Although State College's fall enrollment fell far short of the anticipated 6200-6400 students, a record number of students enrolled at the institution for the current semester.

The total college enrollment stands at 5756 students, more than two hundred above 1956's fall record of 5573 students.

Largest School

The College's largest School, Engineering, with 3440 enrolled, contains one department which has a larger number enrolled than any of the other five schools on campus. 828 students have enrolled in Electrical Engineering for the current term.

Three of the College schools report increases in enrollment from the 1956 level. Engineering is up from 3144 to 3440; Education, from 539 to 576; and Forestry, from 299 to 303.

Schools with a drop in enrollment are: Agriculture, from 825 to 780; Design, from 249 to 214; and Textiles, from 440 to 370.

105 Coeds

The number of coeds has climbed from 86 to 105, while the men students number 5651 compared with last year's 5487. 1481 of the men students are veterans.

Monogram Plans Homecoming Dance

The Monogram Club is holding its traditional homecoming dance this year on November ninth in the College Union Ballroom.

Tickets purchased in advance from club members will sell for $1.00 per couple; tickets at the door will sell for $1.25 per couple, and stags will pay $1.00.

Girls from the local colleges and Woman's College in Greensboro are being invited. The Monogram Club has, this year, planned for a sufficient number of girls so that all may be offered an enjoyable evening. The Lamplighters, a local group with featured vocalist, will also entertain.

Band Preparing Half-Time Show

The half-time show by the State Marching Band at the Duke-State game will be the first performance of the Band before its own college this year.

The Band has worked out a show based on the Four Freedoms with the music taken from the New World Symphony.

Duke's Band will also present a show at halftime and following the game will be the guest of the State Band at a reception in the College Union.

To Develop Long Range Plan

Faculty Steering Committee Named

Appointment of a faculty steering committee to develop a long range plan for State College was announced Thursday by Dr. Carey H. Bostian, chancellor of the college.

Asserting that this was "the most important committee that has ever been organized at State College," Dr. Bostian named Dr. Donald B. Anderson, dean of the graduate school and chairman of the division of biological sciences, as the steering committee's chairman. Vice chairman for the committee is Dr. C. Addison Hickman, dean of the School of General Studies and professor of economics.

William C. Friday, president of the Consolidated University of North Carolina, told the assembled faculty that the report must be ready for submission to the state Board of Higher Education not later than April 1, 1958 and added that recommendations made by the member institutions of the University would be supported by the Consolidated University administration.

Announcing that the members of the steering committee have "accepted their responsibility and are already at work," Dr. Bostian pointed out that the changes which will occur between now and 1970 will come with "such rapidity that the work of the committee will be difficult."

Areas Under Study

Encompassing such areas as projected enrollment trends, the resident program of instruction, academic standards, faculty development and welfare, student personnel, and operation of the physical plant of the college as well as the physical plant itself, the study will seek answers to problems in these areas which will guide the college in its development through 1970.

Members of the committee in addition to the chairman and vice chairman are: Dr. Ralph C. Bryant, Prof. Cecil D. Elliott, Dr. Ralph E. Fadum, Prof. Elliott B. Groger, Dr. H. Brooks James, Dr. George Howard Miller, Dr. Robert J. Monroe, and Dr. Carey G. Mumford.

Covering Campus . . .

Cooley to Speak

Dr. Harold D. Cooley, North Carolina Congressman from the Fourth District and Chairman of the United States House of Representatives Committee on Agriculture, will speak on "Farming Under the Eisenhower Administration", Wednesday, at 7:30 p.m., in the CU Theater.

Tuesday In CU Ballroom

Hypnotist Plans State Appearance

The man who has hypnotized millions, Dr. Franz Polgar, will be on the State College campus Tuesday as a guest of the College Union Forum Committee, and he will demonstrate his mystic powers at 8 p.m. that night in the College Union Ballroom.

Since coming to the United States 24 years ago, Polgar figures he has put more than a million people to sleep, usually with their willing assistance. He puts on demonstrations in the art of hypnosis to about 300 audiences a year.

No medical man, the "Dr." representing degrees of doctor of psychology and doctor of economics acquired in his native Hungary, Polgar nevertheless is convinced hypnosis has many beneficial uses in medical science and is campaigning for its wider application in psychiatry and surgery.

Admission will be free to College Union members and their guests on presentation of membership or student identification cards.

Grass Roots Opera Plans Friday Performance of "Die Fledermaus"

The National Grass Roots Opera Company, now in its ninth season of bringing opera in an understandable form to the American public, will present Die Fledermaus in Pullen Hall Friday at 8 p.m.

Formed in 1948 by Raleigh attorney and businessman A. J. Fletcher, the company has delivered over 650 performances of opera, all sung in English, since that time. This year's selection, "Die Fledermaus", (the bat), by Johann Strauss, is among many works in the group's repertoire.

Aiming for high visual appeal, the company uses none of

Civil Engineering To Sponsor Thurs. Showing of Films

The College Civil Engineering will sponsor the showing of two special films on Thursday, Oct. 24. Entitled "The Drama of Steel" and "The Chemistry of Aluminum", the films will be shown at 7:30 p.m. in 432 Mann Hall, the Civil Engineering Auditorium.

"The Drama of Steel" is a 34 minute, 16 mm explanation of the story behind iron and steel production, while "The Chemistry of Aluminum," a 16 minute production, tells the story of aluminum from pit to pot.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

High Enrollment Prediction Will Cause Headaches

Enrollments at state-supported colleges throughout North Carolina have increased this year. However, the increased enrollments have not been as large as anticipated, a situation which could mean financial problems for college officials.

Receipts from student fees will be somewhat less than expected at the larger colleges. Because of higher anticipated costs for a larger student body, however, these schools are expected to adjust to the smaller number of fees. Despite this, a close watch on college expenses will be necessary to keep costs within the Legislative appropriations and receipts from student fees.

Legislature appropriations are based on anticipated costs and on anticipated student enrollment. Certainly the experience at State College this semester, where only 5,756 of an expected 6,200-6,400 students enrolled, will show the value of a more conservative estimate on future enrollments.

Appropriations from the Legislature should be based on an anticipated minimum student enrollment. If this is done, it will be possible to carry on college activities at the proper level. A large enrollment prediction, which is not reached, may be responsible for a reduction in college functions and activities.

Predictions of a record enrollment may look good for a college; but a conservative estimate on which to base Legislative appropriations would be much better from the financial viewpoint.

25.9 Study Hours Per Week Average

A representative group of Illinois Institute of Technology students spent an average of 25.9 hours per week in study during one week of the 1956-1957 academic year, according to one of the principle findings of a survey conducted at the school on the use of student time.

The amount of time spent in study during that week varied greatly among the students who kept records for the survey. The largest number of study hours reported by any student was 57 hours and the least number was 5½ hours. The distribution of study time among all the students in the survey group was as follows:

More than 45 hrs per wk	3%
Between 35 and 44 hrs	17%
Between 25 and 34 hrs	28%
Between 15 and 24 hrs	35%
Less than 15 hrs per wk	17%

In general, it appeared that there was little relationship between grades and amount of study time. Defining "high-achieving" students as those with semester grade point averages above 3.00 (34% of the survey group), "average-achieving" students (44%), as those with semester GPA's between 2.00 and 3.00, and "low-achieving" students (22%) as those with GPA's below 2.00, the distribution of study time among the three groups was as follows:

Group	Ave.	Max.	Min.
High	26.3	47	5.5
Average	26.6	44	6
Low	24.1	57	11

Residence on campus seemed also to have some slight effect on the amount of time spent in study. Students living in campus dormitories and fraternity houses reported an average of 25.5 study hours per week. Those living in fraternity houses reported an average of 27.5 study hours per week, and those living off campus reported 25.7 hours average.

It also appeared that there was little relation between place in school and amount of study time. Freshmen spent the least time in study, and sophomores spent the most time. The distribution was as follows:

Semester	Average	Max.	Min.
1&2	19.7	35	5½
3&4	29.6	57	12
5&6	28.5	47	10
7, 8, 9	23.7	44	8

(Some caution, of course, must be observed in applying this data to a larger group of students than those reporting, it was pointed out here. Whether the week of the survey was one that was representative of the entire semester is also open to some doubt.)

In Student-Administration Work, UNC Several Years Behind State

by David Barnhardt

In a recent article in The Daily Tar Heel, the newspaper at Chapel Hill, much was said about the extremely historical significance of the last meeting of the Chancellor's Cabinet.

The historical part was that students, for the first time at Chapel Hill, attended the cabinet meeting.

The claim was made that "an unprecedented move had been made."

Such a meeting may be unprecedented at Carolina, but it should not be simply stated that it was "unprecedented." State College has been doing essentially the same thing for years. Although State has no Chancellor's Cabinet, State men have aided the Chancellor in administrative affairs for the past several years. Students serve on the Chancellor's various committees and meet weekly with him at the Liaison Committee to discuss both present and future plans and policies of the College.

We quote parts of the article from The Daily Tar Heel:

"Behind the desk sat a young man with coal black hair and a face that looked as if it might have been hewn out of something stronger than human flesh, except when he smiled.

"And then four people entered the room who had never been there before in the history of the University for such a purpose... And then, the historic meeting began.

"The four who entered the room last were students who had been invited by the chancellor and his aides to take part in the discussion... Never before, in the history of the University, has the administration invited students to help them plan for a future and a growth.

"An unprecedented move had been made, and a movement begun which will add a great deal to student-faculty-administration relations, which will mean that the administration is constantly aware of the student viewpoint in their preparation for a larger and better University."

We are glad to hear the UNC has finally taken this step towards better student-administrative relations, but feel that they should go a little easier on the "unprecedented" and "historical importance" aspects of the meeting.

If we aren't careful, Carolina soon will be claiming the Coliseum and the Nuclear Reactor.

Top Defensive Contest

Pack, Miami Battle To Tie

NC State Miami

First downs	9	11
Rushing yardage	110	218
Passing yardage	24	Minus
Passes	3-13	2-8
Passes intercepted	0	3
Fumbles lost	0	11
Yards penalized	10	65

In a full-fledged battle, witnessed by over 40,000 shirt-sleeved gridiron enthusiasts, the N. C. State Wolfpack and the Hurricanes of the University of Miami fought to a scoreless tie in the Orange Bowl on Friday night.

The game, which pitted two of the nation's top rushing defensive teams, was strictly a contest of lines. Although the Pack failed to limit Miami to 104 yards on the ground, which it had done to every other team, it did keep the Hurricanes from scoring on a rush—something no team has done thus far this season.

Except for several key plays, the contest could have seen some scoring. Midway the third period, after Tony Guerrieri, State fullback, had kicked in the end zone, Miami moved the ball to the State 43, but on losing 23 yards in two plays, they were forced to punt.

This they tried, but guard Bill Rearick blocked it and State end Bob Pepe recovered on the Miami 15. After three incomplete passes, Soph Jim Sciarretta tried for the field goal, from the 22, but this was blocked. Dick Hunter picked it up, scampered to the 11, but could not go any further, and Miami took over.

Another score seemed likely in the waning minutes of the final period. Miami's sophomore quarterback, Fran Curci, intercepted a pass on the State 28, and in seven downs, moved the ball to the Pack 10. With fourth down and 2 yards to go, Miami's big fullback Bill Sandie tried over right tackle, but picked up only one yard.

Here State took over. Katich faded back to pass but was hit hard on the one yard line and fell into the end zone. However, the forward motion was ruled stopped on the one, and on the next play, Hunter kicked. With a few seconds remaining, Curci passed and a field goal was attempted, neither of which was good.

The hard-driving Red line deserved much of the credit for preserving State's undefeated record. Only on rare occasions could the Hurricanes move the ball more than 3 or 4 yards a down, and many times Miami was halted for a loss before it had reached the line of scrimmage. Ends Pepe and Don Miketa, who took over for the disabled John Collar, played brilliant defensive ball, along with guard Bill Rearick.

The scoreless tie on Friday night marked the first 0-0 game for the Wolfpack since the 1948 Duke game. The Hurricanes would have to go back to 1944 to find a game of similar nature. With half the season over for the big Red from West Raleigh, they have out-scored their opponents, 75-20. Just two teams have scored against State, they being Maryland with 13 points and Clemson with 7. Besides Miami, neither Carolina, nor Florida State have been able to reach pay dirt against the Wolfpack.

This weekend, the Pack will play its first home game of the season against the high ranking Blue Devils of Duke University. Before these two schools, all other conference teams have met defeat, so this week's contest could mean the ACC title.

CAPER. ANYONE?
My name is Cornell Jackson, private eye. Two days ago I was sitting in my office dictating, when suddenly a tall blonde passed my window. I knew she was tall because my office is on the tenth floor.
"Hello," she said, "I need help, Rutgers."
"The name's Cornell."
"Yes. I'm worried about my husband. Every night he stays out till six in the morning. He comes home with his hair mussed, lipstick all over his face. What's up?"
"The butler did it."
"Oh come, come, Yale."
"Cornell, dearie."
"Yes. I think my husband is unfaithful."
I exercised my think-tank. "The butler did it." I blurted.
"Look, Oklahoma Aggies—tell me what to do?"
"Find out the secret of his success with the femme—then proceed from there. What brand of shirts does he wear?"
"Van Heusen."
"What brand of underwear and pajamas?"
"Van Heusen."
I threw up my hands—and watched them loft lazily up to the ceiling. "Babe," I said, "you can't fight Van Heusen. There's only one thing you can do. Marry the butler!"
Moral? No ladies worth their salt can resist Van Heusen merchandise. If you want to be popular . . . if you want to walk down the street and have people say, "There goes Jim, he's had more girls on his lap than napkins," here's what to do. First change your name to Jim—then buy Van Heusen merchandise. You can't miss.
