One Hundred Attend "Y" Freshman Retreat

Approximately 100 freshmen this year came to State several days earlier than the rest of their classmates to attend the annual YMCA Freshman Retreat.

The Retreat, which began last Friday, lasted through Monday. Included in the week-end activities were four talks by Dr. Charles McCoy of Laurinburg. Dr. McCoy served as the Director of the Wesley Foundation here at State between the years of 1948 and 1950.

Gene Butler, Chairman of the Freshman Retreat Committee, was assisted in planning the program by many members of the YMCA and the faculty. From registration on Friday, until late Monday, there were a great number of varied activities which kept the new freshmen on the move. Included in the four-day program were a swimming party at the gymnasium, a tour of the campus buildings, a picnic at Umstead Park, a tour of churches in Raleigh, and many discussion groups where any questions or problems of concern to Freshmen were answered. The theme of the Retreat was "Called To Be Students"; and the theme was carried out in the talks by Dr. McCoy and the discussion groups immediately following.

Following the Retreat was a YMCA Cabinet Retreat, held Tuesday and Wednesday at Camp Moomelon near Elon College.

This two-day Retreat, for all members of the "Y" Cabinet, was held primarily to discuss and plan the activities which the State College YMCA will sponsor in the ensuing year.

Approximately 2,000

'57 Freshman Class Breaks All Records

State College's largest Freshman Class, composed of approximately 2,000 students, completed registration today (Thursday) for fall semester classes. Registration for upperclassmen will be held tomorrow (Friday) and when all registration is complete the total enrollment will set a new high in enrollment for State College.

Between 6,200 and 6,400 students are expected to enroll for the fall semester. Although figures have not been released yet the Freshman Class is definitely the largest in the College's history and may be the largest college or university freshman class in the history of North Carolina.

With the completion of registration Freshmen can look forward to a slackening of the pace which has had them running from the Textile Auditorium to the Coliseum and other buildings on the campus for tests and meetings.

Chancellor's Reception

Friday will be a day of fun for most Freshmen as they take part in Group Athletics in the morning; attend a reception given by Chancellor and Mrs. Carey H. Bostian at their residence, 1903 Hillsboro Street, from 3:30 until 5:30 p.m.; support the Wolfpack in a Pep Rally behind the College Union from 7 'til 8 p.m.; and dance to the music of Harold Nall's Orchestra at the College Union. In addition tickets for bus transportation to the State-College game will be picked up in Room 100 at the Coliseum from 7 through 10 p.m.

Buses are scheduled to leave from the Coliseum for Chapel Hill at noon Saturday for the State-College football game which begins at 2 P.M.

Between 9 and 9:45 a.m. Sunday buses will leave from between Owen and Tucker, Bagwell, and the YMCA to carry students to church services throughout the city.

Classes for all students will begin Monday, September 23.

During the first part of Orientation Week Freshmen have registered for classes, purchased books and supplies, obtained

Dance Highlights CU Open House

An informal dance will complete the College Union Open House events planned for Friday afternoon and night. Music for the Dance will be furnished by Harold Nall's Orchestra of Burlington.

All students and dates will be admitted free of charge to the dance which will last from 8 'til 12. Coat and tie will be required.

Harold Nall's Orchestra was selected by the United States Army to entertain the men stationed in Puerto Rico this past summer. They have been written up in Downbeat magazine as one of the outstanding young bands in the South.

In addition to the Dance the events include building tours, a concert, and opportunities to meet girls.

Building Tours
Tours of the College Union building's facilities will be given all Freshmen and transfer students from one until four.

After the tours are completed, the Rex Hospital Glee Club will give a concert from four until five. An opportunity to become acquainted with the girls will be provided following the concert when refreshments will be served. In addition to the girls from Rex, students from Meredith, State Hospital School of Nursing, Peace, Saint Mary's, W. C. and Averett College in Danville have been invited to attend.

The Open House is sponsored by the College Union Social Committee under the chairmanship of Ron Poinsett. All students are urged to come.

Attention Coeds

The Consolidated University Student Council of State College will meet Friday night at 7:00 p.m. for the purpose of selecting the three girls to represent State in the Miss Consolidated University Contest. Because the event is so early in the school year, the CUSC is asking co-eds and married students who would like to represent State to come to the meeting tomorrow night. State is supposed to send three representatives for the Contest.

Pep Rally Planned For Friday Night

The first pep rally of the school year will be held tomorrow night behind the College Union at 7:00 p.m.

A processional with the "Pep

Band" will begin at the dormitories at 6:30 and go to the College Union.

Head Cheerleader Mac Lupold has said that the pep rally is being held Friday night, the night before the State-College football game, so that the Freshmen and upperclassmen can learn the several new cheers as well as the old cheers before the game the following day.

Dr. Joe Pou, a State graduate and head of the Department of Animal Husbandry, will be on hand to give a few old State College stories and jokes about the old Carolina-State rivalry.

Lupold has urged that all Freshmen attend the rally. Carolina has a strong cheering section and the State cheerleaders this year want to show our brother institution that State also has a strong cheering section.

The rally will begin at 7:00 p.m. and will be over by 8:00 p.m.

Integration, Yes Mob Violence, No

For the benefit of the Freshman Class, The Technician would like to treat briefly two subjects which we hope will not have to be discussed further this year.

First, integration. Most of you Freshmen are from the South. A great many Southerners have very definite opinions about segregation and/or integration. However, State College has its own opinion about the situation. Here we have integration. There are Negro students attending our school this year, just as there were Negro students here last year. Some of these men are living in the dormitories. All of them will be attending classes.

Last year we had no trouble at all over the situation. There was no name calling, no buildings dynamited, no trouble at all. The Associated Press representatives, of course, were quite disappointed in this because they didn't get a story. But State College was very proud of its record.

We hope that our students this year will continue to treat their fellow students, white and Negro, with the respect and kindness which is expected of a college gentleman.

Second is mob violence, including panty-raids. We quote from the Campus Code, which covers this subject quite adequately.

"During the previous spring semester, an unfortunate incident occurred which was, by the time the newspapers heard the story, a major riot. Actually the situation was not as serious as presented in the newspaper accounts. However, it became apparent that such incidents must be avoided in the future, so the present Student Judicial Board has adopted the following policy.

"The apprehension of any student on the scene of mob violence shall be considered PRIMA FACIE evidence of participation in mob violence. Therefore, students arrested at the scene of any mob action, such as a panty raid, will be considered guilty of participating in the raid, unless evidence or subsequent testimony indicates otherwise.

"The above statement indicates the seriousness with which the Judicial Board regards mob action."

As stated before, we hope we will have no incidents in either of the areas this year, first for the school's sake and secondly, for the individual student's sake.

Women Students

All women students are requested to meet on Monday night, Sept. 23rd at 7:30 P.M. in the College Union Theatre. This is a short compulsory informational meeting.

Temporary Registration Card

The temporary registration card issued to Freshmen today (Thursday), which will also be issued to upperclassmen on Sept. 20 will admit students to use college facilities normally requiring the permanent identification card which will be issued in the Coliseum on October 1st, 2nd, and 3rd.

At the same time that the permanent identification cards are issued facilities will be provided for vaccinating students for influenza. All students are urged to take advantage of this inoculation program.

Freshman-Sophomore Dues

Sophomore class officers are urging all sophomores to pay their class dues. Payment of all dues is deemed necessary to provide a fine Freshman-Sophomore Dance, which will be held on May 3, 1958. Since payment

New Facilities Found on Campus

Students arriving at State College this week for the opening of the fall semester have found a wide range of new facilities that have been completed since last September.

Among these are 17 acres of intra-mural athletic fields valued at $40,000; a paved dormitory parking area south of Alexander, Burlington, Owen, and Tucker Dormitories; a $400,000 Agricultural Engineering Building; paved parking and playing area between the Frank Thompson Gymnasium and the William Neal Reynolds Coliseum; and extensive renovations to Berry and Becton Dormitories.

Also completed at State College since last fall is the imposing Alumni Memorial Building, valued at $250,000 and dedicated to the more than 300 N. C. State alumni killed in the service of their country during World War II.

The college is now building a new 800-man dormitory, largest in the State, but it will not be ready for use until next year. The structure cost $2,000,000.

James Parrish, Charles Jones, and Tommy Sanford, all of Charlotte N. C., move into their dormitory room. They are finding out first-hand how crowded things get when three are packed into a two-man room.

Band of Freshmen

Four days ago some 2000 of your Freshmen—the Class of 1961—joined the student body of N. C. State. Since then you have been undergoing “mass interrogation and examination,” of which you are undoubtedly extremely tired by now. Let us say that we are glad, for your sakes, that this ordeal is over.

We take this opportunity to welcome you to our college. We only wish that you all could be with us for four years. But, as someone probably told you during Orientation, only one out of every three Freshmen who enter State College graduates! Some of these are forced to leave because of financial difficulties or other hardships which are unavoidable.

But the majority of these “fatalities” are simply men who do not apply themselves. They don't realize quickly enough how rapidly the professors cover the material; they go to the movies when they ought to study; they cut their classes too often; or they don't know how and when to study. They simply make the wrong decisions—as a result, they fail out.

For the past four days, someone has told you what to do nearly all the time. But this will end quite abruptly. You will be on your own—many of you for the first time. You don't have to be in bed at any time, you don't have to tell anyone where you are going, you don't have to study, you don't even have to go to classes!

No, you now have all the freedom you could ever want. You will be making your own decisions without mother or daddy to check on them. And, as Rev. Bob Lasater told the men attending the Freshmen Retreat last week-end, you must accept the consequences of your decisions—be they good or be they bad. Many will make the wrong decisions. Many will find the work a great deal more difficult than they had expected. And . . . in one or two semesters, many will no longer be with us.

However, for those of you who really want to graduate, we offer these suggestions in hopes that they will give you a “head-start” on your less-determined classmates. (1) Start out with a bang! Give it all you've got for the first six weeks. (Professors pick the top students very quickly.) (2) Use your time wisely. You will soon find that you need all the time you have . . . and then some. (3) When you study, apply yourself. Concentrate on what you are doing. (4) Don't think that the professors do not pay attention to your work for the first three or four weeks. I warn you . . . they do! (5) Keep up with each course day by day. If you don't, you will find it awfully difficult to catch up. (6) Take Notes! In high school, notes weren't too important. Here you will use them, in many courses, more than you do your textbook. (Some courses don't even have a textbook.) (7) Keep a notebook or separate section for each class. You will be glad to have some notes when the first tests roll around.

'HEY, FELLAS! COME SEE WORTHAL'S NEW PIN-UP.'

These suggestions will help you start out right on the academic side of your college career. But . . . the academic side is just one part—albeit an important part—of your total college career. There are additional, outside activities—extra-curricular activities—which are also a part of a college education. Don't take on too many at first, but for heaven's sake get interested in something besides your books, slide rules, and math tables. Extra-curricular activities will make your education more complete. They will help you to become a more well-rounded student, a more valuable citizen, and a better-educated businessman.

Extra-Curricular Activities

There are many, many organizations, fraternities, clubs, publications, church groups, and committees on our campus which need your support. Give it to them. Freshmen should join one or two at first and gradually add others. Extra-curricular activities are just as much a part of a college education as are classes and homework.

In just three years—three years which will pass quite quickly—one of you will be writing editorials as Editor of The Technician, one will be President of the Student Government, one will be President of the College Union and another of the YMCA, twelve of you will be members of Golden Chain—the top honorary society on the campus, eighteen of you will be presidents of our eighteen fraternities, and many more of you will be the leaders of the numerous other campus organizations. You—or about a third of you—will be Seniors. It sounds like a long way off right now, but it will be, the shortest three years of your life. Get everything you can out of it.

Again we welcome you to the campus of N. C. State. It is now your campus. Take an active interest in it. Support your school in every way you can. Make it a little better for your having been here. Your efforts will be repaid many times over.

Teachers, Facilities Vs. Enrollment Discussed By Advisory Coun. Here

Ways and means of expanding the teaching staff and facilities of the School of Engineering at State College to take care of a rising tide of students were outlined recently at a meeting of the school's Advisory Council.

James A. Babcock of Raleigh, manager of the Meter Plant of the Westinghouse Company here and council chairman, presided over the session.

Dr. J. Harold Lampe, dean of engineering at State College, and members of his staff reported an expected 17 per cent increase in enrollment in the School of Engineering this fall as compared with last fall's student body in the school.

They said 3,650 students are expected in the Engineering School next September as compared with 3,150 students last fall. This represents approximately one-half of the entire student body at State College.

Among the ways and means to cope with the enrollment increase, Dean Lampe and his associates said, are to cooperate with community colleges throughout the State, to limit the enrollment, to expand technical institutes, and to conduct extension courses for advanced and graduate students in engineering.

Where Do N. C. State Engineers Go After Graduation? How's The Pay?

By Mary N. Yionoulis

Where did the State's home-grown engineers go after graduation?

Some facts and figures are summed up in the annual Placement Report released by Dr. J. Harold Lampe, dean of the School of Engineering at State College.

Commenting on the employment study made of last May's graduates who received bachelor's degrees in engineering at State College, Dean Lampe pointed out that of the 78 who accepted employment in North Carolina, well over half rejected offers to work in other states.

He said, "Of those who rejected offers to work outside North Carolina, 33 did so at the expense of higher offers made to them for employment in other states, electing to remain in North Carolina even though it meant less money."

Prepared by Mrs. Marie P. Wicker, the Engineering School's Placement Director, the report shows that 253 companies and government agencies seeking beginning engineers visited the campus in the spring. Of this number, 42 wanted engineers for work in North Carolina.

Results from the questionnaires sent to the May graduating class indicate that 247 accepted employment, eight entered military service, 27 plan to attend graduate school, and 18 are unaccounted for.

Of those employed, 169 accepted positions in the South; this includes the 78 in North Carolina.

Figures further show that 25 per cent of the total employed were attracted to the electrical and electronics industry—more evidence in the current national trend that more manpower is turning to these areas.

Aircraft companies and chemical firms were the next largest employers. Others are employed by companies such as furniture, heating and air conditioning, shipbuilding, power and light, construction, steel, and textiles. Sixteen accepted positions with Federal government agencies. Nine are working for State agencies, eight of whom are

Veteran's Corner

By Bob Lane—Club Reporter

The North Carolina State Veteran's Association wishes to welcome the new veterans to State College. Most of you that are coming out of service have been out of school for several years and will find it fairly hard to get back into the habit of studying, however, you should take some time to participate in extra curricular activities.

The Vet's Association was organized as a social organization but has since participated in helping to solve student problems and also helped with the registration, driving for the inaugurations and other public services. You will see some of the members in the coliseum as you register Thursday. These men are doing this service free of charge. This is handled by the Veteran's Association each semester.

Each year the Vet's Association has several stag parties, one or two picnics, and a dance. Most of these events are paid for from the $1.00 per year membership fee. The first event for this year is a picnic in Pullen Park on Saturday, September 28, 1957, where wives and girl friends are invited to participate. We would like to have each of you join our Club when you go through the registration line, or at our first meeting on October 7, 1957 in the College Union at 7:00 P.M. By attending our meetings you can pick up valuable information pertaining to the G. I. Bill and also keep abreast of the happenings on our campus. Last year our membership was well over 800 persons and this year should be even more. Why don't you join our club and participate in the events that are staged for your enjoyment and benefit?

Housing Shortage Critical at State

North Carolina State College is again house hunting.

Faced with the record-breaking enrollment of approximately 6,200 students for the fall semester, the college is looking for housing accommodations for approximately 2,100 students.

N. B. Watts, director of student housing, said both rooms and apartments for single and married students are needed.

The college dormitories and Vetville apartments, Watts said, are not sufficient to take care of the housing needs of all State College students.

He appealed to Raleigh prop-

CU Exhibits French Posters

A special exhibit of French Posters opened in the State College Union Tuesday.

The display, which comes from the George Binet Print Collection, Brimfield, Mass., is the first of a series of traveling exhibits to be shown at the College Union this year. Entitled "French Masters Art Exhibition Posters," it will be open to the public through October 5.

Included in the exhibit will be works by Chagall, Dufy, Leger, Matisse and Picasso. These posters, executed in the years from 1949 to 1953, are among the most outstanding in the careers of these men, and mark a new high in the history of French art posters.

The posters of Chagall and Leger were for exhibitions of their own work, while those of the other masters were prepared for special displays. Picasso executed original lithographs for two Vallauris exhibitions and his, "Demoiselles d'Avignon," was used for the retrospective show of Cubism.

Two of Dufy's works were used for the 1953 exhibition for the benefit of the conservation of Versailles, his "Arlequin a la Venetienne" for Fifty Years of French Painting in Private Collections, and his "Le Casino de la Jete" for the 1953 show of French Bindings and Paintings. The Matisse posters are produced from special sketches in which he used the cutout technique.

The balance of the posters, for the most part, including all by Dufy, are lithographic interpretations of the artists and were executed under their personal supervision and approved by them. All are in color, and although a few subjects are widely known, the others offer a special opportunity to study works not otherwise presented in this country.

The exhibit will be open to the public free of charge. The College Union is open from 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily.

College Is Developing Long-Term Plans For Expansion, Development

State College is in the process of executing with Waugh and Sawyer, Raleigh architects and planners, a contract for developing a long-term master plan for campus expansion and development.

Dr. Carey H. Bostian, chancellor of the college, and J. G. Vann, the college business manager, have said that the firm "will furnish us a suggested plan for the further development of our campus providing for the location of buildings, streets, walks, and traffic flow."

The plan, Chancellor Bostian said, will be based upon available land and future needs for buildings of all kinds.

Chancellor Bostian said the planning survey to be conducted by the architectural firm will be subject to the approval of the college administration and the Board of Trustees' committee on buildings and grounds.

Under the terms of the contract between the college and the planners, Waugh and Sawyer will provide "professional services for the development of a comprehensive master plan, to effectively control in an orderly and systematic manner the immediate and long range growth in the physical facilities of the college . . ."

The contract also provides that the architectural firm's "professional services consist of the necessary conferences, assembly and analysis of data, studies, conclusions and recommendations of future needs, and comprehensive documented report" covering 14 different topics.

Among the items in the documented report will be a study of trends to determine future patterns, a correlation study to develop space requirements, a physical space study to determine space now usable and available, a physical space study to determine future space needs, a land use study of the present campus, a building location showing future growth, a land use study showing future land use, a traffic patterns study, a three-dimensional model of the projected master plan, a study of utility developments, development of future building programs to 1965, a land purchase program, a topographic map, and a written report.

Wolfpack Opens With Carolina

On September 22, 1956, Sunny Jim Tatum, highly successful coach at Oklahoma and Maryland, returned to his alma mater, Carolina. He had been there once before in 1942, when his team compiled a 5-2-2 record.

N. C. State's Wolfpack was out in full force to make the return a happy one, which they did. Sunny Jim was welcomed home with a 26-6 upset of his Tarheels. In 1942 State had been one of the two teams which beat the Tatum-coached Tarheels.

Now it's the '57 season. Sunny Jim and his backers must have been looking to it when they gave as a reason for the 26-6 loss that they were looking ahead to more important games. They looked ahead an entire season as they blew the '56 one with an 0-10-0 record, which is even unimpressive at Chapel Hill.

State again opens its season at Carolina. The Wolfpack are anticipating the arrival of gametime as they will then go on the field to protect their perfect 2-0-0 record against Sunny Jim's boys.

This year it will be a difficult task. Carolina lost one big man, Ed Sutton, who led the ACC last year in average rushing with 6.23 yards per carry for 120 rushes. But returning quarterback Dave Reed and rookies Cornell Johnson and Don Coker will make the backfield sharp and fast.

Up front the Tarheels also figure to be rough. At ends are Jim Jones, a guard from last season, and returnee Buddy Payne, but there will be strong contention for the starting team from Al Goldstein, standout freshman last year.

Carolina is also very strong at tackle with five returning lettermen. Leo Russavage and Phil Blazer are tentative starters but they are pressed hard by a talented group of sophomores.

Letterman Jack Lineberger and rookie Don Stallings look like starters at guard, but could be replaced by any one of several prospects.

If Ronnie Koes recovers from his back injury in time, he'll be the man at center, but if not, the fight for the middle post will be wide open.

It seems like a hard game for State, but when the Pack is carefully studied, one can see that the undefeated string against Sunny Jim's Tarheels will go unbroken.

State Chances Good As Opening Game Nears

"If I were a sportswriter, I would say that N. C. State is going to be an improved football team in 1957. On paper prospects for a good season are bright."

So says Coach Earle Edwards, and prospects are bright indeed. With a starting team of lettermen at every position, it is a sure bet for the Wolfpack to improve last year's record of 3-7.

Sept. 21	Carolina	There
Sept. 28	Maryland	There
Oct. 5	Clemson	There
Oct. 12	Florida S.	There
Oct. 19	Miami	There
Oct. 26	Duke	Here
Nov. 2	Wake Forest	Here
Nov. 9	Wm. and Mary	Here
Nov. 16	Va. Tech	There
Nov. 23	U.S.C.	There

The only bad note thus far in the season is that the Pack has the first five games on the road and only three home games. But if the optimism and spirit evident in the practice camp now can hold up, the road trip will not be too detrimental to the final record.

Although State has been picked by many so-called experts to finish in the ACC race anywhere from fourth to eighth, this could partly be from tradition, as the Pack has had only four winning seasons in the past twenty years.

But other experts who also coach ACC teams, say that State is one team to watch, and could easily surprise everyone. Even Coach Andy Gustafson of Miami, preseason AP pick for 14th in the country, says that State's multiple offense worries him.

In Dick Christy and Dick Hunter, State has the best pair of halfbacks in the ACC and probably in the South. At ends are Bob Pepe and John Collar, who caught five TD passes to easily surpass any other pair of ends in the conference. With starters back at every position but one, State looks very dangerous and no team to face them can take the task lightly.

53 Freshmen Report

Fifty-three freshmen representing 11 states are candidates for North Carolina State's yearling squad.

The group began work out of Coach Bill Smaltz. The Wolfpack frosh open a five-game season Oct. 4 at home against Virginia Tech.

Other games are with North Carolina at Raleigh, Virginia at Charlottesville, Va., Duke at Durham and Wake Forest at High Point.

North Carolina leads with 24 native sons on the roster, followed by Pennsylvania with 17, New Jersey with three, Virginia with two and one each from Florida, Tennessee, Georgia, Illinois, Maryland, Maine and Massachusetts.

Following is a list of squad members:

Linemen: Larry Gill, Greensboro, N. C.; James Tapp, Roxboro, N. C.; Gene Lanier, Burgaw, N. C.; Hugh Harrelson, Lexington, N. C.; Ed Pitts, Littleton, N. C.; John Gill, Clearfield, Pa.; John Baker, Atlanta, Ga.; Richard Drexler, Reading, Pa.; George Vollmar, Trenton, N. J.

Robert Auchmuty, Williamsport, Pa.; Bert Wilder, Greensboro, N. C.; Collice Moore, Littleton, N. C.; Alex Gilleskie, Heidelberg, Pa.; Richard Reynolds, College Park, Md.; Tom Hogan, Chapel Hill, N. C.; Danny Nye, Elizabethtown, N. C.; John Stinchcomb, Thomasville, N. C.; Clement Twiford, Goldsboro, N. C.; Graham Singleton, Washington, N. C.; Joseph Bushofsky, Pittsburgh, Pa.

James Lockwood, Knoxville, Tenn.; Ronald Parks, Greensboro, N. C.; Johnny Smith, Eustis, Fla.; Bryon Meads, Elizabeth City, N. C.; Jim Fitzgerald, McKeesport, Pa.; James Bodziak, Neville Island, Pa.; Tim Cloninger, Newton, N. C.; James Parrish, Spring Hope, N. C.; Douglas Roper, Far Hills, N. J.; Jimmy Martin, Raleigh, N. C.

Backfield: Mark Cackovic, Steelton, Pa.; Robert Mott, Sewickley, Pa.; Lawrence Lanza, Coraopolis, Pa.; Ronald Wojelcki, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Melvin Rape, Kannapolis, N. C.; Michael Delnegro, Alexandria, Va.; John Morris, Galax, Va.; Fred Ball, Raleigh, N. C.; Bob Wolfer, Perkin, Ill.

C.; Donald Baker, Charleroi, Pa.; Bob Leech, Williamsport, Pa.; Bob Armstrong, Bladenboro, N. C.; Bill Harden, Plymouth, N. C.; Jim D'Antonio, Aliquippa, Pa.; Larry Ashbaugh, Neville Island, Pa.; Joe Harriman, Glen Ridge, N. J.; Peter Lappin, Springfield, Mass.; Blair Ellis, Raleigh, N. C.

Hunter to Captain

Dick Hunter, a senior left halfback from Leechburg, Pa., will captain the 1957 version of the Wolfpack as they compete for top ACC honors.

Although weighing only 157 pounds at 5 feet-7 inches, "Spook", as Dick is called by his teammates, packs a terrific wallop as he runs, passes, kicks, and blocks.

As he enters his Senior year, Dick has an impressive two-year record behind him. As a Sophomore he scored eight touchdowns while compiling a 5.3 rushing average. Last year in his Junior year, Hunter averaged 4.3 yards in 86 carries.

11,000 Students Here Forecast For 1965

A study projecting the needs and future growth of North Carolina State College indicates that the college's enrollment will jump to 11,000 by 1965, reports Chancellor Carey H. Bostian.

Dr. Bostian, addressing the semi-annual meeting of the college's Development Council early this summer, said the sharp rise in the student body will place an even heavier strain on the institution's housing facilities and will make the shortage of qualified teachers more critical.

He said this fall's student body will be between 6,200 and 6,400 as compared with 5,573 last September.

Technological institutions such as State College, Chancellor Bostian said, are growing more rapidly than other colleges and universities. The enrollment trend in this direction in North Carolina, he reported, is going up faster than elsewhere.

Student housing and faculty salaries, he stated, are the principal problems in taking care of the rising enrollment tide.

State College, he said, is moving as fast as possible to overcome the problems. A new $2,000,000 dormitory, to be paid for in a self-liquidating manner without cost to the State, is under construction already. The 410-room dormitory, largest ever built in North Carolina, will provide accommodations for 820 students. It is being built in the Verville area of the campus, west of the William Neal Reynolds Coliseum.

This dormitory, however, will still not take care of all the students who this year will be crowded three to a room in dormitory rooms designed for two students, he stated.

In addition to the new dormitory on which construction work soon will be started, the college, the chancellor reported, is seeking authorization from the General Assembly to build additional dormitories for single students and a 400-unit apartment facility—valued at $3,000,000—for married students. (Approximately 1,600 of the college's 5,573 students last year are married.)

Also speaking at the Development Council meeting, J. G. Vann, business manager of State College, cited the seriousness of the teacher shortage when he said that all teacher-training institutions now are producing less than half the teachers needed for the student population at the present time. "There simply aren't enough teachers to go around," Vann said.

C. A. Dillon of Raleigh, chairman of the Development Council and president of the Dillon Supply Company here, was host to the council at a luncheon at his company's plant here. The council is devoted to the long-range and continuing advancement of State College and is composed of alumni officials, presidents of the foundations supporting the institution, and other friends of the college. In a short speech at the opening of the session, Chairman Dillon pointed to the growth of State College since 1910, declared the expansion in that period has been "out of this world," and declared the possibility of future growth "is really and truly unlimited."

Engineers

with the North Carolina Highway Commission.

Directing attention to industry's growing interest in furthering advanced education, Mrs. Wicker reported that more and more companies and government agencies are making graduate study available to promising young engineers, and 30 of those employed will also take advanced courses, financed in full or in part by their employers.

As for salaries, they broadly range from $325 to $586 a month. The average salary of this year's North Carolina State College graduate engineers is $456 a month, compared with $422 in 1956.

In reviewing the activities of the placement office for the entire year, the director announced that 3,800 interview appointments—the highest number ever—were scheduled for engineering students seeking employment. These were made for lower classmen looking for summer work, seniors, graduate students, and alumni.

The growing willingness on the part of industry and government agencies to provide summer employment for lower classmen in engineering was demonstrated in the increased number of 1,100 interviews arranged for freshmen, sophomores, and juniors to discuss possible summer jobs. This figure is compared to the 650 such interviews scheduled the previous year.

For 1958, the placement office has already scheduled interviews for 278 companies and government agencies.

In looking ahead, Mrs. Wicker concludes the placement report with "it is heartening to realize that, as industry's search for well-trained engineers continues, more and more companies from all over the country are asking to come to North Carolina State College for interviews with the seniors and graduate students of the School of Engineering."

CU Day Will Be This Saturday

Consolidated University Day will be held this Saturday at the University at Chapel Hill. The annual State-Carolina football game, the highlight of the day, will begin at 2:00 P.M. in Kenan Stadium. State students will be admitted to the game free, as this is considered our home game. (The game is being played at Carolina because of the limited seating capacity of State's Riddick Field.) During the half-time ceremonies, Miss Consolidated University will be named. The girl selected will be the official representative of the Consolidated University for the entire scholastic year. Selection will be made by the Consolidated University Student Council (CUSC) and will be announced by Nancy Garner of WCNC, CUSC president.

After the game there will be a reception at Graham Memorial for all students from State, Woman's College, and Carolina. That night there will be an informal dance for all students from the three branches of the Consolidated University. The dance will begin at 8:00 P.M. and will also be held at Graham Memorial.

Consolidated University Day is a long-standing tradition of the three schools of the Greater University.

The purpose of the affair is to promote friendship among the student bodies of the three schools, to give the students an opportunity to visit the other campuses, and to give them a chance to meet and exchange ideas, etc., with other students attending the Greater University of North Carolina.

THE MIXTURE AS BEFORE

Today begins my fourth year of writing this column and, as before, I will continue to explore the issues that grip the keen young mind of campus America—burning questions like "Should housemothers be forced to retire at 28?" and "Should pajamas and robes be allowed at first-hour classes?" and "Should proctors be armed?" and "Should picnicking be permitted in the stacks?" and "Should teachers above the rank of associate professor be empowered to perform marriages?" and "Should capital punishment for pledges be abolished?"

Should capital punishment for pledges be abolished?

Philip Morris Incorporated sponsors this column. Philip Morris Incorporated makes Philip Morris cigarettes. They also make Marlboro cigarettes. Marlboro is what I am going to talk to you about this year.

Before beginning the current series of columns, I made an exhaustive study of Marlboro advertising. This took almost four minutes. The Marlboro people don't waste words. They give it to you fast: "You get a lot to like in a Marlboro . . . Filter . . . Flavor . . . Flip-top Box."

Well, sir, at first this approach seemed to me a little terse, a bit naked. Perhaps, thought I, I should drape it with a veil of violet prose, adorn it with a mantle of fluffy adjectives, dangle some participles from the ears . . . But then I thought, what for? Doesn't that tell the whole Marlboro story? . . . Filter . . . Flavor . . . Flip-top Box.

Marlboro tastes great. The filter works. So does the box. What else do you need to know?

So, with the Marlboro story quickly told, let us turn immediately to the chief problem of undergraduate life—the money problem. This has always been a vexing dilemma, even in my own college days. I recall, for example, a classmate named Oliver Hazard Sigafoos, a great strapping fellow standing 14 hands high, who fell in love with a beautiful Theta named Nikki Spillane, with hair like beaten gold and eyeballs like two tablespoons of forgetfulness.

Every night Oliver Hazard would take Nikki out to dine and dance, and then to dine again, for dancing made Nikki ravenous. Then they would go riding in the swan boats, and then Nikki, her appetite sharpened by the sea air, would have 8 or 10 cutlets, and then Oliver Hazard would take her home, stopping on the way to buy her a pair of oysters or two.

To raise money for these enchanted evenings, Oliver Hazard took on a number of part-time jobs. Between classes he cut hair. After school he gutted perches. From dusk to midnight he vulcanized medicine balls. From midnight to dawn he trapped night crawlers.

This crowded schedule took, alas, a heavy toll from Oliver Hazard. In the space of a month he dwindled from 260 to 104 pounds—but that, curiously enough, proved his salvation.

Today Oliver Hazard is a jockey, earning a handsome living which, combined with what he makes as a lymph donor after hours, is quite sufficient to curb Nikki's girlish appetite. Today they are married and live in Upper Marlboro, Maryland, with their two daughters, Filter and Flavor, and their son, Flip-top Box.

© Max Shulman, 1957
The makers of Marlboro take pleasure in bringing you this free-wheeling, uncensored column every week during the school year . . . And speaking of pleasure, have you tried a Marlboro?
