Talent Show Set For Friday Night

Variety Vignettes, State College's annual talent show, will be presented in the College Union tomorrow, October 18, at 8 P.M. Sponsored by the CU Theater Committee, and under the direction of John Chappell, the show will introduce to the public a variety of amateur and professional talent.

Ted Powers, host of WKIX's, "Powerhouse," will serve as Master of Ceremonies.

Heading the list of amateur participants is Dick Fadgen, All-American swimming star and State College athlete. Fadgen and his partner Jim Williams will present a novelty ukalele act in the "Rock and Roll" idiom. Joyce Hatch, co-ed from Mount Olive will provide a flaming baton twirling number, while a Dixie Land band and a jazz trio will fill the Union with the sounds of New Orleans and of modern day Birdland.

Drill, Physical Education, Intramurals Cancelled

All Infirmary Beds Full As Flu Cases Increase

by Roy Lathrop
Since the last report in The Technician on the flu situation, the number of cases at State has increased considerably. The doctors at the Infirmary have said that the increase in flu cases shows no sign of letting up.

At the present time, the Infirmary is completely full, with approximately 70 cases in bed. Many more students are going to their homes to be treated if they live in or around Raleigh. However, any rumors that State may have to close down for awhile are completely unfounded; the situation is not that bad yet.

The doctors' recommendation that physical exertion on the part of the students be kept to a minimum was acted upon by the administration yesterday at 12:00. All intramurals have been cancelled for the time being, strenuous activity in Physical Education has been eliminated, and all drill for R.O.T.C. members has been suspended until further notice.

Substitution classes for both drill and P.E. are being left to the discretion of the departmental instructors. The Military Department has been asked to call no mass meetings which might further spread the virus.

The idea behind these measures is to allow each student to keep himself as rested as possible. This will lessen the chance of contacting flu for those who are as yet free of the virus, and will allow those recovering from it to do so more quickly.

The college administration has done all it can to secure the flu vaccine. The vaccine was ordered last summer and arrangements were made with the drug company to ship it immediately. However, the U.S. Health Service ruled that the vaccine would have to be spread evenly throughout the nation; therefore, the shipment originally designated for State College was sent elsewhere. When the vaccine does arrive, plans are still to give it to all the students free of cost.

Each student can help control the situation and prevent the flu from becoming a major epidemic here. Everyone is advised to get plenty of rest, drink lots of juices and water, stay away from large gatherings when possible, hold exercise to a minimum, and generally follow good health practices.

High hopes have been expressed that the faculty will lessen the load of outside work somewhat and hold back on quizzes during this rise in flu cases. It is feared that many students who should be resting more at night are weakening themselves further by getting too little sleep.

It is said that the number of cases in the Infirmary is not a fair indication of the extent of the flu here. Many students are infected and yet feel that they cannot afford to miss any work because of impending quizzes. Understanding by the faculty in this important case is being sought.

Model Assembly Begins Tonight

Initial sessions of the Model United Nations Assembly begin this evening at 8 p.m. in the Legislative chambers of the State Capitol. According to Mrs. Roy N. Anderson, president of the Raleigh chapter of the American Association for the United Nations, sessions will continue through Saturday noon.

CU Movie

Thursday's opening night exercises include introduction speeches beginning at eight in the Capitol and a movie, "Campus U. N." at nine in the CU Theatre.

A banquet will be held at seven Friday night in the cafeteria. Following the banquet Dr. Alvin C. Bahnsen, vice-president of the Southern New York Region of the AAUN, will speak on issues before the General Assembly. Sign-up for the banquet ends Thursday night with the CU as headquarters for purchasing the $1.50 banquet tickets.

Spectators will be admitted free to the Capitol Galley for the Thursday night session, the two Friday meetings beginning at 9 and 2, and to the final critique given by Miss Curry. The Model assembly is scheduled to end at noon Saturday.

Delegates from State College and 23 other colleges throughout the state will convene for the purpose of furthering their knowledge and understanding of UN functions through the

Homecoming Queen Contest to Be Held

Again this year Blue Key Fraternity is sponsoring the selection of Miss Wolfpack. Announcement of the winner of the Miss Wolfpack Contest will be during the Homecoming Game with William and Mary on November 9.

The rules concerning entries for the contest, as announced yesterday by Blue Key, are given below.

Any student or campus organization may sponsor a contestant. To be eligible, the girl must be either eighteen or a State coed. A student wishing to sponsor a contestant should bring a portrait and a snapshot of the girl to the Office of Student Affairs between Monday, October 21 and Monday, October 28.

In order that the pictures may be returned, the sponsor is asked to write his name and address on the backs of each photograph. A contest questionnaire will be available at the Office of Student Affairs in Holladay Hall. No entries will be accepted after October 28.

The pictures of the contestants will be displayed in the College Union on October 29, and a court of ten finalists will be announced Thursday, November 7.

The Homecoming Queen and her court, and their sponsors, will be the guests of Blue Key at the game and at all of the Homecoming events.

Jim Davis, Blue Key Homecoming Chairman, has especially urged all organizations to enter contestants.

Animal Industry Wins Blue Ribbon

Winners in the State College Student Agricultural Fair which was held at the State Fairgrounds in connection with the State Fair have been announced by Fair officials.

Results of booth judging find the Animal Industry Club taking first place followed by the Horticulture Club and the Agriculture Economics Club.

Attendance Record

In summary, the new attendance records are: (1) a maximum of fifteen unexcused absences for freshmen and sophomores; (2) no excuses given for any personal reason; and (3) excused absences slips will be given for sickness and official trips at Room no. 11 Holladay Hall. For further information concerning this matter, consult page twenty of The Tower.

A Radical Idea?

A committee is soon to be appointed in the Student Government Legislature for the purpose of considering the revision of the Student Government Constitution.

There is one area which should be included among the topics to be studied by such a committee. The area to which we refer is that of representation in the Legislature.

Under the present Constitution, representatives (or Senators) are elected by the six individual schools at State. The number of representatives allotted each school is based primarily upon the total enrollment in each class of the particular school.

The Engineering School, for example, the largest school at State with 3440 students this semester, elects a total of twenty-one representatives. The smaller schools, Design and Textiles, elect five and four men, respectively.

Thus, every man in the six schools is represented in the Student Legislature. Such a method provides for overall representation in a very uncomplicated and simple manner.

However, is such a method adequate? Though the student legislators are functioning with great success, is there any way in which they could, by closer contact with the students, better represent those by whom they were elected?

We think there may be. We are, therefore, presenting an idea, though somewhat radical, for the reapportionment of the Student Legislature. The idea is for the consideration of both the student body and the committee which is to study the Constitution.

In the past, only a small minority of the students have known personally the man for whom they voted. The result is that the large majority of students do not know who their representative is.

Just to see if this situation still exists, we called one man in every dorm on campus last night and asked each one if he knew who his Student Government representative was. However small such a sampling was, it somewhat strengthened our previous beliefs when not a single man we called knew who represented him.

Would it not be more logical to have students elect as their representatives men that they know? Should we not elect men we see and talk with several times each week?

This could be done simply and effectively by having legislators represent the areas in which students live; that is, dormitories, fraternities, Venville, etc.

A man living in a dormitory is certainly much more likely to know the people living on his floor than he is to know all the people in his curriculum. The same applies to others who live together or near each other.

Such a system would require much thought and planning, but it could be the answer to the present problem of very few students knowing who their representative is or what he is doing.

Both the Student Government and the student body should consider this matter. And those students who have an opinion on it should speak to their Student Government representative about it—if you can find out who he is. . . .

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Sputnik I

Sounds From Space

From The Syracuse Orange

Those very beeps emanating from Sputnik I, the Russian earth satellite, have many varied meanings.

To the scientific world, the electronic sounds usher in a whole new area of discovery and exploration; to headline-hungry politicians, they are the key to reams of news copy as a congressional investigation is launched into the reasons for the Russian victory; to communist propagandists, they serve as grist for the Red mill.

But those regular pulsations from outer space also carry a third message, a message particularly directed to members of an academic community such as Syracuse University.

For the successful launching of a Soviet-built satellite demonstrates graphically the heretofore unheeded warnings that the Russians are turning out far more scientists than the United States.

If a bright American, high school student sees scientific training leading to attractive positions, respect in the community and financial security, he may be well tempted to move into such a field.

However, if the same student imagines that engineering or mathematics will bring him meager remuneration, suspicion from his neighbors and endless governmental loyalty checks, it is his right in a free society to reject this vocational training.

Perhaps in Sputnik I, the Russians have generated enough noise (as well as beeps) to wake us up.

OPEN LETTER TO STATE FRATERNITY LEADERS:

Congratulations on your 1957 pledge class!

There can be no doubt that a great deal of time, hard work, and perhaps even quite a bit of money was spent in obtaining these new men for membership in your fraternity. They represent a very important investment in the future of your chapter.

If your chapter was to make such an investment in some new improvement on your house or some other fraternity-owned property, there is little doubt that a great deal of care would be taken of it.

Certainly the same must be true with a new pledge class. It is pure folly to go to such a great amount of trouble in obtaining a new group of pledges and then fail to take care of them after they are pledged.

What does "taking care" of a pledge class involve? Since these men are primarily freshmen, it involves a great number of things, but most important, it involves protecting them from the age-old enemy of fraternities—scholastic difficulty.

This is not to say that this is a problem peculiar only to fraternity men. On the contrary, fraternity men, on the average, consistently have better averages than non-fraternity men. This fact is verified each semester when fraternity averages are compared with the computed all-men's average for that semester.

However, this is as it should be. Since fraternities are organized not only for mutual enjoyment, but also for mutual benefit, it should be easy to maintain higher averages than that of the student body as a whole.

Nevertheless, we still cannot ignore the great toll that scholastic deficiency takes from fraternities each year. Think how much stronger our fraternity system would be if we could prevent these men from flunking out.

Take a look at a list of your new pledges. Some are natural leaders. They will insure you of a strong chapter four years from now, but only if they are still in school. This lack of scholarship starts off as a small leech, barely noticeable during the freshman year of a pledge class. If it is ignored, it continues to take its toll from the men of a chapter until, at the end of the junior year, it has become a monster, gnawing at the very heart of a fraternity's leadership.

To many, this may seem a bit exaggerated, but look at your own pledge class. What percentage of these men are left? If you are a junior, you may consider yourself lucky if fifty per cent of your pledge class is still with you. If you are a senior, you may find two-thirds of these men are still in school. Will the same not be true of this year's men?

The answer to this question will not be known for four more years. However, if each fraternity appoints an upperclassman to be scholarship officer, and this man makes it his responsibility to see that these new pledges learn to study as well as play—if this officer keeps a close check on mid-semester grades and encourages the new men to study—if these things are done not only this semester, but every semester, then State's fraternities will have gone a long way in conquering this menace of scholastic difficulty.

BUTTON-DOWN WINSOCKII

College students love shirts with button-down collars, but we've never known exactly why. So Van Heusen's research department asked around and got the following answers.

L.B. Senior at Mass. Institute of Entomology. "The buttons keep things from crawling under your collar. Or, if things do crawl under your collar, the buttons prevent them from crawling out again."

D.D.E. Freshman at Horatio Alger Tech. "You get more buttons so I figure the shirt is more valuable. Is it?"

B.P. Junior at the Pale School of Tonsorial Arts. "They're cooler! Wisps of air blow through the little hole in the button and keep my clavicle at a refreshing temperature."

P.S. Senior of Makemoney's Correspondence School. "I'm a neurotic. With Button-down shirts I can wear one side buttoned and the other side unbuttoned, thereby giving the effect of wearing two types of shirt at one time. Oh help me, help me!"

Z.J. Graduate student at the T.S. Swinburne School of Beautiful Experiences. "Buttons remind me of pearls. Pearls remind me of oysters. Oysters remind me of indigestion. Indigestion reminds me of my doctor. My doctor reminds me of his nurse. She's gorgeous. Gorgeous! So the more buttons the better."

Yes, there's agreement that button-down collars are the thing. And there's further agreement that Van Heusen is the king of Button-down stylists. Just take a look at Van Heusen Oxfordians next time you're in the market for shirts. You'll see immediately why they're famous. $5.00.

Students Assist In Chapel Services

by Billy Johnson

Dedicated April 8, 1956, the Danforth Chapel, located in the south wing of the YMCA Building, is the answer to a need long felt by students and faculty.

Each Wednesday a worship service is held in the Chapel between 12:40 and 1:00 p.m.

Members of the student body take a major part in these services; they are responsible for the prayers, scripture reading, choir, and ushering.

Director of the choir is Professor Nels Leonard. The organist is Robert J. Smith.

The Protestant Chaplains from the various denominations and the YMCA alternate in bringing the short sermons.

The Chapel is air-conditioned and is available throughout the year for private meditation, weddings, and other types of religious services. It is designed to fit the needs of the whole college community. The Chapel is open 24 hours a day.

For the Christian the Chapel is a place where the Divine Spirit may be revealed in quiet acknowledgment of Jesus Christ as Lord of life; for the Jew, a sacred refuge for meditation upon the profound proclamation of the prophets of Israel; for other worshippers, a place of peace where the soul's sincerest desire may be expressed; for the skeptic and unbeliever, a place apart from the ambiguous, the contradictory, and the pressures of the day, a haven of rest on a free campus where our true nature and destiny may be contemplated.

This year the weekly messages are being based upon Jesus' parables as found in the Gospels of Matthew, Mark, and Luke. All members of the College community are urged to join their friends at the Danforth Chapel each Wednesday at 12:40 for twenty minutes of worship.

Plays Miami Friday

State, Twelfth In Nation

For the second time in the history of State College, the football team has been rated number twelve in the nation by the Associated Press weekly poll of Sportswriters and sportscasters, and this Friday night, that record will go on the line against the tough Miami Hurricanes.

Also going before the firing squad will be games won in a row. Thirty years ago, in 1927, when the Wolfpack had a 9-1 record, they won the last eight games of the season and won the first of the following year.

Those nine in a row are the best for a State team since football began here. Only twice since 1927 has State won four games in a row. They won the first four games in 1946 and won five straight in the 1950 and 1951 seasons.

The series between the Miami Hurricanes and the Wolfpack began back in 1939 when Miami took the Pack, 27-7. In 1942, the Wolfpack bounced back and won on a safety, 2-0.

No game was played in 1943, but in 1944, the Red Men got by Miami, 28-7. In the last meeting of the two teams, in 1945, the Hurricanes ran over the Pack, 21-7. It is interesting to note that the Wolfpack in their play with Miami has made all of their conversions after each touchdown.

Thus far this season, the Miami Hurricanes have a 1-2 record. In the opening game of the year, Houston got by Miami, 7-0, but two weeks later, they upset Baylor, 13-7. Last weekend, the Tarheels of Carolina took Miami 20-13.

At the present time, the Hurricanes are allowing opponents an average of 87 yards rushing a game. The Wolfpack has averaged 203 yards on the ground per game, thus far.

The probable standout for coach Andy Gustafson's team will be Capt. John Vacone, a halfback. In the upset of Baylor Vacone scored both touchdowns and kicked the extra point. Last week in the Carolina-Miami roust, he rushed fourteen times for a 6.2 average and scored one TD.

No. 12

(The article below is reprinted from the Oct. 25, 1946 issue of The Technician at the time, the Wolfpack had a 4-0 record going into the V. P. I. game. The 1946 Pack finished with an 8-2 record for the season, and went on to drop before Oklahoma in the Gator Bowl. Ed. Note.)

Coach Beattie Feathers' 1946 Wolfpack have moved up to the number 12 spot among all of the weekly Associated Press polls of the various sports writers in the country. Carolina was two up on State in the number 10 position, and the Duke Blue Devils were one behind the Wolfpack in the number 13 slot. Army continued its reign as the number one team of the country, and Notre Dame ran second. It was also learned that State College's Wolfpack are second only to Harvard as the outstanding defensive club in the country.

Among the "pass snatchers", State's George Blomquist ranks seventh in the country so far as completed forward passes are concerned.

INTRAMURALS

Next Tuesday night the final sport of the Fall Intramural Program will begin when Dormitory Track preliminaries will be held on the Track Field. The Fraternity prelims will be on Wednesday night.

Pack Sports Take Hold As Soccer, Around the ACC Cross Country, Football Continue

Coach Bill Smaltz highly praised his team after their fine showing against the rival Tarheels of Carolina. This appraisal was followed up by other coaches who, along with Smaltz, are anticipating another victory at Virginia this Friday afternoon.

With eight returning lettermen, Wolfpack Coach Everett Case greeted eighteen hopefuls in their first practice session, Tuesday of this week. Until the flag comes down for the initial game the State cagers will have daily practice starting at 4:30 P.M. They will open with Atlantic Christian on Dec. 2nd in the Coliseum.

After setting an even keel at Lynchburg, the N. C. State soccer team will take on Davidson in their second meet. The Wolfpack aggregation, eighteen strong, will venture to Davidson on Oct. 18 to raise their present record of 0-0-1.

The Cross Country Boys of State College will seek their second win Saturday, Oct. 19th. at Winston-Salem when they meet Wake Forest and Virginia. They beat Clemson, but bowed to the Gamecocks sustaining a 1-1 record.

The Monogram Club is represented at the State Fair this year by the presence of a basketball concession. The stand is being run on a voluntary basis by the club members contributing their time between classes and at night.

Visitors to the fair are urged to pass by and try their skill and accuracy for prizes. The booth is located behind the exhibition hall near the central gate on Hwy. #1.

All Freshmen who are interested in trying out for the Swimming Team are asked to come by the Gym on Monday, October 21, when workouts will begin. Coach Bill Sonner.

With four weeks gone in the gridiron season, the three top squads in the ACC are gaining more prestige with every game they play.

Still undefeated are Duke and N. C. State who rank 5th and 12th respectively among the nation's top teams. Close behind, in the 14th slot, is the Tarheels of U.N.C., who have lost only to State.

This week-end will see Duke playing host to Wake Forest in the Blue Devils' fourth ACC game. State will meet Miami in Florida Friday night while the Maryland Terps will entertain the tough Tarheels.

The only other contest will find Virginia meeting non-conference foe V.P.I. in Richmond. Clemson and South Carolina are idle.

Over Two Hundred Pledged By Eighteen Fraternities

The eighteen social fraternities at State College have pledged a total of 211 men this year after ten days of rushing and one week of silence.

Pledging ceremonies are being held by the individual fraternities this week. Pledge classes this year ranged from twenty-four to three.

The 211 men pledged is a drop from last year when a total 233 men pledged fraternities during the fall semester rushing period.

A list of the men and the fra-against, and two abstaining.

Concerning the decision, Bob Tanen, Phi Epsilon Phi President told The Technician last night that, "both my brothers and myself appreciate the decision of the inter-fraternity Council. We felt that the previous decision was something that was done rather hastily. . . Before this new decision we didn't even know if we were opening up next year. We have no hard feelings about it towards anyone and we feel closer to the IFC than ever before because we believe that they were perfectly fair and square with us."

"In a big company, a young man can get to tackle big jobs"

"The thing that has impressed me most in my two years at General Electric," says 28-year-old Yusuf A. Yoler, manager of Aerodynamics Laboratory Investigations, "is the challenging opportunity open to young people here. My field is guided-missile research — the nation's top-priority defense job. Because of the scope of the company's research and development program, I've had the opportunity to work with technical experts in many related fields. And I've seen at first hand the responsibility which General Electric has given to younger men — proof to me that in a big company a young man can get to tackle big jobs."

The research being done by Dr. Yusuf A. Yoler is significant not only to himself, but to General Electric and the security of the nation as well. At present, the company is participating as a prime contractor on three of the four long-range ballistic missiles programmed by the U. S. government. Yoler, who is playing an important role in this work, directed the design and development of the world's largest hypersonic shock tunnel — a device which will "test-fly" missile nose cones at speeds over 15,000 mph.

Progress in research and development — as well as in every other field of endeavor — depends on how well young minds meet the challenge of self-development. At General Electric there are more than 29,000 college graduates, each of whom is given the opportunity to develop to his fullest abilities. In this way, we believe, everybody benefits — the individual, the company, and the country.
