Third Consolidated University President

Friday Inaugurated In Coliseum Ceremonies

Yesterday hundreds of faculty members, students, guests, and friends of the Consolidated University gathered at the Coliseum for the inauguration of William Clyde Friday as President of the Greater University of North Carolina.

Governor Luther Hodges presided over the ceremony which began at 10:30 and lasted until 12:15. Former Consolidated University Presidents Frank Graham (1931-50) and Gordon Gray (1950-55) gave brief remarks before the presentation of Friday.

Future Progress

Concerning the general progress of the University, Friday said, "As we seek to encourage sound scholarship in its search for the truth, we must provide our faculties with the essential resources for getting the job done. We must constantly add to our libraries those volumes, manuscripts, periodicals and other resources essential for study and research in the many subject matter areas properly the concern of a great university faculty. We must keep our laboratories scientifically up-to-date. To do their best even the most distinguished faculty people must have good books and good equipment."

About higher salaries for the faculties, the President said, "We must provide salaries commensurate with the quality and excellence of the work of our faculty members. We have traded to long on the loyalty and sense of public responsibility that is so characteristic of these men and women."

President Friday voiced his opinion about student government in the following manner: "We must support responsible and free student self-government."

Finally, he expressed his gratitude for the "enthusiastic and continuing support of Governor Hodges," and said that "as I labor for you, it will be my humble prayer that God will bless the faculties and students of the Woman's College, State College, and the University in Chapel Hill in their efforts to achieve that high destiny which was the vision and purpose of the founders."

The combined Glee Clubs of State, Carolina, and Woman's College as well as the bands from the three schools, took part in the ceremony.

The faculties of The Consolidated University, delegates from other universities and colleges, and delegates of learned societies, educational and professional organizations, and foundations filed into the Coliseum in academic procession.

Following the inauguration there was an informal reception for delegates and guests.

Larry Harris will serve as Chairman of the Judicial Board for next year. Also elected by the new board was Harold Denton who will be the Board's clerk.

The new board was sworn in by Bob Lyne, past chairman, on April 26.

Student Not Guilty

On May 2, 1957, the Student Judicial Board found a student not guilty of cheating on a chemistry examination.

The new members are H. C. Rose Jr., Heywood Houtz, B. H. Barnette, Robert Beasley, John Fulton, Leon Henderson, Larry Harris, Fred Scott, Harold Denton, and Eric Smart.

Two Policies Offered

Longer Insurance Coverage Offered

During registration next Fall, students will have an opportunity to purchase insurance covering the entire year from Mutual of Omaha Insurance Company because of action taken by the SG Thursday, May 2. Plans from various companies were studied, and two—Mutual of Omaha and Pilot Life—were recommended by the Promotions Committee. George Cochran, chairman of the committee, introduced representatives of the two companies. After plans from the companies were studied, the SG passed a motion, introduced by Senator William Kay, to accept the plan of Mutual of Omaha.

Mutual of Omaha

Mutual of Omaha will give the student the choice of either an accident policy or an accident and sickness policy. Benefits for the accident and sickness policy are the following:

1. Death—$2,500.00
2. Medical expenses—$1,000.00
3. Dental expenses—$1,000.00
4. Fringe benefits, such as payment for ambulance service, extra nurses, consultations.

Accident policy benefits include:

1. Death—$1,000.00
2. Medical expenses—$1,000.00
3. Dental expenses—$500.00

Mutual's premiums for the accident and sickness policy and the accident policy were $6.50 and $13.00 respectively with coverage extending over a twelve-month period.

Pilot Life

Pilot Life, which has had the insurance contract at State since 1952, presented two types of policies for SG consideration. The first was an "accident only" policy with the following benefits:

1. Death—$1,000.00
2. Medical expenses—$1,000.00
3. Dental expenses—$500.00

The cost of this policy was (See INSURANCE Page 6)

Gone - - - - -

We have been asked what we would write our last editorial about . . . and we have had numerous suggestions, perhaps the best a blank page with "The Editor's Thoughts" set in the middle in 6-point type.

We think instead of a maudlin good-byes and last minute advice, we'll confine ourselves to a simple "thank you" to the many people who have contributed so much to this paper and the State campus during the past year. We have enjoyed editing The Technician and we hope you have enjoyed reading it.

We will probably never again have a soap-box of such size of flexibility!!!

The Spirit!

School spirit has occupied a great deal of space on both this page in the past year and in the Editor's mind for the past four years.

It is an ethereal and abstract topic, as no one has successfully defined or described it. It has defied the efforts of many who have attempted to create it artificially. Frankly, we think it will continue to defy these people.

To our way of thinking there will never be one iota of school spirit at State until each and every member of its student body, faculty, staff and alumni groups feels an unswerving and abiding allegiance and affection for State.

There are too many people on this campus wrapped up in their own little worlds and ignoring or criticizing their surroundings and the efforts of those around them.

These people must change. They must come to recognize a larger State College than they do now. They must be concerned not alone with studies, Thermo, Knitting, Agronomy or Pulp Principles . . . they must recognize a world beyond the Coliseum, they must have a feeling for the difficulties of the management and administration of the College, they must sympathize with the problems and understand the role of every man and woman on this campus.

Then and only then will there be a spirit at State. When every man loves every part . . . when every man is proud of every part . . . then we will be on our way.

It may come soon . . . it may not come for years. This paper has a crucial role to play in furnishing the basis of connection for the members of the community . . . information and knowledge is a basis of pride . . . it is a large challenge to the followers of this staff. . . .

The alumni of this college must remember their years here . . . they must stand tall when State is mentioned . . . they must be living examples of the quality of the State man, in thought, word and deed.

This may not answer all the questions concerning the pride and love for a college that builds school spirit. We think though that it may be a help. It is not a goal which can be reached by the work of individuals . . . it must be sought by all the people in the community in their daily work with each other and with the world. . . .

We hope it will come to pass . . . maybe in the future.

Mid-Victorian Rules

The boys at State and the girls who are in school here in Raleigh have been complaining for years about the outmoded rules in effect at the girls' schools. What we mean are those rules which are so restrictive when it comes to dating. It seems the whole attitude at these schools is one of simple mistrust—the girls are not considered to be old enough or mature enough to know the right thing to do when it comes to dating. We have been doing a little checking on this and the following are just a few examples of these faulty rules:

- (1) At one of the schools, a party at a fraternity house must be called in by the fraternity and approved. The reason given for this rule is that there are not house mothers at the fraternities and it is just like going into a living quarters . . . but if the party is approved, there is supposedly a chaperone present to keep the wayward girls out of the boys' rooms.
- (2) Another school requires that there be at least three girls going together to a fraternity house from that same school—you know, safety in numbers.
- (3) Another one is this—if you live in Raleigh but you stay in the dorms during the week, then sign out to go home (in Raleigh) you are still under the jurisdiction of the school even while at home; in other words, you must come in at the same time you would if living at school and you are not allowed to go to those places which are off-limits to those in the dorms. Evidently, the administrations of these schools believe that they have better judgment about a girl's behavior than her parents.

(4) The girls can not sign out for a weekend to go to a dance here, unless they live within a 50 mile radius and are home by 1:00 A.M. However, if they do not sign out to go to a dance, they can check out and stay out as late as they want. We wish someone could explain what is so wicked about dance-weekends!

There are more regulations that don't make much sense, but we hope the point is already made. When the administrations of the girls' schools revise their rules so that they are workable in 1957 rather than in a past age, they will graduate women better prepared to meet a modern world. These rules seem to stimulate delinquency rather than control it—girls are going to take just so much, and then their logic will tell them to find a way around those rules which don't make sense.

Just look at the way these schools decorate their parlors; they are drab, old-fashioned to the extreme, depressing, and totally lacking in imagination. The rules and regulations follow along the same theme. And in case someone says this is sour grapes, I might mention that my girl goes to W.C.—they are a little easier to get along with there.

The Inauguration

Since we have been given a holiday Wednesday for the inauguration of William C. Friday as President of the Consolidated University, let's all give up a little sack time and attend the ceremonies. It will be an interesting program and many distinguished guests will be on the agenda. Students from both Carolina and W.C. are coming over so let's be there too.

From the Files

One year ago; May 3, 1956

The College Union summer school fee was set at four dollars per session by the Student Government in their last meeting.

Two members of the rising Senior Class—Jim Peden and Bob Tanen—were elected to positions during the regional convention of the National Student Association which was held at State.

State with a conference record of 8-1 meets Duke in their next game. Duke now is in second place with a 7-2 record.

Ten years ago; May 9, 1947

After a wartime lapse the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association will hold its reactivation convention beginning today in Raleigh with State College acting as host.

Graduation exercises are scheduled for June 8th and 9th. 405 students are candidates for degrees.

Twenty-seven Juniors, Seniors, and faculty members have been tapped by Blue Key, National Honorary Leadership Fraternity.

Completion of the Coliseum is expected in time for the Southern Conference Basketball Tournament next Spring.

5,000 Interviews For 575 Seniors

The 575 seniors who were graduated from State College in May, 1956, were interviewed for some 5,000 openings with more than 400 companies and governmental agencies.

This was reported by Kenneth D. Raab, director of admissions and registration at State College, who said starting salaries increased above the previous year and ranged from $2,700 to $7,000 annually.

Additional fringe benefits such as hospitalization, retirement plans, moving expenses, and cost of living allowances, Raab said, made these offers even more attractive.

The college's School of Agriculture reported approximately six opportunities per student, with many openings in research, graduate school, and with governmental agencies. Salaries offered ranged from $3,200 to $5,000, with an average of $4,500.

The School of Design graduated 24 seniors with more than 100 openings in North Carolina alone. Raab said 10 of these seniors remained in the State, while nine accepted employment elsewhere. Beginning salaries in architecture and landscape architecture averaged $4,300 per year.

Graduates from the School of Education received offers of beginning salaries ranging from $2,700 to almost $6,000. Almost one third of this group, however, went into the armed services, while a second third went into the teaching profession. The remaining seniors in education accepted positions in industry or continued their studies in Graduate School.

The heavy enrollment in the School of Engineering, with 232 seniors, led even more companies to the campus for placement

Educators Joined In Honoring Friday At Solemn Inauguration

By Elbert Reid

Delegates from more than 300 universities in the United States joined in welcoming William C. Friday to the responsibilities and opportunities which are his as he assumes the duties of President of the Consolidated University of North Carolina.

Marching in academic procession before both the faculties of the Consolidated University and the platform party, these delegates entered William Neal Reynolds Coliseum yesterday as symbols of the diverse and broad interests of higher education and of its long historic role in American life.

Heading the list of distinguished university and college delegates was James Spencer Love, representing Harvard University, the oldest institution of higher learning in the United States. Although Harvard's delegate may represent the continuing tradition of higher education in the United States, younger institutions such as the Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary at Wake Forest, organized as recently as 1950, also joined in paying tribute to the responsibilities toward higher education being assumed by President Friday.

Delegates from McGill University and the University of Toronto in Canada and from the University of the Philippines assisted the American college delegates in the traditional pageantry of an academic presidential inauguration.

Among the institutions represented were the College of William and Mary and St. John's College, which, along with Harvard, were established prior to 1700, the days of North Carolina's colonial infancy.

Heading the list of institutions represented which were established in the 18th century are Yale University and the University of Pennsylvania. Some 20 other institutions established American institutions.

Some 44 of the institutions prior to 1800 also had representatives at the inauguration ceremony. ## Yarber Is Candidate For Verville Mayor

N. G. Yarber, candidate for Mayor of Verville, released the following statement prior to the Verville election Saturday.

"I am announcing that I am a candidate for the office of Mayor of Verville. Although the power of the mayor is limited to merely representing the people of Verville, I would like to be given the opportunity to do as much as possible toward making Verville a better place for those of us who live here."

Yarber continued, "Some of the things I would especially strive for are better maintenance of apartments and streets, as much choice as possible for those who are being forced to vacate upstairs dwellings about where they are to be moved, a regular Verville newspaper and more information to residents about happenings that might concern or interest them."

"I would like to see a large percentage of the people of Verville vote on Saturday and Sunday, May 11 and 12, so I am asking all of you to vote for a candidate for each of the various offices and hope that your vote will be for me."

"Business and pleasure do mix..."

ROBERT H. WENTORF, JR., Ph.D., University of Wisconsin, 1951

"Until I joined General Electric's Research Laboratory in 1951, I never realized science could be such a challenge — or so much fun. My job involves research in physical chemistry — the investigation of new ideas which can lead to new and better products people can use. In a company of this size, I have the unique advantage of having the tools and facilities I need and the experience of others close at hand. And in return, of course, I'm expected to apply myself to the best of my ability in each new job. As I see it, if a big company like General Electric invests time, money and faith in my creative ability, and if I respond by creating, then we both benefit. To me, at General Electric business and pleasure do mix."

created borazon — a completely new, diamond-hard substance which promises far-reaching effect on industrial processes and everyday living.

There are more than 27,000 college graduates at General Electric. Each is provided the opportunity for self-development in the hope that his creative ability will bring forth new ideas. As General Electric sees it, these new ideas, stemming from man's native curiosity, will lead to the development of countless products as yet undreamed of for our nation's defense, industries, and homes.

A physical chemist at General Electric conducts studies of the atomic structure of matter, and of the way atoms and molecules interact under a wide variety of conditions.

Progress Is Our Most Important Product

GENERAL  ELECTRIC

The achievements of 31-year-old Robert Wentorf speak well of his ability to make the most of the opportunities offered at General Electric. He recently established in 1897, and The Woman's College, established in 1891. Religious, scientific, liberal arts, and military schools were all represented in the group which included institutions of higher learning scattered throughout the country from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico and from Maine to California. All join in tribute to the new president, to the institution itself, and to the people of North Carolina who have nurtured and sustained the growth of the Consolidated University.

Notes from the Wolfpack:

It looks like Coach Everett Case's basketball school for boys is going to be a big success. Within three days after the announcement was made, Case had received 85 applications. The school will be held at the State Fair Arena here from June 10-16. Case will be assisted by Vic Bubas and Lee Terrill and other members of the Wolfpack basketball team.

Switch-hitter Don Hafer, the Mickey Mantle of the ACC, has hit five home runs this year . . . three from the right side of the plate and two from the left side. His homer and three singles against Duke boosted his batting average to .311 for 14 games.

Last year Hafer was a pitcher-outfielder for the freshman team. In a non-league game against East Carolina, Coach Vic Sorrell called upon Hafer for the mound chores and he dropped a 5-4 decision to the Bucs. In six innings he allowed six hits and four runs while striking out eight and walking three.

State's "Big Three" has collected almost half of the baseball team's hits this year.

In 13 games, the Wolfpack has banded out 115 hits with 54 of the total belonging to catcher Bob Kennel, centerfielder Dick Hunter and first baseman Eddie Wyant. Wyant has the most safeties (20) while Kennel and Hunter each has 17.

Bob Seitz, State's 6-11 basketball center, won the Alumni Athletic Trophy last week during the annual Alumni Week-end. Each year the old grads honor a senior athlete who has made a good record in athletics as well as in the classroom. Last year Ronnie Shavlik copped the award.

Speaking of Shavlik, the former Wolfpack cage ace and his lovely wife, Beverly, are awaiting their first visit from the stork. Ronnie has his own business in Raleigh now and is enjoying his first fling in the business world. He's still undecided on his basketball future but would like to rejoin the New York Knicks next season for another try.

Which school has given State the most trouble in sports this year? The final results won't be tabulated until the end of the season but Maryland looks like a shoo-in. The Wolfpack has beaten Maryland only in swimming and baseball while losing twice in basketball, and once each in football, golf, tennis, wrestling and baseball.

Tony Guerrieri is recovering rapidly from a knee operation. The rising senior fullback from Orange, N. J., had two cartilages removed during the Easter holidays. He injured the knee last fall and had to sit out three games.

Case Conducts Cage Camp June 10-15

North Carolina State basketball coach Everett Case, one of the nation's foremost tutors, will conduct a basketball school for boys in Raleigh from June 10 to June 15.

The veteran Wolfpack mentor, whose teams have won 282 games while losing only 71 in eleven years at State, will be assisted by Vic Bubas and Lee Terrill, his aides at State.

The school, which will be held at the State Fair Arena, is designed to teach youngsters the fundamentals of basketball.

"We are very excited about the school," Case said in revealing his plans. "We have excellent facilities available. Our staff will be topnotch. Several college coaches and players have asked if they could serve as guest instructors."

Former State players will act as counsellors and demonstrators.

Boys attending the unique school will be quartered at the Youth Center on the fairgrounds, a modern and comfortable structure. Meals will be served in the new dining room.

"I have wanted to conduct a school of this nature for a long time," he said, "and am delighted that the school is now a reality. We are anxious to work with youngsters and hope our efforts will contribute to the improvement of basketball in this area."

Classes will be held daily from June 10 to 15.

State Meets Carolina Tonight at Meadow in 8:00 p.m. Non-Conference Battle to Honor "Bunn Hearn Day"

The North Carolinian who contributed the most to baseball in 1956 will be honored at a baseball game here Thursday night.

Bunn Hearn of Wilson, who coached the University of North Carolina for 27 years, is the honoree. He will be presented the Will Wynne award in ceremonies prior to the game between State and Carolina.

Gov. Luther Hodges, who has declared Thursday as "Bunn Hearn Day" throughout the state, will throw out the first ball. The game is set for 8 o'clock in Devereaux Meadow.

A special program has been planned for the occasion by the Raleigh chapter of the Hot Stove League, the sponsoring organization.

A luncheon at 12:30 in the Capitol Room of the S&W Cafeteria in downtown Raleigh will serve as a kickoff. Edward E. Haddock, a noted baseball authority and former mayor of Richmond, Va., will be the principal speaker. Billy Carmichael Jr., vice president of the greater University of North Carolina, will be master of ceremonies.

Dignitaries who will attend the luncheon include Hearn, Mayor Fred Wheeler and coaches Vic Sorrell of State and Walter Rabb of Carolina.

Ceremonies at the ball park will begin at 7:30 with short talks by Haddock and Willie Duke, the presentation of the Wynne award to Hearn, and the presentation of trophies to Ferguson Norton of Broughton High School and James Hartman of Raleigh.

Hartman will be honored for his work with amateur baseball last year, and Norton will be given the American Legion sportsmanship trophy which he won while competing in the junior baseball program last summer.

C. A. Dillon Jr. will be master of ceremonies. The State College band and ROTC color guard also will take part in the program.

Tickets for the game are 50 cents for students. They may be purchased at the Coliseum Box Office.

The game is the second meeting between State and Carolina but will not count in the ACC standings. The Wolfpack beat the Tar Heels 12-6 earlier in the year.

Hearn won the Wynne award in a poll of sports writers. He retired as Tar Heel coach last year.
