For License Plates

Liability Insurance Is Now Required

It has been suggested by members of the administration here at State that The Technician give the students some information concerning the new motor vehicle financial responsibility law.

Many of the students do not know the particulars of this law, so they will be stated briefly here.

The new law requires every car owner to show proof of financial security; the possession of liability insurance meets the minimum requirements of this law. Each policyholder should have received and will receive in the near future a certificate of insurance (Form FS-1) from his insurance agent. If you do not receive such a form soon, you should contact your insurance agent while you are home during the holidays and get one.

FS-1 Form Necessary

The law requires you to turn in this form when you apply for your 1958 license plates between January 1 and February 15. When you receive this form, you should check for the correct spelling of your name, the policy effective date, and also the identification number of your vehicle; all this information can be checked against your 1957 car registration card. The form will not be accepted by the Motor Vehicles Department if there are any discrepancies in this information.

This financial responsibility law is new and it provides stiff penalties for those driving without the required financial security. State College is required to keep his liability insurance policy in force at all times.

Insurance Agent

If there are elements in this law you do not understand, it is advisable to check with your insurance agent. For those of you who have a car registered in your parent's name, check with them during the Christmas holidays to see if they have received the required form.

A delay in checking on your liability insurance may later force you to do without a car until it is properly registered.

Christmas Thought

By Alton Lee

The phrase "Peace on earth, Good will toward men," like the Christmas story, is probably one of the most heard speeches in all the world. Yet, in the billions of times it has been used, it has never become a cliché. It has also never been completely heeded by man, who continues to live his own way.

Man must learn that "peace on earth" means everywhere, and that "good will toward men" means to every man. The cynic says this is impossible, but the cynic said that space travel is impossible, that electricity did not amount to anything, that the atom did not exist, and that the idea of airplanes was absurd.

Basic Formula

... achieve peace every-where and with everyone if he... His basic formula should be another well-worn Biblical phrase with tons of meaning to it, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." This Christmas, if every person who reads this would make a sincere effort to love all men, share with all men, be considerate of all men, and be helpful to all men, we would be a little nearer to "Peace on earth, and Good will toward men."

Your Family Wants You Home . . .

I Sat There and Cried

By CARLTON MORRIS

I sat there and cried. And that is a sure sign of old age if there ever was one and I wept over a packet of old newspaper and magazine clippings. I ask you: isn't that a foolish thing for a grown man to do: weep over some old clippings?

Some of them dated back to my boyhood days and some were fairly recent, but they represented even years, months and days of my life that I had pretty good reason to be proud of when you look at them.

I go to reading some of the clippings in my newspapers. There was the one with the picture of the 2X6 timber truck through the woods. I remember that it was on a September Sunday morning that I made that picture. It was 2 a.m. to be exact. I remember how his brother stood over him and wept bitterly in the wee small hours of the night because his car had struck a bridge railing and he was dead, dead, dead and never again would he see the sun rise and chase away the misty fog on a September morning.

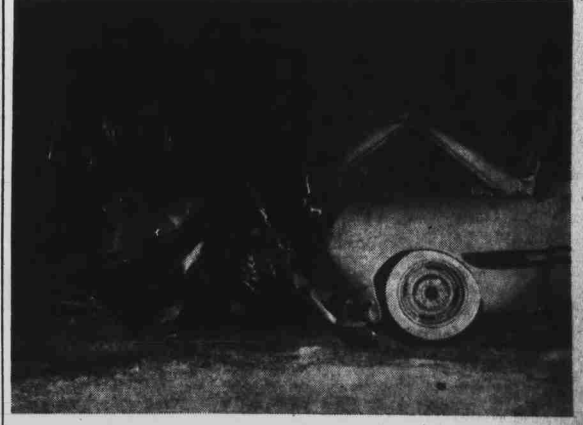

It was May when I made the picture of the doctor and nurse as they examined the little bloody-faced lad of nine. Now that was one to bring the mist to your eyes, but I remember best the weeping lady who had run him down while he rode his bike beside the highway of life. Like Rachel, she wept for this child and would not be comforted.

It was early March when I made the picture and wrote the story of the internationally famous New Yorker whose life was slatted out on the highway. I remember the day was cold and miserable and a dreary rain was falling and best of all I remember the lost look of his wife as the officer stood beside her hospital bed and asked her to identify her husband's possessions, late that night. Her back was broken. She broke my heart just a little that night for she said she would not weep for him, for he was bright and happy and never wanted her to be sad and thus she would not weep. She recovered, but I know that part of her died the night her back was broken.

It was cold winter time with a trace of snow in the air the time the two boys got into a race and one of them landed into the back of a parked truck. He stayed in his smashed auto, but his brains were smeared on the back of the truck. His dad said he was a good boy. I remember my feet almost froze that night as I listened to his kid brother telling about the race. He was riding in the other car and he talked in a strange unemotional tone that usually denotes a state of high shock. He just couldn't realize his brother was gone. Why he only had enough money to buy a couple of gallons of gasoline and now they were cutting the wreckage off him. I remember the whirling red blinker light of the wrecker that towed away the twisted piece of junk and the deep throated roar of the hearse that carried away the lad who raced with a dollar's worth of gas.

. . . For The Christmas Holidays

Can Our State Afford To Throw Away Money?

Can our State afford to throw away over a million dollars? Does State College, or any other college or university in the state, have so much extra space available to house its students that it can tell the Federal Government, when the Government offers us money for new housing, "Well, thanks, but we don't think we need all that money right now."

With housing space provided by the college for only 67.2% of our student body, and this under crowded conditions; with Vetville destined to be torn down in the near future; with three men placed in many two-man rooms; and with further increases in enrollment predicted . . . the answer is very definitely and emphatically: "No! We can not afford to throw away one cent that is available for construction of additional housing."

Yet, this is essentially what our own State Board of Higher Education has done.

For complete details on the decision made by the Board of Higher Education concerning additional new housing for married students at State College, please see page 3.

After an exhaustive investigation, the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency approved the proposal for 500 apartments for married students at State College, stated that ". . . there should be no question in regard to the need for and utilization of the units under consideration," and finally, reserved $3,000,000 for the project.

This loan will in no way hurt State's chances or the chances of any other North Carolina institution, in obtaining approval for a Federal loan for dormitories for single students. The project will be self-liquidating and will not require the pledge of rentals from the dormitories (in the event they can not be kept full).

Without taking issue with the priority system set up by the Board of Higher Education—which gives preference in all cases to married graduate students and veterans whether graduate or undergraduate—we feel that the Board has made a mistake in approving only 300 of the proposed 500 married apartment units.

The reasons are brief. The Board is not even providing enough housing for the groups to which they have given priority. Even with the space provided by Vetville—which has been condemned and must be eliminated very soon—there are more married graduate students and married veterans than could be provided for if 500 new units were built.

With 310 graduate students and a very conservative estimate of 450 married veterans, there are still students for whom housing space is not available—even if 500 units were built!

And, in their own statement, the Board states that providing for these two groups is their "inescapable duty."

Taking into account no enrollment increase (which is inevitable), disregarding any increase in the percentage of married students (which has climbed steadily for the past four years), forgetting the hundreds of other married students not included in the priorities set by the Board . . . yes, throwing everything out but the Board's own statement of policy, the decision to cut the proposed 500 unit project to 300 units (and thus throwing away approximately $1,200,000) can simply not be justified.

In view of these facts, and disregarding all other arguments except their own written statement, we call on the Board of Higher Education to reconsider their decision to cut 200 units from the proposed 500 unit married project for N. C. State College.

IDGAD:

Other People . . . Not Me

By Roy Lathrop

Last Christmas, during the long, usually-joyous holidays, record hundreds either murdered each other or murdered themselves. This wholesale slaughter took place on our highways, where millions cram the roads in high spirits . . . millions more with "high spirits" from a bottle. None of these future corpses had the slightest idea that their life would end in a lonely ditch, or against a broken telephone pole, or in a twisted mass of what once used to be a car . . . that's something you only read about in the papers and shake your head and exclaim "isn't it awful . . ." Other people . . . not me.

Before you dismiss this as another "safety lecture," just ask yourself one question: "How would it feel to destroy a human life?"

How would it feel to have your car smash into another car full of people and see the fear in their faces and see their pain and not be able to sleep from guilt and the memory of an oddly twisted child lying in the road with a puzzled look . . . happens to other people . . . not me.

Yes, this is a dramatic picture . . . no apologies, though, because the truth last holiday was terribly dramatic. Any situation is dramatic that annually kills hundreds of people . . . simply because many of us regard a car as a play-toy.

When we know that traffic is extra heavy at this season, why does it make any sense to go 70 instead of 55? Why can't we wait until we get where we're going before taking a little "Christmas cheer"? Why should anybody have the awe-ful privilege of taking huge chances with other people's lives?

You see, somebody is painfully wrong. If accidents really happen to "other people . . . not me," then how are we to account for the following facts:

- Over 800 persons were killed within a four-day period last Christmas season.
- Between the ages of 15 to 24 years, the leading cause of all deaths is accidents (99,000 per year) as compared to the second cause, cancer (15,000 per year).
- The property damage in motor-vehicle accidents last year was worth $1,800,000,000.

These facts are impressive . . . but not nearly so impressive as the fact that you could be one more statistic by the time the holiday is over.

This Christmas season, don't find yourself in an embarrassing position, wrapped around your steering wheel, strangely muttering, "Other people . . . not me."

Fraternity Line:

'Pushbutton Pledging' Unique

By Oscar Grant

The proposed fraternity group purchase plan which the I.F.C. and the fraternity kitchen managers have been working on over the past few weeks is fast changing from a plan into an actuality. Present plans include a canvas of all campuses where such plans are now being used. Following this canvas, the plan which seems best suited to State's own needs will be further investigated and a concrete plan proposed for adoption here.

The current issue of the "Intercollegiate Press Bulletin" has an interesting article on a rather unique feature of the fraternity rushing program at Dartmouth College. It seems the new plan at Dartmouth includes an IBM machine to match fraternity choices with the preference lists of the fraternities.

The system, which is called "Pushbutton Pledging" was adopted by their I.F.C. so that those men who have not made a fraternity will be spared at least part of the disappointment of being "left in a back room" while others are asked to become pledges.

Actually, all that the IBM machine does is automatically accept or reject fraternity bids according to a preference card filled out by rushees. Dartmouth reports that rushees, fraternities and the college administration are enthusiastic about the system.

A number of State's fraternities learned over Thanksgiving that it doesn't pay to leave the house open during vacations. It seems that some chapters came back from Thanksgiving to discover quite a few items had disappeared — including a TV set in one case. Be sure your house will be locked over Christmas.

In case someone might be wondering why the name of this column was change from "Greeks on Campus" to "Fraternity Line", the reason was simple and down-to-earth. Unfortunately, the name "Greeks on Campus" does not seem to apply since State's 18 fraternities are far from being "on campus." How about it, Mr. Carmichael?

In closing, I want to wish Delta Sigma Phi a great big congratulations on that $71,000 Christmas present. At least we all have houses now even if they aren't together . . .

Affairs Of State:

Engineering Graphics Courses

By Pierre Leveque, Jr.

It has been said many times on campus that the freshman course in engineering graphics leaves much to be desired in the way of a course that is beneficial to the student, for one point, in that the course takes up too much of the student's time for the meager amount of academic credit that is received.

Freshman Viewpoint

Looking at the problem from the viewpoint of a freshman, I agree that the time spent on the course could be employed more usefully elsewhere. Perhaps it will be remembered that two years ago the outside work required of graphics students was negligible and consisted entirely of assigned reading material.

The graphics course of today, however, takes up from two to six hours of outside preparation and involves the construction of numerous plates and nonessential lettering sheets and sketches.

Another deficiency of the engineering graphics course is the haphazard methods by which the plates and sheets are graded. The systems of marking used by various instructors, while some variation is expected, differ to such a large degree that a student in one section may be making a "B" while a student whose work is even somewhat superior will achieve only a "D" in his section.

Prejudiced Grading?

Is this fair? Also an instructor may be unjust in his own section by noting the endorsement of the plate and then grading the paper from a prejudiced viewpoint.

Why not have persons employed specifically for the purpose of marking plates for all graphics sections.

The Married Housing Proposal

By David Barnhardt

Editor's Note: The following article is an attempt to explain fully the present situation concerning the proposal by State College to build 500 apartments for married students. We will attempt to show why the proposal was made, explain why the proposal was turned down by the Board of Higher Education, and why the need for the original proposal still exists.

N. C. State College is convinced that married students, both undergraduates and graduates, are here to stay. The records show a continuously increasing number and percentage of married students since World War II.

Many people have been under the impression that this increase is solely a problem related to veterans of World War II or the Korean Conflict. The records will show, however, that the number of married students has increased during periods when the number of veterans has decreased.

With this in mind, and with the estimates of enrollment growth in the next five to ten years far greater than ever experienced at State in hand, the Administration requested authority to build 500 apartments for married students.

This request was approved by the College, by the Consolidated University Office, and by the Board of Trustees.

After this approval, a preliminary loan request was made by the College to the Housing and Home Finance Agency of the Federal Government for $3,000,000 for this 500-unit project. This agency sent its home economist to Raleigh to investigate the housing conditions. (This agency has investigated similar projects all over the United States and is in the best position possible to know the various factors which should be considered in providing housing for married students.)

The results of the investigation by this home economist convinced the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency that the proposed project was a worthy, sound, and much needed one. As a result, this agency notified the College by letter dated December 2, 1957, that preliminary approval had been granted and a reservation of funds in the amount of $3,000,000 had been made for this project.

Last spring, the 1957 General

Assembly passed the legislation authorizing State-supported colleges and universities to borrow funds for the construction of student housing on a self-liquidating basis, provided approval of the Board of Higher Education and the Advisory Budget Commission was obtained.

The Board of Higher Education, however, at their November meeting, approved only 300 units (of the proposed 500) at the estimated cost of $1,800,000 and stipulated that priority of occupancy must always be given graduate students and veterans.

What Can Students Do?

Students may ask, after reading about the Board of Higher Education decision, "What can I—one student—do about it?"

Any of the following will help get the decision changed:

- (1) Write a short letter to a Board member.
- (2) If a member lives in your hometown, go see him or call him over the Christmas vacation—before December 20, which is when the Board meets again.
- (3) Inform your parents and influential friends about the situation and ask them to call or write a Board member.
- (4) Tell your friends at State about the situation and urge them to help you in contacting Board Members.

Board Members

Education Board members: D. Hidden Ramsey, Chairman, Asheville; Oliver C. Carmichael, Asheville; L. P. McLendon, Greensboro; Mrs. T. R. Easterling, Rocky Mount; W. D. Her-ring, Rose Hill; W. J. Kennedy, Jr., Durham; Robert Lassiter, Jr., Charlotte; C. H. Reynolds, Spindale; and N. Elton Aydtlett, Elizabeth City. Dr. Purks, Director, is from Raleigh.

Why The Board Will Not Spend The Entire $3,000,000

In an attempt to find out the reasoning behind the stand taken by the Board of Higher Education, The Technician, along with the Student Government President, met with the Director of the Board, Dr. J. H. Purks, on Tuesday afternoon.

The official statement by the Board defined the request to build the project as a request "for completely self-liquidating project to be financed by loans of Federal funds through the Federal Home Finance Agency and secured by mortgage of the buildings and a pledge of all the rental receipts."

"The loan agreements do not require the pledge of rentals from the dormitories or other housing projects" and under the provisions of the 1957 General Assembly, "shall not be deemed to constitute a debt of the State of North Carolina or a pledge of the good faith and credit of the State."

Major Decision

The official statement went on to say: "The request presents a major policy decision—whether the State should establish a policy of providing housing facilities for married students. The Board is of the opinion that the State would not be justified at this time in undertaking to provide housing for married undergraduate students inasmuch as the State has been unable to provide adequate housing for all single undergraduate students in all institutions."

Demand for Teachers

"The board is, however, convinced that the unparalleled demand for more qualified college and university teachers imposes on the State the inescapable duty of providing housing facilities for married graduate students . . . to the end that the number of such students and resulting teachers and research workers may be increased."

"The Board therefore approves the request of State College for the construction of 300 instead of 500 units as requested . . ."

Explanations At Interview

At the meeting on Tuesday with Dr. Purks, it was pointed out that it was against the policy made by the Board to furnish housing at this time for married undergraduate students. He stated that the Board "did not want to encourage or discourage undergraduates to get married" but felt that this project would "definitely encourage it."

He pointed specifically to the fact that this (building 300 units) is a positive approach, since "this is the first time the State has ever furnished married housing for any one."

Second Consideration

The second-most important consideration in the decision to cut the proposal to 300 units. Dr. Purks said, was that if the new units could not be filled on a continuing basis, the rental on all dormitory rooms would have to be raised to liquidate the project.

This position was held in spite of the fact that the official statement from the Board of Higher Education (as quoted above) stated specifically that "the loan agreements do not require the pledge of rentals from the dormitories or other housing projects . . ."

Pack Drops USC, Lose To Clemson; Here Sat. Against E. Kentucky

North Carolina State's fighting Wolfpack, making their annual trip to the State of South Carolina, returned today to the West Raleigh campus after splitting a pair of rough ones with the forces from the Palmetto State.

Last night, the Pack took an easy win from the favored Gamecocks of South Carolina, 86-73, while on Tuesday night, they dropped a squeaker to the underdog Clemson Tigers, 63-59.

State had entered the road trip with an undefeated record and a 12th ranking in the first AP basketball poll, but the Tigers proved too much. Unlike last year, when they went on the same trip with an identical record, the tough Pack retaliated against the Gamecocks.

During the 1956-57 season, the first two losses were at the hands of the South of the Border teams.

Pack Holds Margin
In the South Carolina game

last night, the Pack succeeded in holding veteran Guard Cookie Pericola, USC's best bet to take the place of All-American Grady Wallace, to only 17 points, while they coasted to the victory.

The Pack held a 15 point margin at halftime, and was never in very deep water afterward.

Captain Whitey Bell, regaining his old form, topped the Pack scoring with 22 points, followed close behind by guard Lou Pucillo, with 19 markers.

Also figuring prominently in the scoring was forward Bob MacGillivray and center John Richter, who each contributed 17 points.

Clemson Proves Tough

In the Clemson game on Tuesday night, it was a different story. The Pack could not find its shooting eye, and after enjoying a four point lead at halftime, it was relinquished midway the second half.

Mono. Club Meets; Campbell Speaks

Prior to the Thanksgiving holidays, the Monogram Club of State College held an impressive dinner meeting in the halls of the college cafeteria.

Dean Campbell of the Textile school spotlighted the evening with a short but interesting sports talk following the meal.

Guests of the Club were Chancellor Bostian, Willis Casey, Earle Edwards, Everett Case, and many other of State's coaching staff.

At the end of, and as a climax to an enjoyable evening, prizes were awarded. This meeting was cited to show the spirit and desire of the Monogram Club to better facilitate the attitude toward sports at N. C. State.

Becton I Wins Dorm Football; Sigma Chi, Sigma Nu In Finals

This is the week for Intramurals, and there has been much activity so far, with even more expected.

In the biggest event of the week, the football championship, Becton I downed Tucker I, 6-0, to win the dormitory crown, while the Sigma Chi's, in a bid to win their third straight fraternity title, and the challenging Sigma Nu's were snowed out until after the holidays.

The only score in the dorm fight came in the first quarter when back Bert Weeks hit end Emerson with a 34-yard pass for the tally. The extra point try was no good when the runner was stopped short of the goal line.

Score Called Back

Near the end of the game, end Ted Zeller intercepted a pass and scored, but the run was called back because of a penalty.

Also, on the first play of the game, Tucker I had a good chance to score when Dan Casteen got behind the Becton I secondary in going for a pass, but he slipped on the wet turf and failed to nab it.

Dan Stancil and George Jones were standouts for Becton I line, while Casteen and Zeller looked good for Tucker.

The Bowling schedule has several stray contests tonight, but it will be January before the playoffs begin.

Finals to be After Xmas

In Volleyball, the quarter finals were played Tuesday night. Sigma Chi defeated KA,

2-1, SPE knocked off FH, 2-1, SAE downed Delta Sig, 2-1, and PEP shut out PKT, 2-0.

In the dormitories, first round, Owen 2 topped Turlington 1, 2-1, Bagwell 1 pulled a win by forfeit, 2-0, when Berry-Watauga failed to show, Verville whitewashed Bect # 1, 2-0, and Tuc # 1 lost to Syme, 2-0.

The semifinals and championship games will be played after the Christmas holidays.

Dixie Classic Nears Finish
The Intramural Dixie Classic is rapidly coming to an end, with the quarter-finals taking place last night. In those games Sigma Chi defeated Becton, Tucker took one from PKT, Owen # 2 topped LCA, and Farm House swamped the Hot Rods.

State College's swimming team triumphantly opened their season Tuesday against South Carolina by downing the Gamecocks 51-29, in a meet which took place in Thompson Gymnasium.

Bailey Kahl led the Pack by winning first place in both the 220 and 440 yard free-style, which made him highest scorer for State with 12 points. Second to Kahl in points was All-American Dick Fadgen, who set a new pool record of 2:23 for the 200 yard butterfly.

Coach Bill Sonner of the Wolfpack was very pleased with the outcome of the meet, and is looking forward to a good season. He was particularly impressed with Kahl for his all-around performance, and with Sophomore Hughes who took an unexpected, but welcomed, first place in diving. The official schedule for the swimming team is as follows: Jan. 10—Wake Forest at State (3:00 P.M.); Jan. 11—Pittsburgh at State (3:00 P.M.); Jan. 16—North Carolina at Chapel Hill; Feb. 3—Clemson at Clemson; Feb. 10—Maryland at College Park; Feb. 11—Virginia at Charlottesville; Feb. 14—Duke at State (8:00 P.M.); Feb. 21—North Carolina at State (8:00 P.M.).

Case In 12th Year At State

By Bob George

With the opening of the 1957-58 basketball season for State College, Everett Case began his twelfth year as head coach and strategist for the Wolfpack.

Under his leadership and precise teaching, State has won nine out of eleven conference championships and six out of eight Dixie Classic crowns. With Case came big-time basketball, and his Wolfpack teams are always ranked among the nation's top powers.

Case began his coaching career at the young age of 18, and within a year was head coach at Columbus, Ind., High.

While not coaching during the regular season, he managed to obtain a masters Degree in Education and Physical Education from the University of Southern California.

In 1922, Case began coaching at Frankfort, Ind., High School, where he consistently turned out powerful teams. During his 19 years at Frankfort High, his teams won four state crowns, a record which has never been equalled in Indiana.

In 1942, at the outbreak of the war, Case was commissioned in the Navy, where he served as athletic director and basketball coach until his discharge in 1946. He attained the rank of Commander while in the Navy.

The strong teams turned out here at State by Case have caused other colleges to emphasize basketball in an effort to overpower State, and as a result, the State of North Carolina has become "the basketball capital of the South".

Under the keen leadership of Case, eight of his players have reached All-American fame.

Besides having been elected "coach of the year" in the ACC in 1954 and 1955, Case is a member of the NCAA basketball committee, the National Basketball Coaches rules group, and the United Press coaches panel. He has written numerous articles for national publications along with a book, "The New Pressure Game in Basketball".

The success of Case's teams does not lie entirely in his ability as a coach. He takes a personal interest in his players, and serves as counselor and friend to every man on the squad. The 57-year old cage mentor works at basketball the year-round and seeks constantly to improve the game.

Wrestlers Drop Match To Terps

State College's Wolfpack opened the 1957-58 wrestling season this past Saturday with the Maryland Terrapins.

The veteran Maryland squad proved too much for the inexperienced Wolfpack. State, with Anthony Maltese as the only returning letterman, could not match the tough Maryland squad, which boasts eight let-termen and five individual weight champs. Pete Seese, who fought to a draw against his Terrapin opponent, proved to be the Pack's outstanding man of the meet.

Coach Crawford is shaping a promising squad from his green recruits, and is expected to produce a much improved team as the season progresses. As this paper goes to press, State's matmen are engaged in a meet at Pfeiffer College. Upon their return, Coach Crawford will begin preparation for Friday's meet with Virginia, which will take place in Thompson Gymnasium Friday evening, December 13.

Men in the know
know true from false

College grads over forty suffer from a decline in their earning power.

TRUE FALSE

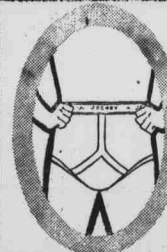

False. In fact the older they get the more money they earn. Statistics show that the average man's earning power declines rapidly after he reaches 45. The college grad's income is still going sharply up at this point.

College educated men tend to be bachelors to a greater degree than average American males.

TRUE FALSE

False. Recent studies show that Mr. College Grad is no longer avoiding the marriage license bureau the way he used to. In fact statistics now indicate that having a college degree actually lessens the probability of a man leading the bachelor life.

Jockey brand is America's best known brand of men's underwear.

TRUE FALSE

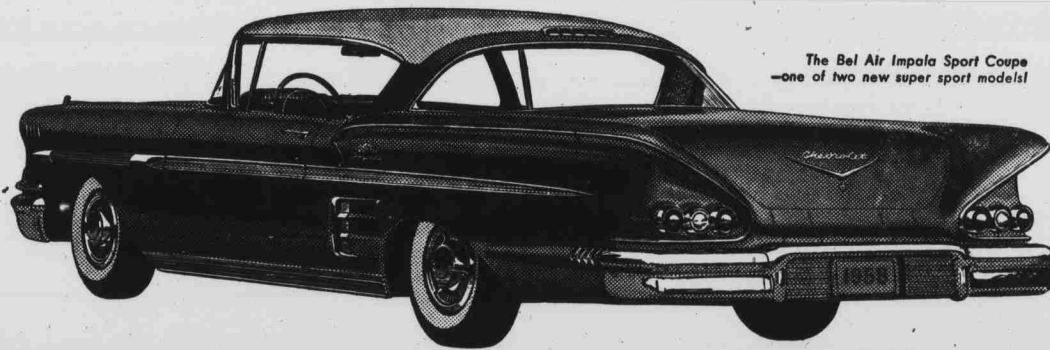

True. Independent surveys prove that Jockey is not only the best known underwear in the U.S. but also in 98 countries around the world. Just shows how universally men value comfort and fit.

Students Seek Holiday Jobs

The Student Employment Office at State College has announced that a large number of students are seeking work in the Raleigh area during the Christmas Holidays which will begin Saturday, December 14, and end January 3. Dr. Kingston Johns, assistant director of counseling, said most of the students would be available for full-time work as soon as their classes are over Saturday and urged employers to consider "the value of hiring additional reliable help during the current seasonal increase in sales."

"Interviews with each student reveal that most are counting on a Christmas job to help pay costs for the second semester," Dr. Johns stated.

According to data on file in the Student Employment Office, the students are interested in sales, stock room work, delivery routes, and other jobs in stores. Some have had experience in merchandising. All of them need to work, Dr. Johns said.

Ever meet a fanatic?

He's got just one thing uppermost in his mind. If he's looking for a job he's thinking only of pay or only of security. Reasonable men, however, weigh these and many other factors when they're evaluating career possibilities. Such factors as opportunity, challenging work, training, professional associates—things fanatics never bother to consider.

The Bell Telephone Companies have a booklet for reasonable men. It's called "Challenge and Opportunity." It's not the sort of thing that'll make a fanatic's eyes light up, but it ought to interest a thoughtful young man—whatever his college background—who is weighing career possibilities. Get it from your Placement Officer or send the coupon.

Chemstrand Corp. Establishes Scholar.

State College is one of 30 colleges and universities in the United States at which the Chemstrand Corporation has established undergraduate scholarships and grants-in-aid, college officials reported yesterday.

Chemstrand President Edward A. O'Neal, Jr., said the scholarships are for upperclass students, preferably seniors, in the fields of chemistry, physics, chemical, mechanical, electrical management, and the liberal arts.

Program's Purpose
The scholarships are awarded and administered by the individual colleges, O'Neal said. The purpose of this program, he said, "is to assist financially in the academic training and development of scientists, engineering and management personnel."

The grants-in-aid will be used by the institutions for the purchase of equipment or to supplement salaries.

Poultry Team Places Fifth In Judging

State College's Poultry Judging Team placed fifth in the National Poultry Judging Contest held earlier this week in Chicago, Ill., college officials were notified yesterday.

The team, composed of three State College students, won third place in the contest's production division, sixth in the breed selection division, and sixth in the market products division.

Team Members

Coaches are Prof. T. T. Brown and Dr. Harvey L. Bumgardner of the State College Poultry Science Department.

Professor Brown accompanied the students to Chicago.

In the individual rankings in the contest, Davis was ninth in the contest and sixth in the production division. Jasper was the 12th highest ranking contestant and was third in market products. Page ranked fifth in the production division.

Ranking ahead of the N. C. State team were teams from Texas A & M, Kansas State, the University of Arkansas, and the University of Missouri in that order.

WUNC-TV Featured Satellite Program

A program on space satellites was presented as a feature of the State College engineering series over WUNC-TV, channel 4, from 5 until 5:30 p.m.

The series is sponsored by the college chapter of Tau Beta Pi, national honorary engineering society, headed by Carl E. Parker of Raleigh.

Joining the State College students in presenting the program was Russell Philbrick of the Cary "moon watch" station.

State students participating were Bill Thompson, Raleigh; Douglas Glutz, Fairfax, Va.; Hank Hamilton, Greensboro; Bob Lyne, Richmond; Lewis Ballard, Mooresville; and Bob Hutchins, Raleigh.

Christmas Theme

WVWP Plans Two Special Programs

The student radio station, WVWP, will present two special Christmas productions.

One, "The Story of the Other Wise Man," is a religious yuletide drama produced by the WVWP drama workshop. The story, which takes the place of the regularly scheduled "Exploring the Unknown," deals with a fourth wise man, one who saw the star, but not the Child. The program tells of his lifelong quest for the newborn Christ: The promised Messiah.

"The Story of the Other Wise Man" will be presented Thursday night at nine o'clock.

The other program is the annual presentation of Handel's Messiah, and will be heard Friday night at eight o'clock. This is the complete work, as performed by the New York Philharmonic, Leonard Bernstein conducting.

Senior Receives Mahler Scholarship

The first recipient of the L. A. Mahler Scholarship at State College is Gene T. Whicker of Walkerton, engineering senior at the college, Dr. J. H. Lampe, dean of engineering, announced Tuesday.

Established under the will of the late Mrs. Mary Simmons Mahler of Raleigh, the scholarship is valued at $150 and is to be awarded annually to a senior in electrical engineering at State College.

Third in Class

Ranking third in his class, Whicker was chosen for the award on the basis of scholastic attainments, engineering and scientific promise, and extra-curricular activities.

The recipient is an active member of the Student Branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the Institute of Radio Engineers. Currently, he is publicity chairman for the joint group.

Whicker is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, freshman honorary society; Phi Kappa Phi, national scholastic fraternity; Tau Beta Pi, national engineering honor society; and Eta Kappa Nu, electrical engineering honor society.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Whicker of Walkerton and is married to the former Betty Louise Clayton of Winston-Salem.

A spring rain was falling the night I saw the man running down the road to get someone to take his wife to the hospital and I remember how her face was cut to pieces from the windshield. They said that it took 117 stitches to close the cuts in her face and head after the drunken man smashed into them. I remember how the auto horn sounded a mournful wail on and on like a soul in distress until someone snatched off a wire, choking it off with an abrupt suddenness.

It was nighttime when I sat there and cried and to save my life I wasn't sure why I wept. Perhaps it was because of the feet passage of time. Perhaps it was because seven years seems like a long, long time when you take the trouble to look back, or perhaps it was because of those old clippings that recalled the spring, summer, fall, and winter of this short life.

I wanted to tell the whole world that cars will kill and maim and cripple, but for seven years I had done that to no avail for no one listened to my story. In the spring and summer and fall and winter I told all who would listen, but they continued on their heedless way.

Perhaps I wept for those who died and perhaps I wept for those who would not listen as I read those old clippings.

Editor's Note: The above editorial won first place award in nation-wide competition for editorials in competition sponsored by the American Truckers' Association, Inc. Carlton Morris, editor of the Gates County Index, received a first place award of $500. Entries in the competition came from every state and from all U. S. territories.

First Faculty Retreat At Pinehurst Termed Success

The first Faculty Retreat of N. C. State College was held last weekend at Pinehurst, N. C. Principal speaker for the two-day conference was Dr. Ralph Waldo Beach, Professor of Religion at Duke.

The purpose of the retreat was to explore their vocation as faculty members in the light of their faith, believing that all of them have faith in something. O. B. Wooldridge, Coordinator of Religious Affairs at State, said, "I have been to retreats all my life but I've never seen one where there was more genuine participation by those attending."

The seminar was held at Pine Crest Inn from 4:00 p.m. Saturday to about 3:30 Sunday afternoon. During this period, three sessions were held. Following the sessions, open discussion periods were held for about an hour. Between sessions there was time for dancing, golf, and many other activities for those who so desired.

Wanted: Used "T" square, drawing board, drawing pencil, and triangle. Will pay up to five dollars. Call TE 3-7253.
