Fearless Freshmen, Fight Fiercely!

Presidential Protege's Play Politics

Jim Groce

Jim Groce, a Civil Engineering student from Asheville, N. C. announces his candidacy for President of the Freshman class and Senator from the School of Engineering.

Groce began his release to THE TECHNICIAN by saying, "The purpose of this article is to let you know why I am seeking office. My primary reason is that I enjoy nothing more than working with and developing other students' suggestions and ideas into something of value.

"Because of the many duties and responsibilities involved in this office, it is my deepest desire that each freshman should make it a point to find out what previous experience each of the candidates has had.

"As for myself, I honestly feel that my six years of experience in student government work has provided me with the necessary experience needed to fulfill this office.

"Concerning my platform, I wish briefly to state my goals. If it is in my power to do so, I will strive to bring about a more unified freshman class by promoting bigger and better athletic and social events. I will exercise my utmost power to make the Freshman-Sophomore dance an ever greater success, and I will strive to promote a better relationship between faculty, upperclassmen, and freshmen. I promise that I will honestly and sincerely serve you to my fullest degree.

Ken Suessman

Ken Suessman, a Mechanical Engineering student, has announced his candidacy for president of the freshman class and senator from the School of Engineering. Ken is a member of the symphonic band and the ROTC band, the ASME, the YMCA, and the Theta Chi fraternity.

In reading the letters of his opponents, Suessman stated that "they failed to mention any concrete objectives". Also the use of "free flowing" words such as "capable" and "interested" came to his attention.

At the beginning Suessman stated, "My main concern is the welfare of the freshmen on this campus. I have noticed that a large majority of them tend to go home for the weekends. I believe that this principally is due to the lack of social functions on this campus primarily for freshmen. When elected I will do my utmost to arrange events on the campus for freshmen.

"In my candidacy for Engineering Senator I also feel that I can help my class. My goal is to reduce the high cost of attending this college, notably the expense of books and materials. I imagine all of the freshmen engineering students here had a jolt when they discovered the price of drawing equipment and slide rules.

"I fully understand the time and effort needed in fulfilling these positions. However, my 'interest' and 'capabilities' will show themselves if elected to these positions."

Maurice Radford

Maurice Radford, a freshman in Nuclear Engineering, has announced his candidacy for president of the freshman class.

Radford said, "I am running for president because I have the interest of the freshman class at heart. I feel that I can fill the position of president, because I will give it all the ability I have.

"At this time I cannot make any campaign promises; not because I cannot keep them, but because I feel this would be taking my position into my own hands.

"If I am elected, however, I will give it all my ability and I will serve the class to the utmost. If I am elected, I will always be asking some of the freshmen if they have some problems concerning the class and how they would like for me to solve them. I will try to work out any problems anyone brings to me.

"I will definitely appreciate each and every vote cast for me. Don't forget the name Radford when you are voting for president on Thursday."

"K" Smith

"K" Smith from Charlotte announces his candidacy for president of the Freshman class.

In a statement to THE TECHNICIAN, Smith stated, "In placing myself in the candidacy for president of the Freshman class, I realize the responsibilities the position demands. If and when I am elected I will strive to fulfill these responsibilities. I will also strive to live up to the trust you, the students, have placed in me.

"I believe that the freshmen class should be recognized more by the upperclassmen and faculty. To do this we must become a well organized class under our class leaders. I will work along with the other class officers to bring about this recognition and make this freshman class the best.

"If we want to get the best men in office, everyone must make it his responsibility to vote. Therefore on Thursday, October 30, get out and vote for whom you think is best for the position."

Plebes Ballot Thursday, Five Booths Designated

Balloting polls open Thursday morning at 8:00 o'clock for the Freshman elections. Five voting booths have been effectively placed over the campus. They are located at the College Union, Owen Dormitory, the Becton quadrangle, Winston Hall, and the YMCA; and they will be run by members of the Student Government.

All the candidates will meet Wednesday at 7:00 p.m. in Withers Hall to get acquainted with each other and with their respective duties during the election period. All Freshmen are invited to attend in order to become familiar with the candidates seeking offices.

There are 83 Freshmen running for the various offices; 13 for the office of President, 11 for Vice-President, 4 for Secretary, 7 for Treasurer, and 48 for the five senatorial divisions. The winners will be posted Thursday night after elections on the College Union blackboard.

The votes will be counted by Student Government members. Run-offs will be announced at a later date. Also, a member of the elections committee will be stationed in the Student Government Office or the College Union during the entire balloting period between 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m., Thursday.

Clay Price, chairman of the elections committee, "strongly urges each Freshman to take part in the elections. Student government work is a very important phase of State College activity. Usually, only about 60 per cent or less take part in balloting. I would like to see more participation in order to increase more interest in campus activity, to increase the morale, and to attain a better Student Government through better representation."

Other members of the elections committee are Paul Moody, Arron Capel, and Bob Redmon. Paul is a Junior majoring in Paper Pulp and Technology, and he is a member of the Theta Chi Fraternity. Arron, a senior, is studying Textiles, and he is a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity. Bob, who is also a Theta Chi and a sophomore, is majoring in Engineering Mathematics. Chairman Price, a member of the FarmHouse fraternity, is a senior studying Field Crops.

Valiants Vie—Veep Victory

Tom Robinson

"I would like to announce my candidacy for vice-president of the Freshman class. I am Tom Robinson from Georgetown, S. C., and I am a student in Nuclear Engineering. If I am elected, I shall work for a better Freshman-Sophomore dance.

"I shall also strive for better student representation in all of the functions of the school. I think that the Freshman class should be recognized more by the faculty and the other classes.

"All the classes should work together for a better N. C. State. I believe that most of this year's freshmen would like to have an outstanding Freshman Class. I believe that with the right leadership we can have that outstanding class.

"In conclusion, I would like to say that I am fully aware of the responsibilities of this office and I am willing to accept these responsibilities."

Johnny Wilcox

Johnny Wilcox, a freshman in Electrical Engineering, has announced his candidacy for Vice-President of the freshman class.

In a statement to the Technician, Johnny said, "The thing that I am determined to do, if elected, is to work towards creating spirit and enthusiasm within our class. A good freshman dance and freshman service project would be a start towards this end. These are my plans. If elected, I shall work to the best of my ability in service to our freshmen."

-Notice-

All freshmen and graduate student candidates are entitled to two minutes free air time for campaign speeches. They will be run from 9:30 until 11:00 on Wednesday night. For other information, contact either Ed Finch or Kent Watson at the station.

Several Seek Senate Spots

Steve Daves

Steve Daves, a freshman in Mechanical Engineering, has announced his candidacy for the Student Senate. A resident of China Grove, N. C., his present address is 410-A New Dorm. He has had extensive experience in student government in high school, and is a member of The Technician staff. In an interview with The Technician, he made the following statement:

"In announcing my platform, I agree wholeheartedly with the other candidates in their advocacy of a higher status for the Freshman Class in Student Government. Another issue even more important and yet quite pertinent to this concerns the recent criticism on campus of our government. The actual 'representativeness' of our government has been questioned, and rightly so.

"I recognize this lack of representation, and I promise that if I am elected I shall act only as a representative. Half of my job will be seeking out the opinions and needs of the student body—the other half will be working diligently to effect these, and only these.

"I shall be a true representative, available to you at all times. As a staff member of The Technician, I shall combine this facility with student government office, and truly increase the volume of student voice and influence in our student government."

Roger Faulkner

Roger Faulkner, a Freshman in Nuclear Engineering, has announced his candidacy for the Freshman Senate.

In a statement to The Technician he stated, "I realize the importance of this office and I pledge to work earnestly for the good of my fellow Freshmen in Engineering and the betterment of State College if I am elected to the Senate.

"I will strive to elevate the status of the Freshmen in the student government to the greatest extent possible. I would deeply appreciate your vote, however, regardless of your decision—go out and vote for the candidate of your choice in every office, for only thus can democracy exist on the face of the earth.

Allen Kimball

Allen Kimball, a freshman in General Agriculture, has announced his candidacy for senator from the school of Agriculture.

In his statement to THE TECHNICIAN, Kimball said, "I feel that I am capable and qualified to hold the office of senator. I want all Agriculture freshmen to know that if I am elected to this office, I will serve my fellow students to the best of my ability. All votes will be appreciated, and if elected, I will uphold this office with honor."

Band Uses Mexican Theme In Duke-State Contest

The State College marching band presented a show utilizing a Mexican theme at the half-time of the Duke-State game last Saturday.

The State marching band is the largest in the State of North Carolina and features one majorette, one hundred-forty members, including thirty slide trombones, twelve sousaphones, and a drum section of more than twenty members.

At the start of the pre-game exercises, the State band entered in three long lines, stretching from side-line to side-line, playing "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

The band was led onto the field by its two snappy drum majors, its pretty majorette, and the "world's largest bass drum," which is seven feet high and is pulled on a cart by three band members wearing colorful wolf masks.

After a brief demonstration of precision marching, the State band joined the Duke band in playing the National Anthem. This was conducted by Robert A. Barnes, the Director of Music at State.

During the half-time of the game, the band gave its Mexican-type show entitled South of the Border Down Mexico Way. After entering the field the members of the State band moved into a formation that covered the entire field and played a brilliant fanfare and a march written to the strains of the melody, South of the Border.

In the next formation, they closed in to encircle the percussion section. Then they played a Cha-Cha number that featured more than twenty Latin American rhythm instruments played by the percussion section.

The band then formed a giant Mexican sombrero and played the Mexican Clapping Song, with the fans assisting in the clapping.

The climax was reached in the next formation. The band played The Mexican Hat Dance and, in unison, removed their hats, placed them on the ground in front of them, and did this intricate dance while playing its complicated music.

The half-time presentation was concluded as the State band skillfully moved into a "NCS" formation and played the State Alma Mater.

Best Candidate For Freshman Treasurer

Robin Best announces his candidacy for Treasurer of the Freshman Class:

"If a task once begun, Never leave it till it's done. Be the labor great or small, Do it well or not at all."

"Classmates, this pretty well sums up my attitude toward the job of Treasurer of the Freshman Class. I would truly like to serve you as treasurer of our class. I will do the job well. You, as freshmen this year, are the ones who will make or break State College in the next four years as you become upperclassmen. Go to the polls October 30 and vote. . . but choose your candidate wisely."

Mass Inaction

This newspaper is written for the majority of State students. We can not please everyone. We can not create mutual agreement with everything we say. We are not going to try.

In our first thirteen issues this year, we have undoubtedly offended different groups and different people . . . but this has not been the purpose of our writing. And it is unrealistic to extreme for this or any other student body to expect a newspaper to create only harmony and happiness, for this is not the purpose of a newspaper.

Some of us would like the newspaper to always "Raise Hell!" For example, they would like to be fed on a steady diet of slams against the cafeteria, the M & O, the faculty, the administration, the student government, the book stores, the campus fences, etc., etc., ad nauseam.

Or else we demand that the newspaper be "good" and "helpful" and "clean" and "crusading".

In other words, we do not want ourselves or our groups criticised . . . but tear the rest of the campus apart . . . nicely!

A good example of this situation appears every week in our "Letters" section . . . you will notice that the great majority of letter writers are crying because of some slight against themselves or their beliefs. But rarely, so rarely, do we get any letter that says anything concrete . . . that reflects any thinking . . . that is offering anything helpful or useful . . . that does anything but scream like a young child in an emotional tantrum.

We want criticism . . . if it has a point, if it directs us to do more than 'conform', if it is written for more than selfish reasons.

Are you asking that you and your newspaper do nothing but conform to the pressures present in colleges . . . or would you rather make the college yield to the force of your own personalities.

Action should be directly proportional to thought. But at State we look in vain for indications of action or thought! And our lethargy will soon make itself manifest in our impending reputation as stale, dry, boring technicians.

We all have minds. And there are more important events than the next date or sack time or eating or senseless griping . . . even at State College.

Spirit in Action

Our marching band commanded universal admiration last Saturday at the Duke-State game. The largest band in State's history, the 140 members performed in an almost professional style.

Duke's band has often been regarded as the top marching group in the Atlantic Coast Conference . . . State's performance Saturday changed all that, for those of us who saw them were very pleasantly impressed with their superiority.

Our band works hard, and their showing this year has reflected that work. A band is an important part of a school's spirit . . . we congratulate the band and its director, Robert A. Barnes, for making us so proud of their fine contributions to our spirit.

Also, we have a spirited group of freshmen this year . . . a record number have signed up for elections, forcing us to practically fill our front page with campaign material!

Freshman elections are important, for the men who win usually continue in their interest and control of the top leadership positions. We very strongly urge all freshmen to learn the identity of the many candidates, and above all encourage your classmates to vote Thursday.

Freshmen are rumored to be pushing a party system . . . might even stir up a little interest in politics.—RL

The National Interfraternity Conference will be held December 4, 5, 6, in Atlanta, Georgia. For those of you who do not know what the N.I.C. is and what it does I would like to give the "pertinent poop."

The N.I.C. is the general headquarters of all interfraternity councils in the nation. Each I.F.C. sends representative (we sent one last year; usually two are sent) to the annual meeting. At the conference, conducted by fraternity alumni, important topics and problems are discussed and each representative is given the opportunity to express the views of his individual council. Last year the main topic was autonomy. Following the main assembly the body was dispersed into smaller groups for further discussion of different topics. Luncheons and dinner banquets were held featuring noted fraternity men which last year included the Governor of Wyoming and the former Governor of Kansas.

This year the I.F.C. has voted to send two men to the Atlanta conference. At its next meeting the I.F.C. will designate these two representatives.

Work has begun on the Christmas program and again orphans and under-privileged children will be entertained.

Steps are being taken at Meredith to alleviate the situation of required chaperones at fraternity houses for the Meredith girls. Already the Student Government Association at Meredith, working with the school administration, has obtained the privilege of visiting fraternity houses without chaperones on Sunday afternoon for the girls. Until the time when chaperones are not required, all fraternities should remember that one violation will penalize all eighteen fraternities on campus.

Time is drawing nigh for the Fall Pledge Dance. I've got my cute date, have you?

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

This is our third year here at N. C. State College, and during that time we have both always been steady readers of The Technician. For the past two years the reading material has always been of the highest quality, but unfortunately we cannot say the same for this year's paper.

The article "Clean Living" by V.D.N., whoever that is, is the cheapest and lowest type of article we have seen written in The Technician.

Several weeks ago "Clean Living" insulted the foreign instructors here at State. In this past issue the author slanders student students, insults our women math instructors, and once again makes a degrading remark about foreign instructors.

We have talked this matter over with several of our classmates, and we all agree that The Technician would be a much better paper without the article "Clean Living."

John Pivin
Bob Guffey

Editor's Note:

We have, in the past, encouraged these "Letters to the Editor" in hopes of getting a cross-section of student opinion. However, we have not gotten the opinions of other than the moralists on this campus, who feel that their goodness and human dignity have been insulted by some of our columnist's writing. Further comments on this situation appear in our editorial.

Technicalities . . .

By Steve Daves

The room was filled with smoke . . . of course, that particular brand of insincerity called politics was even heavier than the smoke. Some 50 candidates for freshman student government offices, including four of the "weaker sex," had gathered for a pre-campaign briefing, but the campaign had already begun.

Unusual political maturity was evident . . . there were campaign smiles and handshakes even among the candidates themselves. The chairman emphasized an active campaign. Forty-seven candidates for Engineering Senators, seventeen for class President. There will be an active campaign.

One of the high spots of the last few weeks was the N. C. State Fair. It's quite an event for State students—a place to display educational achievements, to take a date, to visit during intoxication. It's also a wonderfully complete study in human nature . . . young men proving their virility by winning stuffed bears—vicarious and real sex for sale . . . high-pressure salesmen . . . pleading, demanding barkers . . . lost children . . . Gene Autry . . . the smells of the midway and the cattle barn . . . 586 pounds of feminine charm . . . hula-hoops . . . all the warmth and cruelties of the world combined.

Let us hope that our fair doesn't go the way of the Southern States Fair, which recently announced its termination. As conventional and institutional as it is, we need it.

The E.E. department also had a very impressive array of ultra-scientific goodies. As I approached one of their enthusiastic demonstrators, he queried, "Ever eaten at Gino's in Raleigh?" "No," I replied. The frustrated E.E. student stammered, "Well, they have candles, you know, to eat by. If one goes out, you just take this ordinary 150 watt bulb and . . ." Wherewith he pushed a figure study in glass toward a sort of Van Der Graff generator. It glowed miraculously. "So you carry this generator around, huh?" I foolishly asked. "Hell yes," said he, and he departed for a coffee break.

There were no lengthy editorials on affairs of state, no means of accelerating education, no profound discourse, etc., in other campus publications this past week. Only one bit of trivia comes to mind—in the "Reflector" of Miss. State College: ". . . rules limit the entertainment of women in men's dormitory rooms to the hours of 11:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Sundays and 11:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. Saturdays . . ." Let's hear some candidate for Student Government promise that for State dormitories!

Selecting A New Site For Student Parking

By Irving Glick

These men seem somewhat pleased with the new location for it is apparently some distance from the campus proper, together with the obvious topographical advantages. There is a wonderful potential for a whole new set of regulations. They are probably contemplating a dandy $5 fine for parking on the wrong side of the gorge.

Asher B. Durand, the artist of "Kindred Spirits," was a member of the Hudson River School of landscape painting. Durand was so intent on having an intimate contact with nature and the scenes he painted that he refused to work in the studio from field notes. Instead he painted exclusively out-of-doors. History unfortunately leaves us no record of his winters . . . or the number of descendants.

Blue Devils Use Fumble To Defeat Wolfpack By 20-13

It was another one of those days Saturday, as the Wolfpack was edged by the Duke Blue Devils by a score of 20-13. Leading all the way and going into the final period with the score 7-6 in the Wolfpack's favor, the State squad found it hard to hold onto their lead.

Scoring first and holding the lead into the final period, the Wolfpack weakened and saw their lead turned into a one touchdown defeat. As so many times in the past, fumbles played a major role in the loss.

After the game, guard Joe Rodri seemed to voice the opinion of the State squad in saying, "We have the worst luck of any team I ever saw. One or two breaks going our way and we could be undefeated." Captain Bill Rearick said about the same. . . . "We must be snake-bit. We just can't have any luck going our way. One or two little things every game seem to beat us."

The Wolfpack, going into the game as underdogs, scored early in the second period after a 70 yard march, and took a 7-0 lead when fullback Arnold Nelson plunged over from one yard out. Just before the half, Duke's halfback Bunny Bell took a State punt on his own 35 and raced the 65 yards for a Blue Devil score.

The halftime score stood 7-6 in favor of the Wolfpack. A Duke kick led to the Wolfpack's defeat early in the fourth quarter, when Trowbridge fumbled the fair-catch on his own 10. From here the Blue Devils added 8 points to make it 14-7.

Midway of the final period, State came roaring back on a 53 yard pass play from Trowbridge to end Bob Pepe. Failing to make good the conversion, the score remained 14-13. After Duke added the clincher in the final period to make the score 20-13, the Wolfpack was unable to threaten the Devils again.

Notes From The Pack

When it rains, it pours. The football squad has been snake-bit this year with personnel losses. Here's a rundown, all of whom have been lost for the season.

1. Francis Palandrani, first team tackle, scholastic difficulty.
2. Joe Mazutis, second team end, scholastic difficulty.
3. Paul Balonick, first team center, broken ankle.
4. Ernie Driscoll, first team quarterback, eligibility ruling.
5. Jim D'Antoni, second team halfback, broken ankle.
6. Whitey Bell, second team quarterback, dropped off squad.
7. Johnny Johnson, 3rd team end, leg injury.

The Wolfpack is tough on its opponents when it comes to kickoff returns. Four teams have managed only 170 yards on 14 returns, an average of only 12.1 yards per runback.

So who says college football players are all brawn and no brains?

How would you like to be a college football player and remember numerous plays (and your assignment on each play) like this one: left wing, shift right, 133 special, on three. Or perhaps a pass play like this one: right wing, shift left, back lateral pass, right end hook, right halfback flare, on two.

Too, there are just as many defensive assignments to learn as offensive assignments. At State, offensive linemen have four different types of blocking assignments—sweep, dive, trap and wedge.

Sounds difficult, huh?

ATHLETE OF WEEK

Bob Pepe . . . 6-2, 208 pounds, a senior, of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Receiving praise from Coach Edwards for his outstanding play in Saturday's game with the Duke Blue Devils, Bob was a stand-out both on offense and defense.

Recovering a fumble by Duke's George Dutrow to break up a Blue Devil threat, Pepe saved State's 7-6 lead in the first half. In the final period, with the score 14-7 in favor of Duke, Pepe went over for a State tally to put it 14-13.

Taking the pass from Ken Trowbridge on the Duke 20, Pepe made a brilliant running catch and raced the 20 yards into the end zone for the Wolfpack score. The play went for 53 yards, as one of the longest of the day.

In high school Bob Pepe earned nine letters in three sports and was named All-WPIAL fullback in football. A senior in Industrial Arts, Bob is an All-Conference candidate.

The problem was not that Marty had fallen in love with a shirt. After all, he was a Philosophy major.

The trouble was . . . Marty was in love with two shirts.

With Shirt No. 1, the Van Heusen Century, the serious Marty spent hours in heavenly bliss. He worshipped the revolutionary soft collar that won't wrinkle ever. It was Century's one-piece construction that drove him wild. (Other collars never did anything for our boy Marty, except wrinkle madly. You see, other collars are three pieces, folded or sewn together.)

With Shirt No. 2, the amazing Van Heusen "Vantage," the gay, frivolous Marty lived the life of carefree abandon. He could wear it and wear it—wash it—drip-dry it, or have it tumble-dried automatically—and wear it again in a matter of hours. It was the most money-saving love he ever had.

But when Marty was with one shirt, he missed the other. It was terrible. Like so many others with the same problem, Marty wrote to us. And so it came to pass that the Van Heusen "Century-Vantage" was born. This shirt combined the advantages of each into one great shirt—a wash and wear, no-iron, all cotton broadcloth shirt with the soft collar that won't wrinkle ever! And just $5! Have you a problem? College Union Slates Activities

N. C. State Student Affairs Bulletin

DORMITORY OCCUPANTS — Chancellor Bostian made an appeal in a Special Blue Bulletin on Oct. 21 to all members of the College family to conserve electricity. He points out that our entire electrical system failed July 21 when struck by lightning. The College is operating on a temporary system while major repairs are being made. Another power failure could easily occur by overloading of system in use at present time. Dormitory rules prohibit light bulbs larger than 100 watts. Each occupant is requested to turn off lights, radio, etc., in his room when not needed.

program and was asked for my college union membership, who knows what that looks like. It seems that the ID card represents more than one purpose. It is the college union membership for the student, and many other yet unknown memberships as far as I know.

Perhaps someday they will let the students know all the functions of the card. Confusion seems to be the main function, you must keep the pink card for an athletic card and also the ID card so that other people will know who you are. But I know that I am myself!

Another thought concerning the college union membership. The membership entitles the student to bring his immediate family or one guest of the opposite sex. The college union building and all its facilities are for the use of members.

The Duke Ambassadors will play at the international ball to be held in the college union ballroom on Saturday, October 25 from 8:30-11:30 p.m. The dance will be semi-formal and those without dates are invited also. Girls from a near-by girls school will be attending.

Sign up for the table tennis tournament at the college union games desk. Play offs for the tournament begin on November 4.

On the evening of HALLOWEEN, October 31, the Sadie Hawkins dance will be held. This dance is a yearly affair. The dress for the dance will be Dog-patch style and begins at 8:00 p.m.

So that the students of State College may have an opportunity to learn a foreign language, the International Committee of the College Union is sponsoring language classes each Wednesday night from 8-9 p.m. These classes are being taught for conversational practice and are free to anyone interested.

Languages being taught are French, German, Spanish, and Greek. All students and college union members interested in a language are invited to join one of the classes by signing up at the college union main desk.

Engineers Receive New Benefits

Mr. R. S. Walsh, Jr., Personnel Officer for the South Atlantic Division, Corps of Engineers, has announced that recent changes in law will make employment with the Corps of Engineers more attractive to engineering graduates. These changes will permit hiring young engineers who graduate with an average of "B" or better, or who are among the top 25% of their class, at the advanced grade and salary of GS-7, $5,435 per year. The grade and salary to be offered those not meeting this criteria is GS-5, $4,490 per year.

salary for students with higher grades, the Corps will be permitted to defray the cost of transportation for engineer employees and their family to their first duty station, and to reimburse the employees for shipment of household goods.

Mr. Walsh pointed out that over 100 young engineers have been promoted out of the Corps' rotational training program since 1955 into professional engineering positions located in Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, the Carolinas, and Tennessee. Many of these men are graduates of North Carolina State College.
