Band To Present Third Outdoor Concert

The third in a series of outdoor concerts will be presented on the College Union Terrace on Friday night, May 8, by the North Carolina State College Symphonic Band under the direction of Robert A. Barnes.

William Byrd of Mount Olive will be a featured soloist on the program playing a brilliant arrangement of the familiar song Tramp, Tramp, Tramp. Other numbers on the program include Suite in F Major of Holst, Litt of the Latin—a sparkling Latin American composition, Lassus Trombone—a trombone novelty by Henry Filmore, selections from George Gershwin, military marches and a composition for band and dixieland combo titled the Original Dixieland Concerto.

Members of the Dixieland Combo include Edward Langston, clarinet; James Bradshaw, trumpet; David Teague, tuba; Russ Cook, drums, and two unnamed members of the State College music faculty. All concerts begin at 7:00 p.m. and end before 8:00 p.m.

S. G. Committee Recommends Compulsory ROTC Be Dropped

In an effort to retain accreditation for the Engineering School here at State College, the Academic Affairs Committee of the Student Government has prepared a resolution calling for the abolishment of credit for the advanced military training program and also calling for the basic program in military training to no longer be compulsory for freshmen and sophomores.

This resolution has been under discussion for a long while, but this is the first real student action on it. Tuesday, the Faculty Senate passed a motion saying that ROTC on an advanced level be given no credit towards graduation, but they also said, in the motion, that the basic program in ROTC should remain mandatory and that this basic program should receive credit towards graduation.

Although the question of the Engineering School losing its accreditation is probably the most important point in favor of this recommendation, the Academic Affairs Committee cites other reasons in their resolution. One of these was that the military program, in the form in which it exists here on campus, is not the type of course that should receive academic credit, because of the need for a more rounded type of education, i.e., more courses in the General Studies department. The recommendation that will be presented at the S. G. meeting is as follows:

Whereas: compulsory military training at the undergraduate level imposes an unnecessary military obligation on those whom are obliged to take it, it being significant to note that the armed forces gives no special consideration either in rank or pay to those men who have completed only the basic ROTC course in their undergraduate years; and

Whereas: compulsory military obligation does not coincide with either the academic or vocational plans of the majority of the members of the student body, while compulsory courses in English composition, foreign languages, or the sciences are consistent with the academic or vocational aims of nearly every college student, there is not justification for maintaining a mandatory course in military science;

Therefore, be it resolved, that this legislature recommend that the administration adopt the policy that no student be required by the college to take any courses in ROTC.

Whereas: the Engineers' Council for Professional Development has stated that the accreditation of the department of the Engineering School will be revoked if credit is still given towards any degrees for advanced ROTC in the fall semester of 1961; and

Whereas: this legislature desires to keep academic standards at such a level as to obtain national accreditation for all the departments of this college; and

Whereas: this legislature believes that undue emphasis should not be placed on military education in this, a scientific and technical college;

Therefore, be it resolved, that this legislature recommends that the administration adopt the policy that no credit towards graduation be given students for participation in an advanced ROTC program. This legislature recommends that such a policy first go into effect for the class of 1961.

For Coming Year

State's Dormitories Elect New Officers

New officers for State's thirteen dormitories were elected during recent elections.

Each dormitory elected a president, vice-president, and secretary. The president and vice-president from each dormitory will become members of the Interdormitory Council for the coming year.

The new officers and their office are as follows: President: J. T. Garrett, Alexander; William R. Keen, Bagwell; Robert F. Brake, Becton; E. S. Elam, Berry; J. O. Pivin, Bragaw; W. K. Smith, Fourth; L. D. Eudy, Gold; J. H. Williamson, Owen; T. E. Avent, Syme; S. W. Brummitt, Tucker; D. R. Paul, Turlington; W. N. Easterling, Watauga; R. T. Hatch, Welch.

Vice-president: Amos Hardee, Alexander; James Deal, Bagwell; E. P. Speight, Becton; D. B. Whitley, Berry; Frank Madren, Bragaw; William F. Hix, Fourth; N. A. Anderson, Gold; Ross Olive, Owen; J. Brakebill, Syme; R. L. Tucker, Tucker; C. E. Pugh, Turlington; W. D. Dinnes, Watauga; J. J. McCree, Welch.

Secretary: Paul L. Keyes, Alexander; O. C. White, Bagwell; C. T. Holloman, Becton; D. W. Nelson, Berry; J. G. Futrell, Bragaw; L. S. Wallace, Fourth; G. E. Whitesides, Gold; A. D. Hooper, Owen; W. O. ## Student Accepts Answers, Suspended By Board

On Thursday, April 30, a student was convicted by the Honor Code Board of cheating by obtaining and memorizing an answer sheet to a quiz which he took the following day.

The student was suspended from school for the remainder of this semester and for both summer sessions. He will be allowed to re-enter State College at the beginning of the fall semester of 1959-60 if he is academically qualified. In addition he will receive an "F" in the course in which the violation occurred.

After the trial was completed, the Honor Code Board for the school year, 1959-60, took the oath of office. Joel Ray was elected its chairman, and Harris Caldwell was elected its clerk.

Little Theater Stages Special College Night

On Tuesday, May 12 at 8:00 p.m. there will be a special College Night performance of the Raleigh Little Theater production, "The Diary of Anne Frank" at the Little Theater on Pogue Street.

Tickets for this performance are available for students, wives and dates at the special rate of $1.00 and may be purchased at the main desk of the College Union until noon of May 12th.

Considered one of the most potent indictments against totalitarianism and war the world has known, the play tells without violence, a tragic part of recent history with an impact no historical book or document could equal.

The story of eight Dutch Jews forced into hiding during the dark days of the German occupation of Holland, the play covers the two years they spent in the cramped attic loft of an office building and ends with their discovery and arrest by the Nazis.

Through it runs the theme of a young girl growing awareness of herself, her relationship with her parents, her first love for the shy Peter Van Daan, (See LITTLE THEATER, page 8)

Must We All Lose?

Should the ROTC program here at State College be made voluntary and receive no credit towards graduation? This is a question that has arisen many times in the past, but until now, nothing has been done.

That's right . . . "until now." Yesterday, the Faculty Senate passed a recommendation to the effect that advanced ROTC receive no credit toward graduation. (See story, page one.)

And next week, the Student Government will discuss a resolution prepared by its Academic Affairs Committee asking that not only the credit for the advanced program be dropped, but also that the basic courses be made voluntary to all students.

Of the two proposed changes, the recommendation by the Student Government Committee is the best.

Of course, many students here want to go into the advanced course and later obtain a commission in either the Army or the Air Force. It is also true that, State being a technical institution, a student could not take the full program in ROTC without receiving credit, (a total of twenty semester hours), and expect to graduate in four years.

But, let us look at the arguments presented in favor of the resolutions. First, and all-important to students who are now at State and to all future students of State, a very strong possibility exists that would make our Engineering School non-accredited if the requirements that now stand for ROTC are retained. The reason for this is that, in giving credit for ROTC, we are giving academic credit for courses that are not academic.

It stands to reason that a measure such as this would affect a much greater percentage of the student body than the abolishment of credit for ROTC.

Another argument that calls for a voluntary program here at State is that the objectives of those students enrolled in the advanced course in ROTC. Many of them are taking the advanced course now only so that they may be admitted into the armed forces at a higher rank than they would be able to obtain without the training.

Figures in the past have shown that less than two per cent of the total students enrolled at State have pursued their military obligation any further than the minimum requirement. This goes to show that the majority of the students in the program are not in it for what they can contribute to the nation's defense, but rather for what they can contribute to making their military stay an easier one.

Of course, students cannot be blamed for this. But the question is should they be allowed to use valuable time in which they could be taking more worthwhile electives to take electives in which they have neither lasting interest nor permanent gain.

Many points can be made concerning the worth of the subject matter in the ROTC programs, the need of more humanities courses in the curriculum of the student, etc., but the two points above speak for themselves. We must take measures to prevent the discreditation of the School of Engineering. If these measures affect two per cent of the student body, that is bad. But, if these measures are not taken, and sixty per cent of the student body is affected, that is much worse.

Case: Misplaced Loyalty Penalty: Lonesome Guilt

To the Editor:

The door is opened for you to room 252 on the second floor of the College Union. You enter with three of your friends who are with you tonight to testify to your good character previous to . . . well . . . the act. Yet you know you are really alone. You alienated yourself from them the moment you looked at the answer sheet your "friend" obtained for you the strength of materials quiz you took that Monday. "Or maybe I was still with them until Professor Miebuhr discovered I had cheated, and consequently my three friends discovered that I had." No, you set yourself apart from these three students with you when you made the decision to look at the answer sheet.

You survey the room and study its ten occupants, seated behind the three tables forming an inverted "U" along the back and half of each side of the room. And you are curious and interested. "I have seen him before," you say to yourself. "That's funny, I never thought he'd be on the Board." And you are mildly surprised.

Your mind drifts to the doorway of the room where it remains half inside and half outside of the room. First one student speaks to you from behind the back table, and you find yourself muttering, "I plead guilty." And you sit at the table, partially closing the top of the "U" and assume an air of defiance, which masks the self-pity and submission you feel inside you. The conflicting emotions make you nervous. And you clasp your hands and lower your head but with a scowl. The student who led you into the room is telling what you have done, and your mind wanders about apart from his words.

"Why? Why? Why did I do it? Anybody would have done it! Anybody would have looked at that answer sheet!" And you look up. "They would have too. Each and every one of them!" You are bitter. But your conscience punishes you for your charge and sends the hurt all over your body.

In the back wash comes the defiance once again. And you single out one of the Board.

"I'd like to hit him full in the face as hard as I can." And then the new thought takes over. "No, I won't tell them who the 'friend' is. He's married and has three children and graduates this month." And you felt your reasoning justifies silence.

Suddenly, you realize one of your friends is talking in the room. And you listen attentively. Then each of the other two speaks for you. "They're trying to help me. Those words didn't come merely out of duty to me from the past. They're full of emotion." And your mind oscillates in the doorway.

And then the Board showers the questions upon you. "Haven't I admitted that I cheated? What are they trying to find out?"

"No! I can't and I won't tell you who my 'friend' is!" You find yourself stubbornly insisting to all queries about the student who obtained the answer sheet for you. And they give up. And you are led out of the room into the hall and around the corner.

And you wait and wait and wait. You are nervous and unaware of the strained conversation among your three friends. And you hope. The human constitution is such that it hopes against all possibility of any hope. And it cries out for the special consideration and mercy that it does not really expect and is not due.

You walk back into room 252 when you are called and the student behind the back tables announces that you have been suspended from school. The feeling of the Board has been transformed into meaningful symbols which have been conveyed to you. And in you the words are changed back into feeling which envelopes you. And you leave the room.

And the great ocean of human experience opens up to receive one more life into its depths. Will you continue to sink, or will you struggle back above surface with a new eye to the sun?

But there will be others with you. To whom will your graduating "friend" entrust his key?

Church College: A Rebuttal

"Meredith typifies the Church-related college, and the Baptists who support and direct it take pride in its Baptist atmosphere." The above quotation is taken from the feature article—"The Church College: Is Narrow Bad?"—appearing in last Sunday's News and Observer.

That delightful little article was so entertaining that I have rendered parts of it to the edification of all those fortunate State men who missed the original.

The first paragraph of the article would have us believe that the only people attending Meredith are former high school valedictorians and such like. . . all coming from the land between "Manteo and Murphy." (Manteo to Murphy is sort of a cute little device used in feature writing to mean North Carolina. I guess, too, the valedictorian writing hasn't heard a Meredith cabbage-patch draw lately.)

Having convinced us that Meredith is a school for prodigies, but exclusively, our author goes on to tell how there's this family, see. The family's got a daughter ready for college! Well, the daughter has visions of going to a real hep coed university with fraternity parties and sororities and all that jazz. But the old man—he went to East Carolina—feels that the future of the world's hanging on the church-related college. (Well, isn't it?) The old lady sees her daughter as Miss America, etc.

Well the family isn't quite convinced that Meredith is the place for "Virginia". They all have reservations like: "Is Meredith insular?" (I think they mean are there bars on the windows and locks on the doors and do they walk the students after every meal.) The folks also wonder if they dance at Meredith.

Well now we get around to where religion enters the picture. Our author tells us that some Baptists are narrow. But while making this revelation she goes on to say that often narrow Baptists have the "insularity" of saints.

WAY OUT...

with John Cocks

In the spring of the year, the leaves came out on the trees in March and the heat came too early. I remember the heat because I had passed out twice on the drill field one day and had been punished by a week in the stockade. And I remember looking out of the stockade window and seeing the air rise in waves from the black asphalt near the Coliseum.

It was the spring of the tenth anniversary of the militarization of the college. Ten years ago the ROTC departments had united and grown so big that the institution had been turned into a military school.

The Head Master of the school was now an old army man whom no one I knew had ever seen. His orders always passed through channels, and I can imagine nobody having any personal contact with him except his aide, a Major Duck. We had visions of a psychopathic cripple ruling from a wheel chair.

And we had some reason to suspect this because of the stupidity and contradictions of many of his orders. I remember that he sometimes refused to grant excuses from academic classes for students that were required to do certain military chores. But I understand that this also went on before the school went completely military.

I was let out of the stockade at six in the afternoon, and it was still hot. It had been cool in the cell and I came out to see the officers and guards all standing around in pools of sweat. The guards had on white helmets which the air could go through, but the officers kept taking off their caps and shaking the sweat out of their hair. I walked slowly over to the cafeteria and ate supper and then went back to the dorm.

I spent the rest of the night polishing my brass and shining boots. The next day was Anniversary Day and we were going to have a parade. I liked parades because they stripped everybody down and you could see what stupid mice they were. Especially the officers.

So we got up early and put on our uniforms and walked through the sunny morning to the cafeteria. The sun had just come up and we were beginning to sweat again as we went up the hill to class.

At eleven we formed on the drill field. From my spot at the end of one of the lines I could see the cordon that the Arnolds had thrown around the cadre. The Arnolds had formerly been an honor society, but was now the student police force, patterned after Hitler's Schutzstaffel.

We stood in the sun for a while and looked at the cloud of flies that had fallen around our heads. Finally the column was formed and we began to move toward the parade grounds. The Drum and Bugle Corps began a march that sounded like a funeral dirge, and the dust rose in our faces and up and down the line I could hear people coughing and gasping as we wound along the road.

After a long time we came in sight of the reviewing stand and saw the Pershing Rifles and their awkward red "Santa Claus" suits. We went down the hill that flattened out before the stand, and our company commander said eyes right, and for the first time I saw the Head Master.

I saw our Leader on the reviewing stand. He had big saucer-like ears and a white muzzle and was covered everywhere else with short black fur. He wore red shorts with two big buttons in front and a shoulder strap.

Better Student Welfare; Loan Program Recommended by Long Range Plan

Note: All opinions and statements expressed in this article are those of the writers of the Long Range Plan, backed by the approval of the Faculty Senate.

By Roger Faulkner

The general recommendation of the Long Range Plan concerning Student Welfare is, "Renewed and continuing efforts should be made, through better housing, medical care, counseling, and all other available means, to enable State College students to have a happier and more rewarding total experience here."

Since about 80 per cent of a student's time at college is spent outside the classroom, the long range planners feel that much thought and effort must be given on the part of the college to give him greater benefits and opportunities in his spare time.

Student housing is very important in two areas. First of all, "adequate, attractive, and practical housing for all types of students should be provided . . . at the least possible cost." Secondly, "the environments created in housing facilities must be conducive to high academic pursuits, growth of the individual in personal responsibility, recognition of obligations to group welfare and self-discipline."

Again quoting the Long Range Plan, "Student counseling is a very important service in the modern university because it helps to determine the fitness of students and to make more certain their entrance into curricula that are suitable to them. Counseling also serves to aid students in helping them to alleviate personal problems which interfere with effective educational functioning."

Concerning Health Service, the Plan states, "The College Health Service should seek to promote individual and general health in the College community through a program of comprehensive medical care. These objectives are achieved through:

- (1) prevention of illness and injury,
- (2) serving as an educational center for the collection and dissemination of information having to do with health and medical services,
- (3) the reduction of physical and emotional handicaps which prevent students and staff members from performing satisfactorily, and
- (4) caring for the sick students."

Student activities should be encouraged as an integral part of the education of the students, the Plan says. "As now conceived these activities include student government, publications, fraternities and other chiefly social student organizations, musical, dramatic and art activities, religious affairs and the College Union and its program."

Tuition and fees will, if not checked, rise considerably in the next few years. It is, however, the basic principle of Land-Grant Colleges that a college education should be made available to all qualified persons. This cannot be followed while at the same time increasing tuition and fees. Increased cost has already prevented many able persons from attending college because of financial reasons.

Concerning scholarships and financial aid, the Plan feels that even with low individual cost there are many exceptional students who cannot afford a college education. It is in respect to these persons that society in general and the College in particular have a duty to help as they will be the future leaders.

According to the Plan, "The President's Committee on Education Beyond the High School defines an 'effective scholarship' as one 'which provides an unrestricted grant of money not otherwise available to the particular student, covering at least half of the cost of tuition and maintenance and awarded on the basis of proven intellectual aptitude and achievement.' This is a satisfactory standard for North Carolina State College."

Scholarships also place emphasis on excellence in academic work. There is a great need now for excellence in all areas.

There are also students who may not be exceptional, but are definitely able. The Plan feels that long-term loans with low interest and summer and part-time employment are the best methods of helping these people. "The College should take an active role in making much of its work available to students for pay. The College should also establish facilities to aid the students in getting part-time and summer positions."

At The College Union

By Oscar Taylor
Friends of the College

Through the efforts of the College Union backed by Mr. Erdahl, the Friends of the College, Inc. was formed in order to broaden the scope and meaning of a cultural project of great significance. This project was proposed to bring to the members of the Raleigh community an annual series of Coliseum performances by distinguished international artists. The Friends of the College was formed as a non-profit corporation having the right to extend participating membership and attendance privilege to a limited number of citizens in the Raleigh area.

The interest and support of these people will mean that Raleigh will be the scene of the most ambitious cultural project in the South. With the backing of Raleigh citizens the students of State College as members of the College Union, the originator of the idea, will be entitled to attend this program offering next year and years afterwards free of charge, with one guest.

The Beautiful People

William Saroyan's two act play, The Beautiful People, will be presented in the College Union ballroom on May 8 and 9 beginning at 8 p.m. each performance. This play involves a little old lady, a lost boy, lost mouse, mousetraps, a little whistle from Mexico, and a cute little girl named St. Agnes of the Mice, played by Joyce Meares, a State College co-ed. This should be of great interest to students. For those that only know that two and two are four this will be a crackpot drama—but those with a little imagination will understand this as a rare enchantment.

Married Students' Field Day

The Hospitality Committee sponsors a field day for married students and their families this coming weekend at Umstead Park on May 10, beginning at 2 p.m. Bring lunches; drinks will be furnished free. There will be someone to watch your children while you participate in the recreation planned for your enjoyment.

Duke Names Vic Bubas Head Basketball Coach

Vic Bubas, assistant basketball coach and former coach star for the State College Wolfpack, was Wednesday named as successor to Hal Bradley, head basketball coach of the Duke Blue Devils. Announcement of this decision was made by Duke Athletic Director Eddie Cameron at a Wednesday afternoon press conference in Durham.

Coch Bradley resigned March 23 to accept the head coaching job at Texas. Bubas' selection came at the end of a six weeks search, in which 135 candidates were considered and screened.

Bubas, the only sophomore to captain a Wolfpack basketball team in the history of State College basketball, played college ball at State from 1947 to 1951. He was selected to the All-Southern team, not to mention other numerous awards.

After his graduation in 1951, Bubas remained at State to become Freshman basketball coach. In four years as the Frosh coach he compiled a commendable record of 65 wins as compared to only 10 losses. His Freshman teams won three coveted Big Four Frosh Championships, in the four years he spent as head mentor.

In 1955, he succeeded Carl Anderson as assistant to Coach Everett Case and his varsity Wolfpack squad. Since that time he has been second-in-command to Coach Case, and on occasions of Case's absence, has taken over the reigns of the Wolfpack. His duties have included scouting for the Pack cagers, recruiting, and supervising the scholastic work of the Wolfpack players.

In his high school days, Bubas was a basketball great at Lew ed upon by the student body, and was a member of the Athletic Council.

Bubas, 31 year old native of Gary, Indiana, is married to the former Miss "Tootie" Boldt of Gary. They have three daughters, Sandy, Vicki, and Karen.

Coach Bubas has been sought by many colleges for the job as head coach for the past few years. He was offered the head coaching job at Clemson two years ago, but declined the offer. He is constantly asked to speak at clinics and sports conferences. Considered one of the most intelligent young men in basketball, he has been cited by Coach Case on numerous occasions for instigating strategy in important cage tilts.

Next September, Bubas will take over as head basketball coach at Duke, and will inherit from Coach Bradley a talent-packed squad of hustling cagers, who finished third in the Atlantic Coast Conference last year.

Coach Everett Case and all of State College will certainly miss Coach Bubas next year, as

N. C. State lost a close game to the boys from Chapel Hill Tuesday by a score of 3-2. The boys from Chapel Hill, who are known better as the North Carolina "Tar Heels", won the game on a homer by John Burgwyn.

Jim Overby, who was coasting on a 1-0 lead through 5½ innings of play, was the victim of the Tar Heel uprising in the bottom of the sixth inning. The victors rallied for three runs to put the game on ice for all intense purposes.

Burgwyn's blow landed 370 feet from home plate in the vines which cover the right field fence. Wilson Carruthers finished up for the Wolfpack, as Overby was taken out of the game after Burgwyn's homer.

The Tar Heels began the inning with a base hit by Russell Hollers, Ferg Norton fol-

Do You Think for Yourself? (TAKE THIS TEST AND FIND OUT!*)

1. Does it bother you to admit that you haven't read a very popular book? YES  NO

2. Do you think there are degrees of cheating in a game or examination? YES  NO

3. Are there certain foods you feel sure you'd dislike without having ever tried them? YES  NO

4. Would you be seriously concerned to read in your horoscope that catastrophe would befall you tomorrow? YES  NO

5. Do you often fall short of cash several days before your pay or allowance is scheduled to come through? YES  NO

6. When you're driving, do you like to be first getting away from a stop light about to change? YES  NO

7. Would you be reluctant to learn a new sport in the presence of friends who were experts? YES  NO

8. Have you found it to be personally true that "a man's best friend is his dog"? YES  NO

9. Do you believe your choice of a filter cigarette should be based on hearsay? YES  NO

If you're the kind of person who thinks for yourself, then choosing a cigarette will be based on a careful study of the facts—not on quick decisions.

Men and women who think for themselves usually smoke VICEROY. Their good judgment tells them there's only one cigarette with a thinking man's filter and a smoking man's taste. And that cigarette is VICEROY.

*If you've answered "NO" to eight out of the nine questions above, you really think for yourself!

Softball Playoffs Begin In Fraternity League

By Jay Brame

The softball playoffs begin in the Fraternity League this week with the Sigma Nu battling the PKA, AGR vs. SPE, Sigma Chi vs. PKP, and KA vs. Delta Sig. The Sigma Nu fraternity is the defending champs in the Fraternity softball league.

The following teams emerged victorious in the games above: Sigma Nu, Delta Sigma Phi, AGR, and PKP.

All the games except the Delta Sig-KA game were close. The Delta Sigs won by a score of 13-0 over the KAs. The game was called at the end of four innings because of the ten run limit in intramural softball games.

The Sigma Chi's lost a heart-breaker in extra innings by the score of 7-3. With the score tied in the bottom of the seventh 3-3 the Sigma Chi's had runners on second and third with nobody out. However, Dave Jurney, pitcher for the PKP's, bore down and retired the next three hitters on pop flies to the infield. In the top of the eighth the PKP's tallied four runs to put the game on ice.

The SPE's, only team in the Fraternity league to go undefeated during the regular season, lost their first round game to the AGR's by a score of 9-6. Outstanding player of the game was Gordon Sawyer, who hit two home runs for the AGR's. Chuck Edwards pitched the victory for the AGR's.

conference play and 7-9 overall. The Wolfpack played errorless ball in the field. The game from a spectator's standpoint was an excellent played game.

In the other first round game the Sigma Nu's defeated the PKA's by the score of 6-5. The Sigma Nu's scored what proved to be the winning run in the bottom of the sixth. With L. B. Coulter on third and Ernie Donahoe on second, Jay Brame, captain of the Nu's, hit a ground ball to the first baseman, who threw to home plate too late to get Coulter. This was a close victory for the Nu's. However, when you are champs, everybody wants to knock you out of the playoffs.

Next week the semi-final rounds will find the Sigma Nu's vs. AGR and PKP vs. Delta Sigma Phi. The winners of these two games will battle for the Fraternity League softball championship.

The following is the final standings of the Fraternity League Sections and the Dormitory Sections:

"GENTLEMAN AND SCHOLAR"
High praise, indeed, for any man! But did you know that the description comes from Robert Burns—who said it first about a dog? Here's the quote:
"His locked, lettered, brow
Showed him the gentleman and scholar."
You'll find the couplet in Burns' "The Twa Dogs."

"THE MORNING AFTER"
This horrible time was first immortalized by George Ade in "The Sultan of Sulu." Here's the way he put it:
"But, R-E-M-O-R-S-E-I
The water-wagon is the place for me;
It is no time for mirth and laughter,
The cold, gray dawn of the morning after!"

"MAN BITES DOG"
That's everybody's definition of news, and we're all indebted to John B. Bogart, city editor of the old New York Sun (1873-90) who first said:
"When a dog bites a man, that is not news, because it happens so often. But if a man bites a dog, that is news!"

10 State Students Awarded Atomic Energy Commission Fellowships

U. S. Atomic Energy Commission Fellowships, ranging in value from $1,600 to $2,000 each, have been awarded to 10 engineering students in State College's Physics Department.

College officials said the awards will provide for the study of nuclear science and engineering during the 1959-60 academic year.

State College students chosen to receive the fellowships:

Clarence O. Thornburg, Jr., James W. Byrd, Critz H. George, Alfred L. Mowery, Jr., Claude G. Poncelet, Thomas F. Wyke, Lawrence Harris, Jr., Lawrence A. Mink, William C. Remini, and Carl M. Penney.

The award winners were among 183 outstanding students throughout the United States and Puerto Rico selected to participate in the Commission's fellowship program which is administered by the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, Oak Ridge, Tenn.

The fellowship winners may use the awards for the first, second, or third year of graduate study and may be used toward earning either a master's or Ph.D. degree.

They are valued at $1,600, $1,800, or $2,000 depending on the recipient's year of study.

The fellowships were established by the commission to encourage more graduate students to pursue courses of study in this field, so as to help meet the nation's increasing demands for highly-trained scientists and engineers in nuclear activities.

LIGHT UP AND LIVE IT UP! 3 great cigarettes offer you 627 chances to win! So pick your pack—save the six wrappers—and get going! It's crossword puzzle fun and real smoking pleasure all the way!

ENTER OFTEN—HAVE FUN—AND WIN! But think carefully! This puzzle is not as easy as it looks. At first the DOWN and ACROSS clues may appear simple. There may appear to be more than one "right" answer. For example, the clue might read: "Many a coed will be given her best date's P--N." Either "I" (PIN) or "E" (PEN) would seem to fit. But only one answer is apt and logical as decided by the judging staff, and therefore correct. Read the rules carefully. ENTER AS OFTEN AS YOU WISH. Good luck!

RULES—PLEASE READ CAREFULLY

- The College Puzzle Contest is open to college students and college faculty members except employees and their immediate families of Liggett & Myers and their advertising agencies.
- Fill in all missing letters... print clearly. Use of obsolete, archaic, variant or foreign words prohibited. After you have completed the puzzle, send it along with six empty package wrappers of the same brand from L&M, Chesterfield or Oasis cigarettes (or one reasonable hand-drawn facsimile of a complete package wrapper of any one of the three brands) to: Liggett & Myers, P. O. Box 271, New York 46, N. Y. Enter as often as you wish, but be sure to enclose six package wrappers (or a facsimile) with each entry. Illegible entries will not be considered.
- Entries must be postmarked by midnight, Friday, May 29, 1959 and received by midnight, Friday, June 5, 1959.
- Entries will be judged by the Bruce-Richards Corporation, an independent judging organization, on the basis of logic and aptness of thought of solutions. In the event of ties, contestants will be required to complete in 25 words or less the following statement: "My favorite cigarette is (Chesterfield) (L&M) or (Oasis) because...". Entries will be judged on originality, aptness of thought and interest by the Bruce-Richards Corporation. Duplicate prizes will be awarded in event of final ties. Illegible entries will not be considered. By entering all entrants agree that the decision of the judges shall be final and binding.
- Solutions must be the original work of the contestants submitting them. All entries become the property of Liggett & Myers and none will be returned.
- Winners will be notified by mail as soon as possible after completion of the contest.
- This contest is subject to all Federal, State and local laws and regulations.

CLEAN LIVING

Description of the Week (From a Carolina Man): Charles Craven, that crew-cut cretin of Wake County.

Labor Trouble Piles Up: All the mechanics down at the local Ford Agency walked off the job Monday. Seems they were protesting the job of cleaning up after the Thunderbirds.

Live It Up: I don't know about the other spring parties, but if the AIEE picnic this year is anything like the one last year—WOW!!! Every minute is New Year's Eve!

Too Bad: Speaking of the IE Department, I'll bet the IE office traffic will be pretty heavy for a while till the boys find out that the new luscious doll of a secretary is happy and permanently married.

Handwriting on the Wall: Milton Ussey, a rather observant young man, and a frequent contributor to this column, tells this story.

Leaving Daniels Hall in the early AM after a nerve-racking, nail-biting cram session for a Strength of Materials hour quiz, Milton passed a classroom that had obviously been used for someone else's cram session. Cake cups, wadded paper, and cigarette butts littered the floor; and on the blackboard, amid a jumble of diagrams and equations some poor shook soul had written, for all the world to see, this agonizing message: "I HATE this place!"

More on Medics: In the stories about our infirmary that have appeared here, I may have given the impression that the entire infirmary organization stinks. If so, I apologize to the infirmary staff. The nurses do a beautiful job and are loved by their patients—particularly Miss Duke. But the fact remains that that certain "busy" doctor is giving the infirmary a black eye with his seeming indifference.

For instance, a friend of this column tells about going to see this "busy" doctor lanced the on his neck.

"Lean over and let me take a look at the boil," the doctor said. Then, without warning, and without cleaning the area, this "busy" doctor lanced the boil. No antibiotics were administered.

The next day, the boy awakened with a fever and an inflamed and infested neck. Rather than get the same slipshod treatment from Dr. "Busy," the boy went home to see his family doctor. Several weeks of treatment were needed to correct the situation.

Wonder if Dr. "Busy" also makes lamp shades from human skin?

Bouquets: Congratulations to the Agromeck Editor Boswell and his staff for a terrific job well done. This year's Annual is the best in many years. And I'll swear that black is white.

Chapel Hill is That-a-Way, Fellows: Those affectionate boys that have started frequenting a local beverage shop are not Design Students. They were run out of an uptown establishment and are trying to set up shop close to the college.

Why don't you beverage consumers let these sweet fellows know that they are at the wrong branch of the Greater University.

Sigma Upsilon Alpha Report: The officers and brothers of SUA are eagerly looking forward to the opening of their Co-ed Nudist Camp in June. Organized to keep the young people off the streets and out of trouble during the summer, the SUA men are planning a few study courses that will prepare the young people to better meet the challenge and complexity of modern urban living.

Courses such as Proper Drug Administration, Switchbladeology, Pornographic Composition, and Zip Gun Construction should go a long way in helping the deserving young people of our society to find their place in the sun.

As has been pointed out here innumerable times, Sigma Upsilon Alpha is a real Civic-minded, Public spirited organization and Clean Living heartily endorses their community service functions.

The Day Junior Went Away...
Or Why Mother joined the Mah-Jong Group

Who will ever forget that time? The whole town turned out... well, maybe not the whole town... to see little Bobby Collegebound off to the University. There he was in his hand-stained bucks... pleatless khakis... and his varsity sweater. (Badminton 1, 2, 3, 4.) Sonja... ah, Sonja, his homeroom sweetheart, sobbed quietly. Sonja had heard stories about the co-eds. She was worried.

As the Toonerville local pulled in, another small cry was heard. It was Bobby's mother. Who will look after him? Who will warm his milk and care for his shirts? Then came the unforgettable reply. Bobby, head high, shoulders back, answered... "I will I will wash my shirts." Ah, smart boy. He'll make the grade. Gone was the callow adolescence... for Bobby Collegebound had bought Van Heusen "Vantage" Shirts with his allowance. No longer need he be tied to Mother's apron.

ADVENTURES IN SOCIAL SCIENCE: NO. 3

Today, ranging again into the fascinating world of social science, let us take up the subject of anthropology—the study of man and his origins.

The origin of man was indeed a puzzle until the Frenchman, Jean-Louis Sigafoos, discovered the skull and shinbone of Pithecanthropus Erectus in Java in 1891. What Sigafoos was doing in Java is, incidentally, quite an odd little story. Sigafoos was a Parisian born and bred. By day one could always find him at a sidewalk cafe, sipping barley water and ogling the girls; each night he went to a fashionable casino where he gambled heavily at roulette and go-fish; in between times he worked on his stamp collection, which was one of the largest in Paris.

Well sir, one summer Sigafoos lost his entire fortune gambling at the casino. He was seriously contemplating suicide—when, quite unexpectedly, a letter arrived from one Lotus Petal McGinnis, a Javanese girl and an avid stamp collector, with whom Sigafoos had been corresponding from time to time through the international stamp collectors journal. Until now the nature of their correspondence, though friendly, had been strictly philatelic, but in this new letter Lotus Petal declared that although she had never laid eyes on Sigafoos, she loved him and wanted to marry him. She said she was eighteen years old, beautiful and docile, and her father, the richest man in the tribe, had agreed to give half his fortune to the husband of her choice. Sigafoos, penniless and desperate, immediately booked passage for Java.

The first sight of his prospective bride failed to delight Sigafoos. She was, as she said, beautiful—but only by local standards. Sigafoos had serious doubts that her pointed scarlet teeth and the chicken bones hanging from her ears would be considered chic along the Champs Élysées.

But sobering as was the sight of Lotus Petal, Sigafoos had an even greater disappointment coming when he met her father. The old gentleman was, as Lotus Petal claimed, the richest man in the tribe, but, unfortunately, the medium of exchange in his tribe was prune pits.

Sigafoos took one look at the mound of prune pits which was his dowry, gnashed his teeth, and stomped off into the jungle, swearing vilely and kicking at whatever lay in his path. Stomping thus, swearing thus, kicking thus, Sigafoos kicked over a heap of old bones which—what do you know!—turned out to be Pithecanthropus Erectus!

But I disgress. From the brutish Pithecanthropus, man evolved slowly upward in intellect. By the Middle Paleolithic period man had invented the leash, which was a remarkable technical achievement, but frankly not particularly useful until the Mesolithic period when man invented the dog.

In the Neolithic period came the most important discovery in the history of man—the discovery of agriculture. Why is this so important? Because, good friends, without agriculture there would be no tobacco, and without tobacco there would be no Marlboro, and without Marlboro you would be without the finest filter cigarette that money can buy, and I would be without a job.

That's why.

Without tobacco you would also be without Marlboro's sister cigarette, Philip Morris, a non-filter smoke that can't be beat. Philip Morris or Marlboro—pick your pleasure.
