Chancellor Guest Speaker

Tau Beta Pi Inducts 38 At Fall Banquet

At its fall initiations recently, the North Carolina Alpha chapter of Tau Beta Pi inducted thirteen juniors and twenty-five seniors into its ranks.

Tau Beta Pi was founded at Lehigh University in 1885 by Edward Higginson Williams, Jr. "to mark in a fitting manner those who have conferred honor upon their Alma Mater by distinguished scholarship and exemplary character as undergraduates in engineering, or by their attainments as alumni in the field of engineering, and to foster a spirit of liberal culture in the engineering colleges of America."

Distinguished scholarship, while being the primary requisite for admission into Tau Beta Pi, is not the sole criterion. After the scholastic requirements have been fulfilled, the selection is based on integrity, breadth of interest both inside and outside of engineering, adaptability, and unselfish activity.

Following the initiation ceremony a banquet featuring sirloin steaks was served to the one hundred and fifty members and guests present. Chancellor Caldwell, the guest speaker, spoke on liberal education in engineering colleges.

The juniors initiated are Charles D. Jamerson, Jr., James L. Jones, Walter J. Lackey, Frank S. Madren, Gary A. Massey, S. C. Mathews, William B. Michael, Edward S. Oberhofer,

The seniors inducted into the association are Charles Lamar Aderholt, Michael R. Alford, George R. Barber, R. V. Coggins, Alton B. Crumpler, Henry Lee Fisher, Roger A. Gregg, Charles Gotuace, Philip E. Hamrick, Robert H. Holladay, Charles G. Kirkman, Leonard E. Levitt, R. O. Livengood, Robert J. Loftin, Everett P. Lopacker, Vester J. May, James A. Merricks, Douglas Y. Perry, C. H. Rutherford, Edwin A. Shearin, and Alton Grey Tilley.

Summer Tour Of Russia Open Through Exchange Program

Would you like to spend eight weeks behind the Iron Curtain this summer and meet Russian students of your own age? Would you like to learn about the Communist world through a first hand visit, instead of reading about the Communist's beliefs and hopes second hand in a newspaper? It is entirely possible that you can be a member of the exchange group sponsored by the YMCA which will visit Russia and Europe this summer.

Noted Israeli Educator To Study Textile School

One of Israel's top-level educators arrived here Monday for a three-day visit to State College's world-famed School of Textiles.

He is Director Saul Skosowski of the Arie Shenkar Textile School at Ramat-Gan, Israel, located near Tel-Aviv. His host at State College is Dr. Malcolm E. Campbell, dean of the college's School of Textiles.

Traveling in the United States under the auspices of the International Cooperation Administration, Director Skosowski will confer at length with Dean Campbell on administrative matters relating to the operation of the School of Textiles.

He will also visit the school's multi-million dollar laboratories, attend lectures, and observe the library resources.

One of the problems in running the Israeli institution, he said, is the lack of textile publications in Hebrew. After scanning the literature here, he plans to translate selected text materials from English into Hebrew for the use of the growing student body of school at Ramat-Gan.

Director Skosowski said the textile industry is growing rapidly in Israel, a country which grows both Egyptian and American staple-length cotton. The manufacturing industries are burgeoning, and the textile school at Ramat-Gan, which Skosowski heads, is expanding its teaching and laboratory facilities to provide training for a growing tide of students.

Student Found Guilty Of Theft In Supply Store

At its first trial of the year, the Honor Code Board tried the case of a student who was accused of stealing a book from the Student Supply Store.

The student pled guilty, and after due deliberation by the board, was found guilty and was given a sentence of probation effective immediately until the first of June, 1960.

All pertinent information, including the offense, verdict and sentence, will be placed on the student's permanent record. A letter concerning the incident will be sent to the student's parents.

Probation is defined as that status which forbids the affected student to represent State College in any capacity or to belong to any college organization other than that in which he has a life membership.

Norm Owen, President of the YMCA, was the State College student who participated in this program last summer. He spent an enjoyable eight weeks visiting in the USSR. He became acquainted with Soviet customs, beliefs, and the hope which many Soviet students held of a better, more democratic Russia. He witnessed the nationalism of the Russians who want to defeat the U. S. in all forms of competition. Norm stated.

"The experience which I had in the Soviet Union cannot be fully understood by any American student unless he can witness it first-hand. Out of my experience has grown a deeper knowledge of the Soviet people.

But also from my adventure I acquired a better understanding of our own American concepts and a greater zeal to exercise my rights and duties as a democratic citizen."

The selection of the student who will represent State College will be by the YMCA. The selected student's application will then be sent to National Headquarters. The final selection is made on a national basis and it is quite an honor to be selected to participate in the program.

One's political maturity, interest, and knowledge concerning international relations will be one of the factors on which the selection is based. A record of achievement that would indicate one is able to respond, communicate, learn and share as part of a group in a demanding situation will be part of the chief criteria for the selection of participants.

On returning to the campus next year, the student will be expected to share with the rest of the community his experiences and knowledge which he gained during the summer exchange program. This should be understood by anyone who applies, and it is only natural that one should share with the rest of the campus the excitement and intrigue of his trip.

The expense for the trip is approximately $1500, but do not let this stop you from applying. This money can be raised, as it was last year, through civic organizations and through campus clubs and organizations. The selected student might also find that some of his home town civic organizations would be more than glad to assist his going to Russia. The selected student would be working through the YMCA in the raising of this money.

All students who are interested in participating in this exchange program should come to the office of the State College YMCA and leave his name and address with the secretary before January 6. This will prove to be an invaluable experience to the student who does go to Russia; so stop by the YMCA at your first opportunity.

Rare, Unique Wood Carving Given School of Forestry

State College's School of Forestry has received an early Christmas gift.

It's a rare and unique wood carving of the Nativity—clearly showing the principal figures involved in the birth of Christ.

Dean Richard J. Preston of the college's School of Forestry said the carving, approximately 3 feet by 4 feet in size, was presented to the institution by Charles G. Campbell of Adrian, Mich., founder and president of the Kewaunee Technical Furniture Company of Adrian, Mich., and Statesville, N. C.

The carving is now on display in the lobby of Kilgore Hall at State College and provides an added Puletide touch on the college campus.

It was carved by an Austrian artist, Robert Petscheider, who was trained in the famous Tyrolean Carvers School in Austria. He left Austria at the age of 20 and worked his way through Europe and later to Canada and the United States, where he was employed by the Svoboda Church Furniture Company of Kewaunee, Wis.

His chief assignment is to create carvings for cathedrals and other religious institutions.

Campbell commissioned the artist to make a series of carvings based on many rare paintings collected on European travels by Chester Fisher, president of Fisher Scientific Company of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Petscheider's work at State College is carved from basswood. The artist used approximately 50 tools in the process of completing the work.

The carving may be seen free of charge and is open daily from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Federal Grants-2

The Federal Student Loan Program, intended primarily to help many worthy students through the schools of our country, has caused one of the greatest controversies to develop in the history of all federal loan programs. The reason that arguments have developed is that students who subscribe to the program are required to sign an oath of allegiance to the United States government and also to sign an affidavit saying that they, the students, do not believe in, are not a member of, and do not support any organization that believes or advocates the overthrow of the U. S. government.

In the November 23 issue of The Technician, we contended that there was nothing wrong with such an oath or affidavit, when, and only when, it was affixed to a grant of federal funds for a student's education. We still contend that this is so.

If the federal government were requiring that all persons, in order to worship as they please, in order to think as they please, in order to own their own home, in order to choose their vocation, in order to do anything, sign a loyalty oath of allegiance to the United States government, then would come the time to question the validity of its basis for such a requirement.

But, the government is not doing this. Simply stated, any student who desires money from our government to further his education must sign the oath. It is required only if the student is to receive government aid. No one's basic ideals and beliefs are being infringed upon. Can anyone be hurt by this simple requirement?

Tonight, this question will probably be raised in our Student Government. There will be discussion on both sides: some saying to follow the lead of Yale and Harvard and recommend that State College withdraw from the Program, others saying to disagree with the Program on the basis of violation of rights, but still remain in it, and still others saying to support the Program.

We hope that enough Student Government senators will belong to the third group. Aside from the all-important fact that there is nothing wrong with the requirements of the Program, there is the equally important fact that there are students here at State College who need the loans supplied by this Program, and who could never finish if the school were to refuse the federal aid.

Let us not be guided astray by false idealism. A denial at this point will benefit no one; however, a move for continuation would benefit a great many.

Structure - Basis of Workability

By Joel Ray
Honor Code Board

The students of State College are hopelessly unaware of the workings of their own self-government. This is a plight which is not at all uncommon among members of any governed society. As the saying goes, ignorance is bliss. In this case, ignorance of the masses is not bliss for the leaders. In fact, it is quite distressing because people must understand in order to be led.

The purpose of this article is to increase the cognizance of the student toward the structure and function of the Judicial System on this campus.

The judicial branch of Student Government is composed of three student boards, one student-faculty Board of Review and one student-faculty Retrial Board.

The student boards, namely the Honor Code Board, the Men's Campus Code Board, and the Women's Campus Code Board, perform the main function of conducting trials concerned with violations of the Honor Code and Campus Code, respectively.

Each board conducts its investigations and trial procedure in the same manner. When a violation is reported to the administration, the chairman of the involved board is contacted. He, in turn, knowing only the name of the defendant and the alleged violation, appoints an investigator from the membership of the board. It is the duty of this person to contact the defendant and serve his summons within forty-eight hours before the time of the trial.

The investigator collects all pertinent evidence and information concerning the case and presents it in the form of an impartial report during the trial. The accused then answers questions from members of the board and presents his own testimony. He is allowed such defense as he desires in the form of witnesses. After all relevant facts have been presented, the board goes into deliberation.

It is then decided whether or not the defendant is guilty, and, if he is, what penalty he will receive. This is decided by two-thirds votes of the board. The investigator has no vote in the proceedings and cannot express an opinion in either the trial proper or the deliberation.

The rights of the individual are preserved to the fullest extent in our system. In addition to the forty-eight hour period between the summons service and the trial and the freedom to have any witnesses, the defendant has several other very important rights.

The presumption of innocence until guilt is proven is an inherent right of the accused. He is also given the right of facing his accuser and is fully informed by the investigator as to the procedure and the rights that he possesses.

All trials are closed to the public. The results of each trial, including the charge, type of violation, verdict and sentence, are published in The Technician immediately following the trial. All names remain confidential.

The Board of Review has the duty of deciding whether or not a person convicted by one of the boards shall have a new trial. The student must either prove an error in trial procedure or produce vital new evidence relevant to the case to obtain a new trial.

If a new trial is granted, the defendant is tried by the Retrial Board, which considers only the

Campusology

By Nick Ardito

This column sees, with satisfaction, the step taken by the 1960 Senior Class; the organization of committees to select the best teacher of the year in each school is a step forward on our campus, because professors will be given the incentive and recognition which is proper from students taking courses under them. It must be important, no doubt, for professors with an ethical and conscientious attitude towards their profession to know what their students think of their teaching techniques, and this approach of honoring the good, instead of censoring the poor, is certainly excellent.

An undertaking of this nature is appropriate for an institution such as our school, which finds itself in the middle of a momentous "leap forward" (a quotation used with quite a different meaning in quite a different institution) and needs the contribution of every one of its active members.

Our faculty, in general, is made up of a group of outstanding and respectable men and women in their own fields. We well know that this is the reason for which many of our departments are considered among the best in this country. Nevertheless, quite a few individuals on the faculty, perhaps with excellent academic preparation, do not seem to have the ability to communicate their ideas to the students in an interesting and educational manner.

To be more specific, quite a few professors do a poor job of interesting their students in the subject matter treated and do not raise the mental ability of the students to the level of discipline and abstraction necessary for everlasting results. Too often such faculty members merely give a boring amount of facts and details which, if relevant, are soon forgotten by the limitations of our memories, thus leaving nothing of real value in the maturing mind of the student.

The plan of the Senior Class officers works under the assumption that professors doing a poor job are not purposely doing so, but, for the contrary, desire to improve their abilities to a level more beneficial to the students. Since nobody can better evaluate how thoroughly a professor is reaching the student than the student himself, it is, then, not only our privilege, but our duty to actively do the evaluating for our own sake. The fact that the judgement of every student can not be taken as gospel is well considered since only students with top academic records, in general, the more mature ones, will make the final decision of honoring the professors performing the best jobs.

For many years now, the Student Government has sponsored the so-called "teacher evaluation sheet", which in a sense performs the same function intended by the plan of the Senior class officers. Many persons, however, question with critical eyes the effect of those "evaluation sheets" in view that they are only looked at by the professor being evaluated.

The criticism made, I think, is correct. It is true that professors work under the rather intangible ethical code that they have complete freedom to teach their courses in their own way and approach the students as their personalities best see fit. However, when the welfare of all students—and consequently the reputation of the college—so concretely depends on something so open and wide as that "intangible ethical code", then the students should at least be able to pass their evaluations not only to the professor in question, but also to the Head of a Department or the Dean of a school.

Rambling 'Round

By HARVEY HOROWITZ

I don't know why it has to be that way, but there is a certain tendency among certain people around this school to do things in the most backward, inefficient way possible. I am thinking particularly of the distribution of tickets for the 'Holiday Doubleheaders' this weekend.

It was bad enough to have to stand on line in the cold, but until one of my fellow-standers set them straight, they had two lines, one for Friday's game and one for Saturday's, and by God, if you want to go to two games, you stand in two lines! And would someone please tell me why the students must PAY TO ATTEND TWO REGULARLY SCHEDULED BASKETBALL GAMES—isn't that sort of thing supposed to be included in our fees?

All right, if you won't do it for the drivers, do take pity on the poor pedestrians! A student who lives in the new dorm and has no car will surely flunk out—he can't cross the street in the morning to get to class! That corner needs a traffic light!

Noted on a desk in Patterson: a carving of a tombstone with the legend 'In memory of those who died here waiting for the bell.' Oh, come now, I enjoy those lectures—I need the sleep!

I don't know whom I should notify about this: the sundial in front of Primrose hall need setting. It is a full hour early. Oh well, the sun shines so rarely in Raleigh that it is probably not worth the effort. Besides, I don't think M and O can afford to divert seven men for three days to set the thing.

Did you hear the weather prediction on "that station" the other day? The man said it was to be 'COLDY AND CLOUD-ER.' Oops!

Am I going to have to go to Nassau all alone? (With those fifty girls from W. C.) If you chaps don't come along, you are really going to miss a ball!

Query: Who was Eddie Knox serenading at W. C. last weekend? It must have been Santa Claus, he was singing White Christmas.

They made a big mistake in decorating in the Union this year—where is the mistletoe? I know one young lady who says she is going to wear a sprig of it in her hair this year.

I am told that the C. U. has started another duplicate bridge game on Sundays, in addition to the sessions on Wednesday nights. See all you bridge fiends there!

I hope none of the football team is planning to make a living through gambling. They've been matching before the game for ten games now, and haven't won once. If the senate hears about this, they'll probably decide to investigate it as soon as they are through with rock and roll.

Advanced or Not

ROTC Sophomores: Take Your Choice

By Ken Steppe

This article is of interest primarily to Sophomores who are enrolled in the Army ROTC program, because it is they who will be deciding next Spring whether to enroll in the advanced ROTC program. The reason for the second year basic cadets to be confronted with this decision arises from the Reserve Forces Act of 1955 which demands an eight year obligation of all physically fit Americans.

Here are the fundamental facts concerning the selection of the advanced course with reference to completion of one's military obligation. The graduate who has not elected to complete the advanced course is subject to being drafted into the Army for a two year tour after which he will participate in a two year Ready Reserve and a two year Standby Reserve program. The advanced military graduate is commissioned a Second Lieutenant and serves either a six month or a two year active duty tour. Insofar as possible he is given his choice of these two options. A ready Reserve obligation of seven and one half years follows the six month tour and the two year tour is followed by three years in the Ready Reserve and one year in the Standby Reserve.

Over and above the advantage of becoming a commissioned officer upon completion of the advanced course, each cadet receives invaluable training in leadership and character development.

Applicants of the advanced course must pass a physical examination and a written entrance test. In addition to 2 years of Military Science each cadet is required to complete six weeks of practical training at summer camp before he may be commissioned upon graduation. During his training in the advanced course, each cadet receives a subsistence allowance of $0.90 per day plus other benefits including regular army uniforms

The young man who elects to participate in the Advanced ROTC Program renders his country a valuable service by receiving officer training. The Honorable Wilber M. Brucker, Secretary of the Army, sums up the role of the ROTC graduate: "Among the most distinguished of our young citizens is the ROTC graduate—the young man who has qualified himself for leadership of the most responsible type which this Nation demands of its youth. On one hand he has a college degree which certifies him to pursue endeavors in the arts or sciences on in the business world. On the other hand he has an officer's commission, a certificate of authority given him by his country to command men—perhaps even to lead them to battle."

State? or Carolina?

North Carolina State and the University of North Carolina take on Kansas and Kansas State in a pair of intersectional double-headers in Reynolds Coliseum, Friday and Saturday night.

Friday night's schedule sends Carolina vs. Kansas in the opening contest at 7:30. State and Kansas State meet in the nightcap at 9:15.

Saturday night the teams swap fees and starting times with State taking on Kansas at 7:30 and Carolina playing Kansas State at 9:15.

The prestige of the ACC will be at stake in both of these double-headers.

The members of the ACC feel that they have the strongest basketball conference in the nation.

State undoubtedly does not have as strong a team as it did last year due to inexperience and the graduation of four star senior players.

The Tar Heels also will be hurting due to the less of center Dick Kepley and Forward Doug Moe. Kepley is out with an injured ankle, while Moe is ineligible due to excessive cuts in the spring semester of '59. Both of these boys will probably not be ready to play until February.

There is no love loss between State and Carolina basketball fans.

However, the ACC will be able to prove how strong it is with a clean sweep over both these two intersectional fees.

Whether you are a Wolfpack fan or a Carolina fan, you should support your state teams and ACC members against intersectional fees.

In Dixie Classics and past NCAA basketball tournaments Big Four fans have pulled for the intersectional fee against the Big Four team they were playing.

This is doing the ACC and the Big Four a great injustice.

It is true that the fan has a right to gripe or boo the other team. He also has a right to pull for the team that he wishes.

However, with the prestige of the ACC, State, and UNC at stake this weekend, it would be very wise for State fans and Carolina fans to pull for both teams. If you do not like to think of it that way, then think of it in the manner that you are pulling and supporting the prestige of the ACC.

With a clean sweep of these double-headers the prestige of the ACC will boom around the nation.

State? or UNC? or the ACC? You will be doing them all a favor by pulling for them this weekend.

USC Upsets State, 71-70 In ACC Thriller

North Carolina State's Wolfpack lost their second straight ACC game at the hands of South Carolina Tuesday night. The final score of the game was 71-70.

Ronnie Johnson's jump shot from the corner with two seconds left in the game climaxed a comeback by the Gamecocks for the victory.

The Wolfpack led 67-59 with 3:51 left in the ball game. USC called time out and decided to press the Wolfpack. Art Whisnant, the game's high scorer with 23 points, led the surge against the Wolfpack in the closing moments of the contest.

The Gamecocks cut State's eight-point lead to a one-point lead, 68-67, with a little over a minute left to play. Bob DiStefano, State's high scorer with 21 points, made two free throws to make the score 70-67. Mike Callahan made two points for the Gamecocks, and the score was 70-69 with 1:18 left in the contest.

Anten Muehlbauer lost the ball out of bounds with 23 seconds left as the Wolfpack tried to freeze the ball. The Gamecocks again called timeout and decided to play for one shot at the basket. Their strategy almost didn't pay off as the Wolfpack blocked one of their shots and broke up a pass, only to see Johnson come up with the ball and throw it through the hoop with only two seconds left in the contest.

It was only the second time in history that a South Carolina team had beat a State team coached by Everett Case. The last time a State team lost to South Carolina was in 1956 by a score of 75-61.

This also marked the first time in history that a Case-coached team had dropped two out of its first three contests.

The Wolfpack started off the second half like they were going to make a run away of the contest. They stretched their seven point lead which they enjoyed at halftime to an 11 point lead, 48-37. The Gamecocks fought back and cut the State margin to two points, 51-49.

From here it was a nip-and-tuck contest until State led 67-59 with 3:51 left.

The score was tied five times and exchanged hands no less than six times.

Don Gallagher, Captain Dan Englehardt, and Stan Niewerowski followed DiStefano in the scoring column with 11 points each.

State's record is 1-2 overall and 0-2 in conference competition. The Gamecocks are 2-1 overall and 1-2 in conference action for the season.

The Army ROTC Rifle Team has won eleven consecutive postal matches this year. All were fired against teams in the 3rd Army Areas in which State is located.

The team begins traveling this weekend with a match against the AFROTC at Carolina. Other trips scheduled throughout the year are to The Citadel, V.P.I., Duke, North Carolina College of A & T, Wake Forest, and the sectionals at Conover, N. C.

The team is steadily improving and the year is being viewed optimistically by Coach McDade and the team members. The Hearst Postal Match, fired by most of the teams in the country, will be fired this week. An overall ranking is given each team in the U. S., and the Army ROTC team at State should be high on the list.

The high scores fired so far this year are 100 in the prone position shot by Whitesides, Hinson, Herr, Hitchcock, Rosignol, Pindell, Waller, and Chedester 98 kneeling fired by Hinson and 91 standing fired by Buchanan. A high score for the three positions for one match was fired by Hinson with a 288.

Many range improvements have also been made. New mats were purchased and are now in use. Target pulley systems, which permit targets to be reeled back and forth down the firing line without the firer leaving the back of the range, have been ordered. The range has recently been cleaned and painted. Shooting coats, gloves, and other equipment have been ordered.

Grapplers Open Home Season Against Cavaliers Friday

By David Huffman

Al Crawford, head wrestling coach at North Carolina State since 1946, begins his 14th year as master of the Wolfpack grapplers.

A precise teacher and strict fundamentalist, Crawford has been coaching wrestling for 15 years. He was a topnotch wrestler at Appalachian State Teachers College before his graduation in 1935. In 1936-37 and 1938 Al copped the heavyweight titles in A.A.U. competition and in 1938 he journeyed to Stockholm, Sweden where he won the international title.

About the upcoming season, Crawford says, "I feel that our team will make one of its better showings in recent years. We meet some good teams but I feel that we will be able to represent State College well. I am very optimistic about the season and anxious to see how it will turn out."

Coach Crawford has four returning lettermen that have the experience to give him reason to be optimistic. Tony Maltese, George Broyhill, Robert Reynolds and Douglas Matthews are the lettermen who are expected to lead the Pack. Dick Dreiser and Paul Jaeger, two football players, are also expected to give the team extra strength. Rounding out the squad are Joe Donaldson and Abram Mott.

Coach Crawford says that all weights are open and anyone interested in coming out for the team is welcome. Before coming to practice go to the field house at the stadium to fill out an eligibility blank which can be acquired from the Secretary. Practice is held each day from 4:00 to 6:00 in the wrestling room of the Coliseum.

State's first home meet will be Friday, December 11, at 4:00, when the Wolfpack will take on the Cavaliers of Virginia. The meet will be held in Frank Thompson Gym. There will be no admission charge.

Let's get behind the boys on the mat and boost them to a successful season.

Some people would argue, and not without reason, that many times, the evaluation sheet only reflects the attitude of the student to his grade, or the little care that his frivolous and prankish mind has for the course. Nobody can deny this, and, least of all, the wise reflection of the Head of a Department.

The evaluation sheets should only be given relative attention, but, if that limited attention is given to the sheets by both the professor and the Head, they will undoubtedly mean more to the individual professor in the quest of improving his personal teaching methods.

This column wholeheartedly endorses the plan of the Senior class officers and the suggestion concerning the evaluation sheets voiced by this newspaper and many other active students.

an atomic clock in orbit

To test Einstein's general theory of relativity, scientists at the Hughes research laboratories are developing a thirty pound atomic maser clock (see photo at left) under contract to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Orbiting in a satellite, a maser clock would be compared with another on the ground to check Einstein's proposition that time flows faster as gravitational pull decreases.

Working from the new research center in Malibu, California, Hughes engineers will develop a MASER (Microwave Amplification through Stimulated Emission of Radiation) clock so accurate that it will neither gain nor lose a single second in 1000 years. This clock, one of three types contracted for by NASA, will measure time directly from the vibrations of the atoms in ammonia molecules.

Before launching, an atomic clock will be synchronized with another on the ground. Each clock would generate a highly stable current with a frequency of billions of cycles per second. Electronic circuitry would reduce the rapid oscillations to a slower rate in order to make precise laboratory measurements. The time "ticks" from the orbiting clock would then be transmitted by radio to compare with the time of the clock on earth. By measuring the difference, scientists will be able to check Einstein's theories.

In other engineering activities at Hughes, research and development work is being performed on such projects as advanced airborne systems, advanced data handling and display systems, global and spatial communications systems, nuclear electronics, advanced radar systems, infrared devices, ballistic missile systems...just to name a few.

The rapid growth of Hughes reflects the continuous advance in Hughes capabilities—providing an ideal environment for the engineer or physicist, whatever his field of interest.

All filter cigarettes are divided into two parts, and...

"Weni, widi, Winston!" Thus did Caesar (a notoriously poor speller) hail the discovery of Filter-Blend—light, mild tobaccos specially selected and specially processed for filter smoking.

He knew that a pure white filter alone is not enough. To be a complete filter cigarette, it must have Filter-Blend up front. And only Winston's got it!

That's why Caesar would never accept another brand even when it was offered gratis. In fact, history tells us he'd glower at the extended pack and sneer, "Et tu, Brute?"

In a stirring peroration to his legions, Caesar put it this way: "For the Numeral I filter cigarette—for the noblest filter cigarette of all—smoke Winston!"

"Winston tastes good like a cigarette should!"

P.S. to bachelors, If you're lucky enough to find a gal who'll keep you in Winstons, Caesar!

Progress Our Byword-WKNC

By KENT WATSON
We hope you didn't miss us too much last week, but we will make up for it this time. First of all let me mention that we here at WKNC most certainly regret the tragic death of Oscar Taylor. Oscar was our publicity liaison with the College Union, and we really miss his weekly visits with the C. U. weekly publicity material. People like Oscar can't be replaced.

As the title indicates, there are some great plans in the making for better programming service to the State students. We now have the tape recorders necessary for automatic programming. The automatic mechanism still has to be built, but we hope this will be completed soon after the holidays. This means that good music will be offered until about 3 a.m. every weekday morning.

I'm happy to report that we have received a petition from Watauga Dormitory which reads as follows: "As residents of Watauga dormitory, we the undersigned hereby request the services of your radio station, and ask that you install a transmitter as soon as possible in Watauga Hall. Thank you." It was signed by 49 of the 85 residents in Watauga. This is about 58% of the total possible and is certainly more than any Hooper survey rating. These surveys usually rate 30% as very good. This is indeed indicative of the students' interest in good music. I hope that we can fulfill this petition as soon as possible. A lot depends on the Book Store getting moved to its new location so that we can install a transmitter in the basement. Wataugas bear with us just a moment, please-a!

Plans are in an incomplete stage for the establishment of a transmitter at one of the other local colleges. Also, interest has been regenerated on the establishment of an FM facility. More on these items in Monday's issue, we hope.

Upcoming programs of special interest for the holiday season include: Tonight at 9, the Drama Workshop presentation of "The Story of the Other Wise Man," (see story on page one.) Sunday at 7 p.m., The Alcoa Hour presentation of "The Stingiest Man in Town," starring Vic Damone, Johnny Desmond, Four Lads, Patrice Munsel, Basil Rathbone, and Robert Weede; Sunday at 10 p.m., The Christmas section of Handel's famous oratoria "Messiah" as performed by the New York Philharmonic Orchestra and the Westminster Choir; and on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, "Christmas Fanatasia," a special program of fine holiday music. WKNC will leave the air for the holidays at 1:45 p.m. on the 16th. We return for the New Year at 12:15 p.m. on January 4th. WKNC wishes one and all, SEASON'S GREETINGS.

In Poultry Judging
National Contest

Three students from State College have shown what North Carolinians know about poultry. The students, members of State College's poultry judging team, have won second place in the National Intercollegiate Poultry Judging Contest.

State College's team consisted of Ken Lewis of Fayetteville, a Junior in agricultural technology; Jay Wilfong of Newton, a senior in agricultural business; and Walter Britton of Lasker, a junior in agricultural technology.

Team coaches were T. T. Brown and John Murphy, teachers in the Department of Poultry Science.

The State College team ranked first in the poultry production division. It was third in the market products and breed selection divisions.

A Campus-to-Career Case History

Engineering of microwave relay and carrier systems keeps Bryan Clinton's job interesting and challenging.

"I got the engineering career I wanted
... and right in my own home state"

In 1955, William Bryan Clinton, Jr., got his B.S. in Mechanical Engineering at Clemson College. Now Bryan's with Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company at Columbia, South Carolina. He's doing specific planning of long distance communications projects involving cable carrier facilities and microwave radio relay systems.

Bryan chose a career with Southern Bell over several other offers. "There were three things that were most important to me," he says. "First, I wanted to go with an established, growing company where I could grow, too. Second, I wanted thorough basic training to get started off right, plus participation in development programs to keep me moving ahead. And, third, I wanted to stay in the South."

After 15 months of on-the-job training in various phases of company operations, Bryan was assigned to the Engineering Department at Columbia, S. C. His work with carrier systems and microwave radio projects has involved him directly in the growth of the company. And he's broadened his experience through development courses in management, general engineering, engineering economy, and microwave relay systems.

"I know I'm with a fast-growing company and I feel I'm really participating in its growth," Bryan says. "What's more, I'm getting the training I need to keep me abreast of new communications developments and take better advantage of advancement opportunities when they come along."

Bryan Clinton earned a B.S. degree in Mechanical Engineering. He's one of many young college men pursuing rewarding careers with the Bell Telephone Companies. Find out about opportunities for you. Talk with the Bell interviewer when he visits your campus—and read the Bell Telephone booklet on file in your Placement Office.
