemen attended an orientation program at the CU on Monday night.

All campus organizations who are planning additional parties or events should clear the date of the event with the coordinator of social cultural affairs, Paul Durrett, in the Activities Office of the CU.

Corrections

The November 10 football game will be State vs South Carolina; not State vs. Roanoke College as announced in the calendar.

The CU Talent Show will be held on October 12, instead of the announced date of October 5. This is to avoid a conflict with fraternity rush parties.

The swimming party, sponsored by the CU Outing Committee, will be held at 1 p.m., Sunday, September 23 instead of the September 30 date that appeared on the CU calendar.
