Tapping Tomorrow For Golden Chain

Golden Chain, senior honorary society at State, will hold its annual tapping ceremonies at 12 noon tomorrow in Riddick Stadium.

At this time, the twelve top members of the present Junior Class will be tapped into the society. In addition, three honorary members will be tapped. Membership is based on demonstrated leadership in extra-curricular activities, character, and academic standing.

All Juniors are to sit in a large circle in the center of the field when they come to the Stadium.

Final Selections

Nominations for the senior honorary society have been open to students and faculty for the past several weeks. Final selection of the men to be tapped was made by the present members of the society.

Army and Air Force ROTC

Units will form in the Stadium at 12:00 without uniforms.

The college band will take part in the ceremonies.

Rev. Oscar Woolridge, Coordinator of Religious Affairs at State, will give the invocation.

The ceremonies will begin at 12:10 with the playing of the State College Alma Mater.

In case of rain, the ceremonies will be held in the Coliseum.

Members to be tapped tomorrow and the retiring members will attend the initiation banquet next Thursday night at the Steak House, at which time the members to be tapped tomorrow will be formally initiated.

Retiring Members

Retiring members of the society are: Jim Peden, Bob Kennel, Cecil Brooks, Bill Graham, Ed Nuckolls, David Barnhardt, Chuck Abernathy, George Cochran, Dave Weinstein, Bob Lane, Dot Morton, and Fred Rawicz (honorary).

CU Theater Committee To Present 'Rainmaker'

Wonder why the skies over the campus have been filled with clouds lately? The answer is easy . . . a "Rainmaker" has been working overtime.

Responsible for the introduction of such a phenomenon to the area is the College Union Theater Committee which is currently engaged in the production of N. Richard Nash's, "The Rainmaker."

The play will be directed by Norm Larson of the Raleigh Little Theater.

The play, which will be presented at 8:00 p.m. in the College Union Ballroom Friday and Saturday, May 9 and 10, tells the story of a drought-beset ranch and the family who owns it. It is the story of a girl looking for love and of a "con-man" who not only claims that he can produce the so sorely needed rain but who also decides that he can fill the emptiness within the girl's heart.

"The Rainmaker," which had a highly successful Broadway run, has also been made into a moving picture. Taking the title role in the CU's production will be Gil Adams. Betty Black will play the role of Lizzie Curry and John Chappell will take the part of her father. Jon Bell and Archie Copeland will play the roles of Noah and Jimmy Curry, while Chuck Abernathy, as Deputy Sheriff and Bill Barksdale as the sheriff, will round out the cast. Oscar Taylor is serving as stage manager.

'Spring Greeks' - Sat..

The "Spring Greeks," a dance sponsored annually by the Interfraternity Council for the eighteen social fraternities here at State, will be held this Saturday night from 8 p.m. until midnight in the Reynolds Coliseum.

The music for the dance, which is one of the biggest social events of the year, will be provided by the band of the late Tommy Dorsey, being led now by Bob Eberle.

The day will actually get underway with an afternoon concert from 3 until 5 p.m. Playing for this is Kai Winding and his Septet, who made an appearance here at State earlier this year in a concert at the College Union on Homecoming Day.

The concert will take place on Kidd Brewer's land on the Durham highway, but in case of rainy weather, it will be moved to the Coliseum. There will be signs up indicating the direction to Brewer's land.

The dance will be formal, whereas the concert will be regular attire.

Constitutional Changes Given Final Approval By Stu. Gov.

By Roy Lathrop

Tuesday night, the Student Legislature put its final stamp of approval on the recommendations of the Special Committee on Constitutional Revision.

Actually, there have been two separate committees working on the Constitution changes; the first, headed by Jim Prim of the Student Government Rules Committee, started work on the revision about the first of March with the assistance of all S.G. Then the job was transferred to a special committee for the final revisions, headed by Ray Fountain.

These two committees have had special meetings since beginning the difficult job of changing State's Constitution to meet changing student needs; in these special meetings, sometimes lasting until the early morning hours, the committees ironed out the details, and then Tuesday night presented the new Constitution to the S.G. for final approval.

In the May 1 edition of The Technician, several of the new changes were presented; there have been a few corrections since then and some important points that will be presented here.

The judicial system underwent the most extensive alteration; there is now a general Honor Code Board, a Men's Campus Code Board, a Women's Campus Code Board, a Board of Review (to review cases appealed), and a Retrial Board to try appealed cases if so recommended by the Board of Review.

The Men's and Women's Campus Code Boards will try minor offenses involving violation of the Campus Code. It will be the duty of the Honor Code Board to try cases involving violation of our Honor Code. However, a decision of the Honor Code Board can be appealed to the Board of Review if (1) there has been some error in proceedings of the Honor Code Board or if (2) the defendant can show sufficient cause to the Board of Review to re-open his case for consideration, i.e., if he can show new evidence has been brought to light that may have bearing on his case.

The Board of Review may (See CONSTITUTIONAL CHANGES, page 6)

YMCA Installs Officers

The State College YMCA formally installed its new 1958-59 officers in ceremonies last night in the college's Danforth Chapel.

Following the initiation ceremonies, the annual YMCA membership banquet was held in the college Cafeteria.

Mr. Alfred C. Payne, Secretary of the Southern Area Student Council YMCA, spoke at the banquet. Mr. Payne's speech was entitled "Old Wine in New Bottles."

Rev. Oscar Woolridge and Rev. William Long also participated in the ceremonies, awarding certificates of merit to the retiring members of the "Y's" Board of Directors and keys to the outstanding "Y" Cabinet members.

New YMCA officers are Fred Manley of Reidsville, president;

Kenneth Vaughan of Providence, vice-president; Joe Dixon of Maple Hill, secretary; and Gene Butler of Wilmington, treasurer.

Retiring "Y" officers were: Reggie Ponder, president; Fred Manley, vice-president; Gene Bostian, secretary; and Gene Butler, treasurer.

After the dinner, guests were introduced and the awards were presented.

Mr. Ed King, past secretary of the State College YMCA, gave the invocation.

Almost 350 people attended the installment ceremonies and banquet.

Blue Key Selects 22 For Membership

Twenty-two men were tapped last Friday as members of the Blue Key Honor Fraternity here at State College. The men will be formally initiated during a banquet to be held next Tuesday, May 13 at 7:00 p.m. in the college cafeteria.

The candidates must be approved by the National Blue Key Committee before they can be initiated formally.

Blue Key is the junior leadership fraternity. Prospective members are selected on the basis of academic standing and participation in extra-curricular activities.

Chancellor Moves On Wolfpack Debt

Chancellor Carey H. Bostian called a special meeting last night of representatives of the Wolfpack Club, the Publications Board, and the Alumni Association for the purpose of settling the current debt of the Wolfpack Club with the College Print Shop.

After a short discussion of the history of the Print Shop, a solution to the debt was proposed. With minor modifications, the solution was accepted by all representatives at the meeting. These representatives will now go back to their respective organizations and present the proposal for their adoption.

Approval Expected

It is expected that all three groups — the Alumni Association, the Publications Board, and the Wolfpack Club — will approve the new agreement.

The new proposal for settling the debt is that the Print Shop will extend credit to both the Alumni Association and the Publications Board in such amount as to cover their share of the loss of the outstanding debt.

In Diploma Style

Changes Sought

There has been a great deal of controversy over the past months as to just what type of diploma State's graduating seniors want.

The primary concern has been about the type of print to be used (block, Old English, etc.) and the layout of the diploma itself.

In his campaign for President of the Senior Class (which office he won), Arron Capel made the promise that, if possible, he would circulate a petition to the student body concerning the diploma so that it could be changed before final contracts are signed this summer.

In an interview with The Technician, Capel had this explanation:

"I have met with all of the rising class officers and I have received their full cooperation on a drive to petition the administration for a change in our diploma; the change desired would be from modern to Old English script. The petition will be circulated among the student body from May 12 through May 16.

"A copy of the petition will be distributed to all dorm presidents and floor managers, fraternity presidents, the mayor of Vetsville, and to the College Union main desk.

"For off-campus students not covered by the above points, a petition will be printed in The Technician which can be signed and turned in at the College Union main desk to box 5217.

"While this petition will not affect seniors graduating this year, it is of utmost importance that all undergraduates sign the petition.

"This is your chance to show the administration that we do not approve of the small-block print diploma which will be received by the graduating seniors this year. It is your responsibility not only to sign this petition, but also to get everyone you know to sign it. We hope to have a comparison picture of the two diplomas in Monday's issue of The Technician so that you can see which you prefer.

"We must have at least 2,000 signatures! Join 'Operation Diploma Change!'"

Reminder Issued On S. G. Banquet

Waring Boys, Chairman of the Promotions Committee, has issued a reminder to all students planning to attend the annual Student Government Banquet next Friday, May 16.

Boys says that many of the cards that were sent out to students asking if they planned to attend the banquet or not have not yet been returned. The banquet is at 6:30 p.m. next Friday in the College Union. Cards or written acceptances should be mailed to Waring Boys, 2511 Clark Avenue.

Consolidated University President William C. Friday will speak at the banquet.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

We're Trying Again...

Last week's Coat and/or Tie Day on campus certainly produced action on the part of many students. Though some of this action might more properly be termed reaction, you must admit there was at least action of a type!

We honestly did not intend to offend anyone when we conceived the idea of asking students to wear ties to class on Fridays. And we were merely suggesting . . . not telling . . . that this be done.

All of us will be wearing ties quite frequently after we graduate; most will probably wear them every day. Why not—just one day out of the week—do the same here.

In spite of all the mud, the holes in the roads, poor athletic seats, etc., we still believe that if the student body wore ties to class, it would help the looks of the campus. And if everyone did it, no one would mind it after a while.

We're trying it once more tomorrow. If you are in favor of the idea, wear a tie. And if the idea isn't successful tomorrow, we promise not to say another word about it! Better yet, we will editorially bury the entire idea if it seems to be against the will of the student body. —DB

Chancellor Gets Action On Wolfpack Club Debt

The action by Chancellor Bostian last night in calling together representatives of the Wolfpack Club, Publications Board, and Alumni Association to work out an acceptable way to settle the outstanding debt of the Wolfpack Club is to be commended.

Indicative of the Chancellor's attitude on the matter was his comment at the meeting that he would like to "lock the door, and not let anyone out until the matter is settled."

The matter has been dragged out far too long and it was good to see the Chancellor step in and take the positive action he did.

The terms of the settlement, as reported in a news story in this issue, must now be formally approved by the three groups represented.

It is expected that the groups will meet within the next week or ten days, and, from the comment of the representatives at the meeting last night, adoption is virtually assured.

Wolfpack Club Operation

An important point was brought out in the meeting last night about the operation of the Wolfpack Club. It was expressed that some people tend to look upon the activities of the organization—formally named the Student Aid Association—as somewhat "under the table."

This is definitely not the case. The Wolfpack Club is recognized by the Board of Trustees and turns over all the money it collects to students. It was brought out that nearly one-half million dollars has been collected by the club in the past ten or twelve years and that this money has been used to help hundreds of students through school on athletic scholarships.

The Wolfpack Club is an integral part of our athletic program and has made possible the strong teams of the past few years.

The debt is about to be resolved . . . all future obligations are to be paid promptly . . . and the solution to the problem is one that is fair to all groups.

It is good to see that the matter is finally about to be settled. —DB

Me And You - All The Way

By Chuck Lombard

"Dear Sir:

A suggestion—turn in your slide rule, take your coat and tie, and transfer to Carolina. (signed)

A Sloppy Student"

Arriving in The Technician mail, the above, rather direct comment, seemed poignantly reminiscent of the comment I had heard on our campus last Friday. It appeared to me then that people at State weren't particularly enthusiastic about "dressing up for class."

Well, I'll tell you what—I'm a lazy bum myself. I found out long ago that it is much quicker and easier to jump into my old jeans that stand waiting all by themselves in the corner, than to try and struggle into limp clean ones.

Also, the collars on clean, starched shirts irritate my neck. Not so that friendly old rag that hangs softly on my chair, waiting for me day after day.

Then, too, I find that when I polish my shoes I'm always trying to avoid mud puddles, while I'm walking to and from class. Well, trying to avoid puddles would put me in the bug-house, so I don't polish my shoes either. Well, I guess you can see that it would be utterly ridiculous for you to ask me to wear a coat and/or tie, even one day a month.

Also, I must admit that I got pretty "hacked-off" when this neat feller comes up to me (while I'm propping up the wall of the book store the other morning) and asks me if I can draw my slide rule as fast as Matt Dillon!

Well, just between you and me, I'm faster! Wanta try me? Bang! You're multiplied! And squared too . . .

Note: I passed a mirror the other day and decided I might oughta shave for a change. Well, I did and, funny thing, it felt great!

Right To Happiness Must Not Be Denied

Dear Mr. Cocke,

Let me be so bold as to ask—is State College an institution where the wearing of coats and ties is justifiable? Is State a liberal arts school where the hardest subject taught is sexual psychology or is it a knock-down, drag-out, damn good school of Agriculture and Engineering? I would look funny as hell in a soil testing lab or surveying lab with a coat and a tie on.

Mr. Cocke, it appears to me that you have come to the general conclusion that farmers and engineers wear coats and ties on the job. I believe that is a misconception. I hope if I ever graduate I'll be lucky enough to get on the outside as 95% of my classmates will.

Since you are smart enough not to need a slide rule I guess you haven't had one slip out from under your arm. Any K&E expert will tell you that many such trips will kiss off any accuracy that it may have once had. However, the likelihood of one's belt breaking is very rare.

Mr. Cocke, you hurt my feelings. In a rare sort of way I'm kinda' proud of N.C.S. I know that the boy with the brogans, pistol barrel breeches, and the dirty t-shirt is probably the best student in his class. You show me one boy with a "B" average wearing Egyptian polished cotton pants with 28% dacron and I'll show you ten boys in wranglers with a better average.

For your information, Mr. Cocke, there is a school (using the word school loosely) about 25 miles from here known as the University of North Carolina. There, where V.O. bottles are about as abundant as football scholarships, I think you will feel at home. At this institution (better known as "Licker Hill") you will be able to wear your tie with the rest of the boys.

By the way, I think its my damn business if I want to use Surlay hair tonic and let a little mud get on my shoes.

WAY OUT . . .

with John Cocke

We have heard from many quarters that the majority of students here at State College are "uncultured" and that they will likely remain so for many years after graduation, if not forever. Well, so what? Is this true? And, if it is, is it worth taking up newspaper space to discuss?

Let us first examine what we mean by "culture." A fully cultured person, in the broadest sense, is well acquainted with all phases of human endeavor and is on speaking terms with art, music, literature, languages, pure science, history and philosophy. A large order, you say? Yes, indeed it is. Perhaps one out of a thousand in his lifetime ever attains a fair understanding in all these fields. But anyone who even begins to approach this ideal will have deepened his emotional and mental response so that he will have an intuitive understanding of human relations and problems. He will understand people and will be able to deal with them more effectively.

Broader Education Needed

This is obviously an advantage, for it is from such material that corporation executives, diplomats, and great scientists and literary figures are made. Gone indeed are the days of the one-sided technician. Employers today are seeking broad minds and adaptable talents.

Then, too, there are the intangibles. There is wonderful satisfaction in being able to appreciate good music and in having the ability to carry on a conversation in a foreign language and talk with nearly anyone about nearly anything.

But back to the original question. Is there any of this at State College? Certainly it is available. Courses in philosophy, literature, etc. are open to everyone. Very frequently concerts, art exhibits, dramatic presentations, and lectures are featured here on campus. In Raleigh itself the Little Theatre is almost in our front yard, and the Civic Music Association and the North Carolina Museum of Art are available for profitable use. Thus there is no cause to complain of a lack of opportunity.

Poor Attendance

But is it utilized? Unfortunately it is not. Student attendance at most of the College Union presentations is very sparse, and frequently many literature, and philosophy courses have to be dropped or rescheduled for lack of interested students. This does not speak of an emotionally-minded student body.

Many say that they don't have the time for it, but who can truthfully claim to use all his time as effectively as he would like? Surely it is worth giving up a few parties or poker games to cultivate an interest in modern art or contemporary drama, especially if it helps to dispell the current idea that us engineers just ain't got no learnin'.

Steve Whittaker was one of the most phenomenal split personalities on record. Not content with a mere 1 or 2 distinct personalities, Whittaker was split 3 ways. His analyst's greatest problem was in deciding which of the 3 Steve Whittakers should be permitted to survive.

Steve Whittaker I was noisy, rude, and loutish. The only thing admirable about him was his Van Heusen walking shorts which he wore to each session.

Steve Whittaker II talked to the analyst while covering him with a gun. During one session, as the doctor was staring past the muzzle of the revolver, he noticed that Steve was wearing a particularly attractive sport shirt. Further inquiry showed it to be a Van Heusen.

Steve Whittaker III was a playboy. He'd walk into the office, toss his sweater on the couch and talk about country clubs and backgammon. He was a total bore. One day, the analyst noticed that the label on his sweater read Van Heusen.

Which of the 3 Whittakers did the analyst let survive? The answer is: none of them. The wise doctor diagnosed that each of the 3 had only one redeeming feature—each wore one Van Heusen leisure wear garment. So he created a fourth Steve Whittaker. This last had the walking shorts of the first, the shirt of the second, and the sweater of Whittaker the third. He was a paragon of style and common sense, and has been a useful citizen ever since.

You see, Van Heusen leisure wear is for your one personality. It's coordinated. Slacks, shirts, walking shorts, leisure jackets all designed to go together perfectly and give you a wonderful, unified look. First A School - Then Spirit

Since the beginning of the year there have been quite a few articles appearing in The Technician calling attention to our lack of school spirit. I'd like to point out something that seems to have been missed as a reason: to have school spirit, you're got to have a school!

I'm not suggesting that we are attending any second-rate college. On the contrary, we have a pretty good school. But there's an awful lot the school itself could do to promote spirit.

During football season, State students get "last-choice" seats in our stadium. At the spacious Coliseum, we either get general admission seats or somewhat undesirable ones in the end zone. Contrast this with Carolina's 50-yard line football seats and "students above all" policy in Woolen Gym.

Last Friday was "Coat and Tie" day. It was rather warm, but some braved it. Many who did regretted it. The sidewalks (?) were pretty messy, and mud gets on suits as well as khakis. We need more decent sidewalks, and it's not our job to pave them. I for one would feel more like dressing up if I thought I could keep my clothes clean for more than a day.

Students who run to classes at all hours of the day, study deep into the night, and get what impresses them as a bad deal from the school on a lot of things aren't going to charge up a tremendous amount of enthusiasm. Building a better school will inevitably build more school spirit. It's a job for everyone—administration, faculty, and student body—to do together. Why don't we all work together and make State College the great college that it ought to be?

Do College Men Lack Conviction?

St. Mary's University of Texas Rattler ran the following article for spring election candidates' and voters' consideration. It is also quite applicable to State College.

While regarding the lethargic state of the St. Mary's student body, we came across these lines written by Dean W. P. Shofstall of Arizona State University.

"Some facts which have been established by research in American universities over the past ten years were recently compiled in book form by Philip E. Jacobs. These facts:

"1. College students seem to lack conviction in regard to the capacity or need for people to govern themselves. While political cynicism may not be the predominant mood on the campus, political indifference surely is.

"2. There is little or no evidence that students who have taken courses in political science, history, or the social sciences in general are any different from those who major in other fields, in their attitude toward, or their active involvement in local, state, or national affairs.

"3. When what is called 'laboratory practices' are introduced, students' interest in public affairs increase, their judgement on political and social issues seem to mature and their sense of personal involvement in citizenship improves.

"If we do not have a system of real student government in our schools, a system patterned after our state and national governments, where or how will (See POLITICAL CONVICTIONS p. 6)

The Air Force pilot or navigator is a man of many talents. He is, first of all, a master of the air—and no finer exists. In addition, he has a firm background in engineering, electronics, astro-navigation and allied fields. Then, too, he must show outstanding qualities of initiative, leadership and self-reliance. He is, in short, a man eminently prepared for an important career in the new Age of Space. As a college graduate, you will be given priority consideration for the Air Force Aviation Cadet Program. While openings are limited, you will be tested and advised immediately of qualification status. Find out if you measure up. Paste the attached coupon on a post card and mail it now.

U. S. AIR FORCE AVIATION CADET PROGRAM

In Three Years

Manned Space Laboratory

A program for putting a recoverable manned space laboratory into orbit within three years was outlined recently by a top engineering official of Northrop Aircraft, Inc.

George F. Douglas, engineering vice president for the company's Northrop Division in California, said the division has "developed basic design criteria for a perfectly feasible manned space laboratory" to be used in preparation for U. S. military ventures into space.

Bullet-Shaped

The space laboratory would be a bullet-shaped capsule, approximately seven feet in diameter and 10 feet long. The space traveler inside it would be strapped in a near-reclining position in order to withstand the forces of acceleration and deceleration.

Contemporary rocket engines would boost the space laboratory into orbit. Once in orbit, it would be turned by "attitude" control jets so that its blunt end is pointed forward. This would provide a high drag to slow the capsule as it hurtled back into the earth's atmosphere. Otherwise, Douglas explained, the man would be crushed by the force of gravity and burned up by friction.

Landing the Rocket

At a point halfway around the earth from the landing spot, reverse thrust rockets would slow the capsule so that it would drop into an elliptical orbit whose lowest point touched earth.

During re-entry the vehicle would slow from 25,000 feet per second to 1,000 feet per second—the speed of sound—by the time it descended to 60,000 feet altitude. Between 20,000 and 30,000 feet altitude, parachutes would open to ease the capsule to the ground.

Importance of the Project

Douglas emphasized that the manned satellite program is proposed as a necessary step before specific military vehicles can be developed for use in outer space.

"It is essential, in the interests of national solvency and technical expediency, that we carry out a broad program of space research before we consider developing space hardware for specific military applications," he declared. "For how do we know if these military projects are feasible until we get some detailed answers in such critical fields as human engineering, vehicle design and propulsion systems?"

Commissioning exercises for Army and Air Force cadets at State College will be held Saturday, May 31, at 2 p.m. in the Reynolds Coliseum as the opening feature of a series of activities planned for the college's graduation weekend.

Speaking at the commissioning exercises will be Lt. Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler, U. S. Army Ret.

Chancellor and Mrs. Carey H. Bostian will honor the seniors with a reception in their home on Hillsboro Street at 4 p.m. Saturday. In case of rain, the reception will be held in the College Union.

An informal dance will be held from 8 to 12 p.m. Saturday in the College Union Ballroom.

A band concert at 9:30 a.m. Sunday, June 1, will precede the academic processional of the graduating students at 10 a.m. at the Coliseum.

We're proud to be No. 2

The people who live in the United States have more of almost everything—including telephones.

Therefore it's possible, in such a fabulous country, to be the No. 2 communications system in size—and still have a great opportunity for service and growth.

General Telephone serves, for example, more telephone customers than the total number of telephones in such a country as France.

And this list is growing—at the rate of 1,000 new customers every working day—partly because so many of the areas we serve are suburban areas, which are the fastest-growing areas in this country.

All of which confronts us with many challenges.

If we cannot be the largest, we can surely aspire to be the finest—to do whatever we do better than it has been done before.

So we're happy to be No. 2. It keeps you on your toes.

Conference Track Meet Features Top Runners

Anticipated records in at least 10 events and a record crowd will be the features of the Atlantic Coast Conference's fifth track meet in Duke Stadium Friday and Saturday.

Preliminaries in the extravaganza are scheduled for Friday afternoon, but the big action will come starting at 2 o'clock Saturday with the finals.

Meet officials have said that the crowd could rival the 6,000 figure that attended the meet in 1956 when it was held here. That year the big drawing card was Duke's Dave Sime, then a sophomore. This year the fans will see Sime in his last ACC meet.

Well-balanced and mighty Maryland is expected to successfully defend its team title for the second straight year. The Terps walked off easily with the title last year, scoring 83½ points to runner-up North Carolina's 47½. Duke was third with 32½ and South Carolina fourth with 24½.

The big lineup of stars is expected to write new records for the 100, 440, 880, two mile, high hurdles, high jump, shot put, pole vault, javelin and mile relay.

Sime, holder of three world's records, holds conference records in the 100 (9.5), 220 (20.1) and low hurdles (22.4). These are the same events Sime has set world marks in, all at faster times. Sime will participate in only two events, the 100 and 220 this year.

Another top-flight attraction will be North Carolina's Dave Scurlock in the 440 and 880. The existing record for the 440 is 48 seconds flat and Scurlock turned in a 48.2 in a dual match against Duke last weekend. Scurlock will have close competition from Duke's Tom Bazemore and Clemson's John Dunkelberg.

Scurlock will also be the favorite in the 880, but Duke's Cary Weisiger, a soph, has proved this season he is a man to watch in this event. The record is 1:54.1 set by Bobby Jones of N. C. State in 1956. Weisiger has a 1:54.3 this season. Scurlock has a 1:48.2 set last year in the NCAA meet.

A sure record will be set in the shot put. Dave Coates of South Carolina will challenge defending champion Ed Cooke of Maryland in this event. The record is 52-4 and both have marks over 54 this year.

Virginia's Pat Whitaker, Clarence Roberts and Henry Davenport, plus Conway Snipes of South Carolina, will vie in the pole vault, bettering the record of 13-7¼ set in 1956 by Mel Schwarz of Maryland.

Deacon Game Called Due to Heavy Rains; Netters Drop Match

Due to the excessive rains for the past few weeks, another sports event was postponed till a later date. This time it was in the form of a baseball game between the Demon Deacons of Wake Forest and the Wolfpack of State College. The tilt, scheduled for Tuesday afternoon, will be played later in the season.

Another game is scheduled for Thursday afternoon with Wake Forest. At the time of this writing, it is not known whether the game will be played or not, but a notice will be circulated in the event of a postponement.

In the tennis match Monday afternoon with Rollins College, the netters of State College fared not too well. The Rollins squad rolled up a very impressive 9-0 victory over the State boys, with the Wolfpack netters failing to win a single match. This match completed the regular season play in tennis, and next comes the ACC tourney May 8, 9, and 10.

Fate was against N. C. State yesterday at the Big 4 intramural contest, which probably flushed them out of first place; the rain that is, causing softball, tennis, and horeshoes to be called off—two of which were considered by the home team to be sure winners.

With this bad stroke of luck, State still pulled a second place, with 13 points. Wake Forest with the high of 15 points took the honor position, and Duke and Carolina tied for third position, scoring 11 points each.

Volleyball, golf, table tennis, badminton, and handball comprised the events in the Big 4 playoff, of which intramural Pack took two 1st, two 3rds, and one 4th position.

Vetville led the attack in volleyball for State. This was their third annual victory in the Big 4 classic. Duke won 2nd, Wake Forest 3rd, and Carolina 4th in the volleyball contest.

State also took a 1st in table tennis. Wake Forest slammed 2nd, Carolina 3rd, and Duke 4th.

State dropped to 3rd place in badminton and handball while the Deacons batted to 2nd. Duke took a 1st in badminton and a 4th in handball. Carolina were the surprise team coming in first place after falling to last place last year. State, last season's victors, was the choice for the first place.

SWEENEY IN THE TREES

Spring is here—the season of tree-sitting contests. This I applaud. Tree-sitting is healthful and jolly and as American as apple pie. Also it keeps you off the streets.

Tree-sitting is not, however, without its hazards. Take, for example, the dread and chilling case of Manuel Sigafoos and Ed Sweeney, both sophomores at the Nashville College of Folk Music and Woodworking, and both madly in love with a beautiful alto named Ursula Thing, who won their hearts singing that fine old folk song, I Strangled My True Love with Her Own Yellow Braids, and I'll Never Eat Her Sorghum Any More.

Both Manuel and Ed pressed Ursula to go steady, but she could not choose between them, and finally it was decided that the boys would have a tree-sitting contest, and Ursula would belong to the victor. So Manuel and Ed clambered up adjoining aspens, taking with them the following necessities: food, clothing, bedding, reading matter, and—most essential of all—plenty of Marlboro Cigarettes.

We who live on the ground know how much you get to like with a Marlboro. Think how much more important they must be to the lonely tree-dweller—how much more welcome their fine, mild tobacco; how much more gratifying their free-drawing filters; how much more comforting their sturdy, crushproof flip-top box. Climb a tree and see for yourselves.

"A TREE SITTING CONTEST"

Well supplied with Marlboros, our heroes began their tree-sitting contest—Manuel with good heart, Ed with evil cunning. The shocking fact is that crafty Ed, all unbeknownst to Manuel, was one of three identical triplets. Each night while Manuel dozed on his bough, one of Ed's brothers—Fred or Jed—would sneak up the tree and replace him. "How can I lose?" said Ed with a fiendish giggle to his brother Fred or Jed.

But Ed had a big surprise coming. For Manuel, though he did not know it himself, was a druid! He had been abandoned as an infant at the hut of a poor and humble woodcutter named Cornelius Whitney Sigafoos III, who had raised the child as his own. So when Manuel got into the tree, he found much to his surprise that he had never in all his life felt so at home and happy. He had absolutely no intention of ever leaving.

After seven or eight years Ed and his brothers wearied of the contest and conceded. Ursula Thing came to Manuel's tree and cried, "I am yours! Come down and pin me."

But Manuel declined. Instead he asked Ursula to join him in the tree. This she could not do, being subject to moper (a morbid allergy to woodpeckers), so she ended up with Ed after all.

Only she made a mistake—a very natural mistake. It was Jed, not Ed, with whom she ended up.

Ed, heartbroken at being tricked by his own brother, took up metallurgy to forget.

Crime does not pay.

This column is brought to you by the makers of Marlboro Cigarettes who suggest that if you are ever up a tree when trying to find a gift, give Marlboros. You can't miss!

5th Annual ACC Golf Tournament Field To Be Toughest In History

A wide-open fight for both team and individual honors is expected in the fifth annual Atlantic Coast Conference golf tournament which opens on the Old Town Club links here Friday morning.

According to Chuck Erickson of the University of North Carolina, chairman of the ACC golf committee, this year's field shapes up as one of the toughest in the history of the event.

"In past years there has been at least one team which stood out over the field," Erickson said, "but that isn't the case this time. I would say there are six or seven schools capable of pocketing the team honors."

Erickson also predicted that the fight for the individual title would involve a dozen or so players.

Duke's Blue Devils, who haven't won the team championship since 1954, will bring a 13-1 dual match record into the event while North Carolina with a 6-2 mark, Virginia with a 10-3 record, and Maryland are all highly rated. Clemson also rates consideration since it has defeated Virginia and Wake Forest in dual meets.

Wake Forest's defending champions have only a 7-5 record for the season, but will have the advantage of playing on its home course. The Demon Deacons have lost only once in six matches at home this year and that was an 18-9 setback at the hands of Duke.

Notes From The Pack

Bob Kennel says he is still interested in playing pro baseball, contradicting reports that he will give up the game for a career in Nuclear Engineering, a course in which he is batting 1,000.

"I am planning on getting my Ph.D. degree," Kennel said, "and want to play baseball during the summer and attend school two semesters a year."

Kennel was recently named the outstanding senior at State and will study at the University of Melbourne (Australia) next year on a Rotary scholarship. He was one of 113 top students accorded the national scholarship honor.

Kennel will be married June 15 to Miss Jean Hargett of New Bern.

Basketball forward Don Gallagher has been performing on the track team and is one of the top high jumpers in the Atlantic Coast Conference, surpassing the six-foot mark with ease. He recently won first place against Carolina, and second place against Duke, Virginia and South Carolina.

UNC's victory over the Wolfpack was the first time State had been whitewashed in 26 games, dating back to the fifth game of the 1957 season when South Carolina blanked the Pack 5-0.

Football coach Earle Edwards was low man in a golf foursome at the Carolina Country Club last week.

Publications Board Banquet Fri. Night

The Board of Student Publications will hold their annual banquet tomorrow night at 7:00 p.m. at the Reilyn House, in Raleigh's Glenwood Village.

Lindsay Whichard, English Professor at State, will speak at the informal banquet.

Staff members of all campus publications and their dates are invited. Door prizes will be awarded.

SUMMER SCHOOL ATTENDANCE
During the week of May 5, students who are planning to attend the first term of summer school are asked to fill out a blank for registration permit and to complete a questionnaire. A table for this purpose is provided outside of the Summer Sessions Office, 101 Pullen Hall.

DORMITORY STUDENTS—Students have been observed playing ball near the dormitories and in quadrangles. This is to notify all occupants of the dormitories that they are held responsible for their rooms and any window breakage occurring will be charged to occupants. They can avoid unnecessary charges by reminding students who are playing ball in the vicinity of their rooms that such activities should be carried out on the intramural fields.

DORMITORY STUDENTS—Information has been published and distributed concerning dormitory rooms for the summer sessions. Every dormitory occupant is reminded that all rooms that have not been reserved for the first session of summer school must be completely vacated and the keys returned to the Dormitory Rental Office no later than Fri., June 6. After that date a room rental charge of $2.00 per day will be made until keys are returned or until such time as the College, upon inspection, determines that the room has been vacated. If the Rental Office is closed, put your keys in an envelope with your name and drop into the letter slot in the door to Room 4, Holladay Hall.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS ON MAIL AND MAGAZINES—To avoid delay in delivery of mail and magazines during the summer, students should file change-of-address notice with the Post Office. Send publishers your present and summer address four weeks in advance indicating the starting and ending dates if for summer only. Enclose address label from a copy of the magazine. Obtain change-of-address cards from the Post Office or the Dormitory Rental Office.

PART OF TOMPKINS HALL CLOSED FOR NIGHT STUDY—For several years it has been customary to leave some classrooms in college academic buildings open at night so that they are available as study areas for student living under crowded conditions. Due to continuous abuse for the past several months in rooms in Tompkins Hall, it has become necessary to close and lock these rooms at night. It is hoped that students using other classrooms on the campus will make every effort to prevent building abuse and thus retain the privilege of having these areas for night study.

OFFICER TRAINING—USMC—Marine Corps has 12 vacancies for N. C. State students in Platoon Leaders Class Program. Commission as 2nd Lt. upon graduation. Inquire at Marine Corps Reserve behind Tucker Dorm or call TE 2-1131 for information.

CLUB MEETINGS
GLEE CLUB RECORDS—The Glee Club has just recorded a number of selections, including the State College Alma Mater; the records will be pressed by Century Records. They will be 38 1/3 r.p.m. long play disks of excellent fidelity. Anyone desiring to obtain one of these records should call the Music Organizations Office in Pullen Hall or see any member of the Glee Club.

INDIAN MUSIC—A talk on Indian music will be given by Mr. N. K. Ganiguly at 4 p.m., Sunday, May 11 in the College Union music lounge. Everyone is cordially invited.

SEE PICNIC AND FIELD DAY will be held Saturday at the Mohawk Club. Free to AIEE and IRE members. Charge for non-members is $.50. Free to children under 12.

third of the Print Shop, each group, therefore, shares in one-third of the loss of any unpaid account. If the Wolfpack Club is divided into three equal parts, the loss to each group is approximately $11,000. This sum, plus a set amount designated as payment of interest, is the amount of credit to be extended both the Publications Board and Alumni Association.)

Terms

Under the new proposal, both the Alumni Association and the Publications Board will be extended $1,400 credit each year for ten years. Also under the new agreement, all three groups will be required to pay all obligations to the College Print Shop currently.

As stated, final approval of the proposal must await the formal adoption of the plan by each of the three groups. This approval is expected in the very near future—possibly this week.

Constitutional Changes Approved

then recommend trial by the Retrial Board; the Retrial Board can either pronounce the defendant not guilty and thereby close the case, or it can recommend that the Honor Code Board re-evaluate the imposed penalty or decision. If the case is referred back to the Honor Code Board, the original decision may be upheld or the penalty may be reduced.

All trials of all the Boards will be closed to the public.

The Honor Code Board will consist of 10 elected members, all students from the Sophomore, Junior, and Senior classes; the Board of Review will consist of three members from the student body at large and three faculty members, appointed by the President and confirmed by a three-fourths vote of the Legislature, and also one member from the Legislature elected from the Legislature itself; the Retrial Board will be of the same structure of membership and procedure as the Honor Code Board, but its members will be appointed by the Board of Review and will consist of members from the student body at large.

Other changes in the Consti-tion are as follows:

No officer in the Executive Department of the Student Government will hold the same office for more than two years.

Any member resigning from office cannot be a candidate for or hold office the following year, unless two-thirds of the Legislature decides that there was sufficient reason for resigning from office.

Other provisions of the new Constitution can be examined by any member of the student body; if interested, contact a member date who received the next high-of your Student Government.

Political Convictions

students learn to want to vote in our form of government, to want to participate in civic affairs?

"Active participation in government has to be learned, and if it is to be learned it has to be taught. It can be taught only through experience in self government.

"The student who is satisfied to do his class work and take advantage of activities furnished for him, not by him, will almost certainly be satisfied after graduation to let the politicians run his government for him, and will seldom vote or take civic responsibility so long as he has a job, social security, is at peace, has schools, parks, highways, and other things he wants. Why should he suddenly turn into a good citizen after graduation?

"Knowledge alone, even in history or social science, does not give the kind of citizens we must have to preserve our democracy. This is proved by research.

"Why student government? The answer is why education? Is there much sense in being educated only to find yourself living in a police state? This wouldn't have made much sense to our founding fathers. Are we different from them?"
