SG Approves Resolution To Change Student Store Profits Allocation

At Annual Banquet

Lathrop, Sprinkle Win Campus Publications Cup

Roy Lathrop, Editor of The Technician, and John Sprinkle, business manager of WKNC, received Publications Cups (symbol of the highest honor for publications work on campus) at the annual Board of Student Publications banquet.

This award was presented by Henry Bowers, assistant director of student affairs. The award is given for the most outstanding service on the campus publications during the past year.

The State College Publications Board consists of The Technician, the Agromeck, WKNC, the Southern Engineer, the Textile Forum, the Pinetum, the VO-AG, the Agriculturist, and the School of Design.

The speaker for the dinner banquet was Professor Lindsay Whichard of the English Department, a former board secretary and present advisor to The Technician.

Editor Herbert E. O'Keef of The Raleigh Times presented keys given for meritorious service on the campus publications.

Presiding over the meeting was Rudolph Pate, chairman of the Board of Student Publications and director of the College News Bureau.

Among the guests of the Publications banquet were outstanding leaders of the College and Ernest Hunter, retired editor and assistant to the publisher of the Charlotte Observer.

Introductory remarks were given by Roy Lathrop, who introduced Professor Whichard. The invocation was spoken by John Sprinkle.

The banquet was held at Scandia Village near Raleigh, on Friday, May 1.

53 Top Sophomores Invited to Enter Eng. Honors Pro.

A special meeting for a selected group of 53 outstanding engineering sophomores, who have been invited to enter the Engineering Honors Program next fall as juniors, will be held Tuesday, May 5, at 7 p.m. in Room 11, Riddick Building.

The announcement was made today by Dr. Robert A. Douglas, civil engineering faculty member who is in charge of the School of Engineering's Honors Program.

Dr. Douglas pointed out that this is the first time that rising juniors have been selected to participate in the program which offers an opportunity for superior students to obtain an unusually strong background for their future work in the engineering fields.

The Engineering Honors Program went into effect in September, 1955, and was designed for superior senior students who were encouraged to examine their curriculum and to arrange a course of study most suited to their individual needs.

This year the Honors Program was revised and further developed to include juniors, beginning with the 1959 fall semester.

Purpose of the scheduled meeting Tuesday evening is to explain the Honors Program and to answer any questions the invited sophomores may have concerning the planning of a program of studies for the junior and senior years.

Those sophomores who have been selected to participate in the program are listed here by departments:

Civil Engineering—Phillip S. Jackson, Hugh D. McDonald, Arthur E. Reynolds, and Jerry O. Williams.

Electrical Engineering—John L. Booker, Hugh L. Geringer, Donald L. Hester, Randall M. Ivey, Thomas L. Jones, Lawrence C. Moore, James E. Tyng, and Jefferson H. Walker.

Recommended Resolution

60% For Aids, 40% For Athletics

In the meeting of the Student Government last Thursday in the College Union, a resolution to redistribute the profits of the Student Supply Stores between Grants-in-Aid and Athletic Awards was passed with a 28-11 vote.

The resolution recommends to the Chancellor that 60% of the profits go to Grants-in-Aid and the remaining 40% to Athletic Awards.

The measure passed after two hours of discussion.

The resolution recognized the fact that the academic program of the College should take preference over the athletic program. However, it was also recognized "that there are many advantages in maintaining a high caliber inter-collegiate athletic program."

Another bill on Attendance to the Legislature was passed.

This bill rules that "any Senator who incurs three or more unexcused absences in any year will be subject to recall at the next regular meeting following his third absence."

There are many lengthy minor details in this bill which involve how late a Senator may be, how excuses must be submitted, absences to committee meetings, alternates, and so on.

The resolution concerning the Student Supply Stores allocations run as follows:

WHEREAS, the students of North Carolina State College recognize that academic standards are the foundation of an Educational Institution and the educational community has as its basic objective the development of the intellect and,

WHEREAS, the students also recognize that there are many advantages in maintaining a high caliber inter-collegiate athletic program and,

WHEREAS, after carefully studying and weighing the objectives of the athletic program and the academic program and without malice toward athletes and the Athletic Department, the Investigations Committee of Student Government feels that a majority of the Student Supply Store profits should be allocated to Grants-in-Aid.

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED, that the North Carolina State College Student Government recommend to the Chancellor that the Student Supply Stores' profits be allocated in the following manner for the 1959-60 School year:

- (1) Sixty per cent (60%) to Grants-in-Aid.
- (2) Forty per cent (40%) to Athletic Awards.

YMCA To Receive New Name: E. S. King Religious Center

On Tuesday, May 5, at 5:45 p.m., the YMCA building will be rededicated as the E. S. King Religious Center in a service to be held in the Danforth Chapel.

The building is being renamed in honor of Mr. Edward S. King, who served as General Secretary of the YMCA from 1919 until 1955. Presiding over the service of rededication will be Chancellor Carey H. Bostonian.

A banquet for approximately two hundred fifty people will be held in the College Cafeteria at 7:00 p.m. following the service.

The newly designated building will be presented to the Honorable Shelton J. Wicker, Chairman of the Consolidated University Trustees' Committee on Naming of Buildings, by Mr. Fred W. Manley, President of the College YMCA. Dean of Students emeritus E. L. Cloyd will present a brief history of the YMCA at State.

Featured speaker at the banquet will be Dr. W. D. Weatherford, who for many years, was closely associated with Mr. King and with the work of many other YMCA's in the South.

Students to Present Annual Play at CU

The College Union Theater Committee presents the annual three-act play in the ballroom of the CU on May 8 and 9. The production in two acts, "The Beautiful People," will begin at 8 p.m. each evening.

The play by William Saroyan has a cast of nine students from State College. Charles Trexler as Owen Webster, Clyde Weeks as Harmony Blossom, David Warren as William Prim, Joyce Meares as Agnes Webster, Glenn Perry as Jenah Webster, Jerry Watson as Dan Hillboy, Maurice Barbour as Father Hogan, James Bradshaw as Harold Webster, and Clint Umstead as Steve.

The production takes place in the Webster home, an old house on Red Rock Hill in the Sunset District of San Francisco.

The plot involves a little old lady, a lost boy, mousetraps and mice, a cornet player in New York, and the ransacking of St. Anne's, the church down the street, for a mouse that has been lost for a week. How do the mice fit into the picture—very well—and they create the amazing and serious, sad, funny plot that develops.

First Things First

Our Student Government has handed down the decision on supply stores profits split (see page 1) by an impressive majority vote . . . setting a precedent, perhaps for the first time this year, for further independent, strong, realistic action by that body.

After a lengthy debate, during which both sides were heard equally, the strong affirmative vote served to recognize that State College can not and must not allow academics to be secondary to any other pursuit.

Discrimination against athletes and/or athletics was not the point in question. The issue instead revolves around the emphasis given in financial support to athletic awards above academic awards . . . and the resolution passed by Student Government simply maintains that the non-athlete, deserving students should be able to claim a major portion of the profits which they created.

State is not able to compete with other large schools in the area of academic scholarships. We have nothing to compare to Carolina's Morehead awards or the Angier-Duke scholarships. We must be in the position to compete unless we want our reputation as a quality school to be lost in the rush . . . the rush of brilliant, academically-minded students to other schools where brains are awarded more than brawn.

We can not expect industry to continue pouring money into a school which itself does not award those of promising academic careers nearly so generously as it supports its athletic program. And we haven't heard an effective argument yet against the practice of other famous schools which gives special preference to athletes only if they excel first in academics.

We understand that the Chancellor may not hand down his decision on the S.G. action for a few weeks, because of a heavy workload. We earnestly hope, and can realistically expect, that such an important decision will be made quite soon. From several meetings with the Chancellor and student representatives, we can assume that the Chancellor already has quite definite ideas on the subject at hand. Although everyone must realize that much pressure will be exercised on him, we are optimistic that the Chancellor will assert himself in his position of leadership at State College.

Thursday night, about sixteen thousand dollars theoretically changed hands, diverted from athletic to academic scholarships. This amount, though only a small beginning in light of the tremendous need, can inaugurate an invaluable program to boost the service and prestige of State College. We have no doubts that the deserving athlete will still be able to find adequate financial support from the businessmen of Raleigh and the alumni of this college . . . with a few notable exceptions, neither group is now donating itself broke.

Former Student Tells of Anguish In Dealings With the Present 'System'

Editor's note: The Technician received this letter last week. As you can tell by the way it is written, the writer was one of those students dismissed from school after the last meeting of the Honor Code Board. Because of the obvious handicap that would be suffered by this former student if his name was released at this time, we are withholding it.

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter to the undergraduates of State College—the rising sophomores, juniors, and seniors—who all stand a chance of one day being in my predicament. I know you are thinking, "It can never happen to me." I thought so too, but I was wrong, because the trap has been baited and sprung, the axe has fallen and my head is still rolling.

I am not a student who has recently been granted some fancy sounding title through a campus-wide popularity contest, and then sat down to try to decide how it would feel to be convicted of cheating and, as a result, have that longed-for graduation date changed from thirty-one days to seven hundred, sixty-two days in the future. I speak through experience. This has happened to me. Don't let it happen to you.

How can it be prevented? Let's take a look at the "System." What is this "Honor Code" anyway? What does it mean? What is its goal? According to a passage in the "Honor Code," "the primary goal of the Honor Code is to develop in the student those honorable virtues that are so essential in attaining strength of character." Did you know that? Don't feel too badly if you did not; the chairman of your Honor Code Board didn't either. The duly-elected member of the Board who served by summons could not answer even one of my questions without first looking in his copy of the "Constitution." What kind of leaders are they? Are men capable of organizing, upholding and enforcing a system which they themselves do not understand?

Now let's look at the other side, the men employed by State

College to teach, to counsel, and to advise. Before the trial I was assured by one such employee of the state that he neither influenced, nor tried to influence, nor desired to influence the Board's decision on any case. Yet, when I let it be known after the trial that there was a possibility of my appealing for a re-trial because of an error in trial procedure, this same gentleman said, without a moment's hesitation, "I'll fight it all the way."

There is no excuse for dishonesty, but is a student always one hundred per cent at fault? Is not a "teacher" who, when asked a question, scratches his head, grins, and replies, "Oh, that shouldn't be too hard; you should be able to figure that one out," partly to blame?

Gentlemen, something is wrong with the "System." It has failed in accomplishing its primary goal. For a system of discipline that is just, and fair, and honest, there will be no "apathy," "disinterest," and "egotism." I appeal to each of you to look over this system twice. It does not work. Get out of the rut. Change it. Try something new. Find something that does work.

Is severity the answer? I think not. I am inclined to believe that it is the certainty of punishment and not the severity of punishment that helps men overcome temptation.

Would you take away a year or two of a man's life for a first offense? I do not believe the majority of you would, but I am almost certain that most of you would perform your duty of reporting "Honor Code" violations if you knew that the classmates on whom you informed would receive no stronger punishment than a zero on the quiz or an "F" in the course (for the first offense).

My proposal then, if I were allowed to make one, would be an "F" on the course for the first offense, suspension for a second offense, and dismissal for a third offense.

Students cheat for one reason only—to receive a higher grade than they would have received without cheating. I know of a case in which a student was convicted of plagiarism on a freshman English theme. For this, he was given an "F" on the course and placed on probation. Yet, four seniors were suspended for cheating. Should not these penalties have been the other way around? Does it matter how one cheats? Is a one semester suspension equal punishment to a freshman and a senior? How can it be?

Let us look at one thing more—33%. Does 33% constitute a majority? Why did only 33% of the student body participate in the recent campus elections? Was it because these elections were, in fact, only popularity contests? Does not 33% show disinterest? Does disinterest not indicate disapproval? A system which is approved by less than one-third (assuming part of the 33% did not approve and showed their disapproval by voting for men they thought would change the "System"), of the people governed by it should not go unchallenged. It should not go unchanged.

I have said enough. If fifty-one per cent of you are in favor of the present "System"—although it does not work—then I am wrong. If, because of my penalty, "those honorable virtues that are so essential in attaining strength of character have been molded into the personalities of two of you, the penalty was not given in vain.

Retreats --- Valuable to Fraternity Systems

By Bill Marley

A couple of weeks ago, one of the "Eighteen" here at State, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, did something a little out of the ordinary for a social fraternity. About fifteen brothers and pledges took a weekend out and went down to New Bern and arrived at the Governor Tryon on Saturday afternoon.

The entire purpose of this trip was, in a way, intangible. But one thing can be said, and that is that it was a stimulating experience. You may still be a little in the dark about what I am trying to tell you, so I will try to explain this further.

These SAE's did nothing but have a good, old fashioned "Bull session." These men and their discussion leader, Mr. Bill Long of the State College YMCA, hashed over everything from the world situation to the fraternity system. They touched on things such as ideals, what the newly-graduated college man faces, and his approach to the problems. Pertaining to the fraternity system, they discussed fraternal problems such as "Hell Week," brotherhood, the goal of the fraternity, and the place that religion should hold in a fraternity.

Some of you will probably laugh at what I have said and at any suggestion that I would make concerning more fraternities trying these retreats, but just ask any one of the SAE's who took the trip how the atmosphere changed in the first meeting after they got back to Raleigh.

Along these same lines, Sigma Phi Epsilon had Mr. Oscar Woodriddle, Coordinator of Religious Affairs here, over to the house as an after dinner speaker a few weeks ago. We had asked him to speak on the piece of religion in the fraternity, and the first thing he said was that we weren't going to hear what we had expected, i.e., go to church in a group, etc., but that he was going to tell us exactly how he felt. He called us "phonies" as a starter, and then proceeded from there.

The striking thing about the entire speech was that everything the man had to say was true. This man, who has as his charge all of us here at State, really laid it on the line. To say the least, we were shocked out of our snug little hypocritical cocoons, momentarily perhaps, but he started some of us thinking. If you want to hear something about religion that you have probably never heard, ask Oscar Woodriddle over to your house some night.

I don't intend for this article to become a "soapbox" for Bill Marley, and I certainly don't want to offend anyone, but just consider for a minute one question—"Where are those principles that my fraternity is founded on?" Can you see them in the brotherhood at your house?

In the column that I have in next Monday's Technician, I will try to bring all the fraternity men here at State up to date on the proposed fraternity row. Since the original move several years ago, there have been many developments and I think all of you will be interested in hearing about these and hearing about where we stand now.

Pack Blasts Tigers, 9-2, To Break Losing Streak

Coach Bill Wilhelm's Clemson Tigers were defeated by State College Saturday by the score of 9-2. This was the second defeat of the season for Clemson at the hands of the Wolfpack.

The victory by the Pack practically eliminated the Tigers from the ACC championship. Wake Forest, who leads the conference, has lost both its games to Clemson.

The victory by the Wolfpack enabled two streaks to come to an end. The Wolfpack had lost four games in a row while the Tigers had five straight victories to their credit.

State won the game on numerous errors committed by the Tigers. State had only two of its runs earned. Clemson made seven errors in all.

Wilson Carruthers, the sophomore righthander from Greensboro, was the winner for the Wolfpack. It was his fourth victory of the season as compared to only two setbacks. Carruthers allowed only six hits as he went the route.

and turning in two double plays.

Harold Stowe, last year's leading pitcher in the conference, took the loss. This gave him a 3-3 record for the season.

The game was decided in the fourth when the Wolfpack scored three runs. Jim Hill homered in the fourth to highlight the inning. Glen Sparrow, who was three for four for the day, led off for the inning with a single.

After being sacrificed to second by Jim Cox, he scored on an error. Cox then scored ahead of Hill's homer. This was only the third homer of the season for the Wolfpack.

The Pack got its last two runs in the fifth. This knocked out Stowe in the process.

The Tigers got only two runs off Carruthers. Both of these came in the third inning on Doug Hoffman's double.

Alumni Association Presents Annual Award

The Alumni Association of State College Saturday presented its three top annual awards at a luncheon attended by former students of the college from throughout the country.

Award winners were Herbert E. O'Keef, editor of The Raleigh Times, who received the "Award of Merit"; Richard J. Reynolds, Jr., former Winston-Salem Mayor and 1927 State College alumnus, who was presented the "Meritorious Service Award"; and Louis E. (Lou) Pucillo of Philadelphia, a senior here and star of the ACC championship basketball team, who won the Alumni Athletic Trophy.

O'Keef and Reynolds were presented the awards as the non-alumnus and the alumnus, respectively, who were considered to have served State College best in the last year.

Leslie N. Boney, Jr., of Wilmington, chairman of the Alumni Association's board of directors, presented the award to O'Keef.

Reynolds was unable to attend because of illness, and his son, William Neal Reynolds, II, of Winston-Salem, a freshman at State College, accepted for his father. The award was presented to young Reynolds by LeRoy Martin of Raleigh, vice president and trust officer of the Wachovia Bank and Trust Company and a friend of the Reynolds family.

Basketball Coach Everett Case presented the award to Pucillo.

Presiding over the luncheon was Mose Kiser of Greensboro, president of the Alumni Association.

In a citation accompanying his award, O'Keef was praised as "An effective spokesman for the progress of education" and as "one of the best neighbors and friends of North Carolina State College."

Reynolds was lauded for his service to the Democratic Party, his benefactions to State and other institutions, and his work for the advancement of agriculture and industry in the State.

Aero Society Installs Officers, Outlines Plans for Coming Year

New officers of the student branch of IAS were installed last week at a regularly scheduled meeting in Broughton.

Next year's officers are: Bob Bundy, Chairman; Bob George, Vice-chairman; Joe Byrd, Recording Secretary; Ron Henson, Corresponding Secretary Phil Hughes, Treasurer; Yates Sorrell, Program Director.

Chairman Bundy outlined plans for next year, and encouraged all IAS members to take part in a program aimed at improving and enlarging the student branch here at State College. He further emphasized the importance of IAS, in that it affords Aeronautical Engineering students the opportunity to better understand the work they will be doing after graduation. Along the same line, Yates Sorrell announced that Engineers from every phase of Aeronautics would be invited to speak at the meetings next year.

Chairman Bundy also announced that the annual IAS picnic would be held on May 15, and all lower classmen in Aeronautical Option are invited to attend. Information on the picnic may be obtained by calling TE 2-4964.

Before you are forty you will want and need between 25 and 70 thousand dollars in insurance. If you can't afford it now at least you can afford to protect your ability to get it when you can afford it. Don't let an accident or illness in the meantime run your rates out of reach.

With no pressure and no obligation on your part I will show you how to build security for the future while protecting those you love today . . . and tomorrow.

(I can tell you about it on the phone. Just call TE 2-3000 day or TE 4-1516 nite.)
