Dr. Carey H. Bostian

Peterson Named Grad School Dean

Dr. Walter J. Peterson, head of the Chemistry Department, has been appointed Dean of the Graduate School here at State. His appointment, effective January 1, 1959, has been approved by the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees of the Consolidated University of North Carolina and University President William C. Friday.

Dr. Peterson is now on leave of absence from his State duties while he serves with the National Science Foundation in Washington, D. C., as Director of Programs in Science Education.

He joined the State College staff in 1942 as professor and head of the nutrition section of the Department of Animal Industry. In 1949 he became head of the chemistry department. From Sept. 1, 1956, until Sept. 1, 1957, he was acting dean of the graduate school. Dr. Peterson succeeds Dr. Donald B. Anderson, now Provost for the Consolidated University of North Carolina.

In 1954 he was named as a "William Neal Reynolds Professor of Agriculture," the highest honor open to faculty members in the college's School of Agriculture. In 1955 he was presented a Centennial Award in recognition of his professional achievements during the science and Arts Symposium at Michigan State College.

Active in campus activities,

Dr. Peterson is past chairman of the faculty and past president of the college chapters of Sigma Xi and Phi Kappa Phi. He has served as chairman of college committees on Educational Policy, Safety and Health for the Nuclear Reactor and Radioisotopes, the appraisal of the Ph.D. program in the Animal Industry Department, and the School of Agriculture curriculum committee.

He is a member of the North Carolina Academy of Science, American Association for the Advancement of Science and the American Chemical Society. He is listed in "American Men of Science," "Who's Who in Chemistry," "Who's Who in the South," and "Who's Who Among Young Men of America."

A native of Michigan, Dr. Peterson received his Bachelor and Master of Science degrees from Michigan State University. His doctor's degree in organic chemistry was granted by the University of Iowa in 1935.

During 1930 and 1931 he was a chemist with the DuPont Celophane Company. From 1935 until he came to State College in 1942 he was an assistant professor of chemistry at Kansas State College.

Dr. Peterson has made significant contributions in the field of chemistry as related to nutrition and is the author of more than sixty scientific publications.

Professor Joe Cox Exhibits Paintings In College Union

A "One Man Show" of paintings by Prof. Joseph H. Cox of the School of Design at State opened in the College Union Gallery Friday with ceremonies starting at 8 p.m.

A number of abstract paintings are being exhibited by Cox, an associate professor of design who teaches painting, drawing, and design in the School of Design. All are contemporary in nature. Their themes are based on observations of various subjects.

The exhibit will be in the College Union through Tuesday, December 2.

The College Union "One Man Show" is the first of its type in Raleigh for Cox, who joined the State faculty in 1954 although he has had one man shows in other localities.

His paintings have been displayed in several exhibits on the campus and in the Raleigh area.

He received his Bachelor of Science degree from John Heron Art School in Indianapolis and his Master of Science degree from the University of Iowa where he taught from 1941 to 1948 except for a three-year stay in the armed services. In 1948 he began teaching at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville where he remained until 1954 when he came to Raleigh.

Cox's paintings have been exhibited in many national and regional area shows. He had painted murals in Tennessee, Virginia, South Carolina, and North Carolina and has made mosaic murals his specialty.

In 1956, he won the "Painting of the Year" award in an 11-state art show in Atlanta. The following year, he took first prize in the Atlanta Art Association Show and the Purchase Award in the Norfolk, Va., Museum Art Show.

His paintings have been purchased for public art collections including ones in Atlanta and Norfolk and several private collections.

Cox and his wife Betsy, live on Walnut Trail in Raleigh.

CU Hobbyists Make Xmas Cards

The C. U. Hobby Committee cordially invites all College Union members to visit the Craft Shop Thursday, November 13, 1958, to plan, design and begin making their own Christmas cards.

Instructors will be on hand to assist in making Christmas cards by using silk screen, cut linoleum blocks, wood blocks, stencils, spatter work and other materials.

The only cost will be a small charge to each person for the materials he uses.

Almost two weeks ago, Dr. Carey H. Bostian, Chancellor of North Carolina State College, advised me that, after much thought and careful consideration and subject to the approval of the President's Office and the Board of Trustees, he had decided to return to teaching and to his professorship in Genetics on the faculty of State College, effective July 1, 1959. After serious consideration, I recommended to the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees that they approve Chancellor Bostian's decision; and their approval was given. Dr. Bostian took this action now in order to provide sufficient time to find his successor before the next academic year begins.

More than 5 years ago, Dr. Bostian interrupted his distinguished career in teaching and research to become Chancellor of State College. His deep concern for the welfare of this institution and for its success in the state-supported system of higher education in our state caused him to accept the invitation extended him by President Gordon Gray and the Board of Trustees to serve as Chancellor of the College.

We are most grateful to Dr.

Bostian for all that he has done during these years as a member of the administrative team of the Consolidated University. High professional and personal standards have been reflected in all of his actions during these five years of growth and development at State College. We deeply regret the loss of his contribution to administrative work, but we shall welcome him most heartily in his return to his professorship where he will continue to make a significant contribution to State College.

William Friday
November 6, 1958

Dr. Carey H. Bostian, whose plans to relinquish the duties as Chancellor of State College next July 1 were announced last Thursday, has headed the institution during one of its greatest periods of growth.

President William Friday of the University of North Carolina, in reporting Dr. Bostian's desire to step down from his present post, told the executive committee of the Board of Trustees that Dr. Bostian wishes to return to his "first love"—full-time teaching duties in State's Department of Genetics.

When Dr. Bostian rounds out his service as chancellor next July, he will have been the college's chief administrative officer for five years and 10 months. He assumed the responsibilities as chancellor September 1, 1953.

During the period since that date, State College's enrollment has increased from 4,055 to the current figure of 5,685. Corresponding evidences of progress have been noted in all other phases of the institution's life.

The State College Chancellor was born in China Grove, Rowan County, on March 1, 1907, the oldest of six children. His father at that time was a mechanic in a cotton mill, but later became a rural mail carrier.

In 1924, Dr. Bostian was a member of what must be one of the most unusual high school graduating classes in the State's history. That year, Salisbury High graduates—to list a few members—Henry Brandis, dean of the University of North Carolina Law School; Katherine Taylor, dean of student affairs at Woman's College; W. C. Archie, dean of the faculty at Wake Forest College and J. A. Branch, newly elected business manager of the University at Chapel Hill.

For one year after he was graduated from high school, Dr. Bostian attended Heidelberg College in Tiffin, Ohio. Then he returned to Catawba College, where he obtained a B.A. degree and also a wife—the former (See DR. BOSTIAN, Page 4)

PLEDGE FORMAL DANCE SPONSORS AT NORTH CAROLINA STATE COLLEGE—The Glenn Miller Orchestra conducted by Ray McKinley played for the State Interfraternity Council "Pledge Formal" Dance Saturday. The dance was in honor of the fall pledge class. Sponsors for the dance (left to right) were: Miss Carolyn Pegg of Winston-Salem with Larry L. Carter of Winston-Salem, IFC president; Miss Peggy Dunn of Winston-Salem with Bob Davis of Salisbury, IFC secretary; Miss Martha Bailey of Suffolk, Va., with Gary Schultz of Dayton, Ohio, IFC treasurer; Miss Wilma Tulman of Washington, D. C., with Lenny Lavitt of Hickory, publicity chairman. (Bottom row): Miss Lynn Dare Carroll of Winston-Salem with Frank Davis of Winston-Salem, social committee; Miss Shiria Griffin of Williamston with Earl Davis of Goldsboro, social committee; and Miss Pat Clarke of Greensboro with Jerry Austin of Greensboro, social committee.

Our Thanks For A Splendid Job

Late last Thursday afternoon, all State College was surprised and sorrowed by the announcement that Dr. Carey H. Bostian, our Chancellor for the past five years, is planning to resign his post.

Especially do we, the students of State, have cause to regret the Chancellor's resignation. Dr. Bostian exemplified that brand of college administrator who believes in "The college for the students... not the students for the college." During his term of office, Dr. Bostian has made decisions which in the end would best serve the students rather than minority special-interest groups.

The record speaks for itself. Under the direction of Chancellor Bostian, the college has completed a multi-million dollar expansion program, is currently conducting an extensive building program, built its income from the foundations to more than a half million dollars annually, has expanded its scholarship and student loan funds, streamlined and broadened its student activities, added to its research work, and revamped its curricula to meet space-age demands.

In student affairs, a new constitution providing self-government for the students was ratified and twelve areas of activities involving student welfare were coordinated. Dr. William C. Friday, President of the Consolidated University, has remarked that Chancellor Bostian's encouragement of students to develop to their full maturity has been one of the most significant advancements in the life of State College in many years. Dr. Bostian's record certainly substantiates President Friday's claim.

Dr. Bostian is popular both with the faculty and students of this campus. Before he was elected Chancellor, he was on nearly every one of the important faculty committees. The students chose him for the Blue Key award in 1947, dedicated the annual (The Agromeck) to him the same year, elected him to membership in Alpha Zeta, awarded him the Ag Club Key in 1953, and gave him a "superior rating as a teacher."

In his installation address as Chancellor in 1954, Dr. Bostian said, in part: "Everything we seek to do has a direct bearing on the economic development of our state and the prosperity of our people. While every institution of higher learning makes direct or indirect contributions to the progress of a community and region, State College has unique responsibilities and opportunities not held by any other college in our state." His belief in the "unique" role of State has been reflected always in his very fine leadership to make our high role known throughout the state and country.

We are looking forward to the continued leadership of Dr. Carey H. Bostian... whether in the position of Chancellor or as a professor, we can all be certain his contributions will be of great worth to our college.

Technicalities

By Steve Daves

Once upon a time, there was an engineering school called Cow Tech. It was near the capital city of a southern state, but the people of the city didn't fully appreciate it. Many of the people of the state didn't appreciate it either. They called it derogatory names and insulted it incessantly... so did the surrounding "educational" institutions. They did this, they said, because the students at Cow Tech were narrow.

They called the students "plov jocks" and said that their education was purely technical, void of lessons in living. They said that the Tech boys lacked fineness in their drinking... that they lacked minimum social graces... their parties were wild... they didn't wear coats and ties to class.

They said that they drove their cars recklessly, and disturbed the peace, requiring a larger police force. They said that these students placed too much emphasis on academics and they called them warped individuals... they said there was no common spirit or unity among the students. Some of them even said that Cow Tech was a blot on the record of the state's educational system, and that something should be done.

So the Governor of the state, who didn't particularly like Cow Tech anyway, abolished it. The students and professors left. Gone were the muddy boots and the unkempt clothes. The campus of Cow Tech was deserted. Also deserted were parts of the nearby city. The restaurants closed, one by one. The theaters and clothing dealers and service stations closed. And the people of the city wondered why the business was bad...

For a while, these effects weren't felt anywhere else. Rural universities rejoiced. But people who wanted a technical education left the state. They didn't come back. New industries didn't build any more plants in the state. Many old industries moved out. They felt that there was a serious deficiency in a state that didn't have a college of engineering and agriculture.

And the critics and the liberal arts men who abolished Cow Tech said... "Something is lacking." This time they were right.

No thanks... I've had enough

I think it's time for her to go tidy up a bit... not that she particularly needs it... it's just that I would hate to see her lose her sobriety.

Ed James of London talked Salvador Dali out of this pen and ink drawing in 1936. It's called "City of Drawers," but it might well have been called "I dreamt I went to the carpen-ter's shop for my Maiden Form bra."

Somebody has very aptly described Dali and the surrealist school as "meticulously illustrated, improbably marvelous or frightening visions in hand-painted dream photographs."

P.S.: I would like to take time to express my thanks to the Lesser Antille who makes fight on the Philistines possible.

Greeks On Campus

By Bill Marley

The "big" weekend has come and gone. The Glenn Miller band, under the direction of Ray McKinley, furnished some of the most danceable music ever heard on this campus. Although the "Martians" or "Moonmen" bordering the Coliseum didn't last long, while they did they really lent an unusual atmosphere to the site of many basketball games and hockey matches. The concert was very well attended and a full two hours of fine music and entertainment was thoroughly enjoyed.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

The action of the Student Government during its October 30 meeting was viewed with much concern by this lowly freshman. It seems to me that such rash and unreasonable moves on the part of the representative body of the students could lead to a permanent loss of real power and respect for that organization.

State College has long been noted for its high quality Student Government. In the past, the group has served the students well, and has truly earned all of the respect that it has received. The body has been wise in the exercise of its powers, and its actions have been wholly sincere. The continued worthy representation has caused the faculty to consider the resolutions of the SG as deserving of recognition, and therefore, it has acted repeatedly in favor of the SG's recommendations.

Under the proposed cut system, the absolute non-uniformity resulting would be disastrous. It is foolish to assume that this action would ever be passed by the Faculty Senate. It is, therefore, just as foolish for the SG to propose this system, when it is certainly possible to work out a more applicable one.

Can we expect the Faculty Senate to continue to act in favor of our Student Government? The some decadent attitude was displayed by the SG in its handling of the diploma matter. If the Government continues to act with such unreasonableness, we may find that the faculty will think of the SG as an immature function, entirely incapable of carrying out the governing duties assigned to it. The Senate may then fail to recognize the worthy actions of the SG. It is imperative that the Student Government recognize the duties and responsibilities placed before it, and handle these responsibilities with acuteness.

We are very fortunate at this time to have a student organization which is a powerful mechanism in the structure of the college. Let's keep it that way.

The Jazz Concert out at the "Cow Palace" really finished up a fine weekend for many of you Greeks... even though a couple of "cool" Duke men(?) sat behind me during the Brubeck portion of the jazz concert and repeatedly roared "fool, man, fool!" in my ear, along with kicking me in the back (in rhythm, of course), making themselves completely obnoxious. It is unfortunate that some people do not go to a program to be entertained, but rather to entertain others... and fail miserably.

At last week's IFC meeting, Bill Sharpe brought up suggested dates for the Orphans' Christmas Party and the Greek Week Banquet. The council selected Wednesday, December 10, for the orphans' party and Friday, April 24, for the Greek Week Banquet.

Following nominations by the IFC executive committee, Gary Schultzy, Kappa Alpha, and Bob Davis, Pi Kappa Alpha, were selected to represent N. C. State's IFC at the National Interfraternity Conference. President Carter reported on traveling rates from Raleigh to Atlanta and a motion was made and passed to pay for flying the two delegates to the N.I.C. and back to Raleigh.

Assistant Director of Student Activities Bower's letter to the IFC concerning hazing was read at the meeting and revealed one fact I wasn't aware of... that hazing is against the law in the state of North Carolina. A very good point for thought when initiation of our present pledges comes up next.

Well, the fun is over... classes continue as if nothing had ever happened... and it's back to the books for me (weeping heard in the background).

Wolfpack Overcome By Southern Team 26 - 14

The nation's top ranking small college team claimed its seventh straight victory against no losses Saturday when Mississippi Southern defeated the State College Wolfpack by 26-14. It brought the Wolfpack season record to 2-5-1.

Starting out with the appearance of a defensive game, the final outcome showed that both teams had the ability to move the ball. Failing to advance with its first possession of the ball, both teams finally settled down into the offensive battle which resulted.

Southern drew first blood on a 68 yard run by their speedy fullback Buddy Supple to make the score 7-0. Coming back quickly, the State squad marched 69 yards in nine plays to tie the score late in the first period.

Quarterback Frank Cackovic passed to end Bob Pepe for the last nine yards in the State score. With their next possession of the ball, the Southern team moved 62 yards for another tally. Southern's quarterback, Sekul, dashed over for the last seven yards. Just before the half the Wolfpack moved to the Southern 15, only to stall there. With the half, the score remained 13-7.

After the half, Southern kicked off to the State squad. A fumble on the State 25 by Ken Trowbridge was pounced upon by the fast charging Southern team, and minutes later the Southerners crossed the goal for another tally. This score came on a 29 yard pass into the end zone.

In the final period, with the score 20-7, State drove 75 yards in 15 plays to their second and final score. On fourth down Mancini dropped back from the 12 yard line and tossed to Pepe who again pulled it in and added another tally for the Wolfpack.

After the next kick the State squad was charged with an interference penalty which resulted in a 40 yard setback, and paved the way for another Southern score. Four plays later the Southern line opened a hole in the front wall and Lance raced for 11 yards and the score. With 8 minutes and 20 seconds remaining, the score stood at 26-14.

Late in the final period the Southerners made it to the State 10 on a 45 yard pass play, but the State defenses rose to stop them there.

Saturday's loss brings the Wolfpack season record to 2-5-1 with two remaining games. Next week the Wolfpack returns home to take on the Clemson Tigers in Riddick Stadium.

Notes From The Wolfpack

Kenny Trowbridge has carried the ball 67 times this season and has a 4.8 average to show for his efforts. In addition, the versatile halfback has punted 26 times for a 38.3 average, has returned four punts for a 20.2 average, has hauled back eight kickoffs for an 18.6 average, has scored two touchdowns and passed for one, and has caught three passes.

The Jack-of-all-trades has been about the busiest man in the Wolfpack camp.

After seven games, State has racked up 96 first downs while its opponents have 97.

The Wolfpack continues to be tough on kickoff returns. Seven foes have hauled back 21 for 279 yards, an average of 13 yards on the runbacks.

State's 12 touchdowns prior to the Mississippi Southern game, have been scored by eight players. Trowbridge, Ron Podwika, Randy Harrell and Arnold Nelson have tallied two each, while Bob Pepe, Claude Gibson, Frank Cackovic and George Vollmar have one each.

Coach Earle Edwards has hung an appropriate title on his most outstanding football players. He refers to halfback Ken Trowbridge and Bob Pepe, and guards Bill Rearick and Joe Rodri as "The Big Four."

"Despite our none-too-successful season," Edwards said, "those four have proved that they rate with the best players in college football. They have done a tremendous job for us."

North Carolina State's freshmen were well-scouted in a 26-18 win over the Wake Forest frosh two weeks ago. On hand for the game were coach Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech and Coach Frank Moseley of Virginia Tech.

Said, backfield coach Lewis Woodruff of Georgia Tech, "I hope coach Dodd has seen enough of this Gabriel boy so he won't schedule State for the next three years."

Gabriel passed for three touchdowns against the Baby Deacons.

Collice Moore, a promising sophomore guard from Littleton, became the 12th casualty of the season in practice last week. In a limbering up drill, he ran out for a pass and broke the small bone in his leg when he turned to catch the ball.

"It's getting so I expect someone to fall off the bench and break his neck," Coach Edwards remarked. "In all my years of football I have never seen so many injuries to one team."

The Wolfpack has been tough on stopping kickoff returns. Six opponents have managed a total of only 261 yards in 18 tries, a 14.5 average.

State Frosh Lose To Carolina 24-19 In Final Game of Season

In Saturday's Sudan Temple Bowl Game between the Wolflets of N. C. State and the Tarbabies of Carolina, halfback Al Taylor stole the show from highly rated Roman Gabriel of State and Ray Farris of Carolina. The 180 pound halfback of Henderson turned in quite a day's work as he accounted for over half the Wolflets' ground yardage in the 24-19 loss to Carolina.

Right-halfback on the first unit, Taylor stood in as quarterback with the second team. On a 67 yard drive late in the first period, Taylor piloted the second team to a touchdown and drove over from the one yard stripe to score.

The two highly touted quarterbacks, Gabriel and Farris, who everyone seemed to be watching for a display of brilliant performances, turned in just average days. Farris, an All-America high school choice from Myers Park in Charlotte, directed all three Carolina tallies. His aerial performance showed five completions in 14 tries for 77 yards.

Gabriel finished the game with 10 completions in 21 tries, a fair day for him. His defensive play proved to be more impressive than his usual brilliant offense, as he made a majority of the key tackles.

With Saturday's game the Wolflets closed their 1958 season with a record of 2 wins and 3 losses. During the season the State frosh have claimed wins over South Carolina and Wake Forest; both of these games were played in Raleigh.

Saturday's game turned into an offensive spectacle, with the Tarbabies coming from behind a 13 point deficit to claim the win. In the end it was by 5 points that the Carolina frosh took it, a margin gained by the three two-point conversions. Never were the Tarbabies able to relax, as the State squad tallied once in the final minutes and drove within scoring distance with just seconds left.

Both teams moved the ball well and statistics show that it was practically even all around. Carolina collected 313 yards running and passing while State had 311. Carolina claimed a one yard edge in each department.

Taylor scored twice for the Wolflets and Gabriel added one. With just seconds left in the game, the State frosh drove within scoring distance again, but a fourth down pass with 20 seconds remaining fell incomplete, as Hunter just did get his fingertips on the ball in the end-zone.

Neita Corriher, a Rowan girl and Catawba graduate. He and his wife celebrated their 29th wedding anniversary last June 5.

In 1930, he won his master's and in 1933 his Ph.D. degree from the University of Pittsburgh. One of those little incidents on which life sometimes seems to turn occurred in the summer of 1930, when Dr. Bostian was studying at the University of Chicago.

One of the Chicago professors got a query from North Carolina State College about an applicant for a teaching job, and the professor had to say that man was not qualified for the job he sought. There was a graduate student under him—Carey H. Bostian, who was qualified, the professor telegraphed N. C. State. A week later, Bostian had agreed to teach as an assistant professor in zoology in State College.

By 1946, he was a full professor and also assistant director of instruction in the School of Agriculture. Two years later, he was named associate dean of the School of Agriculture and in 1950 he became director of instruction in that school. He was serving in the latter position when he was tapped for the top job.

Dr. Bostian maintains active membership in a number of learned and professional societies including: Sigma Xi, the Poultry Science Association,

Order of DeMolay Extends Membership

The State College chapter of the order of DeMolay met last Tuesday night for reorganization and election of officers for the coming year. Serving as Master Councilor is Murray Rudisill who was elected to head the chapter for a second term.

Other officers who were elected were Bill Marko, Senior Councilor, and Roy Hutchins, Junior Councilor. Ed Clayton was appointed to serve as Scribe and Treasurer.

These officers reminded all

Genetics Society of America, American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Association of University Professors, and the North Carolina Academy of Science.

He is listed in Who's Who in America and American Men of Science.

In his installation address as chancellor of State College in 1954, Dr. Bostian said, in part:

"Everything we seek to do has a direct bearing on the economic development of our state and the prosperity of our people. While every institution of higher learning makes direct or indirect contributions to the progress of a community and region, State College has unique responsibilities and opportunities not held by any other college in our state."

Demolays that only two hours a month are required to attend all meetings which have been given a one hour limit.

Plans for a party to be held next month were discussed and a Bible given to the chapter by its sponsoring Masonic Lodge was on display. The charter which had been recently received was presented and it will be framed and present at all meetings.

The chapter has also decided to open its membership to boys in Raleigh other than just State College students as in the past.

All Demolays in this area, particularly State College Students, are reminded of the change in meeting nights to second and fourth Tuesdays—not Thursdays as stated on the College Union calendar. These meetings are held at 108 Polk Hall at 7 p.m.

ANYONE FOR FOOTBALL?

When Pancho Sigafos, sophomore, pale and sensitive, first saw Willa Ludovic, freshman, lithe as a hazel wand and rosy as the dawn, he hemmed not; neither did he haw. "I adore you," he said without preliminary.

"Thanks, hey," said Willa, flinging her apron over her face modestly. "What position do you play?"

"Position?" said Pancho, looking at her askance. (The askance is a ligament just behind the ear.)

"On the football team," said Willa.

"Football!" sneered Pancho, his young lip curling. "Football is violence, and violence is the death of the mind. I am not a football player. I am a poet!"

"So long, buster," said Willa.

"Wait!" cried Pancho, clutching her damask forearm.

She placed a foot on his pelvis and wrenched herself free. "I only go with football players," she said, and walked, shimmering, into the gathering dusk.

Pancho went to his room and lit a cigarette and pondered his dread dilemma. What kind of cigarette did Pancho light? Why, Philip Morris, of corris!

Philip Morris is always welcome, but never more than when you are sore beset. When a fellow needs a friend, when the heart is dull and the blood runs like sorghum, then, then above all, is the time for the mildness, the serenity, that only Philip Morris can supply.

Pancho Sigafos, his broken psyche welded, his fevered brow cooled, his synapses restored, after smoking a fine Philip Morris, came to a decision. Though he was a bit small for football (an even four feet) and somewhat overweight (427 pounds), he tried out for the team—and tried out with such grit and gumption that he made it.

Pancho's college opened the season against the Manhattan School of Mines, always a mettlesome foe, but strengthened this year by four exchange students from Gibraltar who had been suckled by she-apes. By the middle of the second quarter the Miners had wrought such havoc upon Pancho's team that there was nobody left on the bench but Pancho. And when the quarterback was sent to the infirmary with his head driven straight down into his esophagus, the coach had no choice but to put Pancho in.

Pancho's teammates were not conspicuously cheered as the little fellow took his place in the huddle.

"Gentleman," said Pancho, "some of you may regard poetry as sissy stuff, but now in our most trying hour, let us hark to these words from Paradise Lost: 'All is not lost; the unconquerable will and study of revenge, immortal hate, and courage never to submit or yield!'"

So stirred was Pancho's team by this fiery exhortation that they threw themselves into the fray with utter abandon. As a consequence, the entire squad was hospitalized before the half. The college was forced to drop football. Willa Ludovic, not having any football players to choose from, took up with Pancho and soon discovered the beauty of his soul. Today they are seen everywhere—dancing, holding hands, nuzzling, smoking.

Smoking what? Philip Morris, of corris!

SG Called A Special Meeting November 6

Vice-President, Eddie Knox, called to order a special meeting of the Student Government Legislature on November 6. President Hunt then spoke to the SG body, bringing up two points: that Chancellor Carey Bostian had submitted his resignation, and that the $1,000.00, which the SG sends to the National Student Association, might not be worth the return received from it. Hunt mentioned that the Chancellor will return to his chosen field of genetics. Later, he announced his appointment of Roger Mozingo as National Student Association Co-ordinator. A motion to accept this appointment was then passed.

Committee reports followed Hunt's talk. Senator Capel amended the standing rule established in Resolution 9-3 of February 13, 1958, which appropriated funds for one page in the Agromeck for Golden Chain, Blue Key, and Thirty and Three. The Budgetary and Finance Committee later passed a motion giving $280 to Golden Chain. This appropriation was preceded by a recommendation from Senator Kitrell that $340.00 be given to Golden Chain.

The Academic Affairs committee will investigate night tests and the possibility of awarding degrees in Liberal Arts at N. C. State College.
