Seventeen Fraternities Begin Spring "Open House" Tonight

By Spec Hawkins

North Carolina State's seventeen social fraternities will begin their spring "open house" program tonight at 7:00 according to an announcement made this week by the Inter-fraternity Council.

Students who are interested in visiting with the college's fraternities are encouraged to take advantage of the week's activities. All seventeen chapter houses will be open and anyone may drop in during the hours set by the IFC.

Bill Greene, president of the council, said yesterday that a person is welcome at any house and doesn't have to receive a special invitation.

Purpose

The main purpose behind the spring rush program is to give the many students who choose to wait a semester before joining a fraternity as well as the many new students now on the campus, an opportunity to visit the houses when they would all be open.

Interested individuals are urged to ask any questions they might have on their minds when they visit with the respective fraternities as well as try and visit with as many different houses as possible.

No formal rush rules apply to this week's program but the IFC requests that the following hours be observed.

Satchmo Concert Is Big Success

Approximately 3500 students, and people from Raleigh heard, watched, applauded, and rocked last night at the jazz concert by Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong and his All Stars. The two and one half hour concert at the Coliseum was sponsored by the Interfraternity Council here at State.

Playing many of their most popular jazz favorites and a few old favorites, the jazz masters played straight through for one hour, took an intermission, and came back for another hour-long round. "We gotta' keep it jumping!" Satchmo said.

"Satchmo" and his All Stars performed on a square bandstand directly in the center of the Coliseum. At times they were all facing in different directions and walking all over the elevated platform which they commanded.

Each member was featured individually several times and "Old Satchmo" stole the spotlight many times with his famous horn or his unique singing.

Dick Jordan, who was in charge of the concert for the IFC, told The Technician after the performance last night that approximately $4800 was grossed. Of this, $3000 went to Armstrong; approximately $200 for taxes; and the Coliseum, publicity, tickets, etc. will take most or all of the remaining $1200. As IFC President Bill Greene said; "I think we just about broke even."

Greene continued to say, "I was very much pleased . . . I think they (the students) got a good concert." He said that a great deal of thanks goes to Dick Jordan, who was in charge, and to Dave Heinzmann, Shelley Ritter, Frank Minter, Roger Hill, Spec Hawkins, and David Barnhardt for the work they did on the concert.

As far as could be determined, "Satchmo At The Coliseum" is the first concert ever to be held at the Coliseum that has not lost a lot of money. Even Vaughn Monroe, at the height of his popularity, was a financial failure. The IFC, therefore, is quite gratified with the results of the concert.

Chancellor Carey H. Bostian made public yesterday the results of the meeting of the Atlantic Coast Conference Faculty Chairmen in Greensboro Sunday.

The following is the complete text of the Chancellor's report with the Conference's report inserted beginning with the second paragraph.

"The report of the action taken in the Moreland case by the Faculty Chairmen of the Atlantic Coast Conference at their February 10 meeting was received by me in yesterday's mail. The full text of this report is herewith made public."

"That since the Atlantic Coast Conference does not have the authority to subpoena witnesses for an open hearing, the Commissioner having been in contact with certain witnesses and having ascertained that some of them will not appear to give evidence at an open hearing, therefore, the Faculty Committee rules that they will not sponsor an open hearing on the Moreland case."

"That North Carolina State College be notified that the Conference reaffirms its position relative to the two charges—namely, illegal transportation and the illegal five year scholarship which are violations of the By-Laws of the Atlantic Coast Conference."

LEGAL TRANSPORTATION:
"At the time the $80.00 was given to Moreland, which was in the presence of and with the knowledge of Casey and Bubas, in our opinion, they knew that Moreland was going to North Carolina State College with the idea of staying permanently. This is a violation of Rule 12 (a) of the Atlantic Coast Conference By-Laws."

WITH REFERENCE TO THE 5 YEAR SCHOLARSHIP:

"In our opinion, the statement that a five (5) year scholarship would be available in case of need constitutes a violation of Article 9-Rule 12 of the Atlantic Coast Conference By-Laws."

WITH REFERENCE TO THE CHARGES DEALING WITH EXCESSIVE AID IN OTHER FORMS:

"Moreland had admitted the promise of certain additional inducements by representatives of State College, later repudiated these statements. Copies of both the admission and repudiation are in the hands of responsible State College authorities. The investigation conducted by the Atlantic Coast Conference revealed confirmation of the original admissions by Moreland. This confirmation was given to us on a confidential basis and is not available for public release. However, details of the confirmation are available to North Carolina State College on a confidential basis."

PENALTIES:

"1. It is ruled that since North Carolina State has violated Article 9-Rule 12 that Moreland is ineligible—Article 11, Section F-5."

2. WITH REFERENCE TO THE BASKETBALL STAFF NOT BEING ALLOWED TO RECRUIT BASKETBALL PLAYERS FOR ONE YEAR:

"This penalty stands and is interpreted to mean that members of the State College Staff not be allowed to pay transportation for visitations to the cam-

Progressing Back

The past week has seen two proposals come onto the scene from two different sources, which, in our opinion, would be two of the biggest backward steps ever taken at State College.

The first of these has only been suggested by various people, but the thought is dismaying nevertheless. That is, of course, abolishment of the free cut system for Juniors and Seniors.

The second is involved in the resolution introduced in the student legislature last week asking that probation and expulsion be installed as penalties for three and four parking tickets.

Both of these plans were followed at State at the time we enrolled at State for the first time. Since that time they have been abolished, in both cases with great fanfare about progress.

The free cut system represents one of the most mature rules ever put in effect at State. If any rule ever "separated the men from the boys" like this one, we don't know what it is. Apparently the rule is too much of a strain for the consciences of some of the students, but for the majority it has worked extremely well.

The reasons for the present traffic fines system and against the proposed system are numerous almost to infinity.

Being practical, the paving done with the money has been of untold benefit to the entire student body. The problems involved in the enforcement of a rule such as that proposed are so difficult as to be nearly impossible. (Anyway, how many people have been expelled from the city of Raleigh for overtime or illegal parking . . . it just isn't done.) And, again, what about student responsibility? We are inclined to the opinion that any man who cannot control himself enough to stay out of the parking areas reserved for the use of others deserves a penalty . . . and if he keeps doing it he deserves as harsh a penalty as he cares to invoke on himself . . . even $100 or more . . . but not probation or suspension for three or four tickets. Being kicked out of school for a year is no joke. . . .

To be positive rather than negative, we can only say that we think the systems in effect are probably the most sensible ever put into effect here. They are adult and they place responsibility in the hands of the student where it belongs. Let's keep them the way they are . . . or go back to high school!

Left Out

State has been unusually well blessed in its building program by the Advisory Budget Commission. Requests for a classroom building, dorm space, textile research facilities, pulp and paper lab equipment and a new gymnasium have been honored by the group.

We are delighted to see State's plant growing . . . certainly its student body will keep pace.

We cannot urge too strongly that North Carolina's legislature approve the recommendations of the Commission and appropriate the funds.

But we do wish they had covered one other field as well. That is the pay of our faculty members. All of North Carolina's state institutions of higher learning have been plagued with the departure of faculty members in the past few years as they were forced by monetary considerations to go elsewhere to teach. State can have the most beautiful plant in the world, her enrollment can double . . . but without teachers to carry on the instruction she had just as well rent the dorms as apartments, the classrooms as office space and open the cafeteria for the public.

The buildings of the college will become either hollow shells representing what might have been or they will be inhabited by a few dedicated men and a large number of incompetents.

Please, lets consider our faculty when we consider our plant. Neither can be slighted, for each is dependent on the other for its very existence.

Grass and Fences

A lot of us who have been here for three or four years have noticed a really big change in the looks of the campus. Improvement has been steady and the graduate of ten years ago would hardly recognize his old stamping grounds. Old buildings have been torn down, some walks paved, lights put up, ugly spots cleared, trees and bushes planted, and a lot of grass covers places where once there was only mud and gravel. All this helps the morale of students a lot, and allows us to have some measure of pride in our campus. And Carolina finds it harder and harder to call us "Cow College".

However, the people in charge of the grounds have really goofed in one case in particular . . .

the fences. You can walk a where on campus and see an most infinite variety of barriers slapped along the sides of walks and streets. There's logs, wire, crude boards, stumpy posts arranged in the most ugly, unconnected, inconsistent manner possible.

Yes, we do need some sort of barriers along the walks a roads because some of us a too lazy to walk on the walk . . . instead we conserve energy by making new path across the grass or through the bushes. Well, they met with the same situation at Duke . . . b over there they had one hel of a lot better taste in solv the problem. Instead of pastu fences marring the face of the campus, they have used sm metal posts with a light cha strung between them . . . painted. It actually adds to the campus instead of detracting and it serves the purpose whol as well as our sorry creator. Those posts and chains doo look very expensive, so befo any more money is invested wire and sloppy lumber, w not call Duke College and a them where they got the posties. Okay?

Pack Dumps Duke In Thriller 79-72

State College's sophomore studded cage squad came from behind to cop its fourth straight ACC triumph 79-72, this time at the expense of Duke's Blue Devils.

Coach Everett Case was forced to start four sophomores and one junior against the visitors from Durham, and they performed like 'ol pros before some 8,000 delighted fans. Four out of the five starters hit in the double figures.

The two big men for the evening were forward Ken Clark and pint-size guard Lou Pucillo. Clark took scoring honors with 19 points but Pucillo stole the show with his ball handling antics. The 5-7 guard from Philadelphia dribbled in, around, and through the whole Duke outfit for a period of two or three minutes and still found time to slip in 12 points for the night.

The win gave the Case men a 6-5 conference record and a 13-8 over-all mark for the season.

In the freshman scrap, State's Baby Wolfpack ran its win mark to 12 as they turned back the Blue Imps 91-87 behind the 37 and 29 points scoring efforts of Bob Cole and Bob McCann respectively.

Help On The Way

"Now this is what I want you to do,—"

Coach Edwards Opens Spring Drills Sat. With 71 Hopefuls

Twenty lettermen will be among the 71 grid candidates present Saturday afternoon when North Carolina State begins five weeks of spring football practice.

Coach Earle Edwards, beginning his fourth year at State, will greet the squad at 2 o'clock on the practice field. Practice will be held four times a week and will be climaxed by the annual intrasquad game March 23 in Riddick Stadium.

Twelve lettermen will be missing from last year's team which compiled a 3-7 record, but only one starter—tackle John Szuchan—will have to be replaced.

Missing are Szuchan, halfbacks George Marinkov, Mike Miller and Colbert Micklem, quarterback Billy Franklin, center Al Henery, guard John Barchiesi, tackles Hank Spivey and John Daskal, and ends Ronnie Gall, John Lowe and Dave Odom.

Coach Edwards is optimistic over next year's prospects. "We will have a senior backfield which should work well together," he said, "and our line will be better than last year's, thanks to added experience and additional reserve strength."

The Wolfpack will boast two of the finest halfbacks and ends in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Christy and Hunter have sparked the running game for the past two years and have shown flashes of greatness, and Collar and Pepe are of proved ability on the flanks.

Up from the freshman team are a number of promising grid-ders who will be in the thick of the fight. They include halfback Pete Seese, fullback Randy Harrell, center Bill Hill, guards Jim Markham and Bill McClain, tackles John Lawrence and Rgy Bonci, and ends Joe Mazutis and Johnny Johnson.

Athlete of Week

BOB MacGILLIVRAY ... 6-4 ... 206 ... 21 ... Soph. ...
Dorchester, Mass. A slick-shooting left-hander, Bob was the leading scorer on last year's freshman team with a 20.1 average. He is tough and aggressive and will be staging an all-out fight for a starting position this year. Mac scores on one-handers and his style of play has drawn praise from everyone who has seen him in action. He was a high school star at English High in Dorchester and he prepped at New York Military Academy. He was named Most Valuable Player in the Boston area and was named the outstanding player in the Glen Falls, N. Y. tournament. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Angus MacGillivray of 64 Granite Ave. and is majoring in Industrial Recreation at State. He has a wealth of speed and endurance.

Who's On First???

Usually it's the publicity men who tags the athletes with nicknames, but at State College the players are the ones who originate clever monikers for their teammates.

It's getting so a fellow needs an interpreter with all the nicknames being tossed around. For example, this is the way Coach Case announced the starting lineup for the Maryland game Saturday night:

"At forward, "Mac" (Bob MacGillivray) and "Superman" (Ken Clark) will start, with "The Wrist" (Nick Pond) in reserve. The center probably will be "Grove" (John Richter ... who is also known as "The Little Bear") with "The Big Bear" (Bob Seitz ... also known as "Mortimer") in reserve.

"The guards will be "Huckleberry" (Whitey Bell) and "Peewee" (Lou Pucillo). Also slated for action are "Elmer Fudd" (Tom Hopper), "Bucko" (Ray Waters) and "Goody-goody" (Bob Goodrich)."

Now where were we? Oh yes, the starting forwards will be whom?

Sophomores Set To Lead Wolfpack Against Md. Sat. In Quest for Fifth Straight Victory

North Carolina State's sizzling sophomores will carry a five-game winning streak against Maryland Saturday night in Reynolds Coliseum. Game time is at 8:15.

The Wolfpack's red hot rookies upped their prestige a notch Tuesday night by turning back Duke 79-72 in a thriller and will get another tough test against the Terps.

This will be the second meeting of the teams this year. Maryland defeated the Wolfpack 79-66 at College Park Jan. 19.

But Coach Bud Millikan's Terps will see some new faces in the State lineup, and the previous scouting report on the Wolfpack will have to be discarded.

The revamped lineup came about last week when co-captains John Maglio and Cliff Hafer were put on scholastic probation and declared ineligible for athletic participation.

Coach Everett Case inserted Bob MacGillivray and Ken Clark in the lineup at forward, shifted big John Richter to center, and called up Lou (Peewee) Pucillo to take over one of the guard spots. That quartet, all sophs, joined junior Whitey Bell as starters.

Playing together as a team for the first time, the Pack dumped South Carolina 98-85 as all five starters scored in the double figures. Three nights later, against Duke, four of the five again hit double figures.

Getting by Maryland will not be an easy task, however, especially for a group of inexperienced youngsters. The Terps are a smooth, well-coached team with a lot of basketball ability.

Maryland will bring a 7-4 ACC mark into the Coliseum against State's 6-5 record. For the season, the Terps are 12-7 while State is 13-8.

Richter is State's top score with a 16.3 average. He is trailed by Seitz with 13.4, Bell with 10.2, MacGillivray with 9.5, Clark with 7.7 and Pucillo with 7.3.

Forward Nick Pond has played in the Wolfpack's last two games and will see action Saturday night. Although his 4.4 average is not sensational, his rebounding and passing have aided both wins.

The State frosh, 11-4 for the year, play Stallings Air Base in the 6 o'clock preliminary.

A man went into a butcher shop and, finding the owner's wife in attendance in the absence of her husband, thought he would play a joke on her. He said: "Madam, can you supply me with a yard of pork?"

A Campus-to-Career Case History

Manager Joseph S. Manning discusses a customer service request with Office Supervisor Catherine Hasleton.

"Like having your own $3,000,000 business"

Joseph S. Manning graduated in 1950 from Wesleyan University with a B.A. degree and a major in Bio-Chemistry. But chemistry, he decided, was not to be his career. He became intrigued, instead, by the opportunities in the telephone business, and joined New York Telephone Company in 1951.

Today Joe Manning is Business Office Manager in Parkchester, Bronx, New York. In this position he is responsible for about 27,000 telephone accounts which bill some $250,000 a month. 35 people work under him.

"It's like having your own $3,000,000 business," Joe says. "And it's pretty much an independent operation, which I enjoy. I'm in charge of all business office functions, and of personnel training and development. I also spend a lot of time out with my customers, making sure that they have the telephone service they want and need. It's an absorbing job.

"The phenomenal growth of the business is one of the reasons why advancement opportunities are so good in the telephone company. Since 1943, for example, the number of telephones in our area has almost tripled. Growth such as this, going on all over the country, makes the telephone business especially attractive to anyone seeking a career with a future."

Bell Telephone Companies offer many interesting career opportunities, as do Bell Telephone Laboratories, Western Electric and Sandia Corporation. Your placement officer has more information about all Bell System Companies.

Carnival Night Booth Sponsors Needed Now

The Social Committee of the College Union has announced that the annual Carnival Night will be held in the College Union April 12-13, and has invited all campus organizations to enter booths in the event. Booths are expensive to construct, and offer an easy method of raising money for the organization. This year 90% OF THE NET PROFIT will go to the organization entering the booth. Popular booths in the past have been cakewalks, minstrels, and games of skill. Prizes will be given by the College Union to the most original booth, the one which sponsors the Carnival Night Queen, the best-decorated booth, and the booth that makes in the most money. All publicity will be done by the College Union, and a list of rules will be sent to those interested in entering. Foreign Visitors Receive Certificates

Winding up a three week stay in North Carolina, 13 foreign visitors to the North Carolina State College campus received certificates from Dr. D. W. Colvard, dean of the School of Agriculture, as a "small evidence of having been here." The awards were made following a Friday luncheon session completing their three-week short course study in Extension administration.

Six campus visitors were from Yugoslavia, five from India, and two from Iran. In addition to lectures and demonstrations on the State College campus, the group visited county extension personnel and farm families in the western part of the State.

Speaking for the group, Shankar R. Londhe, an agricultural school principal in India, said the chief value of their visit lay in the person to person contacts made, especially with the farm families.

Educational TV Enters Prisons

Last fall a new era began as educational television penetrated the walls of Central Prison to bring the North Carolina State College course, "Science and Society," to the inmates. Extending its invitation to learning, the college's Extension Division opened the second semester of the course last night (Monday) as the telecourse was beamed from the studios of WUNC-TV into both Central Prison and Women's Prison.

Dr. Keith McKean of the college's School of General Studies is teaching the televised course from 7 to 8 p.m. each Monday night.

The television adaptation of the regular college course in intellectual history will center around the significance of scientific thought on our society.

During each class session, the professor will pose a problem for discussion.

Either before or after the television program, the prisoners will gather for an informal discussion of the current topic.

Included in the second semester of the course will be such subjects as a romantic reaction to science and industry, the idea of evolution, evolution and ethics, common sense and modern science, absolute and provisional truth, modern science and modern art, fascist and communist attack on science and democracy, progress in science in an open or closed society, modern science and modern size, and in the year or Orwell—1984.

In commenting on the course, Dr. McKean said, "I hope many of the men at Central Prison who took the first semester of 'Science and Society' will join the class this next term. Of course, we lost a few students during the semester because of parole, and the prison basketball team took a couple of our men out of class, but we lost no students through scholastic mortality."

Originators of the experimental educational program, Warden K. B. Bailey and Education Officer Walter Bryan have worked with Dr. McKean in carrying out the pioneering idea as a major part of the prison rehabilitation program.

Both Bailey and Bryan have been greatly pleased by the inmates' response to the telecourse. Last semester's enrollment climbed to more than 50 men.

D & B Contest Results

The judges for the Drum and Bugle Corps naming contest met on Friday, December 7, to select the winner in that contest. The following entries were selected as the best and are listed in order of merit.

"The Thunderers" and "The Thundering Fifty" submitted by Cadet Ronald Cruca, "Rhythm Rebels" submitted by Cadet Paul N. Wright. However, none of these entries met fully the standards of alliterativeness, originality, and descriptiveness established for the contest and as such did not meet the final approval of the PMST under the rules of the competition as established in the November 15, 1956 edition of The Technician. Cadet Cruca has received an award for the best entry submitted so far. However the contest will be extended until April 17, 1957 with the original prize of $10.00 for the winner still offered. Boxes will be located in the northeast foyer of the Coliseum and in the College Union in which to place entries.

Building on the previously successful course, the educational program will be extended to Women's Prison this semester. Nineteen women have already completed advanced registration in preparation for the opening telecast tomorrow night.

What's doing . . .
at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft

P & W A's J-57 turbojet . . . first engine in aviation history to achieve official power rating in the 10,000-pound-thrust class. Its pace-setting performance blazed the way for this grueling mission that set awesome flight records.

The Wasp Major . . . P & W A's R-4360 whose power (3,800 hp.) and performance have never been equalled in the piston engine field.

Mission accomplished . . .
top-of-the-world and back — non-stop

Eight global bombers, powered by mighty turbojets, recently set non-stop records in 16,000- to 17,000-mile flights described as a "routine training mission to demonstrate the capability of the B-52 and the men who fly it". Flying continuously for as long as 32½ hours, the mammoth aircraft — each powered by eight Pratt & Whitney Aircraft J-57 turbojets — winged northward from air bases in California and Maine, over Thule, Greenland, continued to the North Pole, then returned by way of Anchorage, Alaska, to land in San Francisco, Baltimore, or Limestone, Maine.

During this spectacular top-of-the-world mission, temperatures as low as 65 degrees below zero were encountered, speeds approached 700 miles per hour, altitudes in excess of 35,000 feet were maintained, and each Boeing B-52 was refueled in mid-air several times. Powering the KC-97 Stratofreighters that accomplished the task of in-flight refueling were the mightiest piston engines ever built — P & W A's R-4360 Wasp Majors.

"Mission accomplished" . . . a brief but all-encompassing tribute — to the Stratofortress flight crews, to the Air Force's Strategic Air Command, and to the gigantic team of engineers in the aviation industry whose years of research and accomplishment represent thousands upon thousands of engineering man-hours that were required to make these record-breaking flights a reality.

by prospective basketball players."
"8. It is ruled that since the scholarship or Grant-In-Aid $ made available to Moreland, and State College stated that the boy could retain the Grant-In-Aid whether he was eligible or not and has thereby partially fulfilled the intent of the Commissioner's ruling, the Faculty Chairmen of the Atlantic Coast Conference rule that the penalty of $5000.00 assessed against State College be reduced to $2,500.00."

"The Atlantic Coast Conference at its meeting on February 10, 1957 has decided that the rulings contained in this report conclude the Conference investigation in the Moreland case and rules that as far as the Conference is concerned the case is closed."

Bostian continued, "We are deeply disappointed with the failure of the Faculty Chairmen to conduct the complete and full investigation in this case, on all charges, which we had urgently requested them to do."
"In response to my request of January 25, I was notified by the Commissioner of the Atlantic Coast Conference on January 28 that 'The Faculty Chairmen are of the opinion that no different form of investigation should be considered until the results of the investigation now under way have been determined.'"
"On the same day, January 28, I replied to the Commissioner and renewed our request that the Conference have a complete and open investigation which we felt was necessary to resolve the many conflicts in this case. I said: 'Is it possible that the ACC could on the basis of a closed-door investigation, make findings of fact which would conflict with those already made by ACC and NCAA, without at the same time at least making fully known the evidence and identity of witnesses on which the new findings were based?'"
"We interpret the report of the Conference action on February 10 as revealing these three things:

(1) Without the full and complete investigation which we had requested, the Conference reaffirms its position with respect to the two charges on which State College had previously been found guilty by the Conference.
(2) With reference to the other charges, the Faculty Chairmen, without the full and complete investigation which we had requested, do not expressly find that State College is guilty nor do they find that State College is innocent, but by implication they say that State College is guilty on some of the other charges.
(3) The Faculty Chairmen reduce the penalties heretofore assessed by the Commissioner by cutting the fine of $5,000 in half.
(In stamping an implication of greater guilt on the representative of State College, the Faculty Chairmen do so only on information given to them on a 'confidential basis,' and this information is now available to officials of State College only 'on a confidential basis.' In this respect, our Conference officials now strangely follow in the procedural footsteps of the NCAA. To obtain an explanation of this 'confidential basis,' on which the Conference would make its information available to us, I telephoned the Commissioner and he informed me that Director Clogston and I may go to Greensboro to see the Conference file on their latest investigation but that the individuals of our staff who are accused of the violations may not go with us so that we can review the file together, giving me an opportunity to question them directly on its contents. Further, if Mr. Clogston and I did see the file, it would be on the understanding that its contents would be revealed to no one except to President Friday."

to State College representatives;
(2) To confront our staff members with these facts and then to make the administrative decisions which the facts and evidence support and justify."
"We have not been successful with either the NCAA or the Atlantic Coast Conference in obtaining the full, complete and open investigation which this case has needed from its very beginning. We are now told that 'as far as the Conference is concerned, the case is closed.'"
"I am today writing all of those principal witnesses whose names were given to us by the NCAA. I am asking them to appear in a hearing in this matter in Louisiana on or about February 23 before a committee representing State College, and I am asking them to confront the individuals who have been charged with the violations of NCAA and ACC rules."
"We are frank to say that any individual who charges another with conduct resulting in penalties against an educational institution such as have been assessed against State College should have the courage to come out in the open and tell his or her story. That person should at least have the courage to confront the accused individuals in a fair and impartial hearing. It is also our opinion that procedures of the National Association and of our own Conference which permit, and even promote, the sort of 'confidential' testimony which characterizes this case throughout are completely unjustified, and these procedures justly merit our condemnation."
"When I have fulfilled my duty of doing all that I can reasonably do in trying to get the full and complete evidence in this case, I will then do my best to make those decisions in the matter that are supported by the facts and evidence made available to me. Such facts and evidence as I finally obtain will not be death with on a 'confidential basis.'"
"This statement is made with the full knowledge and approval of President Friday."

Special Students Concerned With Graduate Students

The Special Students Committee (a committee of the Board of Directors of the YMCA) met early last fall and decided to concern themselves with the graduate students this year, since there are such a large number of graduates now at State.

At a meeting last week, there were 29 present, in addition to Dr. Peterson, acting Dean of the Graduate School. Frank Mason was elected President; James Leatherwood, Vice-president; Anne Heuser, Recording Secretary; Pat White, Corresponding Secretary; and Bill Thompson, Treasurer.

History of Meeting
Lory Wubbena, the Danforth Graduate at State, has been instrumental in the organization of the graduate students into an effective group this year. She gave a report at last week's meeting on the events leading to the last meeting.

"On Nov. 28 ten graduate students were called together to be the guests of the YMCA at the cafeteria to discuss whether there was any need for, or interest in, a graduate organization. After a lengthy discussion tending toward a positive reaction to this, a committee of four (Erdman, Krusberg, Mason, and Nandapurkar) volunteered to look further into this situation."

Needs, Purpose, Problems

"This group of four again thoroughly discussed needs, purpose, and problems involved in organizing such. They felt that they should have a better representation of the whole school before definitely deciding on anything. So a mailing was sent out to all department heads asking for a representative from each department. Out of this about 13 showed up for the meeting January 7. Here again, with new blood, the same questions of need, what is it, how to meet it, its purpose and aims, and how to organize such a club were raised. At this meeting Pat

White was appointed temporary chairman. With time running out after a long discussion it was moved that a committee be set up to draw up definite recommendations to be voted upon at a meeting on the 14th. (These five volunteers were White, Coss, Bunn, Miller, and Mason.)"

"A very poor representation at the Jan. 14th meeting resulted in a delay in adopting any of these proposed recommendations, but the group did feel that a council type organization with representatives from every graduate department be set up. Since the former selection had been done rather hastily and without a vote of the department in many cases, it was decided to send a letter to all graduate students informing them of what was going on and to send a letter to department heads of only the graduate departments asking for an official representative from each department to be elected by its members."

These official representatives plus any interested graduate students met in the College Union last week. The next meeting will be called by the president after meeting with the constitutional committee, which was elected at the meeting.

C.E.'s Fadum To Speak About Panama Journey

"An Engineer's Impressions of Panama" will be described by Dr. Ralph E. Fadum, head of the Department of Civil Engineering at North Carolina State College to the local chapter of the Society of the Sigma Xi in the auditorium of Riddick Building tonight at 8 p.m.

Dr. Fadum will tell of his experiences and observations during three trips made last year to the Panama Canal Zone to gather data for a School of Engineering study of terrain and climatic conditions in a tropical environment. His lecture will be illustrated with color slides.

Head of the Civil Engineering Department since 1949, Fadum is a graduate of the University of Illinois and Harvard University. His fields of specialization are Soil Mechanics and Foundation Engineering.

He has served as a consultant to the Corps of Engineers, the Air Force, the Department of Defense and numerous private concerns. He is active in many professional activities, particularly the American Society of Civil Engineers, as well as civic groups.

The Society of the Sigma Xi is America's highest honor society in the general sciences. The local chapter annually sponsors a series of lectures to which the public is invited.

Birdland All-Stars Feature Basie, Eckstine, Vaughn, Young

The nation's favorites in both the popular and jazz field, as indicated in popularity polls, will headline the "Birdland All-Stars of '57" which will be at the Raleigh Memorial Auditorium Monday evening, February 25th.

Count Basie, hailed as the "Band of the Year", captured the top honors as the nation's top jazz band in all polls. In the same voting blues-singer Joe "Everyday" Williams was an easy winner in the "male singer of the year" category.

It was a clean sweep for Sarah Vaughan as the "female vocalist" in a poll of French jazz preferences conducted in Paris, France, by Daniel Filipacchi and Frank Tenot for that country's radio network. On these shores, Miss Vaughan has already won every major popufemale vocalist. These have included polls conducted by Esquire, Down Beat, Metronome, Orchestra World and the Pittsburgh-Courier newspapers.

Billy Eckstine has long been recognized as the outstanding male jazz singer in the world. His name constantly places on the top of every poll taken by the industry.

Jeri Southern, since 1953 when she won the New-Star award, has made her mark in her category of singing both here and abroad.

Each of these awards winning artists share star billing in the "Birdland Stars of '57" and bring along with them instrumentalists who have placed equally as high in all polls. Starting with pianists Bud Powell and Paineas Newborn, saxophonists Lester Young and Zoot Sims, and Seldon Powell, vibraharpist Terry Gibbs, Trumpeter Chet Baker, Clarinetist Rolf Kuhn plus Jimmy Jones, Roy Haynes and Richard Davis.

This is the most—most in great names—most in numbers and the most in music. There will be 16 great stars in a cast of 66 famous artists in Birdland Stars of '57 when it appears at the Raleigh Memorial Auditorium on Monday night, Feb-

PROBLEM: To evaluate the all-round career advantages offered by the diversified activities at Divisions of North American Aviation, Inc.

FIRST STEP: GET THE FACTS in man-to-man interviews, on campus FEBRUARY 19

As a graduate in Engineering, Physics, Applied Math. or allied subjects you need complete, factual information to help you make a sound decision in choosing your career.

AUTONETICS

Get the facts in a man-to-man interview with our representative. Let him tell you about our unique placement and training devised to help your potential develop rapidly in a company where continued expansion has doubled the number of employees in 5 years. Your possibilities are wide and varied, as you will see from these brief notes on the 4 Divisions:

AUTONETICS creates automatic controls and electro-mechanical systems of a highly interesting nature. Work includes research, design, development, manufacture and testing; you will become a part of the latest advances in

Are there privileged classes at State College? My answer to this question posed in the February 7 edition of The Technician is of a privileged class, but let's look in another direction.

The direction to which I imply is toward the highest office that a student may hold on the Campus . . . that is of the Student Government. Could you call it anything but privileged when a student drives his car to class Yes! The athletes may not be on rainy days, parks in the faculty parking lot, gets tickets and then has the tickets automatically disposed of by the Traffic Committee?

It seems reasonable that the President of Student Government, Jim Nolan, should be able to park his car in restricted areas for campus business, but when he goes to class, he is only another student with the same restrictions which apply to every student on campus.

It is understood by this person that one of the members of the Traffic Committee had a great deal of pressure put on him because he objected to this procedure!!!

ARE THERE PRIVILEGED CLASSES AT STATE COLLEGE????

Horace E. Williams

To the Editor: As April 15 draws near, we working students begin to wonder how we can pay fees and buy books, as well as do our small bit to keep needy Uncle Sam out of the Poor Farm. Scanning the fine print of the tax laws each year, trying to save a few pennies (for pencils and erasers), one section causes many of us to lose sleep. The following illustration will serve as a case history.

Joe Student wants a college education, and to meet this end he gets a part time job and works during the summer. Joe makes $1,000 a year and gets $1,001 (over 50 per cent) from Dad, and is consequently able to keep the book store and business office happy.

Now as Judgment Day approaches, Joe Student files a tax return and claims himself as an exemption. Joe's father files a return and also claims Joe as an exemption. In other words, Joe was legally claimed twice. There is no restriction on this (including Joe's age or the amount he earned), except that Joe's father must contribute over 50 per cent of his support, and Joe must pursue his education at least five months a year. The extra exemption law was passed to help Joe Student to get college education.

In time Joe meets his love and decides to march down the aisle. Mrs. Student replaces Joe's Dad as the major breadwinner and assumes the responsibility of keeping Joe supplied with books and paper.

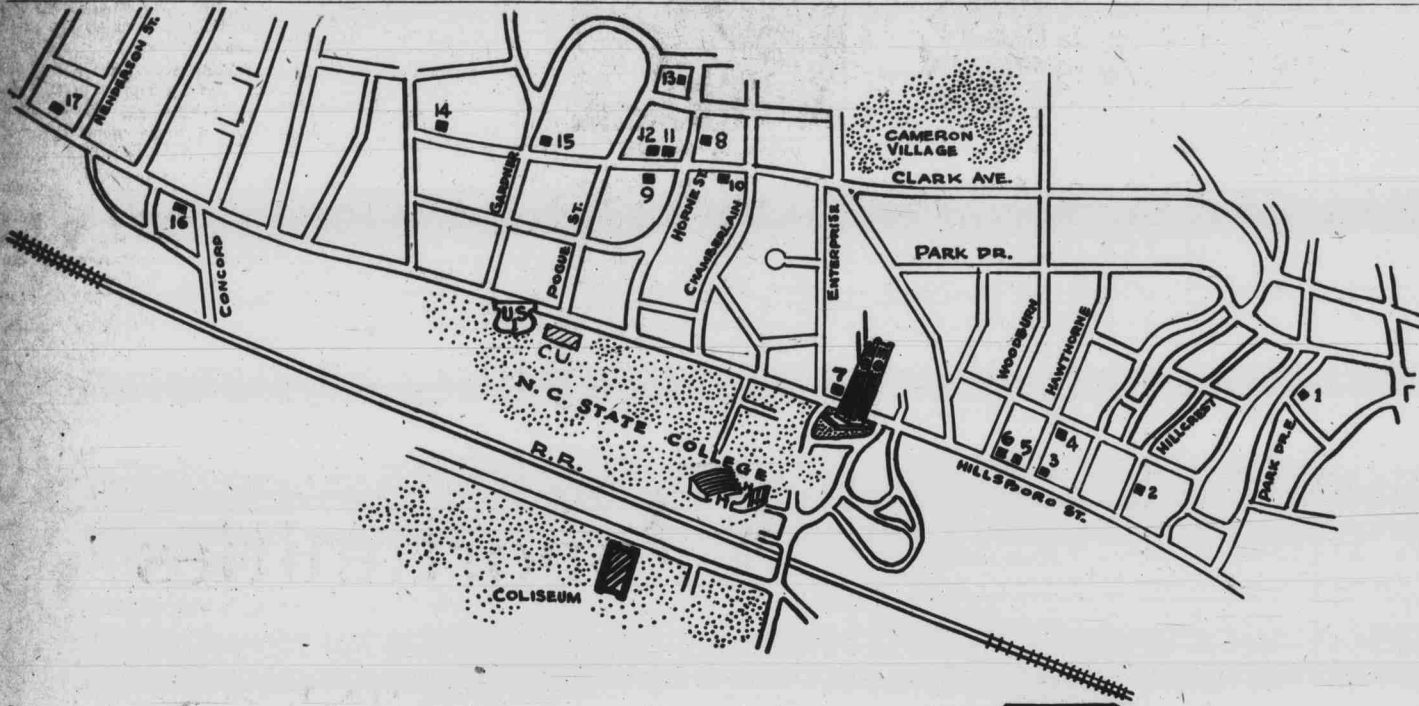

It would seem that since assumed these responsibilities from the father, she would be entitled to the benefits he received. However, things have changed. The major provider of the family is now making a fabulous $30 weekly, instead of being in the $5,000 plus bracket, before. Going along with this change is the fact that Mrs. Student isn't allowed to claim Joe as an extra exemption, as her predecessor enjoyed. Is Joe a less a student now that he is married? Are his books cheaper? Does he receive a discount on his fees? Is his room and board less expensive? On the contrary, Joe Student's federal tax outlay increases rapidly due to the loss of the "extra exemption."

Now that such a large portion of the student body is made up of married students, it would seem that the time has come for a revision of the tax laws affecting them, which would amount to discrimination against Mrs. Student and the marriage among college students.

A simulated case: A family of three, with the unmarried son a college student, and the father's income $5,000, the father contributes $1,500 yearly; the son earns $1,000 yearly. The father pays $540 tax; the son pays $0 tax.

After marriage, the wife makes $1,500 and the student $1,000. The father no longer contributes, and he pays $60 from same salary as before (an increase of approximately 23 per cent). The son and wife, from same income as before, pay $21 tax (an increase of approximately 240 per cent).
