Fountain Drops from School

Carlton Elected SG Secretary

by Mike Lea

At the regular Thursday meeting of the Student Government, Phil Carlton, a junior in Agricultural Economics, was elected Secretary to replace Ray Fountain who is dropping out of school.

After vice-president Eddie Knox called the meeting to order, the roll was called and there were no senators absent. The senators who were elected in the recent election were then sworn into office.

Then came the announcement by Knox that a new secretary would have to be elected to replace the retiring secretary. After Carlton was elected unanimously by the body, he was sworn into office.

At that time, Jim Hunt was recognized by the vice-president. President Hunt began his speech before the assembly by welcoming the new freshmen senators. Hunt then said that in losing Chancellor Bostian, we are losing a leader unparalleled in any college of his knowledge.

Hunt then gave a resume of last year's work accomplished by the Student Government. He pointed out that the old Constitution had been completely revised, an excellent freshmen orientation program had been set up, and more money had been given to THE TECHNICIAN and the Interdormitory Council (These appropriations have not as yet been approved).

Hunt further stated that the Student Government had backed the new cut system and had carried out a highly successful freshmen election.

Then Hunt appointed a Committee to investigate the Student Activities fee and asked the council to also look into the possibility of appropriating more money to the band.

Hunt then commended the Student Government Traffic Committee on their fine work and stated that we must impose restrictions on ourselves to insure the continuance of cars for all classes here at State.

Hunt then asked the Student Government to pass a resolution concerning the State's paying one-half of all the cost of any new dormitories constructed at the State-supported colleges.

He also stated that the subjects of having night quizzes and the awarding of Liberal Arts degrees here at State should be investigated.

Hunt announced that he would soon appoint a committee to coordinate efforts of various organizations who have special speakers at their meetings. Then Hunt stated that the Student Government should take the lead in promoting good sportsmanship at State, since there was criticism of our sportsmanship last year.

Hunt concluded by impressing upon the new senators their functions and responsibilities.

The committee reports were then given. Treasurer Larry Baxter gave the report of the Budgetary and Finance Committee. He announced that there is $1633.97 in the Student Activities Fund and $322.05 in the Student Government Fund. Motions for appropriation of $105.38 to Blue Key, $165.85 to the Graduate Student Association, $450 to the Men's Glee Club, and $450 to the Drum and Bugle Corps were passed.

Senator Carlton of the Welfare Committee introduced a resolution pertaining to the lowering of dormitory rates. This resolution passed.

Senator Burgess then introduced a resolution pertaining to amending the faculty senate resolution of the new cut system.

After Senator Capel had amended this motion, Senator Thomas offered a substitute motion which passed. The resolution asked for the deletion of the phrase in the Faculty Senate resolution which said, "Such action may include dismissal from the college." Hunt then appointed Senator Jordan to replace Carlton as the chairman of the Campus Welfare Committee. Next, Senator Gilmore read a list of the State delegation to the State Student Legislature and moved that $37.00 be appropriated to the delegation to take care of necessary expenses. The appointments were approved and the motion was passed.

CU Brings Jazz '59

A unique twelve-star survey of jazz—traditional, experimental and folk, modern, blues, and progressive—will appear in concert on November 21 at the Reynolds Coliseum under the auspices of the College Union Music Committee.

"Jazz '59" is a new show touring the East, the Midwest, and the South for the first time. With a program and without a talk, it is exciting and important music as presented by: the Marian McPartland Trio, with matchless Marian at the piano; Teddy Charles, far out and familiar at the vibraphone; the Gil Melle Quartet, with Melle on the baritone saxophone and the inimitable Joe Cinderella on guitar; Zoot Sims, an all-time master of both the alto and tenor saxophones; Mose Allison, with blues and new blues, in vocal, piano and trumpet; Sam Most, the woodwind virtuoso; and Barbara Lea, warm and well-known vocalist.

The concert begins at 8 p.m.

-NOTICE-

In the Friday meeting of the Junior class, the contract for all class rings was awarded to the L. G. Balfour Company by an overwhelming vote of the members present.

Lee H. Blackwell, the North Carolina representative of the Balfour Company, was contacted Friday and he will be here at State from Tuesday until Saturday, November 18 through November 22, to take orders from the students for rings. Blackwell will take the orders in the College Union each of these days from 9 a.m. until 12 noon and from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m.

Bishop's Company Presents 'The Devil and Daniel Webster'

The Bishop's Company of Santa Barbara, California will present Stephen Vincent Benet's celebrated "The Devil and Daniel Webster", on Tuesday, November 18, at 8 p.m. at the YMCA in the Danforth Chapel. This fascinating tale of Daniel Webster and his defense of a man who sold his soul to the devil is one of six carefully selected plays in The Bishop's Company repertoire.

The Author tells the story of the endless struggle of mankind—how they are tricked, trapped and bamboozled. He brings Daniel Webster and the Devil, who is called Mr. Scratch in the play, face to face. To help decide the fate of Jabez Stone, who has sold his soul to the devil, Mr. Scratch calls a Jury of the Dead. Yet Mr. Webster makes them see that life is still a great journey. His defense is for a country that is a country,

Committee Named To Choose State Head

President William Friday of the Consolidated University of North Carolina Thursday announced the appointment of a 15-man selection committee to help him choose a new chancellor for State College.

The committee is composed of five alumni, five members of the Board of Trustees, and five State College faculty members.

Dr. Carey H. Bostian, who has been State College's chancellor for the past five years, will relinquish the post next July 1 in order to return to his former position as a professor of genetics in the School of Agriculture.

President Friday will ask the committee to make at least three recommendations not to be listed in an order of priority.

He, in turn, will select one of the candidates and will recommend his selection to the Board of Trustees for its consideration.

President Friday said the first meeting of the committee will be called "very soon".

He said suggestions for candidates can be made to any member of the committee by any interested person.

The five alumni committee members are:

Leslie N. Boney, Jr., of Wilmington, Class of 1940, an architect and chairman of the board of directors of the State College Alumni Association; Mose Kiser of Greensboro, Class of 1923, president of the Alumni Association and general manager of the Guilford Dairy Cooperative; C. W. Tilson of Durham, Class of 1924, general manager of the Central Carolina Farmers Exchange who last year was awarded an honorary degree by State College; Percy B. Ferebee of Andrews, former trustee and former member of the General Assembly; and E. B. Hunter of Charlotte, Class of 1913, assistant to the publisher of The Charlotte Observer.

The trustees on the committee are:

Rudolph I. Mintz of Wilmington, Class of 1929, an attorney and former president of the Alumni Association and ex-chairman of its board of directors; G. Nick Noble of Trenton, Class of 1931, a farmer; J. Spencer Love of Greensboro, a textile industry executive; Sam L. Whitehurst of New Bern,

Director Erdahl Heads State's CU Delegation

Eight delegates representing N. C. State College Union returned yesterday from the Ninth Annual Region IV Conference of the Association of College Unions. Mr. Gerald O. T. Erdahl, director of the State College Union, summarized the meeting as interesting, delightful, and helpful.

Kentucky University was the meeting place of approximately 110 students and staff members representing 25 colleges and universities from eight states. The purpose of the meeting, as cited by the Kentucky Kernel is "to exchange ideas between college unions co-ordinate programs between unions, stimulate interests in college union activities, study philosophies of college union programs, and improve operations of the regional organization."

This purpose was accomplished through a series of speeches, discussion groups, banquets, and business meetings. The main address was given by C. Shaw Smith, regional adviser from Davidson College. His topic was "Look to the Future". The feature address was given by Erdahl, with the topic of "The Quick and the Dead", which was a correlation of success to happiness and death.

Seven delegates along with Director Erdahl were Paul Essex; CU President, Charles Seldon; Vice-President; Nancy Munford; head of the Chapter Activities Committee, Stanley Tinblin; head of Photography Committee, Larry Brady; head of Games Committee, Clarence Rowel; head of Social Committee, and Preston Sasser; Secretary.

A highlight to the occasion came with the announcement that the Region IV Conference would be held at North Carolina State College next year. This is N. C. State's second time to play host to the Region IV Conference.

Mr. Erdahl stated that N. C. State's delegates felt that State College's program was more extensive than any other college union program.

Over $300 Pilfered From Fraternities

Over $300 was reported stolen from six of the eighteen State College fraternities. This money, which was pilfered over the week-end by unknown bandits, was taken in the same manner from each house. The hoodlums entered, took the money from the available wallets; and left, leaving no trace except the empty wallets.

Several reports concerning the identification of the thieves were given. One report expressed belief that the bandits were outsiders, and another reported to

Hunt then appointed Senator Jordan to replace Carlton as

PHIL CARLTON

More Than Robbery

Early Saturday morning, at least five fraternity houses were visited by thieves who stole many hundreds of dollars from the occupants. (See page 1).

The seriousness of the crime may not at first be understood . . . until we learn that the money was taken from the wallets of the men while they were asleep in their rooms. This constitutes a capital offense, under the classification of first degree burglary, and has a maximum punishment of death.

This robbing from fraternity houses has been a problem at State as long as fraternities have existed; an effective solution has not been determined. It is extremely important that some sort of drastic action be started by both the Raleigh police and the State Bureau of Investigation, for this is not to be treated as a light matter and then forgotten until it happens again.

Whoever robbed those houses were brazen, well-informed men . . . and if they were capable of stealing from private rooms, they may very well be capable of murder. We would guess that these men would carry some sort of weapon . . . and if any man in those rooms had waked up the results would have been disastrous.

We hope that the Interfraternity Council will do all in its power to impress law enforcement officers with the necessity of taking extensive action. And perhaps they could offer a fairly large reward leading to the arrest of these criminals.

It is suggested that individual fraternity men immediately place sturdy locks on their sleeping rooms so that the open doors will no longer be so inviting to possible thieves. If any one has other suggestions, we feel sure the IFC will be happy to consider them.

Let's stop these people in their crimes. Not only do we fear the loss of large sums of money . . . we also fear the possible loss of our lives.

A Common Calling

At the Associated Collegiate Press Conference in Chicago this past week, we had the opportunity to exchange many ideas on the relationship of the student press to the campus as a whole. We found that many of our problems on this paper were shared with hundreds of other college publications.

We were encouraged at our comparative status among other college newspapers. Freedom of the press was stressed as being the single most important asset of any newspaper.

We also had the opportunity to visit the Chicago Tribune, perhaps the largest newspaper in the world; We would like to print the philosophy upon which it is founded:

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

Students Write . . . Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

It is interesting in a rather morbid sort of way, to see the true character of our Student Government. I realize that all schools have Student Government of some kind; and from all I've heard, a majority of them are figureheads only, just like S.G. at State.

But is it too much to ask that our elected leaders get out of their rut and assert themselves? Some friends of mine at a nearby school tell me that they are currently having a re-evaluation of their attendance regulations too. But here is the difference: their student leaders in the student legislature are taking a poll of student opinion, to get the opinions of the people who put them in their positions. Isn't that amazing? Have you ever heard of such a thought-and-time-consuming plan? The very idea?

I understand you are not personally too popular with the elite members of Student Government. But at least you have said what most of us have suspected for a long time. And you must have known when you took your job that you would run last in a popularity contest conducted among those now in power.

Jim Lawrence

Dear Editor:

Congratulations! Your paper has become absolutely enticing; I can't wait to read every issue.

You have been able to sling more mud this year than ever before. I think that all of us students ought to increase the $1.15 to the paper and the salary that we pay you so that you will be able to originate more character assassinations.

In your last editorial you managed to tie up the faculty, administration, and your governing body in a monstrous plot to take away somebody's rights. You said the students' rights were at stake, but it appears more as though it is the right of THE TECHNICIAN writers to condemn whom they please that is being talked about on campus.

Please, Mr. Editor, give us issues that can stand up under a little thinking. I do wish that you would quit manufacturing issues on such things as the campus johnny paper and a cut system for the students that was essentially proposed by their representatives last year.

If you must choose another quest to devote three or four more of our papers to, may I suggest your getting a ghost writer who can help you think up a genuine injustice. You have writers who can give us real satire. How about getting some to think up something that needs satirizing?

Dick Burgess
S. G. Senator

To the Editor:

I noticed the letter in the last issue of The Technician where a "foreign" professor justified somewhat, with his own reasoning, the criticisms directed at the foreign instructors ability to express themselves in the English language by "knocking" our accent.

Possibly he doesn't think he has an accent. Does his letter seem to him to be articulate?

It appears that he has lost contact with reality and I, for one, would be very reluctant to argue with him.

I'm with you-all,
Marv Walters

Dear Clean Living:

I am twenty years old and read your column in The Technician regularly. Seeing that the more intelligent segment of the college has registered their protest against you, I thought it was time the others be represented.

Regardless of what they have said, I find a definite indeficatory quality about your work. For this reason I would like to offer some friendly suggestions in the development of the column.

Why not devote some space therein to offer solutions to student problems? Some of the following are those that have already confronted us in our dorm:

"Last week I wrote my girl asking for her photograph. Yesterday I received a picture of her, a man, and two children. Should this have any bearing on our relationship?"

"Three weeks ago I bought two gallons of apple cider at the Textile Building. Now I believe

Greeks On Campus

by Bill Marley

This past weekend was "Ronny Run Home Weekend" and action was limited on campus with the Greeks following our two big weekends, Homecoming and Pledge Dance. Most of us are simply "existing" until Thanksgiving gets here.

It's been rumored on campus that the I.F.C. is contemplating securing of several big names for concerts, perhaps Frank Sinatra or Johnny Mathis. Phil Gaines is looking into the possibilities.

I would imagine Bob Davis and Gary Schultz are looking forward to their N. I. C. trip with anticipation of a successful weekend. The following is a brief resumé of the program that will be presented with a "How to do it" approach. It will cover the following pertinent topics:

- 1) Ideals—how the I. F. C. can encourage and develop them.
- 2) Scholarship—how and what the I. F. C. can do to obtain results.
- 3) I. F. C. organization and operation.
- 4) Rushing—an analysis of present programs, how to develop and administer better programs.

5) Pledge training—what the I.D.C. can do in the development of constructive programs.

6) Greek Week—its meaning, organization, and operation.

This conference is a workshop designed to promote better operation of Interfraternity Councils hence better all around fraternities. It gives our representatives an opportunity to meet and exchange ideas with undergraduate and graduate leaders in I. F. C. work.

Overheard in a conversation between two Greek pledges after the Pledge Dance: "Man I had the greatest blind date last night, we were thinking the same thing all night. She called it mental telepathy and I called it beginner's luck!"

If you are a jazz fan or if you enjoyed the jazz show at the "cow palace" a week ago don't miss "Jazz 59" at the Coliseum, 8:00 p.m. next Friday night. This show will be highly diversified, so that everyone should be able to find his own jazz "happy medium"—and its free for C. U. members!

it has fermented. Should I turn myself in to the college officials or the F.B.I.?"

"My roommate can't read. Does this fact entitle us to get our newspaper subscription at half price?"

"Mother keeps sending Alaskan Travelogs. Am I wanted?"

"My roommate died two days ago. What should I do with the body? Our room stinks."

"Us old boys would like to get a dorm mother, say about twenty-four. Is this advisable?"

How about a "Sights I'd like to see on State College's Campus" section in your column. Some samples: Lawns without the 'pasteurized' smell . . . lights out in the School of Design after two a.m. . . girls on the campus . . . 'Wowee Nesbitts' . . . once-cooked meals in the cafeteria . . .

As soon as I earn enough money I'll write again.

Snuffy Smith, '62 or later

It is the sacred duty of every newspaper man to print the TRUTH. We know that individuals print the truth then slant it to emphasize their own ideas and purposes. We do not condone such behavior but it is an evil we live with. Alternatively one can print outright falsehoods.

We believe Mr. Cocke chose the latter in his "Way Out" of November Thirteenth. Quotation marks were used to make the readers believe that certain statements were made by an individual. One of the things which guarantees us freedom of the press is that a person be quoted only when the person actually has spoken or written that statement.

It is any writer's privilege to express an opinion. But to fabricate statements that were never made is a violation of any writer's code of ethics. Such behavior lowers the standards of a newspaper and insults the intelligence of its readers.

Whether you did this for the purpose of improving the school (as you would have us believe) or for some low personal reason, you committed a grave error in judgement and ethics. Please, Mr. Cocke, stick to the facts.

Harley E. Blackwell

Editor's Note:
The press conference mentioned was (John thought obviously) a fabrication . . . therefore, the quotes were fabricated also.

To the Editor:

The honor system we have here at State is a wonderful idea. The only trouble is that it does not seem to apply outside of class as well as inside.

My troubles began last year. I had bought a small motorcycle to use here at school. Other people seemed to like it, too. Anyway, it was used by someone without my permission. Whoever it was ran my motorcycle without oil. The result: I was without a motorcycle for all of the second semester and it cost thirty-five dollars to fix it.

This year I live off-campus; I have a garage to put my motorcycle in at night. I thought my troubles were over. It seems as if I have been wrong. On my motorcycle there are two saddle bags. These saddle bags don't open enough and aren't deep enough to put books into. So, I bought an old army pack that was deep enough and wide enough to hold any books that I have. On Thursday the 13th, someone decided that they needed my pack more than I did. So, whoever it was took it. As a result, I lost a notebook, because the saddle wasn't deep enough, which contained all my notes for a certain class for this semester.

I know that I'm not the only one plagued with this sort of thing. My hope is that somehow the Honor Code can be extended to cover more than classroom activity. I don't know if it will work, but it will help.

Clemson Edges Pack, 13-6 To Win ACC Championship

The Clemson Tigers are the new Atlantic Coast Conference Champions, after edging past the State College Wolfpack 13-6. The Tigers, fought to a standstill for three quarters, struck for two quick touchdowns in the final period to claim the victory.

Until the final period of Saturday's game, it was a hard fought struggle by both teams, neither being able to push across a score. Then the Tigers struck for two quick touchdowns, one within minutes of the other. A crowd of 12,000 were on hand to witness the hard fought battle that saw Clemson emerge the new ACC champs.

It was Dad's Day for the Wolfpack squad, with about eighteen fathers watching from the sidelines. And the Wolfpack players put on a good show for the Dads, as they stood up against a highly favored team and fought to a close outcome. The Tigers won the ACC title, their second in three years. Last year it was the Wolfpack who claimed the coveted award.

Clemson's first tally came in the final period on a 51 yard drive, climaxed by halfback George Usry's plunge into the end zone from one yard out. An attempted pass for the conversion failed and Clemson led 6-0.

Seconds later, the Tigers were afforded another scoring opportunity when Frank Morroco was rushed and got off a poor punt that was good for only one yard. The kick went straight up and came down one yard from the scrimmage line. It was Clemson's ball at this point, first down on State's 30.

Five plays later Clemson sophomore Bob Morgan knifed off left tackle to score from 15 yards out. Quarterback Lowndes Shingler kicked for the extra-point and Clemson led 13-0.

After the resulting kickoff, State caught fire and drove for 55 yards and their lone score. In 12 plays State covered the 55 yards and fullback Don Hafer went over from the 2 for the score. The conversion failed and the score stood 13-6.

The victory gave Clemson the ACC title and could possibly clinch a bowl bid for the Tigers. They have a 5-1 conference record, losing only to South Carolina in a 26-6 upset. Their over-all record stands at 6-2.

State was offered two scoring chances in the first half of Saturday's game. Midway through the first period, the Wolfpack drove from its own 38 to Clemson's 23 where Hafer fumbled and Clemson's Dave Olsen recovered. Again in the second period Randy Harrell returned a punt from the State 45 to the Tiger 37. On last down tackle John Lawrence attempted a field goal from the 41, but it fell short.

Clemson took the second half kickoff and moved the ball from their 32 to the State 10. On fourth down the Wolfpack took over to save a possible score by Clemson.

The Wolfpack defense was brilliant in Saturday's game. The State squad put up such a stiff display in the first half that the Tigers could move for only two first downs in the entire first half. In total first downs Clemson had 12 while State claimed only 9.

Hafer led the Wolfpack on the ground with 43 yards in 15 carries. The Wolfpack's lone score came after a 55 yard drive with Hafer going over for the touchdown.

The Wolfpack will travel to Columbia next week to take on South Carolina in their last game of the season. State is 2-3 in conference play for the year and 2-5-1 overall.

The South Carolina game will mark the final appearance for eleven State seniors who will end their careers with the Wolfpack. The South Carolina squad beat Clemson earlier this season in the Tigers' only conference loss, so the State-South Carolina should prove to be very interesting.
