With Collegiate YDC's

Democrats to Rally

The Young Democrats club will hold a huge rally this weekend at State. Attending will be hundreds of representatives from several North Carolina colleges.

The varied program of the Rally will include speakers Terry Sanford, Dr. Holtzman (State P.S. faculty), and Dr. Gordon Cleveland. Also on the program are workshops, a banquet, panel discussions, and a reception at the Governor's Mansion.

Details of the program are as follows:

Friday, April 24: Registration in the C.U. lobby, from 2 to 3 p.m., to be handled by the Women's College YDC; at 3 p.m., a movie "Pursuit of Happiness" will be shown in the C.U. theatre; 4:15 p.m. will be the time for Dr. Holtzman to speak on "The Democratic Party; Its Promise, Its Challenge"; climaxing the day's activities will be the banquet, to be held in the Grill Room of the College Cafeteria, at which Tom Gilmore (N. C. State YDC President) will give the welcome, Jim Hunt will act as Toastmaster, Art Vann (North Carolina YDC President) will offer opening remarks, and Phil Carlton (N. C. State YDC President-Elect) will introduce Mr. Terry Sanford, often mentioned as candidate for Governor, as feature speaker.

Saturday, April 25: In the morning, workshops will be the primary business, which Monroe Redden, Representative Roger Kiser, Dr. William Black, L. Y. Ballentine, Bob Futrelle and Jim Hunt acting as workshop leaders. In the afternoon a panel discussion will be conducted on the subject of "What College YDC's Are Doing," and Dr. Gordon Cleveland, U.N.C. Political Science faculty member, speaks on "What's Ahead for North Carolina." The YDC Rally ends Saturday afternoon with a reception at the Governor's Mansion, 3:30 p.m.

All YDC members are urged to attend this state-wide Rally, and in particular they are asked to register at the College Union lobby on Friday afternoon.

Ag Engineers Take 1st Place

First place in the departmental competition held during the 27th annual Engineers' Fair last Friday and Saturday at State College went to the student group in agricultural engineering.

Second place went to the ceramic engineering group, and third place to the chemical engineering students, and fourth to Industrial Engineers.

Winners were announced Saturday evening at the close of the Fair by Chairman Paul Madren of Ossipee, who said that the "judging was very close." Special ceremonies will be held later this week for the presentation of bronze plaques to the winning groups.

Each year the college's engineering departments compete for top honors in the best presentation to the public of their particular field of engineering. Each department is judged on the basis of opening exercises attendance, appearance of show, ability to follow the Fair theme, and student-built exhibits.

"Progress in Engineering" was the theme of this year's Fair.

'Sex in this Age' Lectures to Begin Monday, April 27

"Sex in This Age," a lecture series presented by Mrs. Ethel M. Nash—author, lecturer, and counselor—will be presented on this campus from April 27 through May 1.

Lectures for mixed groups will be held every night during the series at 7:00 in the College Union. Meetings for men only will be held at 9:00 p.m. each night in Withers Hall.

The lecture on Monday, April 27, will be entitled "Dating—A Prelude to Marriage." A movie will be shown called "Who's Right?"

The Tuesday lecture will be "Love and the Basis for Mate Selection." Another movie, "This Charming Couple," will be shown.

On Wednesday, the talk will be called "Engagement—A Dress Rehearsal for Marriage." "Marriage is a Partnership" will be the movie that will be shown.

Thursday's lecture will be "Sexual Adjustment in the First Year of Marriage." The title of the movie to be shown is "Studies in Human Fertilities."

"Marriage is What You Make It" will be the final talk to be held on Friday, May 1. The movie will be "A Normal Birth."

Mrs. Nash has been appearing on this campus for at least the past six years. Her lectures are sponsored by the State College YMCA.

Personal interviews to discuss any problem privately with Mrs. Nash may be scheduled at the YMCA desk for each afternoon, April 27 through May 1, from 3:00 to 5:00.

Kenton, Joni James To Entertain Greeks

By Lenny Lavitt
Climax on Greek Week's activities will be on Saturday when the Interfraternity Council will hold its annual "Spring Greeks" formal dance, featuring Stan Kenton's orchestra and Joni James as vocalist.

Phil Gaines, chairman of the social committee, has announced that the theme of the dance will be Oriental, with the figure taking the shape of an oriental fan. A concert with the above artists will be held on Saturday afternoon.

Over 900 fraternity men are busily engaged in their annual "Greek Week," which is sponsored by the IFC. It is designed to promote better understanding among the social fraternities and between the fraternities and the public.

The week's activities got underway last Sunday afternoon with the IFC Sing, which was won by Sigma Chi.

Since Monday, fraternity men have been visiting each other's houses as part of the exchange supper program. As part of its continuing service to the community, the IFC is collecting canned food to be distributed to the needy families of Wake County. Last year over 9,000 pounds of food was collected, and the boys are out to break the record.

Presidents Have Dinner

Tonight the new fraternity presidents had dinner with the faculty advisors at the College Union. This dinner gave the presidents a chance to meet with the various advisors.

Tomorrow will highlight the field day events in the afternoon and the banquet at night. The field day will feature a "Renault Cram," wheelbarrow races, a Gladiator Ring, and a sack race—in which girl friends of the fraternity will participate.

At the banquet, keys will be presented to the Interfraternity Council officers, IFC representatives, and fraternity presidents. A special award will be given to the fraternity which collects the most food in the drive.

The IFC Scholarship Trophy will be awarded to the fraternity whose members made the highest average during the past school year. The Sigma Pi Trophy will go to the pledge class rated tops scholastically.

Reminder to Fraternities

Each fraternity has been asked to send four (4) brothers or pledges to the Coliseum on Friday at 1 p.m. to help the social committee decorate the Coliseum for the dance. Everyone's cooperation is needed in order to make the dance a complete success.

Campus Crier

THE FRESHMAN - SOPHOMORE DANCE, featuring Lionel Hampton and his Orchestra, will be held Saturday, May 2, from 8 until 12 midnight in the College Union.

The main floor of the College Union will have Lionel Hampton and his Orchestra, while Irving Fuller and his Combo will be in the Grill Room.

Bids for the dance may be picked up beginning April 22 in the College Union. Tuxedos for the dance may be rented from Huneycutt's Clothing Store. Rental price is $7.50 for the complete outfit, which includes coat, pants, cummerbund, and tie.

All married students who are graduating at the end of this semester and have not received a card on which to make an application for a Goodwife Diploma, please stop by 206 Holladay Hall prior to May 1, 1959.

A college fashion show and informal party will be held in the College Union ballroom on April 27, 7:30 to 9:30, by the Raleigh Panhellenic Council. Models will be beauty queens from Broughton, Peace, St. Mary's and Meredith. A panel on fraternities and sororities will be presented by Panhellenic Council members from Duke, Carolina, and the State Interfraternity Council. All State co-eds and fraternity men are welcome.

Special Notices

NOMINATIONS FOR GOLDEN CHAIN . . . Every student and faculty member who wishes to nominate a student for membership in Golden Chain is urged to write a letter of recommendation. The letter, which should include the nominee's qualifications, should be placed in a sealed envelope, addressed to the Golden Chain, and delivered to Room 206, Holladay Hall, on Friday, April 24, before 5 p.m.

First Summer Session Rooms—(Only the South Wing of Bragaw Dormitory will be Used.) (a) Week of May 11—During this period, the present occupants of Bragaw Dormitory, South Wing, will have priority to reserve their same rooms. (b) Beginning with May 18—All unreserved rooms in the South Wing of Bragaw Dormitory will be available on a first-come, first-served basis.

There will be a special meeting of the Blue Key on Sunday night at 8 p.m. in the YMCA. The purpose of this meeting is to select new members. It is compulsory that all present members of Blue Key attend this important meeting.

'Science Fiction'--Topic Of Speech By Dr. Murray

"Science Fiction" will be the topic of a talk given by Dr. Raymond L. Murray, professor of Physics at State College School of Engineering, in the College Union theater Friday night, April 24, at 8:00.

Dr. Murray, a member of the State College faculty since 1950, is a key figure in the field of atomic science. He is a former student of famed physicist, Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, and is a member of the Board of Directors of the American Nuclear Society.

A native of Lincoln, Nebraska, Dr. Murray received his B.S. and M.S. degrees from the University of Nebraska. He studied at the University of California from 1941-1943, and was awarded his Ph.D. degree in Physics at the University of Tennessee in 1950.

He is a member of the National Physical Society, the American Institute of Physics, the American Association of Physics Teachers, the American Nuclear Society, the American Society of Engineering Education, the North Carolina Academy of Science, Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Chi, and Pi Mu Epsilon. He is listed in "American Men of Science".

Dr. Murray is the author of two text books—Introduction to Nuclear Engineering and Nuclear Reactor Engineering. He has written numerous research papers which have been published in nationally known technical journals.

He is also a consultant on reactor design to the Oak Ridge National Laboratory and Industry.

Dr. Murray's lecture is sponsored by the College Union's Forum and Film Committees.

'SPRING GREEKS' DANCE SPONSORS AT N. C. STATE—The "Spring Greeks" dance, presented annually by the Interfraternity Council of State College, will be held in the William Neal Reynolds Coliseum at the college Saturday, April 25, from 8 p.m. until midnight. Music will be provided by Stan Kenton and his band, featuring vocalist Joni James. Sponsors, with their escorts listed, are shown here. Top row, left to right: Miss Carolyn Pegg of Winston-Salem with Larry Carter of Winston-Salem, president of the IFC; Miss Marie Thomas of Fuquay Springs with Phil Gaines of New Britain, Conn., vice-president of the IFC; Miss

The Big Change

Starting with Monday's issue of The Technician the campus newspaper will be in the hands of the new editor, Jim Moore, who has this year been my invaluable and capable assistant as Executive Editor.

For the present editor, it will be the end of a long and fascinating association with the State newspaper... an association which has taught him more than any formal academics could ever convey.

This year we have tried to stimulate the campus with reporting and editorials that cover the most vital aspects of state's campus life. In addition, we have been fortunate enough to attract a staff of columnists who often have reached beyond the College and touched on issues of relevance to maturing students.

From the almost unprecedented response to the newspaper this year, we can say with some confidence that we have been able to communicate effectively with a large segment of this campus. We do not apologize for our failings, but rather hope and plan to learn from them and go on to improve.

It is at this point that we wish publicly to express appreciation to the Raleigh Times for their fine support this year, not only to The Technician but to State College as a whole. From some knowledge of other newspaper-college relationships, we can be gratified that the present degree of cooperation exists.

This editor's last editorial will appear in next Thursday's edition of The Technician... as an effort to sum up this stimulating year at State.

Rogues' Reaction?

On the front page of this issue of The Technician, an article announces the coming of Mrs. Ethel Nash, who will lecture to State students next week. Mrs. Nash will speak each night on various aspects of "Sex in this Age."

This series of lectures can and probably will be looked at in two ways. First of all, a group of the more shallow personalities on our campus will look upon this series only for its sensual values. And then, there will be certain others on our campus who will derive benefit from the deeper, underlying points which will be brought out by Mrs. Nash.

Last year, a vast majority of the first type mentioned seemed to be present at all the lectures. They distinguished themselves by loud, grossly out-of-place remarks during all parts of each meeting. By these childish acts, they not only cast a bad reflection on State in the eyes of Mrs. Nash, but they also made it impossible for the second group mentioned above to derive any worthwhile facts.

This series is sponsored by the Y. M. C. A., and is intended to teach the students here the correct approach toward both pre-marital and post-marital relationships. It is definitely not intended to build up the students' sexual desires.

Every person must learn, at one time or another, the way to act in all situations. The way to act when confronted with problems and discussions of sex can be learned during this series. The question is this: Can we, as a student body, curb our emotions and drives long enough to act intelligent and reserved in the face of a visiting counselor? Rudeness is crudeness!

In Defense of Quality Television

By Chuck Lombard

Though the television broadcasters are popularly criticized, and rightly so, for much of the junk with which they clutter up the airways, the fact should not be overlooked that there are, in fact, many programs which are consistently most interesting, informative, and intellectually stimulating.

This remark comes as the result of a mass psychology, observed among generally intelligent people, the gist of which is most commonly expressed by the remark, "I wouldn't have one of those damn things in my house." This statement translated says that in as much as soap opera is maudlin, quiz games are boring, Lawrence Welk is nauseating, and horse operas are harrowing, I will protect my sanity at all costs and the loss to my intellect be damned.

This arbitrary course might be fine for a king who can command performances in his own palace. Doubtlessly, the wealthy denizen of New York with his theatres, galleries, and concert stage can likewise afford to thumb his nose at the hypnotic silver tube. But for the human caged in Raleigh, total television abstinence is sheer madness.

Let all just credit be given; those organizations which are appointed to the task of satisfying Raleigh's artistic hungers, could not, if divine, provide very much top notch entertainment for a population as small as ours. And I, for one, get so tired of parroting, "You know, they really aren't bad, are they?" Which means that what you see here is never really good but time spent requires a justification.

Which quickly brings me back to the much vilified institution, television, which, with all its faults, does present some 100% pure soul-relieving art such as cannot be found within 500 miles and is purchased at an infinitely lower price. By way of illustrating, I should mention examples of TV programming that offer, uniquely, the opportunity for us to experience superior art.

Example number one is the regular Thursday-nighter, Playhouse 90, which, though almost always presenting superior drama, really rose to magnificence this winter with the three hour-two part production of Ernest Hemingway's For Whom the Bell Tolls.

Example number two may be found in the fine documentary show, Twentieth Century. Only last Sunday those fortunate enough to be watching saw a fascinating filmed analysis of the Battle for Stalingrad, waged between the Russians and the Germans and often thought to be the most important battle of World War II.

Example number three is chosen from music. I need only mention the production, A Night with Fred Astaire, which proved more popular than anything else on TV except, perhaps, Ed Sullivan's show with the Russian folk dancers.

WAY OUT...

with John Cocke

Scene: A small, dark room with miscellaneous junk (wooden table in the center, at which three men are seated. The first man, Clogsworth, is large and paunchy, puffs continually on a cigar, and wears a loud sports shirt. The second, Rosenberg, sits between the other two opposite the audience. He is a thin, shift-eyed fellow dressed conservatively and in good taste. Kaiserling, the third man, talks very loud and aggressively with a country accent and has on a blue serge suit.

A candle set in the mouth of a whiskey bottle placed on the table is the sole illumination for the scene, except for a diffused glow from the over-head stage lights. The room itself is very dusty and is heaped with a wooden table in the center, at which three men are seated. The first man, Clogsworth, is large and paunchy, puffs continually on a cigar, and wears a loud sports shirt. The second, Rosenberg, sits between the other two opposite the audience. He is a thin, shift-eyed fellow dressed conservatively and in good taste. Kaiserling, the third man, talks very loud and aggressively with a country accent and has on a blue serge suit.

ROSENBERG: I've guessed.
CLOGSWORTH: Then let's get on with it. What influence do you have with the Chancellor? In the way of, uh, parcelling out the scholarship money, I mean.
ROSENBERG: I advise him. He must, of course, form his own views and present them to the trustees. But I have considerable weight. . .

KAISERLING [leans forward clumsily and puts his hand on Rosenberg's arm. His action is clearly out of place]: Listen, Rosenberg, we've jest got tuh git more money for tuh ath-uh-letes. Thuh alumni are on my back fer us tuh win more games. So we figger, more ath-uh-letic scholarships, more and better ath-uh-letes. Right?

ROSENBERG: It would seem so.
CLOGSWORTH [moves his chair closer to Rosenberg]: Can you help us? Can you get us a bigger cut?

ROSENBERG [slowly]: I don't know. What about the academic boys? They get little enough.
KAISERLING [jumps up, enraged. His chair falls.]: They git forty per cent! Forty per cent! Tuh hell with 'em! They ain't worth one per cent, fer all thuh publicity we git outa them! [Rosenberg, unimpressed, lights a cigarette.]

CLOGSWORTH: Dammit, Kaiserling, sit down. [He glances apprehensively at Rosenberg.] You do see his point, though? The school gets so much more publicity from the teams.

ROSENBERG: But the school's here for education, not to give the public a show.

KAISERLING [now seated, groans]: Oh fer the love uh Case! Tell him, Clogsworth. Tell him.
CLOGSWORTH [pulls out a small bag of silver and sets it on the table]: I'm sorry it had to come to this, but in this bag there are thirty pieces of silver . . . [He coughs. Kaiserling leans back in his chair and, with his finger, begins cleaning the wax out of the ear nearest the audience.]

ROSENBERG [rubs his hands together and grins broadly]: Ah well, this puts things in a different light. [He reaches for the bag. Thunder sounds off-stage. Stage lights down and out. Gust of wind extinguishes the candle.]

KAISERLING: Damn! [They all mill about in confusion, knocking things over. More thunder and wind. Sound of rocks rending off-stage. General chaos.]

FIRST VOICE [female, off-stage]: Hee-hee-hee! When crises strike the foulest race of men, then are their true natures hence revealed and opened to our gaze.
SECOND VOICE [also female, off-stage]: But now we'll help them out and see that order is restored. Say now, Rosie, what succour can we bring?
ROSENBERG: Dammit, find the lights!

FIRST VOICE: Then let there be light! [A tremendous bolt of lightning traverses the room from ceiling to floor. Flame springs up, and by their light three leprous mice are seen scampering about in disorder.]

Long Range Plan Decries Low Faculty Salaries

By Roger Faulkner

"Our most serious educational problem today and in the foreseeable future is a critical shortage of first-rate teachers. The heart of the educational process is the teacher. Yet the economic position of the American teacher not only is inadequate but has become less favorable, relative to other careers, for several decades. The results for our post-high school educational system are not likely to appear as a dramatic breakdown. Rather they will be a slow but cumulative deterioration of the educational process, more dangerous because less apt to arouse the public."

This opinion, expressed by a committee appointed by the President of the United States to investigate higher education, is supported by the writers of the Long Range Plan. The Plan continues, "The problem is, of course, qualitative even more than it is one of quantity."

Persons can, no doubt, be recruited to carry on the appearance of teaching, but first-rate ability is needed if higher education is to remain high. If present trends continue, they will "bring third-rate teachers to match third-rate salaries," as the President's committee states.

Concerning numbers only, there is and will continue to be a grave need for teachers. There are, at present, over 225,000 teachers, both full-time and part-time, in some 1,900 colleges and universities. Speaking conservatively, there must be 180,000 to 270,000 new college teachers in the next twelve years. That is some 15,000 to 22,500 annually.

Little over half the doctoral graduates, about 5,000, go into the teaching profession in the colleges annually, less than one-third the amount necessary.

One source of new college teachers is the high school faculties. However, since colleges are dependent upon strong secondary schools, as the President's committee says, "This is robbing Peter to pay Paul."

One frustrating fact is that the age group from which the teachers are taken is on the decline due to the small birth rate during the depression, while the student population is on a strong upswing due to the post-war baby boom.

The Long Range Plan quotes the Rockefeller Brothers Fund report as saying:

"But the root problem of the teaching profession remains financial. More perhaps than any other profession, teaching needs dedicated men and women to whom pay is not an overriding consideration; but until we pay teachers at least as well as the middle echelon of executives we cannot expect the profession to attract its full share of the available range of talents."

In 1956, average salaries of industrial labor were one and one-half times the average salaries of college faculties.

The President's committee and the Long Range Plan recommend that faculty salaries be at least doubled in the next five or ten years. They also feel that there should be a greater salary spread between instructors and full professors.

A professional man, from all indications, should be making more than five times his starting salary by the end of his career. Professors at State College, however, make less than twice the amount paid instructors.

The Long Range Plan states, "The starting salary has little appeal to a young man if the ultimate goal (salary of a full professor) is not much above him."

There should be, in addition, various benefits such as are common in industry, business, and governmental positions.

Recommendations in the Long Range Plan that have been approved by the Faculty Senate are:

1. Vigorous efforts to implement the salary recommendation of the President's Committee on Education Beyond High School, and to work toward doubling average salaries, based on present price levels, within no more than a ten-year period, must be made.

2. In bringing about this general upward movement, there should be sufficient discretion permitted to make possible the proper rate of promotion and salary adjustment for the exceptionally able faculty members.

3. A minimum salary level should be established for each academic rank, but there should be no maximum levels or ceilings.

4. Immediate and continuing steps should be taken to widen the salary range between instructor and full professor.

This column is going to be one of irony! We are going to say a few words about one of radio's oldest and most loved shows, "One Man's Family."

"O.M.F." celebrates its 28th anniversary on radio next Wednesday, April 29th.

Now, this isn't the irony!!! This column didn't just happen to hit so closely to the anniversary; it was planned this way. The irony is that "O.M.F." will never celebrate that anniversary, for tomorrow the program is ending its long run on radio.

At the last minute, NBC has decided to change its program schedule for summer; and, consequently, all day-dramas, including the dean of them all, are going off tomorrow.

When this column was planned, we never dreamed the program would be removed from the airwaves the very day after we printed a few paragraphs of praise, but so goes life; and we are still going to say a few kind words.

"O.M.F." has become an institution on radio; when it ends, an era will end. Though the program has been classed as a soap-opera, this is the farthest thing from the truth. The program has been a creation of life personified by radio.

Through the ever-skillful pen of Carlton E. Morse, the "Barbours" have become real people; and many listeners with the use of only the slightest bit of imagination have believed the story of the family which has been woven throughout an entire quarter of a century.

The people that have worked on the program rarely appeared anywhere else; they were known for the characters they played and not their own acting ability, which is superior in every case.

What a wonderful family the "Barbours" would be if they did exist! The program's unquestioned success all these years has won it far too many awards to list in a space so limited as this one.

With the loss of the "Barbours," many people will feel that they have lost real neighbors; and it is our conjecture that NBC is going to live to regret the cancelling of this fine show. We would like to mention that if this is a favorite of yours, let the network know it! We'd also like to thank WPTF who furnished us the material necessary for compiling this part of the column.

Tonight on "E.U.," we'll discuss a very useful book, the "Information Please Almanac." Join us!

Due to the fact that we have a music poll now appearing in the "Entertainment Unlimited" column in the Raleigh Times on Saturday, we are discontinuing the one here. If this does not meet with our readers' approval, we'd like to know.

We'd like to thank the number of people who have commented favorably upon the new column which grew out of this one. Although they have the same title and format, they are entirely (See ENTERTAINMENT, page 7)

Shirt Satellite Launched!

The first Shirt Satellite is finally a reality! Just yesterday, during their lunch hour, Van Heusen scientists launched a Van Heusen Century Shirt into the stratosphere. It's now circling the earth 180,000 miles up, in an orbit so large that a grown man couldn't walk it, even in a whole day! Traveling at the legal 35 miles per hour, it is expected that the Van Heusen Century Shirt Satellite will remain up there in the blue beyond for at least 1200 years. And, with luck, maybe 1201.

"But," you will ask, "what value will the Shirt Satellite have for science?" Just this, friend! It will further prove the immutable law that the soft collar on Van Heusen Century Shirts won't wrinkle... ever! You see, the sleek Van Heusen physicists have attached an electronic wrinkle-rieter to the collar of the Van Heusen Century

Shirt. This clever device will constantly send back electronic reports on the condition of the collar, so, for 1200 years, we earthlings will have absolute proof that the soft collar on Van Heusen Shirts won't wrinkle... ever. Should you ever have any doubts, just drop in to the Van Heusen office, and listen to the reports coming back from the Shirt Satellite.

One more thing—the Van Heusen Century Shirt Satellite will drop back to the earth in the spring of 3157 (possibly 3158) and you're all invited to the return party! If, in the meantime, you want to see the Van Heusen Century Shirt, you can at your campus haberdashery. He has them in 5 collar styles, in white, stripes and colors. $4 & $5. At better stores everywhere or write: Phillips-Van Heusen Corporation, 417 Fifth Ave., New York 16, N. Y.

Notes from the Pack

In eight baseball games this season, the Wolfpack has failed to produce a home run—and so have the opponents. State has hit eight triples, however, while the opponents have hit three.

Jim Overby, a stringbean southpaw hurler from Norlina, has struck out 25 batters in 20 innings this season. The curve-ball artists has a 1-0 record.

Coach Al Michaels' golf team ends its season this week against Duke. The match was played today at the Carolina Country Club. (After the Technician went to press.)

The Wolfpack linksters enter the finale with a 5-2-1 record for the season. Wins were over Ohio Wesleyan, Virginia, Maryland, Clemson and South Carolina. The tie was with Davidson while losses were to Wake Forest and North Carolina.

Coach Paul Derr will take a hand-picked group of track performers to Philadelphia this weekend for the Penn Relays. The group will be headed by John Davis of Greensboro, and Claude Gibson of Asheville, the team's top point-scorers this season.

Don't Forget . . .

This week is the last chance for students to try out for Big Four Sports Day which will be held at Duke University, April 29. There remain drills in only three sports. These three are softball, tennis, and horseshoes. Every student is urged to participate in these try-outs.

Following is the try-out times for the three sports named above:

Softball—Caps. Jim Jernigan and Everett Norton. Friday, April 24, and Monday, April 27.

Tennis—Capt. Keith Hinson. Friday, April 24. Varsity Tennis Courts.

Horseshoe—Capt. Billy Apple. Monday, April 27. Courts between Owen and Turlington Dorms.

Baseball Squad Faces Two ACC Foes This Week

The North Carolina State baseball team will play four games the remainder of this week—all on the road.

Coach Vic Sorrell's "homeless hitters" were rained out in a game with Duke in Durham yesterday. They go to College Park, Md., Friday for a double-header with the Terrapins, and to Charlottesville, Va., Saturday for a twin bill with the Cavaliers.

It will be the first meeting of the season with both Atlantic Coast Conference opponents.

The Wolfpack begins the long road trip with a 5-3 record against all opponents and a 2-2 ACC mark. Loop wins were over South Carolina and Clemson while the losses were to South Carolina and North Carolina.

"Our pitching staff will really get a work out this week," Sorrell said. "I hope our hitters will get lots of practice, too." Against Maryland, the Wolfpack will start Wilson Carruthers and Al Hardison. Carruthers, a sophomore righthander from Greensboro, has a 2-1 record. He beat Dartmouth and South Carolina and lost to North Carolina.

Hardison, a junior from Williamston and a converted first baseman, is 1-0 for the year. Primarily a relief pitcher, he got credit for the win over Clemson.

Sorrell will start the same lineup which has been playing since the second week of the season. That combination has Stacy Wells at first, Glenn Sparrows at second, Jim Cox at shortstop, Neal Eason at third, and Lathan Smith catching.

Eason, a junior from Wilmington, is the team's top batter. Latest statistics show the smooth-swinging infielder with a .385 average on 10 hits in 26 times at bat. Trailing Eason in the batting department is Wells at .316 and Hafer at .276.

After the games with Virginia Saturday the Wolfpack travels to Wake Forest next Tuesday for their first ACC battle with the Demon Deacons. After the game this week the chances of the Wolfpack winning the ACC should be determined. This year's race has been the tightest one in ACC history so far.

D. H. Hill Library Acquires 6,200-Volume Collection

The D. H. Hill Library at State College has acquired a 6,200-volume collection of entomological books that place it among the national leaders in this type of library resource.

Announcement of the receipt of the valuable collection was made today by Harlan C. Brown, the college's librarian, who said many of the volumes are listed as "rare, very rare, and scarce."

The collection, weighing 5½ tons together with the packing, has already been stored in the State College Library. It was originally owned by Dr. Friedrich F. Tippmann, a Viennese engineer and amateur entomologist for the most of his life, who sold the books to the college.

Brown said the books put the State College Library in the top position for entomological material in the Southeastern region of the United States and among the half dozen such collections in the nation, including those at the libraries of Harvard, Cornell, Iowa State, and the University of California as well as the Library of Congress.

"The collection," said Brown, "is a magnificent acquisition for State College. We are extremely proud and fortunate."

Published over a period extending from 1838 until 1956, the books, Brown reported, constitute "one of the few remaining great private entomological libraries" and will be of "inestimable value for teaching and research."

Explaining the significance of the books, the librarian stated that about 50 per cent of the total number of items will never be listed by second-hand dealers because of their scarcity.

"Of the 278 periodical titles," he continued, "133 titles are complete sets. Ninety-five per cent of these are bound, and the binding is in good condition."

"A vast majority of the items were not previously in the State College Library."

"There is a considerable number of items which are almost unprocurable."

Brown credited Dr. David Young, a faculty member in the State College Entomology Department, as a key figure in assisting the college to acquire the books.

State College, he reported, started negotiations to purchase the books over a year ago after finding out from Dr. Young that they were available.

Dr. Tippmann, who originally owned the books, spent almost a life-time collecting the books from throughout the world. He also acquired a collection of insect specimens.

About three years ago, in disposing of some of his property, he sold the U. S. National Museum in Washington his insect collection.

Entertainment

different as far as content each week.

A TV highlight last week was Bob Hope dancing to "Pink Shoelaces" with Dodie Stevens on the Hope Special.

Reviews also indicate that the Hope film, now at the State, is extremely funny. Another funny film starting at the Varsity tomorrow is "Auntie Mame," which everyone tells us is hilarious.

Next week, you'll be in for a treat when we salute one of Hollywood's greatest entertainers. We'd also like to mention Claude and Anne, who celebrated their second smash year of married life on the 19th of this month. Never thought Anne could last for 2 years with Claude!

WIN A RAMBLER STATION WAGON!

LIGHT UP AND LIVE IT UP! 3 great cigarettes offer you 627 chances to win! So pick your pack—save the six wrappers—and get going! It's crossword puzzle fun and real smoking pleasure all the way!

ENTER OFTEN—HAVE FUN—AND WIN! But think carefully! This puzzle is not as easy as it looks. At first the DOWN and ACROSS clues may appear simple. There may appear to be more than one "right" answer. For example, the clue might read: "Many a coed will be given her best date's P--N." Either "I" (PIN) or "E" (PEN) would seem to fit. But only one answer is apt and logical as decided by the judging staff, and therefore correct. Read the rules carefully. ENTER AS OFTEN AS YOU WISH. Good luck!

RULES—PLEASE READ CAREFULLY

- The College Puzzle Contest is open to college students and college faculty members except employees and their immediate families of Liggett & Myers and its advertising agencies.
- Fill in all missing letters . . . print clearly. Use of obsolete, archaic, variant or foreign words prohibited. After you have completed the puzzle, send it along with six empty package wrappers of the same brand from L&M, Chesterfield or Oasis cigarettes (or one reasonable hand-drawn facsimile of a complete package wrapper of any one of the three brands) to: Liggett & Myers, P. O. Box 271, New York 46, N. Y. Enter as often as you wish, but be sure to enclose six package wrappers (or a facsimile) with each entry. Illegible entries will not be considered.
- Entries must be postmarked by midnight, Friday, May 29, 1959 and received by midnight, Friday, June 5, 1959.
- Entries will be judged by the Bruce-Richards Corporation, an independent judging organization, on the basis of logic and aptness of thought of solutions. In the event of ties, contestants will be required to complete in 25 words or less the following statement: "My favorite cigarette is (Chesterfield) (L&M) or (Oasis) because . . . ." Entries will be judged on originality, aptness of thought and interest by the Bruce-Richards Corporation. Duplicate prizes will be awarded in event of final ties. Illegible entries will not be considered. By entering all entrants agree that the decision of the judges shall be final and binding.
- Solutions must be the original work of the contestants submitting them. All entries become the property of Liggett & Myers and none will be returned.
- Winners will be notified by mail as soon as possible after completion of the contest.
- This contest is subject to all Federal, State and local laws and regulations.

CLEAN LIVING

For years the Oscar Wilde of Wake County, Charles Craven, has been attempting to antagonize the State College students! He's had little success because his writings have, for the most part, been ignored by State College men. Being ignored hurts dear Charles, and Clean Living certainly doesn't want Charles to be hurt (not much). So, we hereby recognize this sensitive sage with the following anonymous poem:

An Ode to Charlie Craven, or A Delicate Blossom of Wake
Now I don't know but I've been told
That chubby Charlie Craven is a sensitive soul.
The hard cold world of smart technology—
Things like math and trig and biology—
To sweet little Charlie are just plain horrid.
Does this fear stem from his receding forehead?

No, Charlie's smart, the dear little thing.
Why doesn't he wear a Chapel Hill ring?
A band of metal that proves to those
Sweet smelling fellows with the painted toes
That, "here's our boy, that's mighty plain."
With a pumpkin-size mouth and a pea-size brain.

This dear sweet darling of Chapel Hill
Tries to make the State men mad enough to kill.
But just the reverse happens - Charlie, old cuss.
You've just proved yourself sort of ridiculous.
So continue to compliment your delicate boys
The University loves your juvenile noise.

So just to sum it up, oh delicate one,
The men at State still have their fun.
Oh, they have to study, there's no doubt
So they won't copy you here and funk right out
And their world isn't as sweet and as daintily scented.
But, look, bright-boy, at the money they've minted.

Stolen from Kays Gary in the Charlotte Observer: A Catholic girl was about to marry a Protestant boy, so her family worked diligently for months to convert the young man to Catholicism.

A few days before the wedding the daughter came home from a date with the boy, crying her eyes out. Her anxious parents asked what was wrong. "Oh boy, you really converted him," she bawled, "so well that now he's going into the priesthood!"

More on Medics: Since mentioning a complaint against the College infirmary here last week, I've been flooded with similar stories. They all complain about one certain "busy" doctor.

If the shoe fits, doctor, you have our permission to wear it.

Signs Upsilon Alpha Report: After having saved the reputation of the School of Engineering during the Engineers' Fair by getting out of town, the officers and brothers of SUA are now planning to give the entire College some free publicity.

Believing that panty raids are irresponsible, juvenile, and old fashioned and sort of silly, the brothers and officers of SUA are preparing plans for an up-coming Girl Raid. The idea is not to steal ladies' undies, but to steal real live girls. They make wonderful pets.

As soon as the SUA legal advisor finds a loophole in the Lindbergh Kidnapping Law, the date and school will be announced.

Merrily We Roll Along: Evidently, the "No Dancing" rule over at Wake Forest is quite an emotional strain on the student Baptists. Fist fights at basketball games helped relieve some tension, but not enough.

The other day a student got in trouble for roller skating into the Chapel, carrying a live chicken under his arm.

Return to Religion (continued): Some more business names submitted by readers:

- 2) My Cup Runneth Over Tea Room.
- 3) Sodom and Gomorrah Salt Co.
- 4) Rock of Ages Gravel and Sand Co.
- 5) I Shall Not Want Insurance Co.
- 6) Full of Sound and Fury Cymbal Manufacturers, Ltd.

Song Sing Sank: How come only four out of eighteen frats participated in the fraternity sing competition? First prize was a plaque and a whole keg of something-or-other, I forget what. Why, for the keg alone I'd sing the Children's Marching Song on top of the St. Mary's water tower, naked and with gestures.

WHO SAID IT FIRST?

A column of incidental intelligence
by Jockey brand

"TO HAVE AND HAVE NOT"
The privileged and the underprivileged, the rich and the poor—most of us have a tendency to divide mankind into two classes. The man who showed us how to do it was Cervantes. In "Don Quixote", he wrote:
"There are only two families in the world, the Haves and the Have Nots."

"WHEN IN ROME..."
...do as the Romans do, we say, thus misquoting a line from Burton's "Anatomy of Melancholy". In this monumental book, the celebrated vicar stated it thusly:
"When they are in Rome, they do there as they see done."

"JACK SPRAT"
No, "Anon" didn't coin the famous quatrain concerning the thin man and his peculiar eating habits. Instead, it was a certain John Clark in something called, "Paraemologia", written in 1639:
"Jack Sprat will eat no fat,
And Jill doth love no lean,
Yet betwixt them both
They lick the dishes clean."
