Twenty-Seven Arrested During Campus Riot Eleven State Students Acquitted As Sixteen Receive Suspended Sentences

Then there were the smart ones who watched the Thursday night riots from their dormitory windows.

Sixteen of the group of twenty-seven State Students who were arrested for participating in the riots last Thursday night after the first game of the ACC Tournament were convicted in city court on Saturday. The charges were rioting and disorderly conduct.

Judge Albert Doub sentenced the students to 30 days on the roads suspended on payment of $25 fines each and cost of court.

At their trials, the students denied that a mob had existed and one contended that the students were victimized by officers who were "excited and anxious to lay their hands on anyone around."

Police officers said the riots broke out near the Coliseum after 11 p.m. and continued with lulls long after midnight. They said that several hundred students participated in the demonstrations and that rocks were thrown and automobile tires slashed.

The cause of the demonstrations was that some of the fans attending the ACC Tournament parked their cars in the middle of the street leading to the Stadium parking lot—thus blocking the entrance to the student parking lot at the rear of the Stadium.

After the game the police were called to disperse the crowd around Syme and to remove the Dempsey Dumpster that had been placed behind the cars parked in the middle of the street.

More and more students arrived on the scene until the police finally fired tear gas into the crowd. Actually, according to Fred Joseph, IDC President, the tear gas was not fired until the crowd was dispersing, and the tear gas served merely to further inflame the students.

Joseph said that the tear gas and the arrests of "onlookers" made the students determined not to quit until the police released the students. The students finally gave up when they saw the arrested students being put in the State Prison patrol wagon.

Many students were still very bitter on Sunday because of the way many students who were not actively participating in the riot were arrested and because of the way the tear gas was used.

All students involved will "have to appear before the Student Government Judicial Board regardless of the action taken against them in city court," said J. J. Stewart, dean of Student Affairs.

Findings and recommendations of the Student Judicial Board will be presented to Banks C. Talley, Jr., director of Student Activities, for final review and action.

Following is a list of the students who appeared in city court. (The first 16 listed were convicted and the last 11 were acquitted.)

St. Patrick's Dance

The Engineer's Council is sponsoring its big event of the year March 16—the St. Patrick's Dance. It's semi-formal and features a 12-piece orchestra with vocalist.

During intermission outstanding seniors and freshmen will be tapped for the Order of St. Patrick's and the companion of St. Patrick's.

Miss Ann Fitzhugh, Queen of the consolidated University, will reign as Queen of St. Pat's.

Crusaders Chorus

Again this year the YMCA is sponsoring the Crusaders Male Chorus from Hampton, Virginia. They will appear in Pullen Hall on March 24, 1957, at 8:15 p.m. The public is invited and there will be no admission charge, however an offering will be received to help defray expenses.

Arnold Air Society

In a special meeting held on Thursday, March 7, the Arnold Air Society here at State elected officers for next year. The following cadets were chosen: Squadron Commander, Vic Rackley; Executive Officer, Bill McGee; Treasurer, Mel Honeycutt; Secretary, Laurie Hannah; Operations Officer, Bob Justus; Public Informations Officer, Dick Westmoreland.

Diploma Correction

Seniors should go by the Registration Office rather than the Business Office to sign up for a diploma change. Both diplomas will be available and students may see both.

Mt. Everest Climber Presents Nepal Film

Norman C. Dyhrenfurth, a member of the 1952 Swiss assault on Mt. Everest and leader of the 1955 International Himalayan Expedition, will present a color film "Solo Rhumbu" in the Ballroom of the College Union Building Tuesday night at 8 p.m.

Sponsored by the College Union Forum Committee, the film will deal with the men and mountains of Nepal. Dyhrenfurth both photographed and narrated the film. It presents the story of a little known and little visited land sealed off by the rugged terrain of the Himalayas.

Murray Penney, of Warwick, Va., chairman of the Forum Committee, said the program is open to the public. There will be an admission charge of $1.00 for all non-members of the College Union, he added.

Technician photographer risked his neck to get this picture of the State students on trial Saturday morning in City Court. After this picture was taken, he was told that if he took any pictures he would be thrown in jail.

Week-Long Food Drive Highlights Fraternities' "Greek-Week" Act.

State College's Inter-Fraternity Council's annual "Greek Week" program got off to a fine start today under the direction of Guy Townsend, chairman.

The highlight of the week-long affair is a community project in which all the college's fraternity men take part. This year the council will sponsor a city-wide canned food drive, with the results going to the welfare department.

Last year several thousand pounds of food were collected by the 17 fraternities. A trophy is given to the fraternity which collects the largest amount of food.

Other activities of "Greek Week" include exchange suppers between the different chapters each night and two discussion sessions on "The Rush System" and "A Group Buying Program" on Tuesday and Thursday evening.

The program will end Friday night with a banquet in the College Cafeteria during which the scholarship trophy, given by Sigma Pi Fraternity to the pledge class with the highest average will be presented.

Thursday In Coliseum

Special Exercises For Founder's Day

Special exercises on the State College campus will mark the 70th anniversary of legislation enacted for the establishment of North Carolina State College.

This special Founder's Day program will be held at the William Neal Reynolds Coliseum on the State College campus at 11:30 a.m., Thursday, March 14, according to an announcement made last week by Dr. A. M. Fountain, chairman of the college's committee on the History of the college.

Members of the North Carolina General Assembly will be the special guests of the college at the anniversary program. Both houses of the legislature have accepted the invitation of Dr. Carey H. Bostian, chancellor of State College, to be present.

Drill will be scheduled at 11:10 a.m. on Thursday and all other classes at this time will be dismissed. ROTC. Departments will be responsible for the proper receiving and ushering of the members of the Legislature.

All students are urged to attend. The Faculty Senate is asking all faculty members to attend.

No Excuse

One nice thing about riots and like things . . . they provide good conversational grist for days to come. On Friday everybody with blood-shot eyes got a standard greeting. . . . "Tear gas burn your eyes?"

We tried to think of something else nice about the riot but, honestly, we couldn't.

We have certainly endeared our hot-headed selves to the populace of Raleigh, who will now no doubt go back to their old attitude, (which was disappearing) "State College boys are all a bunch of immature little hoodlums" and no amount of discussion about why the riot happened and no amount of rationalization about injustices and no number of food drives or community projects is going to erase the impression.

We certainly agree with a lot of the students who thought the whole affair was handled poorly by the city and other local police . . . but we can't see blaming them for the riot. There may have been other and more successful ways of dealing with the students last Thursday night, but they shouldn't have had to deal with the students at all.

We are of the opinion that, after all is said and done on this subject, it will have left little accomplished except the creation of a bad taste in the mouths of local citizens by the students. If you remember, two of our student leaders had just finished making a statement asking for cooperation on the part of the students so that a good impression could be made on the legislators who were out here for the games and to whom the college and students are now turning for help on matters such as teacher pay, new buildings, and married housing. It would be rather a sorry thing if one of the legislators stood on the floor of the General Assembly and said "I don't want to see one cent authorized for those hot-headed hellions at State." Be right disappointing for all the people who are so interested in the housing and other projects . . .

Maybe there was some point to the riot and perhaps there was provocation and maybe the cops were high-handed, but we still think there must be other, more mature methods of handling any situation than resorting to mob violence. For that, there is neither now nor ever will be any excuse.

Any Suggestions?

The resolution passed several weeks ago by the Student Government recommending that a 12" IBM Bell be purchased and installed atop Williams Hall has received the approval of the Chancellor. He has sent word to M & O to purchase and install the bell.

State College still has two other bells, however. One came from the battleship North Carolina and the other from the Southern Railway. Neither of these was installed on the west end of the campus because M & O estimated that the installation would cost $1200. (The IBM bell will cost $250 installed.)

If anyone has a suggestion as to where either or both of these bells could be put, The Technician would like to pass the suggestion on via the "Letters To The Editor" column. We heard one suggestion that one bell be put in the new fraternity row; do you have any more?

Hooray for the mob! Shades of the Boston Tea Party—Ye olde students finally demonstrated spirit for something other than semi-pro athletic circuses.

Even notice that those people who are against mob violence always recommend another form of violence to solve the problem (tear gas, fines, kangaroo courts, jails, etc.) and seldom bother about the real cause of trouble.

Let's not forget that we are beneficiaries of a very violent and successful mob led by a Mr. G. Washington. Mob violence is right if it is justified.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

BY DICK BIBLER

"NICE OF YOU BOYS NEXT DOOR TO WASH OUR WINDOWS— WE HADN'T EVEN NOTICED THEY WERE GETTING DIRTY."

Just A Note

Since we had such great success Thursday with a comment under this title, we thought we'd give it another try.

It seems like the new way to get things done in a hurry is to say something against . . . witness our success at stemming rumored violence last Thursday night.

Trying our new philosophy, we've got one we'd like to aim at the N. C. General Assembly now in session down at the capitol.

Let's don't raise teachers' salaries either at our colleges or in our state-supported public schools. We have found an excellent way of ridding ourselves of overly-intelligent people—pay them starvation wages. We should not stop this operation when we are so close to reaching our ultimate goal . . . either starving all good teachers to death or completely ridding ourselves of all but the dedicated few who would rather share their knowledge with our youth than eat.

And, to continued our negative attitude . . . how about another riot?

We are confused . . . are you?

COLISEUM PARKING

One of the most recent complaints lodged by The Technician and several students is on the subject of Coliseum parking permits. The fact that certain "friends" of the college, who contribute sizeable sum to the Wolfpack Club, were granted special parking permits to the Coliseum seems to be the main "gripe".

Most fans and students think that because the Coliseum packs at least 10,000 people each game, the Athletic Department could have plenty of money for scholarships and not have to ant special deals to alumni.

Well, this is where most people get lost. Since both State and Carolina are state-supported schools they can not use gate receipts for scholarships. Thus—they must depend on the support of their alumni for scholarship funds.

Last year Carolina had 40 freshmen on football scholarships while State had 14—why? ? ?—because Carolina's alumni give more for the support of their athletic program.

It all boils down to this. If State is expected to compete with Wake, Carolina, Wake Forest, etc. in the sport field—it must call its "friends" and alumni to provide the means.

If it takes several Coliseum parking permits here and there to provide more scholarships then I say what's wrong with that. I am sure everyone enjoyed the Wolfpack's grid-iron rout over Carolina last fall. . . . State's winning eight out of ten conference basketball championships . . . or the 40-some-odd trophies

White Downs Red

The Whites defeated the Reds 13-0 in an inter-squad scrimmage in Riddick Stadium Saturday afternoon, and in general head coach Earle Edwards was pleased with the day's work-out.

in the Coliseum lobby. All this was accomplished because some "friend" or alumni kicked in a buck or two to help provide an athletic scholarship. Not one cent of Wolfpack funds are used for salaries or other athletic department expense. It all goes for scholarships.

I had much rather walk an extra block (most students walk to the games anyway) to see State defeat Duke . . . or Wake Forest . . . or Carolina (24-5 over the past 10 years) than park beside Frank Thompson Gym and watch the Pack play Elon . . . or East Carolina Tech . . . or maybe Virginia A & T. Think about it!!!

A Campus-to-Career Case History

Leader of an exploration

Owen Williams leads a team of research and development specialists at Bell Telephone Laboratories. His is one of many teams set up at the Labs to explore the frontiers of electronics and communications. In the picture above, Owen (right) discusses modulation problems in electron tubes with Robert Leopold, M.S., Electrical Engineering, University of Michigan, 1949.

Owen himself is thirty-one, and a B.E.E. from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, class of '49. He joined the Labs upon graduation, and was assigned to communications development training—the equivalent of a two-year postgraduate course in communications. Mixed with his classes were various assignments in the Chem Lab, the switching and wave filter departments, and work on transmission systems and coaxial cables.

In 1954 Owen was promoted to supervisor. He works with two electrical engineers, both systems analysts, and four technical assistants. Their current job is exploratory development of submarine cable systems, looking towards great new transoceanic communications links.

Owen is one of many engineers and scientists in the Bell System whose principal responsibilities include those of leadership. The work of improving telephone service in the Bell System is guided, and decisions are made, by men who understand the problems involved at first hand.

Many young men like Owen Williams are finding interesting and rewarding careers in the Bell System — at Bell Telephone Laboratories, in Bell Telephone Companies, Western Electric and Sandia Corporation. Your placement officer can give you more information about career opportunities in all Bell System companies.

UNC Replaces State As ACC Cage King

Tar Heels Defeat Va. W-F, S.C. for Crown

The University of North Carolina's undefeated basketball squad, the nation's No. 1 team, brought an end to State College's dominance of ACC cage championships as they swept through the three-day dribble derby to capture the 4th annual conference crown. State, who was eliminated the first day, had won the title for the past three years.

Coach Frank McGuire's victory train was almost derailed Friday by a gallant band of Deacons from Wake Forest, but the magic fingers of Lennie Rosenbluth saved the day and kept the "Tar Heel Special" speeding on its way.

Saturday night the Tar Heel's pushed the gears into high and rolled over South Carolina 95-75, stopping only long enough to accept an invitation to represent the conference in the NCAA play-offs.
